OAKLAND RACES.

Concluding Days of a Very Successful Meeting—Several Surprises for the Talent.

TWENTY-FOURTH DAY—WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 23.

There was some very fair racing this afternoon in the rain, and favorites didn't cut much of a figure as race-winners at the end of the footing up. One did manage to get home in front out of the six trials, but that's all. P. F., a good-looking two-year-old by Longfield, won the first in easy style and he was as good as 10 to 1 in the betting; 40 to 1 shot America was second and favorite Mt. Roy "peeped." Sly, second choice at 4 to 1, won the second and had a lot in reserve at the finish. Etta H. was second and the first choice, Rey del Tierra, a poor sort of third. Judge Denny, second choice, won the mile and a sixteenth event by three lengths from 15 to 1 shot Earl Cochran, Lobengula beat the odds on favorite, Alvarado, in the fourth, Three Forks was a handy winner of the mile and a quarter hurdle, while old Yemen who is a very warm article just now, annexed the last, a five-furlong dash, in fast time, after Quicksilver had led into the homestretch by a block.

The first was a five-furlong race, with twelve horses in it. Perhaps showed in front momentarily, but was soon passed by America, who led past the half by a length, Pastime and P. F. following. At the three-quarter pole it was America first by one and one-half lengths, Mt. Roy second, a couple of lengths before P. F. America held her lead up to within a furlong of home, P. F. being second, running easily. The latter soon said "ta-ta" to America, and won easily by a length, America second, under the whip, a length before Mt. Roy, who was coming strong. Perhaps was fourth. Time, 1:02½. P. F. was at 8 to 1, America 40, Mt. Roy 6 to 5, Iron Jacket 4, Abalanzar 5 (backed from 10), others 15 to 50.

The second race brought nine two-year-olds to the post to run six furlongs. Roselle led to the half by his neck, D. J. Tobin second, lapped by Sly. At the head of the homestretch it was Etta H. first, with Sly at her saddle, a length before D. J. Tobin, Etta H. led up to within a sixteenth from home, when Sly came up, winning easily by a length from the tired Etta H., who beat Rey del Tierra four lengths. D. J. Tobin was fourth. Time, 1:15½. Sly was at 4 to 1, Etta H., 7, Rey del Tierra 7 to 10, others 15 to 75 to 1.

The third was at a mile and a sixteenth. Schnitz led Judge Denny a head past the quarter, Doctor G. and Two Cheers well up. Doctor G. passed to the fore at the five-eighths pole and was a length in front at the half and half a length to the good into the homestretch. Judge Denny flew by the Doctor about a furlong from home and won easily by three lengths, Earl Cochran, vigorously ridden, second, half a length before Camelia, Doctor G. a poor fourth. Time, 1:49½. Doctor G. was at 7 to 5, Judge Denny 9 to 5, Earl Cochran 15, Two Cheers 8, Meadow Lark 12, Camelia 15 to 1.

A mile race came next. They broke away once without Alvarado, and Ferguson recalled them. They were finally sent away to a fair start, the favorite last, however. Cabrillo at once assumed command, leading Alvarado (who had run around the outside), a length at the quarter. At the half it was Cabrillo first by a nose, Alvarado second, four lengths from Lobengula. The pair were nose-and-nose entering the homestretch, Lobengula about three lengths away. The latter gradually gained on the fighting duo, and heading them about thirty yards of the finish won cleverly by a neck, Alvarado second, a nose before Cabrillo. Time, 1:42½. Lobengula was at 4½ to 1, Alvarado 3 to 5, Cabrillo 12, Arezzo 4, and Miss Ruth 100 to 1.

In the mile and a quarter hurdle race Three Forks took a slight lead after the first jump was made. At the second obstacle it was Three Forks first by two lengths, Huntsman second, Arundel third. Adolph made a bad leap. There was no change at the third fence. Three Forks drew away a couple of lengths more at the fourth, but Huntsman closed up going to the homestretch, Forks being not quite a length to the good at the last obstacle. He made the best jump, however, gained considerable, and won with just a bit to spare by three lengths, Huntsman second, ten lengths before Arundel. Time, 2:19.

The last race was at five furlongs. Quicksilver, going like a shot, led past the half by three lengths and into the homestretch by about the same distance, Classis second, as far from Let Me See and Yemen, close together. The latter made a close turn against the inner rails, and gained two or three lengths. Shaw turned rather wide with Quicksilver, and when he was straightened away went to the bat on the short-bred fellow. This would have beaten him if nothing else, and if Shaw had gone on hand riding the horse the chances are he would have won, though the race was a fast run one. As it turned out old Yemen took the lead half-way down the homestretch and won off by three lengths, Montgomery in the place, as far from Quicksilver, old Tim Murphy fourth. Time, 1:01½. Yemen was at 2 to 1, Montgomery 4, Quicksilver 4½, Good Times 8 to 5, others 40 to 300 to 1.

TWENTY-FIFTH DAY—THURSDAY, DECEMBER 24.

A very fair crowd saw some good racing at the new Emeryville course this afternoon, and the track record for a mile was cracked to the extent of half a second by E. J. Baldwin's Argentina. The sensation of the afternoon was the win of Walter J. at odds of 20 to 1. Two favorites won out of the five races, hence there was little cause for complaint by the speculating public. The track was at its best and good time was made throughout.

In the first, a six furlong selling races for three-year-olds Isabelle led, with Duchess second. At the half Isabelle was first by half a length. Riot second, a head before Duchess, Cadenza next. At the three-quarter pole Isabelle, Riot and Cadenza were heads apart as named, a length before Duchess. Cadenza made a very close turn against the inner rail, saving a couple of lengths, and taking command she led to the finish, winning handily by three lengths, Isabelle second, driving a scant length before Henry Grattan, who was fifth at the head of the homestretch. Riot finished fourth, a length behind Grattan. Time, 1:19½. Cadenza was at 7 to 5, Isabelle 15 to 1, Henry Grattan 6, Riot 11 to 5 (backed from 3), others 8 to 150 to 1.

The second was at five and a half furlongs, selling. Banjo showed first at the start, but was speedily passed by Gold Bug; who led Banjo a neck at the half. He was a length in front turning for home and won after a little hard riding in the homestretch by three lengths, Irma, second at the head of the homestretch, held on to that position by hard driving heating O'Fleeta half a length for the place. Banjo was fourth, another length away. Time, 1:09. Gold Bug was at 4 to 1, Irma 8, O'Fleeta 15, Banjo 3½, others 10 to 40 to 1.

The mile race brought seven to the post. To a rather straggling start Little Cripple showed first, but was taken back third, Flashlight assuming a three-length lead past the quarter and half, Principle being second, a small margin before Elmer F. and Cripple, together. Flashlight was four lengths to the good when the homestretch was reached, then there was a close bunch of four. Slaughter took it a little easy, Argentina coming up with a great rush and winning by a nose on the post, Flashlight second, four lengths before Little Cripple, who beat Can't Dance two lengths. Time, 1:41—the track record. Argentina was at 3 to 2, Flashlight 8, Little Cripple 8 to 5, Elmer F. 10, Can't Dance 15, Principle 60 to 1.

A seven and one-half furlong race came next. Chartreuse II. went right out in the lead and was never headed, Lady Diamond being second, a neck before Lucania. The latter broke down badly three furlongs from home and stopped as if shot. Chartreuse went on and won easily by two lengths, Lady Diamond second, driving, a neck before the ridden-out Red Glenn. Time, 1:35—a good run. Chartreuse was at 4 to 5, Lady Diamond 3½ to 1, Red Glenn 13 to 5, Lucania 20 (backed from 100), Commission 60 to 1.

The last race was at five and one-half furlongs, and a big field came to the post. There was one false break and a recall, Montgomery running furthest past the half. Finally the harrier went up to a good start for all but Palmerston. Montgomery, Daisy A. and Sport McAllister were prominent to the homestretch, where Walter J., off none too well, began to crawl up on the leaders. Sport McAllister assumed a decided lead in the stretch, and looked all over a winner. Walter J. was just booming along on the outside like a wild horse, however, and getting up in the last few strides, won by a neck, Sport McAllister second, just heating Sea Spray (who had dropped from the clouds). Time, 1:08½. Walter J. was at 15 to 1, Sport McAllister 13 to 5 (3 at one time) Sea Spray 15, Montgomery 6 to 5, Perseus 4½, others at 20 and 25 to 1.

TWENTY-SIXTH DAY—FRIDAY, DECEMBER 25TH.

It was an immense crowd that took the ferry for the Oakland races yesterday, no less than 10,000 people being in attendance, when the judges called the horses to the post in the first race. Undoubtedly the event of the day was the George Goulet Champagne Handicap, which went to J. Naglee Burk's Bellicoso, who, cleverly ridden by Tod Sloan, took up 140 pounds and landed an easy victor in 1:15½. Acquinas, Barney Schreiber's good Belvidere gelding, won the Palo Alto Handicap Stake, in good style, from Candelaria, while Sly beat the odds on favorite, Celoso, in a hard drive for the last race. The other races went to Ezekiel, Red Glenn and Tom Clarke. As only one favorite succeeded in catching the judicial eye first, the bookies must have had an extremely good day, as the play was exceptionally good, even for a holiday. The successful jockeys were Joe Weher, Coady, C. Slaughter, T. Sloan, Ambrose and R. Isom.

The first race of the day was a conditioned affair for two-year-olds. Defender, on the strength of a good run in the maiden stakes, and Eldie Jones in the saddle, was made an even-money favorite. Ezekiel, ridden by Joe Weher, went back a couple of points in the betting. Sister Beatrice came in for quite a little play from a select division. Eddie Jones rushed Defender to the front when the harrier went up and was leading when the field turned for home. The son of Captain Al threw up the sponge before the eighth pole was reached, and Ezekiel came on and won in hollow style by two lengths. Defender, whipped out, secured the place from Sister Beatrice by half a length. Cheridah was beaten but a nose for the show.

The second race was a selling event at a mile, and six sported silk, Little Cripple declining the issue. Arnette was thought to be good enough to turn the trick, and she was sent to the post a favorite at 11 to 5. Strathmeath was next in demand at four. Mr. Ferguson sent his field away to a perfect start. Arnette raced to the front and showed the way to the head of the stretch, where she tired badly, and Pollock took up the running. Red Glenn, however, was a good horse yesterday, and making one of his old time stretch runs, got up just in time to snatch the big end of the purse by a short head from Woodchopper, who ran an exceptionally good race. Hermanita finished third, a length further back, making a fighting finish with the old warrior, Strathmeath, for the show.

The third race carded was the Palo Alto Handicap, at six furlongs, for two-year-olds. Aquinas was a mild favorite, going to the post at 11 to 5. Candelaria was next in demand at 3 to 1. There was a false break-away, Candelaria being left. Finally the harrier went up to a good break. Candelaria raced out in front with Horatio the first part, then Horatio dropped back beaten and Aquinas challenged the Burns & Waterhouse horse. Aquinas, running game as a die, came on and won in a hard drive from Candelaria by half a length, in 1:15½, a remarkably good run. Estaca, one of Baldwin's, who made his California debut to-day, was third. Horatio and Dunboy were pulled up in the stretch.

The George Goulet Champagne Handicap was the fourth race on the card. The Cambridge Stable pair, Applause and Rey del Tierra, were installed favorites, and the money poured into the bookies' boxes at a short price. Bellicoso opened at 3 to 2 but receded to 5 to 2 by post time. To a beautiful start, Tod Sloan took Bellicoso to the front, and taking a good hold of him, rated him along nicely. At the head of the stretch Tod gave the Peel horse his head, and he came on and won as he pleased in 1:15½, a really good run, when the weight (140 pounds) is considered. Good Times landed second, one and one-half lengths in front of Potentate.

The fifth race on the card was a handicap at one and one-half miles, over five flights of hurdles. Haymarket was considered the good thing and the money came in so fast that the bookies were forced to cut the price from 6 to 5 to 4 to 5. Hello was next in demand at 3 to 1, while Tom Clarke and Bedford were played at sixes. Haymarket went to the front at the half-mile grounds, after having indulged brilliant with the lead for the first part of the journey, and the story gelding looked to have the race well in hand when the field turned for home. He was challenged, however, in the stretch by Tom Clarke, and the latter, well ridden by "Scotty" Ambrose, outgamed Haymarket and won a good race by a scant half-length. Haymarket easily secured the place from Hello, with the balance of the field, that had not met with disaster en route, strung out like a funeral procession. Bedford came to grief over the first jump, while the second obstacle proved the undoing of Relampago.

The talent tried to even up matters with the pencilers in the last race, which was at five furlongs, for two-year-olds. They plunged, to a man, on Celoso, and sent the Baldwin entry to the post a 3 to 5 favorite. Sly was played by the knowing ones, and 5 to 2 was the best obtainable price when the horses were called to the barrier. Rienzi, who has a good turn of speed, went to the post with 12 to 1 slated against his chances. Sly and Rienzi raced to the front, with Celoso in close attendance. Sly easily out-footed the "last of the tribesmen" and had things his own way when the field was straightened for home. Sly retained her advantage to the wire and won in a mild sort of a drive from the good thing, Celoso, by two lengths. The odds-on favorite secured the place.

TWENTY-SEVENTH DAY—SATURDAY, DECEMBER 26.

This wound up the present meeting of the California Jockey Club, and though it rained almost incessantly throughout the afternoon, a goodly crowd came out to see the six races run off. Coda won the first driving from the "good thing" Blue Bell, but it was through a superior ride she got and a wide turn made by the Prince of Norfolk mare. Don Gara, third, got a rather easy ride in this—at least the judges thought so, and called Coady up for a lecture. D. J. Tobin, the second of the get of imp. Cyrus to win this afternoon in rapid succession, did so in the gamest fashion, for holders of tickets on the brother to Capt. Skedaddle would have taken three cents on the dollar when Tobin was a sixteenth from home. Sweet William, like the impecunious portion of the population, was just "a little short." Otherwise he would have won, as his home is in the slush or the mucilaginous mud. Little Cripple won the third very gamely with odds of 6 to 1 against him at one time, but had fast but faint-hearted Palmerston not been in the race Cook would probably have secured that end of the purse most to be desired. St. Lee, at 4 to 1, with 100 pounds up, after quite an exciting battle with Mt. McGregor II., won the $1,100 portion of the Baldwin Hotel Handicap for the Pinkerton Stable. Sir Play did not keep up his reputation for being a world-beater in set-going, and finished outside the money. Judge Denny, favorite in the mile and a half, won quite handsily from Articus, but Rey del Bandidos was looking decidedly dangerous when he swerved to the outside in the final sixteenth. Perseus won the last by a head from Kowalsky, after Joan and Charles A. had "dogged it."

In the first race, six furlongs, Blue Bell led Isabelle by about three lengths past the half and half that distance into the homestretch. Here Blue Bell and Isabelle turned wide, Coda coming close to the inner rails and winning by a length, all out, Blue Bell second, one and a half lengths before Don Gara, who carried 112 and not 104 pounds, as the overnight programme had it. Time, 1:18. Coda was at 8 to 5; Isabelle 8, Examiner 5, others 10 to 150 to 1.

In the second, after a break and a recall they were sent away to a fair start. Sweet William led by a length past the half, with D. J. Tobin and Lost Girl close together. At the three-quarter pole Sweet William was two lengths to the good, D. J. Tobin second and Soniro third. It looked like Sweet William up to the last forty yards, where D. J. Tobin came with a rush and won on the post by a scant neck, Sweet William second, one and a half lengths before Soniro, who was bumped coming down the homestretch. Lost Girl was fourth. Time, 1:14. D. J. Tobin was at 5 to 1, Sweet William 3½, Soniro 5, Draught 13 to 5, others 12 to 30 to 1.

The third was at fifteen-sixteenths of a mile. Major Cook and Palmerston ran head and head past the quarter and half, Little Cripple and Merry Monarch together, four lengths away. At the head of the homestretch it was still Cook and Palmerston, together, Little Cripple two lengths away, on the outside. The latter came fast the latter part of it and won in a hard drive by a neck, Major Cook second, a head before Palmerston. Merry Monarch was fourth. Time, 1:38. Little Cripple was at 4½, Major Cook 7 to 5, Palmerston 7, Merry Monarch 16 to 5, Doyle 8 and Resgano 100 to 1.

The Baldwin Hotel Handicap, worth $1,100 to the owner of the winner, was fourth on the programme. A good start was effected, Sir Play showing in advance momentarily. Mt. McGregor and St. Lee cut him off on the first turn, however. McGregor led by two lengths at the quarter, St. Lee second, as far from Sir Play. At the half it was McGregor still first by two lengths, St. Lee second, five lengths from Sir Play. Turning from home McGregor held a two-length command, St. Lee second, four from Sir Play, Installator two lengths further away. St. Lee drew up close a furlong from home, and Eddie Jones went to the bat on the favorite. St. Lee passed to the fore a sixteenth from home and won handsily by two lengths, Mt. McGregor II second, eight lengths before Ruinart. Sir Play was a poor fourth, eased up. Time, 1:43. St. Lee was at 4 to 1, Mt. McGregor 2, Sir Play 2½, Ruinart and Installator 7 to 1.

A mile and a half race had eight starters. Judge Denny showed first momentarily, but was taken back. Doctor G., last away, was first by over a length when half a mile had been traversed, then Articus took up the running, leading past the quarter and half poles by a small margin, Articus, Tuxedo and Denny well up. Judge Denny was now sent along, and led at the three-quarter pole by half a length, Articus second, a length before Rey del Bandidos. Judge Denny led Articus half a length down the homestretch. Rey del Bandidos closed up and looked mighty dangerous, but swerved out when about a sixteenth from home, Judge Denny winning handsily by a scant length, Articus second, four lengths before Rey del Bandidos. Fred Gardner was a poor fourth. Time, 2:43. Judge Denny was at 5 to 5, Articus 15 to 1, Rey del Bandidos 3, Doctor G. 5, others 10 to 1.

The last event was a six-furlong dash. Kowalsky led for three furlongs, then Charles A. got his head in front, and he, Kowalsky and Joan ran in close order until straightened away. Perseus came very fast the last part and was in front thirty yards of the bunch, winning in a fierce drive by a head, Kowalsky second, one length before the fast-coming Petrarck. Joan again took the part of a dog. Time, 1:17½. Perseus was at 3 to 1, Kowalsky 2½, Petrarck 20, Charles A. 3 (backed from 4), Joan 3 and Mahogany 15 to 1.

INGLESIDE MEETING.

Description of the Races Over the Pacific Coast Jockey Club's Course—Wild

Weather on the Re-opening.

TWENTY-EIGHTH DAY—MONDAY, DECEMBER 28.

The wind blew a gale and sent the raindrops a-whizzing along about the time to take the cars for Ingleside, but notwithstanding the terrible nature of the weather a crowd close to 2,000 was in attendance, and the twenty bookmakers transacting business in the arena of speculation had no complaint to make on the score of weak play. Good Times, a favorite and a red-hot one, won the first race with ease from Nonchalance, with Miss Baker (sister to Schiller), in third place. St. Georges ran second and third in this race, it will be observed. Can't Dance, a 12 to 1 shot that has been running rather poorly of late, won the third in clever fashion from St. Aignon. Benamela was a poor sort of third, while the favorite, Miss Brummel, again started "short," was not in the hunt after five furlongs had been traversed. Zamar II., first choice in the third, indulged Lucky Dog with the lead for not quite half a mile, then went on and won with whole lots to spare, Caspar (who is rounding to and will be dangerous from this out) second and Lucky Dog third. Schiller, a 2 to 5 shot, experienced little trouble in winning the third next, while 100 to 1 shot Monita finished up second and Peter the Second third. Flashlight ran in the lead for about six furlongs, but "dogged" it terribly when collared. Salvable won the last in a gallop, with the heavily-played long shot, Morte Fonse, in the place, Lovdal third.

In the first seven furlongs for two-year-olds Good Times showed in the lead until nearing the half, when Nonchalance got his head in front and kept it there until a few yards from the three-quarter pole, when Good Times took command again and held it to the finish, winning easily by a scant length, Nonchalance second, two lengths before Miss Baker, who beat Scorchers a neck for show. Time, 1:32½. Good Times was at even money (8 to 5 once), Nonchalance 3 to 1, Miss Baker 10, Adam Andrew 6, others 10 to 30 to 1.

Miss Brummel led in the second by half a length past the quarter, then St. Aignon took up the running, being first to the half by a length, Miss Brummel second, two lengths before Can't Dance. St. Aignon was about a length in front turning for home, with Can't Dance next. The latter came on strong in the straight and won easily by about two lengths St. Aignon second, three from Benamela. The rest were nowhere. Time, 1:47. Can't Dance was at 12 to 1, St. Aignon 3, Benamela 2½, Miss Brummel 2, others 30 to 1.

Lucky Dog led Zamar by about three lengths past the half in the third, but Zamar closed up fast in the next quarter, leading the Dog by over a length into the homestretch, and winning with ease by two lengths from Caspar, who had come up strong in the homestretch, then dying away at the end, he a scant length before Lucky Dog. Yemen was a poor fourth. Time, 1:17½. Zamar II was at 11 to 5, Caspar 7 to 1, Lucky Dog 10, others 5 to 15 to 1.

In the mile and a sixteenth Flashlight set a hot pace leading Schiller three lengths at the quarter and two at the half. Three furlongs from home Schiller went up to him and led turning for home (where he went wide) by nearly a length, Flashlight second, Monita close up, against the inner rails. The latter looked dangerous a furlong from home, but Slaughter gave Schiller his head near the finish, and he won easily by two lengths, Monita second, five from Peter II. Time, 1:53½. Schiller was at 2 to 5, Monita 100 to 1, Peter II 15, Flashlight 15 and Broad Billow 200 to 1.

The concluding event was a mile and an eighth race with six starters. A good start was effected, and Salvable fairly romped into the lead, being about a length to the good at the quarter-pole, Lovdal second and Hardtack in England next. Lovdal soon joined Salvable, and the pair raced in close order to the half. Salvable passed to the fore again, and led Lovdal nearly two lengths into the homestretch, Hardtack third and trying hard to get up. Morte Fonse turned close to the inner rails and saved a lot of ground. Salvable won with a lot to spare by over a length, Morte Fonse heating Lovdal a couple of lengths for the place. Time, 2:00. Salvable was at 7 to 5 (3 to 2 for a time), Lovdal 17 to 10 (opened at 7 to 5), Morte Fonse 12 (played down from 40), Camella 15, Hardtack in England 7, Foremost 20 to 1.

TWENTY-NINTH DAY—TUESDAY, DECEMBER 29.

A stake race being on the programme and the weather pleasant, a large crowd turned out to see the gallopers go through the No. 3 mud at Ingleside this afternoon. One of the races, through scratching, dwindled down to two that were willing to start, and it was declared off, leaving five races to be decided. Pat Murphy, old Tim's young brother, won the first galloping from Banjo, Harry O. in the show and Last Chance, equal favorite with Pat, back in the bunch. The latter's showing, considering he is a good mud horse, was anything but satisfactory. Sweet Faverdale, sister to Preston, won the second event at odds of 15 to 1, Torsina, second choice, finishing up second, Captive the 1 to 2 favorite, third. Willie Martin's ride on the last-named will not get him any wreaths from the fair race-goers. Aquinas galloped away with the Pommerly Sec Stakes, going to the front when he liked and winning off by five lengths from Howard S., who was allowed to fall out of it a fair-sized city block by Martin (Willie). That Howard S. could have beaten Aquinas few believe, but it would have been more satisfactory to his backers if he had kept up closer the first part and not hustled along at the end with a rush that looked very grand standy. Reddington, played down from 6 to 3 to 1, stopped looking for hurdles this afternoon, and the result was he won the fourth event easily. Lucky Dog captured the last in a big gallop from old Yemen.

In the first race, six furlongs, Pat Murphy led nearly every jump of the road and won handsily by two lengths. Harry O. was second to the homestretch, where Banjo came up and took second place, being one and a half lengths before Harry O. at the finish. Last Chance ran a very odd sort of a race, as he is known to have a strong liking for mud. The time was 1:19. Pat Murphy was at 2 to 1, Banjo and Harry O. 15, Last Chance 2, Carrie U. 6, others 15 to 60 to 1. Pat Murphy was run up $400 by Tom Boyle.

The second race was at a mile. Ostler Joe led by about half a length past the quarter, Captive second. At the half and three-quarter poles it was Ostler Joe and Captive, heads apart as named, about a length from Torsina, who was coming fast at this point, as was Sweet Faverdale. Sweet Faverdale assumed the lead half way down the homestretch and won from the fast-coming Torsina by half a length, Captive third, another length away. Time, 1:45½. Sweet Faverdale was at 15 to 1, Torsina 3½, Captive 1 to 2, Ostler Joe 5 to 1. Torsina should have won this, but was taken on the outside all the way. Willie Martin's ride on Captive will not secure for him any bouquets of rare exotics.

The Pommerly Sec Stakes, seven furlongs, value $1,300, came next. Only four started. Fig Leaf and Caspar made a hot pace, leading Aquinas five lengths at the quarter, Howard S. four more away. At the half Fig Leaf and Caspar were together, one and a half lengths before Aquinas, Howard S. ten lengths further away. Turning for home Aquinas was leading by a length, and he came on and won galloping by five lengths, Howard S. getting a sufficient move on to beat Caspar out half a length for the place with ease. Time, 1:33. If this ride on Howard S. is one of Willie Martin's best, he should turn himself out for a couple of years. Aquinas was at 11 to 10, Howard S. 3 to 2, the Burns & Waterhouse pair 4½ to 1.

In the fourth, seven furlongs, Woodchopper led Reddington a neck past the half, then Reddington passed to the fore, and leading by two lengths at the final turn, was not thereafter headed, winning easily by three lengths from Hazard, who beat Woodchopper as for. Applause, who showed some speed, was fourth. Time, 1:32½. Reddington was at 3 backed from 6, Hazard 4, Woodchopper 3½, Applause 3½, others 6 to 100 to 1.

The last race was at six furlongs. Peril was the pace-maker for nearly half a mile, with Yemen second. Lucky Dog passed to the front nearing the three-quarter pole, and leading in the homestretch by two lengths, won romping by three. Toano was second in the straight and until within a sixteenth of home, when Yemen came again and beat him out a length quite cleverly. Peril quit like a yellow cur. The time was 1:18½. Lucky Dog was heavily backed, opening at 7 to 5 and closing at 11 to 10 on an average. Yemen was at 9 to 1, Toano 18 to 5 (backed from 5), Potentate 4, Peril 6, Mohalaka 10, and Brametia 30 to 1. In No. 3 mud the Dog is almost invincible.

Todd Sloan's Career.

Todd Sloan, who closed the season as the premier jockey of America, winning over Taral, Doggett and other old-time favorites of the turf, is a Kokomo boy, born and raised in this city. He is now 22 years old and weighs ninety pounds. His father, Samuel Sloan, died a few years ago in the National Soldiers' Home in Dayton, Ohio. His mother died when he was one year old, and Todd was adopted by D. B. Blouser, a lumber inspector of this place, and he is known here as Todd Blouser. Everybody in the country has known him since he was three years old. Before he was out of dresses he was engaged in all sorts of wild adventures, keeping his good foster parents in a state of alarm over his hair-raising pranks. Todd's first mount was in 1884, when he was barely nine years old. A wild and vicious horse had been brought from Kentucky that several of the best horsemen in town tried in vain to ride. Todd asked permission to mount the animal. The privilege was denied him, but the venturesome boy watched his chance, and one day paralyzed the two by mounting the beast without saddle or bridle, and for two hours madly tore through the streets, the little hands embedded in the horse's mane; clinging to him like a leech. The horse finally stopped, completely exhausted and conquered and covered with foam. After that anybody could ride him. In the fall of 1886 Todd followed a gang of natural gas well drillers as a mascot, his presence being regarded as a sure omen of good producing wells. Todd was with Contractor Churchill when "No. 2" well exploded in South Kokomo, mangle and burning twenty-two men, though he himself escaped without a scratch. The next year Todd obtained consent of his foster parents to accompany Professor Talbert on his tour of balloon ascensions as an assistant. He remained with Talbert two seasons, making a number of ascensions himself, when Talbert was killed by falling from a parachute in Rush County. That ended Todd's career as an aeronaut. The next year (1890) he went to St. Louis and started on his turf campaign. Next he went to San Francisco with "Lucky" Baldwin's stables. From that time his rise was rapid. Since prosperity has dawned on the now famous jockey he has not forgotten his foster parents and benefactors who sustained him in his orphanage. Frequent checks come in by mail to Mr. and Mrs. Blouser, $50, $100 and sometimes $500. Todd has a comfortable bank account here, and the adopted parents have orders to draw on it whenever they desire to, the generosity being greatly appreciated by the Blousers, who are in moderate circumstances.

SPECIAL DEPARTMENT

EDITED AND CONDUCTED SOLELY BY

JOSEPH CAIRN SIMPSON.

IMPORTED TALENT.—From the following, copied from the Brooklyn Citizen, it seems that the question of employing "foreigners" has been agitated outside of California. The idea prevails that it is humiliating to go outside of the State or territory for racing officials, being a quasi acknowledgment that our own folk are incompetent.

That does not follow. and the reason given that if one of the many applicants were elected the forty, or more, overlooked, would raise a disturbance, is surely "weighty."

Then there are other "hefty" considerations for the employment of Eastern people by the California Jockey Clubs. It is of the greatest importance to encourage Eastern owners to bring their horses here. Plenty of California horses to race under the old conditions, and it might be under the new dispensation that "fields" could be secured of sufficient magnitude to assure "good sport." That is not all, however, "reciprocity," that potent charm, hobs up complacently, it is true, but yet with such a vigorous demeanor that it is assertive, to say the least.

Now Eastern race horse owners, Eastern visitors will be much better pleased with Eastern officials than if Occidentals filled all the positions. Thus when attending the races here there are the "old familiar faces," which Charles Lamb—the gentle Elia—took so much delight in picturing, to please them. Home associations so far from home. A reminder of the race courses of the East, a remembrance of the past pleasure, transferring the scenes from their home to the new fields so many thousands miles away.

Were the eastern contingent to drop out of the fray, in place of the gorgeous spectacle now presented, there would be such a falling off that the curtain would be rung down in a few weeks.

I cannot speak authoritatively but am under the impression that three-quarters of the book-makers are from the other side of the mountains, and quite a large proportion of the owners. The jockeys, too, mainly from the far side, and while California-bred horses are conspicuous that is the only real California element. The race courses, of course, are constructed of California soil, though in time it may be held assent that a part of the top dressing should be brought from Indiana or other states were "gumbo clay" can be obtained. A "long haul" it is true but even a little mixture may leave the whole mess advantageously, and while some might carp over the mixture of foreign soil should it be better adapted for the use, such fanciful notions should not come in the way of the march of improvement.

In relation to the officials criticized by Secretary McIntyre, I was much pleased with three of them whom I saw in New Orleans, viz., Presiding Judge McDowell, Mr. Simmons and Starter Fitzgerald. In fact, the whole management at New Orleans appeared to be of the highest class, and in transferring the main officials to New York a wise move on the part of the Jockey Club, not only from escaping the hot end of the hornet, but also securing able workmen.

I have given close attention to the work of those who occupy the prominent positions in the Jockey Clubs here, and have not the least hesitation in saying that it merits high encomiums. The right men in the right place, and while the officials of the C. J. C., aside from President and Secretary, are "imported stock," they are certainly competent and fill their respective stations with ability. This is the story:

"There was a gathering about a round table a few evenings since of a half-dozen or so of people connected with horse-racing. Hugh D. McIntyre had the floor, so to speak, making the conversation lively and enlightening the coterie. In his business of racing secretary he has no superior, and his equals can be counted on thumbs of his left hand. He is a good talker and a fearless talker withal, and in a discussion with him you sometimes find yourself wondering when and where you came in. "It seems to me a strange state of affairs," said the secretary, "that the Jockey Club should go outside the State and even outside the territory of its jurisdiction to find its most important officials. There's their presiding judge, McDowell, he belongs in Baltimore, a great big city without sufficient enterprise to support racing of its own; there's Simmons, the associate judge; he is from New Orleans, a town formerly run by and supported largely by the Louisiana Lottery, and where winter racing never paid until the Government drove the lottery out of the country; there's Crickmore, he hails from the same place; Flynn, up to recently jockey club starter; he is a native to the Jersey wilds, where the turf has been abolished by law; Fitzgerald is a Canadian; Charles Victor Sass —"

"Hold on there!" broke in one of the hearers. "Sass is to the manor born; but you are right in the main."

"Right!" said McIntyre. "You put me down as right. Now, is simply one of the great public I ask why this is so? Is there no home talent capable of filling these positions? What peculiar fitness has the present presiding judge shown that the stewards must seek him in Baltimore? It is an open secret that his side partner depends entirely on the numbers in placing the horses. Is there nobody in New York who can do as much as that, and at the same time be sufficiently endowed with the grace of gravity to fill the bill?"

Here the secretary caught his breath, but not quickly enough, for one of the auditory jumped in to answer.

"You don't understand the question at all. McDowell owned his original position to pull, and you ought to know what it was. He has done well enough and the stewards like him. Simmons owed his retention as presiding judge so long to Morris, which means, again the Louisiana Lottery influence originally. Now, as a matter of fact, the Jockey Club turned him down last season, made McDowell presiding judge and Hoey his assistant. Hoey belongs to an influential clique, and his appointment was natural enough, even if he knew nothing of the duties he was expected to perform. But Hoey unfortunately and inopportunistly died. To fill his place, there were more ardent newspaper candidates than there are big newspapers in New York City. In fact, there were none other than newspaper men in the field that I heard of. To take any one of them—and I believe any one of them would make a better judge than the Jockey Club has at present—would be to make all the others as mad as hornets, and the Jockey Club just at present is not cultivating a taste for these hot-footed insects. So there was no recourse but Simmons, who, being somewhat like the office-holding class that never die and seldom resign, pocketed the snub of his relegation to private life and accepted a position subordinate to McDowell. Fitzgerald was the Sun racing man for years, and his universally pleasing accounts of the races should not be overlooked. Flynn, I admit, was a mystery, but he is out. You did not mention Pettingill, another foreigner, but he came in to fill a gap, and is an experienced starter. But it seems to me I have heard somewhere, Mr. Secretary, that—in fact will you allow me to ask you where you were born?"

"Me—oh," said McIntyre, "I was born in Toronto."

And as the laugh deepened the genial secretary rapped loudly on the table.

"THE DERBY"—A troublesome task, indeed, to make out a list of the various "Derbys" that have been run, outside of that which is annually decided at Epsom. The name has been a taking one, and though many have carried the title "without rhyme or reason," on the whole it has not been inapt.

Well known that the Epsom Derby was gotten up by the twelfth Earl of Derby, and the first was run in 1790, the distance one mile and that first winner was Diomed.

The year before, The Oaks was run for the first time, and that was also gotten up by the same nobleman, named after his hunting box, The Oaks, and was won by the Earl's own filly, Bridget, by Herod, and the dam of Diomed was also by Herod.

But it is not so well known that more than one hundred years prior to The Oaks and The Derby, one of the same house, William, the ninth earl, instituted a stake as follows:

"Articles for the plate which is to be run for on the said island, being of the value of five pounds sterling (the fashion included) given by the Right Honorable William Earl of Derby, Lord of the said Isle, etc.

"1st—The said plate is to be run for on the 28th of July of every year, etc.

"2d—That no horse, gelding or mair shall be admitted to run for the said plate, but such as was foaled within the said Island, or on the caufe of Man."

"There are eight sections in all, the conditions being more ample than are usually appended to Plates or stakes, the course being described, though the distance is not given, but the bounds specified.

The 5th section: "That every horse, mair or gelding shall carry horsemen's weight, that is to say, ten stone weight, at fourteen pounds to each stone, besides saddle and bridle."

The articles dated July 14th, 1787, the horses entered for that year:

"R. Heymoor Esq., Governor of this isle, one bay gelding called by the name of Loggerhead."

"Captain Tho. Hudston, one white gelding called Snow-hall."

"Mr. William Faigler, his gray gelding called Gray-Cor-a-in."

"Mr. Nichs. Williams, one gray stone horse called The Yorkshire-gray."

"Mr. Demster Christian, one gray gelding called the Dap ple-gray."

"MEMORANDUM—28th of July, 1687.

"That this day the above plate was run for the fore-mentioned horses, and the same was fairly won by the right worshipful governor's horse at the first two heats.

JOHN WOOD."

The copy from which this was taken was a transcript of the original, though this is only a small part of the document.

The Manx horses were a hardy race of ponies, or rather galloways, and as a part of the Spanish Armada was wrecked on contiguous coasts in 1558 it is very likely that the Spanish horses, so highly prized by the Duke of Newcastle, had descendants running in Isle of Man races.

It is safe to say that partial as the nobility of England has always been to horse-racing, that the Stanleys have the longest record. The conclusion of the document copied from is:

"It is my good will and pleasure yt ya 2 prizes formerly granted (by me) for hors running and shooting shall continue to be run, or shot for, and soe to continue dureing my good will and pleasure. Given under my hand att Lathom, ye 12 of July 1683."

"To my governor's deputy gyvernor 'Derby' and ya rest of my officers in my Isle of Man."

HARNESS RACING IN 1897.—There is no question that the coming year will be one which can be marked with a white stone in the history of harness racing.

Good prospects in the East, as there are indications that the restrictions in Illinois, New York, Pennsylvania and other States will be moderated, if not entirely removed, and all that is necessary for a great year on this slope is a renewal of the appropriations for the District Fairs.

There is a reasonable assurance that this will be granted, the only thing in the way being the number of fairs which will be included in the bounty.

Forty-three heretofore, and while it is my belief that every dollar donated brought a return to the State in excess of the amount given, it is probable that to secure success it will be necessary to curtail the number.

Far better that one-half, or even a smaller number, should be named than jeopardize all, and should it be thought necessary to curtail, by a careful redistricting of the State, opposition to curtailment would be overcome.

Large as the territory is, there is little question that judicious selection of points for fairs will, in a great measure, obviate the difficulty, and has no well wisher to the cause who makes factious opposition to a reasonable allotment.

It may be that the benefits which will follow the reduction of fairs will fully compensate for the loss of numbers.

One real good exhibition will be of greater value than several that are inferior, and by fixing on some central point that is adapted for the exhibition, the wants of all can be served.

There is one feature which I sincerely trust will be kept in plain view. The State Fair must be left out of the controversy. However large the appropriation that is necessary to keep that up to the high standard it has held for so many years, he would be a recreant Californian who has his opposition to appropriations on the ground that the State institution should be subjected to the same conditions that the District Fairs are granted.

It was stated that had the advocates of the District Fairs been willing to accept one-half the appropriation named in the bill the Governor would not have interposed his veto, but this would not be accepted unless the State Fair was also compelled to accept the same pro rata reduction.

Reasonably well assured that if the business is intelligently managed there will be appropriations for the next two years, and I have not the least doubt that after the situation is fully understood that proper steps will be taken.

At the date fixed by the By Laws for the annual meeting of the P C T H B A, there was not a quorum present, and an adjournment followed to a date named by the President. That will be fixed in a short time, and the members, agomented by all who are interested in securing appropriations, can then take into consideration the redistricting of the state, or rather to settle upon a number of district fairs and the localities in which they are held.

TRAINERS.—Major Wheeler in the Brooklyn Citizen, in an article on the death of Morello, compliments those who were formerly trainers of harness horses in the following words:

"Morello was an unsound horse, which was a great pity for he was endowed with the mighty and priceless gift of galloping.

"Probably nobody less skilled than Van Ness—and these old trotting horse wizards are matchless in this respect, old Bill Daly being a striking illustration—could have kept Morello on his pins as long as he did."

That trainers hereafter will be far more successful than those of the present day in "keeping horses on their pins" may be accepted as something more than likely to happen, inasmuch as more attention is given to study and the care of the feet better understood.

Better to state, perhaps, that the importance of keeping the feet in proper shape is more fully realized than it is before, and the consideration of this portion of stable management has been forced on the trainers of trotters in a greater degree than on those who have charge of gallopers.

A little change in the bearing, viz., the shaping of the bottom of the feet, a trifle difference in weight of shoe, inequality of weight, that is, one side of the shoe heavier than the other, may change the action and increase the speed wonderfully.

It may be that the action in the gallop is susceptible of improvement, and when these later day trainers of trotters who change to the "legitimate," give attention to this part of the business there will be some marvelous changes of form. A little addition to the stride, even an inch added, will have a potent effect. Lengthen a twenty-foot stride to twenty feet and one inch, and if the same rapidity of stroke is preserved, a gain of twenty-two feet in the mile.

So far as my knowledge extends this is a "brand new" phase of the question, and while a trainer, who had no experience with the harness division, might regard it as trivial, those who had wrought wondrous changes in trotters and pacers by changes in shoeing will give it more weight. Worthy of trial surely. A slight lengthening of the toe, or the extension of the plate beyond the horn might increase the stride enough to win a race that would have been lost without the change. Quien Sabe

WHO DOES KNOW?—Were all the various patterns of shoes which have been used in the education of trotters and pacers exhibited at one time, the spectacle would surprise those who thought they had a fair knowledge of the business. Even the cots in Roberge's and other books which treat on shoeing are provocative of wonder to the uninitiated, though all of these volumes combined do not contain only a small part of the shoes that have been used in the harness horse curriculum.

Racehorses—the galloping division—have not been awarded much consideration in the matter of shoeing, difference in weight being about the only changes. The regulation weight of the old time training shoes was three-quarters of a pound; the "plates" from one to four ounces each. Dr. Weldon trained his horses barefooted and others followed his example, but anything like the trotting-horse trainers' methods unknown on the legitimate.

The success that has followed the quondam trainers of trotters in keeping horses on their pins is probably owing to the care bestowed in keeping feet level and the ground surface of the foot at the proper angle to bring the smallest strain on tendons and ligaments. It may be that still more can be effected by shaping the foot so as to lengthen the stride, or influence the action beneficially, and it is not an altogether foregone conclusion that defects in the action at a gallop cannot be remedied by shoeing, as has been so amply proven on the other field.

EXHILARATING.—"Like a heaver of champagne" was a favorite expression of a writer of the long, long ago, when his intent was to describe something wonderfully inspiring. Quite an appropriate simile when granted that a haker was of the capacity of Neil Gow's quagh, viz., a Scottish pint. A champagne glass of the usual size is far from that standard, just enough to titillate the lips and bestir the nerves of the palate, as evanescent, however, as the "snow fall in the river, a moment white, then wells forever," or "like the rainbow's lovely form vanishing amid the storm."

But on these fine December afternoons the trip across the hay is surely exhilarating, and if one is fortunate enough to "hack a long shot," then the return trip is more than pleasant.

To win on a favorite implies a big risk for comparatively little given, and the loss then is harder to bear.

The presumption that the favorite or second choice must win is likely to be a false "hunch," whereas a premonition that an outsider may do the trick is a pleasant anticlimax anyway, and the smaller sum ventored gives piquancy to the play.

TURF AND TRACK.

THE SULKY.

HAPPY New Year to all!

THERE have been 2,095 additions to the 2:30 list this year.

THE year book for 1896 will be issued about February 1st.

THERE will be a great revival in business in 1897 and the light harness industry will not be overlooked.

HAVE you commenced the New Year right by paying your subscription to the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN?

OLD ROWDY Boy 2:13½, now about twenty-five years old, is still used as a road horse by a Minneapolis horseman.

THE well-known driver, Alonzo Daniels, is dead. He committed suicide at Lynn, Mass., while temporarily insane.

ORRIN HICKOK's old stallion Prince Warwick, which John Splan sold to the Austrian government, is getting a lot of speed in Europe.

W. C. HARRINGTON, Troy, N. Y., owns Phoebe Wilkes, 2:08½, Garnet, 2:13½, Jane, 2:13½, and the pacer, W. W. Foote, 2, 2:15½.

HICKOK's unlucky pacer, Maxim, trial 2:13, brought $900 at the late Fasig sale. He cost many times that amount and never got to the wire.

THE new Oregon performer, Altis, 2:25, has been variously reported as by Altas, Altago and Altamont. The best evidence points to Altago as his real sire.

WM. COREYTT is busily engaged superintending the handling and mating for teams of the young trotters on his farm. His sale will be the greatest held in 1897.

FAMOUS old Minnehaha has two sons among the new sires of 1896—Mascot, 2:25½, sire of Domitian 3, 2:27½, and San Gabriel 2:29½, sire of Viola 2:24½, pacing.

THE total gross winnings of Benzetta 2:06½, Miss Rita 2:08½, and Josie B. 2:12, all members of the Hickok stable, amounted this year to $3,800. None of the three managed to score a victory.

REMEMBER you must impress upon the Senators and Assemblages from your district the importance of having appropriations made for district fairs. No other question is as important as this.

JAMES WALKER, Coldwater, Mich., has purchased the stallion Declaration, by Young Jim, out of Lady Bunker, dam of Guy Wilkes, 2:15½, William L, etc. He is the sire of four 2:30 trotters.

THE pasture on Josiah H. White's farm near Lakeville never looked better than at present. An enormous crop of alfalfa, grass and volunteer hay is to be seen and all the stock look fat and healthy.

THE young Kentucky trainer Ben Kenney, has concluded his engagement with Macons Daly, Hamilton, Montana, and may work for an Illinois horseman next year. Mr. Kenney is now in Kentucky visiting friends.

HORACE W. WILSON has been elected secretary of the Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders' Association to succeed Ed A. Tipton, who severed his connection with the association to take charge of the Montana racing circuit.

ALMONT MAMBRINO, the twenty-five-year-old son of Almont and Monogram, by Mambrino Chief, is reported dead at Waverly, Ind. He was the sire of Gracie Almont 2:30, and the dams of Warwick Medinn 2:21½ and Naylor 2:30.

JOHNNY DICKERSON, known from one end of the land to the other as a great trainer and driver of trotters and pacers, has bought a livery and boarding stable on Seventh street, Indianapolis, and we presume will make that city his future home.

WE wish to call the attention of seekers after first-class trotting stock to the splendid lot owned by J. P. Williams at the Silver Bow Stock Farm. He has a large number to select from, and besides being "bred in the purple" they are splendid individually.

EDWIN L. GRIFFITHS has leased the Pleasanton Stock Farm and has engaged Jose Neal as its superintendent and also as trainer for his splendid collection of trotters and pacers. The track will be plowed this week and put in first-class condition.

NUTWOOD was buried under a majestic oak in a corner of the pasture which is on a rise of ground overlooking Highland Farm. A stone will mark the spot, and the grave of the great son of Belmont and Miss Russell will be guarded by an iron railing.

MONBARS, whose trotting record of 2:11½, made in 1892, was supplemented by a pacing record of 2:16½, made two years later, has been purchased by Sam Caton and will be taken to Russia. Charles Herrington, Grand Rapids, Mich., was the former owner.

IRVINGTON BELLE, McKerron, and several other colts by Nutwood Wilkes, 2:16½, are all showing up remarkably well at the Nutwood Stock Farm, and warrant Mr. Cecil, their trainer's attention to pit them against all comers in their special classes next season.

SUPREMACY, 2:23½, whose breeding has heretofore been given as unknown, is a daughter of Ambassador, 2:21½, and the great broodmare Soprano, by Strathmore. She was bred at Kalamazoo Stock Farm, Kalamazoo, Mich., was foaled in 1889, and is owned by James McClenahan, Port Chester, N. Y.

WE have received numerous suggestions as to the places where district fairs should be held. The State is large enough to hold eighteen good ones, but some of those who have made propositions as to localities have not given the subject enough careful study. Fairs should be held where improvements, as well as race tracks are made; and districts must be in close proximity to them, also.

It still seems to be a "dead heat" between Alcantara and Allerton for first honors as to the sire of the greatest number of new standard performers for the year 1896. Yet the chances favor Alcantara, as one of Allerton's new ones—a pacer—seems not to be in the standard list by a few seconds.

THE stallion owner who takes time by the forelock will begin advertising early for the season of 1897. There is certain to be a heavy increase in the number of mares bred, but that will not do any good to the owner who permits everybody to forget that he has a name and postoffice address.

WELL BRED brood mares that have been waiting for bids, so, these three years, sold quick and at fair prices at the Kellogg sale in New York. This tells the story of the future. It is the market that talks. It is not speculative theory, but an actual condition of improved prices that tells the story of the future.

At Camden, N. J., C. C. Chew bought at the Philadelphia Tattersall's, the bay mare, Moss Rose, full sister to Rosedale, 2:19½, and Falrose, 2:19. She has been a mile in 2:21, last half in 1:08. She is by Sidney, 2:19½, dam Rose Leaf, dam of two better than 2:20; second dam Fern Leaf, dam of Sidmont, 2:10½, and Gold Leaf, 2:11½.

ELECTWOOD, 2:29½, the good son of Electioneer, owned by the Stiles Stock Farm, was bought at the closing-out sale of that institution last Friday, by John J. Knickerbocker, of Chicago, who has a stock farm near Hammond, Ind., well stocked with high-class broodmares. The stallion purchased is one of the best in the West and should soon become noted as a sire of speed.

NUTWOOD WILKES, 2:16½, the game son of Guy Wilkes 2:15½, and Lyda W. 2:18½, by Nutwood 600, is looking remarkably well and his hind legs, which bothered him a great deal during the last campaign, are now again in fine shape. He may be looked for as a candidate for 2:10 honors. Peter Jackson will also be prepared again, and by his previous showing may be depended on to obtain a low mark.

HORSE breeding is evidently on the eve of decided activity, but however good a sire one may own, business will not come without the asking. If a sire is worth breeding to he is worthy of being kept before the public, and this is fully realized by patrons of other men's stallions as it does a clothing store, a railroad or a circus, and good sires owned by good advertisers always become popular and incidentally successful.

THE great young horse, Boreal, is known from one end of the country to the other. As a three-year-old he proved a great race horse, being winner at Louisville and Lexington, and making a record of 2:15½, having made a record of 2:32½ as a yearling, and 2:17½, as a two-year-old. He was not on the turf in 1896, but is the sire of five splendid looking weanlings. His owner, Scott Newman, has arranged to have him campaigned in 1897, by John Splan, and he will certainly be heard from before the season is over.

HORSE breeding is evidently on the eve of decided activity, but however good a sire one may own, business will not come without the asking. If a sire is worth breeding to he is worthy of being kept before the public, and this is fully realized by patrons of other men's stallions. It pays just as well to advertise a stallion as it does a clothing store, a railroad or a circus, and good sires owned by good advertisers always become popular and incidentally successful.

WITH the death of Challenger, 1064, and the removal of Altamont, 3600, Lemont is now the only stallion by Almont 33 in Oregon. Alwood was destroyed by fire several years ago. What the blood of Almont has done and will do for Oregon only time can tell. Already we number his descendants by the hundreds, and among them are Chehalis, 2:07½, Del Norte, 2:08, Pathmont, 2:09½, Altas, 2:09½, Tonchet, 2:15, Challenger Chief, 2:15, Blondie, 2:15, Pilot Lemont, 2:21½, and a host of other good bloods.

WE can appreciate the extent to which the glory of the 2:30 list has departed by contemplating the magnitude of the extreme speed list. In the 2:02 list we have two representatives; in the 2:04 list, ten representatives; in the 2:05 list, sixteen, and in the 2:10 list, 195. In round numbers, two hundred trotters and pacers with records of 2:10 or better. Is it any wonder that the 2:30 list has lost its charm? Fraction by fraction the trotting record has fallen from 2:59, in 1806, to 2:03½, where it now stands, in just ninety years, while the pacing record has fallen from 2:31, in 1835, to 2:00½, in 1896—and the end is not yet.

ALL indications point to a prosperous season for campaigners in 1897, as the strong associations seem determined to give the best programmes ever offered by them, while the minor ones will be in line with the best they can afford. If it should happen that Pennsylvania and Illinois get out from under the load which now oppresses racing the season will be a brilliant one. New England, instead of falling behind 1896, will take a long step forward. There will be all the racing that is necessary, and the shrewd campaigner should be able to lay out a satisfactory route, no matter what the class of his horses.

AFTER mature consideration the astute breeder, W. R. Janvier of New York has pinned his faith to the Guy Wilkes branch of the Wilkes family. Mr. Janvier believes in the super excellence of the great broodmares, Lady Bunker, by Mambrino Patchen, and Lady Dunn, by Seely's American Star. He recently remarked to the writer: "If I ever get time from my multitude of duties, I shall make a list of all of the 2:30 performers by Guy Wilkes and the breeding of their dams. I think a compilation of all the maternal statistics relating to the horse would show that he is the equal of any living trotting sire, opportunities considered."

TRAINER FRED ISABEL, formerly of Palo Alto, who made a bit in handling Prince Lavalard, 2:16½, and others in the New England Circuit of 1895, has been profitably employed at Dr. McCoy's kite track, Kirkwood, Del., developing some good stake prospects. He expects to have a starter in the M. and M. $10,000 purse at Detroit, next July. The trotter intended has shown a half mile in 1:03½, and a mile in 2:13. Fred has also cultivated a pacer to the extent of a mile in 2:10, who ought to be able to give John Splan's 2:09½ pacer an argument. Scott Quintin, the sweet and persuasive, had his horses in training on the Kirkwood track this fall.

J. C. Curry recently went to Red Oak, Ia., to pay a visit to the queen, Alix, 2:03½, with a view of taking her into his string to campaign next year. Morris J. Jones has succeeded in again getting complete control of the little mare and is anxious to see her on the turf again. Curry may take her to Alabama to winter, where she can be given a thorough preparation. If Alix can stand training she can doubtless still earn money in the frs-for-all classes.

NEARLY every paper one picks up tells of returning confidence in some particular line of business, or a more flattering outlook for the future in others. It appears as though everyone was anxious to have it understood that, so far as they were concerned, the panic of 1895 had ceased to cut a figure in their business calculations. With this feeling abroad in the land, it is absolutely certain that the horse-breeding industry will share the upward turn that affairs have taken. The colts one will raise in 1898 will be in demand long before they mature. There is no longer any doubt about it, and every owner of a good mare should breed her the coming season. As to the poor mares the sooner they are disposed of the better.

KILLIP & Co. have received instructions from the management of the Palo Alto Stock Farm to hold an auction of about fifty head of trotting stock at the farm, during the latter part of April next. It is now settled that this will be an annual event. The selections made for this sale comprise a lot of horses superior to any ever sold from Palo Alto, at auction, in California, equaling any shipment East, and it is doubtful if there has ever been sold in this State as fine a lot of horses in breeding, individuality and speed. There are some first-class prospects in the lot for race horses, some great bred young stallions, showing speed, some elegant roadsters and a few well-matched teams. The list is now being completed when a catalogue giving full particulars will be issued.

UNLESS present plans of well-known horsemen go wrong, visitors to the Metropolitan Museum of Natural History will soon see the bones of the noted old trotting sire Rysdyk's Hambletonian articulated and on view in the building. When the "Hero of Chester" died, in 1876, he was buried with honors on the highest point of William Rysdyk's farm in Chester, Orange county, and some years later a granite shaft, properly inscribed, was raised above the grave. At this time a small plot of ground, including the grave of the old horse, was deeded by the Rysdyk heirs to Charles Backman, founder of the Stony Ford stud, Guy Miller, said to be the first man who ever placed a leg over Hambletonian's back, and James C. Howland, who owned Hambletonian's son, Polonius, sire of the sensational trotter Page (2:09½). These veteran Orange county horsemen were made trustees of the property and readily consented.

HORSE SHOWS are all the more desirable here, inasmuch as California is destined to remain one of the great horse-raising sections of the country. Every year, however, the gentlemen who spend their money to make the Horse Show one of the social events of the year are singled out as subjects for the most offensive caricatures in so-called leading journals. It is not strange that under such treatment our rich people prefer to spend their money in other cities and that San Francisco is largely afflicted with absentee landlordism. In other communities it is recognized to be an advantage to have the rich people spend their money freely, as the trade of the towns in which they live is thereby greatly benefited. In San Francisco, however, our leaders of public opinion seem to take a different view of the subject and to conduct themselves so as to drive all the people of means out of the State as speedily as possible. The gentlemen who have been struggling to make the Horse Show a success against the discouragement their well-meant efforts received, deserve the thanks of the community. It is to be hoped that they will persevere.—Wasp.

NO IDEA in connection with horsebreeding in this country is making more rapid gains than that the American trotter surpasses all others as an all-purpose horse. As a family our trotters are growing constantly in both size and finish, while their durability, courage and tractability have long been recognized as superior to that of all other breeds. For years the agricultural press of the country has lent its favor to the imported breeds as being superior as carriage, coach and farm horses, but of late the leaning towards our native harness breed has been most marked, nearly all of such publications being now outspoken in their acknowledgements that the larger trotting sires are superior to all importations as sires of the typical carriage horse. Trotting bred horses that are sixteen hands high or over and weigh from eleven to thirteen hundred pounds are quite common, and this size, coupled with the increased density of tissue, superior intellect, docility, action and durability, combine to make the American trotter superior to all other breeds. In the various horse show award rings, where imported and "half bred" stock formerly held sway, our native bred horse has, of late years, captured nearly all of the prizes for which he was eligible to compete along with imported stock, and under tests and comparisons the trotter continues to gain sanctioned superiority over his former rivals.

R. P. MILLER, of Keokuk, Io., writes entertainingly of Judge B. 2:10, and his ancestors. Mr. Miller says: "Some ten or twelve weeks ago you referred to Judge B., by Green Bush King 2600, whose record was obtained at the Ottumwa meeting, and at that time asked for information regarding Marion, sire of Joe, who sired the grandam of Judge B. As Judge B. and many of his immediate ancestors on the dam's side were bred or owned in this, Lee county, their history is familiar to all those persons who cherish a love for the horse that accomplishes something. Prompted by a motive to render you a service, I interviewed W. E. Sample, a former owner of Marion, and obtained the following information: Marion, son of Mambrino Chief 11, was a dark brown stallion, standing 16½ hands, and was bred by Ryland P. Toddhunter, then a resident of Kentucky. His dam was a daughter of Sir Wallace, grandam by Stockholder, and third dam by Tempest. The only white found on Marion being on one of his hind feet. To make up he was a Mambrino, though somewhat softened in his lines by the strains of richar breeding received from his dam. Marion was purchased in 1868 by the Western Horse Breeding Association, of Keokuk, from whom Mr. Sample obtained him the following year. Ten years later Marion died at Marshalltown.—Western Horseman. [This horse Marion appears in the pedigrees of a number of horses brought here by the late Dr. M. W. Hicks and the blood is much prized.—Ed.]

THE SADDLE.

JOCKEY "DOC" TURBIVILLE will be here New Year's day. He is one of the most improved riders ever seen, and his services will be in great demand.

HORACE HOAG, the owner of the California stable, had both Model and Monitor fired, the latter for a bad splint. Both will be turned out for a much needed rest.

ARGENTINA now holds the Oakland track record at a mile. She ran the mile in 1:41, just beating Flashlight, who is a much improved horse just now, by a slight margin.

JOCKEY ENGLISH, the steeplechase rider, had the mount on Geo. Dickerson in the hurdle race yesterday. This was English's first mount in months and he put up a creditable ride.

A CHRISTMAS fund for the injured jockey, Will Swift, now confined at St. Mary's Hospital was collected to the amount of $50, by Mrs. L. V. Turbiville and daughter, Mrs. A. Keife.

MONITA is about twenty-five pounds a better animal on a muddy course than on a dry one. Two very fair ones finished behind the brother to Zohair yesterday (Peter the Second and Flashlight).

GOOD TIMES, though poorly named, is a very good sort of colt. His sire was imp. Rossington (premier stallion at Nantura now), his dam Famine, old Frank Harper's good Ten Broeck mare.

WILLIE SWIFT, the steeple-chase jockey is in a bad way, the doctors having performed two difficult trephining operations. While Willie has a fair chance to recover, it is doubtful if he ever rides again.

LUCANIA, winner of the Long Island Handicap this season from Connoisseur, Nanki Pooch and other cracks, broke down badly Thursday in the fourth race. She was running in the colors of Geo. Rose.

SAM DOGGETT, who was well up in the list of winning jockeys in the far East, made his first appearance, on Appleaupe, in the fourth race Friday. Sam did not lard inside the money, but it was the mare's first race in nearly a year.

D. M. HANLON turned his horses (Sly and Fly) over to W. L. Appleby after Sly's first race at Oakland. Lea Blas-ingame, of Fresno, has also placed his horses in Mr. Appleby's charge. A better man than he could not have been selected.

The royally-bred English horse, imp. Piccolo, by Petrarch—Lady Grace, by The Duke, winner of many excellent races, goes to Charles Kerr's Antrim Stock Farm to take the place of the dead hero, Apache. Piccolo was bred by the Prince of Wales.

MANAGER UNRUH, of the Santa Anita Ranch, was an interested spectator at the track yesterday. On account of the good showing made by Alvarado, a number of the best mares at the ranch will be mated with Amigo, the son of imp. Prince Charlie, Salvador's sire.

It was a great day for the St. Georges. Schiller won the fourth race with ease, while Nonchalance and Miss Baker were 2-3 in the first. Starter Ferguson is satisfied he has a fortune in the English horse, which not only gets good-looking, but game performers of high class.

TOD SLOAN made his reappearance in the saddle in California Friday. He put up a masterly ride on Bellicoso and landed him first in the George Goulet Champagne Handicap. He did not do quite as well with his two other mounts, as Tempestuous finished fourth, while second was the best Celoso could do.

WALTER J.'s dam had seven colts, and he is the only winner in the lot. He is the only one in the outfit, too by imp. Trua Briton, which speaks volumes for the Australian horse as a sire. Walter J. is one of the best "poor men's horses" in the country, for he can win at half a mile, five furlongs or almost any distance.

The stakes of the Coney Island Jockey Club close on January 4, 1897. Horsemen wishing entry blanks or stake books can procure same at the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN'S office, or by applying to Ralph H. Tozer or L. D. Newman, our representatives at the track. A number of the stake books have also been placed in the Secretary's office for distribution.

MCLIGHT, Mary S. and Captain Rees, the racers owned by McEvoy & Dale, of Denver, will be sold at auction in the paddock at Ingleside this Saturday. At the same time Gratify, Whirlwind and Detective, the property of Jones & Coleman, will also be knocked down to the highest bidder. All are more than average performers, and should bring a goodly sum.

JOCKEY TOMMY BUTLER is suing Short and Davis, the former owners of the Mendocino Stable, for $685. Part of this amount is for riding fees for himself, Eddie Jones and Joe Narvaez, and the balance is claimed to be due to Hiram Elliott for training expenses. There was a transfer of the horses in the stable a short time ago and an attempt will be made to prove that it was illegal and that the present claim is a prior lien.

An English turf writer says: "Of the American horses that appeared this season, those of whom the greatest things were expected—Ramapo, Americus and Santa Anita—did little or nothing, the best of them coming from the comparatively unknown division. The American contingent will be largely re-enforced next year, as well as that from Australia, the success of Paris III. having given them confidence in their Antipodean thoroughbreds."

JOCKEY TODD SLOAN denies all interest in the horses running in Frank Brown's name, with the exception of Yemen, who is Sloan's property. The horse is duly recorded in the jockey's name, but races in F. Brown's, who receives one-third of his winnings. Sloan will sell the horse this week, probably at auction. In case he is not sold the jockey will be unable to ride at Ingleside, except on his own horses. Turf Congress rules do not permit an owner jockey to ride except for himself.

MRS. JAMES MCCORMICK telegraphed Burns & Waterhouse yesterday that her husband was at the hospital and that the only chance to save his life was by having an operation performed on his liver. This news will be received with sorrow by his many friends in California.

BARNEY SCHREIBER was offered $7,500 for Aquinas at St. Louis this fall, but declined, thinking possibly of some of the rich stakes the colt could win here, especially when there was a soft track to run over. The portion of the Pom-mery Sec Stakes won by the Belvedere colt yesterday was worth $1,000 to the genial German.

The California Jockey Club on Tuesday made public four two-year-old stakes to be run in the spring of 1897. They are as follows: The Elmwood Stakes, value $1000, four furlongs; the Flying Stakes, value $1000, four furlongs; the Waterhouse Stakes, value $1250, four and a half furlongs; the General Arthur Cigar Stakes, value $1250, four and a half furlongs; the Racing Stakes, value $1000, four furlongs; the Candelaria Handicap, value $1500, five furlongs.

THOMAS H. WILLIAMS JR., President of the California Jockey Club, remembered six of Oakland's charitable institutions. He gave $100 each to the Chabot Home, Sheltering Home, Old Ladies' Home at Temescal, West Oakland Home for Orphans, Daughters of Israel, Vincentian Aid Society of St. Francis de Sales Church and the Temescal Home for Orphans. He evidently believes that charity should begin at home, and his kind action will make for him a host of friends.

DR. H. E. ROWELL, the well-known veterinary surgeon, has just received a letter from Alex. Shields in which the latter says that he will leave New Orleans for this city about the first of the year. Shields will bring Logan, Frank Jaubert, Cherrystone, Devault and one or two others of his own. Dr. Rowell's good two-year-old colt Chappie, by imp. Order—Hoyden, will be brought along at the same time. W. J. Spiers will probably ship O'Connell and Ahano to the Coast at the same time.

A ST. LOUIS, Mo. dispatch of December 26th, was as follows: "All the poolrooms in town were raided by the police this afternoon and the proprietors and employees locked up. Since the recent decision of the State Supreme Court upon a test case that the anti-poolroom law was unconstitutional, the layers of odds have flourished as never before. An un-repealed and forgotten law was found, however, that the State relies upon for conviction. The wagon-loads of pencils were hauled out promptly by a local politician. They will resume business Monday and again be arrested."

The Ingleside folks have added a feature to their programme that will undoubtedly be appreciated by strangers at the course, if not by ordinary students of form. It is the placing on the day's programme of the two words, "had actor" to the right of the name of every cutter-up at the post. When a horse is scratched, too, opposite its number, to the right on the jockeys' board, appears the word "scratched" in letters as large as those of the various jockeys' names. Secretary Leake is ever on the lookout for something brand-new that will please the supporters of the racing game—the general public.

JOCKEY DOC TURBIVILLE writes to his brother Tony that the game is overdone at New Orleans. "There are over 800 horses here and 200 jockeys," says Doc. "The stables at the track are running over, and many owners have to hire stalls about the city. The jockeys are so numerous that unless a boy has some reputation he will starve to death. There is a big gang of riders from New York here, and from Cincinnati, Nashville and St. Louis there are scores of riders. I am doing as well as the rest, but that does not satisfy me, and unless it picks up I will go to San Francisco and sea what I can do there."

SWEET FAVERDALE, winner of the second race from a very sweet field of three, is an own sister to the almost invincible Preston. She did not warm up in a very satisfactory manner, we understand, and at the post she appeared a little too high in flesh. Her sire, Faverdale, was a good race horse bred by the late D. D. Withers and by Sensation from imp. Faverdale. Imp. Sweet Home, dam of the filly, was a very fair performer in the early eighties, a frequent winner at Brighton Beach. She was by Knight of St. Patrick from Bittern, by Fisheman. The stake horse, Major Domo, is also from imp. Sweet Home.

ALL selling races will be claiming races, under the American Racing Rules, after the 1st of January. Rule 151 has always been avoided by special conditions. The rule which allowed this has been removed from the 1897 book of rules and regulations. It reads: "The express conditions of a race supersede the racing rules when they conflict." As matters will stand after January 1st, any horse running in a selling race may be claimed for the selling price, plus the value of the purse, but only by the owners of horses running in the race. The old conditions as to priority of claim will govern. These rules will be enforced at Ingleside.

SECRETARY SAM LEAKE gives out the following regarding registration, and it is most important to thoroughbred owners out this way: "Ed C. Hopper, Secretary of the American Turf Congress, has telegraphed from Cincinnati that Rule 23, regarding the registration of thoroughbreds, has, at the request of the Pacific Coast Jockey Club (by unanimous vote of the various members of the congress), been waived until June 1, 1897, as it may apply to horses racing in the State of California. This will enable 'short-bred' horses to race at Ingleside until that date. Owners and breeders, however, will have to register their foals and other horses eligible in accordance with the rule."

AFTER an existence of six days, the Prince George's Racing Association, which has been conducting a meeting at Magruder, Md., expired December 22d. The association was unable to pay the carpenter for the improvements that had been made at the track, and the place was taken in charge by the representative of the creditor. The horsemen are the principal sufferers by the Magruder failure. They went to the expense of shipping their horses from Elkton and Iron Hill on the strength of glowing promises by the management. The majority of the winning owners failed to receive their money. Purse for Saturday and Monday remained unpaid, with little or no prospect of settlement. The horsemen now at Magruder will ship their stables back to Elkton.

"It would be a good idea to introduce French mutue-machines on all Western tracks for at least a year or two," remarked a well-informed Nashville turfman the other day. All the troubles on race tracks are chargeable directly to the bookmakers. They are the greatest squealers on earth. If a horse doesn't run consistently day after day, they are the first to raise the cry of fraud. Very few of these pencillers operate with their own money. They work for salaries or make a percentage book for other parties. Nine out of ten of them would forsake racing forever if barred from book-making. They have none but a selfish interest in racing, and are a constant menace to the turf.

AB STEMLER was talking about the catarrhal fever, so prevalent among horses, on the way over on the boat to the track. Dan Honig stood by and related an experience he had with it back East. "I nearly ruined me," remarked Dan. "I had a stable with $30,000, and nearly every horse had it, and after they recovered they were not worth that cigar. They would take on flesh and look as sleek as a picture, but they were of no account. I could get them to run a quarter or a half mile, and that was all. The fever seemed to ruin their wind. In that string I had horses—I don't know how good they were. Some had won five and six races, and were never beaten. The same year McCafferty was at Providence, and he lost a stable worth $100,000." M. Stember said he knew what that Eastern fever was, and he thought it was much milder here. It didn't break a horse down, —Evening Bulletin.

TREBBE'S superficial advocacy of the Jockey Club's recent "raise the weight" action in the west. It goes to the point of telling that Secretary Hopper favors it and has graded the scale to its standard for the benefit of the Turf Congress meeting to be held next month. All such talk ought to be "rot." It probably is. The scale of weights are all right except that 3 pounds in October and 5 pounds in November should be added to the two-year-old weights. The talk about a raise in the scale increasing the crop of jockeys in all bosh. The jockey who cannot fit into the scale is a has been. The useful actor in every line of business fits himself mentally and physically to the conditions of his business. If the scale was raised to 150 pounds there would still be a band of overweight over its edge shouting for a new deal. There is no need of a general raise in the weights for jockey purposes no matter what plauts the superficial screamers make. —Racing Form.

The authorities at Iron Hill put an end to a very neat little game lately by warning a certain woman, who has attained considerable notoriety through the ownership of horses at the outlaw tracks, that her presence was not desirable, and that in future admission would be denied her at the gate says a Philadelphia paper. The woman mentioned lives in that city. She has a very pretty daughter, of whom most of the jockeys are very fond. The brilliant brain of this woman conceived the idea of inviting the smitten jockeys to her house to see the daughter, and there it is said many jobs were fixed up and put through. The woman was known to be interested in a certain hook in the ring, and the attention of the officials was first drawn to this hook. The mounts of certain jockeys were laid up against with startling regularity. The Iron Hill management set a watch on the woman's house in Philadelphia and soon learned that several jockeys were regular callers. Investigations in other channels revealed the startling fact that the woman and the jockeys were working in collusion and fixing races. It was a pretty game and a sure winner, but the officials could not permit it to go on. So they quietly informed the woman that she should not be permitted to visit the track again.

PROCEEDINGS have been begun in London, to wind up Tattersalls, of New York, which is a British corporation and did a large business in this country for a number of years. Dr. W. Graham Ross, the General Manager here, served an injunction on the sheriff yesterday restraining further action on two attachments obtained against the company on Thursday last, for $1,182. Dr. Ross' intention is to have a receiver appointed here for the company, and to wind up the concern as soon as possible. Tattersalls Company, of New York, failed to pay the interest on their bonds, and it is said have sunk two hundred thousand dollars since the formation of the company in this country. It is understood that the present liabilities, outside of the debenture bonds, will not exceed twenty thousand dollars, while the assets that are considered good amount to eleven thousand dollars. The company, which is an offshoot of Tattersalls, of London, which controls to all intents and purposes the entire horse auctioneering business of England, was founded in March, 1890, with a capital stock of $260,000, and would have been wound up two or three years ago, but for the desire of the English corporation to continue their branch at any cost in order that the name of Tattersalls might not be injured. The hard times of the past three years, the tremendous depression in thoroughbred interests and the bicycle craze, which greatly depreciated the value of ordinary stock, are responsible for the downfall of this concern. —N. Y. Spirit of the Times.

SWEET WILLIAM was just a little "short," in our opinion, or victory would have perched upon the banner of the soros Fitz James and Olive. Verily the Kyrle Daly and Fitz James horses love soft going. Wahoo, perhaps the best mud horse of his day, was by imp. Kyrle Daly, as were Pat Murphy, Heartsease, Normandie, Eclipse, Candelabra and Fitz James, all lovers of a slushy or muddy course. Summer-time, by Fitz James, and Sweet William, by the same horse, are at their very best in that sort of going. It is a peculiar thing, but it is a fact that some families of horses fairly revel in soft or sticky ground, while others will not run nearly so well as on a dry track. The Wildlides are noted for their ability to go well in mud or slush, and the get of imp. Cyrrus and Flambeau are fast getting a reputation as "mudders." The Tyrants like mud and the Altas could all go especially well in it. The Sir Modreds are pretty good in the soft going and the Darehins have all shown a great liking for mud and slush, and are rivals of the Wildlides and Kyrle Dalys. The St. Carlos are good on any kind of track, as are most of the St. Blaizes. The Brutuses are not good mud horses, taken as a class, but one of the breed (Remus) seeming to like soft going. The Norfolk breed, as a class, have shown no particular liking for much but a dry course, though an occasional good "mud horse" has come from the family. The Ganos like the mud, the Joe Hookers are not partial to it, and thus it goes. It makes an interesting study, however, and the chances are the stoutly-built ones make the best ones on slushy or sticky tracks.

The District Fairs Again.

There is no subject of so much importance to the farmers and stockmen as that of appropriations for district fairs. Everyone in California is interested in it. The sustenance of these fairs means more to the large majority of the taxpayers of this State than can be described in these columns. For every dollar expended for premiums there is sure to be a ten-fold return. It is not alone for the present that these are needed to encourage farmers, manufacturers, stock-breeders and dairymen to persevere in their desires to plant diversified crops, make new labor-saving machinery, improve their herds and increase the products of their dairies, but for the future. The horse industry will also be benefited, and, as the dawning of a new era in this line is upon us, let us not forget the fact that under the all-wise patronage of the State this great industry assumed proportions second to no other in the Union. Breeders were encouraged to improve and develop all their horses and the world's marvelous records made by them have done more to advertise California, its wonderful climate and resources than all the Boards of Trade organized in this State. The district fairs were noted for their excellent exhibitions of cereals, fruit (fresh, green, dried and canned), agricultural implements, wagons, etc., manufactured in the district, products of the dairy, and specimens of needlework and drawing from the home and schoolroom. Everyone was interested, from the children driving home the cows, to the president of the local bank, and to deprive them all of this annual "fiesta" was almost a crime, for its effects are so serious that even now, when we take a retrospective view of the injury done by the absence of these fairs, we are compelled to admit that these communities (upon which the people in the cities depend for food and clothing,) have been the most down-trodden of all the taxpayers that annually make their pilgrimage to the city hall and pay so much more than all others for the privilege of being protected in this land of liberty.

We again urge upon our legislators not to turn a deaf ear to the appeals of these people for appropriations for district fairs. A large number have made big sacrifices to buy land, erect buildings at the fair grounds, and purchase choice live stock, having the idea in view that their district was one that could give good meetings, and that their stock would be worthy of receiving premiums. They subscribed additional sums of money to give meetings in 1895 and 1896 and have paid all bills contracted; they did not want to see their property destroyed, and many of them had to go deeper in debt to hold the property which, if no help is afforded them, must fall into the hands of their creditors. These farmers and stock breeders never had an idea that the premiums would be taken away from them when they organized to build these places, at which these annual exhibitions were to be held; if they had, we should never have seen any rivalry among our farmers to get the best and breed the best that money could buy, they would be in about the same condition as the farmers and stock breeders are in other States where appropriations are never made, and farming and stock-breeding interests are never heard of.

ATTENTION is called to the splendid list of advertisements which appear in this issue of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN. Its influence is felt everywhere, and advertisers who have availed themselves of the use of its columns are well pleased with their small investment.

The Bicycle Fad is Fading.

If one was to attend the large number of slaughter sales of bicycles in San Francisco the impression would at once prevail that the "bike has seen its best day." It has decreased in value, and many who paid high prices for wheels are willing to take seventy per cent less for them. More bicycle agencies have been closed out in this city than any other, and the class of females who are becoming enthusiastic riders is no credit to the respectable ladies who were advised by medical men and bicycle manufacturers to ride the wheel because it helped them, (especially the advisors), "But it's an ill wind that blows nobody good." We have to thank the bicyclists for their labors in behalf of good roads, but are sorry to see the older and more enthusiastic wheelmen retiring from the labors of "working their passage over the roads." Physicians have discovered that appendicitis, one of the most painful and fatal ailments that afflict mankind, is caused by too much riding on bicycles, and all the learned surgeons of the East are acknowledging this fact, notwithstanding the efforts of bicycle manufacturers and advertising writers to the contrary.

The very best bicycles cost about $21 to make, but the agents' commissions to sell them and the advertising to make them popular, brought their price up to $130, which the gullible public readily paid and wondered how the machine could be made for such a price. When the supply overstocked the market and the prices of these wheels dropped to sixty-five dollars, then, and not till then, did they realize they were imposed upon, and their love for the wheel grew cold.

The bicycle has its uses and will never disappear like the velocipede, but its popularity is rapidly waning, and many who have learned to appreciate the pleasure of visiting shaded roads and quiet thoroughfares, will soon be purchasing horses and buggies to take them where in the days gone by, they pedaled laboriously through the heat of summer to reach these out-of-the-way places.

Louisville's Big Stake Races.

The New Louisville Jockey Club, one of the most liberal and enterprising racing organizations in this country, has inaugurated a number of very rich and attractive stakes to be run for at the spring meeting of 1897, the conditions of which will be found in this issue. Entries to the various events close with Sec'y Chas. F. Price, one of the most popular racing officials in America, on January 15, 1897. The Debutante Stakes is for two-year-old fillies, value $1,300, distance four furlongs; the Cadet Stakes is for two-year-old colts and geldings, value $1,300, distance four and a half furlongs; the Kingston Stakes is for two-year-olds, $1,250, five furlongs; the Bluegrass Stakes is for three-year-olds that have not won a sweepstakes or two races prior to the closing, $1,300, six and a half furlongs; the Corneracker Stakes is a selling sweepstakes for three-year-olds, $1,300, seven furlongs, and the Frank Fehr Stakes is also a selling sweepstakes for three-year-olds, $1,300, one mile. At this meeting will also be run the Louisville Futurity, value $10,000; the Kentucky Derby, $6,000; Clark Stakes, $4,000, and Kentucky Oaks, $3,500. The average value of the stakes at the 1897 meeting is $3,130. All communications should be addressed to the Secretary, Charles F. Price, Louisville, Ky.

The New Memphis Jockey Club.

Everything in the racing line will boom in Tennessee this season, for that sterling organization "The New Memphis Jockey Club" has the right kind of a board of directors with George Arnold, as president, and R. T. Cooper, secretary. The splendid list of stakes which they advertise in this issue should receive a hearty support from many of the horse owners on this Coast, and as entries to these close January 15th, we wish to impress upon our readers the importance of forwarding those entries on or before that date. We have received a large supply of the blanks and will forward copies to all applicants, and shall place a number with our representatives at Ingleside from whom they may be obtained. We want to see Memphis have a rousing big meeting, and from personal experience have no hesitancy in saying that visiting horsemen and their friends will be well treated; and as for racing, why these stakes alone should prove a drawing card, but there will be programmes of each day's races published, which will afford opportunities for all owners to make money with their horses. The hotel accommodations at Memphis are unsurpassed, and everyone who intends to go East in April should not overlook this meeting at Memphis; but, before doing so, have all plans smoothed by entering horses in these stakes on or before January 15, for on that date entries will close.

St. Louis Fair Association.

What a splendid array of stakes are offered by this organization, entries for which will close January 15th. Seventeen, besides the St. Louis Derby for 1898, are advertised in this issue. The race meetings held at the far-famed St. Louis track are always considered superior to those given elsewhere, and as a number of Eastern horsemen who have big strings of horses at the Oakland and Ingleside tracks, contemplate returning home with them in April or May, it is of paramount importance that they have their good horses well entered for these stakes. They are designed to suit horses of all ages and are made for all distances. The conditions are very liberal, and Secretary Robert Aull, the favorite with everyone, writes: "You can tell all the Californians that we will give them a meeting which will be on a par with the best ever held at this track, and will try and have everyone feel reluctant to leave when the meeting ends." Remember entries will close January 15th. See advertisement.

Cincinnati Jockey Club.

Owners of thoroughbreds need have no excuse for not having plenty of opportunities for entering their horses throughout the United States in 1897. The Cincinnati Jockey Club publishes its announcement of stakes in this issue and it should be carefully read by every horseowner in California. A sufficient number of horses can be collected to fill a number of trains, and by this means low rates can be made with the railroad. When the trains leave the depot all who have not made entries for these eastern races will regret it, for the probabilities are there will be no running races held at any of the district fairs in California this year, and the winners at both tracks must remain idle unless their owners prepare their way to make money by having them well entered in stakes, like those given by the Cincinnati Jockey Club, and then sending their horses there. Read the list over carefully and send entries to Secretary W. R. Letcher, Room 303, Neave Building, Cincinnati, on or before January 15th the date of closing.

Coney Island Jockey Club.

This is the last notification horsemen will receive that entries to the Coney Island Jockey Club meeting (June and Autumn) will close, for on January 4th, next Monday, they must be forwarded to the Clerk of the Course, Fifth avenue and Twenty-second street, New York City. We have sent a large number of entry blanks to the leading horse owners in this State and have a number at Ingleside track, where our representatives will deliver them to all applicants. Remember this is the last notification. The advertisement in this issue should be read by all horse owners, and if they want to make money with their thoroughbreds this season they should attend to the forwarding of their entries at once.

SECRETARY E. C. HOPPER of Covington, Kentucky, is not going to be behind the procession, for in this issue appears the advertisement of the stakes offered by the Latonia Jockey Club, of which John C. Sherlock, is the president and Mr. Hopper is secretary. There are 17 stakes in all, and as they are to be decided at the spring and fall meetings of 1897, and the spring meeting of 1898, and as the entries for all are to close January 15th, it is almost unnecessary to allude to the importance of forwarding entries in time. Read the advertisement over carefully and make arrangements to send your horses to this splendid track. It is the oldest and safest in America.

If you have a good two-year-old, your duty is to enter it in stakes that will pay you for his training. The Pacific Coast Jockey Club has considered this matter carefully and in order to give you an opportunity to race your colts and fillies for big money, its directors have published a list of stakes in this issue which will pay you to enter. Entries will close January 15th, and the conditions being very liberal and the distances less than five furlongs, a most liberal response to this invitation should be sent in.

We have it on good authority that if we have district fairs in California, next year, there will be ten wealthy young men who will have strings of trotters and pacers out. They will purchase them in this State, too. Light harness horses that have speed will bring good prices, and as the market for all other horses except thoroughbreds is improving, our stock breeders, prospects are brightening.

WE are meeting with great success with our DAILY BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN. Its circulation is twice as large as it was last season, and its articles on racing and form make it invaluable for patrons of the race track.

THE attention of our readers is called to Mr. Peter C. Kellogg's announcement of the sale of William Corbitt's splendid horses. Further particulars of this sale will appear hereafter.

HARRY E. WISE, of this city, will be one of the leading owners of trotters and pacers in this State next season.

TOMMY BALLY's three-year-old filly Phyllis, by imp. Trade Wind—Daisy S., died recently on the Bowen ranch near Cornwall, Contra Costa County. She was a half-sister to Little Boh, and a fair performer. Bally, who has had charge of Charley Boots' yearlings at San Jose, will bring some of his own horses down from Sacramento to race at Ingleside at an early date. Tommy owns the youngsters by imp. Brutus owned by the Messrs. Boots are a very nice lot, and ought to be heard from as race horses.

IF you want a good road horse or a well-matched team of trotters or pacers call on J. M. Nelson at the Alameda track. He has a splendid collection to select from and they will be all driven to buggy under the watch.

EVERY horseman should have a copy of the Christmas number of Clark's Horse Review. It is one of the best ever issued and is filled from cover to cover with interesting articles pertaining to the horse.

JOHN A. McKERRON reports business brightening and is busily engaged filling a number of large orders. His customers are to be found in all portions of the globe. His work is famous.

Death of Old Freeland.

Freeland, one of the greatest thoroughbreds that ever was seen on the American turf, died Saturday at George Wright's farm in St. Louis County. Freeland was a bay gelding by Longfellow, the most illustrious son of Leamington, out of Belle Knight. He made Ed Corrigan's green and white sash famous on every big racecourse in the United States, and his winnings laid the foundation of Corrigan's successful career as a horseman. Freeland was 15 years old this year. After his turf career was over Corrigan presented the gelding to a friend in Kentucky with the understanding that he would be well taken care of in his last race.

Unfortunately a combination of circumstances resulted in the old gelding falling into the hands of an individual who had no respect for his age and past service. This party brought the great son of Longfellow to the East St. Louis track three years ago and attempted to race him there. Joe Ullman, however, refused to allow the old gelding to be started, and then Al Spink, who was arranging for the production of his racing drama, "The Derby Winner," stepped to the front and secured the horse as an attraction for his play. In this capacity Freeland was starred all over the country, and thousands who had witnessed many of his triumphs on the race track were afforded an opportunity to see him duplicate them on the stage.

Freeland, Modesty, Irish Pat and Pearl Jennings were all in the Corrigan stable at the same time. Isaac Murphy, the great colored Archer of the American turf, used to ride them, and every old-time turfite remembers their great victories. Freeland's great match races with Miss Woodford, when both were in their prime, caused as much excitement in the early '80s as a Presidential election. The old gelding beat the famous Dwyer mare in two out of three races. A $10,000 stake was hung up for them at the St. Louis fair grounds, but Freeland was unable to start, and the mare won the event from "Lucky" Baldwin's great horse Volante.

The Velodrome.

The cycling meets at the Velodrome (located at the Park pan handle entrance) continue to increase in public interest. The racing is of a high order and surprises in the development of cracker-jacks in the amateur class is a regular occurrence at each meet. The racing on Christmas Day was a series of remarkably fine exhibitions, interspersed at times with some intensely sensational situations.

The card for New Year's Day is a grand one. The novelty will be a game of Push Ball, its first introduction on the coast. On Saturday January 16th, the meet will be held for the benefit of the Northern California L. A. W., the proceeds to be used to pay expenses of coast delegates to the General Assembly at Albany, where they hope to procure favorable legislation for coast riders. The program will be first class.

MR. G. D. FLINN, a prominent horseman, Union Springs, N. Y., writes as follows: "I have used three or four bottles of Quinn's Ointment, and can say it is the greatest remedy I have ever seen. I had a mare that had a hunch on her hind leg that had not been blistered for three or four years and with three applications of Quinn's Ointment I have it perfectly smooth." This is the experience of the leading Breeder and Horseman all over the United States. For Curbs, Splints, Spavins, Windpuffs and all Bonches use Quinn's Ointment. Regular size $1.50, delivered; smaller size 50 cents. If it cannot be obtained from druggist or dealer, address, W. B. Eddy & Co., Whitehall, N. Y.

I had in my stable one of the worst cases of cracked and bleeding heels I ever saw. After applying DeHuy's Balmoline for five days my horse's heels were completely cured and the skin was soft as velvet.

WRITTEN FOR THE BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN.]

A Plain Talk on Horse Shoeing.

An experience of many years has convinced me that the average horse owner or driver is profoundly ignorant concerning the needs or requirements of his horse's feet. This ignorance is not confined to any particular locality nor to a single class of men having horses under their control. As a rule, the rich man with his blue-blooded stock is no wiser on this point than is the owner of the drag or cart horse, but he will look wise upon entering the shop with his horse, and at once begins to dictate to the shoer, who served an apprenticeship of years learning his trade, as to the proper manner of paring the foot, fitting the shoe and driving the nails. A horse shoer needs no such dictation. He need only be told the trouble, if any there be, with the horse's gait, and if he is a mechanic he will apply the proper remedy. Advice does not come amiss to the "hotch," but he should be patronized only under compulsion. The shoer is a specialist, and learns something new concerning his calling almost every day of his business life in the shop. The shoer of to-day, who clings to all the methods of twenty-five years ago, is a long way behind the procession. Within that time such great progress has been made that horse shoeing has become an art. A faulty gait or stride can be remedied, and in most cases radically cured if the horse is taken to a shoer who devotes careful thought and study to his trade, but improvement never comes to the horse whose feet are entrusted to the hutchering methods of a "hotch." I believe I make a fair estimate when I assert that nine-tenths of the horse owners of the world do not know that horse shoeing and blacksmithing are two distinct trades, and that to learn both a man must serve two distinct apprenticeships. In other words, nine out of ten men think the sign "Blacksmith" over a shop is an indication that there is a horse shoer within, but in the majority of cases they are mistaken. The man who "irons" a buggy, wagon or wheelbarrow, has his square, tri square, dividers, straight-edge and other tools, by which to be guided in his work, but it is not so with the horse shoer, who first prepares the hoof properly, carries in his eye a picture of that hoof from the horse to the anvil, and uses that picture as a pattern by which to do his work.

The term, "jack of all trades and master of none," applies very aptly to many who conduct blacksmith shops. I assert this fearlessly because I can name many who never served an hour's apprenticeship at the trade but gained their very limited experience while tinkering on a ranch or in a lumber camp. Six months at this and they are found with a sign in front of a shop in a town or city. They cannot compete successfully with mechanics. At a given price they would get little to do, and in order to get custom, will work for fifty per cent. less than the artisan, and to the shame of many horse owners he it said, they are patronized. A half-dollar reduction in the price of shoeing a horse catches the average horse owner. He will jump at it as does a hungry trout at the seductive artificial fly of the angler, and in the end is as badly worsted as the fish, for at the expiration of three months there is not a sound foot under that horse. In these days of hard paved streets, a mechanic's skill is required to keep the hoof of the horse in good condition, but a "hotch" can convert a sound hoof into a mass of corns, bruised heels and quarter and toe cracks in less than three months. It is being done daily, simply because horse owners patronize those who do cheap work.

My advice to all horse owners is, beware of the man who solicits work at a price less than that which you have been having it done. He who offers an inducement of that kind is not a mechanic. Cheap work is a synonym for poor work, done with poor material, and in the end is the most expensive. A horse, if worth shoeing at all, is worth being shod properly. Avoid the cheap shoer and you avoid the hotch. Take your horse to the mechanic who asks only a fair remuneration for his work and the results will always be satisfactory, because your horse will be ready to respond to every reasonable task imposed upon him.

Never say to a shoer, "I want you to drive bigger nails this time, the shoes staid on but three months the last time you shod him." The length of time a shoe stays on is not an evidence of the skill of the shoer.

Let this artisan be the judge of the size of nail to use. The "shell" of the hoof is often thicker and stronger on a small than on a large horse, and the shoer must use the nail best adapted to his work. Ten small nails will do less damage to a brittle hoof than seven large ones and hold equally as well. Don't growl if your shoer is a mechanic, when you see him driving the nails high in a brittle hoof. He does it to "get a hold" in the youngest part of the "shell," which is the toughest and strongest, or to reach above a bad place into which it is useless to drive a nail. The "shell" or "wall" of the hoof is of uniform thickness from the sole to within three quarters of an inch of the coronet and when nails are driven high in a brittle hoof the holes can be used a second time.

No horse should be allowed to wear his shoes over thirty days. The hoof grows, but the shoe does not, and at the end of thirty days, if the shoe is not worn out, the hoof has grown beyond its proper bearing, and should be re-set. Much of the trouble caused by corns is due to the shoe being allowed to remain on too long.

It does not follow that a shoer is trying to get his hand into your money drawer when he suggests that your horse should have a new set of shoes or the old ones reset. He advises you in your interest and for the welfare of the horse.

A NEW ORLEANS dispatch of December 22 was as follows: "There was some little excitement created at the Crescent City Jockey Club's course this morning when it was discovered that the crack light weight jockey, Tommy Powers, who was under contract with R. Bradley, had packed his grip during the night and left for parts unknown. George Mercherson, Bradley's agent, has also disappeared, and it is thought that he influenced the lad to run away from the Virginia horseman. The latter claims that the riding of young Powers of late has had a very suspicious look, and he was compelled to put up other jockeys in order to get a ride for his money. He thinks that the boy took this step out of revenge."

JOHN MIDDLETON, Louisville, Ky., has purchased of Gil-Curry the bay yearling colt First Call, by imp. Order, dam Ranette, by imp. Woodlands.

How They Were Bred.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN:—In answer to many inquiries which I am daily receiving on the subject, and particularly to the statement, recently made, that Altamont has only succeeded in producing extreme speed from a certain class of mares, I wish to give here the breeding of the dams of Altamont's 2:10 performers, and to follow the same with brief citations from the records of those families. Altamont's 2:10 list is as follows: Chehalis 2:07½, Tecora, by Cassius M. Clay Jr. 22 (Straders); Del Norte 2:08, Tecora, by Cassius M. Clay Jr. 22 (Straders); Ella T. 2:08½, Daisy Dean, unknown; Doc Sperry, 2:09, Kishar, by Young Kishar; Pathmont 2:09½, Sally M., by Oregon Pathfinder; Altao 2:09½, Sally M. by Oregon Pathfinder.

Strader's Clay was one of the great broodmare sires. He was foaled in 1853, kept most of his life in Kentucky, was quite a prolific horse; many of his mares had good dams, and were quite largely bred to Kentucky's choicest sires. Yet Chehalis and Del Norte are the fastest performers from his daughters.

Daisy Dean, dam of Ella T., is of unknown breeding, and without speed. All of her colts however showed some speed, in the neighborhood of a half-minute outside of 2:10. She was bred to Altamont but once.

Young Kishar was an Oregon bred son of Kishar 1273, son of Hambletonian 10. He is entirely unrepresented in the standard lists except through Doc Sperry.

Sally M. dam of Altao and Pathmont, produced six foals to one son and three grandsons of Hambletonian 10, and one foal to Noonday. Of these seven foals, Pasco has a pacing record of 2:41. She produced three foals to Altamont, and two of them are in the 2:10 list. Oregon Pathfinder, her sire was said to be by French Morrill. He has two representatives in the 2:30 list, and has attracted some attention through having sired the dam of Altao and Pathmont.

Visiting horsemen have almost invariably expressed surprise at the statement that Altamont has made no seasons except in Oregon and Washington. He has never yet served a mere outside of those States. JAY BEACH.

Riley Grannan's Case.

BROOKLYN N. Y., December 24.—Supreme Court Justice Osborne, in Brooklyn, reserved his decision this morning on a motion to make permanent the injunction against the New York Jockey Club Company and the Westchester Racing Association restraining them from ruling Riley Grannan, the plunger, off the track. Grannan was ruled off for giving a present of $500 to Jockey Fred Taral after a race. It is alleged he gave other presents.

General Tracey appeared for Grannan. He argued that under a section of the Civil Rights Act of 1895 racing associations had no right to rule any orderly person off the track. They have no right, either, he asserted, to make a rule preventing the making of presents.

Counsel for the association argued that they had the right to make any reasonable rules and enforce them to preserve order, regulate the sport or preserve its integrity. He contended that Grannan had violated the rules.

Distemper.

Distemper is a disease which is more fatal in highly-bred dogs, but no breed is exempt.

We must admit that distemper is due to a specific germ, and it is left to some enthusiastic student to isolate it, and the inference is that according to the symptoms presented we may trace the spreading bacteria to the different tissues where they excite local changes which are destructive to these tissues, and they cause the formation of ptomaines which poison the entire body and are responsible for the many formidable symptoms.

Treatment: The therapeutic fashions for the treatment of distemper may be divided into the following:

1. The depleting. 2. The supportive. 3. The expectant. 4. The antipyretic. 5. The antiseptic. The depleting method is still in vogue among many practitioners, I am sorry to say. Let it be known that disease means a weakened condition, and the man who uses this method is an ally of the invader.

The expectant method carried out vigorously means the let-alone treatment, and is preferable to the first, and in simple and uncomplicated isolated cases the margin in favor of this simple treatment is favorable.

But when we find ourselves in the midst of an epizootic where the casualties mount up to 30 and 40 per cent., vigorous remedial agents are imperative.

The antipyretic—This may be divided into those agents which abstract heat from the body as cold baths, and the local application of, and those drugs which stimulate the inhibitory heat nerve centers. The most commonly used of these drugs is quinine, but does not this drug tend to produce cerebral excitement when exhibited in doses sufficiently large to reduce temperature?

Moreover, why should we wish to reduce an ordinary distemper temperature? These drugs are only transitory in their antithermic influence, and some writers on these diseases in which the temperature rises to a considerable extent, go so far as to say that the rehrile temperature is in a sense conservative and restrictive to the development of the germs.

In distemper death never occurs from hyperthermia, but from complications, and the intense infection and poisonous action of the pathological microbe.

The antiseptic treatment seems the most rational, and calomel is a very important drug in this disease.

For many years poultices have been in great esteem by the profession and by the laity, and if the animal showed any signs of lung complications a poultice was forthwith applied, but there is no statistical evidence to show that a poultice accomplishes any actual benefit beyond alleviating pain.

As to counter-irritation, I can scarcely find words sufficiently strong to condemn this treatment. Now, I may ask, in distemper or pneumonia, if these diseases are due to microbic infection, what effect can such treatment have in eliminating or destroying these microbes? But it will very often have such a depressing effect on the patient that nervous symptoms will immediately develop; and as the dog is a highly nervous animal, any treatment which will tend to shock the nervous system must be guarded against.

The following I have used with some degree of success:

Acetanilid.....	grs. iii
Ammo chlor.....	gr. i
Sodae bicarb.....	gr. i
Caffeine cit.....	gr. ½

Repeated three or four times a day.

For the diarrhoea:

Bismuth sub-zal.....	grs. iii
Salol.....	grs. iii

Nux vomica to restrain respiratory and cardiac enervation, concentrated food of the most nourishing character, as beef tea and milk (boiled). Morphine to produce sleep if there is great restlessness.

For the purulent conjunctivitis:

Hydrastis sulph.....	grs. v
Acidi horic.....	grs. v
Wine of opium.....	dr. ½
Aqua distil.....	oz. i

I think one of the most important drugs in this disease is strychnine. It primarily raises the tone of the nervous system as a whole, and the respiratory nerves in particular. In this it not only increases the resistance of the viscera to disease, but it aids digestion, assimilation and blood-building. When a patient is presented with the pathognomonic signs of distemper, the first thing in order will be a dose of calomel 14 to 12 grain, soda bi-carb 2 to 5 grains every three hours until one or two grains of calomel have been taken, followed by a dose of Rochelle salts to thoroughly wash out the bowels.

It neutralizes toxins and prevents germ growth.

Then commence with your antiseptic line of treatment. Salicylate of soda two grains to ten grains three times a day, together with nux vomica tinct., two to five drops three or four times a day, increased to five to ten drops three or four times a day, and one dose of sulpho carbolate of zinc, one to two grains. This will prevent diarrhoea in a good many

No solid food should be given. Keep the eyes and nostrils clean with a watery solution of boracic acid. It is well to watch the howls and give from time to time small doses of calomel, which will also serve to keep the liver in order. It is well to continue the nux for some after convalescence has commenced.

Another good drug, especially for young dogs recovering from distemper, is Weld's syrup of iron diluted six or eight times, and give a teaspoonful three times a day.

In conclusion, I would say that within a few years, a method of treatment would be adopted, I would not say my own but on the lines of it, which would result in greatly reducing the mortality of distemper.—Dr. R. D. Plageman, D. V. S., in American Stock-keeper.

1896.

The past year has been the most progressive year in the history of dogdom in California. New shows have sprung up all over the State and an increased demand for all kinds of dogs is quite noticeable.

The greatest improvement in any breed is noticeable in St. Bernards with cocker spaniels a close second. The coming out of Grand Master, Ch Melrose and Victor Watch, the development of LePrince Jr., and the bringing out of such good hitches as Florence has materially improved our stock of the "Holy breed." There are several youngsters too that will make some of the older ones hustle for honors notably Reglov, Jr.

In cockers, Dandy, Viscount and many others have been brought from the east or raised here that are a great improvement over most of the old stock and the class as a whole is one that no show need be ashamed of.

Next the cocker comes the collie. This breed is making wonderful strides. St. Claire Laddie, Major Welton, Ruford Ailsa and Robin Hood are dogs that are simply classes ahead of the dogs shown in '92 and '93 and even '95, there were only one or two that were in the same class with them.

Great Danes are slowly but surely improving. The breeders of this variety are beginning to see that the heavy, cloddy, mastiff type cannot win when the graceful lighter built Dane of to-day is competing against them. Such dogs as Titan, Marjel, Juanita and Orchard Trilby are revolutionizing the breed.

Our greyhounds have taken mammoth strides during the past year. Our breeders were slow to acknowledge it, but they can dispute the fact no longer that Eastern blood has greatly improved the California greyhound. The blood of Greentick, Master McGrath and other noted English winners crossed upon our local stock is producing flyers, and the imported hounds are more than holding their own.

Our English bloodhounds are also slowly but surely coming to the front, mainly through the efforts of A. E. Culver, and this year will see a great increase in the number and a great improvement in the quality of these useful hounds.

Yorkshire terriers, too, are improving rapidly, the recent purchases of E. Attridge added to such stock as we already had in the hands of Mrs. Grace is bringing this popular toy to the front.

Fox terriers have much more than held their own. Such home bred ones as Golden Flash II, Golden Jewel and Pychley Vixen and such new comers as Dudley Stroller, Warren Sage, Dulcinea and others cannot fail to leave their stamp on their progeny, though it takes a good one to beat Blentom Reever as a stud dog.

Pointers and setters have not made very rapid strides, and but little new blood was infused in 1896, but the Glenheighs and Finglas's have produced young stock that no state need be ashamed of.

Pugs have gone back. Mastiffs ditto. Irish water spaniels and Chesapeake are the same old faces. Gordons ditto. Big black dogs are still called Newfoundland and little black ones over 28 pounds are still called field spaniels, but a real good specimen of either one has not been shown during the past year.

Bull terriers are coming forward with rapid strides. In 1891 or '92 when Mortimer put the whole class off the stage at the Wigwam without a mention, Twilight and Champion Little Nell were about the only ones in the State that could rightly be called bull terriers. Now Ch. Crisp, Harper Whiskey and the Adonis—Twilight stock make a very good showing. Still there is room for improvement.

Low Rates to Sacramento.

San Francisco, December 23, 1896.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN:—I have been negotiating with the passenger department of the S. P. Co. to make low rates on dogs sent from San Francisco, to the bench show at Sacramento, and to be transported on the river steamers, which leave foot of Market street daily at one P. M., the dogs to be accompanied by keepers or owners who are to pay their regular fare. I have received the following reply:

"We have your reply of the 19th inst., to our letter of the 15th, and beg to say that under the circumstances, we will modify our rate; offering you now one of 25 cents each way for each dog carried on our steamers under the conditions named in our former letter."

Yours very truly,

GEO. H. CROLEY.

DOINGS IN DOGDOM.

Miss Whitney will judge St. Bernards at New York again this year.

Geo. Raper won four champion prizes for his fox terriers at the last Edinburgh show.

The English papers state that George Raper has been invited to judge at New York again this year.

That good fox terrier Champion Reckon, by Champion Reckoner—Champion Rachel, has gone the way of all flesh.

D. J. Sinclair will take a small string of dogs to Sacramento and is open to engagements. L. L. Campbell will also take up a string.

O. J. Albee, the well-known collie breeder of Lawrence, Cal., is adding to his already large kennel an imported bitch said to be in whelp to a good dog.

The John Grace Cup promises to bring out a large entry on Feb. 22, as there is a purse of $400 to the winner. It is thought that no less than 20 Eastern dogs will compete.

The spring meeting of the Interstate Coursing Club will be held at Ingleside Coursing Park on Feb. 22d. The challenge cup for sappings is only eligible to puppies whelped on or after Feb. 1, 1896.

A well known sportsman who desires to have his name kept in the dark has donated a $100 challenge sapping cup to the Interstate Coursing Club. This cup will take the name of the puppy who first wins it.

James Taylor, reporter in chief for the English Stock-keeper, the gentleman who judged at New York two years ago, died at his home in England on December 5th, of pneumonia and blood poisoning.

Mrs. H. McCracken will show the well-known pointer bitch, Juno H., by Duke of Vernon—Champ Sally Brass II at Sacramento. Juno H. won 1st at Los Angeles, 1894, 1st Oakland, 1894, and 1st Stockton, 1899.

We have had several inquiries regarding the special gold medals offered at Stockton. Secretary C. E. Doan writes us that the special gold medals have been delivered to the parties who gave them and parties who won have been given an order on them.

The Butterflies bench show at Grand Rapids, Mich., was a big success. Mrs. Charles Fox is president, Miss Mahel Waters chairman of bench show committee, Miss Grace H. Griswold secretary, and Miss Ethelwyn Quimley treasurer. There were 312 entries. H. W. Lacy of the American Stockkeeper, judged all classes.

Fox terriers seem to be holding their own wonderfully well in Australia judging from the reports of shows held there. H. Moses, of the Glendon Fox Terrier Kennels, Ashfield, has just purchased Vainglorious, by Champion Venio—Vecaresco and Valasca, by Valuator—Varese, from Mr. Vicary of Newton Abbott, Eng.

The first drag hunt held in California took place at Burlingame last week. Ten couples of the thoroughbred English foxhounds recently brought from the East by Walter Hobart, followed the trail of the aniseed hag over eight and a half miles of hard-going country. The hounds worked well together, and pleased their new owner very much.

Messrs. Southworth & Mapes, of Stockton, Cal., are still adding to their kennel of fox terriers, their latest purchase being Clover Leaf Chino, by Dusky Trap, out of Clover Leaf Gladys. She is in whelp to Ford Venio, by Venio, out of Quentock Ford. It is the intention of these gentlemen to get together one of the best kennels on the coast, and judging by their purchases they will no doubt succeed.

J. B. Martin, of this city has sold to W. R. Lewis the fox terrier dog pup Golden Spark, by Warren Sage, out of Golden Jewel. This pup, with Golden Spray and other bitches that Mr. Lewis has in his kennel, constitute quite as good a collection of terriers as we have in any kennel on this coast. Mr. Lewis deserves great credit for his pluck and perseverance in advancing the breed on the Islands, and we hope that he will reap the reward that he richly deserves.

There died in this city last week at the ripe age of 84 years a pioneer of San Francisco, Ahe Warner; his place at North Beach commonly called the Cohew Palace, was the resort in earlier years for the children of this city. He had a splendid collection of curios and a number of animals of all species. He was one of our earlier dog fanciers, his specialty being terriers and pet dogs. He officiated as judge on one or two occasions, and as there was no kicking in those days, Ahe's reputation did not suffer in the estimation of the exhibitors.

J. H. Rossetter, of this city, and Louis Bartels, of Denver, have formed a partnership and will run their dogs East and West. Last Friday night A. P. Slocum, of Oaka, N. D., arrived in this city with the well-known local dogs Pocahontas, Wayfarer, Arapahoe and Santa Alicia, and the new purchases, Ben Hor, by Border Ruffian—Olicana; Brandon Belle, by Border Ruffian—Carmen; Bona, by Border Ruffian—Miss Lottie; B. B. & B., by Royal Express—Dear Sal; Mercy May, by Royal Crest—No Mercy, and Imported Bed of Stone, by Greentick, with five whelps. The most of these dogs will be run in the Interstate meeting of February 22 at Ingleside for the John Grace cup.

How to Aim.

The advice on shooting given in verse by the Rev. Abraham Markland, in 1727, may even now be read with interest if not with advantage:

Five gen'ral sorts of Flying marks there are:
The Lineal two, Traverse and Circular;
The Fifth oblique, which I may vainly teach;
But practice only perfectly can reach.

When a bird comes directly to your Face,
Contain your fire awhile, and let her pass,
Unless some Trees behind you change the case.

If so, a little space above her Head
Advance the Muzzle, and you strike her dead,
Ever let shot pursue, where there is room;
Marks hard before, thus easy will become.

But when the Bird flies from you in a Line,
With Little Care, I may pronounce her thine.
Observe the Rule before, and neatly raise
Your Piece, till there's no open Underspace
Betwixt the Object and the Silver Sight;
Then send away, and timely stop the Flight.

Th' unlucky Cross Mark, or the Traverse shoot,
By some thought easy, yet admits Dispute,
As the most common practice is to Fire
Before the Bird will nicest time require:
For, too much space allowed, the shot will fly
All innocent, and pass too nimbly by:
Too little space, the Partridge, swift as wind,
Will dart athwart, and hilk her death behind.
This makes the Point so difficult to guess,
'Cause you must be exact in time or miss.

For forty yards are more to th' left or right,
The Partridge then obliquely takes her Flight.
You've then the advantage of a sideling Line,
Be careful, nor her inward side decline,
Else just behind the Bird the shot will glance,
Nor have you any Hopes from Flying Chance.

Thus in the Mark which is still'd Circular,
There's nothing more required but steady Care
To allow the motion of the Bird, and gain
The best and farthest Lineal Point you can:
Carrying your Piece around, have Patience till
The Mark's at best extent; then fire and kill.

Field Sports For Women.

In writing this article I do not expect the members of my sex who may read it to follow my suggestions in every way. It is my object to tell those of my sex who are interested in field sports what, by years of experience, I have found best suited to myself. I well know that the rifle, gun or wheel that just suits me might be entirely unsuited for others; it might also be the same with dress, boots, etc.; that is something learned only by the best of all teachers—experience.

Until within the past few years many ladies were deterred from going into the field, because they did not consider it proper to wear a short dress, and yet knew very well it was impossible to go with any comfort in a long one. The advent of the bicycle, however, has done much to overcome this, and now ladies can be seen on the most crowded streets of our largest cities wearing dresses short enough to get through any brush or briars where man can. Do not think I am advocating all such costumes, for, to my notion, there is nothing so dateable as a bloomer costume; but nearly any of the natty skirts, knickerbocker and gaiter suits worn by ladies for wheeling will serve as a shooting dress if made of good material.

Now to return to shooting and dresses for the same. As for myself, I always dress warm in cold weather and cool in warm, making it a point to always wear heavy broad-soled boots or shoes and particularly to keep my feet dry. Above all, pay no attention to the shooting costumes you see advertised in fashion plates and papers. I have seen such suits in which I doubt very much if the wearer could stoop, let alone wheel and shoot.

Assuming you have settled on the matter of dress and wish to begin shooting, I would suggest, commence by using a light .22 caliber rifle. Do not use a loaded rifle at first, but with the unloaded rifle practice aiming at some mark. Great care should be taken to keep from pointing the muzzle at yourself or any one else. After you have learned to handle your rifle with care, have some friend, who is an adept, show you how to shoot it. Having mastered the rifle, you have the key to all shooting, and it will not take you long to learn the use of a shotgun.

When I began shooting I had many things to contend with that are unknown to the beginner of today. First, my parents, who were strict Quakers, forbade my shooting or even having a gun in the house. Then the gun itself! It makes me smile when I look at my high grade hammerless gun and then think of the old muzzleloading musket bored out to shoot shot, which, when new, might have cost $3, but as my brother traded a "coon dog" for it, I never knew its money value. That gun and a long Kentucky rifle were my only fire arms, but as game was plentiful, I managed to use them successfully. I suppose it was because I knew of nothing better, and like thousands of persons today, thought I had the best fire arms.

For a lady's gun I would recommend either a five-pound 20 gauge, or a six and a half pound 12 gauge; the right barrel cylinder and left choke; a hammerless, of course, and

No. 1 grade if your means will allow it. Use a light charge at first. Many ladies have been discouraged at the first trial by a heavily loaded gun, often handed them by some friend, who, no doubt, meant well, but did not know the proper way to instruct a lady in shooting.

A word here as to the handling of your shotgun may not come amiss: Never consider a gun safe because the safety catch is on. I have known them to jar off, and for that reason I have them either removed or fixed fast. I consider the safety catch useless; many field and trap shots have discarded them.

Before putting shells into your gun, look through the barrel. Sometimes a wad may be turned edge down in a carelessly loaded shell. When that shell is fired, the wad may remain in the barrel, and, if so, will probably cause a bursted gun, if no worse.

Now that you have mastered your rifle and shotgun, you should insist on accompanying your father, husband or brother on their shooting trips whenever possible to do so.

I will endeavor to answer a question often asked me, but which I never before answered in print: Why is it that more ladies do not shoot at the traps? According to my way of thinking, it is because they have had little if any inducement to do so. There are only a few shooting grounds I know of where any provision is made for lady visitors; besides a majority of the club grounds have barrooms attached, and very often part of the small clubhouse is used for the sale of beer and liquors.

If you are ready to begin trap shooting, adopt the most easy and natural position. When I commenced at the traps no one thought of gluing the gun to the shoulder while waiting for bird or target to leave the trap, and I have never yet done so.

If I were learning now, and undecided which position to adopt, I will frankly say, although I have always made it a rule to be original in everything, I would copy from Captain Money, Harvey McMurchy, Edgar G. Murphy, of this country, or Henry Journu of France. These four men, in my opinion, have the most natural, easy and graceful positions of any I have ever seen. I remember the first time I saw Captain Money shoot at the London Gun Club. Unconsciously I applauded him, although he missed his bird.

In conclusion I will say that in writing this letter I do not mean that a woman should neglect her home duties; that is farthest from my intention. But there is a time for work and rest, and you know the old saying about all work and no play, etc.—Annie Oakley in Shooting and Fishing.

The Yellowstone Park in 1896.

The last report of Capt. Geo. S. Anderson, the acting superintendent of the Yellowstone National Park, gives a very clear idea of the condition of things in the Park during the past summer. Captain Anderson has not been in charge of the Park for more than five years, during which time he has managed its affairs with remarkable discretion and judgment. For a number of years his efforts were to a great extent baffled by the failure of Congress to enact any legislation to protect the Park, but since the passage of the act of 1894 his task has been easier, though this passage came almost too late to save the buffalo.

The travel to the Park each year is very small in proportion to the number of persons who might naturally be expected to visit it, and the increase in this travel from year to year is very small. Of those who go there by far the greater number are "campers," or persons who travel with their own or hired outfits, and do not patronize the hotels, but camp along the road when night overtakes them. Many of these are ranchers or farmers from the neighboring country. The light travel of the past summer is attributed in part to the financial depression and in part to the political campaign.

There are two manifest causes for the neglect of the National Park. One is the expense connected with a trip there, which in view of the distance at which the Park lies from thickly-settled regions is considerable; the other is the ignorance which prevails—even among well-informed people—of the wonders of the Park and the comfort with which it can be seen. This ignorance must account for the failure to go thither of people who visit Europe each year by hordes, and who at a less expense of time, trouble and money could see, here in their own country, wonders far exceeding in beauty and interest anything in Europe. The American people are said to be quick to grasp new ideas, but their appreciation of the attractions of the Yellowstone Park has been slow.

The summer of 1895 was the driest known there for a long time. By July the grass was completely dried up, and it was feared that destructive fires might occur. The unceasing vigilance of the patrols, however, and the constant watching and warning of camping parties, prevented any serious fires. In a few cases, campers who had been careless about extinguishing their fires were arrested, brought before the United States Commissioner, tried and sentenced, and the effect of this on others was most excellent. This year the rainfall has been greater than usual, and no important fires occurred. The United States Forestry Commission visited the Park and requested the superintendent to inform them as to his method of preventing forest fires. This he did.

But one plant of fish has been made in the Park within the year. It consisted of 1,000 rainbow trout, which reached there in December, when the thermometer was near zero, and there was deep snow on the roads over which they were transported. They were deposited in De Lacy Creek, from which they would naturally make their way into the deep waters of Shoshone Lake. The lake trout placed in that body of water in 1889-90 have thrived and are abundant, as are also the brook trout put in Shoshone Creek two years ago. Nothing has been seen of the black bass planted there, although they were looked for last July. But as the plant numbered only 500, and they were distributed over five large lakes, the failure to find them proves nothing. All the streams stocked by United States Fish Commissioner McDonald are now full of fish, their abundance being very great. Capt. Anderson, however, wisely suggests that there ought to be a size limit fixed, and suggests six inches as a minimum length.

The story of the destruction of buffalo this year by Henry's Lake poachers, is told here at length. Although Courtenay was acquitted, his prosecution had an excellent effect, as the trial was so expensive to Courtenay that neither he nor his neighbors care to run the risk of another. The fines of $50 each imposed on four men convicted of killing elk in the two-mile strip north of the Wyoming line also had a very good effect on the lawless element in Montana. It is gratifying to learn that the authorities in Wyoming and Montana now appear desirous of co-operating with the superintendent of the Park in the matter of game protection. In Idaho nothing has been done, though the high officials of the State have promised to secure the passage of proper laws.

Except the bison, game of all kinds seems to be increasing in the Park. Elk are extremely abundant. Deer wander through the military post, often passing close to the men who are at their work. As usual, mountain sheep and antelope winter on Mt. Everts, and their numbers are increasing. With the protection of other animals there has been a great increase in the number of the carnivores, such as the bears and coyotes, as earlier stated in these columns. The coyotes especially have become so numerous that Captain Anderson has caused some of them to be destroyed by the Government scout. Little is known of the few remaining buffalo in the Park, though individuals and tracks accounting for about thirty specimens have been seen during the summer.

At the request of Captain Anderson the War Department detailed an officer of the Corps of Engineers to the work of surveying and marking the boundaries of the Park, and this is now being done. Capt. Anderson recommends the appropriation of at least $100,000 per year until the road system that he has laid out is completed, and the continuance of this appropriation until the roads shall have been macadamized; the extension of the military post at the Hot Springs to accommodate another company, and the completing of the survey and marking of the boundaries of the Park. All these matters are of prime importance, and the superintendent's recommendations ought to be favorably acted upon.—Forest and Stream.

An Encounter with a Bear.

A prospector named Anderson, who is working on a claim near the Tom O'Shanter group of mines, fought a terrific battle with a large black bear the other day, the story of which is told by the Ashcroft correspondent of the Aspen (Colo.) Tribune. Anderson came out victor, but it was a painful victory and he will bear some of the marks of the engagement to the grave.

Anderson started out early in the afternoon with a dog and Winchester rifle to hunt, bear tracks having been reported within a few miles of the mines. He and the dog picked up the tracks and trailed them for about three miles, when they became fresher and the dog bayed the fact that he had the scent. The snow was quite deep and Anderson plunged through, taking little or no precaution to see where he was going. He was suddenly arrested by a bowl of pain from the dog, and looked up only to be confronted by an enormous bear that had swatted the canine one and sent it howling towards its master. The bear squatted on its haunches waiting for Anderson to open the fight.

The man recovered from his astonishment quickly, and raising his rifle fired at random and started to retreat. In doing so his foot caught in some brush and he fell. Bruin, hit and maddened at the pain, was over the prostrate man in an instant, and then came a life-and-death struggle. Man and bear rolled over and over. The dog proved a valuable ally to Anderson, and worried Bruin considerably by biting his hind legs. So aggravating did the dog become that the bear turned its attention from the man to its tormentor. It was a fatal movement for the bear, as it gave Anderson an opportunity to get out a hunting-knife he carried, and when Bruin turned again the man closed in with the animal and buried the knife in its breast. Bruin fell dead and Anderson dropped exhausted. The man's clothing was literally torn from him and hung in shreds. His face, head, body, hands, arms and legs were terribly lacerated, and it will be several weeks before he will hunt bears again. The bear weighed 220 pounds.

Short Barrels.

Whilst out on the East coast after wild fowl last week, says Dunbird in Shooting Times, I had an opportunity of learning a wrinkle, viz., the immense advantage of using a short-barrelled gun for fighting on the marshes where ducks come to pitch in the flocks to feed. My own gun is an excellent one for day shooting, but makes much too close a pattern for night work, as the birds are seldom more than 15 to 20 yards from you. The gun in question, which had been lent me, had barrels about two feet long, less if any thing, I should say; they looked almost cylinders, but might have been slightly recess chucked; anyhow, they make a perfect pattern at 20 yards on the water. I wonder some gun-maker has not made a speciality of a handy weapon of this sort for flight shooting; the wonderful quickness in the handling will at once be understood by a practical sportsman.

The Field Trial Tournament.

The Bakersfield Gun Club will give an open to all tournament at live birds and blue rocks on the day following the close of the field trials at Bakersfield. J. S. Fanning will manage the shoot. This is a new departure for the well-known agent of "Gold Dust" but with Jack's experience east and west he should make the ablest manager that we ever had.

The Bakersfield boys are noted for their hospitality, and we hope that the gentlemen who attend the trials will make arrangements to stay over another day and take in the shoot.

A New Kind of Bear.

A species of bear, new to science, has been found among the glaciers of Mount Elias, Alaska. It is called the blue or glacier bear by hunters, and has been designated as Ursus Emmonsii, after Lieutenant Emmons, the discoverer, by naturalists. It is a handsome bear, the fur resembling that of a silver fox, having a bluish-black pelt with white hairs. The sides of the head are a lovely tan colour. The claws are small, sharp, and black, and evidently adapted for climbing trees.

CARTRIDGE AND SHELL.

Frank Vernon bagged 19 ducks at Point Reyes last Sunday.

Thos. O'Donnell was at Antioch Sunday and reports birds very scarce on Sherman Island.

C. A. Haight, the popular agent of the Du Pont Co., spent New Years at San Juan among the quail.

E. Kleyesahl and Wm. Murdock killed about a dozen big birds at their ark last Saturday and Sunday.

Peter McCrae killed 92 spoonbills and sprig at Mt. Eden last Sunday and Al Newman 52 at Alvarado.

W. J. Hynes and Geo. Franzen shot at Goodyears last Sunday but brought home their bag in their pockets.

C. Cate killed 11 mallards and 2 canvasback at Mowry Sunday and J. H. Potter bagged 15 birds, mostly sprig.

Donald McCrae and a dozen or more other hunters were at Point Reyes Sunday, but ducks did not come their way.

Dr. Davis bagged a good mess at the Teal Club last Sunday but birds were none too plentiful on the Suisun marshes.

Nearly 500 ducks came up on the Santa Cruz line last Sunday night from Newark, Mt. Eden, Alvarado, Mowry's and the Bridges.

The duck hunters at Alvarado and Mt. Eden were very successful last Sunday, but those who shot on the Sonoma marsh fared very poorly.

G. G. Billington bagged about a dozen mallard and teal and 15 quail at Sears Point last Sunday, but the majority of the Empires and Lincolns got scarcely a feather.

The Olympic Gun Club will give a grand game dinner at the club house, 1309 Van Ness avenue, on the evening of January 26th, the game to be provided by members of the club.

The U. M. C. Co. have removed to 425 and 427 Market street. Ask for their new 38 calibre police cartridge recently adopted by the New York police. It has much greater penetration than the old style 38 and is a much superior cartridge for the Colt revolver.

The Mallard Clubs ark has followed the "Crystal Palace" down Cordelia slough and the members of the Teal, Cordelia, Ibis and Tulle Belle Clubs can shoot in peace as far as they are concerned. The next fight will be in the Legislature and with the Board of Supervisors of Solano county.

The blue rock clubs are already beginning to plan the coming campaign. The Lincoln Gun Club will meet next Friday night and determine the season's programme. They will shoot on the third Sunday, as usual, and some of the members are talking of a shoot on the first Sunday of each month as well.

The State Board of Examiners met on December 28 and recommended that $287,000 be appropriated for the payment of the coyote scalp claims and that the Attorney-General be requested to draw up a bill providing for such investigation into the legality of the claims presented for payment as may be deemed necessary.

LATE KENNEL NOTES.

The San Diego Show.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN:—We have just concluded the second annual exhibition of the San Diego County Poultry and Pet Stock Association, of which I hasten to give you a report. Although the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN has no poultry department, yet I want to say a few words in regard to the exhibition of fowls and pigeons. It truly

"astounded the natives" even, for it is seldom indeed that in a county poultry exhibition such a magnificent display of fine poultry is seen as was shown this year by the association and it must have been highly gratifying to the local exhibitors to hear the expressions of wonder and admiration as their fowls and pigeons were viewed and examined by the numerous Eastern visitors who are here spending the winter months, and who visited the exhibition. I can best illustrate the general feeling of visitors by quoting the words of Mr. John C. Winder late of St. Paul Minn. now Pres. S. D. Brewing Co., on viewing Mr. S. L. Roberts pen of light Brahmas.

Mr. Winder said: "Well I've seen poultry shows from Maine to Minnesota but I never saw as fine a display of chickens in my life. You San Diego people ought to feel proud of San Diego's poultry. Its truly wonderful."

There are over 300 entries of fowls and nearly 200 pigeon entries. Mr. E. J. Woodward of Merle having the largest display consisting of Fantails and Pouters.

Mr. Jesse Allen of Los Angeles took 7 firsts and 3 specials on Fans, Pouters, Jacobins and parlor Tumblers. Mr. S. S. Tyler took ten prizes on Trumpeters, Fans, magpies, swallows, owls and dragons. The pigeon department excited a great deal of admiration, as there was not a poor bird shown.

Owing to an epidemic of laryngitis among our canine friends the entries in the dog department were comparatively few as compared with last year, but the quality of the dogs shown more than made up the deficiency in numbers.

There was not an entry in the miscellaneous class and not a poor dog shown, some of the finest blood in the world being represented, from St. Bernards to pugs.

Mr. John C. Wunders' magnificent St. Bernard pup, Turkish Pasha, whose sire took first in open class at the Columbian Exposition, attracted a great deal of attention not only on account of his great size but his beauty of coat, coloring and disposition.

Mrs. Olive Chambers' kennel of cocker spaniels, consisting of Piedmont Belle (Woodland Duke 29323—Jessie M. 30184), Oaksie Queen 40586 (Black Rock—Reta), Judie Chambers (Woodland Duke—Jessie M.), Little Duke (same), and Little Baron (Holy Smoke—Oaksie Queen) and Gladys Noble (Stamboul—Nita G.), a Llewellyn setter pup, attracted more attention than any kennel shown, as the little beauties were in fine feather. The cockers were all shown in one kennel and presented a beautiful sight. Mrs. Chambers has acquired her kennel during the past year, and the lady can well feel proud of them, comprising as they do, some of the best cocker spaniel blood procurable. Mrs. Chambers took four 1st and one 2d prize out of her five entries. She also took 1st on best decorated kennel.

In the pointer class, Mr. Geo. F. Ruble took 1st and special on Bang fr., a grand specimen of heavy-weight pointer.

Frank S. Ecker, our popular gunsmith, came to the front again this year, with his beautiful little bitch Fannie E., winning an easy 1st against Countess V. 2d, and Lady Audley, 3d. In the puppy class Countess Glenbeigh (Glenbeigh ex Jill), owned by T. B. Dodson, made a good showing, but was handicapped by being shown against an eleven months old bitch, owned by Mr. McGee of Encinitas. The Glenbeigh strain is too well known to comment on, but the little lady is barely six months old, and of course does not show her breeding, as she will later on.

The English setter class was well represented with Mr. Kissig's two dogs, Frank and Fritz, in the lead, and Mrs. Copley's beautiful Nita Gladstone 1st in the open bitch class.

The Colorado Strain predominated in Irish setters, Ad Pearson's Rex taking 1st in both open and puppy class. He promises well in the field. Lady Woodward took 1st in bitch class against hot company, her two daughters, Queen W. and Nellie W. taking 1st and 2d in puppy class against Belle Swiveler and one other, same strain.

The decision of C. A. Lond as Judge gave universal satisfaction which of itself is something remarkable in a bench show but the Captain has been too long in the business not to know how to handle a crowd so as to keep every one in good humor, whether his dog wins or not. There is considerable talk of organizing a Kennel Club here and joining the American Kennel Club thereby making our bench show next year recognizable everywhere.

Already about twenty-five names have been secured and I hope the near future will see San Diego county equipped with a first class Kennel Club with a membership away up in the hundreds. The following is a summary of the awards. There were about $100 worth of specials offered in Kennel departments.

Pacific Kennel Club.

The Pacific Kennel Club will hold a meeting at the Occidental Hotel on Wednesday evening next to determine whether the club shall disband or continue. If it is decided to continue, a bench show committee will be elected. Every member of the club who is interested in its welfare will be present.

Our Dogs says that A H Moore has just succeeded in an action for libel brought against Mr W H Jones, of Leek. The libel was contained in an objection that Mr Jones lodged at the Rudyard Show, at which both were exhibitors, against Mr. Moore's collie bitch Leek Countess, on the ground of wrong pedigree. In addition to the objection in question, Mr Jones had circulated defamatory reports as to the alleged wrong pedigree, by which, Mr Moore contended he has suffered in his reputation as an exhibitor, breeder and judge. The charges were proved to be unfounded, and the High Court awarded Mr Moore £100 damages and costs.

The Pacific Advisory Board of the American Kennel Club now consists of the following delegates: Portland Kennel Club, J. W. Keene; Alameda County Sportsman's Association, W. L. Prather Jr; Stockton Kennel Club, Dr. A. C. Davenport; Southern California Kennel Club, H. T. Payne; Seattle Kennel Club, J. G. Barker; Pacific Kennel Club, T. J. Watson; St. Bernard Club of California, F. Frey; Pacific Fox Terrier Club, Dr. F. W. D'Evelyn.

At the meeting of the Advisory Board held last Tuesday evening it was decided not to interfere with the dates chosen by the Sacramento Bench Show committee. The Board will meet again on next Tuesday evening and act upon the protest on the bull terrier Harper Whisker shown at Stockton.

On and after January 9th we will print in our regular advertising columns prepaid classified Kennel and Gun advertisements of fifty words or less at the following rates: One week, 50 cents; one month, $1.25; three months, $3.50; one year, $10.

ALTAMONT is the champion sire of 2:10 performers, being the only horse living or dead with six to his credit. He has taken a leading position among the foremost trotting sires of the country under such conditions that phenomenal ability alone has saved him from oblivion. A very small proportion of his progeny has been trained, and an extremely small number of these by competent men. As a partial illustration of his meagre advantages, it may be stated that he has never produced a colt from a pacing-bred mare, or from one with a fast record. Nor has he ever yet been crossed with a descendant of George Wilkes, Electioneer, Dictator, Sidney or Dexter Prince. Oregon and Washington have produced seven 2:10 performers, and EVERY ONE of these are ALTAMONTS.

ALTAMONT is a horse of iron constitution, and at twenty-two years of age is in the full vigor of his prime, a sure foot-setter, and, except for his blindness—the result of an accident—is without blemish. He has never sired a sorrel, all of his colts having been solid colors—bays, browns or blacks. He is now located in Alameda, at Herbert's Stables, on Sherman street, between Santa Clara and Central avenues. Alameda local S. P. and Narrow Gauge trains from San Francisco, stop within two blocks of stable, and Oakland and Alameda electric cars, half a block away. Residence two doors from stable.

INGLESIDE RACES.

High-Class Sport at the Pacific Jockey Club's Track—The Events Carefully Described.

THIRTIETH DAY—WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 30.

Six races were run off this afternoon over a track deep in soft, yielding mud, before a crowd of fully 3,500. It was Ladies' Day, and the fair sex turned out pretty nearly as they usually do, notwithstanding the threatening character of the weather. Schiller, a 7 to 20 shot, won the first in a gallop, with 50 to 1 shot Earl Cochran in the place, Wyoming third. The second went to "Lucky" Baldwin's Estaca, 7 to 1 for all you wanted, with another 7 to 1 shot, Arrezzo, in the place and 1 to 2 favorite Greyhurst (who grew very tired in the homestretch) third. Red Glenn (3 to 1) took the mile and a sixteenth handicap easily, Hermanita second, a small margin before Cabrillo. Snowdown, reputed to be a good timber-topper, was one, and won the mile and a sixteenth hurdle with quite a bit of space, with the Southern California gelding, Brilliant, in the place and Fred Gardner third. Salvable, favorite, won the fifth by a nose from Walter J. through a superior article of ride put up by Willie Martin, who can do some beautiful pigskin work when he tries real hard. The last race went to Morte Fonse, second choice. Beautifully ridden by Barringer, he won by a scant head from favorite Can't Dance, Foremost a fair third.

The festivities were opened with a mile race. Schiller was a red-hot odds-on favorite. Wyoming and Earl Cochran ran in close order until nearly the homestretch, Schiller over two lengths away, under a pull. When he was given his head near the three-quarter pole he shot up to the pace-makers, winning in a gallop by two lengths, Earl Cochran second, a length before Wyoming. Installator did not appear to like the going. Schiller was at 7 to 20 at the close (opened at 1 to 2). Earl Cochran 50, Wyoming 6, Installator 9, St. Aignon 20 and Miss Cunningham 200 to 1.

In the second, seven furlongs, for two-year-olds, Greyhurst and Horatio went out and led the bunch by several lengths past the quarter and half. Estaca closed up going from the half to the three quarters, and after some humping in the homestretch, between the odds-on favorite and Horatio, Estaca drew clear. Arrezzo came fast at the end, but could not catch Estaca, who won by a scant length ridden out. Arrezzo, second, beat Greyhurst six lengths for place. Time, 1:31½. Estaca was at 7 to 1, Arrezzo 7, Greyhurst 11 to 20, Horatio 6, Ingelside 30, Philip H. and Modestia (coupled) 60 to 1.

A mile and a sixteenth handicap brought six to the post. To a poor start, in which Hermanita fell to her knees and Wawona swerved into Adolph Spreckels, knocking him out. Cabrillo and Red Glenn ran close together to the homestretch, with Hermanita third after a quarter had been traversed. Red Glenn was galloping in the stretch, and won with ease by three lengths, Hermanita coming up and heating Cabrillo out a head for the place. Time, 1:54. Wawona and Adolph Spreckels ran away back in this race, though there was some excuse for both. Red Glenn (coupled with Yankee Doodle) was at 3 to 1, Hermanita 3½, Cabrillo 5, Wawona 4 and Adolph Spreckels 4 (7 at one time).

There were many "good things" in the mile and a sixteenth jump, which followed. Snowdown, the favorite, led by over a length at the first two fences, then Broad Billow and Brilliant came up close. He outjumped his rivals at the third fence and was not thereafter headed, winning hard-held by three parts of a length from the fast-coming Brilliant, who beat Fred Gardner ten lengths. Fi Fi fell at the last jump. The time was 2:05. Snowdown was at even (played from 7 to 5), Brilliant 25 to 1, Fred Gardner 9, Broad Billow 2½ (played from 12), Malo Diablo 5 and Fi Fi 15 (39 once).

The fourth race, six and one-half furlongs, was a hot one. Wernberg broke far quicker than the others, and was three lengths to the good in the first sixteenth, Salvable running up second, Walter J. heading a bunch. At the half Wernberg and Salvable were head and head, Walter J. two lengths away and going easily. He closed up fast going to the homestretch, and as they swung around was leading nearly a length, with Salvable second, lapped by Wernberg. There was a desperate drive down the homestretch, Willie Martin doing his prettiest and landing Salvable a winner by a nose, Walter J. second, four lengths before Wernberg. Time, 1:24½. Salvable was at 8 to 5, Walter J. 4 (backed from 8), Wernberg 3 (opened at 2), Toano 7 (backed down from 12), Major Cook 15 and Palmerston (who was left) 30 to 1.

The concluding race was at one and one-fourth miles. Gov. Budd led Can't Dance about half a length for three furlongs, then Can't Dance passed to the fore, leading by two lengths at the half-mile ground, Foremost second, lapped by Gov. Budd, Morte Fonse in the center of the track, well up. Can't Dance led Foremost about a length at the last turn, Morte Fonse a couple of lengths further away and hugging the inner rails. There was a bunching up half-way down the homestretch, but a sixteenth from home Morte Fonse had a neck lead of Can't Dance. In a desperate drive Morte Fonse, beautifully ridden by Barringer, won by the shortest of heads, Can't Dance second, four lengths before Foremost, who was eight or ten before Navy Blue. Time, 2:15. Morte Fonse was at 2 to 1, Can't Dance 9 to 10, Foremost 6 to 1, Navy Blue and Gov. Budd 25 to 1 each.

THIRTY-FIRST DAY—THURSDAY, DECEMBER 31.

This was California Oaks day, and a crowd of over 3,000 was out to see the running for the $2,500 stake and four purses. The race was one that will long linger in Memory's halls, for it was won by a California-bred filly by the margin of an aristocratic nose, another Golden State miss second, and still another third. There were representatives in this event of Kentucky, New Jersey and England, and the result was therefore all the more pleasing to Californians and her well-wishers. The winner, Argentina, was bred by E. J. Baldwin, the lucky old millionaires, at his far-famed Santa Anita rancho in beautiful San Gabriel Valley, near the city of Los Angeles. She is by Gano (son of Grinstead), from Dollie L., by Ten Broeck. The filly nosed out was George Rose's Torsina, daughter of Torso and Bergin W., by imp. Leamington, while the third animal in the race, Summertime, was by Fitz James, dam Springlike. The race was won through the superior finish put up by Sam Doggett, who also rode the heavily-weighted filly in musterly style throughout. The track was very heavy—perhaps five and a half seconds slow to the mile—and the mudlarks had their innings.

In the first race, seven furlongs, Hazel D., Petrarch, Gallant was the order past the half. Gallant soon thereafter shot by the pair, led into the homestretch by four lengths, and won easily by three from the fast-coming San Marco, who was six from Petrarch. Time, 1:32½. Gallant was at 3 to 2 (9 to 5 once), San Marco 13 to 5 (backed from 3½), Petrarch 14 to 5, Boreas 10, McFarlane 30, others 100 to 1.

The second was also at seven furlongs. Flashlight and Frank K., ran close together past the quarter, with Potentate third. At the half it was Frank K. and Flashlight heads apart, two lengths before Potentate. Frank K. led by a length when they straightened away in the homestretch and Willie Martin took things so easy that Flashlight, coming again, was beaten but a head at the finish, Monita (who tried to run out the last furlong) third, half a dozen lengths away. Potentate was a poor fourth. Time, 1:33½. Frank K. was at 6 to 5 (backed from 13 to 5), Flashlight 6 to 1, Monita 8, Potentate 2, The Bachelor 100 and Dinero 300 to 1.

The first California Oaks, $2,500, of which $2,000 to the winner, $350 to second, came next. Seven fillyes went to the post. Argentina delayed the start for about ten minutes, and finally the barrier went up to a good send-off. Miss Brummel took the lead in the first sixteenth, and was three lengths to the good at the quarter pole. Summertime and Torsina close together, then a bunch behind. At the half Miss Brummel's lead had been cut materially, Summertime and Torsina being close upon her, Argentina fourth, in the good going. Summertime now drew away, leading by a length three furlongs from home, with Torsina second, Argentina next and coming very fast. Torsina showed half a length in front as they made the final turn. Argentina joined her, however, when something over a sixteenth from home, and in a grueling finish, Doggett riding a superb race on the the Baldwin filly, Argentina landed first by a nose, Torsina second, one and a half lengths before Summertime. Sweet Faverdale was a poor fourth. Time, 2:01½. Argentina was at 5 to 1, Torsina 11 to 5, Summertime 3 to 1, Sweet Faverdale 3½, Lucille 25, Miss Brummel 30, Camelia 50 to 1.

A five-furlong race for two-year-olds came next, and ten went to the post. Mercutio, after acting badly, got away first, on the fly, and led by two lengths past the half. Casper soon thereafter joined him, and drawing ahead, led by two and one-half lengths turning for home, Mercutio second, with Sweet William at his heels, coming fast. Casper won by five lengths, swinging, Sweet William second, a length before Mercutio, who swerved in the stretch, Roy Carruthers but a nose further away. Time, 1:05. Casper was at 7 to 20, Sweet William 5 to 1, Mercutio 60, The Sinner 10, Roy Carruthers 12, others 40 to 200 to 1.

The last race was at a mile and a sixteenth. Benamela took command when a furlong had been traversed, led past the quarter and half by two lengths, with Hazard second and La Mascota third. Morte Fonse began moving up fast when three furlongs from home. Benamela led at the last turn by about a length, Hazard next and Morte Fonse third. The latter said good-bye to Benamela between the eighth and sixteenth poles, and kept going nicely by Thorpe, won handily by two lengths, Benamela second, five from La Mascota, who beat Hazard half a length. Time 1:52½. Morte Fonse was at 3 (played from 4), Benamela 11 5, La Mascotto a, 16 to 5, Hazard 3, Japonica 10 and Huntsman 40 to 1.

THIRTY-SECOND DAY—FRIDAY, JANUARY 1.

It looked very much as if all the people with an ounce of sporting blood in their veins attended the races at fair Ingleside yesterday. A conservative estimate on the crowd was 9,000. The largest magnet was the running for the Shreve Cup, $700 and a $550 cup going to the owner of the winner. Aquinas was a torrid favorite from soda to hoc and backed for thousands by the owner and his legion of friends. Old Lucky Dog, the biggest race horse in training in the country, imagined himself the two-year-old Lucky Dog, and the result was that he spreadeagled his field and won in a cantab, by G—, sah, his nearest opponent, stable companion St. Lee, eight lengths away, then Aquinas and Mt. McGregor closely bunched. Had the Dog been by himself in the betting he would have been about a 25 to 1 shot, but he was coupled with St. Lee. Lucky Dog was timed by scores of folks the first half in 0:45½ and six furlongs in 1:14½. Favorites were successful in the other five events, and thus the gentleman won and the gambler lost on the afternoon's day.

In the first, six furlongs, Hazel D., led by a length past the half. Libertine second, lapped by Yankee Doodle. Libertine soon thereafter shot to the front, and led at the final turn by two lengths, with Yankee Doodle second and Hazel D. next. Libertine galloped down the homestretch, and when Yankee Doodle drew up fairly close, drew away again and won with ease by 2½ lengths, Yankee Doodle second, as far from Lady Diamond. Time, 1:16½. Libertine was at even money (backed from 6 to 5), Lady Diamond 9 to 5 (opened at 6 to 5), Yankee Doodle 4½, others 100 to 200 to 1.

A mile race brought six to the post. Off to a fair start for all but Joe K., Therese set the pace, leading Perseus half a length at the quarter. Going to the next quarter Earl Cochran was rushed along into the lead, being about three parts of a length in front at the half, Therese and Perseus close together. Soon after this Tod Sloan began sending Perseus along, and he led into the homestretch by a length, Earl Cochran and Peter the Second on nearly even terms. The latter took second place half-way down, and made a bold bid for the place, but Perseus always had the foot of it, and won handily by a head, Peter the Second three lengths before Earl Cochran. Time, 1:45. Perseus was at 9 to 10 (opened at even), Peter 11 4 to 1, Earl Cochran 5½, Adolph Spreckels 5, Joe K. 40, and Therese 100 to 1.

The third event, a six furlong selling race, had nine starters. They were away to a good start after Peril had cut up considerably. Peril rushed to the point, leading Castanette four lengths at the half, Arapahoe lapped on Carmel's sister. Moylan was last when they had gone a furlong, but he moved up second in the next quarter. Peril led by two lengths at the final turn, Moylen next, a head before Arapahoe, Moylan assumed command half way down the homestretch and won cleverly by a head from Arapahoe, who beat fast coming Petrarch a head, Peril a nose further away. Time 1:17. Moylen was at 7 to 10 (4 to 5 for come time), Arapahoe 2½ to 1, Petrarch 25, Peril 8, others 20 to 100 to 1.

The Shreve & Co. Cup, one mile, guaranteed worth $1,000 by the club, Shreve & Co. to give a cup valued at $500, brought nine to the post. To a good start Lucky Dog went away from his field as if they were tied up, leading Capt. Skedance and Cahrllo by eight lengths at the quarter, and Aquinas ten at the half, Mt. McGregor right with Schreiber's colt. The Dog turned for home eight lengths to the good and won swinging by six lengths, St. Lee coming up from fifth place and beating Aquinas out a neck for the place, Mt. McGregor fourth, but a nose behind Aquinas. Time, 1:43. The Hildreth horses thus ran one-two in the state, The Hildreth pair were at 3½ to 1, Aquinas 8 to 5, Mt. McGregor 6½, Ruinart 7, Lohengula 10, Cebriello 20, Capt. Skedance 30 and Ostler Joe 50 to 1.

A seven-furlong selling race for three-year-olds was next. Greyhurst and George Palmer ran heads past the quarter, Arrezzo third. At the half Palmer, Arrezzo and Greyhurst were heads apart. Greyhurst by a head at the last turn and won cleverly by that distance from George Palmer, who was a scant length from Arrezzo. Time, 1:31½. Greyhurst was at 6 to 5 (backed from 3 to 5), George Palmer 12 to 1, Arrezzo 8 to 5, Nonchalance 4½, others 50 to 100. Nonchalance ran an unaccountably bad race, showing little or no speed. Greyhurst's was a very sudden reversal of form, and it was the talk of the track what marked improvement he had shown in two days' time.

The last event was a mile and a furlong affair with six starters. Minnie Cee set a rattling pace, leading by four lengths at the quarter pole, and three lengths at the half, Little Cripple second, a couple of lengths before Red Glenn, the favorite. Minnie Cee had an attack of "the slows" when three furlongs from home, and Red Glenn assuming a slight lead at the head of the homestretch, won easily by a length, Little Cripple second, a dozen lengths before Minnie Cee, who was three from Foremost. Time, 1:59½. Red Glenn was at 1 to 2, Little Cripple 2½ to 1, Minnie Cee 150, Artions (who served at the start and was soon out of the hunt) 8, Tenacity 12 and Foremost 50 to 1.

THIRTY-THIRD DAY—SATURDAY, JANUARY 2.

The first, one mile, had eight starters. After some bad acting had been indulged in by Grady, Simitar, Roy Caruthers and Rey del Bendidos, they went away to a good start. Flashlight assumed a decided lead nearing the quarter, with Miss Brummel second and Ruinart third. At the half it was Flashlight first by over a length, Ruinart second, lapped by Miss Brummel. Flashlight was caught when they were a little less than a furlong from home, Ruinart winning easily by three lengths, Flashlight second, four from Merry Monarch, who was last at the half-pole. Time, 1:45. Ruinart was at even money (6 to 5 for a while), Flashlight 15 to 1, Merry Monarch 4, Rey del Baudidos 5, others 15 to 30 to 1.

A seven-furlong race for three-year-olds came next. Casper and M. Clignot raced head and head to the half, then Casper drew away slightly, leading at the three-quarter pole by half a length, Estaca second now, Good Times another length away and coming up fast. The latter had Casper in difficulties half-way down the homestretch, and coming on strong, won cleverly by half a length, Casper coming again and beating Estaca a scant neck for place. Time, 1:31. Good Times was at 4 to 1, Casper 3 to 5, Estaca 5 to 1, Rey del Tierra 15 and M. Clignot 200 to 1.

A six-furlong handicap next occupied the attention of the race-going folks. Zamar dashed into the lead at the raising of the barrier, and at the half was about three lengths to the good, Peril second, a neck before Pat Murphy. Zamar was two lengths to the good at the head of the homestretch, Peril second, two lengths from Pat Murphy, who was coming fast. In the homestretch it was Zamar first a length, Pat Murphy second, two from Peril. Zamar was allowed to loaf along until a sixteenth from home, when Slaughter gave him his head and he won with ease by two lengths, Pat Murphy second, a good head from Peril, who beat Santa Bella a head. Time, 1:16½. Zamar was at 7 to 5 (17 to 10 once), Pat Murphy 8, Peril 12, Santa Bella 4½ (opened at 2½), Sir Play 4½, Trappean and William Pinkerton 15 to 1.

In the mile and a half hurdle event Haymarket fell at the second fence with Willie Spence. Brilliant secured a commanding lead, and held it for a mile and a furlong, when Gov. Budd, second, moved to the fore, and not headed, won easily by four lengths, Bedford second, six before Esperance. Time, 2:56. Gov. Budd was at 9 to 10 (7 to 5 once), Bedford 6, Esperance 12, Fred Gardner 10, Haymarket 3½, and Brilliant 25.

In the fifth a poor start was effected, Palmerston being left at the post, while Alvarado might just as well have been. Shield Bearer led Salvale a length to the half. Nearing the three-quarter pole Salvale shot up to the leader, and simply galloping, Willie Martin looking around in the homestretch, Salvale won by half a length, Olive second, half a length before Shield Bearer. Time, 1:17. Salvale was at 13 to 20, Olive 20, Shield Bearer 20, Alvarado 11 to 5, Palmerston 20 and George Rose 100 to 1.

A mile and a sixteenth race wound up a great day's sport. Doctor G. went right to the fore, and led Benamela a length past the half, Thornhill a head further away. Thornhill's white face showed in front making the final turn, Gellent and Morte Fosse well up. The riders of the three did their prettiest all the way down the homestretch, Thorpe heading and helping Morte Fosse along, "Skeets" Martin in his riding of Gallant reminding one a good deal of "Snapper" Garrison. The outcome was in doubt cleared up to the last jump, and at the finish the judges were unable to separate Morte Fosse and Gallant, making it a dead heat between the pair, with Thornhill third a scant half-length away, three lengths before Benamela. Time, 1:52½. The owners decided to divide the purse, both horses being put up at auction, Morte Fosse was at 3½ to 1, Gallant 3½, Thornhill 2½ (backed from 4), Benamela 3 and Doctor G. 6 (8 at one time).

THIRTY-FOURTH DAY—MONDAY, JANUARY 4.

In the first, six furlongs, selling, Joe K. led by a small margin past the half-pole, Broad Billow second, Therese well up. The latter soon thereafter assumed the lead, and not headed, won easily by a good length from the fast-coming Ahi P., who was three from Fleetwood. Time, 1:18½. Therese was at 2 to 1, Ahi P. 6, Fleetwood 26, Henry Grattan 11 to 5 (3 once), Jake Rauer 8, others 25 to 60 to 1.

The second race was at six furlongs. To a start in which the odds-on favorite, Applause, was good as left, Woodchopper dashed into the lead. He was half a length at the half, Bomhazette second and Carrie U. third. At the head of the homestretch it was Woodchopper first by one and a half lengths, Carrie U. second, Brametta next. Carrie U. stopped the last eighth, and Woodchopper won by six lengths with ease, Brametta second, half a length before Applause, who made up more than twenty lengths. Time, 1:17½. Woodchopper was at 3 to 1, Brametta 20, Applause 7 to 10 (played down from even), Bomhazette 8, others 20 to 800 to 1. Applause would almost surely have won with a good send-off, but she wheeled as the barrier went up.

In the third, five and one-half furlongs, they were sent away to a fair start, Bellicoso showing first momentarily. Casper was half a length in front at the half, Bellicoso second, with Zamar at his heels, under a terrible pull. At the three-quarter pole it was Casper first by a neck, Bellicoso still over a length from Zamar, who was on the outside. Slaughter took it altogether to easy on Zamar, not letting him down until within a sixteenth from home. The result was that he failed to get up, Casper winning by a head, Zamar, second, half a length before Bellicoso. Time, 1:09½. Zamar should have won off by two or three lengths. Casper was at 8 to 1, Zamar 13 to 20, Bellicoso 2 to 1, Blue Bell and Herold Lindsay 200.

A mile and a furlong hurdle race next occupied the attention of the people. Three Forks led by three lengths past the quarter, imp. Autonomy second. Three Forks was first at the half by three lengths and into the homestretch by two, Cendor second, five lengths before Malo Diahlo. Three Forks outjumped his opponents at the last fence and won off by ten lengths, Cendor second, a length before Malo Diahlo. Time, 2:04½. Artemus fell at the last jump with W. Clancy, who was not injured. Three Forks was at 7 to 10 (even money once), Cendor 4, Malo Diahlo 75, Mr. Reel and Artemus 10, Brilliant 12 (hecked from 30), Idaho Chief 50 and imp. Autonomy 75.

In the seven-furlong dash, which came next, Libertine went out to the front, and though Walter J. rushed up close in the first quarter, the old Leonatus horse drew away again, leading by about a length at the half, Cabrillo second, a neck before Torsina. At the three-quarter pole it was Libertine first by one and a half lengths, Cabrillo and Torsina close together. Libertine drew away the last furlong and won at will by three lengths, Cabrillo second, a length before Petrarch, who beat the quitting Torsina about three lengths. Time, 1:29½. Libertine was at 4 to 5 (played from even money), Cabrillo 2½ (3 once), Petrarch 100, Torsina 4 and Walter J. 50 to 1.

The last race was at a mile and a sixteenth. Off to an excellent start, Addie Buchanan's neck showed in front at the quarter, with Judge Denny second, Rey del Tierra at his heels. At the half it was Judge Denny and Buchanan, close together, Rey del Tierra one and one-half lengths away, Kamsin last of all. By the time the final turn was negotiated Rey del Tierra was leading a length, and holding on to the finish, won with a little hand-riding by half a length from Peter the Second, who managed to beat Kamsin a nose for the place. Time, 1:49½. Rey del Tierra was at 8 to 1 (15 all over the ring at one time), Peter the Second 8, Kamsin 4 to 1, Judge Denny 11 to 5 and Addie Buchanan 20 to 1.

THIRTY-FIFTH DAY—TUESDAY, JANUARY 5.

A six-furlong race opened up the day's sport. Banjo, Perhaps and Pecksniff ran in close order past the half, the favorite, Meadow Lark, being absolutely last. At the head of the homestretch Pecksniff, Perhaps and Banjo were close together, Scimitar next and coming fast, as was Meadow Lark, hugging the inner rails. Scimitar appeared to have the race won when a sixteenth from home, but Eddie Jones kept hard at work on Meadow Lark, outriding H. Martin and lending Brutus' son a winner by a good head, Pecksniff third, four lengths behind Scimitar and a head before Examiner. Time, 1:17. Meadow Lark was at 9 to 10 (11 to 10 once), Scimitar 6, Pecksniff 10, Banjo 9, others 12 to 20 to 1.

The second event was a seven-furlong handicap for three-year-olds. Good Times led Estaca by a small margin past the quarter and half, with Miss Beker third. At the three-quarter pole it was Estaca first by a head, Good Times second, two lengths from Miss Baker. Good Times came away in the homestretch and won with ease from the punched-out Estaca, who beat Miss Baker two lengths for place. Time, 1:30½. Good Times was at 3 to 2, Estaca 3 to 1, Miss Beker 3½, Personne 5 and M. Clignot 25 to 1.

A mile race brought nine to the post. Bright Phoebus kicked Preston while at the post. The barrier finally went up to a good start for all but Bright Phoebus, who was left. Preston showed first, Schiller second, then Miss Brummel and Alvarado. At the quarter Rosebud led by a length, Miss Brummel, Yankee Doodle and Alvarado head and head. At the half it was Yankee Doodle, Rosebud and Alvarado, close together. At the head of the homestretch Doodle was leading by a head, Alvarado second, two lengths from Satsuma, who had worked his way from the rear. Schiller, too, had greatly improved his position, and coming on very strong, caught the leaders in the last few yards and won cleverly by half a length, Alvarado second, a scant head before Yankee Doodle, Preston fourth, four lengths away. Time, 1:42. Schiller was at 11 to 5, Alvarado 15 to 1, Yankee Doodle 5, Preston 6 to 5, others 20 to 50.

A six-furlong race came fourth. Fly was left. Potentate went right out in the lead, being five lengths in front of Miss Ross at the half and three into the homestretch. Miss Ross passed Potentate over a sixteenth from home, but Thorpe brought the son of Hayden Edwards up strong at the end, winning by a neck, Miss Ross second, ten lengths before Bramette, who just heat Olive a nose for the show. One of Miss Olive's stirrups broke when about a sixteenth from home, and Barringer did exceedingly well to hold on, let alone come as close to winning as he did. He lost his balance when she had run a little over a sixteenth past the finish. The time was 1:14½. Potentate was at 3½ to 1, Miss Ross 50, Brametta 20, Olive 4 to 5, Joan 6, Sen Marco 9, Fly 5 (hecked from 25), and Miss Cunningham 200. Potentate's race was in marked contrast to his previous one. Hed Fly gotten away, however, Potentate might not have won.

In the seven-furlong race, fifth on the programme, they all got away fairly except Toano, who was left. Two Cheers, Favory and Daylight ran in close order past the half, Benamela at their heels, apparently in a pocket. Hegot through as they neared the three-quarter pole, however, and led by half a length into the homestretch, Two Cheers second, lapped by Mohalaska. Mohalaska challenged Benamela when a little over a sixteenth from home, but could not quite get up, Benamela winning by a scant length, Mohalaska second, two lengths before the long shot, O'Fleta. Time, 1:29½. Benamela was at 9 to 5, Mohalaska 2 to 1, O'Fleta 150, Toano 3½, others 12 to 25.

The concluding race was at one mile and an eighth, and some very high-class horses were entered. 'Ostler Joe and St. Lee ran in close order past the quarter and half poles, with Captive at their heels. St. Lee showed a head in front at the final turn, 'Ostler Joe second, lapped by Argentina. 'Ostler Joe looked a winner half way down the homestretch, but H. Martin brought St. Lee up with a rush, as did Isom, on Captive. A most exciting finish resulted, St. Lee, Captive, 'Ostler Joe and Argentina finishing heads apart as named. Time, 1:55½. St. Lee was at 11 to 5, Captive 11 to 10, 'Ostler Joe 10 to 1, Argentina 3 and Monita 60 to 1.

THIRTY-SIXTH DAY—WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 6.

Thirteen maiden three-year-olds came together in the first race, five furlongs. The Sinner led from start to finish and won galloping by five lengths, Racine being second throughout and beating Modestia a length for place at the finish. Cogent wound up fourth and Harold Lindsey fifth. Time, 1:03½. The Sinner was at 16 to 5, Racine 9 to 10, Modestia 20, Tryst 8, others 12 to 50 to 1.

Four or five acted very badly in the second, and finally the barrier went up to a straggling send-off, Toano in front, then Moylen and Yemen. Toano led by three lengths at the half, Yemen second, a neck before Moylan. At the three-quarters Toano was two lengths to the good, Moylan second; half a length before Yemen. Toano ran toward the inner rails when half-way down the homestretch, keeping Yemen from coming through and repeatedly bumping the latter. Moylen got to the front a sixteenth from home and won by two lengths, Toano beating Yemen as far. The judges rightly disqualified Toano, placing Yemen second and Coda third. Time, 1:15½. Moylan was at even money, Yemen 3 to 1, Coda 60, Toano 7, Walter J. 4, others 20 to 300 to 1.

A mile and a sixteenth handicap brought seven to the post. To a good start Installator, Grady and Doctor G. ran in close order past the stand. At the quarter it was Doctor G., Installator and Libertine, saddle skirts apart. Then Libertine sailed to fore, leading by a length past the half, Installator, Doctor G., and Cahrllo heads apart. Libertine had increased his head to two lengths going to the three-quarter pole, Cahrllo, Installator and Lobengula heads apart. They hunched up in the final furlong, and in a hard-driving finish Libertine won by a scant length, Installator second, two lengths before Lobengula, who was three from Cahrllo. Time, 1:48½. Libertine was at 11 to 10, Installator 5 to 1, Lobengula 3½, Cahrllo 7, others 15 to 30.

In the mile and a quarter hurdle race Malo Diahlo led over the first two fences, then Fred Gardner sailed to the fore. Three furlongs from home Cendor took command, and led by over a length to the last jump, where she "propped," Owens going up on her neck, but gently holding on. Hello, fairly well up, made a great rush at the end, passing Gov. Budd a sixteenth from home and winning by a length from Mr. Reel, also coming fast, he a length before Gov. Budd. Time, 2:20½. Hello was at 4 (backed down from 5½ the last moment), Mr. Reel 15, Gov. Budd 8 to 5, Cendor 2, Malo Diahlo 7, Fred Gardner 20 and Idaho Chief 60 to 1.

A second mile race followed. To a good start for all but Veragna, Greyhurst soon got to the front, leading Viking a head at the quarter and one and a half lengths at the half, where Rey del Tierra and Frank K. were well up, the latter on the outside. Frank K. shot up close to Greyhurst nearing the three-quarter pole. In the homestretch Greyhurst and Frank K. were close together, but when a sixteenth from home Frank K. had a commanding lead, and he won by one and a half lengths handily, beautifully ridden by Willie Martin. Morte Fosse came strong at the finish, and was second, three lengths before Greyhurst, who beat Rey del Tierra half a length. Time, 1:42½. Frank K. was at 4 to 1 (backed from 4½), Morte Fosse 10, Greyhurst 11 to 10 (3 to 2 once), Rey del Tierra 13 to 5, others 50 to 300.

In the last race, six-furlongs, Blue Bell was first to show, and she led Sport McAllister and Sly by a small margin past the half. At the three-quarter pole it was Sport McAllister first by a length, Blue Bell second, a head before Fortunete. Sport even drew away in the homestretch, winning easily by two and one-half lengths, Arapahoe coming up strong and beating Sly half a length for the place, Santa Bella another length away. She had been pocketed until it was too late to get up. Time, 1:15½. Sport McAllister was at 5 to 1, Arapahoe 3, Sly 5, Santa Bella even money (backed from 3 to 5), others 15 to 100 to 1.

TWENTY-SEVENTH DAY—THURSDAY, JANUARY 7.

In the first, seven furlongs, for three-year-olds, Jim Blackburn cut out a hot pace, leading by two lengths at the quarter and half, Arrezzo and George Palmer head and head at the latter place. Blackburn just had a head advantage at the three-quarter pole, Arrezzo being second, two lengths from Palmer. Arrezzo soon thereafter assumed the lead, and though Palmer ran gamely, Arrezzo won by a scant neck, Palmer second, five lengths before Philip H., who beat Jim Blackburn half a length. Time, 1:30. Arrezzo was at 7 to 10, George Palmer 3 to 2, Philip H. 100, Jim Blackburn 5 (backed from 12).

The second race was at seven furlongs, for four-year-olds and upward, and had nine starters. To a good start Joan went to the front, and retaining her advantage to the wire, won in rather easy style by two lengths from Jack Richelien, who just beat Boreas a nose for the place. Time, 1:31½. Joan was 9 to 2, Jack Richelien 5 to 1, and Boreas 5 to 1.

The third race was a condition affair at six furlongs, and five faced the barrier. Starter Hevey seat the field away at the first break away to a beautiful start. Slaughter, on Zamar 11, took his mount to the front and raced up the backstretch with a couple of lengths of daylight between his mount and Yankee Doodle. In the meantime Eddie Jones had got Howard S. into his stride, and the son of imp. Whistle Jacket began closing up the gap between him and the winner. Tod Sloan on Yankee Doodle waited until Howard S. was on even terms with his mount and then started to move up. When the trio were straightened for home Zamar had about two lengths the best of Yankee Doodle, who had hot a head the better of Howard S. In a hot drive through the stretch, Yankee Doodle, beautifully ridden by Tod Sloan, came on and won by a length from the driving Zamar, who lasted just long enough to beat Howard S. a head for the place. Arapahoe was fourth, ten lengths back. Time, 1:14½. Yankee Doodle was 2 to 1, Zamar 7 to 5 and Howard S. 3 to 1.

The fourth race was at seven furlongs, with beaten allowances, and had eight starters. Lady Diamond carried the bulk of the public's money, while Flashlight came in for strong support from a coterie of knowing ones. Flashlight went to the front, to a good start, accompanied by Minnie Ces, who showed momentarily in front at the half-mile grounds, then Flashlight again took up the running and opening up a gap, he won pulling up by six lengths from Lady Diamond, who had to be ridden out to beat Lovdal for the place. Minnie Cee, who got an excellent ride, was fourth, but a head further back. Flashlight closed at 2 to 1, Lady Diamond at 7 to 5, and Lovdal at 6 to 1.

The fifth race on the card was a selling event at one mile, and five sported silk. Salvaha was a "sizzling" favorite throughout and he justified the confidence of his backers by winning all the way. Kamsin, under the whip, was second a length away from the Salvador colt and threa in front of Judge Denny, who nipped Can't Dance a head for the place. Salvaha went to the post with 2 to 5 chalked opposite his name. Kamsin was at three, while Judge Denny was quoted at twelves.

Tha last race of the day was a conditioned affair for three-year-olds and upward at a mile and a quarter, and it resulted in a "bit of a dump" for the talent. Both Salisbury and Peter of the two eyes were heavily played but the winner turned up in Ed Corrigan's Longfellow colt, Adolph Spreckels, who, beautifully ridden by Willie Martin, made his run as exactly the right moment and won in a drive from Peter II by half a length. Tha Boots entry was ten lengths in front of Earl Cochran who was a like distance before Tom Elmore. Salisbury II the presumed good thing was last. Spreckels was at 5 to 2, Peter II 8 to 5 and Earl Cochran 20 to 1 in the closing betting.

The Pool Rooms Are Abolished.

The San Francisco Board of Supervisors crushed out the respectable dens about town where young men and boys have been gambling away their own and their employers' money by finally passing the poolroom ordinance Saturday.

When the board placed the stamp of its approval on the measure a few weeks ago and decided that the bucket-shops must go out of business, it was supposed that Mayor Sutro as a matter of course, would sign it at once, inasmuch as it was desired by the business community, as well as by the better element of sporting men, who attend horserace meetings more for the pleasure of seeing a well-contested race than for the betting that is a usual accompaniment.

The retiring chief executive, however, held the ordinance thall full time permitted by law and then sent it back to the board without his signature, thus informing the board that he did not approve of the measure.

It was understood at the time the members heard that the order was to be vetoed that the Mayor's course would not be sustained, and yesterday's proceedings carried out this view. The board met in the morning and passed the ordinance to print over the veto.

In the afternoon when the measure had been printed in the official newspaper as required by law the board met again and by a unanimous vote finally declared the ordinance a necessary one, and made it a municipal law.

Mayor Sutro's motives in vetoing the order have been severely commented on by those who recognize the demoralizing influences of the pool-selling dens. It is freely said that his only reason is because the railroad which he chooses to consider his ancient enemy has two lines of road running to the racetrack where many of the patrons of the track will go now that the poolrooms are to be closed.

These dens have brought more or less odium on the horse racing and raising interests that have brought capital and enterprise to this coast, and the mercantile community will feel heartily glad that they are not to be permitted to flourish.

Messenger boys, errand boys, clerks and others, who have neither time nor money to spare, were permitted to gamble, while the odds posted in these deadfalls, the sharks who lived off their earnings or pilfering accepting wagers down to a twobit piece in their eagerness to keep up their nefarious business.

The genuine sporting men, who go to races to see a spirited contest, never lowered themselves to enter the dens, and they as well as the rest of the community will say, "Good riddance to bad rubbish."—Call

Death of Craig Miller.

News of the death of the stallion Craig Miller reaches us from Hungary. This well-known son of Blair Athol and Miss Roland was foaled in 1872, and was bred by his owner, Mr. W. Stirling Crawford, for whom, with T. Chaloner on his back, he won the St. Leger of 1875, beating Prince Soltykoff's Balfe by three lengths, the pair being followed home by Mr. H. Saville's Earl of Dartrey and ten others. As a two-year-old Craig Miller won three out of the six races in which he took part, his first success being in the Molecomb Stakes at Goodwood, when he upset the odds of 5 to 2 which were laid on Capt. Mitchell's Telescope, the latter not completing the course. Craig Miller's other two-year-old victories were in the Buckenham Stakes at the Newmarket market First October Meeting and a Foal Stakes during the Houghton meeting. The following season he won only one little race in addition to his Leger victory, and ran unplaced to Camballo for the Two Thousand, and second to Galopin for the Newmarket Derby, Balfe, as in the Leger, being next to Craig Miller in this event. With his Doncaster laurels still thick upon him Craig Miller was purchased by Count Ivan Szapary for the Kiser Stud, where it was thought he would be a worthy successor to Buccaneer and Cambuscan. This idea was borne out, as far as regards his first season, his stock gaining for him a reputation as a sire which he maintained for five or six years. After that, we are informed, his get showed marked and increasing deterioration, until at last breeders refused to send their mares to him. Failing to attract subscriptions, Craig Miller eventually quitted the Kiser Stud and sank into obscurity as a sire of half-breds.—London Sportsman, Nov. 28.

SPECIAL DEPARTMENT

EDITED AND CONDUCTED SOLELY BY

JOSEPH CAIRN SIMPSON.

THE OTHER SIDE OF THE QUESTION.—That a person who has little knowledge of law, so little that acts, statutes, precedents etc., outside of those which bear on racing—arise as "sealed books," should criticize the decision of a judge of a Supreme Court, would seem to indicate a vast amount of what is vulgarly called "cheek." And yet as law has been termed the "quintessence of reason," the reverse of the proposition must also be true, and when law is contrary to reason it is not good law.

It is not an exact science like mathematics, and very frequently the big guns of the craft, even those of the greatest calibre, disagree as to what is and what is not the proper construction of statutes and especially interpretations of the provisions of constitutions State and Federal.

The horse folk of the whole country are involved in the late decision made by the Supreme Court of Missouri. If wrong it must be righted by an appeal to the higher tribunal; if correct then those who are so vitally interested must either submit to racing of all kinds being practically interdicted or take such measures as will protect the large interests at stake. But it strikes me that the position of the Missouri justice is not tenable, and with all deference to the opinion of one whose business it is to decide such questions there are reasons which will justify a layman in an opposite view. The following is copied from the Spirit of the Times, the only one I have seen which gives the reasons advanced to sustain the decision.

Judge Sherwood declares the law unconstitutional and the defendant discharged. He says it is in direct conflict with Section 53 of Article VI. of the State Constitution, in that it is a special law. That it is such a law is demonstrated by the fact that it takes bookmakers, pool-sellers and lot mongers as a class, and divides them into two portions, one of which assembles "on the premises or within the limits or inclosure of a regular race-course," and renders that portion immune from punishment, while another portion of the same genus bookmaker, pool-seller and lot monger, who pursues his avocation immediately outside of the sacred precincts of a regular race-course, is doomed for doing the very same things, to fine or imprisonment.

Judge Sherwood says in conclusion: "If such an act as that being discussed can stand the test of judicial scrutiny, then the above recited provisions of Section 53, relative to the prohibition against granting by special law and special or exclusive right, privilege or immunity, will have deemed ordained in vain. Nay, more, if such legislation as that he presented could be sanctioned, then it would be an easy legislative task to provide for the punishment of robbery, arson, murder, indeed, the whole category of crimes, with a proviso that nothing in this act shall be so construed as to prohibit or make it unlawful for any person to burn or murder 'on the premises or within the limits of a regular race-track.'"

And the fact that the present statute only creates a certain misdemeanor and provides punishment thereof and exemption therefrom does not affect the principles here announced and involved nor enlarge the powers of the Legislature in this behalf. In a word it is quite beyond the powers of the Legislature to enact even a general law for the punishment of a crime all over the State and then make the same criminal act non-punishable if perpetrated in certain favored localities.

"Nor can the act in question be rescued from judicial condemnation by assailing the label of a constitutional equality, to the equal protection of the law, cannot be trampled under foot under the thin disguise of such an assumed regulation, nor will it do to say that the proviso aforesaid may be disregarded and defendant still be punished under the previous portion of the section on which this act was enacted as an entirety and would not have become a law but for the incorporation within it of the obnoxious immunity proviso."

Now if that is a good law, then a great many of State enactments and municipal ordinances must also be in operative when brought to a test.

For instance, it is legal to erect a building of wood in one part of a city, illegal in another section. Legal to sell liquors, under provisions of the law, in one place, contrary to express statutes in another.

One may ride a bicycle on sidewalks a few blocks from where I live; if the practice is pursued within the limit, the rider must dismount whenever a pedestrian is met or passed. So many illustrations of "special legislation" could be given that the repetition would be tiresome.

"The sacred precincts of a regular race course" are not the only places which are granted special privileges. In the somewhat complicated government which modern civilization demands, provision must be made to guard the various interests depending.

In this case racing cannot be conducted successfully without an opportunity for speculation.

With that speculation confined to the enclosure in which the races take place the evil, should it be an evil, is reduced to a minimum.

Extend the field, award the privilege of opening betting rooms to anyone who can secure a place in street or alley to carry it on and it will not be tolerated. Small opposition to the practice when confined to the racecourse while the races are in progress; when transferred to an urban site, universal condemnation. Denounced by all, save those who profit by the trade and their infatuated victims, conservative people joining in the demand for suppression and as oftentimes have been exemplified to rush the admitted evil racing is virtually prohibited.

With the Missouri precedent to guide we can expect a trial here.

There is a difference and it may be that a municipal ordinance will have more strength than a state law, and than again the Supreme Court of California may differ with Judge Sharwood.

Ex-Mayor Sutro, so far as I know, simply vetoed without deigning to present his objections, and therefore his reasons are hidden. The utter disregard of his antagonism shown by the unanimous vote in favor of the ordinance prohibiting betting rooms, is a positive indication that they will not be tolerated in San Francisco, still it will be well to secure a State law to the same effect.

The more safeguards the better, and everything tending to protect racing now and ensure its perpetuity should meet with ardent support.

THE CAMBRIDGESHIRE WINNER.—The old proverb "an ounce of blood worth a pound of bone," is applicable to the winner of the Cambridgeshire Stakes, Winkfield's Pride. His sire, Winkfield, after winning a selling race at Newmarket, was bought for 400 guineas, $2,000, claimed in a selling race by Hornsby, the trainer of Victor Wild, he became so le me in the back that he could not be taken out of the stable and when the best veterinary skill failed, many weeks in the slings, he was sold for fifteen sovereigns, less than $75. It was also stated that he was "touched in his wind" though not an "out and out roarer." The buyer took him to Ireland, accomplished a cure, and re-sold him for a big profit, where he became a fashionable sire.

The dam of Winkfield's Pride, Alimony, was also a cast-off. About her being a roarer and a bad one there could be no mistake. She was paralyzed as well, and never really in training. The mating of two such animals could not lead to fervid anticipations regarding the future of the offspring, and yet she won the great stakes, beating a host of winners.

The Derby winner, Sir Visto, two Oaks winners, two French Derby winners, two Royal Hunt Cup winners, Thais, the winner of the One Thousand, and fifteen others.

The three-year-old carried 94 pounds, while Sir Visto, never prominent in the race, four years, 122 pounds, the three-year-old which ran second, Yorker, 83 pounds, and the third, Loadamia, six years, 121 pounds. Winkfield's Pride could, evidently, have carried a "heap" more weight and won. Really no race, according to the report. "Winkfield's" Pride jumped off in front and sailed in with a clear lead and won easily by three lengths."

One mile, 240 yards is the distance, and it appears as though the English trainers were inclined to follow the American example, which elicited so much ridicule until the success of the Yankees the past season forced conviction.

Many ounces of blood, that of the deepest Lapis Lazuli tint, in sire and dam of the Cambridgeshire hero, Winkfield, by Barcalaine, Alimony, by Isomony, the horse which Governor Stanford told me so far excelled others he saw, that when he could not obtain a price on him he did not want any of the others. In the male line direct, Solon, West Australian, Melbourne, Birdcatcher, and though it was the fashion to decry "The West" as a stud failure, many great horses have carried the strain. In a short note the quality of the blood cannot be better presented than to copy the names of the sires in the fifth remove—Melbourne, Birdcatcher, Stockwell—which also appears in the fourth—Adventure, Sheet Anchor, Touchstone, Bay Middleton, Defence, Birdcatcher, Flatcatcher, The Baron, Ethelbert, Touchstone, Tadmor, Toxophilite and Teddington.

One would have plenty of material for an essay, or several of them for that matter, as the mares in the same column among other good ones contains the names of Mowerina, Catherine Hays, Miss Letty, Crucifix, Pocahontas and the peerless Beeswing.

The betting was unusually heavy. The evening before the race at the Subscription Rooms, Imposition was backed to win 40,000 pounds sterling and 20,000 to 2,000 pounds was taken by the backers of the Irish colt. The stable is reported to have won quite 50,000 pounds, nearly a quarter of a million of dollars.

With seven pounds penalty Winkfield's Pride won the "Old Cambridgeshire Handicap" quite handsily, the odds being two to one on.

It would not be advisable to breed a paralyzed and roarer mure to a horse that was touched in the wind, and with such a "crick in the back" as to be pronounced incurable and kept in the slings for weeks, and yet here is a notable example that with all these drawbacks a grand colt has resulted. To a "dead certainty" the form of the parents is in keeping with their breeding.

A MERITED REBUKE.—When the Board of Supervisors unanimously voted to pass the ordinance prohibiting city betting rooms, over the mayor's veto, it was a scathing rebuke of the man who interposed his constitutional power to protect a system which has met with universal condemnation.

That a man who has posed in such an exalted position, who has claimed to be the conservator of the morals of the people, who would not tolerate any deviation from a straight path, should be the patron and protector of these kind of places is a problem which is difficult of solution.

A morning paper comments thus: "Mayor Sutro's motives in vetoing the order have been severely commented on by those who recognize the demoralizing influences of the pool-selling dens. It is freely said that his only reason is because the railroad which he chooses to consider his ancient enemy has two lines of road running to the racetrack where many of the patrons of the track will go now that the poolrooms are to be closed."

This may be. Byron wrote. "Revenge is sweet, especially to women," and that after so many years of shouting "octopus" he imagines that it was the tentacles of the devil fish that was crushing the life out of the victims and he rushed to the rescue, or rather imagined that his action would cripple the enemy by cutting off the fares of those who would go to the races so long as they were denied the opportunity of "playing them" without the trouble of the journey and the expense of obtaining admission to the racetrack.

Inasmuch as he held the ordinance thall full time, and returned it without his approval, and withholding his signature his motives can only be surmised.

That given in Tha Call is the most plausible. A raving monomaniac whenever the R. R. or S. P. C. is mentioned.

"Octopus" worn out after thousands of repetitions, all the other bad names he could think of only wind, and even if of a foul odor nothing but wind. Here was a chance of more effective warfare than the one time "stinkpots" which were hurled on to adversaries, an opportunity for substantial revenge.

"Revenge is sweet" especially to one who has lashed himself into a very frenzy of passion, and with the feeling that all the violent explosions have only resulted in humiliating discomfiture to himself. And now he has made the worst move in the game he has essayed to play with so much self-vaunted skill. "On to Washington," his watchword for a time, tear tentacles to pieces, crush the skull, exterminate beyond recovery the Octopus vulgaris. The whale is said to have a particular fondness for just this sort of work and he would be the whale which would demolish the Lirnean Hydra. Hard to reconcile, the valiant champion of the people, the fearless advocate, the reformer of morals in one picture, the man who vetoed the ordinance against city betting-rooms in the same frame.

Ha has sacrificed the power he might have exerted on the altar of revenge.

TURF AND TRACK.

THE SULKY.

ADVERTISE your stallions now!

It is said that $16,000 was refused for Star Pointer, 2:02½, last week.

The prospects for a prosperous year were never so good as the present.

CANADIAN horsemen have bought the Michigan mare Syrena, 2:14½, by Syhinx.

HAVE you noticed the advertisement of Altamont? A cordial invitation is extended to all to see him at Alameda.

J. M. NELSON, of Alameda, purchased a black gelding by Dexter Prince, out of a mare by Nutwood, on Monday last.

IF you have a horse you want to sell, advertise him in the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN. It reaches the best class of buyers.

THERE were several good races trotted and paced at Honolulu, New Year's Day. We shall receive full particulars by the next steamer.

THE owner of Directum 2:05½ has been indicted by the Fayette county, Ky., grand jury for standing him without a license.

S. P. JEFFERSON of this city, has a five-year-old sister to Jefe, 2:18½, that is said to be even faster than her game little brother.

MARY SABLE, a brown mare, by Sable Wilkes, out of a mare by La Grand, took a time record of 2:30 at Danville, Ky., recently.

CAPT. FORD THOMAS is driving a colt by Secretary, out of a mare by Gen. McClellan, that gives promise of being a very fast horse.

THE Speed Track in Golden Gate Park is kept in splendid order and the number of good trotters and pacers seen on it is increasing daily.

LEA 2:18½, by Sidney, nearly died a year ago. She lost all four hoofs, but now ones have now grown, and she may yet race again. She is in foal to Russia.

ROLED 2:23, by Nephew, who took his mark as a three-year-old in 1893 under somewhat remarkable circumstances, will ha in W. J. Andrews' string next year.

GEO. WILEY, formerly superintendent of the Oakwood Park Stock Farm, believes there will be better prospects for farmers this year than they have had for the past ten years.

IN Arion, 2:07½; Baron Rodgers, 2:10½, and Bingen, 2:12½, J. Malcolm Forbes has the three fastest stallions by their records that are standing for public service in any breeding farm in the world.

MATT MANN, who bought out Altas, 2:09½, Trumont, 2:21½, and Atlas, 2:25, has been employed by Dr. Powell Reeves, and is teaching some of the youngsters, how to trot out on the doctor's farm.

ALL who have horses to sell, and wish to sell them, should insert an advertisement in the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN. There's a demand for good horses, and every one advertised in this journal has been sold.

ADVERTISE that stallion if you want owners of brood mares to know where he is located. Printers' ink cannot make a horse successful, but the judicious use of it will increase his chances to a wonderful degree.

J. M. NELSON, of Alameda, is negotiating to stand that king of large trotting stallions, James Madison, 2:17½, at his place. He should do well with this horse as his progeny have size, color, good dispositions and speed.

THE sooner an owner begins to give his stallion the benefit of some judicious advertising the sooner that stallion's book for the coming season will be filled. It pays in business, as in harness racing, to get away in the first tier and going level.

WE hope there will not be too much wrangling among the delegates at Sacramento to see which district shall hold the fairs hereafter. Gov. Budd, we understand, has given the subject a great deal of careful attention and is thoroughly qualified to act.

GOV. BUDD, in his recent biennial message, announces the fact that he is in favor of a reorganization of our agricultural districts where fairs shall be held. This is a good idea and with the assurance that we will have some district fairs hereafter the spirits of our stockmen and farmers have become buoyant.

REFERRING to the financial troubles and disappearance of D. G. Bricker, the Montana horseman and plunger, the Butte Inter-Mountain of December 19th says it "has it on the best authority that the missing man has sailed from Southampton, bound for Kimberly, South Africa." If this information is correct, Bricker's fortune must have vanished.

LOOKING at a horse's hind leg from the side, the line from the hock down to the fetlock should be vertical; the cannon bone should strike the ground vertically; a perpendicular line dropped from the center of the hip-joint should strike the middle of the hoof; another dropped from the buttock should touch the point of the hock, and lie almost parallel with the posterior border of the cannon bone.

"CHARLIE," the caretaker, laments the mishap to Hulda to a degree which testifies his sincerity in the belief that had she escaped, not a trotter of 1896 could have taken her measure. The fore ankles was the trouble and in all probability her racing career has come to an end. What a grand broodmare in prospective! Of the highest form, immense speed, faultless action, and good breeding she should mate well with any stallion of sufficient merit to warrant being chosen. Mr. Spreckels has Dexter Prince and Cupid, but from the result of the combination of Electioneer with the maternal line of Hulda, resulting in Dione, a stallion of that strain should "do the trick."

SUTHERLAND & BENJAMIN write from Saginaw, Mich., contradicting the report that the pacing mare, Toledo Girl, 2:15, is in foal to Egdon, 2:14½. The Girl was bred to Sphinx, 2:30½, in 1896. They also advise us that Sphinx was credited with but nine 2:20 performers, whereas he should have had ten. Of the three sires of his age listed in this table he has double the number of 2:20 and 2:15 performers of his two companions.

ONE of the best indications of the return of good times to the horse interests is that where a year ago there were a half-dozen horses and for every one a buyer wanted, now there are a half-dozen buyers for every good horse. True, every good horse is not sold at the price asked when offered, but we doubt if it would be possible for an owner to put one on the market and not find a buyer. We mean, in all cases, that the horse must be what the market demands.

THE bay gelding Edwin C. 2:15, by Elector, the erratic California product who nearly broke half a dozen owners and drivers, is now owned by an Albany, New York, gentleman. Rumor has it that he is the undisputed king of the road down in the Capital City, and that you could not buy him for a barrel of money. Strange as it may seem, Edwin C. never offers to break. He is getting along in years, and has sense—like some men.

A LETTER from Chris Lang of the San Mateo Stock Farm contains, among other good things, the following: "We are all busy preparing the horses for the eastern sale. We never had a better lot and the speed they show is remarkable; individually they are all handsome and it is with regret we think that all these youngsters must soon find other homes. Guy Wilkes and Sable Wilkes are fine, and it is like parting with dear old friends to see them go."

As a climax to the Salisbury purchase of an interest in Aliz, comes the announcement that at Freeport, Ill., last week, Morris J. Jones, owner of the mare, began suit against the Californian to collect the sum of $4,000, past due. Salisbury's interest in Azote 2:04½ was attached, and W. H. Crawford, who has acted as agent for Salisbury in some of his business transactions, was made a garnishee defendant in the case. He is in no sense, however, a party to the suit.

MR. JOHN M. GREEN, of Glanview Stock Farm, Louisville, Ky., has sold to Congressman Andrew H. Price of Nashville, the bay stallion Egotist, 2:22½, foaled 1885, by Electioneer, dam Sprite (dam of Sphinx, 2:30½, etc.), by Belmont, grandam Waterwitch (dam of Viking, 2:19½, etc.), by Pilot Jr. The price paid for the stallion is reported to be $4,000. He is the sire of fourteen trotters and one pacer in the standard list, among them some high-class trotters.

THE highest-priced and the best-shaped daughter of Nutwood 2:18½, is at the Pierce Bros. Santa Rosa Stock Farm. She is called Bye Bye and is a full sister to Lockheart, 2:08½, the fastest Nutwood living. She was called the $10,000 beauty after being brought to California. Upon this farm is another grand-looking mare by Nutwood. She is the dam of that game trotter, Maude M., 2:20½, and these owners also have another Nutwood mare, Maud Palmer (dam of Maud W., 2:20).

MR. GEORGE STARR has returned to Terre Haute from New York. His horses arrived last week and are at the stable on the fair grounds. In the lot were his new purchase, the two-year-old trotter by Director; a weanling son out of Planet's dam by Axtel; Mrs. Jo., 2:15½ pacing, and Comanche, 2:17½ trotting. With this lot came Mr. Deming's new Axtels, a weanling and yearling, out of Delight. The yearling is to be called Axis, and is now in Mr. John Young's stable.

DR. G. F. SHIELS recently purchased a very fine gelding by Hawthorne out of Brown Priam. This is one of the handsomest road horses in San Francisco, and reflects great credit on the judgment of his coachman, Ed McElhona, who picked him out at first glance from a draft of horses that were sold to one man at the Shippee sale. There is no need for our local magnates to go to New York and Eastern States and pay big prices for animals for horse-show purposes. Patronize home industry and get the best extant.

DICK TILDEN, the well-known horse trainer and driver, will have charge of a string of horses at Overland Park next spring, and will campaign his stable through the Grand Circuit. Mr. Tilden has some fast horses in his stable. The most noted are MacVera, 2:10½; Johnnie Trouble, 2:21½, and a fine trotting stallion which he has just received from J. D. Dobbins of Kansas City. Mr. Tilden has wintered in Denver for the last four years, and considers it one of the best points in the United States for training for early work.

WE will have District Fairs in California, and although they may not be so numerous as of old, nevertheless we will have enough to make everyone in California happy. In looking over the list of legislators we see a splendid assemblage of names of men who have always been prominently identified with agricultural fairs, even the speaker of the Senate, our good friend Thos. Flint Jr., of Hollister, and our other good friend, Frank L. Coombs, of Napa, speaker of the assembly, are there. Two valuable helpers in the cause.

A SISTER to Constantine which accompanied the Hickox stable from the East is a finely shaped filly, and if any good estimate can be found on shape and breeding, the 2:12½ of her brother will be reduced to a lower figure. Inbred to Mambrino Patchen to the extent of three strains, and with still another of Mambrino Chief, there are enough close crosses of thoroughbred to overcome whatever coarseness might follow so much Mambrino Chief blood. "Counselor" Crawford paid a large price for her when a yearling and there is little hazard in predicting that the investment will be a paying one.

SATURDAY last Mr. Neal set a plow at work on the Pleasanton track, breaking it up to sufficient depth to give an entirely new surface. While the soil is of the very best kind for track purposes, long use has rendered it somewhat rotten and the reversal of the soil will correct that, the only drawback. In addition to giving better surface material, the top that was will form a cushion between the harder part below and the roadbed giving more elasticity and easier on feet and legs. Mr. Neal intends to drive a good many of the youngsters under his charge harefooted to which there will be no hindrance as the wear of horn on that soil will be less than the natural growth.

DIONE was practically thrown out by an attack of influenza, leaving her weak and affecting her back. A filly of wonderful speed, notwithstanding that her stride was a trifle short, there are good reasons to believe that when fully recovered she will be a troublesome to the best. She is wintering on Mr. Spreckels' Aptos Rancho and in that genial climate and with the care she will receive, the coming season will see her in the first flight, however strong the field.

THERE will be merry times on the Pleasanton track when it is again ready for working upon. With good weather a couple of weeks at the furthest will bring it in fitting shape, and when the spring is fairly opened far better than ever before for J. H. Neal, "Andy" McDowell, "Tom" Keating, Wm. Murray, James McGuire, Chauncey Kane, Lee Shaner and others will train there with many of the fastest trotters and pacers of this section under their charge. Great anticipations are raised by the youngsters; Directs and Diahlos, gifted so highly with speed that should there be a lack of "phenoms" huge the disappointment.

ON an ordinary dirt road, according to the Philadelphia Record, a horse can draw three times as much weight as he can carry on his back. On a good macadamized road the animal can pull three times as much as on a dirt road, while on an asphalt pavement the power of the horse is multiplied to such a degree that he can draw eleven times as much as on a dirt road, or thirty-three times as much as he can carry on his back. What the road traffic of cities owes to the street railway is illustrated by the computation that on metal rails a horse can draw one and two-thirds as much as on the best asphalt pavement; four times as much as on Belgian blocks, nine times as much as on cobblestones, twenty times as much as on an earth road, and forty times as much as on sand.

DR. C. E. STILL, of Kirksville, Mo., writes concerning his horses. He says: "The Shah, by Thor 17313, can pace as fast as any horse owned in the West that is eligible to the 3:00 class. I sent him out a short time last season to educate him. Will have him started when there is good money during 1897. Gujdirwood, my premier stallion, was purchased from W. L. Hubbs, of Phillipsburg, N. S. He is a son of Nutwood, and out of Essie, by Guy Wilkes, grandam by Director; third dam by Altamont; fourth dam by American Clay, etc. My brood mares, numbering twenty, are with foal to Gujdirwood, with the following exceptions: Mae Wilton, by Wilton, dam by Nutwood, in foal to Chimes; Anna McGregor, by Robert McGregor, dam by Happy Medium, in foal to Nutbreaker; Ella P., by Elf Wood, dam by Baron Wilkes, with foal by Don Wilkes, 2:24; Miss Utility, by Nutwood, dam Utility, 2:13, by Electioneer, in foal to Robert Lee, 2:18. My other mares were sired by Robert Rysdyk, 2:13, Nihilist, Jewell, etc. Shall not campaign Gujdirwood until 1898, when I look to see him secure a very fast record."

THE new Oregon performer, Aliz, 2:25, has been variously reported as by Altas, Altago and Altamont. The best evidence points to Altago as his real sire.—[Jay Baach in reply to this says: "Regarding the above item which appeared in the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN last week, I wish to say that the performer referred to is Altas, and there has never been a claim that he is by Altago. P. J. Mann of Portland, Or., sent his dam to Altamont on April 12, 1890, to be bred by insurance. She was bred that day, and the mare was left with me till I was satisfied she was in foal. On March 24, 1891, she foaled the bay horse Altas, and P. J. Mann paid me the service fee. The claim that he was sired by Altas rests entirely on the untrustworthy evidence of M. H. Mann, who, years after the foaling, made the claim that the mare was bred to Altas immediately before she was sent to Altamont. Aside from the unreliability of M. H. Mann, this statement was disputed by M. H. Dimick, who at the time of the alleged breeding was in the employ of M. H. Mann. Further than this, Altas was used some that year but got no foals. Altas is an extremely good pacer, but as a grandson would reflect fully as much credit upon Altamont as though he were a son. Hence I have no individual preference in the matter, and would have credit given where it is properly due."

MR. ED A. TIPTON, who managed the Montana circuit so successfully last season, seems to be looking around for other points to annex to the Montana circuit this season. He has been looking over the field in Denver with the view of opening the circuit there. We cordially invite Mr. Tipton to consider Portland as a natural point to begin the Northwest circuit. We have an excellent track here well equipped, centrally located, and if Mr. Tipton should take hold of the management success would be at once assured. We have a great many horses in Oregon, Washington and Idaho that have always patronized this place very liberally, besides we are adjoining the great State of California where horses are very plentiful and transportation from there is very cheap. The winter racing brings together a great many runners at San Francisco each year, and, as before stated, transportation is so cheap a great many first-class runners can be started for the Montana circuit via Portland. The people here are fond of the sport, and when offered good attractions turn out well. We would like to see Mr. Tipton take Portland into his Northwest circuit and hold the opening meeting here some time in June. We believe it would be a success from the beginning.—North Pacific Rural.

THE races at the Fresno track last Saturday amused a large crowd of people, principally strangers. Owing to the condition of the track the proposed polo game and hurdle race were declared off, but the people stayed just the same. The first event on the card was a trot for 2:30 horses of this district. The entries were Skeleton and Bolivar. The first heat was won by Skeleton in 2:36. Bolivar took the next three heats. Time—2:33, 2:34, 2:36. The next event was a polo pony race, half mile and repeat. Lady Finn won, Miss Widd second, and Midget third. Time—00:54, 00:53. Next on the card was a three-eighths and repeat event. The first heat was won by Blackhorn in 00:37, Durango second, Sontag third and Pedro fourth. Sontag's rider was changed, and that speedy horse won in two successive heats. Time, 00:37, 00:38. Buckhorn came in second in both of the latter heats. The three-minute district trot was won by Bolivar, though Clipper took the third and fourth heats. Bolivar won the first, second and fifth. Fred C. was third. Time, 2:55, 2:54, 2:58, 2:56½, 2:57. The Fresno Jockey Club will hold a big spring meeting in this city, and some of the finest horses in the state will be entered. The meetings heretofore held by the club under direction of Secretary Kockman have been very successful and attracted the attention of horsemen all over the coast.—Fresno Republican.

SADDLE.

PALMERSTON has been sold by Leo Kilns for $350 to J. H. Shields.

THE claiming rule has not been enforced up to date at Ingleside, but from now on it will be strictly adhered to.

A LEXINGTON (Ky.) dispatch says that Hal Headley has leased Tenny from David Tanny Pulsifer to take the place of imp. Order.

SAM HILDRETH thought his charge, Lucky Dog, had a royal chance in the Shreve Cup, and thought the public overestimated St. Lee's chances.

THE great two-year-olds Ornament, Algol, Typhoon II., F. F. V. and Brilesque, with a number of others, are wintering at Memphis, and reported as doing nicely.

ALTADENA, the filly thought so much of by "Lucky" Baldwin, and over which he made so much fuss when she was taken away in a selling race, was recently sold at auction for $175.

EUGENE LEIGH Monday sold to M. J. Kelly old Wood-chopper and the four-year-old Petrarch. Consideration, $300 apiece. They ran in Leigh's colors, though. It looks as if they were hargains at the price.

J. H. SHIELDS has presented old Hy Dy to Jockey Pedro Enos. The latter is to ride the aged racer to his home below San Jose, and he will in future be used as a saddle horse by the children of the Enos family.

MIKE HENNESSY has been reinstated by the Ingleside officials, and will have the mount on Gov. Budd in the hurdle race this afternoon. Hennessy is a good rider either on the flat or over the sticks, and has a host of admirers.

LUCKY DOG, winner of the Shreve Cup last Friday, pulled up very lame Tuesday morning. This will be regretted by most race-goers, as it was generally supposed the big son of Darehlin had regained the superb form he showed as a two-year-old.

JOHNNY McHALE will probably never again face the starter in California. He will not be able to race again before next summer. This is very unfortunate, and the owner of this shifty selling plater has the sympathy of all horsemen.

SENATOR IRBY, the once great race horse that Ed Corrigan paid $5,000 for, and which won several of the rich stakes here when a three-year-old, broke down yesterday morning while having speeded a quarter at Ingleside, and it is thought he will never face the starter again.

M. MALONEY and James Petry of Vallejo have a design for a new starting machine which is one of the simplest ever invented. By its use horses can never get caught in the webbing. We understand one of these will be put up at either the Ingleside or Oakland track.

M. CANNON has accepted the same retainers for next year that he held during the season that has just concluded, viz.: he will ride for Kingsclere first, for his father second, and for Mr. McCalmont third. This season Prince Soltykoff and Lord Cadogan respectively held fourth and fifth claims.

FREEMASON, a winner in Germany, and now a heavily advertised stallion in England, has an own brother in this country that is getting good winners—Odd Fellow, the property of Kit Chinn. These horses are by the unbeaten Barcheldine from the Oaks winner, Geheimniss, by Rosicrucian.

WE understand from one of our new legislators in Sacramento that a bitter fight will be made by a number of the leading members of both houses to limit the season of racing in any one place in California to sixty days in the year. The fight will be made on the same basis as that which killed racing in a number of the Eastern States.

DAN HONIG's great St. Blaise horse, Magnet, for which he refused $10,000 last summer, and was supposed to have broken down so badly at St. Louis that he would never face the gate again, is taking walking and trotting exercise these days and looking very well indeed. His legs look as if they had been fired, but might appear a whole lot worse.

IT is feared that Crescendo will not stand training this season. "Kentucky John" Givens had expectations that the great horse could be got ready for some of the stake events this spring, but it looks as if the only hope for the son of Flambeau is to fire him and give him a year's rest, as his ankle was more badly wrenched than at first supposed.

LONE PRINCESS, chestnut filly, 2, by Prince Royal, dam imp. Lonely, won a six-furlong handicap at New Orleans, in 1:13½, which eclipses the former track record. In racing reports this filly continually appears as running under the name of Lonely, which is the name of her dam. Secretaries should see that horses run under their correct names, for otherwise interminable confusion must result.]

BRILLIANT was thought to be a "ringer" by the judges Dec. 30th, and Captain Rees wanted to make sure that he was the horse he purported to be. Brilliant was brought here from Santa Barbara, but he raced at the fall meeting at Los Angeles, and several local horsemen who went to the Citrus Belt City assured the judges that he was the horse raced in that city. Brilliant was 40 to 1 and came in a close second.

WE understand Dan Honig told Charley Slaughter to use his own judgment in riding the odds-on favorite, Zamar II., and if yesterday's exhibition is the best Slaughter can do when not instructed, racegoers will not bank on the boy's judgment much in future. The "Josh Club" of the saddling paddock had Honig going Monday, but he recovered fast and took his colt's defeat much easier than it was expected he would.

HARRY DIMOND made a New Year's present of Bohemian Lass to President A. B. Sprekels yesterday. The filly, who has been rather a racing disappointment, is by Flambeau for imp. Amelia, by Lowlander, and is therefore a half-sister to imp. Janet N. (dam of Crescendo, Bellicoso and Wandering Nun), Leland, Virace, Picton, Kinfax and Nomad. She should make a most valuable brood mare, therefore, coming on such a family.

WHEN Slaughter took Zamar II., back soon after the start that astute trainer "Gene" Leigh made up his mind that Zamar could not make up the lost advantage and win. Consequently he shouted, "Even money Zamar don't win." Pete Reilly, who has not made a bet since he has been here, thought even money was like a message from the dead, so he ejaculated, "50 for me." Now Pete says that Leigh just stays in the paddock looking for "soft people" like himself.

CHARLES KERR has secured imp. Green, and the good-looking English horse will be bred to a number of the best Antrim Stock Farm stud matrons. Green is a royally-bred horse with a double cross of Touchstone and the same of Irish Birdcatcher, besides other famous winning crosses, being by Childeric (son of Scottish Chief) from Amber, by Nuneham. He should be a great success. There are few Scottish Chief horses in the country. One, Donald A., is a most successful sire. Damocles, a frequent winner around St. Louis, is by him.

WALTER S. HOBART attended the races at Ingleside Tuesday for the first time since last summer. He was accompanied by his brother-in-law, Mr. Lester. Mr. Hobart's Realization Stakes winner, Bright Phoebus, was hooked to start in the mile race, third on the programme, but unfortunately the famous horse was left at the post and his rider, Price, fined $25 for not getting away with him. This struck most people as a trifle severe, for the horse had tried to break away several times, but was pulled up through the wheeling of Alvarado.

THE race horses of Dale & McEvoy were sold at auction Saturday before racing commenced. Nick Hall purchased Mary S. for $30, and is worth eight times that sum for a broodmare, with such a turf record behind her as she possesses. Butch Fisher gave $300 for Capt. Reese, and John Coleman paid $300 for McLight. The latter looks the only one that can be got to a race. A maiden three-year-old of unknown breeding was sold to Tom Boyle for $55. Dan Lynch paid $150 for a filly by Ventilator, which was purchased last summer by Tommy Butler.

THERESE, winner of the first race, would have been sent at once to A. B. Sprekels' Napa stock farm to swell the list of broodmares, if she had not won that race Monday. This pretty little black daughter of imp. Idaliun and Mercedes was bred by Messrs. Layng and Tozer, of this journal, though she was foaled the property of W. O'B. Macdonough, and her dam was so highly regarded by the young millionaire that he had her bred to his $150,000 Ormonde. This mare, Mercedes, by imp. Young Prince—Piney Lewis, by Longfellow, was for years bred to Dawn, the trotting stallion, and was purchased at the Whitney sale by a San Rafael gentleman in order to get her Dawn foal. She came within an ace of being taken forever from the list of thoroughbred matrons, and it was only by accident that her royal breeding was discovered.

ACCORDING to "Ruff's Guide" Winter edition for 1896 which is now in the binders' hands, the thoroughbred foals and yearlings sold by auction in the present year number 835, a decrease of only one as compared with 1895, when 838 youngsters changed hands under the hammer. The total amount realized last year by the sales of juveniles was likewise slightly in excess of this year, the figures reading 167,016 guineas for 1895, and 166,753 guineas for 1896, the average in both years, therefore, being practically the same, viz., as nearly as possible 262½ guineas. The Guide also states that the amount run for under Jockey Club rules in 1896 was £438,351 12s., being about £2,000 more than in 1895. This refers to only that money won by the winning horses, and does not include the prizes taken by the second and third.—London Sportsman.

IN English stakes, which closed on December 8, American horses are entered as follows: At the Manchester Whitsuntide meeting for 1897, in the John O'Grant Plate for two-year-olds Lord Beresford enters bay colt Pan II., by imp. Simon Magus, dam Pandora; P. Lorillard enters chestnut filly Atossal, by Sensation, dam Austriana, and bay filly Beryl, by Sensation, dam Belphebe. In the Derby Plate, for three-year-olds, Lord Beresford enters bay gelding Glaring, by imp. The Sailor Prince, dam Flash. At the September meeting in the Michaelmas Plate, for two-year-olds, Lord Wm. Beresford enters brown gelding Blondin II., by The Bard, dam Equipoise, and P. Lorillard bay gelding Ecos, by Stratford, dam The Dawn, and bay gelding Bayard II., by The Bard, dam Maumee.

THE Ingleside judges certainly erred when they took Stanford off Haymarket and substituted Spance on the old fellow, for Stanford's reputation for honesty in the saddle is of the best; in fact, he is an example well worthy of following, and if there were more Stanfords riding timber-toppers there would be less talk about "shooting in," "helping" and "pulling" in these events. And while we are on the subject, we are informed that Stanford was approached in this very race by the owner of a horse, who wanted him to lay Haymarket up in the race. Stanford indignantly refused to do so. An investigation is likely to follow, and the developments are sure to prove interesting. Haymarket had been in some twenty-three jumping races, and it is a peculiar fact that he never fell until last Saturday.

MILTON YOUNG's successful stallion Duke of Montrose, is dead. He was the sire of Montrose (winner Kentucky Derby), Saragossa and many other good ones. Bred by the late James A. Grinstead in 1877, he was by Waverly (son of imp. Australian), from Kelpie, by imp. Bonnie Scotland; second dam Sister to Ruric (dam of Grinstead), by imp. Sovereign; third dam the immortal Levity, by imp. Trustee, etc. The Duke won one race as a three-year-old, five as a four-year-old out of thirteen starts, besides running second several times to Luke Blackburn, the crack of his day.

TWO race horses met their deaths on Saturday last, one at Oakland, the other at Ingleside. They were respectively Faro and Gordon. The first-named collided with Pronto, while Gordon fell and broke his shoulder, the "friendly hullo" ending his sufferings. Faro, six years old, the winner of many good races, was by Prince of Norfolk—Avondale, by Marmaduke, owned by A. Y. Stephenson. Gordon, a three-year-old, won a race at Ingleside last spring and ran into place and show a few times. He was owned by H. T. Griffin and was a black colt by Tremont from Blue Bells. Johnny Alvino, the lad that was riding Pronto at the time Faro was killed, is reported in a dying condition from the injuries sustained at that time.

On a Sydney suburban course, one of the very "smartest" trainers called the handicapper aside and asked him particularly "to watch the running of his horse which had only been in hand three weeks." Now, before starting for the course, the horse had got fairly stuffed with bran—probably wandered from his box to the feed-room—and the owner's instructions to jockey were: "Make every post a winning one." During the running of the race owner and handicapper stood together. The bran seemed rather to agree with the gee, and he rounded into the straight with a strong lead, the handicapper remarking to the owner, "I'm watching him carefully, old man!" And as the horse finished, with his field nearly distanced, the owner almost fell down dead as the handicapper, with a thoughtful mien, shook him heartily by the hand with the remark—"If that's three weeks' work, in the name of thunder what'll he be like in six?"

IN the interest of a new racing bill for Pennsylvania, a meeting will be held at the Philadelphia Turf Club on Thursday evening, January 5th, 1897, to arrange plans and frame a bill to be presented at the coming session of the Legislature. It is the purpose of those interested to solicit the support of all horsemen and tradesmen who would be benefited by a change of the present stringent laws. Statistics show that during the last two years breeders, farmers, blacksmiths, wagon-builders, harness-makers and all branches relating to the horse have suffered greatly. The aid of the various agricultural associations throughout the State is solicited in the movement. It will be the aim of the framers of the bill to make it impossible to have a repetition in this State of the experience of New Jersey and Maryland, where all-the-year around racing brought the sport into disrepute. Racing is likely to be limited to a period between June and November 1, and no one track, association or individual has allowed to give more than a certain number of days' racing in any one year.—Philadelphia Record.

THE Belgian government has drafted a bill for the Senate which will cause some commotion among those who have been advertising in French newspapers to send information respecting French racing from across the frontier. According to the bill hitting on foreign racing is totally prohibited, and turf speculation is limited to persons actually on the race course, hitting the one with the other. An interdiction has been placed on the sale of information, and the penalty of imprisonment from eight days to six months and a fine of from 4 sovereigns to 200 sovereigns, with the confiscation of all monies found in the possession of the delinquents. The same penalties are incurred by anyone who by means of advertisements, etc., indicates the agencies or individuals who carry on hitting or the sale of information. Racecourses will require government permission to carry on hitting, which will be confined to certain enclosures, one inside and another outside, admission to which will be given on payment of a premium of 50 per cent on the entrance money, the only profit which racecourses will be permitted to derive from turf speculation.

LUCKY DOG, winner of the Shreve Cup yesterday, was the greatest $500 horse ever picked up at a public auction, and the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN said as much at the time Barney Schraiber bought him at the Reed sale at that figure. The genial Teuton let Sam Hildreth have the big horse for that identical sum, too, it is said, and now the Dog comes out and beats Schreiber's best colt, for which he refused $7,500 last fall. This is just one of the many vicissitudes in a lively turfman's life—the cast-off heating Mr. Man's "good horse." Lucky Dog was one of the heavy-winning two-year-olds of his year, and his winnings in stakes and purses during his entire turf career will foot up something over $30,000, if memory serves us well. He's the largest race horse in training in the country, in all probability, standing about seventeen hands and weighing, in racing condition, about 1,275 pounds. When his racing days are over he'll be worth a few thousands for a sire, too, for he comes from the great Levity family, which gave us a Salvator, a Leonatus and a Luke Blackburn. Sam Hildreth's reputation as a trainer was good before yesterday, but to train the winner and runner-up in a race like the one of New Year's Day is an honor accorded few conditioners of race horses.

THE stallion, Baliol, though holding the Royal Dublin Society's certificate, was again examined on Saturday last before the completion of his purchase for the Cobham Stud, and passed sound by Mr. J. W. Peatt, M. R. C. V. S. Baliol was the most successful all-around sire in Ireland, where among his stock during the current season there are no fewer than fifteen winners on the flat, while the jumpers by him are notoriously first-rate. In the number of his winners Baliol heads the list for 1896 in Ireland, and he is second in regard to the value of stakes won. Being a three-parts brother to Doncaster, whose value at the stud proved almost incalculable, and a son of Blair Athol, whose blood in the male line is so scarce in this country, Baliol ought to be in great demand, now that for the first time his services will be available for English breeders. He was himself a good racehorse and a thorough stayer, and it is generally admitted that much of Count Schomberg's merit, especially as a jumper, is due to his being out of a Baliol mare. The fee of 25 guineas seems a small one indeed for the son of Blair Athol and Marigold, who had he stood in England earlier would probably now be at 200 guineas.—London Sportsman.

MARTY BERGEN, for years one of America's star jockeys, is one of the most original fellows in the country, and some of his saying, drawn out in his own peculiar style, would cause a sick canine to "ha-ha." A few years ago he observed Col. Frank Hall at the post, looking sour. "Colonel," said he to the dignified Marylander, "why don't you go and eat a pie?" For this remark Bergen was forced to view the races from the ground for awhile and finally to apologize to the Colonel. Last spring, right after he had been working out some of his horses at Ingleside, he was accosted by a scribe with "How are they doing?" "Pretty good for a band of dogs," sputtered Marty. Last spring when he was about to go East someone asked him: "Marty, what are you going to do with your horses?" He thought a minute, scratched up a pile of the tan-hard with his shoe and remarked, droll as ever, "I am going to find a ranch where there are no fences and turn them out, so I can't find them when I come back." It appears that Marty never discovered the ranch in question. Changing the subject of conversation, the droll knight of the pigskin was asked: "Did you see Caldwell back East?" "Y-e-s; he's doing the best he can. He's very tame now; anybody can hand him an orange." Marty said Caldwell came down to the track, now and then, just to let the people know that he was on earth.

Agricultural Faire.

Governor Budd in his biennial message made the following announcement and as it shows that he has given this subject some consideration and offers a hope that we will have district fairs, we take pleasure in publishing it. The only question to be decided is the number of districts to be made, and if he considers the claims of the leading district associations that have expended thousands of dollars in buying land, erecting buildings, race tracks and pavilions, we know we will have enough fairs. There is no use in having only five fairs as horsemen would not train horses for that number. We believe his excellency understands this thoroughly:

"I believe that the entire State system of agricultural fairs should be reorganized; the State redistricted into a few districts, on which shall be placed, among other things, the responsibility of furnishing information to the State Board of Agriculture and other State officers concerning quarantine and other similar matters."

An Important Convention.

At the request of a number of those interested a convention of the representatives of the District Agricultural Associations, horsemen and breeders has been called to be held at the rooms of the Pacific Coast Trotting Horse Breeders Association on the 15th of this month. The object of the meeting will be primarily to make a concerted effort towards securing legislation that will restore the district appropriation to fairs by framing such a bill as will be most likely to accomplish that purpose. Questions concerning the best means to increase the prosperity and interests of such meetings will be considered. The matter of arranging dates so that there will be no conflict should also be taken up. Everyone present who has an idea of a method which he thinks will advance the interests represented will be given the floor. By appointing committees to carry out the plans decided upon as best at the meeting, much good will be accomplished. It is essential that wherever possible, the representatives of the Agricultural Associations should come with authority from their Boards of Directors to act. The general good of the many interests involved should be the desideratum and this can only be assured by harmony and working together for a common end. It is to be hoped that this convention will receive a large attendance and that those who come will in the meantime give the matter serious thought and prepare themselves for work. It is highly important that active steps should be taken not only to restore the appropriation, but to increase the general interest in everything to stock breeding, agriculture, horticulture and manufacturing interests which will have the effect of restoring energy and life to these great industries. Everyone interested is cordially invited to attend this convention.

Live, Liberal Louisville.

The New Louisville Jockey Club, as enterprising and liberal as any racing organization in the land, offers six brand-new stakes, to be run at the spring meeting of 1897. Entries to these close with Secretary Charles F. Price on the 15th of January, and entry blanks can be had upon application to this office. These stakes, advertised in this issue, are The Debutante, value $1,300; The Cadet, $1,300, and The Kingston, $1,250, for two-year-olds; The Bluegrass, Corncracker and Frank Febr, for three-year-olds, all worth $1,300. At this spring meeting will also be run the $10,000 Kentucky Futurity, the $6,000 Kentucky Derby, the $4,000 Clark Stakes and the Kentucky Oaks, worth $3,500. Horsemen going East in the spring with their strings cannot afford to overlook these stakes, the conditions to which are liberal in the extreme.

Cincinnati Jockey Club's Big Stakes.

In this issue of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN will be found advertised nine rich stakes for the very enterprising Cincinnati Jockey Club's spring meeting of 1897, three for the fall meeting of 1897 and three for the spring meeting of 1898. Entries to all these exceedingly tempting morsels for turfmen are to close January 15, 1897, with W. R. Letcher, Secretary, Room 303, Neave Building, Cincinnati, Ohio. Of the spring stakes, 1897, the Sapphire is for two-year-old fillies, five furlongs, value $1,500; The Emerald, for two-year-old colts and geldings, five and one-half furlongs, $1,500; The Ruby, selling, for two-year-olds, top price $2,500, five furlongs, value $1,250; The Diamond, for two-year-olds, penalties and allowances, six furlongs, $1,500; The Ohio Stakes, selling, three-year-olds, seven-furlongs, $1,500; The Cincinnati Press Stakes, all ages, penalties and allowances, six furlongs, $1,500; The Losantiville Stakes, three-year-olds and over, selling, mile and a sixteenth, $1,500; The Fourth of July Handicap, three-year-olds and upward, one and one-fourth miles, $1,800, and The Christian Moerlein Brewing Company Stakes, handicap, three-year-olds and upwards, one and one-eighth miles, $1,500. For the Fall meeting entries are to close on the 15th inst. in The Garnet, The Gem and The Pearl, all worth $1,500, distances respectively, six-furlongs, one mile and six furlongs. The 1898 stakes advertised are the Oakley Derby, one and one-fourth miles, $2,500 added, of which $350 to second and $150 to third, $50 forfeit, or only $30 if declared August 1, 1897, $150 in all to start. The Buckeye Stakes, $1,500 added, one and one-eighth miles, and The Cincinnati Oaks, for three-year-old fillies, one and one-sixteenth miles, $1,250 added. The Derby and Buckeye Stakes are for three-year-olds. We hope to see a long list of entries sent on from California to these very liberal stake events. Read the advertisement over carefully and don't delay sending in your entries.

Royally-Bred Hackneys.

In New York City, on Wednesday, February 3, 1897, at 11 a. m., the greatest sale of registered hackneys in American history is booked to take place at the New American Horse Exchange, Broadway and Fiftieth street, under the management of W. D. Grand. In this sale is the champion hackney stallion, Matchless of Londesboro, and fifty of his get, including eleven full-blooded colts and several imported hackney mares, among the number champion Lady Alice and Danish Girl. See the advertisement in this issue.

New and Rich Stakes of the C. J. C.

The California Jockey Club has instituted six new stakes for two-year-olds, entries to which close January 12th with R. B. Milroy, Secretary, 204 Sutter street, San Francisco, Cal. These events are the Elmwood Stakes, weights ten pounds below the scale, special conditions, value $1000, of $200 to second and $100 to third, four furlongs; The Flying Stakes, for fillies, weights 5 pounds below the scale, allowances, value same as Elmwood, four furlongs; The Racing Stakes, selling, top price $2000, value $1000, four furlongs; The Waterhouse Stake, five pounds below the scale, valued $1,250 penalties and allowances, four and one-half furlongs; The General Arthur Cigar Stake, $1,250, penalties and allowances, four and one-half furlongs, and the Candelaria Handicap value $1,500, five furlongs. In these events it costs $10 to enter and $25 additional to start. Don't forget the date of closing (January 12th), and enter your youngsters liberally, for if you intend selling it greatly enhances their value. See advertisement in this issue.

St. Louis' Stake Offering.

The St. Louis Fair Association, one of the most influential and enterprising organizations of its kind in the world, offers no less than eighteen rich stakes to the attention of turfmen throughout the country, entries to which close January 15, 1897, with Robert Aull, Secretary, Fair Grounds, St. Louis, Missouri. The Inaugural is worth $2,000, Debutante $1,500, Kindergarten $1,500, Two-year-old Championship $2,000, Memorial $1,800, Club Members' Handicap $3,000, Brewers' $1,500, Mississippi Valley $1,500, Meremac $1,500, Goldenrod $1,500, Laurel $1,500, Missouri $1,500, Independence $1,500, Mound City $1,500, Ozark $1,500, Isabella $1,500, Chrysanthemum $1,500, while the St. Louis Derby for 1898 has $5,000 added. Read the advertisement in this issue, and if you are as liberal as the club there will be a grand list of nominations.

Liberal Latonia.

The Latonia Jockey Club, as usual, is well to the front in the matter of offering rich stakes to the attention of turfmen throughout the country. In our columns this week will be found advertised a host of the club's stake events, entries to which are booked to close January 15, 1897, with Secretary E. C. Hopper, Covington, Ky. The Clipsetta, Harold, Sensation and Covington Spring Stakes, to be run next spring, are for two-year-olds, the first three worth $1,500, the fourth $1,250, distances five, five, six and five and one-half furlongs. The three-year-old events to be run at the spring meeting are The Ripple Stakes and Latonia Spring Prize, each worth $1,500, distances respectively one mile and a mile and an eighth. For three-year-olds and upwards there are offered the Tobacco, Mildale, Decoration Handicap Cincinnati Hotel Handicap and the Kentucky Steeplechase, worth $1,500, $1,500, $1,800, $1,500 and $1,000. In the fall of 1897 the Kimball, Zoo Zoo and Central Kentucky Stakes, for two-year-olds, will be down for decision, and all are worth $1,500 apiece, the distances, six furlongs, six furlongs, six furlongs and one mile. The 1898 spring stakes now open, all for three-year-olds (foals of 1895), are the Latonia Derby one and one-half miles, $2,500 added, $100 to start; Himyar Stakes, one and one-eighth miles, $1,500 added, and the Latonia Oaks, for fillies, one and one-fourth miles, $1,250 added. These are certainly worth the attention of every owner of a promising youngster in the land, and we shall be disappointed if a large number of entries are not received from Coast turfmen.

Liberal, Brand-New Stakes of the P. C. J. C.

On the 15th of the present month entries to a number of rich stakes just inaugurated by the Pacific Coast Jockey Club will close with Secretary W. S. Leake, Parlors A and B, Palace Hotel, this city. The stakes we refer to are The Corrigan, a handicap sweepstakes for two-year-olds, guaranteed $1000 to the owner of the first horse, $200 to second and $100 to third, distance five furlongs; The White Seal Stakes, for two-year-old fillies, value the same as the Corrigan, distance four furlongs; Androus Stakes, for two-year-olds, value same as others, four and a half furlongs; The Ullman Stakes, a selling sweepstakes for two-year-olds, top price $2000, worth same as the above, also four and a half furlongs, and lastly, The Schreiber Stakes, for two-year-old colts and geldings, also worth $1000 to the owner of the first horse, $200 to second, $100 to third. In all these events the entrance fee of $10 must accompany the entry, it costing $25 additional to start. Owners of two-year-old gallopers cannot afford to overlook these liberal stakes, and we hope to see them filled with the flower of the younger flock. See advertisement in this issue.

Memphis a Great Racing Center.

The New Memphis Jockey Club is certainly making a big bid for the patronage of turfmen all over the country, as a glance at the rich stakes offered by that organization, and advertised in this issue, will show. Entries to these very liberal events close January 15, 1897, and all nominations should be addressed to "New Memphis Jockey Club, Room 2, Cotton Exchange Building, Memphis, Tenn." The Tennessee Derby, is guaranteed worth $5,000, the Tennessee Oaks has $1,500 added, the Gaston Hotel Stakes $1,000 added, the Ardelle Stakes 1,000 added, the Memphis Stakes $1,000 added, the New Gayoso Hotel Stakes is worth $1,000, the Luehrmann Hotel Stakes is valued at $1,500, the Peabody Hotel Handicap worth $1,500; the Montgomery Handicap has $200 added, while the Cotton Stakes (steeplechase) has $500 added. Surely these stakes should be well-filled with entries from this part of the world.

Ideal Park Association to the Fore.

The new Ideal Park Racing Association, of which Martin Nathanson is Secretary, with headquarters at 932 Monadnock Building Chicago, Ill., makes rapid strides to the front by offering no less than nineteen rich, guaranteed stakes, entries to which close March 1, 1897. The chief event is the Ideal Park Handicap, for three-year-olds and upward, guaranteed worth $6,000, distance one mile and three-sixteenths; the Wisconsin Handicap, all ages, guaranteed $2,500, six furlongs. Then follows seventeen other stakes, ranging in value from $1,000 to $1,500. Very wealthy men are members of this association, and they have a fine racing plant in Wisconsin about midway between Chicago and Milwaukee. Read the advertisement in this issue. The entrance fee will be a nominal one, and racing begins at Ideal Park on the 3d of May.

Bargaine in Horeeflesh.

Opportunity is offered to secure a number of splendid argains in thoroughbred horseflesh of the agents of W. O'B. Macdonough—Superintendent James McDonnell, Menlo Stock Farm, Potlata, San Mateo, County, Cal., or A. S. Baldwin, 10 Montgomery street, this city. A number of thoroughbred mares are in the offering, besides several St. Carlo yearlings. As the breeding season will soon commence this chance to get most excellent mares should not be overlooked. Mr. Macdonoughs band of selected mares for individuality and blood lines is not surpassed by those belonging to any other horse breeders in California and he offers these at ridiculously low prices.

HOOF-BEATS.

At the last Auckland meeting, in the principal stake events, Cannon Shot, by Artillery, won the Ricarton Welter Handicap. In the Stewards handicap ha was second to Vanilla, by Vanguard, and in the Auction Handicap Belligerent by Artillery won. In the Oak Stakes Firefly by Artillery was beaten for third place by a nose. This splendid Musket stallion was brought to California last season and was bred to some good mares at Rancho del Paso.

WE are in receipt of the following letter from P. J. Hanon, at Marcus Daly's Bitter Root Farm: HAMILTON, Mont., Dec. 29, 1896. BREEDER & SPORTSMAN, San Francisco, Cal., Gentlemen:—We note in your issue of the 26th inst. that you have added to imp. Hard Tack's name something that does not belong to it, namely, "In England." The error probably arises from the fact that when our last catalogue was issued this horse was in England, and this was noted by bracketing the words (in England) after his name.

THE Caulfield Cup was won this season by Mr. J. Mitchell's h g Cremorne, a, by Glorious-Nes, carrying 121 lbs, Straightfire, br h, a, by Grand Planar-Crossfire second, with 101 lbs., Le Var br c, 3, by Lochiel-La Valette, third. He ran the mile and a half in 2:38, ridden by E. Huxley. Cremorne was at 30 to 1 in the betting. This seems to be a lucky name for a race horse. Cremorne won the Epsom Derby in England, a Cremorne was a crack racer in Kentucky in the late seventies, and now a Cremorne wins the Caulfield Cup, 2,000 sovereigns to the winner.

AFTER an absence of some twelve years Altamont has returned to California, and that length of time has made small difference in his appearance. He can safely be rated as the best son of Almont without detracting from the well-earned fame of others. Six in 2:10 or better is a record held by him alone, and surely no one will say that his chances have been as favorable as others have secured. A triding sway of the hack is about all the change in his formation, and the hardness of constitution is still evident. Eating all that he is given and prone to play when driven. A game, resolute trotter, some of the praise must be given his grandam, very nearly or quite thoroughbred.

BEUZETTA seems delighted with her return to California. In a big paddock at Pleasanton, Saturday last, grass above her ankles, blue sky and warm sunshine, she exhibited such an exhilaration of spirits that told as plainly as words her intense satisfaction. From end to end of the paddock at a trot so fast and true that it seemed a two-minute clip without question, and unable to work off the excess of good feeling in that way, gambled as blithely as a two-year-old. She has greatly improved in appearance, "filled out" and rounded, and in place of the angularity of colthood matured into a grand specimen of the American trotter. Another winter here will overcome the slight attack of influenza which it is said was the trouble last season.

THE Longworth's are doing well and in all probability some of them will appear on the tracks the coming season. Longworth by Sidney, his dam Grey Dale, the dam of Silver Thread,—by American Boy Jr. is good enough breeding, and then his record in the teens is another mark in his favor. Better yet his colt a showing well. With very little training a yearling has trotted in 2:37. A two-year-old in 2:35 and a three-year-old in 2:32. These are all pacers, though their dams are by Antero, Antevolo and Geo. M. Patchen Jr. He, and the colts named, are owned by A. C. Dietz, so prominent a few years in harness-racing circles who has a stock farm near Santa Paula, Ventura Co., California.

"Jay Eye See, 2:10."

Mr. Jackson L. Case, Manager of Hickory Grove Farm, at Racine, Wis., Home of Jay Eye See, writes: "After trying every known remedy I removed a large hunch from a three-year-old filly of two years' standing, with three applications of Quinn's Ointment. It is the best preparation I have ever used or heard of. I heartily recommend it to all horsemen." For cuts, splints, spavins, windpuffs and all hunches use this marvelous cure worth many times its price. Price $1.50. For sale by J. A. McKerron and J. O'Kaue, S. F. also druggists in general.

Yee! Yee! Yee!

MR. WILLIAM CORBITT WILL CLOSE OUT HIS FAMOUS STUD.—Peter C. Kellogg, Auctioneer and Sale Manager, has received so many inquiries since the announcement of the sale of Mr. William Corbitt's San Mateo Trotting Stud, to take place at Madison Square Garden, February 16 to 19, 1897, that we are requested to make the following statements in order to head off further correspondence and satisfy the public demand for exact facts.

Many have asked: Will Guy Wilkes and Sable Wilkes be sold? The answer is yes. The only stallion of any importance that will be temporarily retained is Oro Wilkes, for reasons that will appear later.

Others have asked: Will Mr. Corbitt sell all of his great producing mares? The answer is yes, with a possible qualification in one or two instances not dependent upon their quality, but upon circumstances that will necessarily prevent their shipment. Four or five of his mares are so timed that they would be liable to foal in transit, and these will have to be left at home, but will be shipped to a later sale. The necessity of holding these mares back explains why Mr. Corbitt will retain Oro Wilkes until they are sold. Of course, ha would prefer to hold back Sable Wilkes or Guy Wilkes, but that would raise a doubt in the mind of the public as to whether he really intended closing out. It is not thought that more than one or possibly two of the greatest mares will need to be held back.

Others have asked: Will the best of his stake-colt "prospects" be included? The answer is yes. In fact those are the very ones that are included. Mr. Corbitt will ship all the yearlings (which at the sale will rate as yearlings) that are engaged in the great stakes. He will not ship to this market, however, his other yearlings from untied mares, as the New York market for very young stock has not of late been sufficiently encouraging in view of the fact that the cost of freight from California, when all incidentals are paid, amounts to over $100 per head. Ha will therefore close out at a sale in California such animals as apparently could not profitably be shipped to New York.

As a breeder who has gone in and placed his stock in the thickest of the fight and come off so victoriously on the great trotting circuits that on various occasions he has held the highest winning animal or the greatest winning stable or the leading winning sire; few men rank with Mr. Corbitt. His stud was never a large one and, therefore it must have been its superior quality that enabled him during the past decade to put up such a fight, for his winnings have been almost exclusively with horses of his own breeding. Certainly no breeder who has bred so few has won so much. If ha has been equalled by any other breeder whose horses were home-bred (which may be doubted) it must have been by some owner of a much larger stud. The fact that he maintained a home trotting stable operated against the success of his former sales, as it invariably does in all such cases, although his offerings have proved very superior. The buying public is greatly influenced by the apparent motive of the owner in selling. Now that the cream of this highly successful stud is to be sold, Mr. Kellogg is not far amiss in claiming that its closing out will constitute the most really important event in the trotting world since the memorabilia dispersal of Mr. L. J. Ross's stock in 1890. Read the advertisement.

Sires of Two or More in the 2:10 List.

The stallions that have sired two or more performers that have entered that select circle, the 2:10 list, number twenty-five. The sons of George Wilkes predominate in a large degree over the sons of any other sire, he having ten to his credit, the aggregate number of the get of which is 26. Onward has four to his credit, while his sons (Shadeland Onward and Mikeagan) have five. George Wilkes' grandsons in this list, of which there are four, show in the aggregate nine, making a total of thirty-five that descended through the male line to the "Hero of Ashgrove." The leading stallion in this list, it will be seen, is the Oregon horse, Altamont, with six to his credit, closely followed by the Tennessee favorite, Brown Hal, with five. Electioneer and Young Jim each have three trotters with records of 2:10 or better, which is unequalled by any others. Guy Wilkes, Wilton, Jay Bird and Alcyona, all sons of George Wilkes, have two each. The only stallions that are in the list and have representatives in the list are Direct, Roy Wilkes, Lockheart and Gazette.

Below was given a table of the stallions who have had two or more of their produce to trot or pace in 2:10 or better, together with their sires and the number in the list:

RAVENNA, Ohio, Feb. 10, 1896.

H. S. Bossart & Co., Latrobe, Pa. Gentlemen:—The bottle of Curine I ordered from you did its work to perfection. For Wind Puffs and ugly sores on horses I believe it has no equal. It is indispensable in the stable of a human horse owner.

Yours sincerely, L. H. BEAN.

DENVER, Colo., June 5, 1895.

I had a very bad running sore on my left foot for over a year. Could find nothing to relieve me until I tried DeHuy's Balm-oline. I now wear my shoe and my foot seems as well as ever.

The Situation To-Day.

Now that the holiday season is over perhaps you had better get ready to put a little more enthusiasm into the horse business. It is in worse condition than any other and it will not take much good feeling, all along the line, to make things seem like the days of the industry in which a man looked upon his horses as his best property. The skeptic and the chronic complainer have held the field too long. They mistook the fall of the gingerbread trimmings for the destruction of the structure. In their minds the failure of a horse to sell for $60,000 one year that had cost $30,000 the year before, was the best evidence in the world that the business, of itself, was doomed to decay. They did not reason from cause to effect—in fact they did not even go into a search for cause, but set up a croaking and have carried it on with an exhibition of stamina that makes a breeder anxious to get some for his colts every time he thinks about it. But it is about the season for parting company with the calamity howlers in the business, or rather on the edge of the business, for they have never been deeply interested in it. There will be a great number of high-class race meetings in 1897 and a very year thereafter. Purse and stakes are not growing smaller. Bed rock in that line was reached some months ago and the tendency now is in the direction of a conservative increase up to a certain safety point. The borse that races well or drives well is in greater demand than ever, and the price asked for a good one may go well into the thousands and not disconcert the prospective buyer in the least. Men are not staying awake nights for fear a good prospect will get away from them, but they are on the alert, whereas a year ago many of the same individuals did not care a rap to look at any sort of horse with a view to purchasing. The demand has increased instead of fallen off. Scores of men have gone out of the breeding business under the immutable law of supply and demand that is so much the better for those who have remained. All the scares, including electricity and the bicycle, have been but scares so far as the really good horse of any special breed is concerned. It is, therefore, time for every interested person to get out of the "dumps." The lessons of the past four years have been thoroughly taught. A few may not have learned them, which will ha to their undoing at no distant date, but the greater number know them to the last punctuation mark. The demands of the market are not mysterious, and the one fact ever uppermost in the mind of the shrewd breeder is that merit alone commands a premium, or to be entirely within the truth, any profitable price at all. Horses can now be raised and sold at a comfortable margin of gain, and there will be an increase over that very soon, so that the breeder who, after all, is the person most deeply interested, has no reason for giving way to a feeling of despondency if he is on the right track in his breeding operations. As to the campaigner, we see no reason why ha should lose hope. Few tracks have been abandoned of late and there is no prospect that material additions will be made to the number. It has been said by some one that it takes a better one now to win than ever before. There is nothing in that contention, for it always did take a good one and it always will. Besides, the chances to get better ones have increased, which would offset any disadvantage that might have arisen through a change in the quality of the horse raced.

There is no particular cloud in the sky these closing days of the year. There is no storm in sight. The horse business has survived the very worst that can possibly come to it and is still one of the greatest interests known to America. We believe the men in it have given sufficient evidence that they have pluck and energy. They can and will realize on their investments, and we do not think they will waste much time listening to the men whose sole stock in trade is a case of the "blues." In 1897 business affairs will restore themselves to the proper basis and horse interests will be in good condition as is possible to get some of the benefits. Let us stop mourning over what has passed and stock up on some genuine enthusiasm for the future.—Horse Review.

Pacific Kennel Club.

The regular monthly meeting of the Pacific Kennel Club held at the Occidental Hotel last Wednesday evening, brought out barely a quorum. President H. Bier was in the chair, the other members present were: Financial Secretary C. A. Haight, Recording Secretary H. W. Orear, H. C. Golcher, F. H. Bushnell, James E. Watson, T. J. Watson, S. E. Fisher, E. W. Briggs, E. H. Wakeman and A. Russell Crowell.

The treasurer reported a balance of $304.35 cash on hand. The committee on constitution and by-laws reported progress.

W. S. Schmidt's letter regarding medals was ordered laid on the table.

The resolution to disband that was laid on the table at the last meeting was then taken up. The secretary reported that only nine postals had been received in answer to the circular letter mailed to the members of the club. Eight of these were in favor of continuing the club, but only one of the writers was present at the meeting.

E. W. Briggs moved that the club disband and join the Olympic Gun Club, but the motion was not acted upon. He then moved that the resolution to disband be postponed indefinitely and the motion was carried.

On motion a committee of three, consisting of E. W. Briggs, F. H. Bushnell and C. A. Haight, were appointed to wait upon the board of directors of the Olympic Gun Club and interview the members of the Pacific Kennel Club with a view to ascertaining on what terms a consolidation can be effected.

After considerable talk the meeting adjourned.

The committee, on learning that the Board of Directors of the Olympic Gun Club were still in session, went at once to the club house and conferred with them.

The board were found to be unanimously in favor of consolidation, and it was determined to call a special meeting of the Pacific Kennel Club on Tuesday evening next and get the views of the members, and if possible consolidate at once and claim dates for a bench show.

We are sorry to see the Pacific Kennel Club lose its identity, but as things are going the club will cease to exist if left to itself. The scurrilous pen of our contemporary has created so much disgust at kennel matters by members of the club that no one cares to accept any office in the club for fear of having his character assailed and his private business injured by the villainous slander of the "mischief maker."

It is an ill wind that blows no good to anyone, and the mischief maker should be thanked by the dog lovers of this state. A bench show held by the Olympic Gun Club with 200 members to work for its success will bring out 500 dogs and have the greatest financial success of any show ever held on this coast. Our San Francisco shows will rival many of the Eastern ones and the dog interest of this section of the state will receive the greatest boom it has ever known.

We are heartily in favor of the Pacific Kennel Club merging into the Olympic Gun Club and every lover of the dog that looks into the matter carefully must acknowledge that in no way can the doggy interests be better served.

The Sacramento Show.

The entries to the initial show of the California State Poultry and Kennel Club to be held at Sacramento on Jan. 9-12 closed on the 1st with the very fair entry of 149. Considering that this is the first show of the club and the fact that this is the hunting season and all sporting dogs are out of show condition, the entry is a good one. Stockton only mustered 177.

Stockton will send 33 or 34 dogs. Oakland and San Francisco about 50. The St. Bernards, greyhounds and Great Danes are mostly Sacramento dogs. One singularity of the entry is the fact that there is not a single fox terrier in the open bitch class.

Judging will begin promptly at 10 a. m. to-day.

The entry is as follows:

St. Bernard's (Rough and Smooth).....	20	Bull terriers.....	3
Poiners.....	19	Newfoundland.....	2
Cocker spaniels.....	18	Chesapeake Bay dogs.....	2
Great Danes.....	13	Gordon setters.....	2
Greyhounds.....	13	Beagles.....	2
Irish setters.....	9	Pugs.....	2
Collies.....	9	Irish terriers.....	2
Dalmatians.....	9	Griffons.....	2
Fox terriers (Smooth and Wire).....	8	Bloodhounds.....	1
English setters.....	7	Pomeranians.....	1
Fox hounds.....	5	Scottish terriers.....	1
Field spaniels.....	4	Poodles.....	1
Irish water spaniels.....	3	Total.....	119

Judges at the Westminster K. C. Show.

Tha judges who have agreed to judge at the Westminster Kennel Club Show, and those who have been invited to officiate are as follows says Turf Field and Farm:

Miss A. H. Whitney will judge St. Bernards at the coming show.

Dr. Rich H. Derby, President of the American Mastiff Club, has been invited to judge mastiffs and bloodhounds, but as he is in England, his reply must be necessarily delayed.

Mr. H. W. Lacy will judge poodles.
Mr. R. D. Perry, President Brunswick Fur Club, will judge American foxhounds.

Mr. Geo. B. Post Jr., has been invited to judge beagles.

Mr. Chas. D. Bernbaimer has been invited to judge Great Danes.

Mr. Dwight Baldwin, Allston, Mass., will judge Boston terriers.

There will be a special judge for English foxhounds.

Mr. L. A. Klein will judge dachshunds and Messrs. Raper and Astley will take most of the other breeds, Mr. Raper taking many of the sporting classes.

Mr. Andrew Laidlaw has been asked to judge cockers.

There will be all told 266 classes as against 246 at the last show.

A Doggy Marriage.

We are continually hearing of the extraordinary way in which dogs are dressed up in France, but perhaps the most remarkable in its connection is an entertainment which is said recently to have taken place in Paris consisting of a wedding of two poodles says the Shooting Times. The hostess for the occasion was Madame Ephrussi, who in order to provide some amusement invited all her friends who possessed dogs to bring them to her house to attend the wedding of her favorite poodle, by name Diana. The dress of the bride consisted of white satin trimmed with valuable lace, a long tulle veil and orange blossom. That of the bridegroom, a big white poodle, belonging to Baron Alphonse de Rothschild, the father of Madame Ephrussi, was a full evening dress with an enormous favor in his buttonhole. The ceremony took place in the big hall room.

On a dais at the end of the hall room was perched a bulldog belonging to Comte de Berteux, who, sitting on his haunches on a magnificently embroidered cushion, represented Monsieur la Maire, a tall silk hat having been tied on his head, and a tricolor sash, badge of office, tied round his waist. On the arrival of the poodle bride and bridegroom, walking on their hind legs, the bulldog was induced to bark two or three times, which was supposed to constitute the formula prescribed by the French marriage law. There were several canine bridesmaids, dressed in embroidered white satin coats and veils, the remainder of the dogs bringing up the rear on all fours. The marriage register, which was in an adjoining room, was signed by all the human guests, the signature of the dogs being inscribed by their owners.

Antidote for Strychnine.

I noticed in a recent issue the query, what is best to carry to antidote strychnine poison, when shooting. I have saved many dogs in the field and in different sections where I have lived by mother tincture of belladonna.

Get the green root or mother tincture at any homoeopathic pharmacy, and if the dog has had but one spasm ten to fifteen drops down its throat will antidote the poison; if not, repeat every fifteen minutes. When the dog has had the poison down long enough to cause paralysis, and is unable to swallow, a syringe can be used per rectum—twenty to thirty drops; and seldom does one have to use but two doses, either by mouth or rectum.

I have saved dogs when given up by veterinary surgeons, and I believe any dog can be saved so long as there is circulation enough to take up the antidote.—C. B. McKibbin, in American Field.

DOINGS IN DOGDOM.

The "Butterflies" bench show cleared $1000.

A pug dog club will be the next specialty club.

The Baltimore Kennel Association will hold a bench show on March 23-26.

The kennel prize at Sacramento will probably be limited to three dogs of one breed.

The Stockton Kennel Club offer a gold medal for best dog entered by one of its members at the Sacramento Bench Show.

The regular monthly meeting of the St. Bernard Club of California will be held at this office on Wednesday evening next.

Cbas. Barker has severed his connection as trainer of the Del Monte Kennel, and Frank Richards will hereafter handle the kennel's dogs.

Over $6000 are offered in the spaniel classes alone at the New York show. The regular class prizes at $20, $15, $10 and $5. Kennel prizes $20.

We understand that Mr. L. P. C. Astley will accompany Mr. George Raper to New York to assist at the judging of the Westminster Kennel Club Show.

Dr. A. C. Davenport proprietor of the Echo Cocker Kennels is getting together an excellent kennel of cockers. See his advertisement in our business columns.

We are very pleased to learn that John E. Doak has purchased a pair of haigles in the East. This useful little bound should become very popular on this coast.

John I. Sparrow's bull terrier Harper Whiskey is proving a grand stud dog. He has only been out here a short time, but has already produced 21 good, healthy pups in two litters. Harper will be shown at Sacramento.

The latest Kennel Club is the Kentucky Kennel Club. The officers of the new club are: President, Gen'l John B. Castlamen; Vice Presidents, Roger D. Williams and Henry J. Cary-Carr; Secretaries, H. L. Means and J. A. Reaves; Treasurer, L. O. Cox.

One of the best English setter puppies that we have seen this year is P. D. Linville's lemon and white bitch Ray Bernardo by a son of Roderigo out of Minnie Noble. She is a remarkably well put up pup with nice head and expression and we trust that friend Linville will have good luck with her.

Charles H. Mason's facile pen is making a great change in the Kennel department of Turf, Field and Farm. Among the many notes this week we notice that J. L. Winchell has a grand mastiff pup closely related to Beaufort's Black Prince that he thinks will play havoc with the prizes one of these days.

We are informed by a reliable party that a Rough Coated St. Bernard dog arrived at the Oakland mola on Wednesday morning en route to Chas. R. Harker of San Jose from Alma, Neb. "He had no flesh on him at all, not having eaten since he left home. The express messenger reported that he had even refused turkey. One could hardly imagine a dog in worse condition."

THE current issue of the "Stock Keeper" says: Russell A. Alger Jr. is going into bull terriers strongly, and has recently through Mr. Bellin, purchased the English prize winner, Indian Queen, that won three firsts and special at Birmingham last year. Before this is read Mr. Alger may be able to call the noted Tommy Tickle his own as well. He will show at Boston and New York.

T. J. Fish of Oakland will take a string of 38 dogs to Sacramento. D. J. Sinclair will assist him. The string consists of 4 Great Danes, 5 cocker spaniels, 4 foxhounds, 3 English setters, 2 Irish setters, 2 bloodhounds, 1 mastiff, 1 bulldog, 1 bull terrier, 1 St. Bernard, 2 Irish water spaniels, 1 fox terrier and one pointer. Several new faces are among the number.

An Annsdale, Kan., man lost two dogs, which, he it noted, had been docked. One day he saw two dogs which looked much like his former pets, and he hauled 'em court the man in whose possession they were and claimed them as his property. He testified that his dogs had docked tails, and when it was pointed out that these two had not, he asserted that the tails evidently had grown again! A Kansas man is not easily discouraged.—American Field.

Hugh McCracken brought us one evening this week, the rough coated St. Bernard dog, Prince Oscar II by Reglow—Olive. This is one of the very best pups of the year, with a very good head and muzzle for his age, nice expression, good coat both in color, texture and quality, fine depth of body and splendid bone and feet. He is only eight months old, but except perhaps in height he will measure with most of the 18 month pups. He was bred by Jos. Moll, and gets exercise by turning the wheel that grinds the corn, runs the washing machine, churn, etc.

The Turf Field and Farm tells us of a newcomer in dogdom, as follows: Mr. Thomas P. Evans, racetrack correspondent, and who was a warm admirer and breeder of the foxterrier, has left the vicinity of Parkville, L. I., and by this time is in California. He takes with him the hitches Minnie Evans and Grove Surety, the latter a little sister to Grove Safety. "Tom" will find much to interest him on the Slope, as he was always up in coursing matters, and had in England several hundreds of greyhounds in his kennels. He was a member of coursing clubs in England, Ireland and Scotland, and going into a country where coursing is so large a feature, it will be strange if he does not drift back to his first fancy. We wish him every success in his new home.

It is astonishing what a number of good fellows there are who never stop asking for "more kennel news," "more space devoted to the dog," "reports of shows and field trials," something about "the dogs on the other side," and so forth. And yet just about one-half of these advisers neither advertise in, subscribe to nor contribute articles for the journal they are so anxious should push their business without cost to themselves. There are even those who walk a mile or two every week to get the news rather than pay four dollars a year for it, and these are the ones who have the nerve to write and tell you that Molly Dear has just had a most wonderful litter of pups, some of which may be for sale! If dog fanciers want a "dog paper," which means kennel business for themselves, they must do their share. It costs money to get out a publication like Turf, Field and Farm, and if they do not do their share the result in the end must, of course, be the same as in the case of other publications which have devoted space to kennel interests only to find that this department is not a profitable adjunct of a sportsman's journal. [The above par written for the Turf, Field and Farm applies equally as well to the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN].

The Sportsmen's Protective Association.

The Sportsman's Protective Association began the new year by giving up the fight against the preserve clubs.

At the meeting held on Tuesday evening last questions relating to preserves and slough blockades were discussed at length, and Attorney Schmidt of the association stated that owing to the present condition of affairs he believed it would be a foolish move of the association to continue the fight against the preserve system any longer, as the Supreme Court had in a measure decided that question beyond all doubt.

In his address to the association Mr. Schmidt said that as long as there was hope he was in favor of fighting against the introduction of preserves, but so long as the Supreme Court of this State has intimated that it would decide against the aims of the association if called upon to pass judgment on the question of salt marsh preserves, the only hope left for the members was to dig down into their pockets and leasas, as others have done and are doing, a tract of land for shooting purposes.

After considerable discussion the association reluctantly decided to acknowledge its defeat at the hands of the Supreme bench and decided to lease lands suitable for duck-shooting purposes.

The following committee on preserves was appointed: M. H. Sweeney, W. J. Ahern and Charles Fitzsimmons. They will report at the next meeting of the association.

The association thought that some changes were necessary in the fish and game laws, and it was resolved that its attorneys be instructed to make the necessary alterations and forward the same to the vice-president at Sacramento. The additions suggested are that any person found with trout in possession less than six inches in length at any season of the year will be guilty of a misdemeanor, etc.; that English snipe be included in the law which protects game birds during the breeding season; that the duck shooting season close on March 15, instead of February 15, as it is at present.

The latter suggestion came from several members, who stated that the canvassback and bluebill were very late arrivals from the north, and the closing of the season in February, shut off the best shooting of the year. Mr. Truman said the farmers were very anxious that the duck shooting season be prolonged, as certain varieties of wild ducks were partial to the growing grain.

The annual election of officers resulted as follows: President, William J. Ahern; Vice-President, Alexander Truman; Secretary-Treasurer, Charles Fitzsimmons; Directors—M. F. Berges, Frank E. Sweeney, W. S. C. Schmidt and A. T. Penebsky.

The Lee-Metford Rifle.

In the Chitral campaign the stopping powers of the Lee-Metford rifle bullet were shown (says the Calcutta correspondent of the London Times) to be so small that the British soldiers lost confidence in their weapon. One tribesman who had been hit by six bullets was treated in the hospital and made a good recovery. The military authorities after considering reports from responsible officers who had taken part in the campaign, addressed themselves to the task of making a Lee-Metford bullet which, without losing its ranging powers, should still inflict a wound sufficiently severe to stop even the most determined fanatics.

Various sporting bullets were tried; but while these had unquestionable stopping powers, they would not carry to the long ranges required for military purposes. Eventually Captain Bertie Clay, R. A., superintendent of the Dnm Dum Ammunition Factory, invented a bullet which gave most satisfactory results in every way. Though necessarily there was some loss of penetrating power against hard substances, it was found that the new bullet actually gave better shooting at 1,000 yards than the existing service bullet, while when fired at carcasses of animals it inflicted severe wounds. Before finally adopting this bullet the Commander-in-Chief decided that it should be tried at the annual rifle meeting at Meerut this month, where nearly all the British and native regiments in the Punjab and Bengal commands are represented. The experiment consisted in firing at different objects, such as planks in rear of each other, bags of coal, sandbags, tins of dry and moist sand, and wine cases divided into three compartments filled with earth. One butt was specially devoted to carcasses of sheep. All the objects were fired at with both the present service bullet and the new bullet, except the sheep, which were only fired at with the new bullet. The result fully justified Colonel Hill's confidence in the new bullet, and the difference between the holes made in the various objects and the amount of "setting up" in each case was very marked.

The service bullet was found to have drilled clean holes, and where penetration was complete the hole of exit was little, if any, larger than the hole of entry, and the bullet itself was not deformed, only showing the marks of the rifling; but the exit holes made by the new bullet were much larger, and, although the penetration was sufficient, the bullet was either mushroomed or the nickel shell and lead had parted company. The wounds made in carcasses of sheep showed that the destruction of bone and tissue perforated by the new bullet was tremendous, and conclusively proved the stopping powers of the projectile. The Commander-in-Chief inspected the results of the firing, more particularly the wounds in the carcasses, and it is understood that he expressed himself satisfied that the new bullets met all requirements.

Various Colours of Rattlesnakes.

A few days ago a Mexican was exhibiting on the streets of Pomona a rattlesnake that he had captured in one of the neighboring canyons. He was leading the snake around by a cord of horse hair, fastened about its neck and tied to the end of a sharp rod or walking stick. Some Mexicans are experts at catching rattlers. They always take them alive if they can, and they seldom fail, for it is a lively snake that can escape them when they are armed from the fray, says the Rod and Gun.

If they cannot sell their captive alive they kill it and sell the skin at a good price for hatband or a belt. The snake in question was a rare specimen. It was about three feet long plump and sleek, and almost as black as coal. Nobody had ever seen a black rattler before. One man declared that it was no rattlesnake because it was black.

One of the interested spectators, who had been looking the snake over carefully, but had said nothing, was Jacob Morency, an old mining prospector, who had travelled over nearly all of the mineral regions of Southern California and Mexico. The man who had scouted the idea of a rattlesnake being black turned to Morency and said: "What do you think about it, Jake?"

"Well," said the latter, "you'd better not let him bite you, unless you're ready to pay your debts, say your prayers and die; for he's a rattler all right enough. Rattlesnakes are not like chameleons, exactly—they can't change their color in the twinkling of an eye—but they are of a greater variety of colors than cows are. I have seen them of every color imaginable, and always of the same color as the soil or rocks in which they are found, and the diamond-shaped spots on their sides and back are sometimes lighter and sometimes darker than the rest. I once saw a rattlesnake caught in a canyon in Lower California, near San Fernando, that was almost as black as jet, and the diamond spots were lined with white. Two years ago I killed a rattler in Paria Valley, in Northern Arizona, that was three and a half feet long, and of a deep red color, with diamonds of jet black. I think it was the handsomest snake I ever saw. I have his skin yet. In another valley not more than forty miles from there I saw rattlesnakes as yellow as ochre, with reddish diamonds. Brown rattlesnakes with dark spots are the most common. But the queerest looking rattler I ever saw, a friend of mine and I caught in Lower California five or six years ago.

"We were riding along the western coast of the peninsula, about opposite Guadalupe, when we came upon a rattlesnake as white as milk, with faint black lines outlining the diamond spots. It was the only white one I ever saw, though I have seen many light-colored. It had simply taken on the color of the white rocks and sand where it lived. We captured it alive, and took it to San Diego and sold it for $25 to a man named King, who was gathering rare specimens of reptiles and insects for some Eastern institutions."

English Game.

In one of our English exchanges we have read several paragraphs relating to game killed by various persons, among which may be mentioned these, says Shooting and Fishing:

Emperor William, of Germany, is credited with killing 2 aurochs, 7 elk, 738 red stags, 58 hinds, 957 fallow bucks, 41 fallow does, 3 reindeer, 1705 large and small wild boar, 469 roebucks, 121 chamois, 11,466 hares, 638 rabbits, 1 whale, 37 capercaillies (cocks), 56 wild ducks, 3 bears, 17 foxes, 698 herons and cormorants, and 559 various. The total number is 17,576, and is the emperor's bag for one calendar year.

In England one party of six killed 7000 rabbits and pheasants in four days. Another party of eight killed 5000 head of game in four days; still another shot 4000; one of five men in two days killed 2500, and another composed of six persons, killed 1500 rabbits and pheasants in a single day.

With all the complaints one hears in regard to pot hunting in America, when all is considered, one cannot but believe we regard game and game laws, and the unwritten but strict rules of the sportsman in a better light than do our cousins on the other side of the Atlantic. When, also, it is taken into consideration that all of these game birds and animals are protected in preserves, or raised in captivity, the free woods and fields of this country seem better than ever.

Partridge Shooting.

In your issue of December 3, you quote from the Richfield Springs Mercury that Fred Jones and partner, of Earlville, have killed over 400 partridge (ruffed grouse, I suppose), which were disposed of in the Utica market; and on page 133 of same paper it is stated that, in conversation with E. D. Fulford, he said he killed to his own gun over 200 of the same birds. Mr. Fulford, however, did not state in what market he disposed of his birds; perhaps, or even supposing that he distributed them among his friends, was his work any the less "deadly and extirpating"? It seems hard to draw the line between the true sportsman and the game hog; but, to be candid, most of us would like to have been in the shoes of either of the above named gentlemen.—W. H. SHELTON, in Shooting and Fishing.

The Olympic Gun Club.

The Board of Directors of the Olympic Gun Club have selected shooting grounds near the Ingleside race track and the contractors are now figuring on the buildings, bulkheads, etc. There will be two clubhouses or shooting stands, two blue rock bulkheads and one set of live bird traps.

The club will give a grand game dinner on the evening of January 26th, the game to be provided by members, and will open the new grounds with a tournament on February 21st and 22d.

CARTRIDGE AND SHELL.

Chas. Precht bagged 15 English snipe at Embarcadero Sunday.

The Alameda County Sportsmen's Club report very few birds on their preserve.

The Limited Gun Club will give a sparrow shoot on Jan. 20th and 21st at Indianapolis, Ind.

The shooting at Byron was only fair this week. A few mallard and widgeon but no big bags.

H. C. Golcher, J. Kerrigan, A. Lawrence and Louis Roudeau had fair sport with the quail at Point Reyes on Sunday.

W. N. Wetmore and a friend bagged 20 ducks and 13 rail at the Bridges last Sunday, and R. Zeiner killed 9 at the same place.

The only good reports of duck shooting that we hear of this week come from Los Banos. G. H. T. Jackson made an excellent bag there last Sunday.

The Christmas number of the Shooting Times and British Sportsman is replete with anecdotes of the field and stream, appropriate illustrations, and the current news of the day.

Chas. M. Grimm of Clear Lake, Ia., and Dr. W. F. Carver of Chicago shot a 100-bird match at Watson's Park, Burnside, Ill., on December 23d, the former winning by a score of 98 to 96.

Lloyd Eaton, Al Newman, Vic Harrier and Ohas. Dietz had very poor luck at Tomales Bay on Friday and Saturday of last week. They only bagged one brant and state that the accommodations are miserable.

The Empire and Lincoln Club boys have become so disgusted with trying to secure a bag of birds on the Sonoma marsh that but few of them were out last Sunday and the few that did go got but few birds.

Some very good bags of quail were made on Saturday and Sunday at Point Reyes. Louis Meyers and Thomas Walsh bagged 83 birds. Frank Vernon bagged a miscellaneous string of cotton tail, quail, duck and snipe.

John L. Winston of Washington, Ind., and Fred Gilbert of Spirit Lake, Ia., shot a combination match at Burnside, Ill., on the 23d ult., each shooting at 100 live birds and 100 blue rocks. Winston won with the following score: Live birds 81, targets 77, 153. Gilbert's score was: Live birds 68, targets 83, 151.

Although, considering the amount of shooting that is now indulged in every year, both in the field and at the trap, few guns burst in the hands of sportsmen, it is a good practice for every man when inserting fresh shells into his gun to look through the barrels and see that they contain nothing more than the residue left from the powder. Occasionally, especially when a cardboard was placed next to the powder, such wad is left in the barrel, and then should this wad become partially turned around before another shot is fired, there is great danger of not only ruining a good gun, but of seriously injuring the shooter. The old adage that "an ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure," applies as well to the use and handling of firearms as to anything in the world.

Coming Events.

Jan. 12—Regular semi-monthly meeting of the San Francisco Fly Casting Club. Office of State Fish Commission, Flood Building, San Francisco.

The San Francisco Fly Casting Club will meet at the office of the State Fish Commission on Tuesday evening next.

Grilse were quite plentiful at Long Wharf, Oakland, last week. Eleven fine ones were caught one afternoon.

The fishing at Long Wharf, Oakland, is the best that it has been for a year. Grilse are biting well and smelt are very plentiful, an unusual run for this season of the year.

At the coming session of the Michigan legislature Herschel Whitaker, president of the State Fish Commission, will ask for an appropriation of $75,000 for the expenses of the commission for the year.

G. W. Morgan of Duncan's Mills, writes us that the big run of steelheads is now on and fishing should be grand today and to-morrow. The river will be in good condition if it does not rain to day.

When you purchase your steelhead tackle don't forget that the well-known sporting goods houses of E. T. Allen Co. and Clabrough, Golcher & Co. can furnish you with anything you desire in that line.

Dr. James A. Henshall has been appointed to take charge of the United States fish hatchery at Bozeman, Montana, and will soon leave his southern home to enter upon his new duties. Dr. Henshall needs no introduction to our readers, as he is among the most widely known scientists, and has also a practical knowledge of the habits and habitat of game fish that is equaled by few, if any.

The other day a tragic tussle was witnessed between the fourth and fifth locks of the Pocklington Canal (East Yorkshire), when a splendid dog otter was observed to land a huge pike on the canal bank. The fish made vigorous attempts to regain its native element, and actually flapped its way back into the water; but its foe knew no truce, and seizing the pike, brought it to land again. Then began a battle, which lasted some three-quarters of an hour, the fish eventually succumbing to the terrible onslaughts of the "varmint." On being disturbed the otter made speedy tracks, and the fish was carried to Pocklington, where it turned the scale at 14 pounds, and measured 1 yard in length, with a circumference of 17 inches.

In the great central tank of the New York Aquarium battles take place between fishes almost daily. A large rainbow trout is said to have been a constant aggressor in that tank, having whipped every other species, and finally the superintendent had to remove "Salmo iridens." Last Sunday a big blackfish in the pool near the entrance had a set-to with another of the same species, about equal in weight. The fishes fought like game cocks, dashing at each other, interlocking jaws, wrestling and wriggling through several rounds, until, finally, the weaker fish gave up the contest and hid himself. The attendant in charge, Mr. De Nyse, says the blackfish loves a fight, as also does the small-mouthed black bass.

LIMITED TO TWENTY-FIVE MARES.

ALTAMONT is the champion sire of 2:10 performers, being the only horse living or dead with six to his credit. He has taken a leading position among the foremost trotting sires of the country under such conditions that phenomenal ability alone has saved him from oblivion. A very small proportion of his progeny has been trained, and an extremely small number of these by competent men. As a partial illustration of his meagre advantages, it may be stated that he has never produced a colt from a pacing-bred mare, or from one with a fast record. Nor has he ever yet been crossed with a descendant of George Wilkes, Electioneer, Dictator, Sidney or Dexter Prince. Oregon and Washington have produced seven 2:10 performers, and EVERY ONE of these are ALTAMONTS.

ALTAMONT is a horse of iron constitution, and at twenty-two years of age is in the full vigor of his prime, a sure foal-getter, and, except for his blindness—the result of an accident—is without blemish. He has never sired a sorrel, all of his colts having been solid colors—bays, browns or blacks. He is now located in Alameda, at Herbert's Stables, on Sherman street, between Santa Clara and Central avenues. Alameda local S. P. and Narrow Gauge trains from San Francisco, stop within two blocks of stable, and Oakland and Alameda electric cars, half a block away. Residence two doors from stable.

Beau Brummel, by Wildnut, out of Nettie Benton (dam of three in 2:30), by Gen. Benton, second dam Nellie Walker, etc. Destined to be the fastest horse in California.

Antoine, by Dexter Prince, out of Gracie B., by Stamboul, 2:07½, second dam Moor Maid (dam of Electra, 2:18½), by The Moor, etc. This is one of the finest trotters in this State.

Sidney Dillon, (brother to Cupid, 2:18, and Adonis, 2:11½; Lea, 2:18¼, and Providence, the most promising of all the get), by Sidney, 2:19¾, out of Venus. Sidney Dillon is not only one of the fastest for the work he has had, but his progeny is the most promising in every respect.

Stanley, by Direct, 2:05¾, dam Lily Stanley, 2:17½ (old-time sulky). This is a brother to On Stanley, which all Americans will be praising this year. This is a great colt. He has taken the blue ribbon at the recent Horse Show. Individually he is A No. 1. His dam, Lily Stanley, was one of the greatest trotters ever bred in California, and when placed in the breeding ranks demonstrated her worth by producing Rokeby, 2:13¾, and Salisbury. Her weanling filly, Lily, full sister to Stanley and On Stanley, is a beauty. She took first premium at State Fair.

Fram, by Direct, 2:05¾, out of the great prize-winning mare, Silver Eye (dam of Ramona, 2:17¼), by Abbottsford. Fram, as an individual, is unsurpassed for his age by any colt in America.

The Agricultural Fairs.

A convention of representatives of the District Agricultural Associations and horsemen in California was held in the rooms of the Pacific Coast Trotting Horse Breeders, San Francisco, Friday evening, January 15th. The convention was called at the request of a number of those interested in the District Fairs.

The convention was called to order by D. E. Knight, of Marysville, and E. P. Heald elected chairman, and F. W. Kelley secretary. Communications were read from a number of the District Agricultural Associations and from the Secretary of the State Agricultural Society, endorsing the purpose of the meeting.

The following districts were represented: Santa Clara Valley, F. W. Covey and E. Topham; Yuba County, D. E. Knight; Willows and Glenn County, W. H. Kelley; Sonoma and Marin Counties, R. S. Brown of Petaluma; Vallejo, Thos. Smith; Napa, F. W. Loeber; Stanislaus and San Joaquin Counties, L. A. Richards; Contra Costa County, John F. Boyd; Alameda County, Jay Beach, J. M. Nelson and P. J. Williams; San Francisco, J. A. McKarron, E. P. Heald, T. J. Crowley, Samuel Gamble, Wm. G. Layng, L. E. Clawson, Peter Brandow and H. E. Wise.

Mr. Loeber spoke in favor of appointing a committee to represent the convention, to go to Sacramento without delay and take immediate action towards securing the restoration of the State appropriations to the District Agricultural Associations; urging that the committee should correspond with the officers of the District Associations and find out their ideas in regard to the number and amount of appropriations to be asked for. Said committee to have the authority to frame such a bill as they deemed would be most satisfactory to the associations and at the same time be likely to succeed in the Legislature and receive the Governor's signature.

Mr. L. A. Richards favored Mr. Loeber's proposition and gave it as his opinion that a bill to be successful must cut off a number of the former appropriations.

Mr. Topham thought that not more than one-half of the appropriations would be granted, and considered that it would not be wise to ask for more.

Mr. Covey said that he believed that every district should be taken into consideration and every association owning or controlling fair grounds with suitable buildings for agricultural exhibits should be entitled to and receive State aid in proportion to the population of its district and the importance of its fair, which can easily be determined by the statistical reports. He informed the convention that a bill had been presented to the Legislature appropriating $1,500 to each district regardless of its importance. He was strongly opposed to the passage of such a bill as it would deprive the State Agricultural Association of its usual appropriation, which would not leave it sufficient revenue to conduct its fair and exhibit on the scale it has heretofore.

Mr. Loeber stated that among a great many the opinion prevailed that a large percentage of the district appropriations had been used for horse-racing given in connection with the fair. This he claimed is a mistaken idea as he believed the money had been legitimately expended for premiums, etc., as provided for by law. He said no money appropriated by the State did more general good than these appropriations as they served to encourage agriculture in all its branches by giving premiums for competitive exhibits and that the money so given is distributed among the farmers and tax-payers.

Mr. Topham said he thought that the committee would be handicapped by not having authority from more of the District Associations, and suggested that they have asked to forward petitions to the committee, giving it authority to represent them.

A motion was then made that the chair appoint a committee as proposed, and the following gentlemen were appointed to constitute said committee: F. W. Loeber, Naps, L. A. Richards, Stanislaus, and E. Topham of Santa Clara County.

On motion, the secretary was instructed to notify the president and secretary of each District Agricultural Association that they and the members of their Board of Directors were appointed a special committee by the convention to do all in their power with the representatives from their districts in the Legislature to have the appropriations restored.

On motion it was voted that it was the sense of the convention that each District Agricultural Association be asked to contribute ten dollars towards defraying the traveling and hotel expenses incurred by the committee in the discharge of its duties.

On motion, the secretary was instructed to forward a notice that a resolution had been adopted at this convention to the effect that it is the sense of the convention that the managers of the Jockey Clubs be requested to discontinue their race meetings during the season that the District Fairs are in progress, believing that to do so would be no hardship for them and that it would encourage racing and increase the attendance at the District Fairs.

No other business being presented the convention adjourned without date.

The gentlemen appointed on the committee to proceed to Sacramento stated that they would give their time and their best efforts toward accomplishing the object for which the committee was appointed, and that they would stay in Sacramento as long as they felt they were needed. It remains for the district associations to take an active part in assisting them and to respond to the request for contributions to carry on the work.

Annual Meeting of the P. C. T. H. B. A.

A postponed annual meeting of the Breeders Association was held Saturday morning, January 16th. The meeting was postponed from December 7th, as there was not a sufficient number of members present at that time for a quorum it requiring the presence of twenty members to do business.

At the postponed meeting a quorum was present, many members being in attendance from outside the city who were present the night before to attend the convention of the horsemen and representatives of the District Agricultural Associations.

The meeting was called to order by Vice-President F. W. Loeber, and the report of the Secretary and Treasurer read and approved. The Secretary's report shows that the Association distributed among the horsemen at its meeting last summer, $10,719 in purses and stakes. The Treasurer's report showed that the balance on hand at the end of the season was $3,986.94.

President Heald, who had been called away, returned and took the chair.

The meeting then proceeded to ballot for the election of six directors. The following gentlemen received a majority of the votes and were declared elected: John F. Boyd, A. H. Cohen, F. W. Loeber, J. C. Kirkpatrick, T. J. Crowley and Harry J. Agnew.

The following resolution was presented by Mr. Simpson, and on motion of Mr. Williams it was adopted:

Resolved, That hereafter book betting will not be permitted at the race meetings of the Pacific Coast Trotting Horse

Breeders Association, and that mutuels and French pool privileges be the only system sanctioned by the Association.

A resolution was also presented by Mr. Simpson and adopted as follows: Resolved, That the Horse Show of San Francisco should meet with the hearty support of this Association inasmuch as that Society is doing a great deal to advance the interests of light harness horses and will do a great deal more if awarded the support of the breeders and owners of that class of horses throughout the Coast.

Mr. Simpson stated that even such features of the Horse Show as had awakened adverse criticism are beneficial to horse owners in various ways, and furthermore, that the benefits to the breeders in general will so outweigh the features that some consider reprehensible, that the Horse Show should be maintained and encouraged by all who are interested in the advancement and success of the horse industry.

On motion, the Board of Directors of the Association were requested not to collect annual dues for 1897 for members joining the Association during that year.

The Directors' meeting of the Association was held in the afternoon, there being present E. P. Heald, T. J. Crowley, Joseph Cairn Simpson, R. S. Brown, F. W. Loeber, D. E. Knight, F. W. Covey, John F. Boyd and John C. Kirkpatrick.

The Directors' meeting was called for the purpose of electing officers for the ensuing year. The following officers were unanimously elected: President, E. P. Heald; First Vice-President, F. W. Loeber; Second Vice-President, D. E. Knight; Treasurer, N. T. Smith; Secretary, F. W. Kelley.

On motion the President appointed the following committees for 1897: Executive Committee, John F. Boyd, Charles A. Hng and John C. Kirkpatrick. Speed Committee: F. W. Knight, R. S. Brown and T. J. Crowley.

The Speed Committee was instructed to commence its labors with as little delay as possible and to arrange a series of stakes and prizes for this year, which will be duly advertised.

THERE are about two hundred two-year-olds at the Kentucky Association track, Lexington, Ky. Among the leading trainers at the track are Byron McClelland, James Murphy, Bradley Brothers, John E. Madden, Gus Straus, John Rodegap, John Clay and others. One of the most promising youngsters at the track is the bay two-year-old colt by Tea Tray, dam Kalna (dam of Charity, etc.), by Glenelg. He is owned jointly by Policeman Dennis Hayes and Contractor Corbin. He is already well broken and has shown some fast work. The bay two-year-old colt Falsetto—Rabelais, property of James Savage, is another good one. Being a full brother to Pete Kitchen, one of the best youngsters in the West this fall, great things are expected of him. James O'Neill has lost by death his good three-year-old bay mare Mary.

BYRON MCCLELLAND says that Prince Lief is wintering nicely and will develop in into a great horse for handicaps next year. He expects the colt to class with such handicap horses as Halma, Ben Brush, Clifford, Buck Massie, Hand-spring, Semper Ego, Loki and other good ones of the all-aged division, McClelland will race in the East next season, but he has made quite a number of entries in Western stake events, and expects to fill every engagement. He is having had luck with that great colt Maceo, and it is probable that the youngster will never be fit to race until next year.

FLACON, who ran second in the two-year-old on Saturday, is a half brother to Floretta V., one of August Belmont's good stake mares.

OAKLAND RACES.

Superb Racing at the New Track Across the Bay—All the Events Carefully Described.

THIRTY-SECOND DAY—FRIDAY, JANUARY 15.

The racing of yesterday was notable for the close finishes in four of the events carded and the win of 40 to 1 shot Little Boh. A good crowd was in attendance and the racing was much enjoyed. Racina won the first by a scant head from Modestia, who came from eighth place in the homestretch, and would have won had she been able to get through earlier. Little Boh, 40 to 1 and come and get it, beat 2 to 5 shot Lovdal a head in the second, Doyle (who got a very poor ride) third, a length away. The latter had a good chance to win had Slaughter not taken him to the inner rails, a sixteenth from home when all was clear sailing in front, though there was no money on the side of the race track. Osric II beat Arrezzo a head in the third after bearing out and carrying the latter with him. Tempestuous was cut off thrice in the first half mile, but had he received a strong ride at the finish he might have won. Formal was an easy winner over Ferrier et al. in the fourth, and Nelson, leading all the way, won the last by a scant half-length from Road Runner, with 500 to 1 shot, Flush Ban, half a length further away.

In the first, six furlongs, for three-year-olds, Racina led from start to finish, winning by a nose from the fast-coming Modestia, who could not have lost had she gotten away on her stride. The Stock Broker came fast at the finish and got third place, one and a half lengths behind Modestia. Valdos ran second and Play Boy third until well in the homestretch. Time, 1:16½. Racina was at 2 to 1, Modestia 7, The Stock Broker 2, Play Boy and James Porteous 8 others 15 to 200 to 1.

St. Apollo led in the second past the quarter, with Foremost second, a length away, Monita third. Foremost was in front of Apollo half a length at the half, Lovdal third, a length away. At the three-quarter pole it was Foremost first by a length, Lovdal second, a head before Monita, Doyle three lengths further away and a length before Little Boh, who was coming very fast. They hunched up some half-way down the homestretch, Little Boh coming on to a head victory from Lovdal, who beat Doyle a length. Slaughter, for some reason, took Doyle toward the inner rails a sixteenth from home, or he might have won. Time, 1:48½. Little Boh was at 30 to 1, Lovdal 2 to 5, Doyle 6 (played from 8), others 8 to 500.

A fifteen-sixteenths of a mile dash for three-year-olds came next. The start was delayed about twenty minutes, caused by the bad actions of Arrezzo and Tempestuous principally. Finally they were away to a fair start, and Osric took the lead, accompanied closely by Bernadillo past the quarter and half poles. Osric reached the homestretch first by a head, Bernadillo second, lapped by Arrezzo. Osric bore out to the outside, and Tempestuous looked a winner a sixteenth from home. Osric came with a great burst of speed, however, and won by a head from Arrezzo, which he carried out, Bernadillo a length further away, on the other side of the track, Inflammator another neck away. Time, 1:35½. Osric was at 3 to 2, Arrezzo 7 to 5, Tempestuous 30 to 1, Bernadillo 4 and Inflammator 30 to 1.

In the mile race, fourth on the programme, Cabrillo set the pace, leading Formal past the quarter by a length and past the half by two, but into the homestretch Formal was about on even terms with Cabrillo, and came on to an easy two-length victory, Cabrillo dying away and Ferrier nosing out Peter the Second for the place. Time, 1:41½. Formal was at 7 to 5, Ferrier 7 to 5, Cabrillo 4 to 1 and Peter the Second 20 to 1.

The last race was at six furlongs. Nelson, as usual, delayed matters at the starting point. Finally an excellent send-off was effected, and Nelson was not long in getting to the front, leading Tim Murphy two lengths at the half, Flush Ban third, about as far behind the old roan. Nelson entered the homestretch about two and one-half lengths to the good, and Tim Murphy was second, about two from Road Runner, who was coming up fast. Nelson was driven out to win by a neck from Road Runner, while Murphy stopped and Flush Ban finished up third, another one-half a length off. Time, 1:15½. Nelson was at 2 (played from 3), Road Runner 7 to 1, Flush Ban 300, Tim Murphy 3 to 5, others 100 to 500 to 1.

THIRTY-THIRD DAY—SATURDAY, JANUARY 16.

Five thousand the crowd at the new Emeryville track was estimated at this afternoon, and the assemblage was drawn to the course by a programme containing no less than seven races, including a match race at the mile between Buckwa and Mt. McGregor II, for $1000 a side and $500 added money and a two-year-old event, the first run of the season for the youngsters. Buckwa won the match in fine style, being close to his fast rival from the outset and drawing away from him gamely at the finish proving himself beyond peradventure the best race horse of the pair. This fact was, we understand, acknowledged by Messrs. Burns & Waterhouse, owners of the defeated Canadian-bred colt that was formerly the apple of their eyes. The first two-year-old race of the season was won by Queen Blazes, a Tennessee-bred filly by Blazes owned by Burns & Waterhouse and trained by Dan Stone. She just nosed out the pride of Will Wallace's stable, Flacon, son of Imp. Rayon d'Or and the good race mare, Flavia, while Bodacia, daughter of Silver King and Brygane, was a respectable third, just beating the much-touted St. Carlo colt, Count of Flanders. The excellent starting of Ferguson was another feature of the afternoon's sport. Preston's defeat by Installor was encompassed by Willie Martin getting cut off on Preston a couple of times, going the overland route with him.

There was a delay at the post of twenty-five minutes and two recalls before a start was effected in the first, caused by the bad actions of Alvarado and Commission. Finally they were sent away to a fair send-off, Sea Spray setting the pace, 11c led at the quarter by a length, Alvarado second, a head before Tuxedo. Alvarado had a lead of two lengths by the time the half was reached, Sea Spray second, with McLight at his heels, a head before Tuxedo. Alvarado led by six lengths turning for home and won easily by three lengths from McLight, who beat Sea Spray half a length for the place. Hermanita was fourth, another length away. Time, 1:48½. Alvarado was at even money, McLight 5 to 1, Sea Spray 30, Hermanita 3½, others 10 to 300 to 1.

In the second, five and a half furlongs, ten came to the post. To a good start Favory showed first, then Fly and Quicksilver. The latter was first to the half by about a length and into the homestretch by two and a half, Fly second, four lengths before Montgomery. Fly passed Quicksilver a little over a sixteenth from home and won with ease by two lengths, Quicksilver, driven out, a length before Montgomery. Pat Murphy was fourth. Time, 1:07½—the track record. Fly was at 2 to 1, Quicksilver 3½ (played from 4½), Montgomery 2½, William Pinkerton 3½, others 15 to 300.

The first two-year-old race of the season; three furlongs, came next. On Gua Nita showed first to a good start, Queen Blazes next, Flacon third. Making the turn into the homestretch it was On Gua Nita first by half a length, Flacon second, three lengths before Queen Blazes. Flacon assumed the lead half-way down the homestretch, but Queen Blazes got up in the final sixteenth and won in a hard drive by a nose from Flacon, who was three before Bodacia, who just nosed out Count of Flanders. Time, 0:36½. Queen Blazes was at 3½ to 1, Flacon 6 to 5 (played from 7 to 5), Bodacia 8, Count of Flanders 6, others 8 to 30 to 1.

The match race for $1,000 a side, $500 added, between Mt. McGregor II and Buckwa, attracted a great amount of attention. There were several breaks by Buckwa, and finally they were off to a good start. Mt. McGregor was driven hard to keep Buckwa from taking the rail, and led past the quarter by half a length, at the half by a neck and at the three-quarters by a scant head. Thorpe went to the hat on McGregor as they straightened away, and it was considered all over but the shouting, for Buckwa passed to the front a furlong from home and won with ease by two lengths in 1:40½. The closing odds were: 3 to 2 Buckwa, 3 to 5 Mt. McGregor. The first half was negotiated by McGregor in 0:48½. Both the horse and rider ("Skeets" Martin) came in for a hearty round of applause upon their return to the winners' ring.

A mile race for three-year-olds came next. Estaca led by half a length past the quarter, Alma and Rey del Tierra close together. At the half Estaca, Rey del Tierra and Alma were heads apart. Estaca led at the three-quarters by half a length, Alma second a head before Sly. Alma and Estaca stopped badly in the homestretch and Sly came on into the lead half-way down the straight. Scarf Pin was coming very fast, and getting up in the last stride, won by a scant head. Sly beat Personne three lengths. Time, 1:41½. Scarf Pin and Rey del Tierra (coupled) were at 4 to 5, Sly 4 to 1, Personne 12, Alma 6 and Estaca 8 to 1.

A mile race came next. Off to a fair start, Installor led all the way, turning into the homestretch three lengths to the good and winning by two lengths from Preston, who got away with his head in the air and jumping stiff legged, went the overland route and was not ridden with much vigor by Willie Martin, Howard S. (who had come from the rear) third and coming fast. Time, 1:41. Installor was at 4 to 1, Preston 6 to 5, Howard S. 6, others 7 to 500.

The last race, one and a half miles, over six hurdles, brought out a field of seven. Imp. Autonomy led J. O. C. about three lengths for perhaps six furlongs, then the latter sailed to the fore, being two lengths to the good at the end of a mile, with Autonomy second, ten lengths from Broad Billow, at whose heels came Fi Fi. Autonomy and Broad Billow began dropping back near the homestretch and Fi Fi, coming like a shot, took second place, within striking distance of J. O. C. The last-named went to sulking after the last jump had been made, and Fi Fi, running a good and game race, won by a head on the post. J. O. C. beat Imp. Autonomy twenty lengths for the place, and Broad Billow wound up fourth. The big favorite, Hello, showed no speed at any part of the race. But for sulking J. O. C. would have won off by daylight. The time was 2:49—a very good performance. Fi Fi was at 30 to 1 (60 at one time), J. O. C. 3, Imp. Autonomy 4, Hello 6 to 5, others 10 to 1.

THIRTY-FOURTH DAY—MONDAY, JANUARY 18.

For a Monday the crowd was astonishingly large, but the programme presented was a good one and should have acted as a magnet on those with any sporting blood in their veins. San Marco won the first by a head from favorite Olive, the latter coming fast at the finish. Jack o' Lantern, as good as 4 to 1 in the betting, 3 to 1 at post time, won the second from the heaviest played "good thing" that has come over the pike in a long time, Basquil, in T. J. McHale's stable. Lost Girl, a filly which the bookies refuse to concede is a racer of degree, won the third by a length from Rienzi after Fortunate had acted as pacemaker to the homestretch. Ray del Bandidos beat Unity out three parts of a length in the mile and a quarter, and some one remarked that Formal (the red-hot favorite ridden by clever Willie Martin) took a look at the odds as he passed the stand and shook his head in token of his dislike of such a short price. Salvable beat Cabrillo a fine Auburn whicker in the fifth, and in the last another of Pat Dunne's gallopers, Benamela, won off by four lengths from 100 to 1 shot Hazel D. W. Martin was on two winners, and not a few thought he ought to have ridden three of them.

In the first race, seven furlongs, they were off quickly to a fine start, Miss Ruth showing first momentarily. Hearts ease was leading by a length passing the quarter, Big Chief second, lapped by Nic Nac. At the half it was Hearts ease first by a length, Monita second, as far from Nic Nac, Hearts ease turned into the homestretch first by just a shade. Monita second, with old Jack Richelieu at his heels. San Marco humped his way through the hunch when a little less than a furlong from home, and though Olive made a bold bid the last sixteenth, he lasted long enough to win by a head, Olive second, one and one-half lengths from Jack Richelieu, at whose heels came Miss Ruth. Time, 1:28½. San Marco was at 3 to 1, Olive 13 to 10, Jack Richelieu 50 to 1, Monita 5½, Minnie Cee 8, others 15 to 300 to 1.

In the second, five and one-half furlongs, three-year-olds, Moscow showed first momentarily, with Modestia second,

Jack o' Lantern got to the front by the time the half-mile ground was reached, Moscow second. Jack o' Lantern was two lengths to the good turning into the homestretch, Basquil second, heading a hunch. Jack o' Lantern even drew away in the homestretch, winning, however, by two lengths Basquil second, six from Philip H., on whom Claudia was lapped. Time, 1:08½. Jack o' Lantern was at 3 to 1, Basquil 8 to 5 (played from 2½ to 1), Philip H. 20, The Stock Broker 3½, Modestia 5, others 15 to 100 to 1.

The third race was at six and a half furlongs, for three-year-olds. Off to a good start, Roy Carruthers showed first, Fortunate second and Torpedo next. At the half it was Fortunate first by a head, Woodland Belle second, two lengths from Torpedo and Lost Girl, head and head. The order was the same at the three-quarter pole, Fortunate leading by a length. Lost Girl got to the fore about a furlong from home and won driven out by a length, Rienzi a strong second, one and a half lengths before Tempestuous, who was a length before Torpedo. Woodland Belle ran as if a shade "short". Time, 1:22½. Lost Girl was at 20 to 1, Rienzi 9, Tempestuous 3½ (played down from 4), George Palmer 3 to 2, Woodland Belle 6 to 1, others 9 to 150 to 1.

A mile and a quarter race brought eight to the post. Unity made the pace, leading Tuxedo past the stand and quarter by two lengths, Formal and Hermanita close together. At the half-pole it was Unity first by one and a half lengths, Tuxedo second, lapped by Hermanita and Formal. The latter moved up second at the head of the homestretch and looked all over a winner. Rey del Bandidos was coming like a shot from the rear, and getting up in the last sixteenth, won by three parts of a length from Unity, who beat Formal a length. Willie Martin gave an English style finish on Formal, not one of the rasping, out-between-his-ears wind-ups. The time was 2:08½. Rey del Bandidos was at 6 to 1, Unity 15, Formal 3 to 5, others 9 to 400 to 1.

In the mile race, fifth on the programme, Cabrillo led by two lengths past the quarter and half, Salvable and Schiller together. At the three-quarter pole it was Cabrillo first by a length, Salvable and Schiller heads apart. Cabrillo looked a certain winner when they were a sixteenth from home, but Willie Martin made a different sort of finish this time, getting away out on Salvable's neck and shoving him in a winner by a short head in the last stride, Cabrillo one length before Schiller. Time, 1:41½. Salvable was at even money, Cabrillo 3 to 1, Schiller 11 to 5.

The last race was at five and a half furlongs. Benamela led past the half by about three parts of a length, with Don Pio Pico second and Hazel D. third. Into the homestretch it was Benamela first by two lengths, Don Pio Pico second, one and a half lengths from Petrarch, Hazel D. next. Benamela was not headed, and won with ease by three lengths, Hazel D., driven out, a length before Petrarch. Time, 1:08½. Benamela was at 11 to 10, Hazel D. 50, Petrarch 10, La Mascota 11 to 5, Palmerston 4 (8 to 1 at one time), others 30 to 150 to 1.

THIRTY-FIFTH DAY—TUESDAY, JANUARY 19.

A favorite did not even come close to winning until it came to the fifth and last, when Fly won off by six lengths. It is astonishing what a hold racing has on the people of this vicinity, for although the card presented yesterday contained but five races, there was fully as big an attendance as when there were six to be decided. Ahalanzar took the first race with the juicy odds of 12 to 1 against him, Banjo a 15 to 1'er, second, and Hazel D., also at 15 to 1, third. Duke of York II., brother to True Blue, Carmel and Castanette, won the two-year-old race from "eend to eend," having become acquainted with the workings of the gate. Bodacia was a good, game second, Count Flanders third. The favorite, Blitz, wound up seventh. Doyle won the mile and a furlong with ease, Scimitar running a good second, Hermanita third. The owner of Scimitar and the owner and rider of Unity were called up to explain, for Scimitar, in his previous race, ridden by Eddie Jones, had run ninth in a field of ten, such horses as Trix and Tuxedo finishing in front of him, while Unity had beaten Formal on Monday and finished a close second to Rey del Bandidos in a very fair race. Mr. Shields explained that Scimitar had twisted a plate in his previous race, and Mr. Ezell produced a ticket on Unity with Cook & Co, the result being both were exonerated. Ferrier, with light weight up, easily disposed of Preston, et al., and ran seven furlongs in 1:27, while Fly made every post a winning one in the last.

In the first race six furlongs, selling, Monitor led Banjo by a length past the half and into the homestretch, where he died away and Ahalanzar, coming in strong the last furlong, got up and won by a neck from Banjo, who beat Hazel D. three lengths. Monitor was fourth, another head away. Time, 1:15½. Ahalanzar was at 12 to 1 (20 at one time), Banjo 15, Hazel D. 15, Monitor 2, Nervoso 4. Pecksniff 6½, others 12 to 100.

The two-year-olds now came out to run three furlongs. They got away quickly and fairly well, Duke of York II. running to the front, with On Gua Nita second and Count of Flanders next. Duke of York led by two lengths turning into the straight, Count of Flanders second, a head before On Gua Nita, Irritator next, then Bodacia. Duke of York continued on in front, and though Bodacia ran up gamely from behind, she could not catch the Duke, who won by two lengths handily. Bodacia beat Count of Flanders two lengths for the place. Time, 0:36½. Duke of York II. was at 15 to 1, Bodacia 9 to 5, Count of Flanders 5 to 1, Blitz 8 to 5, others 8 to 15 to 1.

In the mile and an eight race Sea Spray led Scimitar and Doyle by from half a length to one and a half lengths for nearly five furlongs, then Scimitar took up the running, leading by a neck at the head of the homestretch, Sea Spray second, lapped by Hermanita, Doyle close up. When about a sixteenth from home Doyle drew up to Scimitar and easily beat him out three parts of a length, Scimitar beating Hermanita a head for the place, Sea Spray a distant fourth. Time, 1:55. Doyle was at 3 to 1, Scimitar 7, Hermanita 5, Sea Spray 8, Little Cripple 2½, and Unity 7½ to 1.

In the fourth, seven furlongs, Salisbury led Preston past the quarter by a length, two lengths past the half and one and one-half lengths into the homestretch, Ferrier being head and head with Preston at the latter point. Ferrier assumed the lead about a sixteenth from home and won handily by a length, Preston second, two lengths from In-

THAT Altamont is the greatest sire living, the records continue to prove.

MISNER, BROS., are jogging quite a lot of horses this winter at Irvington, Oregon.

VER KENT, of Hollister, has been engaged to train and drive J. B. Iverson's fine horses at Salinas.

NUTWOOD 2:18½ has eleven new producing sons in the list of 2:30 sires for 1896. His sire, Belmont, has seven.

SEND in the news from your stock farms and let the world know what you are doing, and how you are doing it.

JAMES L. 2:09½, by Dexter Prince, is roaded five miles daily and will be ready for the early Eastern meetings.

EGOTIST sold the other day for $4000. Hon. A. B. Price, Nashville, Tenn., now owns the good son of Electioneer.

THERE are five green pacers in training in Oregon either one of which are likely to step a mile in 2:10 this season.

A CAREFUL canvass of the members of the legislature shows that the majority is in favor of giving appropriations to district fairs.

WE see it stated in several Eastern papers that Agitato, 2:09½, will be sent East and sold at auction. This is news to everyone here.

RAPIDAN, dam of Lockheart 2:08½ and Bye Bye is also the dam of Rapid by Hustler Russell which beat 2:30 in races in Virginia last fall.

NED WINSLOW, 2:12, bred by J. L. McCord of Sacramento, is one of the best road horses in Springfield, Mass. He is king of the snow brigade.

THE publishers of the Kentucky Stock Farm have decided to postpone the closing entries for the Stock Farm purse until the 15th of February.

THE initiation fee for the Pacific Coast Trotting Horse Breeders' Association has been placed at $15, a decrease of $10. This was a good move.

A POINTER to the horsemen of New York and Pennsylvania: Don't stop to educate the people; educate the legislators—there are fewer of them. Besides the people don't need it.

ANDY McDOWELL was in Salinas last week, and the horse owners there seemed very desirous of having the genial horse trainer remain and work his horses over the Salinas track.

A BILL to amend the anti-pool selling law will be introduced in the General Assembly to the end that trotting races may be held again upon Charter Oak Park and other tracks of the state.—Hartford (Conn.) Journal.

ROYAL JIB, 2:18½, never got a record before he arrived at Seattle. He had been entered under the name Royal Jib in a number of events in California, but never won. He was taken to Seattle and raced under the name, Seattle Dick.

JOHN W. TILDEN has twenty-three head of horses in his training stable at Red Oak, Iowa, most of the number being youngsters. Tilden broke, developed and drove Ella T., 2:08½, to her record, an accomplishment that few drivers can boast. The mare is reported to be wintering finely.

DON'T expect to sell a horse unless you let it be known that you have one. A man may own just the horse that dozens of buyers want, but unless buyers know where to find the horse, how are they going to buy him? An advertisement in the "Breeder and Sportsman" will bring a buyer every time for a good horse.

W. R. JANVIER of Ticonderoga, N. Y., will have three well-bred ones at the head of his stock farm and they trace to California stock. Potential by Prodigal 2:16, out of Helen T., sister to Arion 2:07½; Refero by Guy Wilkes 2:15½ out of Directress by Director 2:17, and Savant by Sable Wilkes 2:18, out of Annie G. by Le Grande.

IT is the continual dropping of water that wears away the stone. By keeping your advertisement ever before the eyes of the reader he will become so accustomed to your name that when he is in need of your wares he will unconsciously turn his steps your way. To a certain extent the constant appearance of a man's name and business is an assurance of reliability.

EVERY thoughtful breeder is giving closer attention to the produce of dams whose sire was Strathmore. Since 1890 they have grown rapidly in public favor and will soon rank with the daughters of any son of Hambletonian. At the close of 1889, Strathmore had but eight producing dams to his credit. At present he has fifty-nine. A remarkable gain for a short time.

ED. A. TIPTON, manager of the Montana Circuit, was in Detroit last week for a business visit with Ira Bride. To a Free Press reporter he stated that $150,000 will be given in purses this year, and the racing will run through three months. The dates arranged so far are Colorado Springs, June 3 to 10; Denver, June 12 to 19; Anaconda, June 25 to July 24; Butte, July 27 to Aug. 28.

GEORGE STARR has his new stable at Terre Haute about completed. In his stable this year, aside from Ploact, who will not be alone the "star" of the stable, but probably one of the first light of the year, will be the four-year-old pacer Mrs. Jo, 2:15½, and the trotter Comanche, 2:18½. George will have a greater number of yearlings and two-year-olds this season than for several years back.

GEO. H. MORRIS, the famous portrayer of equine subjects, so, who has made all the splendid pictures for the Chicago Horseman for the past two years, has written us that he will soon be in California. Mr. Morris made that highly commended picture of W. S. Hobart's champion winning polo pony, Laddie, for the "Breeder and Sportsman" when he was here on a visit in 1895.

BUFFALO, the mother track of the far-famed grand circuit, has fulfilled its mission and has passed out of existence as a trotting park. The fire fiend who lighted the match that destroyed the beautiful grand stand put the finishing touches to it as a trotting park. The land will be cut up into town lots, which is estimated to be worth $40 per foot. At this price the land will bring nearly one million dollars.

THE filly Impetuous, 2:13, and her dam Ethelwyn, are in foal to Directum, 2:05½. The Stock Farm says that "Impetuous and Directum are the two fastest race records ever mated." Strange as it may seem, this is undoubtedly true.—Turf, Field and Farm. [Hardly, the average speed of the race records of Directum and Impetuous is 2:09 1/8. Cricket, race record 2:10, was mated with Direct, race record 2:08, the average of the pair being just 2:09.]

"HYDER ALL."

JOSEPH ETHEN (a bicyclist) has lost his suit against Lot D. Slocum, our well-known horseman. Ethen was riding along Golden Gate avenue on June 27, 1895, when he collided with a team driven by Slocum. In the fall from his wheel Ethen had his collar bone broken, and claiming that the accident was due to Slocum's carelessness he brought suit to recover $10,000 damages. The case was tried several months ago before Judge Hunt and the jury disagreed. The second trial of the case concluded by a verdict being rendered in favor of the defendant.

AFTER carefully scanning the field the trotting-horse men and agricultural associations in California have concluded it would be foolish to attempt to leave any of the agricultural districts out of the appropriation bills. The list formerly in vogue will be carefully revised by the committee and appropriations will be asked for all according to the assessed value of the agricultural, horticultural and stock-breeding interests of the districts. The amounts asked for will be far less than has been anticipated and all opposition from members of the legislature will thus be overcome.

THERE is some reason in the assertion that 1896 was a year of stupendous failure for the fast trotters. For at least ten years back there has been no such dearth of record-breaking in any year. At the best not more than four of what may be called legitimate world's records were broken by trotters, and not over ten, counting the best records for certain heats and for best races of different lengths, etc. The pacers, however, more than held their own and brought the general average of reduced world's records up to a higher point than for 1895. But then the campaign of 1895 was in arrears of any of the five years preceding.

EDWARD LAFFERTY, the successful driver who developed W. Wood 2:07 and Homestake 2:14½, has just opened a public training stable. He has entirely recovered from his accident at the State Fair and is in the best of health. Among others that he will handle are Algreor, 2:11, Promise Me 2:16, Wow, 2:21½ and the unbeaten pony Jefe, 2:18½. All of these horses were given their marks by him last season. To those desiring horses fitted and campaigned this year we can heartily recommend him as an honest man and a first-class reinsman and conditioner. He can be addressed at San Jose, or arrangements can be made through Mr. Frank H. Burke, 626 Market street.

AN Eastern writer says: "I can see no reason why some important association cannot make a drawing feature of some of the old styles of racing. The pacing records under saddle remain the same as they were nearly a half century ago. In 1839 Bowery Boy paced two miles under saddle in 5:40½; in 1893 Oneida Chief paced three miles in 7:44; in 1868 Billy Boyce paced a mile in a race in 2:14½ and these are the championship records to this day. The once famous pacer Johnston paced a mile against time under saddle in 2:13, and that has never been beaten. Joe Patchen with his speed and strength ought to break any or all of these records. There are plenty of people who would go many miles to see a contest between some of the faster pacers under saddle."

VAN ZANT, 2:12, by Chime Bell, is one of the most, if not the most intensely inbred Hambletonian-Abdallah animals of the day. Chime Bell 5380, son of Electioneer 125, by Hambletonian 10, whose dam, Green Mountain Maid, was by Harry Clay 45. Clarahel, dam of Chimes Bell, had for her sire Abdallah Star, son of American Star Jr., by American Star 14. Abdallah Star's dam was Curry Abdallah, by Abdallah I, and Clarahel's second dam, Fairly, was by Hambletonian 10. Alia Ida, dam of Van Zant, by Alexander Sherman 4952, son of Dol 44 (Backman's), by Hambletonian 10, dam Hattie Wood, by Harry Clay 45, and he had for a dam Mattie, by Hambletonian 10. Ida, the second dam, was sired by Independent 179, son of Hambletonian 10, out of Emma Mills, by American Star 14. Complete, we have six direct Hambletonian-Abdallah crosses, two of Clay and two of American Star 14, and these are near by. Nothing has come under our observation any nearer related to the fountain head than this.

THERE was foaled on the night of the 19th, at Mokelumne Stock Farm, a bay filly which from breeding standpoint should some day register her name high on the pyramid of equine fame and leave deeper footprints in the sands of time than some of her illustrious kin. This young miss is a highly-formed and beautiful daughter of Silver Bow and Bessie Pancoast. Silver Bow, 2:15, by Robert McGregor, 2:17½, is the sire of 47 performers in the list, and 37 with records in 2:25 down to 2:13. Bessie Pancoast has trotted in 2:26 and is by the great Pancoast, 2:21½, out of Bessie Bowne, by the immortal Dictator, brother to Dexter, and sire of Director, etc. Silver Bow has already twelve mare books to him for the season of 1897, among them being a full sister to the flying Agitato, also the dam of Jim L. and a full sister to Senator L. Grace, the dam of Creole, 2:15, has a fine yearling by Silver Bow, that is a natural trotter, and a fast one at that. All of Grace's other foals by other sires have been pacers, but Silver Bow has his first pacer to sire. Silver Bow is doing his hundred miles each week and will be put in active training about June 1st, and campaign the fall circuit.

JAMES BUTLER, of New York, has secured the services of Dr. Hollenbeck as superintendent at the East View Farm, the home of Direct, 2:05½; Royal Victor, 2:08½, and numerous others. Mr. Butler has a choice lot of high-class youngsters on the farm, and the East View stable will be apt to become quite prominent in 1897. The man that will do the training has not been selected as yet, although a well-known trainer is under consideration.

CHAS. HUGHES, of Mayfield, has recently returned from Vienna. When he left California he had with him the game trotting mare Mabel H., 2:17½ and Seminary Girl (in foal to Richard's Elector). He purchased a trotting mare called Big Maid, and with Mabel H. and this one he captured seventeen first moneys and was twenty-nine times second and third. He was also presented by the leading trotting association of Austria with a magnificent timing watch for owning the winner of the grand prize race of 1895, Big Maid. As it is Mr. Hughes' intention to return to Europe in about eighteen months there is no doubt he will take a few good ones with him. He regrets exceedingly he did not buy Azote when he could have purchased him for $1,500 at Palo Alto before Salisbury & Griffiths got him.

IN 1892 great financial loss was sustained by Kentucky breeders through broodmares slipping their foals. In that year both breeders of thoroughbreds and trotters were alike heavy losers. Great uneasiness, it is reported, now exists in the Blue Grass region, lest another epidemic is threatened. Already several thoroughbred breeders have lost heavily, if reports be true, though as yet we have heard of no such loss among Kentucky breeders of trotters. Yet the same cause that brings this mishap to thoroughbred mares will also similarly affect trotting mares, and hence we deem a warning to all timely. A late fall, with abundant rain and consequent abnormal growth of pasture grass, followed by a mild, open wet winter, seem to be the predisposing causes of the trouble under consideration, the luxuriant growth of grass being accompanied by a smutty condition of the same later along in the winter months. A removal of broodmares to dry, short pastures, and a supply of dry, nutritious food seem to offer the greatest promise of escape from this plague. The loss was very heavy for 1892, and as colts now promise to be worth something again, it is worth while to use every precaution to ward off the threatened epidemic.—Stock Farm.

I HAVE before me a list of great campaigners—those that have won fifty heats or more each in standard time. The only ones in this list, and there are about 200 of them, that could, by a stretch of imagination, have been called infant phenomenons, are Trinket and Palo Alto, with seventy-three and fifty-four heats respectively to their credit, and neither one of them started until their four-year-old form. Of all the two-year-old trotters that have been trained by the brush system to beat 2:30, not one of the lot ever showed quality enough and stayed sound long enough to win fifty heats in 2:30 or better. There are hundreds of three-year-old trotters that have beaten 2:25; not one of them ever became eligible to this fifty-heat list. Twenty-four horses have each won 100 heats or more in standard time, and only two of them beat 2:30 before they were five years of age. Those two are Jack and Robbie P., entering the list as four year-olds with records of 2:29½ and 2:28½, respectively. The sentiment against racing two-year-olds and yearlings is growing stronger every minute. Last season there was a great falling off in the number of colt stakes and purses, and in the number of colts trained, and next year the ratio will be even greater.—Iconoclast in Horse Review.

THE death of the chestnut gelding El Rami, 2:14, which occurred recently at the farm of his owner, P. T. Radifer, Worthington, Mass., brings to mind the remarkably game race trotted by the Palo Alto-bred gelding for the Merchants' and Manufacturers' stake of the Detroit driving club in 1895 when a four-year-old. In the contest for the main stake it will be remembered that after two horses had won heats Geers was put up behind The Corporal, who won the fourth heat in 2:13½, and in this heat El Rami was close up in third place, having been in fourth position in the two preceding heats. With three heat-winners and but three moneys El Rami dropped out for the consolation. For a hopped trotter El Rami went a race that has had few equals for gameness. He was beaten, but not until he had won the first heat from Spinaway in 2:14, lost the second to Red Nutting by a narrow margin in 2:13, lost the third to Falkland in 2:13½, after a close finish and won the fourth from the latter in 2:16. Four such heats as these, the first three averaging as fast as any single heat had ever been trotted in the main stake up to that time, were sufficient to stop effectually any but an iron horse. El Rami, however, went right on and forced Falkland out in the two final heats, being first and second in each of the six heats of the race. It was at the meeting in New York that same year that El Rami got tangled in his hobbles and fell in front of his field, causing one of the worst wrecks seen on a track. He broke down afterwards and that was his last campaign.

THE Los Angeles Association has been reorganized and has a new set of officers. Last month the Governor appointed two new directors to fill the vacancies caused by the expiration of the terms of J. C. Newton and D. C. Stephens, the gentlemen appointed being C. E. De Camp, the lumber merchant, and Capt. Chas. M. Baker, a manufacturer of pipes. The Board is now composed of the following gentlemen: State Senator S. N. Andrus, General A. W. Barrett, Capt. C. M. Baker, N. S. Marshall, N. A. Covarrubias, Clarence E. De Camp, N. J. Fleishman (of the Farmers and Merchants Bank), George Hinds and that gentlemanly veteran horseman L. J. Rose. The Board organized by electing Hon. L. J. Rose, president, and Lewis Thorne, secretary. With such a Board of Directors and officers Los Angeles will still be in the front rank of associations on this Coast. The first business the Board did was to declare the Colt Stakes filled with 21 entries in Stake No. 1, which will be trotted in 1898 in their two-year-old form, and 33 entries in Stake No. 2; this will be trotted in 1899 in their three-year-old form. The Board would have liked to have seen more entries, as the amount they added to the stake, viz: $400, would warrant a larger entry list. It is the intention to make the Semi-Tropic Stake perpetual and not spasmodical as in the past. They hope that by doing this they will receive that support from the horsemen which they justly deserve. The secretary, Mr. Thorne, whose address is 107½ N. Main street, Los Angeles, will, from what we know of him, be glad to give any information regarding the Stakes or any other matter connected with the track or racing in Southern California.

THE SADDLE.

The colt purchased by the Messrs. Thompson of Brookdale Farm, by Knight of Ellerslie—Moss Rose, a full brother to Henry of Navarre, has been named Huguenot.

JOE SCHERRER, the premier Western jockey, who had more winnings to his credit than any other rider in 1896, has just declined an offer for the season of 1897 with Marcus Daly.

W. L. WHITMORE, of Gould City, Wash., breeder of Daylight and other well-known horses, is looking over the race mares at both tracks with a view of adding to his Washington farm.

MILL STREAM, the first of the get of the imported stallion Quicklime to race in this country, captured the first two-year-old race of the present season at New Orleans on January 11th.

J. G. FOLLANSBEE claims the name, Golden Echo, for the bay filly by Glen Echo—Golden Horn. She was carded as La Brisca yesterday, but was scratched, and Golden Echo will be her future title.

"CHUB" RUSSELL, a California lad, who has made quite a name as a jockey in the West the past two seasons, arrived here from Cincinnati Monday. Russell piloted the Fleischman horses last season.

BOMBAZETTE has been thrown out of training and will be bred at Rancho del Paso this year. She is by Spendthrift—imp. Bombazine, by Uncas (son of Stockwell); second dam by Solon (sire of the unbeaten Barcalaine).

TRAINEE AMOS WHITE has again assumed charge of the string of W. O. B. Macdonough, and as he understands them very well, we shall look for a marked improvement in the running of Santa Bella and Miss Brummel.

H. H. HUNN says that the first foal reported up to date was dropped on the San Mateo farm January 12th. It was a bay filly by imported Watercress out of Eda by Powhattan from Haidee, the dam of Rey Alfonso and Rey del Tierra.

THREE two-year-olds belonging to George Rose arrived at Oakland from Sacramento yesterday. They were: B g by Rio Bravo—My Badge, h c by imp. Prestons—Bergu W. (dam of Torsins and Bueno) and h f by Morello—May Dunbar.

LOUIS M. RAMSEY has been elected President of the St. Louis Fair Grounds Association, vice Charles Maffit, resigned. Robert Aull was re-elected Secretary. John Huffman has made forty separate entries to the stakes and T. H. Ryan fifty.

A LEXINGTON dispatch reads: Byron McClelland has entered the following youngsters in the Newmarket stakes in England; Bay colt, by imp. Rayon d'Or—Sally McClelland; bay colt, by Bermuda, dam out of Faithful; bay colt, by Bermuda—Lisric.

BARNEY SCHRIEBER last year purchased nearly one hundred acres of the property adjoining his Woodland farm. Improvements in the shape of a special barn for yearlings and one for broodmares have also been completed and a new six-furlong track has been constructed.

QUEEN BLAZES, winner of the first two-year old race of the season, looks very much like Kamsin, a son of Blazes, having the same white face and the very dark bay color of Ezell's big gelding. Jimmy McCormick purchased her for Burns & Waterhouse six months ago, and Dan Stone is the filly's trainer.

AT the Elmwood Stock Farm of the Messrs. Boots, near Milpitas, Cal., a chestnut youngster came into this world on Sunday by Tiger, dam Bessie, the dam of Sir Walter. This is also the first of Tiger's get. Tiger is by Three Cheers, out of Ricardo, by Stratford, and showed to be of good class in his two-year-old form.

SAM HILDRETH has purchased McLight of Johnny Coleman. Consideration, $1,200. Coleman purchased the horse at auction a little over two weeks ago for $900 and won him out several times over when he beat Moylan. McLight is a chestnut horse, six years old, by Macduff, dam Longlight, by Longfellow, and well worth the sum paid.

THE closing down of the South Side Sportsman's Park circuit marks the first let-up St. Louis has in race track way for seven or eight years. Since the pool rooms were closed in '91, South Side, East St. Louis, Madison, the night tracks and the Fair Grounds, with its summer meetings, have kept the game going continuously day and night.

T. HAYES has in his stable, which is wintering at Montgomery, what promises to be a very brilliant two-year-old in a big, slashing colt by Strathmore. He worked three-eighths in December in 0:36 with weight up and wanted to go on. On looks he should be a crowder, and Mr. Hayes thinks he is as good as he looks. There are a dozen other two-year-olds in the string that have been very highly tried and they are going on in the right way.—N. O. Item.

THE handsome and costly stable recently erected for Burns & Waterhouse at the Oakland track is one of the most commodious in the country, but it is unable to shelter all the race-horses the firm has training since the two-year-olds have appeared on the track. As a consequence several of the older horses will be offered at auction at the Oakland track in a few weeks. Salishury II, Potentate, Montgomery, Adam Andrew and other well-known performers will be included in the sale catalogue.

GEORGE BARETT, the famous English jockey, who recently had to give up riding owing to ill-health, arrived here on the White Star liner Germanic, with the Randolph brothers, the well-known trainers at Shipley. The party left last night for Vancouver, whence they will sail for Japan. Prior to his enforced retirement from the saddle, Barrett was under contract with George Porter, and as a result he steered, among others, the Duke of Westminster's horses, as well as the Prince of Wales' animals, before the latter were turned over to Marsh.—New York Sun.

THE following horses are to be sold at the Burns & Waterhouse sale, which is to be held in three weeks at the Oakland track: Wernberg, Potentate, Burmah, Joe Terry, Montgomery, Midlo, Racina, Fig Leaf, Adam Andrew, Halsey, Don Clarencio, Gladiator, Silver Knight (by Knight of Ellerslie) and two two-year-olds by Fellowcharm and L. W. Andrew respectively.

THE following important piece of news came from Lexington, Ky., yesterday: On of the best sales made in private in this section in a long while was consummated to-day when Charley Hughes purchased from Gus Easton the good four-year-old First Mate, by Fonso, out of Shipmate, by Spendthrift, she out of Messmate, by Alarm, and she out of Full Cry (dam of Checkmate, one of the best horses of the day) by Vandal. First Mate and Semper Ego will be sent to Oakley on Wednesday next.

CHARLIE REIFF, whose services have been sought by several of the leading stables, has signed with Baker & Gentry of Lexington, Ky., for the coming season. The terms are private. Last season he rode for Dr. McLean. The firm's string, which includes Simon W., Mattie Lee, Fleischmann, Oscuro, Lou Bramble, Rosinante, Con Reagan, L. W., Calculator and eight two-year-olds, have been shipped to Louisville. The youngsters are looking well and the entire string is in fine fettle for this time of the year.

THERE is a movement on foot, with every prospect of early consummation, to establish a first-class mile race track near Hot Springs, Ark. Prominent St. Louis turfmen, among whom is Mr. H. H. Dargan, are the promoters of the enterprise. It is the purpose of the management to conduct their meetings under the rules of the Western Turf Congress, beginning December 15 and closing about March 15. Prominent citizens are taking much interest in the movement and have agreed to furnish the stake money upon satisfactory assurance that the track will be built.

THE first two-year-old race of the season in California took place last Saturday at the Oakland track, and was won by a Tennessee-bred filly, Queen Blazes (by Blazes), Flacon (a Kentucky-bred colt by imp. Rayon d'Or—Flavia) second, Boadicea (a Montana filly by Silver King—Bygone) third. This is pretty rough on California, but it will spur her turfmen on to wipe out the stain of that defeat by bringing out the best youngsters the Golden State can produce and defeating the Southern-bred babies twice or thrice in succession.

TRAINER BOB TUCKER is going along very carefully with Fleischmann's black beauty, Halma, now a five-year-old. The horse's legs appear to be improving, and Trainer Tucker has great hopes that he will stand spring training. So far this winter Halma has not been given a great deal of work, but he is sent out every morning with the balance of Fleischmann's string for light track work, and his bad legs do not seem to give him any pain. It is almost too early to tell whether the great son of Hanover will be himself again this year, but the present indications are that he will be as good as ever.

STICKNEY BROS have blistered and fired and patched up Prime Minister till he looks nearly as good as new. He was a pretty fair sort of a three-year-old in 1895, winning, among other races, the Gibson House Stakes, at Cincinnati, in which he defeated a good field, made up of such horses of quality as Laureate, Simon W., Handspun, Buck Massie, Free Advice and others. He is now five years old, and from the way he is training his owners are inclined to think that there may be a race or two in him still, notwithstanding that he was a failure last year.—N. O. Daily Item. One of the Stickneys used to play ball here.

THE latest news from the proposed racing law for Illinois is that it has already been drafted by a competent lawyer and that it will soon be introduced in the legislature and passed in plenty of time for a season of racing at Washington Park. The measure contemplates, it is said, thirty days' racing on tracks in Cook county, and provides that there shall not be more than three tracks in this county. Such a restriction would do away with additional race courses and would give Harlem, Hawthorne and Washington Park a total of ninety days of racing. No such thing as a foreign hook will be permitted.—Horse Review, Chicago.

DUKE OF YORK II, the winner of yesterday's two-year-old race, is trained by Billy Appleby and is an own brother to True Blue, Castanette and Carmel. The Duke is a strapping big bright chestnut, and from all appearances will be over sixteen hands in height when he gets his full growth, having big bones for a youngster. He's very handsome though, shows more quality than any of his brothers and sisters, and besides is possessed of a good disposition and a "level head," something not owned by either Carmel or True Blue. York had worked three furlongs in 0:36 flat, but had not received very much schooling at the gate, hence hardly knew just what was expected of him when he went to the post for the first time.

THE ambiguous wording of the conditions governing the $20,000 Matron Stakes to be decided at Morris Park in 1897 which appeared in last week's Calendar has caused such confusion that they have been changed to read as follows: "For foals, the progeny of mares duly entered at $10 or $20 each, to be eligible at $20 each, the only forfeit if declared by January 3, 1899. If left in after January 3, 1899, to pay $10 each; if left in after August 15, 1898, to pay $75 each. Starters to pay $150 each." According to the original construction of the conditions an owner was liable to the tune of $270. Under the present restrictions the liability has been reduced to $235, the amount which the association intended should be the limit.—N. Y. Sun.

It is whispered that Delaware is to have a new pool law, and that it may be of the all-the-year-around kind. W. J. Thompson, of Gloucester and Iron Hill fame, is said to be behind the move and he is reported to have already picked out the lot on which to build a race track. That location is Claymont, which is close to the Pennsylvania line, below Chester. This would be easy of access from Philadelphia, and would also draw from Chester and Wilmington. It is understood that Mr. Thompson has promised to build a first-class mile track if the law passed suits him. If the bill is passed other tracks will be opened. There is a good half-mile track at Wilmington, and the Kirkwood mile track, once kite-shaped, will also be available.

A LEXINGTON dispatch to a Chicago paper says: "In a letter to a friend, William Wallace tells of his two-year-old chestnut colt Flocon, by Rayon d'Or, out of Flavia. He says he has shown him a half mile in 0:50 1-5 over the Ingleside track, and that he believes he is the fastest youngster on the Pacific Slope. This colt is a half brother to Floretta V., one of August Belmont's good stake mares."

WILLMAN BROS., of Newman, Stanislaus County, have in W. M. Murry's hands a half-brother to Rey del Bandidos (by Morello) and a brother to Rey Alfonso and Rey del Tierra, two-year-olds. The former is said to be a very good-looking fellow and gallops like a race horse. The firm owns several brood mares, among the number the dam of Blizzard, and recently secured the stallion Del Norte, winner of many good races for Matt Storm.

AMONG the horses in George C. Bennett's string at Memphis is one that will hear close watching next year. Dr. Walmesley, a coming three-year-old colt by Prince Royal—imp. Penelope, is the one in question. He was a slashing, good-looking two-year-old last season and according to his owner has improved wonderfully since he was turned out of training for the winter. This youngster gave Jim Murphy's stake colt, George Rose, a battle royal in the only race the son of George Kinney ran at the Fair Grounds, St. Louis. Shortly afterwards George Rose was taken east and his record around New York stamped him as being one of the most serviceable two-year-olds of the year. Dr. Walmesley may not prove to be a high-class stake colt, but it will take a good horse to beat him if he improves much on the form he showed this year.

CASH DAY may not race again in California this season, says the Bulletin. Charley Carmichael remarked recently that his good horse was awfully lame and he had given up all hopes of racing him here this year. Cash Day's legs have been bad for a long while. Greatest care has had to be paid him to keep him in any kind of condition. Before he was brought to California he had been rested up. After he got here he was doctored and carefully nursed. He ran in a couple of races and won one. A let-up was given him because it was thought that he would not stand continuous racing. After a vacation, which ended a few days ago, Cash Day was started to work, and it was in a workout that he hurt his high foreleg just below the knee. This limb was crippled, but this time he wrenched it in a new and tender region. Mr. Carmichael is afraid that it will take a long time to cure him of his lameness.

THE name of the fifty-five stallions entered in the Westchester Racing Association's National Stallion Race for two-year-olds of 1898, are published in this week's Racing Calendar. Mr. J. B. Haggin enters nine—Darebin, Golden Garter, Gold Finch, Islington, Midlothian, Sir Modred, Watcress, Tenny and Tyrant. Other horses entered are Hanover, St. Blaise, Kingston, Pardee, Order, Inverness, Tammany, Montana, Sam Lucas, Kitzkige, Uncas, Faverdale, Juvenal, Trouhadour, St. Leonards, Tournament, Chorister, Ben Strome, Himyar, Eothen, Exile, Miser, Cheviot, His Highness, Ludwig, Executor, Potomac, Laureate, Victory, St. Florian, Strathmore, Meddler, Rayon d'Or, Magnetizer, Badge, Fiddlesticks, G. W. Johnson, Linden, Belvidere, Hindoo, Sir Dixon, Gano, Emperor of Norfolk, Knight of Ellerslie, Dry Monopole and Alhert.

THE Daily Racing Form Publishing Company of Chicago will issue, about January 25th, a year book of records. It will be of 100 pages in both paper and leather covers, and sell at popular prices—35 cents in paper and 50 cents in leather. Frank Brunell writes us: "An advance copy in leather will be sent you about January 20th. You will find the book more than handy for desk use. I built it on the basis of what I most needed for my work. Racing records are most prominent in the book. Two handicap tables are published, with average speed tables of all tracks and keys to the handicap tables over races to which the figures of the first were applied. The racing records of all tracks and records to date of the turf and complete summary of the pugilism of 1896 (with an index) are within the book. It also covers horse and jockey outlaw lists, baseball, athletics, sculling, and is a general compendium of American sporting records."

STARTER J. B. FERGUSON has come in for deserved commendation from all sides for the uniformly good send-offs he has given his fields throughout the present Oakland meeting. During the week just passed there were thirty-five races, with the fields the largest, taken all in all, ever seen on the Pacific Slope, and containing a host of bad actors, such as Alvarado, Commission, Applause, Braw Scot, Rey del Bandidos, Woodchopper, Viking, Nelson, Fly, and Argentina. It is, then, approaching the wonderful that he should not make one bad start in that time and not leave more than two horses at the post among the hundreds sent there, if indeed there were that many actually left. The big bettors, such as Dave Gideon, Ed Purser, Grannan, and Joe Ullman, play their money with a feeling of confidence that the horse they place their coin on will get away from the post with the others and they will get a run for their simoleons anyhow. Ferguson takes great pride in his work, and his bitter enemy is willing to concede that he has a wonderfully quick eye, phenomenal control of himself and that he makes fewer poor starts than anybody else in the country.

PAT DUNNE will leave California horseless in the spring, says the Evening Bulletin. Possibly he might buy a few promising colts and take them with him, but one thing is assured, none of his present stable will accompany him. "I shall either sell or turn out all the horses I have here," said Mr. Dunne, last night. "I will not take one of them back. After racing here all winter they would stand little show of winning back there. I will have to begin almost at the bottom and build up a stable. I will only have the Flying Dutchman and six two-year-olds. The Dutchman is wintering nicely, at least they write me he is. My two-year-olds I do believe are not of much account. As yet I have not found one whom I think will make a wonder, so I will have to be on the outlook for a stable." Mr. Dunne has won several thousand dollars with his horses. His stable is composed of a number of horses which will win in most any kind of company. There is Preston, considered one of the best four-year-olds last year; Captive, who beat Reginald; Salvable, Salvator's best production; Benamela, a fair horse; Formal, Sweet William, Damien and others. They will bring over $1,000 apiece.

The Agricultural Fairs.

The unanimity of opinion regarding the justice of making appropriations for district fairs is so strong in Sacramento that success is assured. The past two years have proven conclusively that the cutting off of these appropriations did an incalculable injury to the very best interests of this State.

The BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN has fearlessly proclaimed that this wrong should be righted, and at this session of the Legislature strenuous efforts will be made to see that the producing classes, the bone and sinew of this great State, shall be recognized. The farmer, stock-breeder and manufacturer, and all who are interested in rural pursuits are interested. They pay heavy taxes yearly and never see any return; they read about the large amounts appropriated to build useless colleges and buildings that are akin to palaces for those who are well able to pay their way in private institutions; they note with feelings of alarm how, in the effort to economize, Governor Budd, out of the goodness of his heart, strikes an almost fatal blow at them; they believe he realizes that his adoption of this heroic measure was a little too severe, so they sent delegates to this city to discuss this question in every way. The meeting was an excellent one, and after due deliberation regarding the feasibility of lessening the number of districts (44), it was deemed the wisest policy to see that all agricultural districts which were entitled to an appropriation (by reason of their resources and the money expended to encourage those objects for which these associations were formed), should receive amounts proportionate to the showing made in 1894, as gathered from the statistics of this State. Some of the districts will get very little, others that have never aspired to be recognized, will drop out, and a few will get about the amount they received before the Governor vetoed the bill. In all, a reduction in the amount asked for is expected, and by not casting aside any of the districts no jealousies will be engendered, and no opposition created among the legislators when the bill is ready to be voted upon; this also relieves responsibility from the representatives regarding the amounts sought for. The basis for arriving at these, as stated above, will be taken from the reports in the State Capitol.

A good, live and energetic committee has been appointed, and they will work night and day until this measure is adopted. They are encouraged to do so by the promise of assistance from everyone, and their presence at the Capitol will be manifest at all times.

All those who may oppose this bill will be shown that these appropriations are not devoted to stakes and purses, for the horsemen and public pay these. The money is used as premiums and has always been better expended than any other appropriations in California.

This great State is on the edge of the continent; a world in itself, almost, and on account of its isolation its people should be encouraged to improve their stock of cattle, sheep, swine and horses. We have to import the best, but, if we cannot offer a prize winner or one descended from a prize winner to a customer, money is sent East to breeders who have this honor credited to their best representatives. In regard to horses, very few of our legislators know that over $2,700,000 was paid in the Eastern markets for horses in 1896, and not one cent of this money came to California—the greatest breeding country in the world. It is a shame that in a condition of things should exist. Let us have district fairs where we can see our best horses win prizes, and let that fact be known. We have sent through our Board of Trade thousands of dollars worth of our best productions East, and have had little return to speak of, while the fact remains that at our district fairs we have had world-record breakers which have brought millions of dollars to this Coast to remain here and be spread broadcast among our people. The horse-breeding and developing industry of California came to a standstill when appropriations to district fairs ceased, so did the breeding of choice live stock of every kind, as well as the interest in cultivating better fruits and cereals. The country at large has retrograded a decade since 1895, and it is time to apply the brakes and start anew on our journey to prosperity and happiness. No time is to be lost. Everyone in California should consider this subject of appropriations to district fairs a personal matter and do all they can to see that the bill which will soon be presented, passes both houses and receives Governor Budd's signature.

The Emmons Racing Bill.

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 15.—Assemblyman Emmons introduced a bill prohibiting horse racing on tracks between the 1st of December and the 1st of March; also prohibiting more than thirty days racing at one time in other months. He says he will make a big fight if pushed and attract the lobby. Emmons said it originated with the horse raisers of the San Joaquin Valley, who have lost their market for horses since so many Eastern cracks were brought out here for winter racing. This bill would keep Eastern horses out of the State and give local turf farms a chance, and would also revive racing in interior towns, which has been killed by the big tracks in San Francisco and Oakland.

The bill referred to by Assemblyman Emmons is No. 336. It is too bad that it did not remain nearer the insane asylum, but, however, it will do no harm; it merely shows how ignorant some people are who aspire to hold positions in California. He makes assertions in that bill that are entirely uncalled for, and have no foundation in fact.

To every fair-minded person, this boast of his about making a fight that will attract the lobby seems ludicrous. But we will go a little further and show how foolish the rest of his statements are. He says "the bill originated with the horse-raisers of the San Joaquin Valley, who have lost their market for horses since so many 'Eastern cracks' were brought here for winter racing, and that this bill would keep Eastern horses out of the State and give local turf farms a chance." For his benefit and for the benefit of those who may rally to his standard, a little information might be beneficial.

All the horse-raisers of California have made money, as shown the fact that our markets for thoroughbreds since the arrival of these "Eastern cracks" is better than ever; prices have been better, even at the auction sales, and if there were a few more stock farms in the San Joaquin Valley, it would be a good thing for the nameless horse-raisers, who, as he says, were the originators of this bill.

He speaks of how racing affects us. Statistics show that during the season of 1895 and 1896 Eastern or foreign horses that came to this State won for their owners $105,854, while the California-bred horses (some of them we hope were raised in the San Joaquin Valley, by these unnamed horse-raisers,) won for their owners, $154,869, a balance in favor of the California-bred horses of $49,015!

"Racing in the interior towns," he says, "would be revived if this bill were passed." There never was any racing in the interior towns worth going a mile to see, except that given by the trotting-horse owners until the last year; but in 1897, and thereafter, there is no doubt that at the meetings to be given in these towns, and in the San Joaquin valley in particular, better racing will be seen than has ever been noticed by such brassy men as Assemblyman Emmons, and the aforesaid unnamed horse-raisers who have been his advisers.

He says, "the big tracks in San Francisco and Oakland have killed racing." Let him tell the truth in his Assembly bill while he is about it. The Pacific Coast Jockey Club, in its endeavor to help the great industry, expended over $500,000 in real estate, while the California Jockey Club has spent in Oakland nearly $300,000, and this is the only first cost. When we take into consideration the amount of hay and grain (all of it raised in California) that is used by the twelve hundred horses there during the racing season, and the army of men employed to take care of these horses, and furnish everything for them, it can easily be seen that large sums of money must be paid to carry on this great work, and a large portion of this comes from the rich owners of these "Eastern cracks," as Assemblyman Emmons prefers to call them. Another thing about this bill "Emmonated" by the unnamed horse-raisers of the San Joaquin Valley through Assemblyman Emmons, is, that he wants to limit the time of racing to a certain portion of the year, and states what season the racing should be held. Sixty days racing would close every race course in California. There would be no inducement for Californians to breed horses; not even the "raisers" of the San Joaquin Valley, if such a law were passed. California is the best state in the Union to have winter racing. A number of Eastern breeders are buying stock farms in this state and will make their homes here where they will raise thoroughbreds to race and sell. The true import of this bill is to prevent such capital being invested. A Silurian measure, surely. If it is a "cinch" bill could not a single fact be shown in its favor? We fail to find one, but are under the impression that Assemblyman Emmons, like Joshua, of old, would "command the sun to stand still;" but a careful canvass of the legislators shows that nearly all are strongly in favor of killing this bill or any more that may be like it.

We hope that the unnamed horse-raisers will take a little time to read the papers and study what is of the greatest importance to them at present. However, we congratulate their representative on his mighty bill, and hope that when the fight takes place every horseman will be waiting in the lobby to hear who will have the courage to refute facts that are acknowledged by every liberal-minded citizen of this State.

The Saratoga Meeting.

During the season of 1896 there was no racing at Saratoga and horsemen east and west were sadly disappointed. The "Spirit of the Times," in referring to the meetings at this place, says: "For many years racing has been conducted at this popular course, jaded horses had speedily recovered their health and strength, and owners, trainers, and the great body of turf followers enjoyed the Springs during the heated term. Last year was an absolute blank in the gay life at the Spa. The hotels missed the patronage and the citizens the sport which had always afforded them so much business and pleasure, and the demand was general that the Saratoga Racing Association's course should not lie idle another year. This demand will be met, and all interested in the welfare of racing should lend a hearty support to the management of the association in order that the meeting that will be held July 28 to August 21, inclusive may be a sporting and financial success.

The stakes announced for the coming meeting are to be found in our business columns and as all of them have guaranteed values, they speak for themselves. Special attention, however, is called to the Citizens' Stakes, $2,500 guaranteed by the citizens of Saratoga and the association, which conclusively shows that the citizens are aroused to the necessity of supporting racing at Saratoga, and that the association is receiving substantial assistance from them. The Kearney Handicap Haodicap, for all ages, fixed weights, should furnish one of the best races of the year. The four filly races are also commendable features.

In addition to the above flat race stakes, four stakes are announced for steeplechasers and hunters, two for each class namely: Saratoga Green Steeplechase $1,000, for four years old and upward that have never won a steeplechase previous to the time of closing, full steeplechase course, about two miles and a half; Hunters' Steeplechase, $1,000, for half-bred hunters, to be owned and ridden by members of any recognized hunt in the United States or Canada, the long course, about three and a half miles; Saratoga Pink Coat Steeplechase, $1,000, for hunters to be owned and ridden by members of any recognized hunt in the United States or Canada, the long course, about three and a half miles, and the Beverwyck Steeplechase, $1,500, an open handicap steeplechase, full steeplechase course, about two and a half miles. These stakes should do much toward promoting interest in cross-country sport. In the Hunters' Steeplechase and the Saratoga Pink Coat Steeplechase, horses and riders must qualify under the Rules of the National Hunt Association.

An Urgent Necessity.

The "Breeder and Sportsman" advocated the erection of suitable buildings near the speed track in Golden Gate Park two years ago, but the Park Commissioners were not empowered to erect one unless by a special act of the Legislature. The Call of this city has taken up the fight, and with its powerful aid, it is hoped horsemen will soon have the rights they are entitled to. In its issue of Thursday last we find the following:

The gentlemen reinmen of this city feel that in the past they have been neglected by the Park Commission, and yesterday there was introduced a bill in the Assembly at Sacramento by Assemblyman Leon L. Denney that is expected to provide a rendezvous for the owners of high-priced horses, where their foaming steeds can be cooled out.

Some time ago a monster petition was laid before the Park Commissioners, with the Golden Gate Driving Association as its sponsors. The membership of the Association is large, including on its roll some of the wealthiest local horsemen. In it was plainly stated the grievances of the possessors of the pacers and the trotters.

While a splendid track had been constructed through the Park to the ocean beach for the cyclists, and a cyclists' rest erected for the comfort of wheelmen at the beach itself, the horse folks were compelled to pull their chargers up at the end of the speed track, with the chilling winds from the ocean blighting their animals, and in some instances working their ruin, simply for lack of a place of shelter.

The fact was set forth in the petition that the Park speed track was constructed at a cost of nearly $20,000 entirely through private subscription, many of the subscribers of which were members of the Golden Gate Association.

A palatial structure was not asked for, and while the Commissioners were in sympathy with the horsemen, were dilatory in taking action. It was proposed at one time to move the old Casino building to the lower end of the speed course, but this scheme was dropped as not feasible. The opinion was then expressed that it was just possible that the laws governing the public parks would not permit of a building or buildings to be erected for the lovers of the roadster, though eminent legal authority consulted construed the law as favorable to the cause.

In an interview Tuesday evening W. S. Leake, secretary of the Pacific Coast Jockey Club, stated that that was his opinion, but that bill introduced by Mr. Denney and which would be presented to the Senate by Edward I. Wolfe would become a law. Mr. Leake returned from Sacramento Tuesday evening and said the general tenor of opinion among the assembled politicians at the State Capitol was in favor of it.

The plaint of the driving horse owners is considered a lost one, and it is hoped they will receive the recognition they are entitled to. Many splendid specimens of horses are quartered in the different stables in the city "eating their heads off," as they say. And all this simply for lack of a cozy refuge in the Park, where, safe from the winds, an idle hour could be passed in watching the speed trials and "talking horse." Many thousands of dollars are represented in horseflesh in this city and a resort of some sort in the Park would lend fresh impetus to the sport. This would be felt by breeders throughout the country. The Golden Gate Park and the ocean boulevard are unrivaled for driving purposes, and it is a disgrace to the city that in the past man's noblest animal has received such slight consideration.

Tempting to Turfmen.

In another portion of this paper will be found advertised a number of the Westchester Racing Association's rich stakes, entries to which close February 2, 1897. We now have blanks for these stakes, and will be pleased to mail or hand them to any turfman desiring to enter a horse in any of these events, to be run at Morris Park. For the May meeting of 1897 the following stakes are now open: The Bouquet, Gaiety and Laureate, for two-year-olds; the Metropolitan, Toboggan and Highlight Serial Handicaps, for three-year-olds and upward; also the Amateur Cup, to say nothing of the St. Nicholas and International Steeplechases. Some very rich stakes are also offered for the fall meeting of 1897, and for the autumn meeting of 1899 there is the $20,000 Matron Stakes.

The Washington Jockey Club (Bennings) also comes to the front with several big stake races, which will be found advertised. Entries to the stakes of both organizations should be addressed to H. G. Crickmore, 173 Fifth avenue, New York, N. Y.

Ideal Park Racing Association.

Entries for this live association's meeting which is to take place at Ideal Park, Wisconsin, will close Monday, March 1st. We have a number of blanks on hand and will deliver or mail them to all horse owners, breeders and trainers. Our representatives at Ingleside and the Oakland race tracks will gladly furnish information regarding this meeting, and all who do not obtain blanks will confer a favor by sending us word. There are nineteen stakes in all and amount in value from $6,000 to $1,000. They are for horses of all ages and over all distances. The secretary, M. Natanson who was with us last season, has used great care in arranging these events and the liberal conditions offered should bring a plethora of entries from California breeders. Read the advertisement in this issue, and do not overlook the important fact that entries will close Monday, March 1st.

THE great sale of trotters and trotting-bred stallions and broodmares from the San Mateo Stock Farm will take place at Madison Square Garden, February 16th and 17th, under the auspices of P. C. Kellogg, the famous auctioneer. Such sires as Guy Wilkes 2:15, Sable Wilkes 2:18, and broodmares like Montrose (dam of four); Hannah Price (dam of four); Blanche (dam of four); Mystic (dam of two); Vixen (dam of three), and a number of other famous ones, besides colts and fillies with records, and others that are brothers and sisters to great money winners.

In addition to the committee appointed to work in behalf of the District Agricultural Associations, that solid organization, the Pacific Coast Trotting Horse Breeders Association, at a recent meeting, appointed Prof. E. P. Heald, A. H. Cohen and D. E. Knight, as a committee to go to Sacramento to aid in every way they can the passage of a bill for appropriations for agricultural fairs.

THE attention of our readers is called to the sale of horses to be held by W. D. Grand, New York City, February 11-12. Mr. Grand will have the finest collection of horses suitable for the track and road ever offered in New York City, many of them being noted prize winners. Send for catalogues at once.

Now is the time to advertise your stallion!

JERRY CHORN is loading around Chicago with nothing to do. Last summer his father died and he was without a cent to bury him. He wired big-hearted Barney Schreiber his condition, and hack came $200 by the first mail. Many owners would not have treated Chorn in his affliction as he did. Barney was a kind and gentle nature and forgave the derelict jockey. If a paper was circulated for the reinstatement of Chorn, Barney would be the first to sign it, notwithstanding the many dollars he cheated him out of. Other prominent owners would undoubtedly sign such a paper. It is their opinion that he has done no worse than other boys who are now riding, and why keep one boy down forever and allow others to ride. It does seem that Jerry has been punished sufficiently. He has starved for over a year. He would go to riding on an outlaw track, but Barney advised him not to, saying that there might be a chance of getting back.

A CHICAGO dispatch says Col. M. Lewis Clark, the well known and popular turf judge, is at the Auditorium Hotel there, where he has been confined to his room since the first week in December. He has been a very sick man, and at one time his recovery was doubtful, but his powerful constitution triumphed and he is now in a fair way toward complete recovery. For years M. Lewis Clark has been a power in the conduct of clean racing in the southern and western sections of this country, and during that period he has presided in the judges' stand at every racing park of prominence. Soon as he is able Colonel Clark will go to California, to remain during the winter. His plans for next season are not yet determined upon, he says, but it is probable he will be in the vicinity of Chicago.

THE Canadian turfman, Alec Shields, arrived Thursday at the Oakland track from New Orleans with a carload of horses. Logan, Frank Jauhart, Cherrystone and Devault were the principal horses, but Mr. Shields also brought Chappie and Dennis for Dr. Rowell and five other horses of no particular quality and not worth naming, so Mr. Shields said. Mr. Bensoe brought a fair horse in David, who is a little partial to the mud and should more than earn his oats this winter. Logan shipped as successfully as any iron horse would and may be expected to complete his hundred winning brackets this winter. Frank Jauhart is an own brother to Song and Dance, being by The Bard-Heel and Toe.

Our New York Letter.

NEW YORK, JANUARY 16, 1897.

In resuming my letters from this city I desire to congratulate the present proprietor on having secured the "Breeder and Sportsman," and to wish him all the success which is due his efforts, which means continued success and prosperity, only more of it. I shall strive in my weekly contributions to give items in condensed form which I think will be of interest to its readers.

The decision of Mr. William Corhitt to dispose of his stock is somewhat of a surprise East, and much interest is manifested to know where Guy and Sable Wilkes will find a new home. While regretting to lose Mr. Corhitt from the fraternity, nevertheless he will be relieved from the annoyances of business, and can now retire with honors and enjoy the remainder of his days in peace and quiet, to which he is eminently entitled.

The Monticola sailed on Friday for Liverpool, having on board seven race horses belonging to Mr. August Belmont, and which are to take part in some English classic events. Six of the lot are two-year-olds, three colts and three fillies. Knowing ones predict that Bridgemoor, by Rayon d'Or—imp. St. Bridget, will carry off the honors. It required a great deal of main strength to get him on board. Keenan is among the lot, and if he will leave some of his cranky notions behind will make a good showing.

The Court has refused to continue the injunction against the Westchester Racing Association in favor of Riley Grannan. He was ruled off September 28. It may be remembered Mr. Grannan was found guilty of presenting Fred Taral with $500, it is also claimed he offered Griffin $500 which he refused and informed Mr. Belmont.

Very many of the states east are using strong efforts toward permitting pools on the tracks during racing, particularly New York and Pennsylvania. A large meeting was held in this city last week, and organizations of trotting men perfected, and a strong committee appointed to visit Albany and also to organize auxiliary societies in the various counties.

Mr. Tewksberry the recent purchaser of John R. Gentry, will have his entire force of stable men in a uniform of black and gold the coming season. These two colors will characterize his bikes, harness, whips, blankets and will be worn by his driver Mr. Bowen. Of Mr. W. E. D. Stokes, who has been appointed by the Russian Government as their correspondent for horse breeding in America, it is said a plum colored uniform has been forwarded to him, to wear on all "horse" occasions. Mr. Stokes has sent a number of American horse shoers to that country to introduce American shoes and our manner of shoeing.

It has been definitely decided to abandon the old Buffalo Driving Park, and it is being surveyed into building lots. The eighty acres are valued at nearly $1,000,000. Mr. Hamlin paid $18,000 for sixty acres of it in 1866. Many of the eventful contests in the trotting world were witnessed on this track. If the anti-hetting laws are modified a new track will probably be constructed. Fort Erie is talked of as the location for a combination track.

The Italian trotting association of Milan, Italy, offers a $5,000 trotting stake for foals of 1896, distance one and one-eighth miles, winner to take three heats.

The new horse exchange recently destroyed by fire will be reopened next month. It has been very much enlarged.

The legislature of this State will assuredly pass a law this winter which will make boxing exhibitions very tame affairs if kept within the bounds required. Two pugilists, one at Newburgh and the other in this city are lying at the point of death, the result of boxing bouts. A contest Saturday evening at the Polo Athletic Club between Billy Smith and Con Doyle was declared a draw, twelve rounds were fought, Smith fighting the last six with his left arm broken.

Tuesday evening at the Bohemian Athletic Club Tommy White of Chicago and Solly Smith of your State fought twenty-five rounds which were declared a draw.

The Corhitt and Fitzsimmons contest is again coming to the front with the usual amount of talk and bluster. Like the color of our African friends it looks as if it will never come off.

It has been decided to hold the fifth annual Grand National Handicap at live birds March 23, 24, 25 at Elkwood Park. Manager Daly has agreed to furnish 10,000 pigeons, every bird to be blue. Last year's handicap had 104 entries and was won by O. R. Dickey of Boston.

At the Westminister Kennel Club, Long Island, on the 12th, G. S. McAlpine defeated George Work in a 200 bird match for $1000. The birds were mostly drivers and quarters. McAlpine killed 151 out of 200; Work, 142.

Jack rabbits have made their appearance in Orange County supposed to have come from Tuxedo Park.

At Highland Falls the village adjoining West Point, one night this week some scoundrel poisoned quite one half the dogs in that village and vicinity, among the number some valuable ones, a St. Bernard presented by Pierpont Morgan to a friend valued at $2,500 was among the number.

A novel contest at bowling is to take place at Newark, N. J., next week Charles Kresmer and Nick Thyrer will bowl for five hours. Strikes and spurs do not count, only pins knocked down. The stakes are $300 a side.

Oscar Hammerstein has sold the Harlem Opera House to Benjamin Lichtenstein a retired tobacco merchant for $500,000 subject to a mortgage for $300,000. Mr. Hammerstein yesterday discharged over $30,000 of debts and says he is now financially solid.

Nothing startling in the theatrical world. Quite a number of people heretofore in the legitimate are now seen at Heith's and also at Proctor's in the continuous performance. Some say it is so much less work to do a "turn," a lack of engagements is declared the reason by others. Emmet and Jennie Yeamens are at Proctor's.

AS ASSIGNEE for James E. Pepper, the Security Trust and Safety Vault Company to-day sold the distiller's celebrated stock farm, "Meadowthorne" says a Lexington, Ky., dispatch of January 18th: Mrs. James E. Pepper was the purchaser at $38,050, the amount of the first mortgage on it. The sale of the Meadowthorne stallions, brood mares and live stock will be held next Friday morning.

MILTON YOUNG, of McGrathiana, Ky., is one of the most persistently successful breeders of thoroughbreds in this country. He sold last year more than 100 head of yearlings by private sale, the youngsters never leaving the farm till they were sold.

Tecora.

One of the great broodmares is Tecora, owned by Jay Beach of Alameda. Her colts have all been foaled in Oregon and Washington, hence have had meager opportunities for development. She has had the good fortune, however, to have been mated with the great sire Altamont, with the result that she produced in Chehalis, 2:07½, and Del Norte, 2:08, the two fastest performers from daughters of Strader's Clay. Besides these she has produced the wonderfully good three-year-old Touchet (3), 2:15, and the trotting mares Coqueta, 2:30; Tenino, 2:33½; Lyla (4), 2:35; Venetia (3), 2:42½; Beulah (2), 2:47½, and Deta, matinee record, half mile to cart, 1:19. All of these, except Venetia, by Altamont, were by Altamont. Venetia was bred to Altamont in the years 1888 and 1889, the results being Vinmoon, 2:21½, and Althaia (2), 2:27½. Tecora was foaled in 1877, and has produced fifteen foals as follows:

1880—B f, Venetia, 2:42½, by Altamont, dam of Vinmoon, 2:21½.	1890—Bik c, Chehalis (p), 2:07½, by Altamont.
1881—Barren.	1891—B c, Touchet (p) (3), 2:15, by Altamont.
1882—Bik f, Coqueta, 2:30, by Altamont.	1892—Bik f, Lyla (4), 2:35, by Altamont.
1883—B c by Graduate, died 1883.	1893—B c, Touraine, not trained, by Altamont.
1884—Bik f, Deta, half mile to cart 1:19, by Altamont.	1894—B f, Alatiel, untrained, by Altamont.
1885—Bik c, Alveta, very fast, by Altamont. Died 1889.	1895—Bik c, untrained, by Altamont.
1886—B f, Beulah (2), 1:48½; trial (4) 2:27½, by Altamont.	1896—Bik f, untrained, by Altamont.
1887—Barren.	1897—In foal to Altamont.
1888—Bik c, Del Norte, 2:08.
1889—B f, Tenino, 2:33½, by Altamont.

Tecora is a black mare about 15.3, of exceedingly high finish and quality. All of her colts, so far as worked, have shown both speed and racehorse quality, though none of them except Del Norte, Chehalis and Touchet have received anything like full development. As it is, none of her living foals have records which indicate speed. One, a very fast colt, died before he was ever started in a race; another is now showing speed, and three are as yet unbroken. Tecora is by Cassius M. Clay Jr. 22 (Strader's), dam by Brignoli 77 2:29½; grandam The Ware Mare (dam of Joe Hooker and Governor 2:30), by Canada Chief, son of Davy Crockett; great grandam by Plow Boy, pacing record 2:36.

"Eight Hundred Dollars Saved."

Mr. C. E. Dinehart, Cashier State Bank at Slayton, Minn., writes: "One bottle of Quinn's Ointment cured a very bad case of blood spavin on a mare for which I have since been offered $800. I would not be without it if it cost $5 a bottle. For curbs, splints, spavins, windpuffs and all bunnies it has no equal. Price $1.50. For sale by J. A. McKerron and J. O'Kane, S. F. Also druggists in general."

LAKEVILLE, Cal., Jan. 12, 1897.

ABSORBINE Co., Gentlemen—Having had occasion to use an absorbent to remove a large bunch on the outside of the cannon bone of a colt I was handling, I thought I would try your highly recommended preparation Absorbina, and can assure you gentlemen it worked like a charm. Not a sign of a bunch appears and I defy anyone to show me where it is located. I will never be without a bottle of it hereafter.

Yours, THOS. ROCHE.

Superintendent Lakeville Stock Farm.

FARRAR & TUBERVILLE Wednesday sold to Ed Purser the jumper Three Forks, at this writing perhaps the best timber-topper in California, bar Burns & Waterhouse's Burmah. He packed 165 pounds to an easy victory Wednesday. The consideration was $1,200, and at that figure he looks a bargain. The chances are Mr. Purser will win him out the first time he starts him.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Oct. 25, 1895.

H. S. Bossart & Co.—Gentlemen—I have been using your Curine, and I find it the best preparation that I have ever seen or used.

CLARENCE HENDERSON.

Owner and driver of Frank T., 2:17½, and Mand E., 2:19½.

ANACONDA, Mont., Jan. 4, 1895.

SPECIAL DEPARTMENT

EDITED AND CONDUCTED SOLELY BY

JOSEPH CAIRN SIMPSON.

ANNUAL MEETING, P. C. T. H. B. A.—After two ineffectual efforts to hold the annual meeting of the Pacific Coast Trotting Horse Breeders Association a quorum was secured on Saturday last, the gaps in the directory filled and some minor business attended to, though by far the most important affairs were left, owing to the lack of a quorum from members withdrawing soon after the election of directors. En passant To guard against the same trouble in the future notices of amendments to the constitutions will be filed, making twelve in place of twenty a legal quorum, and to induce attendance that the members shall elect all the officers. The proposed amendments can be acted upon at a special meeting of the association convened during the week of the races which will be held the week after the close of the Stockton Fair when there will be an assurance of a quorum under the present law. A notice has already been filed to reduce membership fee to $15, and annual dues to $5, and in all probability there will be other changes of the constitution to meet present-day requirements. There is no necessity for arguments now in advocacy of the proposed amendments, as a more appropriate time will be when the meeting is closer at hand.

In addition to the election of directors, and, by the way, no fault can be found with those chosen, Messrs. Boyd, Loeber and Cohen being re-elected; Mr. Kirkpatrick of the Palace Hotel, Mr. Crowley and Mr. Agnew, the new members (Mr. Agnew was formerly a member of the Board and was an efficient worker, scarcely ever missing a meeting and his retirement might be termed accidental), a resolution was adopted, or rather a constitutional amendment, that hereafter auction and motel pools should be the only recognized methods of speculation on the races given under the management of the association. An unanimous vote in favor of the amendment showed that everyone present favored the change, and as the originator of the motion was formerly the most strenuous advocate of book-betting in the Board, the actual workings of the system was the cause of the change in his views. I gave notice of the intended change and signed the resolution, which it is needless to say was done with great pleasure, as my views on that question are so well known that any other course was out of the question.

A resolution indorsing the Horse Show of San Francisco also brought out an unanimous vote. Not that all of the details were approved, but the beneficial effects to the horse breeding interests of California so far outweighed the objectionable features that there was no room for comparison. It was also realized that the breeders and owners of light harness horses, that branch of the equine race, rightly termed the "truly American horse," have been derelict in not seconding the managers of the Horse Show in making that part of the exhibition what these managers anxiously strove to secure.

Had the entries in the classes representing that branch of the show been in accordance with the premiums offered the display would have been worthy of this commonwealth, one of the greatest horse-breeding states in the Union, and in the line of fast harness horses without an equal when all things are considered. In order to secure harmonious action the Board of Directors was instructed to appoint a committee to act in concert with the Horse Show Association, and make every effort to induce breeders and owners of light harness horses to do their part towards making the whole of the exhibition an "unqualified success." That committee will probably be named at the next meeting of the Board, and though it may appear that there is time enough to do the work many months from now, none too soon to commence.

The knowledge that the breeders of all classes of horses in the State are interested in the well-doing of the San Francisco Horse Show will have a good effect.

The moral support will strengthen the managers from the first. The feeling that in place of animosity there is a strong desire to uphold the institution will allay resentment, and then cordial and diligent efforts to do everything possible to advance the many interests depending will complete the good work.

What was done at the annual meeting on Saturday last can safely be called worthy of approval. What might have been done, had the members chosen to extend the time of conference an hour or two more is a matter of conjecture. The point was raised of no quorum and that was the end. An attempt to bring in the most vital question before the meeting, viz., a consideration of the expenses was objected to and before that could be taken up in the proper order there was not a legal quorum.

Nothing will be gained by disguising the fact that 1896 was the most disastrous year for the association since its organization. Lavatory speeches and flattering resolutions may please those who delight in oratory and the recipients of the compliments, but the "money question" is of paramount importance.

A direct loss of over $2,000 on the only meeting held during the year. When to that is added salaries and other expenses for 1896, nearly, if not quite, perhaps more, than four thousand dollars deficit. The balance in the treasury if drawn upon in accordance with previous practice will be absorbed before the meeting in September comes off, and then assessments. That means disintegration. If not actual collapse then a burden which will bear heavily on those who must carry it.

Quite true that the Board of Directors has the power to curtail expenses, but much better if the Association had taken the initiatory steps.

Expenses which have been sanctioned in the past, by practically the same directors which hold the position now, are troublesome to handle differently from what has been the practice, and yet with new conditions there is a warrant for change.

What was a fair remuneration may be an excessive allowance in these times when a dollar has the weight of twice what it amounted a few years ago, and when measured by the present valuation of horses in comparison with prices that prevailed before the "bottom dropped out" of the horse business, the appreciation of money bears a far greater ratio. I am far from being a pessimist and have an abounding faith in the future of harness racing. The prospects are far better than they were at this time last year, but until good prospects are replaced by an actual betterment it will be in accordance with sound judgment not to draw on a prospective fund.

People now-a-days are more careful in regard to incurring obligations than they were some years ago, and in order to obtain entries it will be necessary to grant as favorable terms as can be afforded. Those who are already members will insist that running expenses must be reduced to the minimum sum commensurate with doing the business properly, and those who are compelled to become members before they can make entries will hesitate while the expense is so great. How this drawback shall be overcome without running counter to a vote of the Association is a difficult question. A motion that the Directors should embody a clause in the conditions governing entries, granting the privilege to name horses in purses at a reduced rate, was voted down, and hence that cannot be entertained until the constitution is amended.

That larger receipts would result from lowering the fee for membership and lessening the annual dues while "money is so tight" is my belief, as there would be a large increase, probably, of members, and, consequently, an augmented list of entries. Taking everything into consideration the only way that promises relief is to practice the most rigid economy, reducing the expenditures as far as possible.

THE EMMONS BILL.—According to the only report I have seen the bill introduced to the Assembly by E J Emmons on the 15th inst. The intent is "to limit horse racing to a period of thirty days each year upon any one racecourse in the State. Violations are designated felony and punishable by a fine of not less than $1,000 or more than $5,000." Such is the language of the report and if the bill should become a law it will do great injury to racing. There are several reasons for opposing a measure of that kind. Winter-racing has not the objectionable features in this section that it had in the eastern country, and the only time of the year when eastern horses will take part.

Ingleside and Emeryville racecourses have cost a large amount of money, so much that the profits on thirty days racing in one year would be a small return not much more than the taxes for the year. That, however is less important than the injury to a large proportion of the people of California who are directly interested, and the greater number indirectly interested, from the enactment of a law on the basis of the Emmons bill.

That there should be legislative action in regard to the government of racecourses is beyond all reasonable question. Everyone who has the true and continued prosperity of racing, and consequently the breeding, rearing, training and racing of horses at heart, must be in favor of having the standing of racing clearly expressed, and a State law will secure it a position which ordinances by Supervisors or Councilmen cannot give.

A general law not one which will be in force in one county or incorporated town invalid in adjoining territory.

Something like this. Restricting the meeting on any one racecourse or racetrack to four in each year, limiting the time of each meeting to twenty-four days, with an interval of not less than twenty-seven days before commencing the next meeting, and making it illegal to hold meetings on tracks or racecourses at the same time, without said courses are, at least, fifty miles apart.

This would appear to be liberal enough to guard the interests of Ingleside and Emeryville racecourses which have cost so much money and in which California may feel justifiable pride, but if the managers of these courses should desire five meetings I am in the belief that would be satisfactory to the harness horse folks.

Even with five meetings the racing could be held from the middle of October to the first of June or from the first of November to the middle of June which would leave the intervening time for racing elsewhere.

One hundred and twenty day should certainly be satisfactory to racecourse managers; should assuredly meet the requirements of owners.

Over twelve hundred races in the vicinity of San Francisco covering a period of more than eight months should satisfy the most rabid "form fiend" that exists when he takes into consideration that if he is afforded the whole of the year to pursue his "fad" at one place there is a chance for him to lament in the words of the famous Moor, "Occupation gone," though the chances are still greater of pauperism before the period comes to an end.

There is an imperative necessity for an enactment of the Legislature to govern racing. Should the present convocation of lawmakers disperse without protecting the interests involved, the next will crush them beyond recovery. This is not prophesy; absolutely assured if there is any truth in the dogma that "history repeats itself." Illinois, New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Pennsylvania tell more plainly than letters of fire on the wall the result of practices such as are likely to prevail under the present code. So long as counties and incorporated towns can enact ordinances to govern racing, what is to stop persons whose only aim is to make as much money as possible, in the time allotted, out of the degradation of racing?

Seek a point somewhere on a railway contiguous to San Francisco, or convenient to a ferry landing, incorporate a town, hold race meetings the year round, establish a "foreign book" while the big meetings of the East are held; what the result?

I will not so far underrate the intelligence of my readers as to foretell the denouement. A waste of space.

In fixing a period of twenty-four days and an interval of twenty-seven days the object is to protect the racecourses at Ingleside and Emeryville. Commencing the meetings on Monday and ending on Saturday, horses can be transferred from place to place on the day when there will be the least obstruction.

On consulting a calendar I find that twenty-seven days will not accomplish the desired object, and twenty-eight days would interfere with the meeting held in February, and in place of either number of days it will necessitate an interval of twenty-four days and the Sundays embraced in the interval, or twenty-four week days be sufficient to express the intention of the bill.

Los Angeles is the only city outside of San Francisco and its suburbs, which has the slightest show of making racing remunerative under such a law as one would be which embodied these conditions.

The continuity of racing would be broken here, or no opportunity for long-continued meetings which have done so much to engender opposition to racing of all kinds. With an interval of four weeks between the racing days there would be a distinct break, and still with the two racecourses within handy reach of San Francisco, those who make a business of racing or in connection with the races will find full employment for their time.

It is needless, or at least, I hope it is unnecessary, to repeat arguments against a "racecourse war" were that instituted, and should the P. C. T. H. B. A. and the C. J. C. hold meetings at the same time there would surely be trouble of the gravest kind.

It must not be ascribed to jealousy on the part of harness-horse folks when they seek some protection.

While it is very likely that there is a feeling of soreness over the decadence of harness-racing in California, and that some of the votaries of harness horses ascribe a good part of the depression to the overbearing prominence of the gallopers, the majority would gladly see "legitimate" racing flourish.

At the same time it is fully realized that all the trouble in the shape of adverse legislation has come from the practices attendant on modern racing, and if these practices, or more moderately expressed the abuses which have been unfettered on sports of the turf, are not abrogated, there will be general war.

Should they be willing to favor such a bill, as that I have outlined, and I have the utmost confidence that it will receive the support of a large majority of the breeders and owners of harness horses, they cannot be charged with antagonism to the gallopers.

Should the people who have expended such large sums in the construction of racecourses, and the purchase of thoroughbreds, object to a law which should be gladly welcomed, like Samson when he pulled the pillars from the temple, blame themselves for the consequences.

Knee Sprung Horses.

In reply to my friend McLellan I cheerfully give him my views on paper in regard to the subject in question. I wish every blacksmith was as anxious to qualify himself as he is.

There is considerable diversity of opinion as to the causes of this defect, which is not considered a disease. While some assert that it is due to a relaxed and lengthened state of the extensors, others are equally positive in attributing it to contraction of the flexors, and thus destroying the equilibrium of said flexors and extensors.

Neither of these hypotheses seems to be verified by dissections of the forelegs, which invariably disclose permanent shortening of the ligaments at the hinder part of the knee. Various experiments made confirm this theory. The ligaments at the back of the knee, being shorter than they should be, the animal naturally refrains from putting them on the stretch, the consequence being that when standing the extensors are a little relaxed and the knee bent forward. In time this abnormal position becomes permanent.

Though blistering and rest may effect some improvement, hard and fast work will bring on the same trouble again. Let the animal be shod with the moderately high heel, or shoes growing thicker from toes to heel. It is now generally conceded that a horse which is knee sprung cannot be permanently cured of the defect, as the ligament directly posterior to the knee are permanently shortened.

We have used shoes with low or thin heels. In this we have to a great extent adopted the views of most veterinary writers, but having never received any very decided benefit from such, we have tried the effect of using high-heeled shoes with considerable satisfaction, and on this theory explain the fact that the ligaments, above mentioned, being permanently contracted, they cannot be extended.

The animal while in motion does not seem to be troubled by the defect, but the moment he is permitted to stand the knees are slightly bent to ease the ligaments. When high-heeled shoes are worn the tendons are never stretched, even temporarily, and the animal has always (without any effort on his part) a solid foundation to stand upon, thus affording considerable ease when the ligaments are involved. We are free to advise our patrons to adopt this method of shoeing. From my standpoint I do not think a heel ought to be extremely low or high, that must be governed by the length of the pastern joint. A happy medium will answer any purpose.

An animal suffering from navicular disease is invariably knee sprung, and when the trouble about the foot is obviated, the legs generally assume their normal position, especially after neurotomy is performed. There is no doubt in mind that compelling a horse with this trouble to travel with a low heel, increases the difficulty very materially; the less leverage upon the parts the better he will be.

How the Fast Pacers Were Worked as Colts.

John R. Gentry was trained as a two-year-old, campaigned as a three-year-old and every year since and has trained on to be the fastest horse in the world holding the championship record of a mile in 2:00½.

Robert J. was trained as a two-year-old, campaigned and trained as a three-year-old, and he has been trained every year since. He has the remarkable record of 2:01½, and during this year paced the fourth heat of a race in 2:01½.

Star Pointer was campaigned as a two-year-old, and has been a powerful factor in the active racing world ever since his colthood days. He holds the fastest race record for three heats and his record is 2:02½.

Frank Agan, by Mikagan, barely escaped being trained to a plow at the tender age of two years, but was trained to a cart about three months as a two-year-old, trained until he paced a half in 1:12½, a fourth in 35 seconds. In his three-year-old form he was out racing with young and old horses, was timed separately in a race in 2:12½, and during this year won $1,10 and took a record of 2:16½. This year he took a record of 2:03½ in a winning race.

The Office of Game Warden Abolished.

At the last meeting of the Board of Supervisors of San Francisco the office of Game Warden for this city and county was abolished on the recommendation of the Mayor.

The Mayor's suggestions were embodied in the following communication to the board:

Pursuant to the general powers of the Mayor under the Consolidation Act, I herewith lay before you for your advice and information the lay and the facts concerning the office of Fish and Game Warden of this city and county. It will be remembered that at the first meeting of the board it was stated to your honorable body that it was obligatory upon you then and at that time to make the appointment. I find that the appointment is made under a State law, approved March 26, 1895, which provided for the appointment of fish and game wardens in each county of the State, the appointment, however, to be discretionary with the Board of Supervisors. This was evidently intended to exclude those counties where fish and game did not abound.

In the second place, even if your honorable board intended to fill the office, there was no urgency in making the appointment, because the incumbent held his office until his successor was elected and qualified.

Inasmuch as I recommended in my message to your honorable board that this office be not filled, I deem it my duty now to call your attention to these facts. In the report of the Fish and Game Warden for the last fiscal year I find that twenty-four arrests were made for selling game out of season, which resulted in ten convictions and yielded in fines $105. The salary and expenses of the office amounted to $1,500. I also find that the Fish Commission of the State of California, having its offices in this city, have always two, and sometimes four, wardens or deputies at work in this city in the interests of the preservation of the game of the State. And as San Francisco pays one-third of the tax for the maintenance of the State Fish Commission she does her whole duty in the premises, and the work is well and sufficiently done by the State Fish Commission.

To conclude there is no legal or other necessity of filling this office. It is only an expense to the taxpayers, and I recommended that your honorable body, which acted on the misunderstanding of the law and the facts at its last meeting, declare the place vacant. By that means the cost of maintaining this office will pass into the general fund, for which you will have urgent need for other and more necessary purposes before the end of the fiscal year.

The motion to abolish the office was carried by a vote of 9 to 1, Britt voting in the negative and Haskins and Sheehan being excused.

The Pfund-Schwilk Shoot.

Maybe there wasn't a little fun at the pigeon shooting match recently between Deputy County Clerk Ed Pfund and Deputy Sheriff Charles Schwilk.

And then again maybe there was. Talk about "roaring farces"—no curtain was ever rung down at a minstrel or other show on a funnier or more side splitting feature than that which filled the fields with laughter in the vicinity of the American River bridge.

The pigeon match had been the chief topic of discussion in shotgun circles for a week past, and the intervening days and evenings were devoted assiduously to the task of putting up jobs on the contestants for trap shooting fame. Neither of the men had ever shot at birds over the traps—in fact, so far as most of their friends knew, neither of them had even the slightest acquaintance with the shotgun, hence the proposition to have some fun at their expense.

As a matter of fact, however, both Schwilk and Pfund proved that they are very handy with the fowling-piece, and under ordinarily favorable conditions they would both have made very creditable scores. The managers of the shoot credited them with seven birds each out of the twenty shot at, but they killed many more than that number, even though some of their cartridges did contain almost everything known to a junk shop and very little powder.

The match between the deputy officials was the result of a discussion between them regarding their respective merits as wing shots, but it was to be a quiet affair between themselves, without spectators, judge, referee, scorer or other annoyances. But the matter reached the ears of some of the rollicking spirits of the Pelican Gun Club, and they resolved to take charge of the shoot, see that it was made a memorable New Year's Day event, and that—neither party should win.

And they succeeded. Joe Hill Jr. was announced as the official scorer, Fred Yoerk as referee and J. M. Morrison as judge. Frank Ruhlstaer Jr. took it upon himself to look after the interests of his friend Pfund, by acting as challenger, etc., and Ed Nicolaus served in a like capacity for Schwilk. (If they had stayed at home both men would have had better scores to show.)

The contestants were not allowed to select all their own ammunition, but instead it—or at least a portion—was carefully prepared under the supervision of the officials and friends named. As a result, there should be a very good crop of rice and scrap iron on the shooting grounds next summer. They even tried to bulldoze Pfund into the belief that he must shoot only such weapon as the judges should select, and they tried to handicaps him with a four-pound 44-caliber hummingbird toy, but Pfund drew the line there and kicked so vigorously that he was permitted to use his 12-gauge.

After the men had shot a few rounds and it looked as if they were liable to make pretty fair scores, the fun commenced. Schwilk was a couple of birds ahead, and when he killed the next one stone dead as neatly as anyone could have done the trick, Ruhlstaer challenged the bird.

"Judges," he yelled, with well-assumed excitement, "I challenge that bird! I claim he never touched it!"

Judge Morrison took out his split-second watch and said: "Mr. Nicolaus has one minute in which to retrieve the bird."

Out shot Nicolaus with the speed of the wind, and in about five seconds the dead bird was 'brown at the head of Referee Yoerk, who ducked neatly and also escaped an upercut.

"Lost bird!" shouted the judge. "Time of retrieving, one minute and one and one-half seconds. Mr. Schwilk you must shoot at another bird!"

The bird was trapped and "Parson" Upson, who manipulated the cords, asked, "Are you ready?"

Before Schwilk could say "Pull!" Ruhlstaer rushed up and interposed another challenge.

"Well, what's the matter now?" demanded Judge Morrison.

"I want Mr. Schwilk's cartridges examined!" said Ruhlstaer. "It is reported that he is shooting more than the regulation charge of shot!"

"The challenge is a proper one," said the Judge. "Mr. Schwilk, pass your cartridges to the referee for examination."

The cartridges were handed to Referee Yoerk, who with well-assumed gravity got out his knife and cut a strip down the side of one of them. "Gentlemen," he said addressing the twenty or more persons present, "this cartridge is palpably irregular—there is something crooked going on! Mr. Judge, please examine this ammunition."

And here is the analysis of the contents of the stall: Powder, nit; wads, 3; shot, 1-3 of an ounce; wads, 2; rice, 20 pellets; tacks, 1/2 dozen; small screws, 5; small iron washers, 3; shirt buttons, 4.

Then the crowd roared itself hoarse.

Schwilk was dumfounded. "Somebody's been monkeying with my cartridges!" he cried. "They've been changed while I wasn't looking."

He was allowed to reload his gun, the trap was sprung and a strong, swift-flying blue tailer struck out straight for Mount Diablo. Schwilk never touched it, of course.

And again the spectators clasped their sides and rolled over the ground.

Then Pfund went to the score. He got a fair bird and killed it in good shape.

"I challenge the bird," cried Nicolaus. "Just before Pfund shot he said 'Hell!' That ain't allowed by the rules!"

"That's right!" yelled a half-dozen or more of Schwilk's friends; "we heard Pfund say it!"

"Why," retorted the shooter, "the last time Schwilk missed a bird I heard him say, 'The son of a — gun!' or something like that. I suppose he ought to get life!"

"Come, come, gentlemen," interposed Judge Morrison, "this is supposed to be a friendly match, and let us have no personalities nor hard feelings on this bright and beautiful New Year's Day—a day when we should bury all animosities and resolve to begin the new year!"

"Time!" cried Referee Yoerk. "Mr. Pfund to the score. The challenge is allowed. The shooter said 'Hell!' and there fore he loses his bird. He must shoot again."

"Pull!" said Pfund. The trap opened and an incoming right-quartering bird set out for Antelope, Pfund was slightly nervous and shot behind it twice, and away soared the pigeon swiftly over the tree tops.

"I demand another bird for Mr. Pfund!" excitedly cried Ruhlstaer.

"On what ground?" asked the Judge.

"Why, on the ground that the shooter was interfered with!" replied Ruhlstaer, dancing around wildly.

"Who interfered with him?" inquired Judge Morrison.

"Why, the wind, of course! Don't you see how it's blowing? It blew the bird along so fast that Mr. Pfund couldn't get his gun onto it, and so he shot behind! I claim he's entitled to another bird!" And Ruhlstaer looked as if he were ready to fight.

The Judge referee and scorer held a consultation over the score-card, and finding that Schwilk was still one bird ahead, announced that Mr. Pfund would be allowed another bird.

This time he killed it so dead that Schwilk was allowed to go to the score. He missed his bird, but was allowed another because he didn't know the first was going to be a tailer, or he would have shot sooner.

And so the race went on. Finally one of Pfund's cartridges was taken from his gun and opened. It had a trace of powder, six wads, sand, rice, bits of barbed-wire, etc., and after being severely rebuked by the Judge for overloading his shells was permitted to continue the contest.

At one time three birds dead in succession were declared "lost birds" on challenges, though they never fluttered after they struck the ground, and in the case of two other dead ones the decisions were reserved until the close of the match, as the Judges needed a margin on which to decide the shoot a tie.

And thus they finally declared it, allowing each man seven dead birds out of his string of twenty. As a matter of fact, each scored fully twice that number, Schwilk apparently having a little the best of the match.

All in all, it was probably the funniest shooting match that ever took place in this State or elsewhere.—Record-Union.

Cures for Camp Injuries.

The satisfaction of being able to relieve unnecessary pain, prevent permanent injury, and possibly being the means of saving a valuable life, stimulates me to write a short article on simple camp remedies for injuries and accidents, to my friends, the hunters and campers. It is always best to have a handkerchief in one of our pockets, if for nothing more than its common usage. But a handkerchief will take the place of a bandage for a short time, and can be of use in many emergencies. Besides a handkerchief and a good hunting-knife, in the pockets, a hunter's outfit in camp should contain, for emergency cases, the following in their order named:

A little good whiskey, for medical purposes only.

An eighteen foot bandage, four or five inches wide, rolled up tightly, and an old, clean napkin, or a piece of table cloth, for surgical pads, if necessary, and for gun cleaners if you run out of wipers.

A little vaseline, ointment or surgeon's adhesive plaster.

Laudannum.

Soda to the camp chest.

Two or three dozen three grain capsules.

A few needles of different sizes, and heavy silk thread.

A common needle will do, but needles used by tailors or shoemakers are the best if one cannot secure medium size surgeon needles.

Very seldom is one sick in camp. Malaria sometimes will creep about our tent, but quinine will drive that away. One or two capsules taken in the morning with a hot cup of coffee, is a preventative when one is camping around a lake or river. Laudannum may be taken in ten-drop doses, and repeated a few times for cramps. Mixed with water, or oil, in the proportion of one to five, it is a good liniment.

A Cut—Wash in water (not necessarily warm water), to get the parts clean, or it will not heal nicely. Then keep the edges of the cut together with sticking plaster or small bandage. If a severe cut, put a pad of clean cloth over the parts after sewing up, and bandage tightly to stop the blood flowing. If bandaged too tightly, loosen a little after a while so that no injury will be done by the swelling.

Burns—Always cut the clothing away; never pull it if sticking to the skin or if the parts are much burned. Pick off the dirt and clean as carefully and quickly as possible. A thin paste of soda and water laid over the burn relieves the pain. Vaseline, fresh butter, cream, thin slices of bread moistened occasionally, clean cloth covered with sweet oil, or vaseline; anything to exclude the air, and to keep the parts warm. A severe burn should be dressed at least once a day thereafter in vaseline. Do not bandage tightly.

Bruises—If slight, bandage and bathe in cold water, or whisky and water. If severe, wring cloths out of boiling water and apply as hot as possible and cover with a dry cloth to keep the heat in. Change every twenty minutes or half hour for three or four hours.

Blazed or broken skin—Vaseline, cream, fresh butter or oil, then bandage. A clean cloth dipped in laudanum and water, bandaged and kept moist.—Dr. J. W. Fowler in Sports Afield.

An Un satisfactory Arm.

In view of the growing dissatisfaction of military authorities with the new Krag-Jorgensen rifle, the question arises whether it would not be better and cheaper, to retire the arm from service and return to the long-tried and ever-reliable Springfield until some better weapon can be decided upon. As some of the most practical writers have contended all along, there is nothing more than finely drawn theories to offer in support of the present popular craze for small bore military rifles; and it certainly seems essential that this fact should be given recognition as speedily as possible and without waiting to have it forced upon us by the stern test of actual warfare.

Brigadier-General Bird W. Spencer, New Jersey's inspector-general of rifle practice, touches upon this question in his last annual report. After two years of personal test he has found the Krag-Jorgensen lacking in many of the requirements of a practical arm, and he is not inclined to favor the substitution of either of the modern military rifles lately inspected by the New York Board of Examiners. Instead, he suggests that a single loader would be better for the use of the National Guard than a magazine arm, and believes that it should be of .38 calibre, with an improved Springfield action, and using a 300-grain jacketed bullet, with the equivalent in nitro powder of 55 grains of black powder. He concludes that an arm of this type would be convenient for drill purposes and safer in the hands of new recruits, and that as the velocity would be much greater than the present .45 calibre, and the recoil from the charge lighter, its use would be conducive to the making of better scores, even at the longer ranges.—Sports afield.

CARTRIDGE AND SHELL.

W. J. Hynes and S. A. Sharp were at Goodyear's last Sunday and bagged a dozen or two ducks.

Remington shotguns are the best wearing, moderate price hammerless guns ever put upon the American market.

Canvashack are very plentiful on San Pablo bay and the shooting at the Emeric preserve should be very good now.

A good many spronhills were killed last Sunday at Alvarado, Mt. Eden and the Bridges, but the majority of them were skin poor.

In noting the new U. M. C. cartridge for the new Colt revolver a couple of weeks ago we referred to it as of 38 calibre. It should have been 32.

Duck shooting at Sherman Island and Jersey Landing was very good last Sunday. G. C. DePue and a friend were very successful at the latter place. DePue bagged 56 birds in one morning. The morning and evening flight is very good.

The duck shooters who had the courage to try their luck once more had very good success last Sunday. At the Empire and Lincoln Club shooting grounds on the Sonoma marsh G. G. Billington and F. L. Judd, E. Olsen and a friend, J. Bruns and J. Karney and Edg. Forster all made excellent bags with quite a sprinkling of canvas backs.

The first arrest at Sacramento for infraction of the market game law was made by Game Warden Helms Monday. Morris Radonich, a restaurant keeper, was arrested for having in his possession and selling quail and ducks. Helms had warned each marketman and restaurant keeper that the law would be enforced, but Radonich defied him. Radonich resisted arrest and was assisted by one of his waiters, who will also be arrested.

Since Samuel Colt, the inventor of the Colt revolver, first devised the mechanism of this arm in 1830, improvements without number have followed in their regular order and each and every one has served to bring this popular weapon nearer to the desired state of perfection. After forty years of practical tests the Colt revolver is still the favorite on the Western frontier and in the army, for it has been found that it can be relied upon for perfect service under all conditions. The special target revolver (Bisley model) made by this company is used by the best shots in Europe and America. Of 357 prizes awarded at the Biszy (England) Meetings of 1895-96, 213 were won with Colt revolvers, and the same arm was used by the principal prize winners in other important contests at the target. The new police double action 32-calibre revolver is being largely adopted by the police of our larger cities, the entire force of New York City, among others, being equipped with this efficient weapon.

Pacific Coast Field Trials.

The fourteenth annual field trials of the Pacific Coast Field Trial Club commenced at Bakersfield on January 18th. At the very last moment our kennel editor was obliged to abandon his usual annual trip to Bakersfield and attend to the wants of sick ones at home.

As it was then too late to arrange for a full report of the trials our readers will have to be satisfied with the results.

There were eighteen dogs in the Derby and it was run off on the Wible ranch, twelve miles southwest of Bakersfield. Some market hunters shot over the ground the trials and birds were very scarce.

C. N. Post, Wm. Dormer and J. M. Kilgariff officiated as judges for the Derby.

The dogs were run as follows:

D. M. Walters has again won the Derby of the Pacific Coast Field Trial Club. This is the seventh time in succession that this popular trainer has trained the Derby winner and won the coveted position.

Pacific Kennel Club.

The postponed meeting of the Pacific Kennel Club held at the Occidental Hotel on Tuesday evening last, for the purpose of arranging the affairs of the club brought out barely a quorum. President H. Bier was in the chair, the other members present were: C. A. Haight, T. J. Watson, A. E. Culver, E. W. Briggs, F. H. Bushnell, T. H. Browne, Jas. E. Watson, J. R. Dickson and A. Russell Crowell.

The report of E. W. Briggs as Chairman of the Committee appointed to confer with the Olympic Gun Club was accepted and placed on file.

President Bier stated that he would not entertain a motion to disband or dispose of the funds of the club in any way, as there was barely a quorum present.

E. W. Briggs moved that a bench show committee be elected and the motion prevailed. Messrs. Haight and Bushnell were nominated but both declined to serve and no other nominations were made.

W. H. Bushnell moved that the funds now in the treasury be given to the Olympic Gun Club as a guarantee fund for the proposed show but the chair refused to entertain the motion.

T. J. Watson moved that the club do not hold a bench show this year and that the A. K. C. be notified to that effect by wire. The motion was carried unanimously. Messrs. Bushnell and Haight were appointed a committee to notify the Olympic Gun Club of the action taken.

On motion of E. W. Briggs the club voted to endorse the proposed show to be given by the Olympic Gun Club and promise them the aid of the club; motion carried.

C. A. Haight moved that the club disband and donate the money to some charitable institution, but the chair refused to entertain the motion.

On motion a committee of five consisting of E. W. Briggs, T. H. Browne, C. A. Haight, T. J. Watson and F. H. Bushnell were appointed to wait upon all of the members of the club and obtain their views in writing on disbanding and the disposition of the money in the treasury, nearly $400. The same to be considered as a mail vote and be acted upon at the next meeting.

The Stockton Bench Show.

Chas. H. Mason, kennel reporter of Turf, Field and Farm, author of Our Prize Dogs and America's leading critic, will judge the Stockton show. Stockton's grit in getting out a new man is to be commended and a rousing good entry will unquestionably result.

With all due respect to Uncle Dick's judgment, we did not see the advisability of one man's judging the entire circuit, as in such a case only the winners will be shown at succeeding shows. With Fellows at San Jose, Mason at Stockton and Mortimer at San Francisco all three shows will be well attended, and there will be no cause for jealous feelings between the rival kennel clubs.

Mason's ability is beyond question, and he should be well supported by all three of the specialty clubs.

Our informant writes: "This is a sample of Stockton's grit. We have always maintained that we lead the State in all things, and now the best friend of man takes his place in the long column, to follow up our last successes."

At the meeting of the Stockton Kennel Club held last Friday evening, the guarantee fund was raised and a positive start made toward holding the show of April 7-10th.

DOINGS IN DOGDOM.

Charles H. Mason will judge at Stockton. This should please the St. Bernard Club.

Lady Sylvia should have whelped to Columbus this week. By the way, this well-known dog is for sale.

Warren Lewis has sold the three fox terriers, Faith, Hope and Charity to Col. R W Woodmense near Los Angeles.

The dogs saved the day at Sacramento and it is reported that the association have a small balance on the right side of the ledger.

J B Martin's Golden Flash II, has been very sick with pneumonia for the last three weeks, but is now in a fair way of recovering.

John Sparrow will dispose of his St. Bernards and hereafter devote his time to bull terriers, of which he now has a splendid collection.

The premium list of the Westminster Kennel Club's twenty-first annual show is at hand. Entries close February 8. We will review it in our next issue.

Thomas H. Browne having disposed of his smooth St. Bernard Victor Watch, will shortly purchase a crack rough St. Bernard bitch as a mate for Grand Master.

One of the features of the Sacramento Dog show was the nightly concerts by one of the local bands, the dogs seemed to appreciate the music as they remained unusually quiet.

The Sacramento dog show is already bearing fruit. The fanciers of that city are about to organize a Kennel Club and hold a show in connection with the State Fair in August or September.

L. C. P. Astley will judge fox and other terriers, collies, bull dogs, toys, pugs, pomeranians and schipperkes at New York, and Geo. Kaper, pointer, setters, retrievers and all sporting spaniels.

A friend who was at the Brooklyn show writes: "Quite a good show, but Cocker? They get more tosy at every show, nothing in the money over 20 pounds, big heads, crooked legs, jumped up bodies and a general paresis look about the whole lot."

Note the advertisement of J B Martin in our Kennel special column. His dogs are always at the top of the prize list. His prices reasonable and you will get what you pay for. In place of sending East, purchase of a breeder at home that has bred winners for many years.

The well known S. C. St. Bernard Bianka II was accidentally bred to her brother recently and is due on the 25th. It is reported that the litter will be destroyed. This is a mistake. The strongest of the litter should be saved by all means.

Miss May Taher's R C St. Bernard bitch Victoria Alton is due to whelp February 14th to Lord Hualpa and Presidio Kennels' Erma (Reglov—Victoria Alton) should also whelp the next day to the same dog. Mr. McCracken will have his hands full about that time.

The committee appointed by the Pacific Kennel Club to ascertain the views of the members on disbanding has been actively at work this week and nine out of every ten members seen up to date are in favor of disbanding and turning the funds over to the Olympic Gun Club.

Impressed with the inhumanity of the Chicago poundmaster in keeping his canine charges confined in an open pen exposed to the cold blasts sweeping in from the lake, some considerate but somewhat reckless individual recently scaled the pound enclosure by the aid of a convenient telegraph pole, opened the door and allowed about three hundred shivering dogs the liberty of seeking warmer quarters elsewhere in the city.

J. P. Willey has received from England, in first-class condition, the black cocker dog Arlington Jeff, by Viceroy, out of Daphne—Viceroy, by Carless' Toots, out of Loyd's Coquette—Daphne, by Kington Signal, out of Myrtle. He weighs 24½ pounds, is very short on his legs, which are as straight and strong in front as one would find on a dog of 15 inches. He is perfect in front and pasterns and has a beautiful coat. Mr. Willey is convinced that better coats are bred in England than here, as the coat on Jeff is plentiful and dense and better than seen on any of the home-bred ones; he has a good body, his stifles are well bent and he is consequently a good mover. His eye is dark and his ears are nicely placed. The only fault Mr. Willey finds with him is that he has not the clean cut heavy muzzle he wants. He is 10½ inches high. Being free of Oho II blood, Mr. Willey thinks he will prove just the dog he wants to nick with his hitches, of which he has about 30. Mr. Willey will not show much, as he cannot leave Salmon Falls. His idea is to continue breeding to improve the cocker and in a few years we may see a string from the Willey kennels that will be as near perfection as long experience and sensible mating can produce.—Turf, Field and Farm.

Coming Events.

Jan. 26—Regular semi-monthly meeting of the San Francisco Fly Casting Club. Office of State Fish Commission, Flood Building, San Francisco.

Steelheads at Duncan's Mills.

The run of steelheads in the Russian river is unprecedented, and the local anglers have enjoyed splendid sport with this king of game fish during the past week. On Friday, Saturday and Sunday last, at Duncan's Mills, John Butler caught fifteen large fish, Al Wilson twenty and M. L. Cross eighteen.

On Sunday it was agreed that the first one that caught a large male fish should cook it for the benefit of the party. Mrs. A. W. Wilson was the lucky angler, a fifteen-pound steelhead was brought to gaff by her on Sunday morning and at noon it was cooked in the ashes of a campfire at the mouth of Astin creek. G. W. Morgan, the genial proprietor of the El Bonita, brought down a huge can of coffee and apple pie and pudding, and with potatoes roasted in the ashes the hungry anglers partook of as fine a barbecue as ever tickled the palate of an epicure. The party consisted of John Butler, Capt. G. Watson, M. L. Cross, John Gallagher, W. R. McFarland, C. H. Linn, I. M. Killoch, John Schloen, Louis Leux, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Wilson and G. W. Morgan.

All of the above named caught fish on Sunday and, of course, quite a number of big ones were lost, and considerable tackle carried away.

The water of the Russian river is clear and the fish are taking red flies, shrimp and the abalone spoon.

The work of stocking the waters of New York with fish goes steadily on under the supervision of State Fish Culturist A. N. Cheney. During the year ending September 30 last, 219,144,211 fishes were distributed among the various streams of the State.

The San Francisco Fly Casting Club will meet Tuesday evening next to listen to a lecture by Prof. Gilbert on the "Fresh Water Fishes of California."

Al Wilson caught 90 pounds of steelheads at Duncan's Mills in one day's fishing, the first of the week.

Salmon fishing at Santa Cruz is reported to be very good.

QUINN'S OINTMENT

FOR HORSES

stands at the head of all veterinary remedies. Such troubles as Sprains, Curls, Windpuffs, Splints, Bunches have no terrors for a horse if the master keeps and applies Quinn's Ointment. All well-known horsemen speak of it in the highest terms:

Miller & Sibley, of Franklin, Pa., owners of St. Bel, brother of late Bell Boy, write, "We have used Quinn's Ointment with great success and believe it infallible all claimed for it. We cheerfully recommend it to our friends." For Curls, Splints, Sprains or Bunches, it has no equal.

Price $1.50. Sold by all druggists or sent by mail.

VIVA LA

Brown Colt, foaled in 1892, Bred by Jos. Cairn Simpson.

BY WHIPS, SIRE OF AZOTE, 2:04 3-4, GOBWEBS, 2:12, AND SEVERAL OTHERS IN THE LIST.

FIRST DAM—JOE VIVA, by Joe Hooker.

SECOND DAM—LADY VIVA, by Three Cheers (dam of Electioneer Rex, showed when a two-year-old quarters in 36 seconds.)

THIRD DAM—LADY AMANDA, by imp. Hurrah (the dam of Electioneer Jr., formerly Advance, three-year-old record 2:22).

FOURTH DAM—LADY LANCASTER, by imp. Monarch. The dam of Malcolm, Regent, Ontario and several other winners. Marion, the dam of Emperor of Norfolk, El Rio Rey, Yo Tambien, and several other high-class race horses, is by Malcolm, and the breeding of Viva La-Electioneer, combined with strains of thoroughbred which have shown adaptability to acquire trotting action, is now greatly fancied by intelligent breeders.

VIVA LA is sixteen hands high, a rich seal brown in color and more than usually handsome, combining muscular power and quality in an eminent degree. He was trained a little in his yearling form and showed a 2:40 gait and was improving rapidly when his training was suspended. He can scarcely fail on the right sort of mares to get fast trotters, and with nearly a certainty of securing good-sized, fine-looking horses which even in these times are in demand.

BREED FOR

Disposition, Size, Speed, Soundness and Style

WELCOME, 2:16 1-2.

This game and consistent stallion will make the SEASON OF 1897, ending July 1st, at W. E. MEEK'S STABLE, near the Haywards Station, at $50 THE SEASON, With usual return privileges.

WELCOME was sired by Arthur Wilkes, 2:28 1/2, out of Letty (dam of Wayland W., 2:12; Welcome (p) 2:10 1/2, trotting 2:27 1/2; Mand Singleton, 2:28 1/2), by Wayland Forrest (son of Edwin Forrest 49 and a mare by Sir Charles, thoroughbred); second dam Mary (dam of Apex, 2:26; Sterling, sire of four and one sire of one.) Grace, dam of Creole, 2:15; Eagle, 2:19 1/2, by Flaxtail 1832; third dam by Bright Eyes, son of Boanerges. Arthur Wilkes, 2:28 1/2, sire of Welcome, was sired by the mighty Guy Wilkes, 2:18 1/2, out of Gracie, by Arthurton 365; second dam Old Lady, by David Hill Jr.

WELCOME comes from speed producing lines on both sides and his reputation as the "gamest race horse ever Andy McDowell handled" shows that he is far superior to many that have extreme speed, but are lacking in courage. WELCOME is a bay horse, stands 16 hands, and is one of the best-formed horses in California. He earned a trotting record of 2:27 1/2 when a four-year-old, and was put to pacing last year. He started in Montana without a record and won money in every race he started. He won some of the most stubbornly-contested races seen in 1896.

Good pasturage for mares at reasonable rates. For other particulars, address,

W. E. MEEKS, Haywards, Cal

LIMITED TO TWENTY-FIVE MARES.

ALTAMONT is the champion sire of 2:10 performers, being the only horse living or dead with six to his credit. He has taken a leading position among the foremost trotting sires of the country under such conditions that phenomenal ability alone has saved him from oblivion. A very small proportion of his progeny has been trained, and an extremely small number of these by competent men. As a partial illustration of his meagre advantages, it may be stated that he has never produced a colt from a pacing-bred mare, or from out with a fast record. Nor has he ever yet been crossed with a descendant of George Wilkes, Electioneer, Dictator, Sidney or Dexter Prince. Oregon and Washington have produced seven 2:10 performers, and EVERY ONE of these are ALTAMONT'S.

ALTAMONT is a horse of iron constitution, and at twenty-two years of age is in the full vigor of his prime, a sure foal-getter, and, except for his blindness—the result of an accident—is without blemish. He has never sired a sorrel, all of his colts having been solid colors—bays, browns or blacks. He is now located in Alameda, at Herbert's Stables, on Sherman street, between Santa Clara and Central avenues. Alameda local S. P. and Narrow Gauge trains from San Francisco, stop within two blocks of stable, and Oakland and Alameda electric cars, half a block away. Residence two doors from stable.

Altamont.

When Del Norte took the first heat of the 2:10 pace at Stockton, California, in 2:08, September 26th last, he not only broke the track record as well as his own, but he clinched beyond cavil the claim of his sire, Altamont, 2:26½, to the title, "king of all sires of 2:10 performers," no other stallion, living or dead, having begotten six in that ultra select list. This select half dozen of Oregon's great stallions' children are as follows: Chehalis, 2:07½, and Del Norte, 2:08, both out of Tecora; Ella T., 2:08½, out of Daisy Dean; Doc Sperry, 2:09, out of Kitty Kishar; Pathmont, 2:09½, and Altao, 2:09½, both out of Sallie M. All these sires, with the exception of Altao, are pacers, and with the possible exception of Doc Sperry, who was all but "murdered" in the fearful campaign of 1894, all are able to lower records Ella T. being timed separately in a race at Heidrick, Iowa, this past season, in 2:05½, while Altao's mile 2:09½, was finished in a jog. Altamont has still further claims to greatness. The mighty Klamath, one of the greatest campaigners that ever went down the line, can trace his great speed and stamina to no other distinct source than his grandsire, Altamont. Klamath's sire, Morookus, was by Altamont, out of unknown breeding, and his dam was also a mare whose blood lines were so indistinct as to be largely a matter of opinion among those who knew her long before she was looked on as the possible dam of so great a trotter. Morookus died young, but with few opportunities he had, showed great speed, and in form and action was the image of his great sire.

Altamont has produced a number of other sires of speed, and one of them which is in a fair way to equal Morookus is Pricemont, whose dam is Belle Price. This stallion is the sire of Bill Fraser, one of this year's crop of pacers who already has a mark of 2:12, and was at the throat-latch of the winner of a heat in 2:10½ at Stockton. Altamont has about thirty others in the list, and some of them are almost sure to be found in the 2:10 ranks within the next year or two. This wonderful record of Altamont was accomplished with a life-long handicap of environment and opportunity, which makes his achievements all the greater. Altamont was "ordered by mail" nineteen years ago, from the Withers stock farm in Kentucky, by Jay Beach, at that time Indian agent at Fort Klamath, Oregon. Mr. Beach wrote to General Withers to send him a horse that could produce good speed and bottom to carry it; the general selected a two-year-old son of old Almont and Sue Ford, and in due season the animal reached the wilds of Oregon. Here, for nearly ten years, the best part of his life, shut off from all the advantages of mating with mares of good blood, with his colts selling for a song, with no opportunities for their speed to be developed, Altamont lived, and not until the latter part of the eighties did even the Oregonians suspect that there was a really great horse among them. It was about that time that the Altamonts began going fast, and while training and developing in this section had not reached a very high stage at that time, enough was done so that the Altamonts demonstrated the fact that they were race horses of high degree, and a year or two later their fame had spread beyond the confines of the two states, Oregon and Washington, where the most of their racing was done. News of their performances reached California, and along in the fall of 1893 Millen Griffith, of San Francisco, came up to Portland, and while there was so much pleased with the work of Doc Sperry that he bought him for a road horse.

place for him after next season. Pathmont made his mark of 2:19½ as a three-year-old, and while he has been "off" the most of the past season, he is again improving, and went a mile in 2:15½ on a very slow track at the Washington State Fair. Del Norte can show quarters in 0:30, and will probably reduce his present record before the season closes.

It might be supposed that after a horse has accomplished what Altamont has, his declining days would be spent in luxury. Such unfortunately, is not the case. In a very common shed made of unplanned boards, through the cracks of which the winter winds whistle, the grand old horse is spending his days. He has enough to eat, and the stable boy rubs him off occasionally, but to one familiar with his achievements a shock is given on first seeing his surroundings, at Irvington Park, in Portland, Oregon. He is now blind in both eyes, but otherwise is in good health, and his owner, Jay Beach, is thinking of taking him to California, where the winters are not so severe. Perhaps the greatness of this stallion is not yet appreciated, but certain it is, the time will come when some of the brightest pages of race horse history will be decorated with the prowess of him who is now the only sire of more than five 2:10 performers.—Horseman, Dec. 20th.

Electioneer.

Holding precedence over all other broodmares, Green Mountain Maid, by virtue of being the dam of nine in the 2:30 list, two of which have trotted in 2:20, while another has a record of 2:20½, has been with justice denominated "the great mother of trotters." Her life was long and was spent in the paddocks of famous Stony Ford, and in the list of her foals there are but two which were not gotten by Mr. Beckman's Messenger Duroc. These were her first produce, and were the bay mare Storm, 2:26½, by Middletown, foaled in 1867, and the bay horse Electioneer, by Ryedyk's Hambletonian, foaled in 1868. The latter never appeared upon the turf, and is not one of the nine of his dam's produce in the 2:30 list, but in fame his name outweighs all theirs, either individually or collectively.

The first eight years of his life were spent at Stony Ford, where he was broken, worked a little for speed—but so little that he was never asked to go so much as a half-mile at speed—and made one short season in the stud to a few mares of rather ordinary breeding. At about this time Senator Leland Stanford, of California, being in the East collecting foundation for the now famous Palo Alto Stud, visited Stony Ford, saw Electioneer, and upon his own judgment—for that of his friends pointed toward another election—bought him at a price which has been stated as $12,000. He was forthwith transplanted to the Golden State and made his

ALTAMONT AT 21 YEARS OF AGE.

On reaching San Francisco the pacer was turned over to Monroe Salisbury, who was so favorably impressed with him that he prevailed upon Griffith to let him campaign him in the East. He won nearly everything in his class until he reached New York, where the strain began to tell on him. Salisbury, knowing a good thing, "pushed him along" at a pace that killed, and he has never been good for much after that season, although a long rest may again bring him out all right. Doc Sperry was followed over the range by Ella T., and her performances on the Eastern slope of the Rockies are too well known to need comment, as also are those of Altao and Klamath, the trotters. Of the other three 2:10 performers, Chehalis is, without doubt, the fastest of the trio, and if he improves on the Eastern tracks in the same ratio as his brothers and sister, the free-for-alls will be the only first season there in 1877, the resulting foals being dropped in 1878. Two years later, November 20th, 1880, his son, Fred Crocker, set the trotting world agog by lowering the two-year-old record to 2:25½, under the guidance of Charles Marvin. From that day to this scarcely a year has passed without the breaking of one or more records by his sons and daughters.

In 1881 Hinda Rose lowered the yearling record from 2:44 to 2:30½, and Wildflower, the two-year-old from 2:25½ to 2:21; in 1883 Hinda Rose lowered the three-year-old from 2:21 to 2:19½, and Bonita, the four-year-old from 2:19 to 2:15½; in 1886 Manzanita reduced the four-year-old from 2:17 to 2:16; in 1888 Sunol cut the two-year-old from 2:21 to 2:18; the next year she brought that for three-year-olds from 2:18 to 2:10½, and in 1890 that for four-year-olds from 2:16 to 2:10½. In 1891 the family were record-breaking record breakers; Sunol gained the world's record by trotting a mile in 2:08½ and eclipsing Mand S.; Palo Alto secured the stallion record by one in 2:08½; the two-year-old Arion lowered the record for trotters of his age to 2:26½. On November 17, 1891, when Palo Alto trotted in 2:08½, the sons and daughters of Electioneer held the champion records for one, two, three, four and five-year-olds, the world's record regardless of age or sex, and the stallion record. A showing without a parallel, and one which will probably ever remain so.

In the seasons that have since elapsed the family prestige has been well sustained. It has steadily and heavily grown in numbers, while in quality it cannot be said to have retrograded. During the racing season just closed it has furnished Fantasy, whose mile in 2:06½ was the fastest of the year by a trotter; Bingen 2:12½, the best two-year-old of the year; Derby Princess 2:11½, one of the greatest four-year-old race mares ever seen; Copeland 2:11½, a sensationally fast five-year-old; Mary Beaufort 2:23 winner of the Review $5,000 Subscription Stake for two-year-olds; pacers like Spinxetta 2:08½ and Crafty 2:09½; Van Zandt 2:12, one of the highest class race-mares and heaviest winners of the season, and a host of brilliant performers. Numerically its growth has also been solid and steady, the total of its membership having risen from 649 a year ago to 757, while the number of 2:20 performers has risen from 190 to 240.

Electioneer was a dark bay, with white ankles behind, standing 15 2½ forward and 15.3 over the coupling. He was a horse of fine type, with considerably more finish than the average son of Hambletonian, and enormous muscular development in the hind quarters. Although never systematically trained, he was a fast trotter, and in his exercise at Palo Alto pulled a 125 pound cart a quarter in 34 seconds. As a sire, he cannot be called other than the greatest ever produced. Dying of rheumatism December 8, 1890, at the age of twenty-three, he left behind him no less than 400 foals. Of these there are now 161 in the 2:30 list—over 33 1/3 per cent.—which number exceeds those to the credit of any other sire by twenty. In the 2:20 list he has 43, and again leads there by a heavy percentage. His ability to control action and transmit trotting speed to all his foals bordered on the marvelous; from running-bred, pacing-bred or trotting-bred mares alike he got record-breakers, and, with two exceptions he got no pacers. In type he bred after himself to a wonderful degree, the family resemblance among his progeny being most marked, while all the "line" trotters, going close to the ground with no waste action. There was at one time an inclination, in some quarters, to credit his get with a lack of racing ability, but the achievements of Palo Alto a few years ago, and of Expressive, Azote, Bouncer, Cohwabs and others too numerous to mention, have left the contention groundless.

OAKLAND RACES.

Wind-Up of the Meeting at the New Track Across the Bay—The Events in Detail.

THIRTY-EIGHTH DAY—FRIDAY, JANUARY 22.

A big crowd was out at Oakland track to-day and saw some very interesting racing. Two decided favorites only got home in front, Harold Lindsay and Cabrillo being second choices, Osric II being an equal choice with Arrezzo and Doyle third choice in his race. Harold Lindsay won the first by a head from May R. through a very superior article of ride out by Charley Thorpe, who, by the way, rode three winners and a third out of the four mounts he had. Ezell's pair of two-year-olds (The Cheat and Queen Mab) ran one-two easily in the second, and it speaks volumes for his skill as a trainer. Doyle captured the mile and a furlong race in a gallop by three lengths from the favorite, Little Bob, while the strongly-backed Hermanita wound up a poor sort of fourth. Osric II, settled it once for all that he is a better colt than Arrezzo, as he gave Leigh's colt two pounds and a two-length beating this time. Miss Baker was just beaten for place by Arrezzo. Salisbury II led all the way in the fifth event and won easily by two lengths from Simmons, 150 to 1 shot Banjo in the third place. Cabrillo took the last, cleverly beating Rosebud on a neck after the latter had acted as pace-maker. Rienzi's poor showing in the fourth was inquired into by the judges.

In the first race, seven furlongs, for three-year-olds, they were away to a fair start, May R. showing first and Harold Lindsay running up second. At the half it was May R. first by a length, Harold Lindsay, Cogent and Da Capo heads apart as named. At the three quarters Harold Lindsay and May R. were running head and head two lengths before Basquil. It looked May R.'s money a sixteenth from home, but Thorpe made one of those great finishes of his, landing Lindsay a winner by a head, May R. second, half a length before Philip H., coming up fast. Basquil, off eleventh in a field of fourteen, was fourth, four lengths away. Time, 1:30½. Harold Lindsay was at 13 to 5 (3 to 1 for some time). May R. 20, Philip H. 3½ (backed from 6), Basquil 8 to 5, others 12 to 300 to 1.

The second event was for two-year-olds, three and one-half furlongs. The Cheat, Golden Echo, Queen Mab was the order to a good, quick start. Golden Horn fell back last in a twinkling and The Cheat led Queen Mab a head into the homestretch, Calesta K. third, a length away. The Cheat continued on in front, under a pull, and won by two lengths, with Queen Mab second, a length before Golden Horn, who beat Blitz a head ran well the last quarter. Time, 0:43½. The Ezell pair (The Cheat and Queen Mab) were at 9 to 10 (backed from 3 to 2), Golden Echo 4 to 1, Blitz 2½, others 20 to 1.

A mile and a furlong race came next. Doyle led passing the stand, with Hermanita second and Eventide third. Petrarch ran around on the outside and had a lead of two lengths at the quarter. Hermanita second, a head before Doyle. At the half Hermanita had moved up close to Petrarch, Pollock third, two lengths off, and a head before Doyle, under a pull. Hermanita led by half a length at the final turn, Petrarch second and running out, a small margin before Doyle. The latter assumed command half-way down the homestretch and won with ease by four lengths, Little Bob coming up strong and beating the turning Claudius half a length for place. Hermanita quit in the homestretch. Time, 1:56. Doyle was at 5 to 1, Little Bob 9 to 5, Claudius 12 to 1, Hermanita 2, others 12 to 300 to 1.

Nine three-year-olds lined up in the fourth. They were off to a good start, Arrezzo showing first, Principle second, Miss Baker next. Principle, Seven Up, Miss Baker, half lengths apart, was the order at the half. Arrezzo having dropped back seventh. At the head of the homestretch Principle was leading by a length, Jim Blackburn, Miss Baker and Osric lapped, Mercutio next, half a length before Arrezzo. Osric assumed the lead a little on this side of the eighth pole and won handsily by two lengths from Arrezzo, who just headed Miss Baker. Rienzi was fourth. Time, 1:15½. Osric was at 2 to 1, Arrezzo 11 to 5, Miss Baker 5, Rienzi 7, others 10 to 200 to 1.

In the fourth, six furlongs, Salisbury led to the homestretch by from half a length to two lengths and won by that distance handsily, Simmons second, five lengths from Banjo, who beat Blue Bell half a length. Time, 1:15. Salisbury was at 7 to 10, Simmons 8 to 5, Banjo 100 to 1, Blue Bell 20, Heartsease 40, Isabelle 200 to 1.

The last race was at a mile, a selling affair. To a good start Kowalsky led Rosebud a head past the quarter. Then Rosebud took up the running, leading Kowalsky a head at the half and three quarters, Cabrillo third at both points, very close up at the head of the homestretch. Rosebud was headed by Cabrillo in the last sixteenth, the St. Saviour horse winning cleverly by a neck, Rosebud second, two lengths before San Marco, who in turn was a neck in front of Kowalsky. Time, 1:42. Cabrillo was at 8 to 5, Rosebud 6 to 5, San Marco 12 to 1 (20 at one time), others 15 to 100 to 1.

THIRTY-NINTH DAY—SATURDAY, JANUARY 23

In the first race, six furlongs, Sugar Foot was right to the fore, attended closely by Nic Nac. At the half it was Sugar Foot first by half a length, Nebula three lengths away. At the three-quarters Sugar Foot was first by three parts of a length, Nic Nac second, four lengths before Nebula. Slaughter went to the bat on Sugar Foot a sixteen-b from home, and Thorpe, persevering with the none too game Nic Nac, won from the faint-hearted 1 to 3 favorite, Sugar Foot, by a head, Nebula third, five lengths away. Time, 1:15. Nic Nac was at 8 to 1, Sugar Foot 1 to 3, Nebula 12 to 1, Road Runner 6 (backed from 8), others 30 to 200 to 1.

The second event was a mile selling race, with ten starters. To a good start Two Cheers led past the quarter pole by a head, Trix second, with George Rose at his saddle, then St. Aignon at his heels. The last-named was a head in front at the half, George Rose, Trix and Scimitar heads apart as named. Into the homestretch it was St. Aignon first by two lengths, Lobengula second, half a length before George Rose. Lobengula passed St. Aignon half-way down the homestretch and won handsily by two lengths, St. Aignon lasting long enough to beat Scimitar a head, Two Cheers fourth, another head away. Time, 1:49½. Lobengula was at 2 to 5, St. Aignon 20 to 1, Scimitar 3, George Rose 15, others 60 to 400 to 1.

A fifteen-sixteenths race next occupied the attention of the people. Off to a good start, Yankee Doodle assumed the lead, with America second and Mt. McGregor third. At the half it was Yankee Doodle first by three parts of a length, Mt. McGregor second, two lengths from the stopping America. Mt. McGregor's head just showed in front of Yankee Doodle's turning for home (where they went wide), David third, four lengths off, as far from Frank Jauhart. The pair in front were not over a neck apart all the way down the homestretch, and when it came to a ding-dong finish Yankee Doodle responded best and won by a head, David third, four lengths behind Mt. McGregor. Time, 1:34½. Yankee Doodle was at 2½ to 1, Mt. McGregor 1 to 3, David 40, Frank Jauhart 40, others 200 to 500 to 1.

The Alameda Handicap, one mile, value $1,000, came next. Seven came to the post. To a good, quick send-off Casper at once went to the fore, leading Scarf Pin past the quarter by three lengths and at the half by nearly two, Scarf Pin one and a half before Nebuchadnezzar, on whom St. Lee was just lapped. Casper entered the homestretch over a length in front of Purser's filly, who was two from Nebby, who led St. Lee a head. Scarf Pin drew up close to Casper half-way down the homestretch, and in a drive got up in the last stride and won by a nose. Casper, second, beat St. Lee two and a half lengths, and Lincoln was lapped on his stable companion. Time, 1:41½. Scarf Pin was at 2 to 1, Casper 10, St. Lee and Lincoln (coupled) 2½, Boots' pair (Nebuchadnezzar and Peter II.) 5 to 1, Redskin 4 (backed from 12).

A six-furlong race for three-year-olds came next. They were off to a good start, Don Clarence showing first momentarily. Woodland Belle then went to the fore at a great pace, leading past the half by three lengths, Etta H. next. Don Clarence had dropped back last. Etta H. took command in the homestretch, and opened up a gap. She won, diving away, by one and one-half lengths, Estaca second, three parts of a length before Woodland Belle. Don Clarence finished up fourth, after being bumped very badly. He would have won but for this, in all probability. Time, 1:15. Etta H. was at 6 to 1, Estaca 9 to 5, Woodland Belle 12, Don Clarence 3, Rienzi 4½, others 15 to 60.

The last race was a mile and a half hurdle handicap. Fi Fi led nearly every jump of the way, Gold Dust, Tuxedo and J. O. C. alternating in second place. All got over the fences safely, and Fi Fi, not headed, won with ease by three lengths, J. O. C. driven out, second, a scant length before Gold Dust, who beat Tuxedo three lengths. The last-named apparently does not like such a long route. Time, 2:49½. Fi Fi was at 6 to 1, J. O. C. 3, Gold Dust 10, Hello 2½ (backed from 3), Tuxedo 4, others 10 to 30 to 1.

Excellent Sport Witnessed by Large Crowds—Seven Races in One Day at a Mile or Over.

FORTIETH DAY—MONDAY, JANUARY 25

There was a reopening of the P. C. J. C.'s beautiful track this afternoon, and a goodly crowd was out to see some excellent racing. The caliber of the contestants was excellent, too. Collins, leading almost every jump of the way, won the first event with ease by two lengths, but The Bachelor, runner up, bumped Hazard out of any part of the purse and in our opinion should have been disqualified. Minnie Cee was the pace-setter and winner of the second by a short block, Scimitar, the favorite, second and old Jack Richelieu third. Tenacity, the "good thing" in this race, wound up a poor fourth. Buckwa took the $500 purse in the third race with ease, after Willie Martin had gotten the best of the start. Wheel of Fortune was coming very fast at the finish and wound up second, Greyhurst even heating Captive. If Greyhurst classes with Captive race-goers in general have not found it out as yet. There were things said in consequence of Captive's showing that must have made his rider's ears burn. Tuxedo, at 7 to 1 shot, easily won the jump from "good things" Gallant and Autonomy and three others. Kowalsky won the 6th by two lengths, but Mobalaska, the runner-up, with the start she got, should have won by half a dozen. Slaughter's ride on her fairly set the occupants of the grand stand whistling with surprise—that is, those that did not have any checks down on her. Some folks would call such a race "criminally bad" for, getting away first, "on the fly" and opening up a gap of about four lengths in the first furlong, Slaughter took her back until Kowalsky had passed her, and the brown colt was never thereafter headed. Why this should be done in a six-furlong sprint is a mystery that the public would like to see cleared up. An evening paper says the boy rode to instructions. If so, the instructor should be called upon to explain matters, in justice to the speculating public. Preston won the last race easily, but if Peizotto had not run so zigzaggy in the last part of it he would certainly have given Dunne's gelding a horse race.

The first race was at a mile and a sixteenth, selling. Collins led Instigator a length past the quarter. Then Hazard ran up second, Collins leading him two lengths at the half and three at the three-quarters, Instigator third. Collins continued on in front and won by two lengths easily, The Bachelor, after bumping Hazard badly, finishing second, two lengths before Instigator, who beat Hazard a short head. Time, 1:49. Collins was at even money (backed from 9 to 5), The Bachelor 12 to 1, Instigator 6, Hazard 4, others 8 to 200.

In the second, seven furlongs, Minnie Cee led by a small margin around to the homestretch, Castanetle second by from a head to half a length and Jack Richelieu third. Minnie Cee drew away in the homestretch, winning easily by four lengths from Scimitar, who came strong enough at the end to heat Jack Richelieu half a length for the place, Tenacity fourth, three lengths further away. Time, 1:30. Minnie Cee was at 4½ to 1, Scimitar 6 to 5, Jack Richelieu 8 (backed from 12), Tenacity 3½ (backed from 4½), others 15 to 50.

The third, one mile, brought together a fine field. Captive was away first, but Buckwa got up to him at the quarter, and led by a length passing the half, Captive second, as far from Greyhurst. Buckwa entered the homestretch two lengths to the good and won by one and a half from the fast-coming Wheel of Fortune, who was two from Greyhurst. Willie Martin did not make a very vigorous ride on Captive. Time, 1:42. Buckwa was at 4 to 5, Wheel of Fortune 6 to 1, Greyhurst 6, Captive 16 to 5, imp. Sain 200.

In the mile and a sixteenth hurdle race Autonomy set the pace, leading by from one to three lengths to the half-mile ground, Brilliant and Gallant alternating in the lead to this point, Tuxedo fourth, within striking distance. Autonomy led by a scant length at the three-quarter pole, Gallant second, lapped by Brilliant. In the homestretch Tuxedo came like a shot, and getting over the final fence first, won by two lengths, ridden out, Gallant second, six from imp. Autonomy. Time, 1:56½. Tuxedo was at 7 to 1, Gallant at 13 to 10, imp. Autonomy 8 to 5 (played from 13 to 5), others at long prices.

In the fifth, six furlongs, after a long delay at the post, Mobalaska got off in front, on the fly, and was soon about four lengths to the good. Then Slaughter took the filly back in most curious fashion allowing Kowalsky to lead her a head at the half, Banjo third. At the three quarter pole it was Kowalsky first by a length, Mobalaska second, two and one-half lengths from Allahabad, he a head before Banjo. Kowalsky went on and won easily by two lengths, Mohalasky second, six lengths before Allahabad, who heat Banjo for show in the last few strides. Time, 1:15½. Kowalsky was at 8 to 5 (played from 2½ to 1), Mohalaska 11 to 10, Allahabad 60, others 10 to 300. Slaughter's ride was bad enough to warrant the judges in meteing out some sort of a punishment to someone—at least that was the opinion of everyone claiming to know anything about racing.

In the last, six furlongs, Yemen and Sport McAllister ran like a team to the three quarter pole, Peizotto and Preston trailing together. Yemen was beaten when over a furlong from home and Preston came on to an easy length victory, Peizotto coming up fast and getting the place, three parts of a length before Sport McAllister. Time, 1:14½. Preston was at 2 to 5, Peizotto 30 to 1, Sport McAllister 18 to 5, Yemen 10 to 1.

FORTY-FIRST DAY—TUESDAY, JANUARY 26.

In the first race, six furlongs, they got away to a good start, Nebula going right to the front and leading past the half by two lengths and to the three-quarters by a length, Tulare second, lapped by Jazebel. Masoero came fast in the homestretch, forcing Nebula to a drive over a sixteenth from home and heating her out a neck, Nebula three lengths before Jazebel. Time, 1:16½. Masoero was at 6 to 1, Nebula 9 to 5, Jazebel 3½, Tulare 6, others 10 to 40 to 1.

The second event was a three furlong dash for two-year-olds. Off to a good start, Duke of York II. showed first, On Gua Nita second, Old Jack next. On Gua Nita soon got to the front, leading by three lengths in the homestretch and whooping, about all out, by half a length from Duke of York, who heat Count of Flanders three lengths. First Lady was fourth. Time, 0:33½. On Gua Nita was at 10 to 1, Duke of York 11 to 10, Count of Flanders 5, others 8 to 40 to 1.

The third race was at six and one-half furlongs and brought together a fine field. Zamar and California raced out in front, being close together past the half. Zamar led by nearly a length at the three-quarters, California second, Ferrier, Lihertine and Geyser together. David came like a flash the last quarter and won by two lengths, Lihertine, Zamar and Geyser finishing short heads apart as named. Time, 1:21½. A claim of foul made by Lihertine's rider was not allowed. David was at 20 to 1, Lihertine 3, Zamar 10, Ferrier 9 to 5, California 4 to 1, Geyser 6.

In the mile race which followed a good start was effected, Jane Andrews leading past the quarter by two lengths, Rev del Tierra second, a head before Bueno. At the half it was Jane Andrews first by a head, Cahrrillo second, with McLight at his saddle. Cahrrillo now drew ahead, and McLight went after him, the pair entering the homestretch on practically even terms and running close all the way down, H. Martin letting McLight down in the last few yards and winning by a nose, Cahrrillo second, two lengths from Olive. Personne was fourth. Time 1:41½. McLight was at 6 to 1, Cahrrillo 3 to 2, Olive 30 to 1, Lohengula 3, others 7 to 300 to 1.

In the fifth, one mile, they were away to a superb start. Installatrix set the pace, leading Applause a neck past the quarter, Addie Buchanan five lengths away, third. At the half Applause was leading; Installatrix by two lengths and Treachery had run up to Buchanan. They bunched up somewhat nearing the homestretch, and half-way down the homestretch Applause was in distress, Addie Buchanan passing to the fore and winning with ease by two lengths, Treachery having Applause a head for place. Time, 1:42½. Addie Buchanan was at 2 to 1, (hacked from 4), Treachery 20 to 1, Applause 11 to 20 and Installatrix 40 to 1.

In the last race, six furlongs, The Sinner went right to the front, and led past the half by two lengths and into the homestretch by one, winning easily by two lengths, Basquill second a head before Good Times. Time, 1:16½. The Sinner was at 25 to 1, Basquill 11 to 5, Good Times 9 to 10, others 10 to 30 to 1.

Forty-second day—Wednesday, January 27.

The first race was at a mile, and had eleven starters. Jack Richelieu led by a small margin past the quarter, with Last Chance and Examiner next. At the half it was Richelieu first by a head, Last Chance second, a length before Draught. Last Chance led by a length at the final turn. Jack Richelieu, Draught and Sain close together. Last Chance drew away the last part and won by two lengths handily, Japonica coming up from the clouds and getting the place by a head from Examiner who was a short head before Draught. Time, 1:44½. Last Chance was at 3½ to 1, Japonica 15, Examiner 30, Manchester 2, Marcel 4, imp. Sain 5, Draught 8, others 10 to 50 to 1.

In the mile and a sixteenth, second on the programme, William Pinkerton led by from one to two lengths for a little over half a mile, then Flashlight and Benamela joined him, passing the half on close terms. Benamela drew away in the next furlong and led Flashlight by three lengths at the final turn, winning by one and a half lengths to a canter, Semper Lex beating Flashlight out half a length for the place, Pinkerton a poor fourth. Time, 1:50½. Benamela was at 9 to 10, Semper Lex 4½ to 1, Flashlight 13 to 5, Pinkerton 15 and Mahogany 40.

In the third, one mile, a baudicapp, Casper lost no time in getting to the front, leading Addie Buchanan by three lengths at the quarter and nearly as far at the half, David second, Addie Buchanan another length away. Casper led into the homestretch by two and a half lengths and won by one and a half lengths handily, David, driven out, second, four lengths before Schiller. Time, 1:42. Casper was at 3½ to 1, David 8 to 5, Schiller 3½ to 1, others 10 and 15 to 1.

A mile and a furlong selling hurdle race brought six to the post. America led over the first jump, then Tuxedo took command, leading by nearly a length at the half, Gov. Budd second. Tuxedo led into the homestretch and over the last jump by a small margin, Mr. Reel coming up fast and winning in a hard drive by a nose, Gov. Budd third, ten lengths away. Time, 2:06½. Mr. Reel was at even money, Tuxedo 3 to 1, Gov. Budd 5, Herman 7, America 25, and Cymour 60 to 1.

In the mile and a half Three Forks went to the fore and led for a little over a mile, when Judge Denny and Morte Fosse came up and passed him. Judge Denny led into the homestretch by a head, Morte Fosse second, two lengths before Three Forks. Morte Fosse came on strong in the straight and won by three lengths, Foremost, fourth turning for home, second, two lengths before Doyle, who beat Judge Denny a head. Time, 2:38½. Morte Fosse was at 8 to 5 (played from 13 to 5), Foremost 20 to 1, Doyle 11 to 5, Judge Denny 3½, others 12 to 100.

Lou Lou got away first in the fifth, one mile, and led by ten lengths at the quarter, Greyhurst second, two from Personne. At the half her lead had been cut to five lengths and at the head of the homestretch to three. In the straight Lou Lou R. tired, and Greyhurst, passing her a little over a sixteenth from home, won a grand race by three lengths, Lou Lou R. second, fifteen from Stentor. Time, 1:43½. Greyhurst was at 8 to 5, Lou Lou R. 3½ to 1, Stentor 2 to 1, others 10 to 100.

In the last Unity led by about a length to the homestretch, Favory second and Scimitar third. In the straight Salvation, fourth, came very fast, winning by a head, after being none too well ridden, Unity second, two lengths from Scimitar. Time, 1:44. Salvation was at 2 to 1, Unity 15, Scimitar 15 to 1, Redskin 9 to 5, Don Clarencio 4½, others at long prices.

THE SALE OF THE CENTURY.

Guy Wilkee and Family to be Sold in New York, Feb. 11—A Splendid Chance for Buyers to Get the Beet.

While the search for good material for the making of game, level headed and perfect-gaited light harness horses is apparently as keen to-day as it ever was in the history of the trotting turf, there are some trotting-bred families that have so much merit that the seeker generally stops when he comes to them, and says: "This is what I want. Whoever bred these was a thorough horseman, and his labors to produce the ideal horse I want have not been in vain." The great and ultra-fashionable family which would fill these requirements is the one descended from the game little trotting stallion George Wilkes. It offers inducements to the buyer that no other does, and when one contemplates the wonderful array of great performers that trace on paternal and maternal sides to this sire, one is left in doubt as to which is the best of his descendants to follow. Which family presents the surest and has demonstrated its worth quickest, not only by its increased number of performers in the list but also for its great showing as money winners, and which has produced the greatest record-breakers and has no representatives that were noted for sluggishness, hereditary weaknesses, ugly dispositions, weedy conformations? There is only one, and that is headed by the mighty Guy Wilkes, who will, in another week, head a procession of almost sixty descendants from his home at San Mateo and takes his place with them in the cars to be carried across the continent; and sold to the highest bidder. Words are almost inadequate to express the feelings of every one to California who has visited the kind and gentle campaigner when they learn that he nevermore will breathe the air of joy, the care that has kept him so vigorous on the Coast during the past fourteen years. It is like parting with an old friend to see him go for the position he and his progeny occupy in the history of the trotting turf of California will fill a large volume.

I visited the San Mateo Farm, one day last week, to take a last look at this horse and his family before their departure, and as I sat and looked at his quiet, intelligent face and felt his hard clean limbs, free from blemish as any foal, thoughts of the many races I had seen this fellow win while being driven by the late John A. Goldsmith came to me. Will anyone who witnessed his three years' campaigning in 1884, 1885 and 1886 ever forget how gamely and resolutely he battled for supremacy and won? What memorable races they were! Those old campaigns had names well known to all familiar with them, and were as much quoted as the names of the great champions of the present are. Guy Wilkes defeated them all. Blanche, James H., Kitty Almont, Col. Hawkins, Menin, Olivette, La Grange, Adrian and Adair were his rivals in 1884, and his record of 2:19½ was won in the third heat of the $3,000 match race he won from Adair. In 1885 Marion, Adair, Arab and Nelly R. were defeated by him. He lowered his record to 2:18½, in the fifth heat of the last race he started in that year. It was at the San Jose track October 3. There were only four horses in it, but they were good ones. Adair won the first and second heats in 2:17½ and 2:18½. Guy Wilkes was second in the second heat, Marion and Arab third and fourth. Guy won the third and fourth heats in 2:18½, 2:24 and 2:18½. The following year he was entered throughout the California circuit. Adair and Antee were ready to give him a race at the time, but he demonstrated his ability to defeat them at the first meeting of the year, at Santa Rosa, where John Goldsmith gave him his mark of 2:15½, in the fourth heat of the match race he won. Many who were there claim that he was prepared to go faster, but he would not do so, he was mark; but he was just taken out of the stud and his driver felt that it might be too much to force the game horse further. He defeated Antee, Como, Charley Hilton, the Michigan horse, and J. Q., also, that year, and the next year won a stallion race against Stamboul and Woodnut, at the Oakland track, winning the first, fourth and fifth heats, he met with only two defeats in his racing career, one by Harry Wilkes and once by Woodnut. He was then retired to the stud, and his record as a sire of speedy horses is the all-absorbing theme among horsemen at present, who are interested in watching the result of his sale. He was never used as some famous stallions and Woodnut, at the time, had pursued this policy of other breeders, no doubt the best performers by this horse would have been greatly augmented. He refused many outside mares, hence, on an average, Guy Wilkes has not been bred to more than twenty-five mares during the past thirteen years. Yet this horse has to his credit fifty-four performers out of 325 foals, and a curious fact about all his progeny is that his records in the track are engaged on the grand circuit and had to earn their records in first-class company, which means game racing. They had to fight for the money they earned, and when one looks over the large amount won in colt stakes by the sons and daughters of Guy Wilkes on the Eastern circuit, the proof is convincing that he early and extreme speed, and gameness, the Guy Wilkes family has no peer. Mr. Corbitt believes in keeping his horses keep their engagements, and whether winning or losing they had to be on the track when the bell rang. Fifty-four is not the number Guy should have to his credit in the list; at least one hundred and ten would be nearer the mark had their owners trained them. The fame of Guy Wilkes was so widespread that whenever a sale of his progeny took place, New York breeders from all over the Union came to buy and place their purchases in the stud or barn at once. The Wilkes-Mambrino Patchen cross was what they were after, hence they never cared to train. A number of the mares in foal that are to journey East with Guy Wilkes are young and exceedingly promising and if taken up after they have had their foals could be made to earn money on the circuit, for they are bred and trained right.

While his list of 2:30 performers makes an excellent showing, his sons that have been placed in the stud are proving sires of extreme speed and their breeding on qualities are making them sought after by all stock breeders. Arthur Wilkes 2:28½, Seymour Wilkes 2:38½, Guy Wilkes 2:28½, Maudie Wilkes 2:30, and George Wilkes 2:27 are few of his young sons that are standing for public service in California. It is to be hoped that some of our California breeders will send commission on to buy some of the other young stallions he sold at this sale.

But Guy Wilkes is not the only one to be sold, even if he is the King of the turf. His son, Sable Wilkes, 2:18, with twenty-six performers (all young ones also), to his credit, will be sold. His name is as familiar to race-goers as that of his famous sire, for every colt and filly by him seems endowed with marvelous speed; and while mentioning this fact it is well to impress upon all seekers after first-class trotting stock the indisputable fact that, as a family, this one head by Guy Wilkes is entirely free from any of the defects that are so prompt and cheerful drivers, level-headed and not finicky. They need little or no weights; this they inherit from Guy Wilkes for he could trot faster barefooted than with ten ounce shoes. His progeny inherit his good feet and legs and iron constitution—he never cost Mr. Corbitt ten cents for medicine, and never missed a meal in thirteen years. These are facts which stock breeders should consider and when we carefully scrutinize every individual represented on this farm or that was ever bred here, and find that spavins, side-bones, ring bones and curbs are unknown, we have the best evidence of what a perfect sire and dam should possess to breed perfect horses.

The get of Sable Wilkes, his best producing son, to be sold with him, are living proofs as to his worth as a sire. He is a young horse and is as sure a foal getter as his sire, whose annual percentage is .95. Sable Wilkes comes from producing dams, and traces to that sire that is justly celebrated for good legs and feet, The Moor.

The little band of broodmares that will follow these stallions to California are bred by Mr. Corbitt at his place at San Mateo. They are bred on all theories, that this breeder knew what to expect when he bred them to his stallions. There is Montrose, handsome as a picture, (dam of Muta Wilkes, 2:11; Mary Best, 2:12½; Fred S. Moody (3) 2:14, and Sir Wilkes, 2:29), by Sultan, out of Sao Mateo Maid, by Whipple's Hambletonian. Hannah Price (dam of Lesa Wilkes, 2:30, and three others), by Arthurton. Blanche (dam of Hazel Wilkes, 2:11½, the great blue ribbon winner; Una Wilkes, 2:15, and two others); Mystic (dam of Fred Kohl, 2:12½, and Mystery, 2:17½); Vixen (dam of Vidi Wilkes (3) 2:18½; Sabiedale, 2:18½, and Sheeney, 2:28½); by Nutwood; Chantilly (dam of Chanty, 2:34½); by Nutwood; Ellen Maybaw, 2:22 (dam of Oro Wilkes, 2:11); Directness (dam of Geo. Wilkes, 2:28½, and three others), by Chris Laug, 2:21½; Dorotha (dam of Dramatist, 2:29½), by Harold, one of the best-bred mares in America.

Sabling (sister to Sable Wilkes, 2:18), and her sister Mable Wilkes; Jorane, by Sable Wilkes, out of Lihbie B., by Winthrop; Ellean, by Sable Wilkes, out of Flora Belle, 2:24, by Alcona, a splendidly bred mare, by Austin (sister to Ballington, 2:24½, Chris Laug, 2:21½), by Sable Wilkes; Fide, by Guy Wilkes, and Roselle, by Guy Wilkes. These mares are in perfect condition and those which have had foals are good mothers, having on defects, and never have to be bred to the stallion more than once, qualities not to be overlooked. All of them are in foal to either Guy, Sable, or Oro Wilkes.

If one could devote the necessary space to describe each of them, and the value of their produce, one issue of the "Breeder and Sportsman" would be insufficient for such an undertaking, suffice it to say, when they are led into the auction ring there will be a crowd of admirers to listen to the words of praise as they drop from the lips of the auctioneer. Owners of stock farms in any land will be proud to own any of these mares, and it must have been an effort for Mr. Corbitt to decide to sell them.

At this great sale there will be many whose interests will not be centered in the stallions and broodmares; they will come to get trotters and pacers to prepare for the races. Mr. Corbitt has selected the very best on his farm for this sale to satisfy such buyers. Every one offered is sound, without a blemish, and if old enough has been given single and double. All are gentle, and for size, bone substance, style, action, disposition and soundness I assert without fear of contradiction they are the best ever sent from California to the East. There will be little need to expatiate on the merits of those wonderful colts, Fred Kohl 2:12½ and Fred Moody 2:14; their performances are well known in the East where these trotters are at present. They will go in the 2:10 list easily in the best company, but those that are here are so deserving of individual notice that one is tempted to say when through inspecting the lot: "Well, I have seen them all and cannot say which I prefer. They are all above the standard I expected to find."

There are brothers to Lesa Wilkes, 2:39, two and three years old just as good as she was. A handsome sister to Hazel Wilkes, 2:11½, just two-year-old; which W. S. Hobart might purchase. A large well-formed three-year-old mare by Guy Wilkes, 2:15½, out of Ruby, 2:19½, sister to the great stallion Stamboul, 2:07½, that will make a valuable mare on the track or in the harness. There is no other mare bred like her in this State. She ought to bring a high price. A sister to Lalah Wilkes 2:25, small, well-made, and a trotter, can show quarters in thirty-six seconds. Elba, by Sable Wilkes, out of Hannah by Le Grande, trotted in 2:20 last year, but being the same age as Fred Moody was not entered in the same class. A three-year-old by Sable Wilkes, out of Sister V., by Sidney, black in color and very stylish, fast as a bullet. A bay mare, two years old, by Guy Wilkes, out of Lesa Wilkes, is, with all due respect to the faster trotter, as well as one of the most perfect youngsters ever bred on this great farm. A Guy Wilkes filly out of Chantilly, in fact, there are two full sisters that for size, style and beauty, will find few equals in America, and they can trot fast, while a brother, black as a coal, is a speedy pacer, and will need little or no work to get a mark of 2:15 this year.

The gelding Last Chance, 2:26½, should not be overlooked. He caught a bad cold before his first race and was not well when he started; he has trotted in 2:19½, as a two-year-old, on the three-quarter mile track here, and would make a splendid roadhorse; and as sound as the day he was foaled.

A four-year-old by Sable Wilkes out of Anita, 2:25½, by Le Grande can trot quarters in thirty-three seconds. She is large, strongly made, thoroughly broke to drive single or double and is afraid of nothing. A ride behind her would make any man borrow every dollar he could, to buy her if he want a first-class mare for either track or road.

Signum, a Rupee filly, out of Signal, by Del Sur can trot quarters in thirty-five seconds, and is ready to take in hand now; any one getting her will have a prize money winner. She is a beauty.

Two full sisters to Jean Wilkes, 2:28½, are also in the consignment and they should bring high prices. They are good looking and just as speedy as they look. Some one will want a "padding whirlwind," the two-year-old by Sable Wilkes out of Anita, by Le Grande, will fill the bill. She is faultless in shape and gait. Here's another by the same young sire out of Filma Grande, by Le Grande; she is a two-year-old and can step a twenty-gait whenever called upon. She is like a thoroughbred and has limbs like steel.

A brother to Oro Wilkes, 2:11, three years of age, was the next looked at. He is larger and heavier made than his illustrious relation. He has the same frictionless way of going, and should get a very low record if worked this year. The Wilkes-Moor-Director cross is good, this fellow is excellent in all points. These and a score of others equally well bred, are to be sold. But we must overlook the weanlings. Mr. Corbitt is sending everyone that is entered in the big Eastern stakes and he made no mistake for the filer by Oro Wilkes, 2:11 are crackjacks. One in particular, a bay out of Lucia, by Regal Wilkes, 2:11½; second dam Lucia Wilkes, by Guy Wilkes, 2:15½; third dam by Electioneer, traces three times to Guy Wilkes and seven times to Hambletonian 10. He has Director, Electioneer and George Wilkes blood blended, and I look for him to be faster than Directum when he gets to be four years old, if nothing happens him.

There are other weanlings that are by Sable Wilkes, and Guy Wilkes, and they are promising as any of our age. Taking the collection individually and collectively it is the best ever shipped across the continent. As Mr. Corbitt will personally attend the shipment and remain with the stock until the destination is reached all who attend the sale will have an opportunity of seeing how well they have been cared for. ARNAREE.

Can Book in Federal Buildings.

Judging from some developments of yesterday the Federal Building is a sort of no-man's land as far as book-making is concerned. This would equally apply to all branch post offices where the entire building is used for Federal purposes.

A precedent was furnished yesterday, after the arrest of a man on the ground floor of the Federal Building on the charge of bookmaking. The arrest was made by Central office Detectives Miller and Watt, who say that the prisoner, who gave his name as John Mosler, was doing a big business in the corridor with a crowd of customers around him.

Mosler, whose real name is said to be John H. Levine, was taken first before Magistrate Simms, in the Centre street Police Court. The Magistrate said that as the alleged offense was committed on Federal property he had no jurisdiction. He directed that the prisoner be taken before a United States Commissioner.

The prisoner was then taken to the Federal Building and arraigned before Commissioner Alexander. Mr. Alexander refused to pass upon the case, saying that he had no jurisdiction. The law said to be violated was not in existence when the land for the Federal Building was ceded to the United States Government. There was no law, therefore, to convict Mosler, and the detectives appear to have had no power to arrest him.

Assistant District Attorney Hinman, when seen yesterday afternoon, said that there was no Federal law covering such a case.

"State laws," he said, "which are adopted by Congress become binding in a Federal Building. The State law under which this man was arrested was not adopted by Congress, and, therefore, the United States courts have no jurisdiction in this case."

It appears that bookmaking cannot be practiced on a fortification and several other places specially designated in the United States laws, but the Federal Building seems to have been overlooked. A general stampede of bookmakers to the Federal Building is expected when the fact becomes known. —New York Journal.

WAIT ("Pop") WEAVER is just as dry a wit as ever "came down the pike," and some of his sayings are funny enough to make an Egyptian mummy rise up and ha ha. He said the other day that he was asked once to ride poor old Pronto. "I'm sorry," said Pop to the owner, "but really I couldn't. Why, he can't run fast enough to heat a drum. Just ride him down to the bay, and if you'll throw a stick into the water it's a twenty-dollar piece to a little red apple that he jumps in and brings it out. It was not over a week ago that I saw him hiding a bone in his stall."

TURF AND TRACK.

THE SULKY.

SANTA RITA, 2:21½, was recently burned to death.

THE people around Sacramento are beginning to "talk horse."

MORRIS J. JONES will condition Alix himself for her races this year.

CHAS. A. DUFFEE will have McKinney, 2:11½, the great stallion at Oakland next week.

FRANK BAYLEY, of Pittsburg, has sold Lady H. 2:15½, by Sidney to M. R. Cook, of Jeanette, Pa.

W. R. OVERHOLSER has put Bay Rum 2:19½ by John Sevenoaks, to pacing and he is a good one.

E. D. WIGGIN has bought back his favorite old mare Martha Wilkes 2:08 and will drive her on the road.

PHOEBE WILKES, 2:08½, has been sent to Maplehurst Farm, Lancaster, Mass., to be bred to Baron Wilkes, 2:18.

STAMBOUL 2:07½ now has twenty-nine performers to his credit with records from 2:11½ to 2:30, and not a pacer in the lot.

A SPLENDID article on the horses to be sent from Palo Alto to the Kellogg sale, in March, will appear in our next issue.

RAVENSCROFT, 2:19, by Guy Wilkes, is now owned by J. J. Mackey, of North Bay, Ont., and is in the stable of Frank Webster at Ottawa.

C. A. WINSHIP has a splendid string of horses at the Los Angeles track. They are looking exceedingly well and will be ready when the bell taps.

DIRECTUM, 2:05½, will probably make the season of 1897 near Lexington. The horse is now in Detroit, whither he went from Lexington last fall.

THE Saving Bank of Petaluma has instituted proceedings against the Petaluma race track for $9,000. It is hoped this splendid course will not be destroyed.

THOMAS MURPHY has engaged another year with the Czar of Russia. He is learning the Russian language and may conclude to stay there for all time.

MOORZOUK, a bay gelding by Sidney out of Sultan Queen by Sultan, that had a record of 2:20½ and was seven years old, sold at the Fasig sale for $535 last week.

EVERYONE who owns a Chas. Derby claims he has a world-beater. Jos. Cairn Simpson has a youngster by him that is about as promising as any he ever owned.

DR. J. P. DUNN, of Oakland, has sent his colt by Diablo, out of a mare by Antevolo, second dam sister to Silas Skinner, 2:17, to that splendid trainer, James Sutherland, of Pleasanton.

It is said that El. Tipton's recent purchase, Eoline, 3, 2:14½, by Antevolo, will be campaigned on the Montana Circuit. She broke down two years ago, and has never been able to stand training since.

C. G. GURNETT, owner of the Sulphur Spring Stock Farm, has recently purchased that splendidly-formed Sidney stallion St. Nicholas (trial 2:27½) and will make him the premier stallion of his place.

E. H. HARRIMAN has named the filly by Director and out of Nancy Lee, dam of Nancy Hanks 2:04, Nannie, while a two-year-old filly by Director and out of the dam of Jack 2:12 has been christened Gardina.

ALMONT MAMBRINO, the twenty-five-year-old son of Almont and Monogram, by Mambrino Chief, is reported dead at Waverly, Ind. He was the sire of Gracie Almont, 2:30, and the dams of Warwick Medium, 2:21½, and Naylor, 2:30.

THE "iron horse" Waldstein will do a good business this year. The dams of Lady Waldstein and Humboldt Maid will be shipped from Humboldt to be bred to him. The Dexter Prince mare Edith 2:10 is hooked to Waldstein also.

THE Detroit Driving Club claims the following dates for its meetings for 1897: Blue Ribbon, Trotting and Pacing Meeting, July 13th to 24th both inclusive. Detroit Jockey Club Summer Meeting, August 10th to September 4th both inclusive.

MR. GARDNER, lessee of the Sacramento track, intends to give a four day's meeting at that place in May. He offered two stakes for local horses, one for foals of 1895 for which there were thirteen entries, and for the two-year-old pacing, he received seven entries.

CHAS. NEWMAN, one of our leading business men, won a race at the Alameda race track last Sunday, half a mile, purse $200. Dr. Liner's horse wasn't in it. Charley held the ribbons over his three-year-old roan filly and showed that he knows how to drive.

THE two-year-old filly Sonoma Belle, by Secretary, dam Kittie Irvington, belonging to Wm. McConnell, was sold at public sale at the Fashion stable on Saturday. Dan Frasier bought the blooded filly for $95. The mare Kittie Irvington, by Dawn, was put up but no bids were received.

L. E. CLAWSON has had his team of trotters shipped to this city for the Green Meadow Farm, Santa Clara (home of Hambletonian Wilkes) where they have been running out all fall and winter and they are as "fat as butter." Mr. Moorhead takes great care of all horses sent there.

J. M. NELSON has fourteen horses at the Alameda track and they are doing well. He has Silver Bee 2:27½, Baywood 2:10½, James Madison 2:17½ (this horse will make the season there), Addison 2:18½, Susie L. (trial two-year-old 2:20½) by Eclectic, Ivaletta by James Madison 2:17½ out of Ivy L. by Lancelot, Polo by Nutford, out of an Echo mare, a Dexter Prince colt, very promising, and an inbred Tom Benton mare. He sells a number of horses every month.

THE stallion owner who takes time by the forelock will begin advertising early for the season of 1897. There is certain to be a heavy increase in the number of mares bred, but that will not do any good to the owner who permits everybody to forget that he has a name and postoffice address.

SIREs whose get won $10,000 or over in 1896 are: Gambetta Wilkes, $28,102.50; Baron Wilkes, $22,178; Jay Bird, $21,613.50; Mambrino King, $20,492; Pilot Medium, $14,737; Red Wilkes, $12,722.50; Simmons, $12,435; Onward, $11,779.50; Wilton, $10,297.50. Seven of the foregoing are sons of George Wilkes.

SHADELAND ONWARD is dead of lung fever. He contracted the disease while being shipped to Nebraska from Wabash, Ind. He had a record of 2:18½. He was sired by Onward, dam Nettie Time (dam of Temple Bar 2:17½) by Mambrino Time, and was foaled in 1883. He was the sire of Online and several other fast performers.

HORSEMEN all over the country will rejoice to see Gen. Tracy back in the trotting-breeding ranks again. The General made a center shot when he bought Kentucky Wilkes, 2:21½, and it was fortunate that he did not sell him. The General also owns the fast, well-bred young stallion Capt. Walbridge (3), 2:18½, by Arcades, son of Alcayone (2:27).

GET to work and advertise that good stallion, liberally and judiciously, so that when at last he dies, as he is sure to, you will not feel called upon to apologize for him and your own short sighted policy with the statement "he never had a chance." Give him a chance. Nothing will help it along so well as an advertisement in a turf paper that has a large circulation.

CHARLES BACKMAN, of the Stony Ford Farm, has sold to A. A. Bonner, of New York City, his entire lot of Alcantara youngsters, among them being the four-year-old colt Camelot, out of the dam of Eloise, 2:15, and Stevie, 2:19, by Hambletonian, and the bay filly by Alcantara, dam by Leland, sire of Geneva, 2:11½, second dam Integrity, the dam of Instant, 2:14½, and Prosperity, 2:22½.

OSIRO, 2:30, by McKinney, out of Twilight, by Othello, owned by Irving H. Mulholland, of Independence, Inyo county, has been placed in Wm. Durfee's hands, Los Angeles. This fine young horse will be out for the money this year. Mr. Mulholland stopped in Sacramento on his way to this city, and says there is no doubt we will have agricultural fairs this year. All the legislators he spoke to are in favor of the measure.

"We must have Agricultural Fairs in California." This is the sentiment among all the legislators in Sacramento. Secretary F. W. Kelley of the P. C. T. H. B. Association has received numerous answers to the letters he forwarded to the various officers of the District Associations in California and all of them show that there is a determined effort to see that the legislators for the various districts make a determined fight for appropriations for district fairs.

THE first attempt to drive in double harness the two great horses, John R. Gentry, 2:00½, and Robert J., 2:01½, was made at Somerville, N. J., Jan. 16. The experiment was highly satisfactory to E. F. Bowne, the driver and trainer of the two famous pacers. The team was jogged for five miles over the country roads. The horses manifested a kindly disposition toward each other and worked together in a manner that encourages Bowne to believe that as a team they will beat the world's record during the coming season.

NEVER since the practice of docking horses was introduced in England has the cruel method been struck such a blow as that given by the good Queen Victoria recently. She not only frowns her disapproval of the pernicious practice, but has given orders that it be abolished in her stables. She goes farther and urges the Prince of Wales to follow her example. With this good example set by the Queen there is little doubt that her method will be taken up by all the aristocracy of England and the docked horse will soon be a thing of the past in the Kingdom of Great Britain.

THERE never was framed an axiom pertaining to advertising that would not apply to advertising in a turf paper as well as any other. For instance, some one has said that "occasional advertising will bring occasional business, while constant advertising will bring constant business." There is not a stock farm of any pretensions in America that cannot increase its business through constant advertising. It pays to never drop out of sight, which always means out of mind. The prospective buyer who loses track of a farm does his purchasing elsewhere. The fact that the stallion season has ended or will not open for some time, is a poor excuse from a business standpoint. Buyers are more plentiful at some seasons than at others, but they are never entirely lacking. The constant advertiser has his name and his farm before all buyers all the time.

I was up to Pontiac yesterday, and while there took a drive out to the West Wind Stock Farm, the home of Sidney. Will J. Hammond, the lord of the manor, has a great lot of youngsters by Sidney, and he has plenty of nerve yet in the horse business. He made no effort last season to boom the Sidney youngsters, but he is gratified with the showing made of Sidney's get in the trotting turf tables of 1896. One in 2:10½, another in 2:13, a four-year-old in 2:13½, another in 2:14½ on a half-mile track, and nine new ones in the list is a fair showing for a horse whose owner made no effort to boom. Sidney never looked better in his life than now. The West Wind Stock Farm is two and one-half miles out of Pontiac. The stables, which include ample accommodations for two hundred horses, are on an elevation, the front slope running down to one of those beautiful inland lakes, for which Oakland County is justly famous. Mr. Hammond has a great lot of weanlings, yearlings, two and three-year-olds by Sidney, some of whom will be on the trotting turf this year. He is also the owner of the fast gelding Wilkes, by St. Jerome, that be gave a mark of 2:17½ in 1892 in his four-year-old form, and expects to start him again this year. All the young things at West Wind are in fine fettle. Mr. Hammond has a great lot of broodmares with records from 2:17½ (Ripple) to 2:40 by such sires as Robert McGregor, Alcantara, Belmont, Red Wilkes, St. Jerome, Wilkesrhino, Nutwood, Sable Guy, Pilot Medium and Detractor. He has just purchased the very promising stallion Cruiser to add to his stud.—American Sportsman.

OATMEAL is extremely nutritious, and as a food for the convalescing horse is most valuable; the bruising process the grain has undergone breaks the husk and renders it more easily acted upon by the digestive organs. It is easily given in the form of a gruel, and in that form it is one of the most essential articles of diet for the infirm. It is also a ready mode of supplying the tired, thirsty horse with nourishment after exertion, when he returns to the stable.

SHOULD it be made possible to sell pools on race tracks in this State, harness racing would get a big boom in Western New York during the coming season. The towns in the immediate vicinity of Buffalo in which meetings would probably be held are Lancaster, Springville, Tonawanda, Medina, Dunkirk, Brockport and possibly Niagara Falls. With no change in the conditions surrounding pool-selling however, meetings will not be given in any of those towns with the possible exception of two.—Buffalo Enquirer.

GUY WILKES, the great trotter and trotting sire and son of the great trotter and sire, George Wilkes, that in turn was among the greatest of the sons of the greatest of all progenitors of trotters and sires, Hambletonian, is known to every breeder in the land. No branch of the Hambletonian family has more friends than the Wilkes branch, and no branch of the Wilkes family deserves more than the Wilkes branch. It has been the boast of the Wilkes tribe that it has won its laurels chiefly in races, and that it is a "money winning strain." Of no part of the tribe is this more true than of the line which comes through Guy Wilkes. For a period of three years, covering 1892, 1893 and 1894, his get won more money than those of any other sire, and on several occasions individual trotters by him and his son, Sable Wilkes, have ranked as high as second and third among all money winning trotters of their respective seasons. Foaled in 1879, Guy Wilkes has, at 17 years of age, 54 trotters in the 2:30 list, but this is not the strong feature of his stud career, for Mr. Corbitt's stud was never a large one, and quality rather than quantity has been its boast. Guy Wilkes has five trotters in the 2:12 list, ranging up to 2:08 and averaging 2:10 3/5, and eleven in the 2:15 list and nineteen in the 2:20 list. This counts trotters only and leaves out pacers, of which he has few for a Wilkes horse, but there are four in the 2:15 list. In the extreme speed records obtained in racing, he stands unsurpassed by a sire of like age, though quite a number have a more numerous representation at easier parts of the scale. Guy Wilkes is full brother to William L., the sire of Axtell, who is proving to be one of the most promising sires of early and extreme speed.

DURING the year of 1857, W. E. Small, of Iowa City, Iowa, purchased of George H. French, Boston, Mass., a three-year-old stallion called General Stark. The black colt's breeding was as follows: Sire, Black Hawk Chief, son of Black Hawk 5, dam the Howe mare, by Black Hawk 5; grandam said to have been sired by a son of Bishop's Hambletonian. Mr. Small exhibited General Stark at the State Fair of Iowa the same season. This event occurred at Muscatine in 1857, and the inbred Morgan marched off with the first premium in the stallion class, and distanced all competitors in the race for trotting stallions. General Stark was a very handsome horse, and would have been of great value to the breeding interests of Iowa, had he not died early the following year, after serving only a few mares. From the handful of colts left by General Stark came one very good sire. We refer to Tyler's Black Hawk, sire of Billy O'Neil, 2:27; Fred B., 2:28½, and General Reno, 2:30½. Tyler's Black Hawk, foaled in 1858, was bred by Jerry Tyler, Iowa City, and taken by him to California the following year. General Reno 4764, the only son of Tyler's Black Hawk, to be represented in the 2:30 list, was bred by W. W. Worthing, Honey Lake Valley, Cal., his dam, Popsey, having been sired by a running horse called Grey Eagle, while her dam, Rosa, came from Iowa. General Reno has two standard trotters and one standard pacer to his credit, the most consistent performer of the trio being Franklin, 2:19½, with forty-three heats in 2:30 or better. Black Hawk Chief, sire of General Stark, was one of the first stallions owned by C. J. Hamlin, the successful Buffalo breeder and campaigner, having been purchased by that gentleman in 1858, of D. E. Hill, Bridgeport, Vt., at the reported price of $4,000. This stylish and well-gaited stallion died a short time after reaching Buffalo, and never achieved the notoriety that his friends had predicted. As we have already stated, his sire was Black Hawk, while his dam was also the dam of Sherman's Black Hawk, sire of King Herod 511, etc., and grandsire of General Knox 140.

WE had a very pleasant chat with Mr. Shultz the other day. He was in a communicative frame of mind, and, as usual, had something to say that was not only interesting, but instructive. In these days of extreme peace and quietude, it is indeed pleasant to find some gentleman of wealth retaining his old-time enthusiasm and still adhering to the belief that the future of the horse industry is reasonably bright. Mr. Shultz began breeding horses in a very limited way about ten years ago. He started with just a small band of brood mares and purchased at the Louisville sale the great horse Pancoast. In about a year after Pancoast was purchased, he was killed by lightning, which broke up the plant in a measure, since the stallion that he had selected from among all the horses of the United States to head his harem had been destroyed. To-day he is breeding in as scientific a manner as any other gentleman in America. He is determined to produce foals that will contain the blood of all the great brood mares. In other words, he proposes to establish a family of horses that will be, strictly speaking, thoroughbred trotters, and under no circumstances during these later years will he buy or breed animals of indifferent merit, measured individually. First, he recognizes that there must be individual excellence, then he must have the breeding that embraces great brood mares. A mare that has produced but one 2:30 trotter is not considered of great importance. He wants those dams that have produced speed uniformly, and if they have produced speed with a fair degree of uniformity and possess rare individual excellence he can forego the mere quality of blood lines. Mr. Shultz is not a promoter of any particular family. He says: "We want some Electioneer blood, the blood of Nutwood, the blood of George Wilkes through some of his very best sons, and a few of the other tribes that have demonstrated their capacity as speed producers." If Mr. Shultz carries his ideas out to the limit, and there is no question but what he will in time have one of the greatest breeding establishments this country has ever known.—Horseman.

THE SADDLE.

MONITA was badly cut down in the mile race. That accounts for his poor showing.

ED CORRIGAN arrived Wednesday night from the East, where he went on business. He looks hale and hearty and happy.

MIKE HENNESSY has signed to ride H. H. Hunn's horses for the season of 1896. Mike has been doing excellent work of late.

LIZZETTA, by Sir Modred, out of Lizzie Dunbar, won a good race at New Orleans, January 21st, three-quarters of a mile in 1:18½.

J. SHIELDS, son of the owner of Logan and others, had his first mount here on Frank Jauhart, and made a very favorable impression.

LUCKY DOG is lame, while Cash Day has recovered from his affliction, but it will take some little time to again get him ready for a race.

JOCKEY GEORGE SNYDER was reinstated by the Oakland judges last Saturday. This boy has been punished severely—kept down a long time—and for no wrong-doing whatsoever, that we have heard of.

W. S. HOBART purchased imp. Lizzie Hampton (dam of Cabrillo), from R. Van Brunt last week; consideration private. She is by Hampton (sire of Ladas, Ayrshire, etc.), from Dynasty, by Sterling (sire of Isonomy).

"PEACH" HONIG, the young son of Dan Honig, will shortly leave for St. Louis, where he will prepare a string of twelve for the St. Louis meeting. Jim Coffey will in all probability train the California string for Dan Honig.

GALEN BROWN has a half-brother to Chartreuse among the Spreckels two-year-olds. He is very small, but has a world of speed. The four other two-year-olds are by imp. Idaliun, the black brother to Sir Modred and Cheviot.

ADDIE BUCHANAN, winner of the fifth race, is a little chestnut mare by Buchanan from Addie Warren (dam of Hy Dy), by Prolific, son of imp. Sovereign. The little 'un is an own sister in the excellent performer, Backhound.

HERTHA, a starter Thursday in the two-year-old race, is a chestnut by imp. Islington and will be the first of his get to race in America. Islington is a full brother to the great English race horse Isinglass, the largest winner in turf history.

MR. E. L. GRAVES has sold to S. Guggingham and J. Young, of Louisville, the bay filly Patsy Cook, by imp. Wagner, out of Elsie Morrison; also the black colt Newman (half brother to Jim Gore), by Onondaga, dam Katie. They have been shipped to New Orleans.

AT Major B. G. Thomas' farm this week the celebrated old brood mare Radha died. Radha was 16 years old, by Glenlyon, out of imp. Blue Stocking, by Thormanby. She was the dam of Craftsman, Captain Brown and others.—Lexington (Ky.) dispatch of Jan 23d.

I. E. LINNELL has sold on private terms to H. C. Ahlers of San Francisco, the brown four-year-old colt Trapean, by imp. Inverness—imp. La Trappe, by Hermit, winner of the Epsom Derby of 1867. Trapean is shaping up well and will doubtless more than earn his oats.

NEARLY all turfmen agree that reciprocal relations between the Western Turf Congress and the Jockey Club are absolutely necessary for the welfare of the sport in this country. The sooner such relations are established the better it will be for all concerned, writes A. H. Mills in a New York paper.

ROXANA TEN, gray mare owned by Mr. E. Mulcahy, of Woodford county, died on August 10th from lockjaw, resulting in an accidental injury to her foot. She was foaled in 1886, and was by Ten Broeck, out of Lady Winfred, by Enquirer. She had been bred to Belvidere, and left a suckling by Fordham, which is still living and thriving finely.

FRANK RUSSELL, who has been East riding for the Fleischmanns and others for a couple of seasons, made his reappearance here in the saddle yesterday on Will Wallace's Manchester in the last event. He is probably one of the most improved riders in the country. A jockey will do much better away from home any time. "Doc" Turberville is a strong example of this sort too.

JUDGE JOE BURKE stated at the conclusion of the race that H. ("Skeets") Martin had been warned that on the first occasion of any crooked or suspicious riding on his part he would be ruled off the turf. This is not the first time this rider has been called into the stand to explain away odd rides, and it is passing strange that he does not remember the odd adage, "It's a long lane that has no turn."

ST. LOUIS is to have no more winter racing. Sam Adler, one of the leading spirits of South Side Park, announced Tuesday that no racing would be attempted at either South Side or Sportsman's Park the rest of the winter. The reason assigned for closing down the meetings was that neither track had made any money, especially since the down town pool rooms had opened and made hooks on the local races.

ON Tuesday Charley Hughes, who last week bought Semper Ego, returned to Lexington and completed the purchase of First Mate, who was considered by many good judges the best three-year-old in the West last season. The two cracks were shipped to Oakley. The prices paid are said to be $15,000 for First Mate and $5,000 for Ego. These are the highest prices paid this year for horses in training—Thoroughbred Record.

MORELLITA, first of the get of the mighty Morello to start in America, is trained by Matt Storn and owned by the Willman Bros., of Newman, Stanislaus County. He is a brown colt from Miss Cromwell, a daughter of Oliver Cromwell, a stake-winner in the early seventies, by Lodi, from Annette by Lexington. The second dam of Morellita was a sister to Mark L., by Morday. By the way, Mr. Storn and not W. M. Murry is training the two-year-old half-brother to Rey del Bandidos sired by Morello.

THE death of the famous old thoroughbred stallion Fellowcraft was reported to-day. It occurred at B. G. Thomass' farm some weeks ago and was caused by old age. Fellowcraft at the time of his death was 26 years old. He was a brother of Spendthrift and Miser and was by Australian, out of Aerolite, by Lexington. Fellowcraft was a fine race horse and was the first horse to beat Lexington's four-mile record of 7:19½, which he did at Saratoga in 1874, running the distance in 7:19½. Fellowcraft was the sire of such good ones as My Eellow, Sunrock, Fannie S. and others.—Lexington (Ky.) dispatch of Jan 23d.

BENSON, the owner of David, is quite a character, says the Chronicle. He brought the horse all the way from New Orleans, leaving a string of ten behind. The old man thought he had struck too hard a race, so he was off bright and early to scratch out. Free scratching is allowed down to eight, but as there were ten starters and three anxious to scratch, lots were drawn as to which two should get out free. Benson failed to get out, and as he did not have $20 to pay for scratching concluded to start. How David won is well known to all race-goers. Benson did not intend to bet on his horse, but when he saw 30 to 1 he borrowed $5 from Tommy Griffin and bet it straight. A $2 bet is generally Benson's limit, but when Coleman heard that he had wagered $5 he bet enough to win several thousand dollars. Such is the racing game.

CHARLEY THOMAS, one of the oldest men in the State interested with racing, was an interested spectator yesterday, said the Chronicle of Sunday. Thomas is the owner of the Hermit Stock Farm, near San Jacinto. He attended the first race ever run in this State. It took place in May, 1850, and was between horses owned by Pico and Hedspeth. It was for $20,000, and the distance was one-quarter of a mile. Crowds lined both sides of the course, and thousands of dollars were wagered, besides cattle and horses. Thomas ran Wake Up Jake in 1856, 1857 and 1858, and has owned a race horse or two ever since. He bred Pescador, whom he now has at the head of his stud. Last year Thomas took Wildemar, by Honduras and Corinne, by Gano, to Mexico, where he captured several races. He now has three or four horses at the Oakland track.

A LOUISVILLE dispatch of January 18th was as follows: It is reported here on fairly good authority that James Williams, the veteran owner and trainer, as well as politician, will do the starting at Oakley next spring. The fact that Pettigill has been engaged to do the starting at the Jockey Club tracks in the East next year leaves a vacancy at the Cincinnati tracks. The story is out that Williams will do the starting at Oakley and that Colonel Jack Chinn will do the flag at Latonia and Newport. Jim Williams is not without experience as a starter. He has dispatched fields of horses at all the Kentucky tracks. He did good work when such a thing as a starting machine was unknown. With the assistance of the barrier, now in use at all the tracks, it is thought that he will not have much difficulty in sending the fields away from the post in good order.

ADELE, one of the most famous of American broodmares, died on December 24, at Stonewall Stud, from old age and general debility. She had been totally blind for several years, but found her way about the paddock as readily as a mare of perfect sight. She was foaled in 1875, and was by imp. Australian, out of a mare by Lightning. She was the dam of Capt. Wood, Bandit, Tenally, Albertina, Adelina, Adelbert, Linda, Lindelle, Belmar, Belvadele, etc. Nearly everything she foaled was a good winner, while many of her produce were among the best race horses of their day—notably Linda, Adelbert and Belmar. Capt. Breckinridge Wiley, proprietor of Stonewall, considered Adele somewhat in the light of the founder of his fortunes, she having been the first mare he ever owned, the reputation and sales of her foals having contributed very materially to building up the present handsome establishment.—Thoroughbred Record.

IN the Assembly at Sacramento Thursday Gately introduced a bill which provides that proprietors of race tracks shall pay five per cent. of the gross receipts of racing days to the Controller of State, which is to be used to improve the breed of horses, cattle, sheep and all live stock kept within the State. It is made the duty of the President or Treasurer of every association liable to the tax to make a written report to the Controller annually before the 15th day of November, stating under oath the amount of gross receipts. As penalty for neglecting to make such statement the association so in default shall be liable in addition to the tax to a fine of not less than $300 nor more than $1000. The Controller must also make report of the failure to furnish the list to the Governor, who may in his discretion direct the Attorney-General to bring suit against the delinquent association to deprive it of its charter. The number of racing days upon any one track is limited to thirty a year. Racing and pool-selling is to be confined to the period between the 15th day of May and the 15th day of October. Any person who shall engage in pool selling at any other time is to be deemed guilty of a felony, and, upon conviction, is to be sentenced to State prison for a term not to exceed five years.

MAJOR O. E. ELLIOTT (Buck) who died at Gallatin, Tenn., quite recently was one of the best-known in the South, and was known all over the country. He was born near Gallatin nearly seventy years ago, and has been prominently identified with turf affairs for nearly fifty years. He belonged to the old school of turfmen, of whom very few are left to-day. He was a thoroughly upright man, and was held in high respect by everybody, both on and off the turf. He was the presiding judge at the fall meeting at Cumberland Park, and has acted in that capacity in many of the prominent jockey clubs of the country. Major Elliott was a nephew of and was named for Eli Odium, who was one of the richest men in Sumner County, where he died several years ago. By the provisions of his will, Major Elliott was given an annuity for life of something like $1,800. Major Elliott trained the first horse ever owned by Judge Carter. It was a horse by Brooklyn. He trained many horses during the years following the war. Among the best known of these were Longitude, winner of the Kentucky Oaks and dam of Lady Lee, the well-known filly now racing; Gleaner, Gilmore and Erebus. At the time of his death Major Elliott owned Germania, the dam of Blitzen. He was known as a turfman of the old regime, a thorough gentleman in every affair of life, and his death will be deeply regretted by all who knew him.—Thoroughbred Record.

FONG CHING, better known as "Little Pete," was murdered by highbinders on Washington street last Saturday—shot down in cold blood while being shaved. He had just dispatched his white body-guard, Ed Murray, for a copy of the Sporting World, having expressed a desire to see who had won the various races run at Oakland on Saturday. Little Pete, who was but 33 years of age and died worth at least $150,000, left a wife and two children, the eldest five years of age. He ran a shoe factory under the firm name of F. C. Peters & Co., employing both white and Chinese, was interested in several gambling houses, and the head of the Sam Yups, a powerful Chinese society. "Little Pete," who came to this country at the age of ten years, spoke English fluently, and was as crafty and suave a man as one would be likely to meet in any country. A few years ago he was convicted of jury-bribery and after serving eighteen months and spending (it is said) $30,000, he was accorded a new trial and acquitted through the influence of "Boss" Buckley, so it was declared. At any rate, Buckley skipped the country, expecting "Pete" to disclose unpleasant things. In March it was discovered that he was in a conspiracy with several star jockeys at the old Bay District track to rob the hookmakers by "fixing" races. In this conspiracy the depth of his craft was illustrated. He never became greedy. He picked out a horse that ought to win and then arranged with the jockeys that he should win. He never sought to bring in outsiders at long odds and so make a coup, but contented himself with sure winnings at short odds, and in this way defied detection for a long while. In spite of the fact that the jockeys were not always true to the conspiracy and tried to give him the "double cross," it is said he cleared up nearly $100,000. Several prominent riders and one trainer were ruled off over the squealing of Hinricks and one or two others.

A RECENT dispatch from New York was as follows: "What will undoubtedly prove one of the star events of the coming racing season will be a special sweepstakes, arranged by the Brooklyn Jockey Club, for the crack four-year-olds, to take place at the Gravesend track during the week following the running of the Brooklyn Jockey Club handicap. The race will be a special sweepstakes of $500 each, half forfeit, two to start or no race, at weight for age, one mile and a half, ought to result in the following celebrities of the turf starting: Brookdale Stable names the bay colt Requitall, four years old, by Ethen—Retribution; A. Belmont names the brown colt Hastings, four years old, by Spendthrift—Cinderella; P. J. Dwyer names the chestnut colt Handspring, four years old, by Hanover—My Favorite; M. F. Daly names the bay colt Ben Brush, four years old, by Bramble—Roseville. It is probable that other horses will be named to start, but should no other nominations be made and the horses named go to the post one of the greatest races ever seen on an American track ought to result. Requitall, Handspring, Hastings and Ben Brush make up a quartette of the greatest four-year-olds the American turf has known. Requitall is the best and most favorably known, but the rest have hosts of followers who believe, according to their fancy, that their particular favorite is the greatest horse in the country. As a two-year-old Requitall took championship honors by winning the Futurity. As a three-year-old he won the rich Realization and other valuable stakes and again was crowned king of his class. Twice before have Handspring and Hastings met, and twice but a head separated them, Handspring getting the decision by that narrow margin in the first race and Hastings taking the second. Ben Brush's remarkable races as a two-year-old led many to believe that he would be the champion three-year-old of 1896. Mike Dwyer sent him to the West to race, but the hurried preparations soon told on him and long before midsummer he had lost his form completely. Dwyer, however, has not given up hope of him.

SECRETARY W. S. LEAKE of the Pacific Coast Jockey Club, is in receipt of a letter from Colonel Sanders D. Bruce, in which that gentleman states that the Jockey Club does not and never will own the Stud Book. The Turf, Field and Farm of January 8th also publishes the following important notice to breeders from the pen of Colonel Bruce: Dear Sir: I desire to call your attention to the following notice from E. C. Hopper, secretary of the American Turf Congress: "All horses will have to be registered in Bruce's American Stud Book before they will be permitted to start on Turf Congress tracks." No foals of 1896 reported to the Jockey Club and paid for to them have been reported to me, notwithstanding I have frequently requested them to do so and to pay over to me one half of the registration fees in accordance with the agreement between me and the Jockey Club. Reports to the Jockey Club were made at my request by circular issued in compliance with that agreement with the understanding that the payment of the registration fee of $2 per head for native and $5 for imported horses would insure entry in the Stud Book and half the fees would be paid to me for such entry. As the Turf Congress rules require registration in the Stud Book before a horse can race on Turf Congress tracks, the action of the Jockey Club as above stated therefore disqualifies all the foals of 1896 reported to them from racing on Turf Congress tracks, and disqualifies as well the foals of other years reported to them and not registered in the Stud Book. If, therefore, you desire your foals registered in the Stud Book, it will be necessary for you to send me a duplicate report for 1896, stating also such mares as were barren, slipped foals and were not bred in 1896 to make the record complete. The Jockey Club has been paid $2 and $5 respectively for native and imported horses, and, by virtue of my agreement with the Jockey Club, entitles them to registry in the Stud Book without additional charges to the breeder. The rules prohibit the repetition of names, except by the addition of a numeral, and claims for names will be registered in order of priority. By the withholding of the foals of 1896 the compilation of Volume VII of the Stud Book has also been greatly delayed. Blanks for reports will be furnished on application, and it is urgent that you should give this your immediate attention in order that your stock may be properly registered and the next volume of the Stud Book be as complete as its predecessors. All new broodmares must be registered as such, and the fee for registry is $2 per head for native and $5 per head for imported broodmares, and $5 per head for stallions imported for breeding purposes, which must accompany the application. This is necessary in order that the produce of mares may be properly arranged under them. Sires must also be registered, except when they appear under their dams as produce. In reporting new mares and stallions given breeding, so as to avoid mistakes which might result when there should happen to be more than one animal of the same name, and in reporting foals be particular to give marks, color and sex. S. D. BRUCE.

Protective Legislation.

There seems to be a most determined effort on the part of the legislators from the interior to see that some protection is afforded farmers and stock raisers at the legislature now in session. During the legislature of 1895 the large cities received the most benefit, while almost every bill offered that in anyway protected the people who form the "backbone and sinew of the State" was killed. This fact was instantly recognized by the people, and when candidates for the legislature of 1897 presented their names and claims for their suffrages they had to pledge themselves to do something for these constituents. As a result, we read with pleasure the many bills offered which relate to the making of laws governing the improvement of the highways of California; laws for the suppression of tuberculosis in cattle, offering indemnity to owners for the destruction of cattle destroyed because they were affected with this contagious disease; laws for the guidance of butter and cheese makers, and for the protection of orchardists and vineyardists, relating to the quarantining of all trees and vines affected by disease; laws for the farmers who are engaged in raising cereals; bills for the restoration of appropriations for district fairs, the abolition of which at the last legislature was one of the greatest injustices ever perpetrated on all classes—farmers, stock raisers and business men in the interior of this State. Bills for the abolishment of toll roads, which have been a hindrance to the cultivation of many a fertile valley in California. These are a few of the measures offered, and if the legislators will only keep their pledges to the people we shall see a batch of bills sent to Governor Budd which will receive his signature and place him as high, if not higher, in the estimation of the people than before he issued his proclamation as Governor of this State. We admonish the newspapers in the interior to keep a close watch on the vote of every member elected and see that they keep their pledges.

Westchester Racing Association.

The attention of all horse owners is called to the fact that entries for the Westchester Racing Associations meeting at Morris Park, New York City, will close next Monday, February 2. We have a number of entry blanks on hand which we will send to all who have not received any. The spring meeting will commence May 8, and continue to include Saturday, May 29. The advertisement does not state the amount offered, for instance, the two year-olds, the purses offered are as follows: The Bouquet, $2,000; The Gairy $2,500; The Laureate $3,000; The Baychester $2,000; for three-year-olds and upward, The Metropolitan Handicap $5,000; The Toboggan $1,500; The Highweight Handicaps three serials, $1,500 each and the Amateur cup $300 in plate and $1,200 in cash.

The Autumn meeting will commence October 16th and end November 2d, and like at the spring meeting the purses will be large. In the events for the two-year-olds The White Plains Handicap purse amounts to $4,000; the Champagne $3,000 and the Autumn selling race $2,000. For three-year-olds, the Jerome Handicap is for $2,500. For three-year-olds and upwards, the Municipal Handicap is for $2,500, while for the all aged division the Autumn all aged selling race is for $2,000. Besides these events a splendid programme of other races will be issued every day. The Matron Stake for a purse of $20,000 will be contested for in the Autumn of 1899 for the produce of mares covered in 1896. Entries for all these events will close Monday, February 2d, and all who have not received blanks will be supplied by sending word to this office. We want to see California well represented at this meeting at which H. G. Crickmore is the able secretary.

Washington Jockey Club.

In another portion of this paper will be found advertised several good purses for two-year-olds, three-year-olds and upward, to be run at the spring meeting of the Washington Jockey Club, Benning's race course. For two year-olds there is the Arlington, half a mile, $1,000; the Mount Vernon, half a mile, for geldings and fillies, $750, and the Congressional, half a mile, selling, purse $650. The Federal Purse is for three-year-olds, six and a half furlongs, $800. Then there is the Washington Handicap, for three-year-olds and upward, purse $1,200, one mile. There are four jumping races, the Virginia Hurdle Race, $600, one and a half miles; selling hurdle, purse $750, one and three-quarters miles; Easter Steeplechase, purse $750, about two miles, and a selling steeplechase, purse $600, about two and a half miles. The meeting is given in accordance with the rules of The Jockey Club and National Steeplechase Association. Address your entries to Ben Hellen, Secretary, 1503 Pennsylvania Avenue, Washington, D. C., or H. G. Crickmore, Clerk of the Course, 173 Fifth Avenue, New York. The dates awarded the Club are April 10 to April 27, 1897.

The Colusa Meeting.

The Directors of the Colusa Jockey Club through its Secretary, J. E. Wright, informs us that they intend to give a five-days race meeting, commencing May 4th and will give purses amounting to over $2,000 during this time, which will be dispensed among owners of trotters and pacers. It affords us pleasure to note the earnest desire on the part of the members of this club to encourage the breeding and development of light harness horses. E. C. Peart, the President of this Club, is one of the most devoted friends the horsemen in that splendid country have, and much credit is due him for his labors in their behalf. We shall publish a list of entries in our next issue.

Look out for this Fellow.

A man named J. C. Young, who is described as a cripple, is collecting subscriptions for the "Breeder and Sportsman." He is a fraud. We have placed a description of him in the hands of the police, and when arrested we will see he has a long term to consider his misdoings. He collected numerous amounts in Sacramento.

THE attention of our readers is called to the winner of the great American Stakes at Brooklyn, The Foam Stakes at Coney Island, and was second in the Futurity at Sheepshead Bay, we refer to St. Carlo, the best son of the great St. Blaise, for which Chas. Reed, of Fairview, paid $100,000. St. Carlo is a handsome horse and as a sire of race winners is rapidly achieving fame. All his progeny are well formed, have excellent dispositions, and every one trained has been a race winner. Owners of good brood mares should not overlook this horse. He is bred right on both sides and cannot fail getting race horses.

"HERE YOU ARE!" That's the way Ed. A. Tipton heads his announcement card that the Montana circuit for 1897 will commence at Anaconda, June 26 to July 24, and then follow at Butte, July 27 to August 28. Over $125,000 will be offered in stakes and purses. Stakes will close April 1st. Mr. Tipton also says "Denver and Colorado Springs, with attractive programmes, will immediately precede us." This secretary is the best "rustler" for business in the United States and we are proud to have him so near us.

THE "cinch bill" promoters who are jealous of the success of the two Jockey Clubs in this city have been very quiet since they learned that they will meet with no success in their endeavors to injure the managers of these tracks. The BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN was well circulated in Sacramento last week and its work in behalf of the Jockey Clubs and Agricultural Associations highly commended. We have a representative there who is watching every move on the legislative chess-board.

THERE is a movement on foot to have the Park Commissioners make a bridle path for saddle horses in the Golden Gate Park. There are over five hundred saddle horses in actual use in San Francisco and the number is increasing. The subject of building low hurdles and water jumps on this path is spoken of.

M. W. DUNHAM, of Wayne, Illinois, the famous breeder of French coach horses, is in this city. He will only remain a few days. He has Idre, Perfection and Partisan, the greatest prize-winners ever exhibited.

THE entries for the two-year-olds of both the California Jockey Club and the Pacific Coast Jockey Club were large and gratified the Directors of both Associations.

Imported Bertram.

"The handsomest horse ever exhibited at the State Fair," this has always been the popular verdict whenever Imported Bertram led the procession of heavy draft stallions there. He always obtained the blue ribbon, while his colts and fillies have never been beaten. Mr. Rubles could never keep them after they were three years old, for the principal buyers (draymen and teamsters) from San Francisco always came to Rio Vista and purchased them. He has a few there now which for size, style, activity, bone, good sinew and perfect proportions are not excelled by the progeny of any stallion in California. They are out of mares of ordinary breeding, and as they are all solid dark bays and browns, they are a credit to their sire. We know of no horse ever imported to California that is Bertram's equal. He is kind and intelligent, a remarkably sure foot-gaiter, and in conformation is a perfect model. There never was a colt foaled by him that ever had a spavin, ring-bone or side-bone—ailments that are very common with the get of other draft stallions. Mr. Rubles asks a remarkably low figure for him, in fact, so low that Bertram will earn himself out this season.

THE attention of our readers is called to the advertisement of the sale of the grandly-bred stallion Robin and the great broodmare Eveline, by Nutwood. There were few better judges of trotting horses in America than the late Isaac De Turk, and every animal he bred or purchased proved a well-bred one. He had in Robin not only a well bred one, but one of the gamest and best-formed young horses in the United States. His progeny are the talk of Santa Rosa and everyone who owns one swears by it. It is our opinion that a better stock horse was never offered for sale in California than Robin. Eveline has a famous reputation and whoever purchases her now, can, by breeding her to any of the horses advertised in this issue, count on getting a record-breaker. She is sound and one of the best of mothers.

SOME one will be looking for a first-class Wilkes-Electioneer stallion to make money this season; to such a person Fav Wilkes, the handsome Guy Wilkes stallion advertised in this issue offers claims that should not be overlooked. He is a splendid individual, royally-bred, and one of the purest-gaited horses in California. Whoever buys him will secure a bargain.

C. A. WINSHIP, of Los Angeles, writes in regard to the rumored sale of the great Steinway colt, Agitato: "This is an error; the colt will not be sold and has never been offered for sale; offering him for sale at auction is something I never thought of. I do not know who started the story, but you can state I do not desire to dispose of him."

Do not forget the fact that W. D. Grand will offer some of the finest coaching horses and hackneys in America for sale in New York City, Thursday and Monday, February 11 and 12. See his advertisement.

DR. BAZET is driving one of the handsomest teams seen out in the park for many a long day. They are a pair of bright bays, the get of Dexter Prince, out of a standard bred mare. Ed McElhone, Dr. G. F. Shiels' coachman, is responsible for the purchase, which is another tribute to his good sound judgment in the matter of horseflesh.

A WEANLING filly by Gossiper 2:14½ was sold by a gentleman in Petaluma for $400. The youngsters by this splendid son of Simmons 2:28 are models of beauty and show remarkably well as weanlings. There are some at the Fair ranch Sonoma County that would be a credit to any sire in America.

W. R. OVERHOLSER of Petaluma has received from Rudolph Spreckels the two chestnut pacing mares by Strathway 2:19 that this gentleman purchased last summer. They were bred by Capt. Owen and will get marks better than 2:20 this year.

HAVE you noticed the splendid list of trotting stallions advertised in this issue? Owners of good mares will make no mistake if they breed them this year. Good horses will be very scarce in 1900.

BOONLE 2:12½ was bred to twenty-eight mares in 1896 and twenty-six have proved with foal. The other two were very old mares and had been barren for years.

WE would be pleased to receive any items relating to trotting or pacing horses from our subscribers.

MARY BEST, 2:12½, will drop a foal by Oro Wilke s, 2:11 in a few days.

THE prospects for a good year in California were never better.

SPECIAL DEPARTMENT

EDITED AND CONDUCTED SOLELY BY

JOSEPH CAIRN SIMPSON.

A WELCOME LETTER.—The letter from Major P. P. Johnston, President of the National Trotting Association, herewith appended, is exceedingly gratifying to me, and will, also, be fully appreciated by the harness horse people of California. As has been stated before, if free transportation from Chicago to San Francisco and return can be secured for the delegates to the Congress of the N. T. A. February 18-8, there is a good chance for it to be held here, and a gathering of the foremost supporters of harness racing in the United States would be worth to the State many times over the cost of a special train. When the project was mentioned at the last congress it was received with general approbation—and an enthusiastic response from a large majority of the delegates. Some of them predicted that five hundred delegates would make the trip, and it is quite safe to estimate that half that number, at least, would join the expedition.

It is only necessary to give the names of the officers of the Association and the members of the District Boards to show the kind of men that compose the Association, and a list of the delegates which have attended the biennial meetings would also prove that the "representative men" of the country make it a point to take part in the proceedings, and, of course, would be of the party.

OFFICERS.

P. P. Johnston, President, Lexington, Ky.
David Bonner, First Vice-President, New York, N. Y.
N. T. Smith, Second Vice-President, San Francisco, Cal.
Lewis J. Powers, Treasurer, Springfield, Mass.

Should the good prospects for crops, which at present prevail, be followed by good harvests, there is scarcely a question that farmers and stock breeders would contribute liberally, and if a reasonable appropriation for the district fairs be granted then the horse folk would do their share. When it is absolutely fixed that the N. T. A. Congress, for 1898, will be held in San Francisco, it would be a good idea to have a big combination sale of harness horses after the close of the season, and make it one of the conditions that in order to obtain a place in the catalogue a certain amount should be subscribed towards paying for the special train. The committee on rules has always met a couple of days before the Congress was organized, but that work could be done on the train while journeying westward, or if delayed, until arriving in San Francisco, while the committee was at work, the other delegates could be taken to places of interest to them in the neighborhood of the city. But there is little danger of the committee on rules deferring the work, as the members of it would be anxious to join in the excursions.

My plan would be to start from Chicago in time to leave space for visits. Thus coming out, the Central Pacific route chosen, stop at Ben Ali, and my word for it, Superintendent Mackey will have vehicles enough to convey the highest crowd from the Arcade to the Bottom. Not only the greatest number of thoroughbreds on any one or two breeding establishments in the world, and a collection of stallions that could scarcely be equaled, were the whole country ransacked to secure a corresponding number, there are hundreds of trotting-bred of a high class. After a night in Sacramento an early start in the morning by the Marysville route stopping at Vina, and the next night at Castle Craig, or Dunsmuir with snow crowned Mt. Shasta above. The next morning back as far as Tehama, and by Willows, Colusa and Woodland to San Francisco. Short spins north into Sonoma and Mendocino counties, south, Palo Alto, San Jose, Santa Cruz, Aptos Rancho and Monterey coming back on the Eastern side of the bay, and a branch run to Pleasanton.

When homeward bound by the Southern Pacific, it might be arranged to lay the train up at a point nearest the Yosemite, while that wonderful valley was explored but at all events there will be points of interest along the route and it "goes without saying" that Los Angeles would present attractions sufficient to require an extended visit, and then the San Gabriel valley, El Paso, San Antonio, New Orleans.

In place of being an annoyance or trouble to me, if persistent work from now until the matter is settled can bring success I shall be repaid a hundred times over. Well satisfied, indeed, by being instrumental in recovering the attendance of men who would be such welcome visitors, the benefits which would follow to the country, and the same time a pleasure to those who came, enhancing the gratification.

When good crops and fair prices are assured, when appropriations to aid the fairs are determined upon, and the days of agricultural exhibitions, accompanied by the gathering of clans of trotters, and pacers, have arrived the work of obtaining subscriptions will be inaugurated with the greatest confidence of a successful result.

The other portions of President Johnston's letter scarcely require additional comments.

The unqualified endorsement of the rule against laying up heats, and the positive assertion that it can be enforced as readily as other rules, from a person so thoroughly competent to judge, and then, too, he witnessed the races at Anacapa and some of them at Butte.

"Mr. Tipton had full scope to put in operation his best methods," is a sentence of great significance. Untrammelled, no hindrances, full power to choose such assistants as he desired, executive ability to select the best men, and plan the best harness-racing meetings ever held in the country, it does appear that an "object lesson" so full of valuable instruction should be accepted and followed to the benefit of all engaged in the business.

LEXINGTON, Ky., January 19th, 1897.

MR. JOSEPH CAIRN SIMPSON, Oakland, Cal.—My Dear Sir:—January 1st, 1898, will be time enough to determine finally where the next congress shall be held. If it can be arranged to hold it there the meeting would be much the largest in the history of the organization. The undertaking, however, presents many difficulties, and if we have to regret our inability to meet them we will look forward to some other opportunity to visit California. It will be very agreeable to the representatives of this section if a California meeting can be arranged, but we would not have you give yourself annoyance or trouble about it.

I trust the prospect for State aid to your district fairs may be realized. The fight for life these hard times is making more difficult by the insupportable withdrawal of the helping hand of the State. The increased taxes from property, rendered more valuable by the fairs, will more than compensate for the appropriation, and it would return to the treasury like bread cast upon the waters.

The Montana meetings at Anaconda and Butte were very successful. Every man received the impartial protection of the law, and felt its force when he was known to deserve it. Racing had not previously met the highest expectations of its promoters in that vicinity, and Mr. Tipton had full scope to put in operation his best methods. The judges were expected to enforce the law without fear or favor, and my information is that they did it. They understood that the obligation rested on them to enforce the law as they found it. It did not occur to them that they could fairly or justly demand that certain of its provisions should be obeyed, while they ignored others that were just as binding, and retain the respect and confidence every judge ought to command.

The rule against laying up heats was enforced like other rules, and every heat was a race. It gave life to the track, the crowd was excited and expectant, and those who wanted to bet felt that they would be protected. It is as easy to prevent a heat being pulled as it is to prevent the race from being pulled. If the first is done the last does not happen. Heat betting when every heat is a race is as fair as betting on the result of all the heats, but it cannot be tolerated.

It is not always pleasant to require a strict compliance with law, and is often a hardship to inflict penalties for its violation, but all soon learn that it is best—that the hardships can be avoided. Only the incorrigible afterwards compel punishment.

The rule is a good one and is not difficult to enforce, a few heavy penalties promptly inflicted on the plain violators of it quickly brings about an understanding between the judges and the drivers—the trouble is then over.

Thank you for your congratulations. Accept my best wishes that you may have a happy and prosperous year, and that I may have the satisfaction of meeting you again at our next Congress.

Sincerely yours,

P. P. JOHNSTON.

It may be proper to add that my congratulations were instigated by the success of the Montana meetings, of which he was a prominent part, and his election to the presidency of the Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders' Association. Without wishing to detract from the former president's (Major McDowell) well-earned reputation, after so many years of hard service, it could scarcely be expected that one who had followed a course for nearly a quarter of a century would forego his conservative and pursue one so radically different. Therefore I congratulate the supporters of straight-forward harness racing in all parts of the country, in securing such a man as the executive head of the foremost harness-racing association in the world, as well as being the chief officer of the National Trotting Association.

CHICO STOCK FARM.—My last visit to Chico was as long ago as 1877 when Bodine and Occident met, and a very enjoyable trip it was, as visits were made to the fine farms in the neighborhood, and in these days before the "hard times" pressed with such tremendous force, there was good feeling and enterprise all over California. Thursday evening last I took the Oregon evening train at the mole, though others are advised who intend making a trip to that section of the country, that of the morning is more agreeable.

Nevertheless I cannot complain. My companion in the section occupied was Mr. Henry Fiock, of Yreka, and the information obtained from him of the Northern country, especially that pertaining to life among the mountains, shooting, fishing and "camping out," was particularly interesting. The life which he described so graphically brought back the days when that part of existence could safely be termed a "sweet habit," and though nearly fifty years ago my last experience of real life in the woods is still vivid, still cherished in "fond remembrance."

Agreeably disappointed to find carriages in waiting at 2:45 a. m. to convey passengers to the hotels, and when Mr. L. H. McIntosh drove up in the morning to take me to Chico Stock Farm, the discomforts of a broken night-journey were abundantly remedied.

Splendid roads in the vicinity of Chico when compared with those in other sections, and now that the movement in favor of good roads, or rather the best possible highways, is attracting so much attention, the valleys of California, at least, should present driveways of great excellence. The beds of streams furnish the very best gravel for a top covering and the supply is inexhaustible. My first sight of Arthur Wilkes was on that morning. So favorably impressed with his procreative powers that I sent two maidens to him in 1894, and yet was unprepared to see one so "individually" good. Quite a resemblance to his sire, though showing more quality and superiority in some of the "points," and this I hold to be a great mark in favor of Guy Wilkes, or any sire, in fact, progeny being the object when animals are mated, and one who beats himself even when so good as the patriarch of San Mateo proved to be, one of, if not the very highest recommendations that can be offered.

Of fair size, many of his colts large, well-formed, finely bred, good action, best of temper, docile to a degree seldom displayed by a stallion, handsome color and a trotter, these qualities should command attention. When to these are added sons of the type of Wayland W. and Welcome, not to mention others that have shown so well, and these with small opportunities when compared with other horses in California, there is no hazard in predicting that now, when his merits are better appreciated he will climb to a higher round of the ladder of fame. A beautiful place the home ranch of Mr. and Mrs. McIntosh. Some three hundred acres of land, not a waste road, and soil that will grow anything, though especially adapted to fruit culture in all its branches. Orange trees laden with golden spheres, a beautiful picture on these winter days, figs, peaches, apricots, cherries, pears, walnuts, etc., etc., flourishing, and when the spring comes a wealth of bloom, in summer a profusion of fruit. A comfortable house with orchards on three sides, and in the front ornamental sarubbery. The grandest of all a magnificent old oak with European ivy encircling the huge bole, running up the branches and hanging in massive festoons within a few feet of the ground.

The popular idea that the parasite will eventually kill the tree on which it is entwined is not borne out in this case as it is nearly thirty years since the ivy was planted without any perceptible injury to the tree. The vine though appears to have guarded against a fatal embrace. In place of following the branches to the top it has run horizontally quite a distance below the highest twigs and then taken a downward growth, and when the oak is in leaf the beauty of the spectacle will be increased.

A three-quarter of a mile training track is in the middle of a wheat field in which teams were busily at work seeding. Forced to cross the track the seeding machines had it rough, but as soon as the job is finished, the road-machine and smoothers will soon put it in order. Byron Simpson was jogging a pacer by Arthur Wilkes, a well formed horse, and with such easy action that the tales of his speed were corroborated, and if nothing happens him he will, probably, make the Montana Circuit and after that a California Campaign, so I will leave the future to tell the story. A sister a couple of years younger is of equal promise though I am inclined to the belief that should be fall slightly short of anticipations the filly will be the crack of the family. Not very far outside of two minutes is Byron's estimate, and that he has seen enough to justify a very high opinion is beyond question.

A capital educator of youngsters this namesake of mine, the best proof of which the docility of his pupils, and the correct action they exhibit.

The Wayland W. and Welcome family attract the most attention, four representation now and another will soon join the illustrious band. The youngster, now rating as a yearling, went across the field like a "börnd" trotter, as the Kentucky darbies would say, the two year took my fancy as the pick of the gang he was running with before I knew he was a son of Lettie, the three-year old, the largest of the family, 16 hands, strongly made, and with square trotting action, and tokens of speed that when put in training he will be a worthy member. The four-year-old is a filly the only one by A. W. an extra fine looking mare and with more resemblance to her dam than the colts show, and not unlike her half-sister Maud Singleton, 2:28, which Mr. Peter Williams says is "the best lady's roadmare in California." The filly belongs to Miss McIntosh and while highly valued, I am of the opinion, that a present from the editor of the "Breeder and Sportsman," one of the handsomest colliers I ever saw, and if she had to part with either, "Laddie" would not be the sacrifice.

It was not the intention at this visit to write a special description of the stock on Mr. McIntosh's breeding farms, and did not take any other than memory notes of mares and colts. I saw enough, however, to resolve upon another trip when the season is further advanced, and the track and horses in condition to show their speed.

After luncheon Mr. McIntosh drove a daughter of Arthur Wilkes, and one by a son of Electioneer to his ranch on the western side of the Sacramento. Fifteen miles between the two places, and it seemed as though there would be scant time to make the journey and return by the hour he fixed for dinner, six o'clock. More than equal to the task, the team proved to be of the best class of roadsters and there was a margin of fifteen minutes when overcoats and wraps were removed and the blazing wood-fire welcomed.

The trip was greatly enjoyed, Mr. McIntosh recounting parts of the history of that country in the very early days, highly interesting and which will be well worthy of being put in type hereafter. There was some summer-fallowed wheat on the east side of the river, not nearly so much as in former years, owing to the prices which ruled before the late advance. Looking exceedingly well, the summer-fallowed grain, and the activity displayed in winter-sowing when hopes were raised that prices would be sustained, is a token that with favorable weather from now until the crop is matured there will be an extra large yield. It seemed as if the whole people on the west side of the river were busily engaged in plowing, seeding or harrowing. So many big teams of from six or ten horses or mules in each—I counted ten in one field and that much smaller than some we passed—that it appeared as though hundreds were at work within sight as we journeyed. The land is better adapted for wheat than it is on the east side of the river. Soil darker colored, some of it adobe, and all of it richer.

Mr. McIntosh has one thousand acres of wheat already in on his Westside Farm. There are three thousand acres in the rancho, the eastern boundary the Sacramento river, and the western only a short distance from Orland, a station on the Davis, Woodland, Colusa and Tehama division of the railroad.

A magnificent breeding farm as well as wheatgrowing and general agriculture, as the grass grow in perfection, the heavier soil being better for grazing than the sandy loam, and most of the horses Mr. McIntosh has are kept there.

I was surprised when the proprietor informed me that he would sell it for twenty-dollars per acre, there being good improvements, several large barns, good house, stable, engine house, in fact all the adjuncts to farming and breeding on a large scale. Another place of twelve-hundred acres at Nelson, that and the home farm at Chico give employment enough, and in order to devote all his attention to the place on which he lives, the Nelson ranch would also be disposed of.

A ride in the early morning to the depot. Arthur Wilkes the motive power, brought me in time for the train.

The cars were just coming in and he was no more ruffled than the huss horses which make six trips during the night and two in the morning from hotels to depot.

A few hours stop at Rancho del Paso, which will give abundant material for another article, or, for that matter, chapters would be required to give more than a sketch of the horses even in the brief time spent there.

Edge Hill Farm.

Mr. Junius W. Johnson, of Georgetown, Kv., writes: "During the past year I have used Quinn's Ointment several times, and the results have been perfectly satisfactory. From my experience and that of others in this vicinity I believe that your remedy will do all you claim for it." This is the general expression of the leading breeders and horsemen throughout the United States. For curbs, splints, spavins, windpuffs and all burses, it has no equal. For sale by druggists and dealers or sent by express prepaid upon receipt of price. Regular size $1.50. Address W. B. Eddy & Co., Whitehall, N. Y.

FROM Westfield Leader (N. J.): I have had an opportunity to examine "Absorbine," manufactured by W. F. Young, Meriden, Conn., and find it to be a discutient in which full confidence can be placed. It removes all Puffs and Swellings, from a Skin Roll to a Fatty Tumor; and at the same time it strengthens the muscles without doing the least injury to the tissues, or even to the hair; I am much pleased with it, and could not suggest anything preferable. Feb. 22—Interstate Coursing Club's Spring Meeting, Ingleside Concourse Park, J. R. Dickson, Secretary, 410 Montgomery street, San Francisco.

Pacific Kennel Club.

For the last time we are privileged to report the proceedings of the Pacific Kennel Club and we cannot deny that it is with many regrets that we announce that fact.

We were largely instrumental in re-organizing this club 1892, and during the past month we have done our best to induce the members to disband, believing that in so doing we were working for the best interests of dogs and dog shows. It seems to be the fate of nine out of ten kennel clubs to outlive their usefulness and the Pacific was unquestionably one of the nine.

The actual immediate cause of the clubs disbanding was a lack of interest. The members all want a kennel club and they all wanted a yearly bench show, but no one wanted it bad enough to put their own shoulder to the wheel.

The old bench show committee handled the shows of the past few years very successfully, they were totally disinterested and worked faithfully but met with only abuse for their pains, and we cannot blame them for declining to serve again.

For the past few months it has been utterly impossible to secure more than a bare quorum, and the question of disbanding was not even of enough importance to induce the members to attend the meetings. At the last meeting but one a committee consisting of C. A. Haight, T. J. Watson, F. H. Bushnell, E. W. Briggs and F. H. Browne were appointed by the chair to wait upon the members of the club personally and obtain their written views on the subject of disbanding and the disposal of the funds of the club.

A meeting was held at the Occidental Hotel on Tuesday evening last, President H. Bier occupied the chair, Thos. H. Browne officiated as Secretary pro tem. The other members present were Messrs E. W. Briggs, F. H. Bushnell, T. H. Gruenhausen, T. J. Watson, Franz Frey and A. Russell Crowell.

E. W. Briggs as chairman of the committee reported that the committee had interviewed and secured the written votes of 25 of the 43 names upon the roll and that 27 had voted to disband and one to continue. That 25 had voted to give the funds of the club to the Olympic Gun Club as a guarantee fund for a show to be held this year, and three had voted to give the money to charity.

After considerable informal talk Mr. Bushnell moved and Mr. Gruenhausen seconded the motion that the club give the money on hand after all bills are paid and the other property of the club consisting of bench show paraphernalia, to the Olympic Gun Club. The money, consisting of something like $350, to be given in trust as a guarantee fund for a bench show to be given this year. In the event of the Olympic Gun Club not giving a show this year, or in the event of the Olympic Gun Club giving a successful show this year without using this fund, the same to be returned to a committee of five to be appointed by the chair, and to be disposed of by them as directed at that meeting. The motion was carried unanimously.

Mr. Watson then moved and Mr. Briggs seconded the motion that in the event of the funds being returned to the committee that they be authorized to divide the money equally between the three Protestant, Hebrew and Catholic orphan asylums of this city. Motion carried.

The Chair then appointed Messrs. Haight, Watson, Bushnell, Gruenhausen and Briggs as the committee and on motion they were ordered to notify the Olympic Gun Club and the American Kennel Club of the action taken. They were also authorized to confer with the Olympic Gun Club and draw up such agreements as they considered necessary.

The thanks of the club were tendered to the press for its valuable assistance in furthering the objects of the club and to the present officers for the energy and zeal that they have shown in conducting the affairs of the club.

Mr. Briggs moved to disband, Bushnell seconded the motion and the Pacific Kennel Club ceased to exist.

Ingleside Coursing.

Two thousand people were present at Ingleside Park on Sunday last to witness the coursing for the double stake that was on the card for the afternoon's sport. There were thirty-two dogs in the all-age stake and thirty in the puppy stake, and great interest was evinced by all in the running of the young dogs, as both owners and others were anxious to see how the would acquit themselves. The hares ran well all the afternoon—showing a great improvement on those of the previous Sunday.

The sport commenced with the puppies and many of them showed up splendidly, especially T. Cox's Port Costa, G. Watson's Doncaster, J. Rielly's Jerome, J. Fitzpatrick's Nelly Daly, Cupertino Kennel's Glenwood and Fleetwood, B. Dougherty's Tessie Fair, H. B. Baldwin's Tod Sloan and T. Neenan's Fair View.

It was 1 o'clock when the first round of the puppy stake was finished and immediately after lunch the first round of the all-age stake was commenced. There was some fine trials during the running down of the card in this stake and some very great upsets, too, at the top of which was the downfall of T. Cox's Sam before W. Terry's Gee Whiz. The talent laid 8 to 1 against the little brindle bitch and fortunately for them there were not many takers of the big odds. Sam led Gee Whiz two lengths to the game and took first and the second turn and then his opponent got in and she never let him in for another point, running up four or five points in quick succession and finished up the course with a good kill, winning a decided victory. Another good course was that between Pacific Queen and Magnet, and then came a splendid trial between the Eastern bitch, Mercy May, now owned here by the Miramonte Kennel and the Cupertino Kennel's dog Blackbird. Mercy May proved herself a fast and clever bitch, winning a splendid trial and Blackbird also proved that he was no easy nut to crack. The next best course was that between Queen B. and Old Glory; the latter was the favorite but the Queen beat him handsomely. Sir Walter and Cleverness, the last pair in the first round, had also a good course which Sir Walter won and he, too, put the talent in the hole as they laid 2½ and 3½ to 1½ against him.

Just at the conclusion of this course the sad news was telegraphed from the city to the park that J. V. Dalton, proprietor of the park, had breathed his last. The news was not wholly unexpected as Mr. Dalton was seriously ill for some days. The sport immediately closed and the stakes will be finished on Sunday next.

The following is a summary of the running:

Coursing at Sacramento.

Thirty-six dogs were turned loose after hares in Agricultural Park, Sacramento, on Sunday last—eighteen in each of the two stakes—and some of the prettiest racing was witnessed that any lover of the sport would care to see. Among the interested spectators was J. Otis Fellows of New York, the bench show judge.

The course between Soeban Bros.' Markham and the San Francisco dog Eclipse, in the next to the final series of the first stake, was a beautiful one. The hare was a hummer and he carried the fleet dogs clear down the length of the park and half way back, where Markham picked him up.

There was a big crowd present to witness the running, and more than usual enthusiasm was manifested.

Ed Canavan, the new judge from San Francisco, who is to act permanently in that capacity, gave his decisions promptly and they were accepted by all as correct and fair. W. M. O'Neil officiated as slipper and T. Kennedy as slip steward.

In the first and chief stake T. Kennedy's Little Delight won first money, $30; Governor Markham second, $20, and Eclipse third, $10.

Capital City Kennel Club.

One of the results of the late bench show in Sacramento is a much greater interest among Sacramentans in the breeding and owning of fine animals.

In order to still further promote this desideratum a local kennel club was organized last week. There was a very enthusiastic meeting of dog fanciers at the Capital City Wheelmen's club rooms, and a permanent organization was effected, which will be known as the Capital City Kennel Club.

It was decided to join the American Kennel Club and to pay the necessary fee as soon as the by-laws are formulated. The Secretary was instructed to at once communicate with other clubs and obtain copies of their constitution and by-laws so as to form a basis on which to work.

The temporary organization was effected by the election of L. S. Upson as chairman and E. M. Simpson as secretary. After that Joseph E. Terry was elected president of the club, L. S. Upson vice-president, E. M. Simpson secretary and treasurer and William Loydall, Henry Devine, Fred W. Kiesel and I. J. Trainor members of this Executive Committee.

It was decided to place the initiation fee at $1, and the quarterly dues at the same amount, both payable in advance. A committee of three, consisting of William Loydall, N. E. White and George Neale, was appointed by the Chair to obtain new members, and they will report to the adjourned meeting to be held in the same place on February 2d, 7 o'clock.

Before adjourning a vote of thanks was passed to the city papers for the interest they had manifested in the recent show and dog matters generally.

The New York Dog Show.

The premium list of the twenty-first annual bench show of the Westminster Kennel Club is at hand. The show will be held at Madison Square Garden on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday Feb. 22-25, 266 classes are provided for. Open class prizes in most of the breeds are $20, $15, $10 and $5. Puppies classes $15, $10 and $5, and challenge classes $15. Kennel prizes $20 and special prizes of $10 and $5 are very numerous.

The judges twelve in number are as follows: Miss A. H. Whitney, St. Bernards and Newfoundlanders; Chas. D. Bernheimer, Great Danes; R. D. Perry, American Foxhounds; G. E. Pollock, Chesapeake Bay Dogs; Andrew Laidlaw, Cocker Spaniels; H. W. Lacy, Poodles; Dwight Baldwin, Boston Terriers; L. A. Klein, Dachshunds; Geo. B. Post Jr., Beagles; John H. Matthews, Bull dogs; Geo. Raper, Mastiffs; Bloodhounds, Greyhounds, English Foxhounds, Pointers, Setters, Irish Water Spaniels, Clumbers and Field Spaniels, Whippets, Pugs and Toy Spaniels; L. P. C. Astley, Russian Wolfhounds, Deerhounds, Collies, Old English sheep dogs, all Terriers, Shippers, Pomeranians, Italian Greyhounds and Miscellaneous. Dr. H. Clay Glover, veterinarian, Jas. Mortimer, Superintendent.

An innovation is the classification. It is as follows: Puppies dogs; Novice dogs; Open dogs; Challenge dogs; Puppies hitches; Novice hitches; Open hitches; Challenge hitches. They will be judged in that order.

The Olympic Bench Show.

The Olympic Gun Club's board of directors met on Wednesday night and accepted the guarantee fund offered by the Pacific Kennel Club for a show to be held this year.

The show will be held in the Mechanics' Pavilion on May 5, 6, 7 and 8, if the building can be secured on those dates, and James Mortimer will probably be asked to judge. Application for membership has been made with the American Kennel Club.

We predict that the show will bring out close upon 500 entries, and will be in every way the most successful show ever held on this coast.

DOINGS IN DOGDOM.

The Pacific Kennel Club is dead.

The St. Bernard Marvel, by Puff—Mossy, died in London recently.

The noted mastiff bitch Brampton Beauty, the dam of Beaufort's Black Prince, has joined the majority.

The Stockton diplomas for L. Carrigan, S. L. Goldstein and M. F. Vanderslice are still at this office at the disposal of their owners.

A. J. Salazar's well-known Smooth St. Bernard Biauka II whelped three dogs and a bitch pup to her own brother on the 25th. They are beautifully marked.

The Southern California Kennel Club's ninth annual bench show will be held on April 14-17. R. B. Funk, Los Angeles, is secretary. Write him for premium lists.

The Turf, Field and Farm (Mr. Mason's column) says that Chas. H. Mason will judge the Stockton Show. Consequently the rumors that he is not coming are probably false.

We would call the attention of show committees to Section 5 of Rule XV, governing shows. It refers to the miscellaneous class and states that entries in this class must specify the breed of the exhibit.

Counting the quorum present the actual vote on disbanding the Pacific Kennel Club was thirty-two for disbanding and one against, out of a membership of forty-three. Several declined to vote at all and others signified their intention of voting for disbanding but were not present at the meeting.

In our business columns will be found the advertisement of the S. C. St. Bernard Leo. He is offered at a ridiculously low figure simply because the owner has left the State and has no further use for him. He is large, intelligent, gentle, fond of children and very well bred.

The Santa Clara Valley Poultry and Kennel Club are working hard for the success of their show of March 31—April 1-3. J. Otis Fellows will judge all classes. The bench show committee consists of three active fanciers: O. J. Alhee, Tyler Beach and C. R. Harker.

The United States Field Trials began on January 18th at West Point, Miss. John King of Jackson, Tenn. and Dr. Euhank of Birmingham, Ala. judges. The Pointer Derby winners were Kennel's Young Rip Rap, T. T. Ashford's Eugene and H. S. Smith's Ripple, in the order named. There were ten starters in the Setter Derby.

The Irish Terrier Club of America was recently organized in Boston with the following officers: President, Oliver Ames; Vice-President, W. L. Bedeelson; Treasurer, Samuel D. Parker, Boston; Secretary, O. W. Donner, 70 State street, Boston. The governors of the club are: Oliver Ames, W. L. Bedeelson, Samuel D. Parker, O. W. Donner, G. M. Weld, Edward Brooks, B. L. Sackett and W. A. Thompson.

The judge question seems to be quite a tangled knot. "Uncle Dick" is first engaged to judge the circuit and then we get a letter from the Secretary of the Stockton Kennel Club saying that Mason has been engaged to judge the show. Now we hear rumors on every hand that he will not judge after all. Well, the knot will become untangled and untied soon and then we will let our readers know the result. One thing is certain, "Uncle Dick" will judge the San Jose show and that show is the first on the list.

On the corner of the entry blank furnished by the Westminster Kennel Club we notice the following: "Important notice. Exhibitors are cautioned to carefully examine the Rules and Premium list, so that their entry blanks may be correctly and completely made out. They must abide by any error made in entering their dogs; the management has no power to correct or make transfers. It has been the common practice of show committees here to transfer dogs wrongly entered and correct other mistakes. Under the new rules the committees have no power to make such corrections."

The Turf, Field and Farm seems to think our article entitled "A Californian Swindled," a little too strong. They are right in saying that no one can tell what a small puppy will develop into, but circumstances alter cases. No undeveloped pup is worth $375, to begin with, but in this case Mr. Moore guaranteed the puppy to grow to a certain size and to be of a certain quality (a very foolish proceeding on his part) and it failed to do anything of the kind. He totally ignored Mr. Williams' letters on the subject and never made a single movement towards making good his guarantee. The first pup bought of Mr. Moore was to have been shown by him at New York before it was shipped, but Moore failed to do this, and then for a consideration sent out the one in question, representing it to be a better one. If this one is the best, what on earth must the other have been? Since writing this article in question Mr. Williams has sold the dog for $10, and as far as he is concerned is done with the matter, but the affair has cost California one of its best dog fanciers and it will be many a long day before Mr. Moore sends a dog to this Coast to any of the prominent St. Bernard fanciers. Mr. Williams' case is not the only one, by any means, Mr. Hubert White of Oakland claims to have been very similarly treated.

Coming Events.

Feb. 9—Regular semi-monthly meeting of the San Francisco Fly Casting Club. Office of State Fish Commission, Flood Building, San Francisco.

The Fly Casting Club.

The regular semi-monthly meeting of the San Francisco Fly Casting Club was held at the office of the Fish Commission on Tuesday evening last. Prof. Gilbert's lecture was postponed until the next meeting. The handicap committee reported the handicap on the long distance men to be 11 feet for H. C. Golcher and 5 feet for W. D. Mansfield. An average of 80 feet was taken as the basis for the handicaps and as these two gentlemen are the only ones that averaged over 80 feet last year they are the only ones that will be handicapped.

Mr. Smyth has figured the averages of all of the contestants in all three events for the season of 1896, and as this will undoubtedly interest all of our fly casting readers we print the same herewith:

Distance—Golcher, 10, 91.10; Mansfield, 10, 85.35; Edwards, 9, 79.62; Reed, 1, 77.00; Lowry, 1, 77.00; Smyth, 8, 76.00; Lovett, 8, 75.34; Skinner, 9, 73.27; Muller, 2, 71.71;

Bachelor, 1, 71.00; Young, 4, 70.00; Benn, 1, 63.; Mocker, 3, 65.66; Haight, 2, 65.50; Vogel-ang, 2, 64.50; Klein, 1, 63.; Battu, 3, 62.33; Crowell, 2, 61.50

Distance and Accuracy—Mansfield, 10, 84.40; Golcher, 10, 87.96; Skinner, 10, 87.60; Edwards, 9, 87.18; Bachelor, 9, 86.40; Lovett, 10, 86.20; Smyth, 10, 82.; Benn, 2, 80.80; Young, 6, 77.90; Crowell, 4, 75.40; Muller, 10, 74.20; Reed, 1, 73.30; Mocker, 8, 71.40; Battu, 7, 67.50; Klein, 5, 66.30; Bachelor, 1, 61.30

Accuracy and Delicacy—Bachelor, 10, 83.8; Mansfield, 10, 83.5; Golcher, 10, 83.5; Lovett, 10, 83.3; Smyth, 10, 83.1; Edwards, 9, 82.6; Reed, 1, 79.5; Haight, 1, 79.5; Benn, 2, 79; Young, 6, 77.8; Bachelor, 5, 77; Skinner, 10, 75; Mocker, 10, 73.8; Crowell, 8, 71.4; Muller, 10, 70.6; Klein, 5, 70.3; Battu, 8, 68.8.

The only other important business that came before the club was the proposition of Col. Edwards to allow three dry fly casts between each cast at each buoy in the delicacy and accuracy event. This is in our opinion a very good rule. It certainly requires skill and command of both rod and line. In actual fishing when we see the flies are not going to alight exactly where we wish them to, we quickly recover the line so as not to disturb the water. It will have a tendency to raise the score a trifle in that event, but it is only justice that it should as it will, in a great measure, eliminate the element of luck that causes one man's fly to be blown a couple of yards from the buoy by a gust of wind and the next man's to fall in a dead calm.

The success of a club like the fly casting club depends very largely on the casters that cast below the average, the new beginners. These men must be encouraged and we believe as we have stated before that the best and easiest way to encourage the majority of the club to enter the contests is to classify the members in events No. 1 and 2. The only objection that can be raised is the cost of extra medals, to this we reply that the club is essentially a fly casting club and fly casting must always remain its principle object. In our opinion the money in the treasury could not be used to better advantage.

The majority of the club would much rather win a second or even a third class medal than cast the whole season, knowing full well that their chance of winning the championship medal is not one in a thousand.

Another improvement that we again call to the attention of the club is the urgent need of a practice casting platform, that the majority of the club who only deserve to cast in No. 3 event; may not be obliged to sit around the entire afternoon watching the contestants in events 1 and 2 when they might be improving their time practicing on another platform.

Harry Baum, Jules Berges and J. Philippon, members of the Shellville Rod and Gun Club, had considerable sport last Sunday at Embarcadero, Sonoma County. Baum hooked a 13 pound steelhead, Berges caught a 10-pounder and Philippon landed 3 eight and 1 eleven pound fish. The fish were in excellent condition and very gamy. Charles Ohm of Embarcadero, the well-known angler, hooked a 14 pound steelhead on spoon, which proved the gamiest fish ever caught at Embarcadero, Mr. Ohm played it carefully for two hours and a half before he succeeded in landing us. A number of people collected around him, admiring the skillful manner he displayed in handling the fish. It is reported that Italian fishermen are fishing with seines at the mouth of Sonoma creek, preventing hundreds of steelheads from going up the creek. The Fish Commissioners ought to investigate the matter.

Clahrough, Golcher & Co. are offering some improved tackle and fine rods that every angler should examine before laying in his spring stock of angling goods. Among the new goods are some exceedingly well balanced Hardy greenheart trout rods and steel core split bamboo grills and salmon rods of extra fine quality; English casting lines with extra long gradual taper for long distance casting; Organzine Sericum braided silk salmon line tested to 23, 28 and 33 pound pull; two-yard tapered dark mist-colored leaders, perfectly round and of snapper quality; fine black Kosmic leaders and a new style of fly hook, called the Emeric fly hook, composed of parchment pockets. All of their English flies are tied on 4½ inch snells this year.

The anglers and sportsmen who visit Point Reyes all speak in the highest terms of Mr. Rochford, the new proprietor of the Point Reyes Hotel. Mr. Rochford is nuturing in his efforts to accommodate his patrons. Driving them to the fishing and hunting grounds without cost, bringing them their lunch on the stream and in many ways doing his best to please all. The table is all that could be desired and the terms very reasonable.

M. J. Geary distanced all competitors last Sunday at Duncan's Mills. He caught three fine steelheads from right under the boats of the other anglers, but such old veterans as John Butler, Cross Wilson, Gallagher, Bristow, Myers and Cracknell never got a strike. John Butler says that Geary stole his tackle from him. The usual barbecue was made from Geary's first fish.

Charles Precht caught a 11½ pounds steelhead at Point Reyes last Sunday on a spoon (presumably a Precht spoon).

A twenty-two pound steelhead was hooked and landed from the Russian river one day last week by a halfbreed.

Netting at the mouth of Paper Mill and Sonoma creeks continues without any abatement.

One angler hooked nine large fish at Point Reyes last Sunday and lost seven of them.

Chas. Precht caught three fine fish at Point Reyes Sunday and lost one.

Olympic Gun Club.

The Olympic Gun Club's trap-shooting grounds near Ingleside are rapidly nearing completion and will be ready for practice shooting on February 7th.

The live bird traps will be the first to be used in America with electric equipment. The traps were made here and the pull, the "Tangle shot," is the invention of that well-known sportsman, T. R. Barney.

The club has adopted an emblem consisting of crossed guns, the initials O. G. C., and a dog's head.

CARTRIDGE AND SHELL.

Have you tried Dupont's Summer Shooting No. 3?

Ducks are reported to be very plentiful at Sherman Island.

Dave Thom was at his old snipe grounds at Pleasanton last Sunday.

The Olympic Gun Club's trap shooting grounds are rapidly nearing completion.

Schendel, Wenzel and Cate were at Mowry's on Sunday but did not bag many birds.

When purchasing gun wads always call for U. M. C. wads. They are superior in every way.

The Lincoln Gun Club will hold a practice shoot at the grounds at Alameda point next Sunday.

C. A. Haight and W. J. Golcher were enjoying the quail hunting at Kinghts' Landing the first of the week.

Al Adams and Arthur Lemmon killed eight canvasback and five dozen quail at Point San Pedro last Sunday.

President Ahern denies that the Sportsmen's Protective Association will ever purchase or control a game preserve.

F B Harden bagged 22 canvas back, sprig, widgeon and teal at the Bridges on Sunday last and all but three of them were drakes.

C. Schneider was among the lucky ones last Sunday. His bag at San Pablo consisted of about two dozen sprig, spoon-bill and teal.

There is no better combination than the Remington shotgun, U. M. C. wads and Dupont, Hazard smokeless or Gold Dust powder.

J. S. Fanning, Van Valkenburg, Leighton and Black shot a 100 bird blue rock match at Los Angeles last Sunday. Fanning broke 87 and Van Valkenburg 81.

Cbas. Baltz, Cbas. Baltz Jr., Fritz Krug and J. Baur were hunting in the mountains near Sonoma last Sunday. They bagged fifty rabbits and cottontails and squirrels, larks and robins galore.

The shooting on the Tamalpais preserve in Marin county has been unusually good this season. Twenty-eight hucks fell to the rifles of club members and the limit of twenty-five quail to a man has been made oftener than not.

It is stated that two well-known sportsmen of this city killed over a thousand sprig in a little over a week's hunting on the Feather River near the Butte. Some of the sprig were sent to this city to friends and were in fine condition.

There seems to be a very general demand that the season for shooting ducks shall be extended to March 15th. There is no denying the fact that the best shooting in Central California is in the latter part of February, especially on broad water, and if the game law should be changed as above it would please all.

Dryden's Assembly bill to permit the killing of valley quail at all times and Wayne's bill to protect the meadow lark were both lost, but Cross of Los Angeles has introduced an amendment to the game laws protecting robins all the year. This amendment prevailed and has been ordered engrossed and to its second reading.

The tournament at Bakersfield on the 22-23 was quite a success. The events brought out an average of 23 shooters. Fanning and Skinner referred all of the events at both blue rocks and live birds to the satisfaction of all. Mason won the high average on blue rocks and Shiell the live bird average. Jack Fanning was shooting a killing gait when his Smith gun broke down and threw him out of the running.

INGLESIDE RACES.

FOURTY-THIRD DAY—THURSDAY, JANUARY 28.

In the first, three furlongs, Queen Mab was away first to a poor start, and, going away from her field as if they were tied up, led into the homestretch by three lengths. Free Lady came very fast, but could not catch Queen Mab, who won by a head, Free Lady second, two lengths before Siva. Time, 0:36½. The Ezell pair (Queen Mab and Siva) went at 8 to 5, Free Lady 7 to 1, Sir William 5, Daisy 20 (hacked from 50), others 30 and 40 to 1.

In the second, after Palmerston had broken through the machine, they were off to a fair start, all hut Palmerston. Schnitz went to the front, leading by three lengths past the quarter, Braw Scot and Jack Martin lapped. This was the order past the half. Jack Martin then ran up second, close to Schnitz, who, however, won by one and a half lengths. Jack Martin second, a length before San Marco, who just beat Two Cheers. Time, 1:45½. Schnitz was at 15 to 1, Jack Martin 80, San Marco 4, Braw Scot and Hazard 13 to 5, others 10 to 40 to 1.

A mile and a furlong race had four starters. Argentina went right to the front and led by a small margin past the quarter, Benamela second, a scant length from Bright Phoebus. At the half the four were heads apart, Argentina first. Turning for home Argentina was leading by a neck, Bright Phoebus second, two lengths before Ostler Joe. The pair ran pretty close together until about eighty yards of the finish, when Hennessy let go his wrap on Bright Phoebus, who came fast, but could not quite make it, Argentina winning by a nose, Bright Phoebus second, eight lengths before Ostler Joe. Time, 1:57½. Hennessy lost this race through over-confidence, for Phoebus was much the best horse. Argentina was at 4 to 1, Bright Phoebus even money (backed from 2½ to 1), Ostler Joe 6 and Benamela 2 to 1.

In the fourth, six furlongs, Morvan showed first to a good start, but was immediately passed by Ransom, who led Morven by half a length to the homestretch, Mike Rice two lengths further away. In the homestretch Morven tired and Ransom won handily by three lengths. Mike Rice beating Morven a length for place. Time, 1:17½. Ransom was at 2½ to 1, Mike Rice 7, Morven 2½, Zoolin and Banjo 7, Allahabad 10 to 1.

In the fifth, six furlongs, selling, Sport McAllister led until nearing the half, where Kowalsky came up and took command, leading Sport by a small margin into the homestretch and winning handily by three lengths, Caliente coming strong the last part and beating Sport McAllister half a length for place. Time, 1:16½. Kowalsky was at 6 to 1, (7 for some time), Caliente 7 to 5, Sport McAllister 3, Sugar foot 5, Pat Murphy 8 and Boreas 60 to 1.

In the last race, seven furlongs, for three-year-olds, Suision led all the way and won easily by one and a half lengths from Imp. Sain, who beat Installatrix three lengths. Time, 1:34½. Amalia S. showed some speed. Suision was at 1 to 4 (opened at 2 to 5), Imp. Sain 10 to 1, Installatrix 30, others 20 to 50 to 1.

Foals of 1897.

The first trotting foals of 1897 dropped at Palo Alto are as follows:

January 7, ch f by Wildidle 13,472—Aldeana, 2:25, by Electioneer 125. January 8, h f by Dexter Prince 11,363—Idlemay, 2:27½, by Electioneer 125.

C. H. DOBBLE, Clerk.

"VET" TRYON, Steve Crandall and "Rio Vista George" are all handling trotters at Rancho del Paso. This farm will make a number of entries in the races on the California circuit this season. For years the light harness horse division of this great farm was neglected, but the presence of the marvellous trotters and pacers by that grandly-bred stallion, Knight 2:22, has set everyone talking trotting horse there. We look for Knight to have one of the best sires ever brought to California. Mr. Mackey, with his usual good judgment, selected him and that other fine Wilkes stallion, Bay Bird, to breed the mares by Albert W. 2:20 and Algona to, and he will have horses he can sell well when they are old enough to work.

F. W. LOEBER, of St. Helena, is getting a string of horses ready for this year's circuit.

HOOF BEATS.

AB STEMLER has made several entries in the St. Louis Derby of 1895.

PAT DUNNE has been schooling his International Derby-winner, Damien, to jump, in order to improve his temper.

BEAUCHAMP, who had his first mount at the old Bay District track, rides an occasional winner at New Orleans.

JUDGE JOSEPH A. MURPHY has been instructed by C. C. Moffit of St. Louis to sign Jockey Reidy for the coming season.

THE four Quinn brothers left last night for their home in Lexington on account of the dangerous illness of their mother, who resides in that city.

OLD HY DY is to spend the rest of his days at the Encs ranch, in Monterey county. He has been broken to buggy and is reported to be quite a fair trotter.

HARRY ("MOOSE") TAYLOR is to ride East next summer for Jim McLaughlin. Taylor weighs 116 pounds at present, but expects to ride in the East at 107 pounds.

LOUIS EZELL bought The Cheat at Eugene Leigh's sale in St. Louis this summer. He paid just $50 for the son of Deceiver. The youngster is certainly well named.

THERE are two new arrivals at the Burns & Waterhouse ranch, near Sacramento. One is a Take Notice filly, dam Gratitude, and the second is also by Take Notice, dam imp Berna.

PALO BLANCO is the name of a chestnut filly that will be raced here this spring. She is by Emperor of Norfolk, dam Aloha, and is a half sister to the celebrated Key El Santa Anita.

EDDIE JONES' contract with Burns & Waterhouse expires on April 2d. Although the clever lightweight has received several tempting offers, he will doubtless remain with his present employers.

BURNS & WATERHOUSE expect to have second call on Jockey Charley Thorpe when they race in the East. As is generally known, Thorpe is under contract to W. J. Arkell, the owner of Judge.

GEORGE ROSE Wednesday received a telegram from Sacramento announcing the death of his two-year-old colt by Rio Bravo, dam My Badga. This was the highest-priced youngster at the recent Kerr sale.

LOU C. WHITE is schooling Rajah, half-brother to the crack timber-topper, Burmah. If he proves anywhere near as good as the latter he will heat most of the "leppers" now before the Pacific Coast public.

CHARLEY BOOTS had Don Cesar destroyed the other day. The horse broke down in Montana last summer and got to be a hopeless cripple. Fireman, in the same stable, has turned roarer, we understand, and may have to be destroyed.

IDA PICKWICK has run her last race. This once great mare finished outside the money in a "skate" race at New Orleans last week. She is to be bred to Imp. Quicklime, Ed Gardner's great English horse that sired the first two-year-old winner of 1897.

MRS. W. L. APPLEBY, wife of the well-known trainer, recently met with almost a fatal accident near San Jose. She was driving a horse named Uncle Sam when she fainted, falling out and breaking an arm, besides sustaining other injuries of a serious nature.

THE beautiful Spreckels cup, to go to the winner of the winner of the stake of that name, is on exhibition in the Palace Hotel grill room, and is one of the handsomest affairs of the kind we have ever seen, a credit indeed to the silversmith and engraver that modeled it. The race wherein this cup is added is named after the popular young President of the Pacific Coast Jockey Club, and is to be decided at no far-distant date.

EUGENE LEIGH will ship three of his Kentucky mares over to be bred to Mr. Ferguson's imp St. George, imp. Caledonia, Arrowgrass (dam of Gunst) and Zantippa. Tully Coulter will send Balance with them. Mr. Leigh is breeding a few mares to Kit Chinn's imp Oddfellow, son of unbeaten Barcolaine and Oaks winner Geheimniss. Aside from these two stallions he is sticking to his own—Bramble, Kingston and Burlington.

ROBERT BONNER says that Sunol, 2:03½, was not in regular training last season, but she stepped a 2:20 clip occasionally in a moderate work out. She may be trained in the spring as Mr. Bonner has decided not to breed her at present. Speaking of Elfride (4), 2:13½, by Candidate, 2:16½, son of Electioneer, dam Gladness, by Nutwood, 2:18½, which Mr. Bonner bought at auction two years ago, for $1,250 he remarked: "She sold at that low figure because she had a hewed tendon. That tendon is now as straight and free from soreness as that of any colt on my place. I would not take $10,000 for her to-day, and let me say that any horse with a hewed tendon can be cured by judicious shoeing. I have timed her some very fast miles and have driven her myself to a wagon a fractional part of a mile better than a two-minute gait under the watch. "Yes, Sunol trotted half a mile when only four years old in 1:02½, to a high-wheel sulky, at Detroit. No horse of that age ever equalled that performance as far as I know. Nor has her three-year-old record of 2:10½ to a high-wheel sulky on a regulation track ever been equalled by a horse of that age. It is true Fantasy trotted in 2:03½ in her three-year-old form, but to a bicycle sulky. No honest man, if sane, would think of comparing that with Sunol's performance to a high-wheel sulky. I may add that both Sunol and Mand S. were lame when I bought them and that after they were shod under my instructions they made the greatest performances that have ever been made to a high-wheel sulky—one on the regulation and the other on the kite track."

DENVER, Colo., May 10, 1895.

I have used DeHuy's Balm-oline on several of my horses. It is the best I ever used.

WALDSTEIN's first, second and third dams are all producers. He is one of the best producing sons of Director, and in conformation a grand individual; took first premium at State Fair over such great horses as Knight, 2:22, and Zombro, three year-old record 2:13 1/4. He holds the five-mile race record of the world, 13:05 1-2, and never sired a colt that was not speedy. WALDSTEIN is sire of Lady Waldstein, 2:15; Humboldt Maid, 2:17; Jack W., 2:19 1/2; Native Son, 2:29 1/2; Swiftbird, 2:29 1/2 (both three years old). The dams of all these have no records nor did they ever produce any in the 2:30 list. Come and see WALDSTEIN's colts go before hooking your mares elsewhere.

TERMS, $50 FOR THE SEASON

DO YOU WANT TO BUY OR SELL?

I am prepared to deal in horses. I have sold all those I advertised in the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN, but have a new lot of good ones which I will show under the watch. I have teams that can go in 2:30; roadsters that can show a 2:25 clip. I am prepared to handle and prepare horses for the track. Call and see me, and you will be convinced that I can do all I say. By the way, I have orders for horses with records. Who has any to sell? Write me at once,

SACRAMENTO,

AT THE LOW FEE OF

$75

For the Season with Usual Return Privileges.

Payable on Removal of Mares.

With a limited chance in the stud, True Briton has already shown himself to be a great sire. Rey del Bandolero, from a non-producing mare that had already had five foals, holds the Pacific Coast record, 3:37 1/4 at 2 1/2 miles; Her Majesty (dead), won 11 out of 14 starts; Walter J., (also out of a non-producer), a horse with a great turn of speed, has finished outside the money but a very few times out of nearly one hundred starts; Virgie A. and Zeta, both winners, being the only other ones to represent this loyally-bred stallion on the racing turf this year.

From this showing there is but one inference to be drawn, and that is, that True Briton is a sure getter of winners; mares that have never thrown a winner to any other stallion, bred to True Briton, get winners and class horses at that.

Training

The Trotting Horse.

BY CHARLES MARVIN.

This great practical horse book is a handsome, three hundred page octavo, bound in cloth, elegantly printed, superbly illustrated, and explains in every detail the remarkable success of CHARLES MARVIN and the whole plans and methods pursued at Palo Alto as to breaking, training, shoeing, gaiting, driving, keeping, racing and breeding trotters.

Read what J. C. Silby, the owner of St. Bel, says of this book: "In this work Marvin has let out all the mysteries of the craft, and it is so simple and plain that any breeder, owner, trainer or rubber who has any relish for his business can take a colt as a yearling and develop to the highest and fullest extent that colt's capacity as a trotter. The work impressed me so strongly that I have ordered twenty copies, and shall place one in the hands of every rubber on our farm."

THE HORSE WITHOUT A "BUT."

Boodle 5829, Rec. 2:12½

ETHEL DOWNS, 2:13; THOMPSON, 2:15; MERLE M, 2:25

Two prominent horsemen were discussing the relative merits of notable stallions. They agreed that a certain stallion was well bred and a good producer, "but" he had no record. Another had a fast record, was well bred, and a good producer, "but" he was too small. Another had nearly all the necessary qualifications, "but" he had curbs and bad feet. Another possessed many rare qualifications, "but" he was vicious, as well as a "quitter." Finally one asked the other, "What's the matter with Boodle?" They both concluded that no stallion, living or dead, possessed all the qualifications desired in a more marked degree than BOODLE.

QUALIFICATIONS

BREEDING unexcelled. Send for extended tabulated pedigree and history of BOODLE.

COLOR, beautiful seal brown, black points, no white.

SIZE, sixteen hands high, weight 1,150 pounds.

DISPOSITION, gentle as a lamb. A child can handle him.

STYLE. A real handsome horse—"a thing of beauty."

CONDITION. Sound as he was the day he was foaled.

SPEED. Race record 2:12½, in a hard-fought battle, which he won.

GAMENESS. A veritable bull dog. A gamer horse never lived.

PRODUCE. While he has only three in the list, no horse living or dead can make a better showing, considering the number of his progeny that have been trained. He transmits all his perfect qualifications to his progeny. His ancestors are noted for their iron constitutions; many of them, notably Goldsmith Maid, 2:14, were obtaining world's records at a time in life when ordinary horses are thinking of dying of old age.

SEASON, ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS

G. K. HOSTETTER &amp; CO., Owners, San Jose.

ST. NICHOLAS.

TRIAL, 2:27 1-4, AS A THREE-YEAR-OLD.

Sired by the Great SIDNEY, 2:19 3-4, sire of 66 in the list. Dam sired by ECHO, the greatest of broodmares.

ST. NICHOLAS is now eleven years old, just in his prime for the stud; stands 15½ hands; in color a rich dark bay, two hind ankles white; star in forehead; has good limbs and feet; a pure-gaited trotter, and has an excellent disposition. Is pronounced by every one who has seen him as an unusually stylish, well-formed handsome individual. As a three-year-old he went quarters in 30 seconds; then fell into hands that took more pride in owning such a horse rather than in continuing his development.

His colts are of good size, fine lookers, and show extreme speed, but are all owned in private or unprofessional hands.

ST. NICHOLAS is now placed at the head of the breeding department of Sulphur Springs Farm, and will be bred to all the first-class mares. All colts on this farm are trained from weanlings.

This horse, on account of conformation and breeding, cannot help but produce size, style, action and speed.

Will serve only a limited number of mares at $30 FOR THIS SEASON, with usual return privilege; money due on notice of first service.

PASTURAGE $4 PER MONTH.

No liability assumed for accidents or escapes.

For In order to show my confidence in the breeding qualities of ST. NICHOLAS, I make the following proposition to owners of stallions that are in service for the SEASON OF 1897 IN CALIFORNIA. I will be one of not less than five to deposit or guarantee in the sum of $100—entrance money and as much money as the BREEDER ASSOCIATION chooses to add, all to form a purse—to be trotted or paced for by two-year-olds, in a race, one mile, best two in three, at the FALL MEETING of the P. C. T. H. B. A. in 1900. Only one entry, the get of each stallion allowed. Further details as per agreement of the majority of owners.

Address all communications to

A. G. GURNETT, 308 Pine St., San Francisco, Cal., or, SULPHUR SPRING FARM, Walnut Creek, Contra Costa County, Cal.

BREED FOR

Disposition, Size, Speed, Soundness and Style

WELCOME, 2:10 1-2.

This game and consistent stallion will make the SEASON OF 1897, ending July 1st, at W. E. MEEK'S STABLE, near the Haywards Station, at $50 THE SEASON. With usual return privileges.

WELCOME was sired by Arthur Wilkes, 2:28½, out of Letty (dam of Wayland W., 2:12; Welcome (p) 2:10½, trotting 2:27½; Mand Singleton, 2:28½), by Wayland Forrest (son of Edwin Forrest 49 and a mare by Sir Charles, thoroughbred); second dam Mary (dam of Apex, 2:26; Sterling, sire of four and one sire of one.) Grace, dam of Creole, 2:13; Eagle, 2:19½, by Flaxtail 8132; third dam by Bright Eyes, son of Bonaverge. Arthur Wilkes, 2:28½, sire of Welcome, was sired by the mighty Guy Wilkes, 2:13½, out of Gracie, by Arthurlton 363; second dam Old Lady, by David Hill Jr.

WELCOME comes from speed producing lines on both sides and his reputation as the "gamest race horse ever Andy McDowell banded" shows that he is far superior to many that have extreme speed, but are lacking in courage. WELCOME is a bay horse, stands 16 hands, and is one of the best-formed horses in California. He earned a trotting record of 2:27½, when a four-year-old, and was put to pacing last year. He started in Montana without a record and won money in every race he started. He won some of the most stubbornly-contested races seen in 1896.

Good pasturage for mares at reasonable rates. For other particulars, address,

W. E. MEEK, Haywards, Cal.

VIVA LA

Brown Colt, foaled in 1892, Bred by Jos. Cairn Simpson.

BY WHIPS, SIRE OF AZOTE, 2:04 3-4, COBWEBS, 2:12, AND SEVERAL OTHERS IN THE LIST.

FIRST DAM—JOE VIVA, by Joe Hooker.

SECOND DAM—LADY VIVA, by Three Cheers (dam of Electioneer Rex, showed when a two-year-old quarters in 36 seconds.)

THIRD DAM—LADY AMANDA, by imp. Hurrah (the dam of Electioneer Jr., formerly Advance, three-year-old record 2:22½).

FOURTH DAM—LADY LANCASTER, by imp. Monarch. The dam of Malcolm, Regent, Ontario and several other winners. Marion, the dam of Emperor of Norfolk, El Rio Rev, Yo Tambien, and several other high-class race horses, is by Malcolm, and the breeding of Viva La—Electioneer, combined with strains of thoroughbred which have shown adaptability to acquire trotting action, is now greatly fancied by intelligent breeders.

VIVA LA is sixteen hands high, a rich seal brown in color and more than usually handsome, combining muscular power and quality in an eminent degree. He was trained a little in his yearling form and showed a 2:40 gait and was improving rapidly when his training was suspended. He can scarcely fail on the right sort of mares to get fast trotters, and with nearly a certainty of securing good-sized, fine-looking horses which even in these times are in demand.

LIMITED TO TWENTY-FIVE MARES.

ALTAMONT is the champion sire of 2:10 performers, being the only horse living or dead with six to his credit. He has taken a leading position among the foremost trotting sires of the country under such conditions that phenomenal ability alone has secured him from oblivion. A very small proportion of his progeny has been trained, and an extremely small number of these by competent men. As a partial illustration of his meagre advantages, it may be stated that he has never produced a colt from a pacing-bred mare, or from one with a fast record. Nor has he ever yet been crossed with a descendant of George Wilkes, Electioneer, Dictator, Sidney or Dexter Prince. Oregon and Washington have produced seven 2:10 performers, and EVERY ONE of these are ALTAMONTs.

ALTAMONT is a horse of iron constitution, and at twenty-two years of age is in the full vigor of his prime, a sure foal-getter, and, except for his blindness—the result of an accident—is without blemish. He has never sired a sorrel, all of his colts having been solid colors—bays, browns or blacks. He is now located in Alameda, at Herbert's Stables, on Sherman street, between Santa Clara and Central avenues. Alameda local S. P. and Narrow Gauge trains from San Francisco, stop within two blocks of stable, and Oakland and Alameda electric cars, half a block away. Residence two doors from stable.

INGLESIDE.

Racing in the Mud—Innumerable Upsets—How the Races Were Run.

Forty-fourth day—Friday, January 29.

Six well-filled races were run off over a deep track at Ingleside this afternoon, and a crowd of at least 2,000 saw the contests, which were interesting from first to last. Marionette ran away about four and a half furlongs before the initial race, but it must have been a good warm-up, for she won anyhow by a length from Imp. Friar, made a favorite after the runaway. Rejected was a good third. The rejuvenated cripple Whitestone, won the second gamely by half a length, but he was all out to beat Pecksniff. Collins, ridden by "Toddy" Sloan, who hates very much to get any mud on his trousers, led from barrier rise to wire, except for moment, and won galloping by one and a half lengths from 12 to 1 shot Charles A. By the way, Tod rode three winners, Thorpe two and T. McHugh the remaining race. Personne beat Basquill a head in the fourth, Lou Lou R. being left at the post, Palmerston as good as left. Gayser caught The Sinner near the three-quarter pole in the fifth event and won in a canter by four lengths, George Palmer coming from nowhere and beating the quitting Hunn colt, The Sinner, by eight lengths. Greyhurst beat Caspar not quite a length in the last, but had not Zamar chased the latter so hard (hadn't been in the race at all) it's doubtful if Greyhurst would have won. Undoubtedly there is a difference between mud.

The first race was at five furlongs. Marionette ran away before the start, going at nearly top speed for about four and a half furlongs. Finally an excellent start was effected, and Marionette went right to the front, leading by two lengths at the half and two at the head of the homestretch, Friar second, a length from Rejected. Marionette continued on in front, and though quite tired, managed to win by a length from Imp. Friar, who beat Rejected as far. Cloverdale was fourth, another half length away. Time, 1:06. Marionette was at 3 to 1, Friar 2½, Rejected 8, Cloverdale and Rosie P. 7 (latter backed from 15), others 15 to 20 to 1.

In the second, also at five furlongs, it was Detective first by a length at the half, and three lengths to the good at the three-quarter pole, Pecksniff second at both points and Isabelle third at the latter, lapped by Brametta. Whitestone sixth at the head of the homestretch, came to the fore half-way down the straight, and won, all out, by half a length, Pecksniff second, two lengths before Brametta, who beat Benham as far. Time, 1:06½. Whitestone was at 6 to 1, Pecksniff 8, Brametta 6, Baron 2½, Benham and Isabelle 7, others at from 12 to 100 to 1.

A mile and an eighth race brought seven to the post. Fortuna was in front for a little over a furlong, then Collins assumed a slight lead, Fortuna close up at the quarter and half, just clear of Charles A., who was running easy. The latter moved up second at the head of the homestretch, Fortuna dropping back. Collins won with Tod Sloan away out on his neck by one and a half lengths, Charles A. second, six lengths before Fortuna, who in turn was half a length from Marcal, who loomed up dangerous-looking half-way down the homestretch. Time, 2:00. Collins was at even money, Charles A. 10 to 1, Fortuna 11 to 5, Japonica 9 to 1, Marcel 20, Tom Elmore 50 and Joe K. 100 to 1.

In the seven-furlong race, fourth on the programme, Lou Lou R. was left standing at the post and Palmerston might as well have been. Basquill led Personne half a length past the quarter and a head at the half, Draught half a length further away. Basquill led Personne a head into the homestretch, Draught three lengths away. The leaders ran head and head up to the last couple of jumps, when McHugh shot Personne, in winning by a head, Basquill second, five lengths before Draught, who beat Frank Janbert four lengths. Time, 1:34½. Personne was at 6 to 1, Basquill 6, Draught 12 (15 once), Lou Lou R. 7 to 5, Jauher 3½, Palmerston 40, others 200.

The fifth was also at seven furlongs. The Sinner went out at a heart-breaking pace. Minnie Cee stumbled to her knees. The Sinner was eight lengths in front of Gayser at the quarter-pole, Minnie Cee third, four lengths behind the favorite. The pace maker's lead had been cut to four lengths at the half, and at the head of the homestretch Gayser had drawn up even George Palmer third, twenty lengths away. From this out it was a gallop only for Gayser, who won by four lengths, George Palmer beating the quitting Sinner eight lengths for the place, Minnie Cee ten lengths further away. Time, 1:33. Gayser was at 2 to 5, George Palmer 25, The Sinner 3, Minnie Cee 40, Mabogany 300 to 1.

In the last probably the best field of three-year-olds came together that ever faced a starter in California. It was at six and a half furlongs. Caspar went right out in front and was closely chased by Zamar. Grayhurst moved up very fast soon after passing the half, and Zamar began dropping back slowly. Caspar entered the homestretch with a head in front of Grayhurst, and a warm drive ensued. A furlong from home Greyhurst showed a neck in front, and coming on strong, won by three-parts of a length, quite handsily at the finish, Caspar second, fifteen lengths before Good Times. Time, 2:23½. Had Zamar not been in the race Caspar might have won. Greyhurst was at 3½ to 1 (5 at one time), Caspar even money, Good Times 25 to 1, Zamar 4, Sly 15, and Lovelock 300 to 1.

Forty-fifth day—Saturday, January 30.

In the first, six furlongs, they were at the post for about ten minutes, and finally the chief bad actor, Roy Carruthers, broke in front, attended closely by Banjo. Carruthers was first by a length at the half, Banjo second, three lengths from Mike Rice. It was the same at the three-quarters, where Clissie B. was fourth. Roy Carruthers appeared to be winning until a sixteenth from home, where Clissie B. was coming like a shot on the outside. She got up and won cleverly by a length, Roy Carruthers second, four lengths from Banjo. Brametta was a poor fourth. Time, 1:18½. Clissie B. was at 15 to 1, Roy Carruthers 8, Banjo 15, Lady Loomam 2½, Jim Blackburn 4, Mike Rice 6, Brametta 7, others 10 to 75 to 1.

Gallant now moved to the fore, leading by one and a half lengths at the quarter-pole, Sweet Faverdale second, as far from St. Lee. At the half Gallant, going easy, was two lengths to the good, Sweet Faverdale a good length from Argentina, heading a hunch. Gallant had increased his lead a shade as the three-quarter mark was reached, and Schriber's horse had run up to Sweet Faverdale. Schiller was in front a furlong from home, and it was all over but the shouts of victory, for he won with ease by three lengths, Sweet Faverdale second, four from St. Lee, Argentina and Gallant, heads apart. Time, 1:58½. Schiller was at 4½ to 1 (5 for some time), Sweet Faverdale 3, St. Lee 2, others 5½ to 1.

When they hove into view in the homestretch David was leading by about four lengths, Schiller second, half a dozen lengths before Wawona. Time, 1:30. Schiller was at 7½ to 1, David 13 to 5, Wawona 8 to 1, Geyser even money (backed from 7 to 5), Lobengula 12 to 1.

In the mile and an eighth jump Reddington led by from two to ten lengths to the half-mile ground, Herman second, four or five lengths before Tuxedo. Jack o' Lantern's lead at the final turn was but a head, and Harold Lindsay was second. Mohalasca was at 11 to 5 (2½ to 1 once), Boreas 60 to 1, Judge Denny 7 to 5, Hazard 6, others 10 to 60.

OUR NEW YORK LETTER.

Newsy Items Gathered by Our Correspondent on Topics That Appeal to All.

NEW YORK, January 30, 1897.

The entries of Brooklyn Handicap for $10,000 has closed with thirty entries of the best available animals. Some portions of the West are still to be heard from. Only three-year-olds are engaged.

Mr. Belmont has shown good sense in abandoning the turf nom-de-plume "Eleton," hereafter his horses will start under his own name. His horses have reached England in good shape and Bridgroom is in excellent condition.

Mike Dwyer and Byron McClelland have decided to race in the West during the coming season.

During 1896, 274 trotters entered the 2:20 list and over 400 pacers gained records of 2:20 or better. The most notable trotter was probably Page, who left this county with no record, and closed the circuit with a record of 2:09¾. Pilot Medium ranks as the leading trotting sire, seven of his get beating 2:20. Twenty-two sires showed three or more to beat 2:20, of the twenty-two all but two are descendants from Hambletonian in direct male line; of the eleven sires contributing four or more performers, no less than seven are sons or grandsons of George Wilkes.

A bill has been introduced in the Legislature at Albany granting $500,000 for improving the highways of the State. The new Horse Exchange will have a tan bark enclosure 100 feet by 85, roofed with glass, also galleries on three sides for twelve hundred spectators and a tea room for ladies. All the attendants will wear livery.

At the sale at Madison Square Garden this week horses brought high prices, several were purchased by Europeans. Robert Bonner paid $1,225 for the gelding Don L., 3:12½, by Colonel Tom, A. H. Gilmore, of Georgia, gave $2,300 for the bay mare Nelly McCrory, 2:11½, by Legal Tender Jr., and Germaine, 2:15½, by Mambrino King was purchased by Mr. Pollock for $1,575, and goes to Vienna, Austria.

Dexter B. Goff, who has recently purchased a string for shipment for Austria, has been offered $6,000 for Robbie P., 2:10¾, which is one of the string.

The improvements at Elkwood Park, Long Branch, where the coming great shooting tournament is to take place in March, are about completed. There will be nothing equal to it in the world. Much as I had heard and read I found it far beyond my expectations. The club house will cost about $15,000. The pavilion can be enclosed in glass during unpleasant weather, from which the three ranges can be seen. Trenches sixty-five feet long, ten feet wide and seven feet deep, extend from the club house to the traps. The trapper places the birds from this cavity so that not a single object is seen on the grounds during the shooting. Speaking tubes and electrical appliances run from this point to the puller. The ranges are laid out in the shape of a clover leaf, in which are three distinct ranges with five sets of traps each. The opening on Thursday was a pronounced success. The W. D. Patton Trophy goes to Philadelphia. R. A. Welsh made a clean score, Leonard Finletter of the same city being second.

Capt. Bogardus has challenged any person in the world to shoot for $500 a side at 1,000 glass balls, with three different guns, ten, twelve and twenty gauge, and load his own gun.

The Westminster Kennel Club offers at its show, commencing February 22, a challenge trophy, value $250, for the best exhibit of five couples of foxhounds, the property of any recognized Hunt Club in the United States or Canada. They must be shown by the huntsman or whip in livery.

Edward Hanlan will make another attempt to beat Barry on the Tyne course in June. Stakes $1,000 a side, and $200 expenses.

The American Yacht Club has now 203 members. Chas. A. Gould was elected Commodore Thursday evening last.

The engagement of Howard Gould to Katherine Clemmons of your city is somewhat of a surprise here, and now that Mrs. Atkinson, a lawn tennis champion, has gone on the stage, she will probably raise a racket.

Otero made her debut Tuesday evening at Koster & Bial's, or rather her diamonds did. After her Spanish dance the loose diamonds were swept up by a "super."

Several traveling companies are returning to the city by rail (on foot).

The houses at the various theatres during the past week have been fair. Continuous performances seem to be most popular, possibly because they are few compared to the regular theatres.

At Madison Square Garden trotters continued to bring top prices. "Gil" Curry was a strong bidder for Spitz & Co., Vienna, and secured most of the good ones. He paid $1,500 for Sylvia C. (2) 2:29½, by Sphinx; $1,300 for Water Lily 2:16½, same sire. Others secured horses for European markets; ten per cent of the entire sale will cross the Atlantic. Proceeds of sale, $77,225.

Placing the bones of Hambletonian in Central Park recalls the incident that P. T. Barnum once offered $1,000 to the late Alden Goldsmith for the skin of Volunteer when he died. Mr. Goldsmith politely informed the former that for no amount would he permit Volunteer to leave the farm. A few years later he was buried at Walnut Grove, where a stone now marks his resting place.

Negotiations in progress for a new lease of Fleetwood, are not favorable. If unsuccessful a new track will be constructed.

A. A. Bonner has purchased from Charles Backman, Stonyford Stock Farm, Alcantara and four of his colts. Two years ago this stallion brought $10,000 at Madison Square Garden.

Margaret Mather's first appearance at Wallack's in "Cymbeline" Monday evening, was prevented by the arrest of E. J. Henley. Charge, grand larceny, by Mrs. Hoffman Martin, widow of John Martin of California, who had employed Henley to support her in "Adele," and had advanced him $50. McKee Rankin played a new part Wednesday evening. He assaulted a process server who had entered his flat to "serve" his son-in-law, Sidney Drew.

Mme. Herrmann, who is left poor by her husband, the great magician, gave an exhibition Thursday evening, at the Metropolitan Opera House, and performed the bullet catching feat, a too risky matter for any glory, as it is well-known the lead bullets are exchanged for dust bullets which crumble when rammed by the ram-rod. Suppose one of the number should not get exchanged?

Miss Ethel Douglass has sued Richard Mansfield for $50 a week from April 18th to June 20, 1896.

Mlle. Yvette Guilbert will retire from the concert stage and is about to start with her own company in the legitimate drama. She will make her first appearance in Camille, whether in French or English language, she has not yet decided.

The management of the Garden Theater has suspended the "free list" to the profession. The very audible and unfavorable criticisms made by some actors with passes, led to this determination.

Benhamo, once the great attraction at the Parisian Hippodrome, now defunct, is a pauper at Paris. His part of turning a double somersault over the backs of a row of horses brought him a large fortune, which has now entirely disappeared and he attempted drowning in the Seine.

At the Broadway Athletic Club on Friday evening, Dixon very easily finished "Austrian Billy" Murphy in six rounds. After the third round Murphy was not "in it," a terrific stomach punch and a left upper cut did the business.

John L. Sullivan will travel the coming season in a minstrel exhibition as interlocutor. John seems to make his best hits in the various barrooms.

At the Union Park A. C., Jack Everhard, of New Orleans met his match in "Matty" Matthews of Buffalo. A fifteen-round bout was declared a draw, much to the surprise of the friends of Jack.

At the shoot at the Boiling Springs Gun Club, N. J., on the 23d, Annie Oakley, who is a member of the club, made a very poor show, claiming it to be due to handling a new gun.

Tandem riding is becoming very popular, and very many ladies are learning this difficult feat of holding two sets of reins in one hand and a long whip in the other. It has become an attractive feature at the riding schools. Mr. Oswald Rothmaler recently of California is seen very frequently in the riding ring.

Fred Day, who rode Chaos to victory in the Futurity of 1889, is an object of charity at Philadelphia, begging alms on the streets—too much whisky.

Plans have been filed for the new building, Broadway and New street, by Mr. Crocker of your city. The building will be twenty stories. Mr. Crocker paid $1,700,000 for the site on January 2d.

SPECIAL DEPARTMENT

EDITED AND CONDUCTED SOLELY BY

JOSEPH CAIRN SIMPSON.

NEVADA LAW.—However general the condemnation of the legislature which passed the bill and the governor who signed it, the statute licensing prize-fighting in the State of Nevada, is in accordance with the usages of that State, and in my opinion the better method of handling that business than absolute prohibition. In the first place licensing means proper restriction and correct government; prohibition, avoidance of law and illicit pursuit of that which is forbidden.

Licensing gaming houses in Nevada with proper guards against violating the provisions has proved to be better than when it is strictly forbidden, and those who are determined to gamble at all hazards forced to gratify the passion in secret. There is this difference: Gambling cannot be suppressed however severe the edicts to punish transgression. It is a universal passion, or rather an instinct, and could the passion or instinct be eradicated completely there would be an end to progress.

The propensity to speculate is the line of demarcation between the human race and the animal tribe. In fact the only inheritance that is clearly marked, the one feature which is distinct, the single attribute of the higher animal which the lower does not possess. Reason, speech, reflection, in a greater or lesser degree, all the senses shared by the "beasts of the field," even the "birds of the air" are endowed with qualities which are closely akin to human traits.

Prize-fighting—I like that name better than glove contests—can be suppressed by law, though the enforcement may entail an outlay of ten or a hundred times more money than the benefits obtained will repay. At the worst a display of gladiatorial skill and endurance, an exhibition of brute force and agility, combined with certain mental powers, nerve, coolness, determination; the nerve of a gamecock, the coolness of a philosopher, the determination of a bulldog, the fighting propensity of a Warree.

Quite an attractive spectacle to those who are fond of such displays, and, judging from the assemblages which gathered to see the big guns of the ring come together in San Francisco, fanciers of pugilistic display are found in nearly all classes of people.

Nevada says: We are willing to award you the privilege of having the show on the payment of one thousand dollars and with the further condition that laws shall be observed, the only contention permitted being between those who act as principals on the stage. The "high license" will confine that class of exhibitions to those which are held to be genuine contests between men who have acquired good standing in the profession, an inferior talent would not attract sufficient attendance to reimburse the promoters. The distance from the large centers of population will also ensure the absence of the rabble, as the long journey by rail will be at a cost that the "rag, tag and bobtail" cannot raise.

Therefore, the crowd which will assemble will be fairly respectable, as much so, perhaps, as a political convention would bring, and then, too, a crowd which will spend money freely, a desirable sequence in these times when even a little ready cash is difficult to obtain.

Should the meeting between the champions prove as successful as the indications warrant it is safe to predict that all the future events of like character will be decided on Nevada soil. No more consoling over three states and adjoining countries with sheriffs and military in close pursuit, and if the managers manage to have no more reprehensible features than two men punching each other, whose business is to give and take hard blows, people may come to the conclusion that prize-fighting is not so terrible an affair.

THE EARLIEST RACE RECORD.—Elsewhere there is an allusion to the race described many thousands of years ago and that reported by the grandest poet of all time according to the judgment of the learned of all countries. The turf scribes of to-day can rightly claim that their occupation has been followed by the most sublime of all the great epic poets, and that he did good work in that line will he readily concede by those who read the Iliad. Well portrayed from the proposal of Achilles to give rich prizes for which his horses should not compete, the acceptance by five renowned warriors, and also famed as charioteers, the instructions of Nestor to his son Antilochus covering all the points, and illustrating how he could win over faster steeds, the graphic description of the race, the protest from Menelaus, the manly avowal of Antilochus that he drove foul and surrender of the prize.

"Antilochus though young in years thou art,
Yet Jove and Neptune love thee, and have well
Instructed thee in horsemanship; of me
Thou need'st no counsel, skilled around the goal
To whirl the chariot; but thou hast, of all,
The slowest horses: when'er I augur ill,
But though these horses have the speed of thine,
In skill not one of them surpasses thee."

Nestor amplifies on the advantages of superior skill, points out the course and the opportunities it affords for the exercise of skill, cautions too, as follows:

"There drive, as only not to graze the post;
And leaving o'er the wicker body, leave
Close on the left the stones; thine outside horse
Then urge with voice and whip, and slack his rein,
—And let the nearside horse so closely graze,
As that thy nave may seem to touch the goal;
But yet beware, lest, striking on the stone,
Thy steeds thou injure, and thy chariot break."

The drawing for places at the start:

"Achilles shook the helmet; first leaped forth
The lot of Nestor's son, Antilochus."

From start to finish a minute description of the race, including an accident, the breaking of the chariot yoke, the fall of the pole on the ground, the swerving of the team the plight of the driver,

"Beside the wheel was from the chariot hurled. From elbows, mouth and nose, the skin was torn; his forehead crushed and hattered in."

The description of the foul is superb, as all drivers, especially those whose experience antedates the N. T. A. will acknowledge.

"Antilochus the narrow place espied.

It was gully, where the wheels were hid.
Had lain collected, and had broken through
A length of road, and hollowed out the ground;
There Menelaus held his cautious course,
Fearing collision; but Antilochus,
Drawing his steeds a little from the track,
Bore down upon him sideways then in fear
The son of Atreus to Antilochus
Shouted aloud, Antilochus thou driv'st
Like one insane; hold in awhile thy steeds;
Here is no space, where wider grows the road.
There thou mayst pass; but here thou wilt not canse
Our cars to clash, and bring us both to harm.
He said; but madlier drove Antilochus,
Plying the goad, as though he heard him not."

Many counterparts of this scene on the trotting tracks of the olden time, and not a few in late years, varied, however, by there being two like Antilochus where spokes would fly and not unlikely whips find other marks than the backs of the horses.

The protest of Menelaus is also capital. The reply of Antilochus still better, and the recital of Nestor best of all.

Many years ago I sought to prove from internal evidence that the great race was not only in "double harness" but with trotting horses, to contend, and there are some reasons to sanction the argument. Whatever the gait, however, this earliest of all race descriptions must be awarded the first place in horse literature.

THE WEIGHT PROBLEM.—With all the data that can possibly be obtained the problem of weight on race horses and its effects is a difficult question. "Squaring the circle," nothing like so troublesome, as that has been demonstrated within so small a margin as to be practically exact. "Perpetual motion" nearer a parallel through the "philosophers stone" has a closer analogy inasmuch as the racing student and the old-time alchemist had the same end in view, in the case the transmutation of the baser metals into gold, the other knowledge, obtained through intense application, into coin or other money of the realm. Still there is compensation, a great relief that races cannot be foretold with any more accuracy than the turf prophets of the day promulgate. Once that the bulk of race-goers—that is the speculating division, and that is as nearly the whole as can be figured, had implicit confidence in one of those endowed with second-sight, bookmakers would be forced into bankruptcy in a short time, and race courses closed.

But again there is a counter-balance. Seldom that the prophets agree and as each has a following and only one horse can win, and maybe, three or more slated, the bookmakers are goaded.

The "glorious uncertainty" has been the charm of racing from the days when the chariots collided outside of the walls of Troy, and as the rules against "crossing and jostling" were not so strict in the days when Homer sang, luck was not upset by disqualification, through Antilochus, a rare sportsman, not a sport, surrendered the prize to Menelaus whom he had fouled.

His study of form and the effects of weight may have one good effect that of looking closely into other affairs and not resting contented with superficial knowledge.

The study of geometry has long been held valuable even to those who never expected to profit directly by the teachings of Euclid. Disciplining the mind, teaching that when a geometrical problem is solved there is absolute proof that the conclusion is correct, and hence the handicapper can acquire knowledge whether wrong or right. If the result is in accordance with his prophecy the figures were solid. If wrong, he must overhaul his calculations and turn one defeat into a lot of victories. He may have predicted that when A beat C, each of them carrying 110 pounds, the same result would follow when 120 pounds was the impost, but he learns that the added ten pounds makes little difference with C, whereas A is so burdened as not to be within lengths of past form.

Then distance to be run is a potent factor so well-known that the veriest turf neophyte will scorn the idea that it has not been considered.

One thing sure. Those who figure take more interest in the races, and when they figure right have more intense enjoyment that the people who have not yet reached that stage of racing felicity. The entered apprentice may be ever so much interested in what is yet to be disclosed, but that will be increased as he passes the other steps.

The student of racing form becomes more ardent in the pursuit as he progresses, and even when "dead broke" enjoys the pastime.

WEIGHTS ON RACEHORSES.—"What effect will seven pounds less weight than the schedule have on an average racehorse, in a mile?" was the question a "handicapper" propounded the other day.

I gave him the answer that Mr. Weatherby returned to a like query from Mr. Cameron so long ago as 1868, viz: "about a length," and the questioner held it that was far, very far, from being correct. The old notion that seven pounds were equivalent to a distance, and the fable that the stable key turned the scale adverse to the boy who carried it have given entirely false impressions regarding the effect of a few pounds added or subtracted from rule requirements.

Mr. Weatherby was recognized to be one of the most able handicappers in England, and hence his opinion was that of an expert. Certainly more in accordance with my views then and still held, than the other side of the argument. The English practice of trials with horses of known public capacity in contrast with our plan of making the watch the competitor, has given a clearer insight into the effects of weight, and the record of Teddington's trial in his two-year-old form sustains Mr. Weatherby's estimate.

Not satisfied with trials with stable companions, Sir Joseph obtained Ione, then four years old, of General Peel. She had beaten General Peel's two-year-olds, giving them ten pounds. At seven pounds Teddington beat her a length in three quarters of a mile, a repetition at even weights he had just a head the best of it.

West Australian gave eighty-four pounds to Hobby Horse and beat him in a "rough gallop" according to the books, and it seems as though the recipient was rightly named, unable to gallop faster than his wooden namesake, and yet he was considered good enough to carry one of the crack jockeys of the day, Frank Butler, in some of his races.

Actual races the trials in England with the best talent in the saddle, and the most scrupulous care, to have all the conditions similar to those which would govern in the race. "Old Fort" one of the trainer jockey celebrities of the time gave as his opinion: "If you try a two-year-old a reker for a quarter-of-a-mile at even weights with a Derby winner, and the young 'un cannot win, depend upon it he's not worth backing for Epsom."

Had the aspirant for Derby honors ran the quarter of a mile a half a second faster than the one who had already secured the "blue ribbon of the turf," Fort would have valued that kind of a test very slightly, the one he was accustomed to held to be convincing.

A portion of the history of Wild Dayrell will further elucidate the English methods of training and "getting a line" on a colt. The Newmarket victory (two-year-old) was an easy one, and the horse was fully sixteen, one-and-a-half before they began with him for the Derby. Lord Althorpe was bought to do fast work for him; but he and Zebra were incompetent, as he used to run over them, kicking his heels, at intervals, into the air, so high that it was as much as Robert Sherwood or his lad could do to stick on. He soon stumped up Lord Althorpe, and then sixteen hundred was given at Lincoln for Jack Sheppard. It was thought advisable to keep Jack pretty fresh for the trial, and Gamelad was hired from John Osborne.

The trial day was set ten days before the Derby was to be run, and quite a party of the friends of the owner in attendance. Wild Dayrell carried 8 stone, 10 pounds (122 pounds) and he gave Jack Sheppard, same age, 10 pounds (hy-the-way Jack was by Iago, the sire of Bonnie Scotland, and his dam Daughter of Toscardam of Boot's Hercules) and he was known to be in form by beating Orinoco at Chester.

Gamelad was conceded nearly 28 pounds, though two years older. Neither Zebra or Gamelad made any showing in the trial, but Jack Sheppard and the crack went at such a splitting pace for a mile that Jack fairly stood still.

Until the rider of Jack, Charlton, told that nothing had happened to his colt and that he had "never rode against such a horse before," the trial was thought to be a false one. Buying two horses—one at nearly $8,000, and hiring another to "work" with, and as trial horses, for a three-year-old, shows how much importance English trainers place upon these adjuncts in conditioning and the information obtained from their system of training.

JUBILATE!!! Were it not that the expression might be thought irreverent, I should be inclined to shout Hallelujah! three or four times over, on the receipt of intelligence that an agreement had been made between A. B. Spreckels, President of the P. C. J. C. and Col. D. M. Burns of the C. J. C. which is vitally important to the interests of turf and track. Jubilate! then will be the exclamation joy; unbounded, that one of the dreads has been removed. The agreement is that for the ensuing two years there will be no conflict of dates, no war between the clubs, and that neither will sanction "foreign hooks." More than that, the summer time will not be occupied by either club for running meetings, nothing done which will interfere with harness-racing, and that either course will be open for harness races during the interval that running meetings are not on the cards.

The edict against foreign hooks I hold to be the most important of all; next the assurance that there will be no clash between Ingelside and Emeryville, and scarcely of inferior moment that harness-racing will be given due encouragement by the two prominent racing associations of California. The first two clauses have an intimate bearing on the future of the immense interests connected with all kinds of racing here.

With an absolute ukase that foreign hooks will not be tolerated by the two clubs, the danger of others engaging in the enterprise is greatly lessened. While I would like to see the danger entirely averted by an act of the Legislature making it a penal offense and that with penalties so severe that the evil would effectually be squelched, the next best thing is the agreement mentioned.

I have written so much in relation to a race track war that it is unnecessary to repeat the arguments presented, though I must offer my hearty congratulations to all parties concerned that there is no longer any danger of so dire a catastrophe as a conflict between the clubs would be.

The good-will shown to the harness-horse folk is peculiarly gratifying to me, and will be to the very many people who are interested in the well-being of the truly American sport. For the past third of a century I have labored assiduously to allay whatever ill-feeling there was between the patrons of both classes of racing.

There should be no antagonism, and even those who feel that an undue prominence has been given to the galloper, will be forced to admit that the P. C. J. C. and the C. J. C. are actuated by the kindest feelings, ready and willing to do all in their power to advance harness racing.

The offer of these superbly equipped racetracks to hold trotting meetings upon is a boon which could only have become possible through the support given to running meetings, as "legitimate" racing alone would warrant the outlay expended upon them. In return I only voice the sentiments of a large majority of harness folk when I write; thanks, heartfelt, sincere acknowledgements for the goodwill displayed to trotting interests by the racing people.

We recently received a letter from an enthusiast on racing and breeding, and all sensible men will agree that he is right in what he says. "It is radically wrong to have any two-year-old racing until May. The baby race horses are really 'veal' until they're over a year old, and many of those raced are not twelve months old until May. Two-year-old trotters are not raced until fall, and then at half a mile or half mile heats, as a general thing. Why, then, should thoroughbreds be raced when they're only from ten to twelve months old? There should be a law prohibiting such racing until the month of May. Another thing I would like to see—the substitution of stakes for three and four-year-old horses for those now offered two-year-olds. We would have better racing, a sounder lot of horses and they would live very much longer than they now do."

TURF AND TRACK.

THE SULKY.

WE must have appropriations for the State and district fairs.

THE Palo Alto mares bred to Boodle 2:12½, last season are in foal.

IT is rumored a spring meeting will be held at Marysville this year.

THERE will be a sale of trotting stock at the San Mateo Stock Farm in June.

ATTENTION is called to the sale of fine young stallions from the Santa Rosa Stock Farm.

THE Colusa spring meeting will bring out a number of good young trotters and pacers.

W. HOGBOOM is working a number of fine-looking Lynmouths on the track at Marysville.

THE trainers are very busy at Palo Alto getting the horses ready for the Eastern and California sales.

W. E. MEEK, of Haywards, has in Welcome 2:10½, a stallion that should get a most excellent class of horses.

L. B. LINDSAY is jogging a few green horses at Spokane, which he intends taking through the Montana circuit.

SAM CROWELL is in Harrison, Idaho, working at the carpenter trade. His stallion, Roswood, is still in Spokane.

THE Palo Alto sale of about fifty head of trotting-bred mares, colts, geldings and fillies will take place in April at the farm.

HAZEL WILKES 2:11½ may be bred to McKinney 2:11½ if he comes north this season. The produce would be exceedingly valuable.

SANTA CLAUS, 2:17½, sire of Wm. Penn, 2:07½, etc., died at Amblar last July. As it has not been given to the public before, it will go as news.

SEEKERS after young stallions, either to train or use in the stud, should not overlook those advertised by the Santa Rosa Stock Farm.

R. D. CRAWFORTH the well-known trotting-horse driver who was so badly injured by a kick from a colt he was handling is slowly recovering.

THE probabilities are that the meeting of the New York Trotting Horse Breeders' Association will be held on the track at J. H. Shults' farm, Long Island.

THERE are many very fast youngsters in Hueneme sired by the Wm. Corbitt stallion, Ben Corbitt, 2:21. They are all high-headed, stylish and bold-moving trotters.

ABUTUS, 2:26½, by Electioneer, is rated as one of the fastest snow horses in the East. He is fifteen years old, but the down east papers rate him as capable of miles close to 2:15.

HARBY STINSON, who has been assistant to his father in handling the horses at the San Mateo Stock Farm, will not return to California. He will open a public stable in Cleveland.

THE great campaigner Seymour Wilkes 2:08½ is at J. H. White's farm, Lakeville, Cal., where he will make a season. He needs no praise for everyone is familiar with his history and record.

MARIE WELLINGTON, by Gen. Wellington (son of Electioneer), and out of Rushville Maid, by Blue Bull 75, sold for $1,000 at the Fasig sale, which took place last week at New York.

AZMON, 2:13½, is said to have sired but one colt before he was shipped to Europe—a yearling, out of a mare by Lockwood, son of Abe-Ceen, owned by John Powers, who gave Azmon his mark.

PROF. E. P. HEALD has a four-year-old colt by his stallion Pilot Prince, out of a mare by Gen. McClellan (she is the dam of Paloma 2:17), that will be in the 2:15 class before the races end this year.

THERE is an Advertiser colt out of a mare by Nutwood which a gentleman near Livermore is handling that will make some of our trotters bustle to beat him to the wire this year. He is a three year-old.

CALIFORNIA farmers, stock breeders and miners have no complaint against the weather this winter. Feed and water in abundance and more land is under cultivation than ever before in the history of this great State.

THE farmer who has the care of young colts should make up his mind not to let them lose a pound of flesh at any time. The colt should pass his first winter in the best of condition, and without a hitch in his growth.

WM. COREITT accompanied his horses East on Friday. The four cars pulled out of the Burlingame Station with the best horses ever bred on this farm. Copa Stinson, his son, Harry, and Chris Lang were in charge of the consignment.

THE Los Angeles Association is to give a splendid programme of races this year. L. J. Rose was in this city last week. He says the track will be in better shape than it has ever been since he first saw a trotter move over it.

ELL-DOUBLE-YOU is the name of a Minneapolis pacer. There is another in Sacramento that has even a more enphonic title: O-Double-T-I-Double-U-E-Double-L-Double-U-Double-O-D., or, in other words, Ottiwell Wood.

If present indications do not go amiss, Guy Wilkes 2:15½, when he passes under the auctioneer's hammer in New York, will be purchased by a breeder in New York State. The price is limited, however, to about $10,000.—Horse Review.

THE youngsters on Green Meadow Farm sired by Hambletonian Wilkes are all fine looking. The first foal of 1897 to arrive at this place is a bay colt by this horse out of Nettie by Altamont, second dam Flora by Vermont 322. It is a good one.

HAVE you noticed the advertisement of the sale of Prince Derby and Kapila, two of the best bred young stallions in California? They will be sold at low figures.

ANDY WELCH is now the owner of the seven-year-old horse, Allegation, 2:25½, by Alcantara. Belle Medium, the dam of Allegation, is also the dam of Nanny Rice, 2:21½, Reddington Prince, 2:22½, and Happy Prince, sire of two in the list.

NORHAWK got a record of 2:15½ in 1894, but she does not appear with that record to the credit of her great dam, Sontag Mohawk. Her record under the list of Sontag Mohawk's produce is given at 2:20½, which record she made as a four-year-old.

The track at Pleasanton under Jose Neal's supervision will soon be better than it has ever been. The recent rains have packed the surface where it was plowed, harrowed and rolled, and when it dries we can expect some marvellous time being made on it.

H. W. CRABB of Oakville, Napa Co., has plowed up his race track and infield and set the land out in resistant vines. Mr. Crabb's fine lot of Whippleton, San Diego, Grandissimo and Dictator colts has been sent to pasture on another farm he leased further up the valley.

R. O. NEWMAN, of Visalia, Cal., writes: "Our great old broodmare Elizabeth Basler, aged 23 years, dropped a bay filly January 4th, by that remarkable foal getter, Homeway. This is her first foal in seven years and is her only filly. It is a perfect model and a square trotter."

The following horses were destroyed in the fire at the Norfolk, Va., Driving Park: Allendora, 2:17½, by Steinway; Tiddiewinks, 2:19½, by Monocacy; Miss Anne, 2:19½; Hundley, 2:20½; by Harkaway; Ben Ingraham, 2:22½, by Ingraham; Meulo Princess, 2:26½, by Anteros.

C. E. FULLER, of Emporia, Kan., one of the owners of Free Coinage, 2:11½, by Steinway, has turned up missing. Fast living and too much borrowed capital settled his business career and he took to the woods. He left a family, a host of anxious creditors and an unsavory record.

MR. L. ZIMMERMAN, of Portland, Or., has bought the four-year-old colt McBriar, by McKinney, and will use him for a mate for Quillince, 2:22½, and will drive them this season on the road, and as McBriar has as much or more speed than Quillince we would like to know where there is a team that can beat them.

THE fiend who stuffed the nostrils of the horse which Dan Morgan drove at Oroville last fall escaped with a very light fine of $50. He should have had his nostrils plugged with sponges and his head submerged in a water bucket three times a day for a month. The judge who imposed such a light fine ought to be disbarred.

A VETERAN broncho breaker gives the following as a sure way to cure a horse of kicking: "Tie one of his forelegs with a rope to his hind leg on the other side. As soon as he starts to kick, he jerks his front leg off the ground and he goes down in a heap. Two or three doses of that kind will cure the worst case you can find."

MENELEK is the name of a very fine looking bay colt by Diablo, 2:09½, out of Abyssinia, by Mambrino Wilkes, owned by Andy Ramage, the popular horseshoer of Haywards, Alameda county. The dam is safe with foal to Diablo and if she foals as good a one as Menelek, we shall expect to see the best team in Haywards in a few years.

THE Stockton Driving Club has been permanently organized with the county recorder, Dell Keagle, as President and S. T. Henderson, Secretary. The by-laws will be formulated from the best features of the San Jose and the Hartford, Conn. club laws. The club has nearly 200 members and the choice of location for speedway has narrowed down to two propositions.

WILLIAM CORBITT, before leaving San Mateo Farm, Burlingame, Cal., said that the statement that Oro Wilkes 2:11 would be reserved by San Mateo Farm is erroneous. A number of his mares are due to foal and others will be due while on the road. He does not care to take the chances of losing both mare and foal, so has retained Oro Wilkes to breed to them after foaling, the entire outfit to be offered in the fall.

THE committee appointed to go to the Legislature at Sacramento in the interest of district association fairs is doing excellent work, and when they submit their bill (if it has not already been presented) the way will be made easy for its passing both houses and receiving the Governor's signature. The feeling that this bill will pass is strong, and the stockbreeders and farmers are watching and waiting patiently for its presentation.

THE bill prohibiting fencing with barbed wire along the public highways in California ought to pass. Such fencing is a menace, not only to the body but to the life of those passing upon the footways of public roads. Likewise it is a source of danger to teams driven upon such roads. For inside fencing and along private roads there is not so much objection to it, but it is a trap for the people who use the public highways, and has frequently caused serious injury.

In the report of the Secretary of the State Board of Agriculture the following agent District Fairs appears: "We hope the Legislature will see its way clear to make sufficient appropriation for a number of district fairs throughout the State, as they serve as feeders for the State Fair, and warrant preparation for both stock and other productive exhibits that may be shown at the various places. This money is returned through premiums to the agricultural classes and aids in the promotion of that interest."

OUR notice has been called to the following: "The Christmas Horse Review each year publishes three important tables: 1, Leading Sires, 2, Leading Broodmare Sires, 3, Producing Dams of the Year with Records. For the first time in many years Electioneer does not appear in table 1 and 2 for the past year. But in table 3, his daughter Ladywell 2:16½ is the fastest producing mare, and his daughter Laura C. 2:29½ produced the fastest performer Laurel 2:13½. The daughters of Electioneer are fast placing him up among the great broodmare sires. They have now produced sixty-one performers with records from 2:09½ to 2:30."

THERE is a full brother to Diablo, 2:09½, at Walnut Grove Stock Farm, Sacramento, called Demonio, that will be sold at a low figure. He is one of the most promising youngsters of his age in California, but his owner has several stallions and very few mares, and will dispose of him at a low figure considering his breeding and individuality.

THERE was a foreclosure sale of trotting stock at Haywards last week. The dam of Miss Kate 2:22½ and a sister to this fast daughter of Direct 2:05½, and two other good ones were sold for $310. If the sale was properly advertised, better prices would be obtained. The stock was, however, in a terribly poor starved condition, and is a question if they will ever recover.

C. A. WINSHIP, of Los Angeles, writes: "We are having a long storm after which it is my intention to commence active training. My stable has wintered nicely. Ottinger, Agitato, Gazelle, Lady Waldstein and Lady Grace are in fine form to begin work. Aster, 2:12, my old Dexter Prince gelding, is taking 2:35 work, and with no injury to his tendons, and really appears to have a chance to enter the lists again. A green McKinney trotter and a green Larco pacer are fairly promising. Am also preparing a two-year-old McKinney—Raymond filly, and a five-year-old gelding by Raymond, out of the dam of Gazelle, for 1898; have no intention of urging either of them in 1897. Charles D. Jeffries is no longer in my employ, and I cannot at this writing state who his successor will be. It is frequently stated that my stable will be campaigned East next season. I have no such intention, however."

SOME time ago it was announced that Alix would probably reappear on the turf this year, and now Morris J. Jones, of Red Oak, Ia., her owner, writes as follows: "Jack Curry arrived here last week, and has decided to locate. He is much pleased with the condition of Alix, and thinks her in as good shape as when he left her in December, 1893. He says he can win all the free-for-alls with her this year. I expect to condition her and shape her up myself, and expect to have her ready by Aug. 1, at the latest. I think her chance to lower the trotting record is better than that of any other horse. In any event, I am much pleased with her prospects. Curry may drive her in her races, although I have made no arrangements with him, and will not do so with any one, except to drive under my management of the mare as long as I own her. I have had all I want of the management of other people. It may be better than mine, but not so satisfactory to me."

M. W. DUNHAM the world-famed importer and breeder of French Coach horses visited Palo Alto, W. S. Hobart's and John Parrott's farms during his short stay here. He was delighted with the splendid class of mares he saw at Palo Alto and believes he never saw better broodmares than the daughters of Gen. Benton. He saw several young mares there he believed would be splendid to cross with his Coach stallions. At Mr. Hobart's he was delighted with the excellence of the horses of all breeds selected by this young gentleman, and, as in Palo Alto easily, selected mares that would prove very valuable as dams of high-class Coachers. At Mr. Parrott's place he recognized in Green's Rufus the hackney stallion, many points of superior excellence in fact did not hesitate to say he was one of the very best hackneys in America. The two hackney mares by Matchless were at once picked out of the many hand of broodmares on Mr. Parrott's place and there excellent merits spoken of. Mr. Dunham returned to Wayne, Illinois, on the Saturday evening train, with the promise to return soon.

MANAGER ED A. TIPTON evidently thinks Anaconda is as good a racing town as Butte, and that either one is better than Denver, says the Anaconda Recorder. It seems probable that Mr. Tipton will manage the meetings at Deuver and Colorado Springs, as the dates have been fixed to follow each other. Mr. Tipton has arranged for one month's racing in Anaconda and the same time in Butte. Sixty days for these two towns looks like a very long season. Last summer the merchants of both towns complained bitterly among themselves about the protracted race meetings, claiming that they paralyzed the regular run of business, made collections hard and drained all the spare cash. They had hoped for a shorter season this year, but it seems they are not going to get it. The dates now fixed are as follows: Colorado Springs, June 3 to 10; Denver, June 12 to 19; Anaconda, June 26 to July 26; Butte, July 27 to August 28. It is likely Hamilton will fall in line with ten days or two weeks. There is no doubt that the Montana people are great followers of racing and that no matter how long the meetings are they will be well patronized. It is announced that $150,000 will be hung up this year, so that many of the crack stables of the country will be represented. The East will doubtless open its eyes with wonder at the announcement that Butte and Anaconda will have sixty days' racing. Even in New York none of the big associations extend their meetings beyond thirty days.

TROTTER-HORSE breeders may certainly congratulate themselves upon the increasing demand for trotters in the European market. It is not too much to say that the foreign buyers at Madison Square Garden last week saved the day. But for them, apparently, there would have been a fearful slaughter of prices. The most pleasant feature about this export trade is that it is virtually as yet only in its infancy. Trotting races have become the vogue in Europe, and, as the breeding of trotters there can hardly be said to amount to much, European sportsmen will have to look to this country, for several years at least, for the material wherewith to carry on the sport. This means to the small farmers, as well as to the big breeders throughout the country, a chance to once more profitably breed horses. It is to be hoped that, with such a revival in prospect, the small farmers will be wise enough to make judicious selection, both of broodmares and stallions, so that we shall not again suffer through the overproduction of animals with no redeeming quality save breeding. There is danger in the fact that some of these farmers, who formerly owned one or more good broodmares, having sold them, may either through lack of means to procure other broodmares of good individuality, or through not being alive to the demands of the new market, fall into the stupid error that "any old thing" will do so long as it has a streak of trotting blood in its veins. Such folly could only lead to disaster again. Let breeders, great and small, strive to produce a superior individual and the horse market of the world is theirs, at any rate for many years to come.

THE SADDLE.

WALTER & HAYDEN are equipping a race track at Hot Springs for a meeting early in this year.

JOHN HOFFMAN has signed Jockey Tuberville to ride his horses during the season of 1897, says Racing Form.

OWNERS of good broodmares should not overlook that grandly bred thoroughbred stallion St. Carlo. He is standing at a remarkably low figure.

THERE is quite a probability of a match race in the near future between Buckwa, with 105 pounds, and Chartreuse, 94. The distance is to be one mile.

ON February 22d the Moet and Chanden White Seal Stake for two-year-olds will be decided at Ingleside. This will be the first two-year-old stake at the Pacific Coast Jockey Club track.

KEEFE, the lad that rode Coyozza in the first race Saturday, weighs but fifty-five pounds, and is perhaps the smallest knight of the pigskin that ever threw a leg over a horse in California.

H. K. VINGUT recently sent two thoroughbred yearlings to England. One filly is by Salvador, dam Bedotte, and was bred in California, while the second one is by Candelmas, dam Clarissima.

E. J. BALDWIN yesterday secured W. Heuston to train one of the Santa Anita strings. Heuston formerly trained for Col. Ruppert and handled Gotham and Counter Teur in their two-year-old form.

CHESAPEAKE, chestnut gelding, 9, by imp. St. Elaise, dam Susquehanna, for which $25,000 is said to have been refused at one time, was sold under the hammer for $5 at Elkton, Md., on January 12th.

HAYDEN DARGIN and Charles Walters are experiencing serious opposition to their proposed Birmingham meeting. Mass meetings have been held throughout Alabama to create sentiment in favor of a law making it a high misdemeanor to sell pools.

C. H. PETTINGILL, the Jockey Club starter, leaves here to-morrow for California, where he will remain until he is wanted in the East. J. J. McCafferty requested Pettingill to be on the lookout for a promising light-weight boy for him. —New Orleans Picayune.

TOM KILLY, who piloted Spokane to victory in the Kentucky and American Derbies, is having a streak of bad luck. Friday morning his promising filly, Calesta K., while playing in her stall, reared and fell over on her back. She broke a blood vessel and bled to death.

THE excellent colts, Osric II. and Arrezzo, the property of Burns & Waterhouse and H. Eugene Leigh, respectively, have been matched to run a mile the first day of the next Oakland meeting, provided the track is not heavy. The event will doubtless attract a large crowd and be close and exciting.

FRANK BRUNELL, editor of the Daily Racing Form of Chicago, writes Secretary Leake that the racing in California this year equals Washington Park, Harlem, Hawthorne and other courses in their palmiest days during the summer, and pronounces the meetings now being held as the "greatest winter meetings" in the history of the turf.

PRESIDENT A. B. SPECKELS bred Aluminum (the youngster that showed in the second race) at his Napa farm, and if we are not mistaken it's the first one bred there to start in a race. Aluminum is by the black brother to Sir Modred and Cheviot (Idalium) from Mr. Spreckels' favorite mare, the frequent winner, Glitter, by imp. Stylites, second dam Gleam, by imp. Hampton Court; third dam Napbtba, by imp. Eclipse.

SIR WILLIAM, winner of the two-year old race on Saturday, was bred at Rauch del Paso. He is by Fitz James (son of imp. Kyrle Daly and Ectra), dam Ysabel (sister to Patsy Duffy, Frank Rhoads, Lizzie P., Lady Leinster and Leon), by Leinster; second dam Ada A., by the unbeaten Asteroid; third dam Lorette, by imp. Sovereign, etc. Like all of the Kyrle Dalys and Fitz Jessams, he's right at home in heavy going. Messrs. Barron and Newton own him.

THERE was some surprise manifested among horsemen when it was found that Harry Reid had been entered in the Brooklyn Handicap. It is generally conceded that his particularly effective distance is seven furlongs, and yet he won at a mile and an eighth at Morris Park last fall in the very fair time of 1:55 and a fraction, and won easily, pulling up. If he can go the mile and a quarter, and no one knows that he cannot, he will certainly tip the lot of the alleged cracks off their feet before the wire is reached.

A. QUELLA MORSE, whom E. A. Tipton Friday secured for Marcus Daly, after he had failed to sign Scherrer, has been doing the best all-round riding at the present meeting at New Orleans, says the Chicago Record. He is 30 years old, and has been riding several years, but his opportunities were limited until this winter. He has ridden all kinds of horses, and has landed sixty-six of his ninety-six mounts inside the money. His contract call for 100 pounds. He will leave with Tipton for the Copper King's ranch in Montana next month.

WILLIAM MCGUIGAN yesterday sold to M. F. Dwyer of New York two fashionably-bred two-year-olds now being trained on the Little Rock track. One is a filly by Hayden Edwards—Workmate, being a half-sister to Ben Eler. The terms of the sale are private. The pair will be raced by McGuigan for Mr. Dwyer at the spring meeting at Little Rock and Memphis and possibly farther up the line. They are splendid lookers, especially the filly, and have shown a good deal of speed in their work.—Little Rock (Ark.) dispatch, January 16.

ENTRIES to the nineteen stakes of the Ideal Park Racing Association do not close until March 1st, but the advance nominations and promises of horsemen make it certain that a list of high-class stable and performers will be displayed for the features of the coming season at this track. On Wednesday Secretary Natanson will leave for a flying trip to New Orleans and San Francisco in quest of entries and is booked to return February 10th. During his absence John W. Kelsey will have charge of the Secretary's office.—Chicago Special of February 1.

THE Memphis Jockey Club has decided to run the Montgomery Handicap on the opening day of the meeting instead of the Tennessee Derby. Derby candidates can start in the handicap and the winner will not incur a penalty. The Derby will be run at the first race on Monday, April 12th.

ALUMINUM, the winner of the fifth race yesterday for A. B. Spreckels, was a winner at the Horse Show, along with his mother, the good race mare, Glitter, by imp. Stylites. Mr. Spreckels bred the youngster, and owns his sire, imp. Idalium, as well as the mother, which is the most highly-prized matron on his splendid Napa farm.

WOULD it not be a good idea to inspect the saddles and especially the stirrups of the various gallopers before they leave the paddock? It would pay the association to have an official appointed for this special purpose. There should be no excuse for using poor materials when thousands of dollars and the lives of the jockeys are at stake.

GRANNAN, the great long distance horse belonging to Frank Ireland, has broken down so badly that his owner has decided to turn him out of training for the season. Had Grannan "stood up" he would have been a very hard horse to heat in all the long distance races soon to be decided. Mr. Ireland is greatly disappointed over his horse's trouble, as he felt sure there was no horse in California able to make Grannan stretch his neck.

A CARLOAD of thoroughbreds arrived at Oakland yesterday from Santa Anita Rancho, Los Angeles County. There were thirteen two-year-olds and one three-year-old. They were nearly all by either the Emperor of Norfolk, Gauo or Falindo. In the shipment were La Marona, a chestnut filly by Emperor of Norfolk, dam Los Angeles; Texarkana, by Falindo—Dolly L.; Rey d'Amour, by Emperor of Norfolk—La Cienga; Palo Blanco, by Emperor of Norfolk—Alah, and Rey el Salta, by Emperor of Norfolk—Jennie D.

THE letter "S" was rather lucky on Saturday. The first race had no horse in it with "S" starting their names. Sir William won the second event at odds of 20 to 1 and was the only one in the race whose name began with that letter. In the stake race Schiller finished first at a good price, Sweet Faverdale wound up second and St. Lee third. In the fifth and sixth events there were no horses bearing names beginning with "S," but in the last there were two, and they finished 1-2—Sain, St. Aignon. In the jump sons of Sid ran 1-2. Who says there's nothing in a name?

JIMMY McDONNELL has been very fortunate at the Menlo Park Stock Farm of W. O'B. Macdonough. Only a few days ago Muta, a stake-winner by Wildside, foaled a chestnut filly to Ormonde, and last Thursday Bud, by Glenmore, dropped a chestnut filly by the big horse. It speaks volumes for McDonald, for the horse had been getting very few foals. So far two January foals are reported. McDonald made a great reputation at Rauch del Paso, and will enhance it if the Ormonde youngsters keep coming. Eight more are expected, and the famous horse looks better than he has done since he came to California.

THE Burlingame Country Club has just organized a hunting adjunct under the name of the San Mateo Hunt Club. The committee in whose hands will be given the control of the new club consists of the following: President, W. S. Hohart; M. F. H.—R. M. Tobin, L. McCreary, H. H. Henshaw, A. F. Waiwright, Major J. L. Rathbone, Henry J. Crocker, E. D. Baylard, with J. Lawson for Treasurer and Captain A. F. Waiwright Secretary. The constitution of the club provides that the money received for subscriptions be used to reimburse farmers for any damage that may be done in the course of a hunt to crops or fences.

MR. PIERRE LORILLARD and his partner, Lord William Beresford, are largely represented in the entries published in the English Racing Calendar. An equal partnership in their names has been registered in the following yearlings: Colt, by Sensation—Breeze; colt, by Sensation—Dolores; colt, by Sensation—Equality; filly, by Sensation—Rizpah; filly, by Sensation—Alexina; filly, by Sensation—Magnetic; filly, by Sensation—Aster; colt, by Locobatchee—Sarg; colt, by Pontiac—Lima; colt, by Pontiac—Sprinter; filly, by Pontiac—Tarhouch; filly, by Pontiac—Luella B.; colt, by The Sailor Prince—Joy; filly, by The Sailor Prince—Saluda.

SCRIBER won the first stake race of this year of promise. The winner is a powerful black colt by Bramble or Reporter—probably the latter, as he has a great many of the marks and some of the characteristics of the "King of Sulkers"—dam Lady Wenlock. Pat Dunne bought him as a yearling, and regarded him as one of the most promising of his pick, but he sold him in the middle of his two-year-old season, as Ed Corrigan's sensible nephew sells many a good one that does not come up to his expectations. He is now owned by a New Orleans gentleman, but the rule prohibiting the use of stable names having gone into effect, he ran in the name of the trainer, P. Tomlinson.—[New Orleans Daily Item.]

COL. D. M. BURNS starts next Monday for Mexico to look after his large mining interests there. Most of the older horses in the Burns & Waterhouse stable will be disposed of during the next Oakland meeting; but as there are twenty-five two-year-olds in the stable, which includes about sixty horses, there will be plenty of material left for Timmons to work on. Mr. Burns says that Timmons will train the string this season, and will take the horses East in the spring. McCormick is improving gradually, but will not be able to resume work for a long time. Ben Timmons has been very successful this winter, and has increased his reputation 40 per cent. by the able manner in which he has handled the big stable.

IMP. SAIN'S win was the easiest of the entire day, and as Greyhound and Lincoln II., among others, finished behind him, the black colt must be considered a top notcher over a distance of ground. And no wonder he's a rare good one. Look at his breeding: By St. Serf (best son of St. Simon and second to his sire on the list of winning sires), first dam imp. The Task, by the unbeaten Irish horse, Barcadine; second dam Satobel (winner of the Molyneux Cup and other stakes), by Galopin (winner of the Derby and sire of the unbeaten St. Simon); third dam Quiver (dam of Memoir, winner of the Oaks), by Topopholite (sire of Musket); next dam by Young Melbourne (sire of the famous General Peel), and fifth dam Brown Bess, by Camel (sire of the immortal Touchstone).

THE jockeys' prize ball last Saturday night at Union Square Hall on Post street was voted a success. Over one hundred couples were present. The ball was in charge of the following committees: Floor Managers—T. F. Quinn, Z. Abrahams, H. Flitner, Daniel Honig; Reception Committee—P. Freeman, C. Thorpe, T. Sloan, S. Doggett, H. Martin, E. Jones, C. Sloan, H. Griffin, C. Slaughter, M. Hennessy, W. Shields, H. Shields, G. Cobran, W. Clancy; Directors—P. Freeman, George Rose, H. Flitner.

THE New York World, in discussing the "doping" of horses, says: Doc Ring was the original inventor of the dope, and introduced it at Guttenburg. It was used with wonderful results, and it was no unusual thing for sulky old cripples dosed with a drug to get out and win at long odds. The subject of dope has before the Jockey Club often. When it was first mentioned Mr. Keene asked the question, "What is dope?" He was informed that it was a drug used to increase the speed of horses. His reply was: "Well, if it increases the speed of a horse, it is a good thing and should not be prohibited." The dope, however, has grown into an abuse. The ingredients in the injection used by Doc Ring has never been discovered, and consequently cocaine, morphine and various other narcotics and stimulants have come into general use. The result has been the speedy ruin of the horse on which it was used.

SECRETARY R. B. MILROY announces the following stakes and races to be run at the next meeting of the California Jockey Club: Monday, February 8th (if good track)—A match race, Osric II vs. Arrezzo, one mile; the San Leandro Selling Stakes, $1,000, for all ages, seven and a half furlongs. Wednesday, February 10th—The Lissac Selling Stakes, $1,250, for three-year-olds, six furlongs. Saturday, February 13th—The McLaughlin Selling Stakes, $1,250, for all ages, one mile; the Burlingame Stakes, $1,000, a hurdle handicap, one mile and a half; special purse race, $500, two miles. Monday, February 15th—A special handicap, $500, for three-year-olds and over, one and one-quarter miles. Wednesday, February 17th—The Shell Mount Stakes, $1,000, a handicap for three-year-olds, seven furlongs; a special purse race, for four-year-olds and over, one mile and three-quarters. Saturday, February 20th—A handicap $500, for three-year-olds and over, one mile and a quarter; the Elmwood Stakes, $1,000, for two-year-olds, four furlongs; four-mile race, the Thornton Stakes, $3,000.

THE multi-millionaire firm, Burns & Waterhouse, will be well represented on the big tracks of the far East the coming season. This firm will ship twenty horses to Morris Park some time in April. Both Colonel Burns and Clarence Waterhouse will visit Kentucky before the regular season opens and purchase fifteen or twenty yearlings by the most noted sires in that State. Several of the biggest breeders in the State are anxious to give the California firm the pick of the yearlings, as they recognize the fact that Burns & Waterhouse will have one of the biggest racing stables ever gathered together in America, if they not already have it. In addition to the yearlings to be purchased for 1898, the California firm will have fifteen horses of their own breeding. They have expended considerable money in buying horses, but their investments have proved profitable. It is estimated that the firm is $50,000 ahead of the game in purses and betting since the season opened in California the latter part of October. Their winnings in stakes and purses alone since October 28th amounts to $21,265.

A NEW YORK dispatch of last night was as follows: The following are the weights for the Suburban Handicap for three-year-olds and upwards, distance one mile and a quarter, to be run at Sheepshead Bay on Tuesday, June 22, 1897: Requitall, 129; Clifford, 126; Handspring, 125; Buck Massie, 124; Hastings, 123; Ben Brush, 123; Flying Dutchman, 121; Belmar, 121; Halmia, 120; First Mate, 119; Crescendo, 119; Sir Walter, 115; The Winner, 115; Counter Tenor, 114; Dr. Rice, 113; Ben Eder, 113; Bright Phebus, 113; Dorian, 110; Roundsmen, 109; Dutch Skater, 108; Loki, 108; Peep o' Day, 107; Maurice, 107; Howard Mann, 106; Semper Ego, 106; Ogden, 105; Lake Shore, 104; Ben Holladay, 104; Havoc, 102; Typhoon II, 100; Algol, 100; King Arthur II, 98; The Swain 97; Pearl Song, 97; Barclay, 97; Volley, 95; Arbutuck, 95; Herald, 95; Blaise Rock, 95; Rockwood, 92; Jefferson, 90; Forest, 90; Frank Harris, 88; Dr. Robb, 85; Mingo II, 84. A DOCUMENT was signed yesterday by President A. B. Spreckels and D. M. Burns that will do more toward keeping up the great interest in racing in California than any one thing. The document was an agreement that is to last for two years. War between the clubs meant death to racing out this way; a division of dates means long life to a great industry that has been built up in the Golden State. The representatives of the P. C. J. C. and C. J. C. are to be congratulated upon the view they took of the matter, and their action will be applauded by all well-wishers of the "spot of kings" in this section. The gist of the agreement was that the P. C. J. C. should cease racing at Ingleside on May 1, 1897. By this arrangement the Pacific Coast Jockey Club will have eighty-six days' racing and the California Jockey Club eighty-seven days' racing during the season of '96 and '97. The winter racing will be inaugurated by the Pacific Coast Jockey Club at Ingleside on November 1, 1897, and continue two weeks, closing November 13. The C. J. C. will resume winter racing on their track November 15 and close November 27. The two clubs will then continue alternating each two weeks during the racing seasons for two years, as in accordance with their present agreement. The racing season is to begin each year on November 1 and continue six months. Each association is allowed to let its track for trotting races, but no running races are to be allowed under any consideration on the track of the association. It was further agreed that neither club of the association shall own in the counties of San Mateo, Alameda, Marin or Contra Costa any race track. Nor will any foreign books be permitted upon either of the association tracks.

The Agricultural Fairs.

A Sacramento correspondent writes: "The work accomplished by the committees appointed by the P. C. T. H. B. Association and the delegates from the convention which met in San Francisco a few weeks ago in relation to the Agricultural Fairs, is recognized by every legislator here, and as the committee has been working in conjunction with the Committee on Agriculture to frame a bill that will be adopted by both houses, it is believed by everyone it will go through, and Governor Budd will affix his signature. Thirty-five districts are spoken of and the amount asked for them is proportioned according to their population, resources and position. Nearly all senators and assemblymen have been pledged by their constituents to vote for the measure, hence the committee will not have so many arguments to refute as it did at the last session. You can say to the thousands of readers of your valued paper, which is recognized here as the champion of all interests relating to the farmers and stockbreeders, that if the District Agricultural Associations do not get appropriations it will not be the fault of this Legislature."

This news is most encouraging, and, while not wishing to be too sanguine, we cannot help expressing the hope that there will be no failure in the maturing of the many plans for the protection of the true interests of the best and most industrious people in the State. As Secretary Edwin F. Smith says, "these appropriations are retained direct to the taxpayers and are a benefit to the farmers and stock raisers."

We need these district fairs, and when the committee in charge of the hills begins to investigate the matter and ascertain the amount of money sent out of this State for butter, cheese, eggs, poultry, ham, bacon, and beef, because the people of the East have been encouraged to follow the business of furnishing all these, and fairs are held in these States at which premiums are given which have made their products famous, we can see how easily it will be for them to encourage our farmers, dairymen, poultrymen and stock-raisers to strive and get the best also. The lack of an incentive to attain-perfection is very easily found when no encouragement is shown. We must hold fairs where we can offer prizes for the best products, poultry, cattle, pigs, sheep, vegetables, wines, fruits and cereals. That is what fair is for and that is why we need them. The interior press is taking up this question and urging the passage of this bill appropriating money for district fairs. We have not seen a newspaper that has published a line in opposition to such a measure. Next week we hope to present to our readers a copy of the bill to be presented.

We have received the annual report of the State Agricultural Society for 1896 and will publish excerpts from it next week. It is an able document.

Barriers Torn Away.

There is just cause for rejoicing among all who are interested in equine pursuits in California. For weeks and months vague rumors have been heard of the two jockey clubs having under consideration plans to continue racing throughout the year. When traced to their source by the representatives of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN, it has been found that they had their origin in the minds of some "crank," who was "talking for the sake of hearing himself talk." Wild and visionary schemes like these are generally found to have no foundation, nevertheless, the fact that they are hinted at whenever three or four interested horsemen assemble to discuss the racing situation, has been the means of having a meeting of representatives of the California and Pacific Coast Jockey Clubs in this city to arrange a plan by which all such rumors would be forever set aside, and at the same time put a check upon a number of would-be reformers who are in Sacramento trying to have cinch bills introduced which have for their object the injuring of both these splendid associations.

The meeting was held in the office of the Pacific Coast Jockey Club and a document signed which will do more toward keeping up the interest in racing and remove all barriers which may be put in its way to progress than any heretofore made in California. The sum and substance of the agreement was that the P. C. J. C. should cease racing at Ingleside on May 1, 1897. By this arrangement the Pacific Coast Jockey Club will have eighty-six days' racing and the California Jockey Club eighty-seven day's racing during the season of '96 and '97. The winter racing will be inaugurated by the Pacific Coast Jockey Club at Ingleside on November 1, 1897, and continue two weeks, closing November 13. The C. J. C. will resume winter racing on their track November 15 and close November 27. The two clubs will then continue alternating each two weeks during the racing seasons for two years, as in accordance with their present agreement. The racing season is to begin each year on November 1 and continue six months. Each association is allowed to let its track for trotting races, but no running races are to be allowed under any consideration on the tracks of the association. It was further agreed that neither club of the association shall own in the counties of San Mateo, Alameda, Marin or Contra Costa any race track. Nor will any foreign hooks be permitted upon either of the association tracks.

We congratulate the associations on this wise move, and appreciate their endorsement of the interest they take in the light harness horse and his future welfare. Another link in the bond of fraternal friendship between the two great industries has been welded, and the example set by the representatives of these two great and growing enterprises in helping each other should be followed in every other state in the Union where these industries have achieved greatness in the past.

The Detroit Jockey Club.

This live and energetic Club has come forward with its announcement that it will hold a twenty-four days' meeting commencing August 10th, and may extend it to thirty days. The stakes, including the fixtures, the International Derby and the Champion Stake which closed in January last, aggregate more than $40,000. It is the intention to make the overweight events especially attractive to horsemen. No purse being less than $400. Six stake events not including the International Derby and Champion Stake are scheduled.

Entries for these stakes will close with Secretary P. M. Campbell, Saturday, February 20. The International Derby and Campau Stake closed in January last, the former with 100 and the latter with 110 entries respectively. Secretary Campbell announces that the declarations in the two fixed events, despite the uncertainty involving this year's meeting, have been surprisingly light. Up to date less than a dozen owners have declared out. The International Derby will be worth every cent of $10,000 to the first horse, and the Campau Stake will net the winner over $3,000.

It will be the third annual running meeting given by the club. The meeting in 1895 lasted nine days, and last year the bangtails held possession of the track 17 days. This year one and perhaps two weeks will be added, making this the longest continuous race meet ever given in Michigan. As there will be very little racing this summer in California and as a large number of horsemen contemplate taking their best horses East they should not overlook this splendid meeting. Remember entries close Saturday, February 20.

Brighton Beach Race Meeting.

The advertisement of the nineteenth annual meeting of this association appears in this issue. The stakes are numerous and for amounts which should attract a large number of entries from Californians. The meeting will follow the Morris Park meeting, and as it is announced officially that there will be no racing held by either the C. J. C. or the P. C. J. C. in California until next November, every horse owner should endeavor to make entries for this meeting. They will close February 15th with Chas. V. Sass, 5 Court Square, Brooklyn, New York. The races are for all ages and over all distances. Special attention is called to the races to be given by this association for gentlemen riders in the Hempstead and the Cedarhurst stakes, the steeplechase and hurdle races, the Punchestown steeplechase and the Brighton Pink Coat Handicap steeplechase.

These are novelties in their way and we hope that a number of our leading gentlemen riders will be seen at this great race meeting to show that our State is not behind any in the Union. Remember stakes close February 15.

THE efforts of Emmons, the cinch-bill advancer of the Assembly, to try and prove there is a bitter feeling existing between the light-harness horse owners and those who own thoroughbreds do not seem to have much weight at Sacramento. It is to be regretted he has not given the subject more personal study. There is not a man interested in trotters in California who is not in favor of seeing both Jockey Clubs succeed, for they know that not only men and good horses are brought to this coast but thousands of dollars come with them, and employment is given to hundreds of men for six months in the year. The Jockey Clubs have done, and are willing to do, all in their power to help the interests of all trotting associations. In no other State in the Union are they as inseparable as in California.

THE attention of our readers is called to the advertisement of the Ideal Park Racing Association for its meeting which will begin May 3d at Ideal Park, Wisconsin, entries for which will close March 1st. There are nineteen stakes, guaranteed none less than $1,000, and the entrance fees are remarkably low. M. Nathanson is the secretary. He is well known to every owner of thoroughbreds in California, and intends to be here next week to interview our horsemen. As this meeting will commence about the time the meeting close here everyone should enter horses at this place. They will make money by doing so. Besides these stake races a splendid list of events will be decided each day. We will send blanks to all horsemen.

WHOEVER is in need of a first-class stallion, first-class in every respect; individuality, speed, disposition and breeding should not overlook the handsome horse, Robin 2:22 1/2. He is worthy of being placed at the head of any stock farm in the United States. The great broodmare, Eveline, also offered for sale from the same place, Santa Rosa, is one as the finest individuals bred in California. She is only fourteen years old, is an excellent matron and bred to any well-bred stallion is sure to get a foal that will be a valuable money-maker to its owner. She is sure to produce speedy trotters or pacers. Both of these animals are offered by W. H. Lumsden, executor of the estate of I. de Turk, Santa Rosa, at remarkably low figures. See adv.

A Masterpiece.

When the world-famous equine artist Mr. Henry Stoll, was in this city last spring he was commissioned by President A. B. Spreckels of the Pacific Coast Jockey Club to paint a picture which would embody portraits of the most noted racers of the coast during the season of 1896.

The work has just been completed by the talented artist and is now on exhibition in the cafe of the Palace.

It is the most important turf picture yet painted in this country, and in our opinion is the chef d'œuvre of the talented artist. It represents a group of twelve horses swinging around the turn at Ingleside. Next the rail is the Burns & Waterhouse crack Lodal, in the "orange and blue"; then comes Joe Terry's black Buono, followed by Crescendo in the "black and white" of J. Nagle's Bunk. Behind these are the "white and green" of Ormonde's owner on Santa Bella, and the "crimson and black" of J. G. Follansbee on his old standby Hermanita. In the center, the showy Gallant in the "red, white and blue" of President Spreckels shows the way; next is P. Dunne's "green and white" on his brown colt Pepper, followed by Barney Schreiber's Braw Scot with the "purple and orange" of his genial owner. Charles Boots' Victor, W. Hohart's Ferrier and J. G. Brown's Libertine complete the picture.

The grouping is most artistic, and while Mr. Stoll's intimate practical knowledge of racing detail is displayed to the utmost, he has not lost sight of the general effect. The bright jackets of the jockeys and the sheen and glitter on the coats of the horses are most charming in execution. The artist always revels in brilliant colors, and the difficulties inseparable from such bright combinations have been overcome in a masterly manner.

Altogether it is a superb production, and Mr. Spreckels is to be congratulated in the possession of such a masterpiece, which his taste and liberality enabled him to secure.

The picture will remain on exhibition a few days longer before being removed to grace the handsome parlor of the Ingleside clubhouse, and will amply repay a visit from all who are interested in art as connected with the thoroughbred.

Horses for Honolulu.

J. A. McDonald one of our best known horsemen started for Honolulu on Wednesday with fifteen head of horses consisting of thoroughbreds, trotters and draft horses. Among the thoroughbreds are Sympathetic's Last, Fin Slaughter and Vernon, they have all been winners here. Jas. J. McKinnon who is in partnership with Mr. McDonald has also sent the handsome three-year-old bay filly Madchen, she is by Steinway out of Empress 2:29½ by Flaxtail, second dam Lady Narlay by Marion, third dam by John Bull, fourth dam Tha Reesa Mare. She looked well as she was led on board the vessel. She stands 15.3 hands, is stylish looking and rangy and as natural a pacer as ever looked through a bridle. Though only broken in October she can reel off quarters like an old campaigner in 36 seconds. She is the making of a great mare. She is full sister to King Cadenza the colt that was second to Agitato in all his races of 1895. Mr. McDonald has five very good roadsters and some excellent draft horses. The latter are superior to any heretofore shipped to the islands.

It is the intention of these gentlemen to establish an agency at Honolulu, through which they will dispose of fine horses of all breeds and mules. They are upright honorable men and we cordially recommend them to all who wish to transact business with them.

DUNCOMBE, the Irish horse brought to this country by the late Simeon G. Reed, is now at Rancho del Paso. It is reported that John Mackay has purchased the son of Speculum and Fair Helen on the strength of the showing made by several of the youngsters. Duncombe ran a mile in 1:37 4-5, in a stake race in England, and is from the male line that stands at the top in England to day (the Voltigeur). St. Simon, St. Serf and Galopin (first, second and third on the list of sire) are of this male-line. Galopin was by Vedette, and so was Speculum, sire of Duncombe. Galopin sired St. Simon, and he, in turn got St. Serf. The latter sired imp. Sain and imp. Santa Bella, two very excellent performers, well-known to our race-goers.

J. W. WENTWORTH, of Spokane, has sold his pacer Al-mora, by Ingram, and his trotter Babe Chapman, by Ingram, to Mr. Wingard, of Walla Walla, for the neat little sum of $800. These horses may be put in training for the Montana circuit.

Denver Col., May, 10, 1896.

I have used DeHuy's Balm-olina on several of my horses. It is the best I ever used. J. T. NELSON.

The Palo Alto Sale in New York.

During the month of March next, Palo Alto will ship to Peter C. Kellogg, New York, a consignment of forty-six head of choice-bred trotting stock. They are fine individuals carrying blood lines that has made the farm by the lone pine famous in the history of the trotting turf. In the past many fast performers have been sent to the sales of Palo Alto in the East, some with and some without records. Such fast performers and good race horses as Cobwebs, 2:12, Utility, 2:13½, Azmon, 2:13½, Conductor, 2:14½, El Rami, 2:14, Abeto (p) 2:10½, Answer, 2:14½, Norhawk, 2:15½, Lakeside Norval, 2:15½, The Seer, 2:15½, Limonero (3) 2:15½, Serpal (3) 2:16½, Seylax, 2:15½, Oro Fino, 2:18, Ah There, 2:18½, Electric Coin, 2:18½, Quality, 2:18½, Marston C., 2:19½, Paola, 2:18, and a hundred other performers and sires have been sold at Palo Alto sales in the East and South. Great as this showing has been the consignment about to be shipped is superior to any that has preceded it, the reason apparent when it is understood that the brood-mare department has, since 1893, been reduced in numbers one-half, and only those mares retained that had claims of greatness in the production of speed. The cream of the place has been selected for the coming sale, the produce of its most celebrated brood-mares, mares that rank in the Year Book as queens, producers of record breakers and great race horses. The sires represented are the ones that, through their progeny, made Palo Alto Stock Farm famous. Electioneer, the only stallion that ever had to his credit the world's record for yearling, two, three, four, and five year olds, mare, and stallion records. Dead since 1890, Electioneer still holds the pride of place among sires of performers. His sons and daughters are breeding on. Advertiser has produced a world's champion in the yearling Adhell 2:23. The daughters of Electioneer have produced over sixty performers. In the table of producing mares with records, Ladywell, 2:16½, is the fastest producing mare. She is a daughter of Electioneer, her produce Local (3), 2:19½. The mare that produced the fastest performer produced in this table is Lanra C., 2:29½, by Electioneer, her produce Lanrel, 2:13½. Great, as a sire and a producer of sires, so will the dead Electioneer rank as a broodmare sire.

FIDELITY.

Ouriadnik is Dead.

The black Russian stallion Ouriadnik foaled 1878, died at the branch of Palo Alto at Vina January 1st, 1897. He was 16 3/8 hands high, brand on right side of neck representing the Imperial Crown of Russia. Bred at the Russian Government stud.

He was got by Ougumny (No. 57). His dam was Norka, (No. 63) by Nessoglossny. The breed of Ouriadnik reaches in the ascending line of the pure blood Arabian stallion Smetanka, imported in 1755 by Count Orloff.

In 1893 the late Senator Stanford made an exchange with the Czar of Russia, Palo Alto sending to Russia the stallion Good Gift, son of Electioneer and Miss Gift by Wildie, and the mares, Ela, by Woolsey, and Piney, by Electioneer. From the Government Stud of Russia the Czar, sent the stallions, Ouriadnik and Verhovschik, and the mare Zima.

Ouriadnik did not get any foals the first year he was in the stud in California. In 1896, he got three foals, out of the mares Bellina, by Gen. Beverly, My Liberty, by Liberty Sontag and Sallie Hamlet, by Hamlet. Several mares will have foals by him this year. The mare Zima was bred to Azmoor and has a yearling, last season. She was stunted to the grey stallion Verhovschik; the produce of Ouriadnik are of good size with plenty of bone and substance. Verhovschik, has got five foals since coming to California, one of which is dead. RIO ALTO.

A Practical Horse Shoer.

Henry J. Zahel, practical horse shoer, Reading, Penn. writes: "I have used Quinn's Ointment on my trotting mare for removing splints and windgrills. It has proven highly satisfactory. I would recommend it to do just what you claim." The above is the general expression of the leading breeders and horsemen everywhere. For curbs, splints, spavins, windpuffs and all enlargements use Quinn's Ointment. For sale by druggists and dealers, also by J. A. McKerron and J. O'Kane, San Francisco. Price $1.50 per package. Try it. W. B. Eddy & Co., Proprietors, Whitehall, New York.

Elvria Stock Farm, Elyria, O., Oct. 23, 1895.

Gentlemen:—I have been using your Curine, and am pleased to say it is the best remedy for Splints, Curbs, Ring-bone, etc., that I have ever used, and I think no stable complete without it. FRANK P. DOBLE, driver of Gertrude, 2:12, Peveril, 2:14, etc.

I have used "Absorbine" on my bay mare and have found it to be the only thing that would remove wind-puffs, which it has done to my full satisfaction in this case; also used it on another case to remove callous hunch on fore leg, with most excellent results. Yours truly, JAS. A. ALLEN, Pres. Hartford Driving Club.

The winter field trials of the United States Field Trials' Club were, according to the report in the American Field, not run as satisfactorily as Eastern trials usually are. Late starts, a misunderstanding or something like it in regard to the conditions of one of the stakes, etc., somewhat marred the success of the trials. The winners and summary of the running is as follows:

How Dogs Are Stunted

There is an era of tiny dogs in English society. The more diminutive a parcel of canine flesh that you can possess the more are von a swell, says the Toledo Blade. But alas! How many feminine readers who delight in the miniature doggies know that they are an artificial product?

There is in London an establishment devoted entirely to the stunting of the animals. The proprietor is an ex-breeder of fighting dogs, but he now finds more profit in rearing the liliputian canines, for which he has a wide reputation. He does not claim to be the originator of the process, for he says that all dog men know of the dwarfing powers of alcohol, but he asserts that he is the only man in London to adopt the principle systematically.

His method is as follows: The pup destined to be stunted is taken from its mother when a few hours old and when it begins to whine for sustenance it is fed with a warm decoction of gin and water. Deprived of milk, it takes to unreasonably. When it reaches a certain age alcohol in various forms constitutes its sole diet. The pups do not die nor do they develop. They soon cease to grow at all. After a generation or two of mating the much-prized liliputian canine is obtained.

Southern California Kennel Club.

The ninth annual bench show of the Southern California Kennel Club will be held at Los Angeles, April 14 to 17 inclusive. The officers of the club are confident that this show will be the banner show for that city. The show will be held in Hazards' Pavilion, the most commodious building in Southern California. J. Otis Fellows will judge all classes. Frank W. Ingalls will superintend. The premium lists will be out about Feb. 15th. The bench show committee consists of Messrs. Casey, Bright, Schumacher, Murphy and Frazee. This club is to be congratulated upon its energy. While the northern fanciers have been faint hearted or internal strife has disrupted the clubs, the Southern Club has held eight consecutive shows. Only two other clubs in the United States have a like record.

We are very positive that the Los Angeles show can expect more entries from this section than it has received before for many years.

DOINGS IN DOGDOM.

Where is that Spaniel Club organized in Oakland a couple of years ago?

Messrs. Mortimer, Mason and Taylor will judge the Pittsburgh, Pa., show.

The St. Bernard Club of California will meet at this office on Wednesday evening next.

The Wm. Cluff Co. are getting out a new brand of cigars, to be known as the Grand Master cigar.

There is no longer any question of the Stockton judge—Charles H. Mason will unquestionably judge all classes.

R v. R. O'Callaghan the breeder of Finglas and Coleraine has just died the great majority. He bred Irish setters for forty years.

The entries to the Derby will close on July 1, second forfeit Nov. 1. Entries to the All-age will close the night before the running of the staka.

The man that wins at all three shows under such capable judges as Mason, Mortimer and Fellows should be convinced that he has a dog worth owning.

Mrs. Smyth, proprietress of the Swiss Mountain Kennels has lost the St. Bernard Leed's Barry by County Member—Court Beauty. He was only sick one day.

The Field Trial Champion Association's trials at West Point, Miss., were abandoned. There were only five entries and the thermometer at seventeen degrees below zero.

The new officers of the Pacific Coast Field Trial Club are as follows: President, H. W. Keller of Santa Monica; First Vice-President, J. H. Schumacher of Los Angeles; Second Vice-President, J. E. Terry of Sacramento; Secretary-Treasurer, J. M. Kilgarriff of San Francisco; Executive Committee, C. N. Post of Sacramento; H. A. Jastro of Bakersfield; P. D. Linville, Wm. Schreiber and John Lucas of San Francisco.

Owing to the carnival at the Pavilion during the first week in May the bench show to be given by the Olympic Gun Club will be held during either the second or third weeks in May.

Thos. H. Browne's recent purchase, the R. C. St. Bernard bitch Marchioness of Bote by Champion Young Bute—Kingstonian Duchess, was accidentally hanged at Jos. Cotten's kennels last week. The Marchioness was a well marked orange and white bitch of exceptionally good breeding. Though not much of a show bitch she would have been a very valuable addition to our limited stock of hooded hitches, and her loss is a severe one to the local fancy.

The judges at Chicago will be as follows: E M Oldham, all spaniels; T S Bellin, all terriers; Major J M Taylor, pointer setters, fox-hounds and Chesapeake; H W Lacy, St. Bernards, mastiffs, bloodhounds, Newfoundland, greyhounds, deerhounds, borzoi, poodles, heagles, dachshunde, Dalmatians, whippets, Italian greyhounds and miscellaneous. J. H. Jarrett, collies and Old English sheepdogs; E. A. Woodward, hull dogs; Dr. Nicholas, Great Danes; E. A. Pitts, pugs.

We desire to call the attention of our readers to a false pedigree given to some fox terriers. Waller Bros. displayed a litter of fox terriers in their show window last week, and accompanying them was a card giving the pedigree as by Dick Turk out of Belmont Sparkle. Sparkle is a dog, not a bitch, and is by Starden's King—Ch. Blemton Brilliant. The "Belmont" does not belong to the name. The attention of Waller Bros. was called to the error by three of our prominent fanciers, but they took no notice of the correction and kept the card in the window several days.

We understand that the "mischief-maker" is trying his best to prevent the Olympic Gun Club from obtaining membership in the American Kennel Club. With his usual rule or ruin policy he wants to organize a new Kennel Club with himself at the head of it, hence the opposition. We cannot conceive of a body of men more capable of handling bench shows successfully than the Olympic Gun Club. Its large membership of young influential business men; its social and financial standing guarantee success. Among its members are not less than twenty of the old Pacific Kennel Club's most active members, and as the dog and gun are inseparable it is a forgone conclusion that there is not a member of the Olympics that is not more or less interested in dogs and dog shows. In its palmy days the Pacific never had one-half of the membership of the Olympics—two hundred. The "mischiefmakers" argument that it is a club of sporting dog men is the merest rot. The principal and most successful shows in America are handling by sporting dog men, notably the Westminster Kennel Club—a shooting club. Moreover it is the sporting dog and not the non-sporting dog that needs encouragement on this Coast. The classes of pointers and setters have been woefully small of late. The principal non-sporting dog of this section, the St. Bernard is ably fostered by the St. Bernard Club and this club, numerically stronger than the late Pacifics, is heart and soul with the Olympic Gun Club and will aid it in every way that lies within its power. The Olympics should be elected without delay or opposition.

Coming Events.

Feb. 9—Regular semi-monthly meeting of the San Francisco Fly Casting Club. Office of State Fish Commission, Flood Building, San Francisco.

The report in a contemporary that the Olympic Gun Club has leased Lake Chohot for a fishing preserve is without foundation.

It will be some time before the Russian River will be in the condition that it was the first of last week, but the pool at the mouth of Astin creek will clear up very quickly.

We understand that the postponed informal talk on the fresh water fishes of California by Prof. Gilbert will be given to the Fly Casting Club at the office of the California Fish Commission at its regular semi-monthly meeting on Tuesday evening.

The howl against the proposed change in the trout law is very general. The law in itself is a good one but it is universally conceded that the natives will clean out the streams before the season opens on May 1st and those that obey the law will alone suffer. There is undoubtedly more truth than poetry in this statement.

Extending the closed season on trout to the first of May, gives the fish more chance to spawn, especially in such streams as the Truckee, Yuba, McClelland, Sacramento, Klamath and American rivers. Moreover November is a better month than April all over the State. Many small fish come into Paper Mill creek in October and November in advance of the run of big fish and if the natives can be induced to keep away from the small streams in April, the larger streams will take care of themselves, as they are generally too high for fishing in that month.

Dr. Carver to Anon.

The following letter to the American Field from the pen of Dr. Carver contains barrels of good common horse sense. The Doctor is somewhat enthusiastic on the Cashmore gun but the same argument will apply to many other first-class weapons and confirms the old saying, "never send a boy on a man's errand." Dr. Carver writes as follows: "I regret very much indeed that Anon should mix me up in the controversy with Dr. Williamson, call me a crack, and use language that would lead the public to think me a fully developed imbecile. I am perfectly willing that Anon should roast Dr. Williamson, because I am sure the Doctor can stand lots of abuse when it comes from some hum shot of his own state. As for myself, I am as sensitive to rough handling as an unbroken mule, and kick unmercifully when I think the occasion demands it."

I will say this much, that Dr. Williamson is right as to a test of skill, but the pigeons must be first-class and trapped from English traps, and given every advantage to fly with the wind. Birds as shot in this country are a mixed lot as a rule, and with birds of this kind it is simply a game of chance. On the other hand, targets as now shot should not be recognized as sport, or even a test of skill. It simply amounts to nothing as far as benefiting a shooter is concerned; but is a mighty good thing for manufacturers. Target shooting can be made a test of science and skill by shooting them from five traps, 30 yards rise, use of both barrels. This style of shooting will develop good field shots and give every man an equal show. Shooting targets 16 yards rise, with one's face glued down on the stock of his gun, using one barrel, is simply nothing more than trick shooting and is not practical, for in the fields the use of both barrels is absolutely necessary to insure success.

Before proceeding further, I wish to say I am not employed by William Cashmore, nor do I represent any powder company, consequently I feel free to give an honest opinion and state past experiences. Anon says I am a crank regarding my load. This is all wrong. I have only changed my powder three times in twenty years, and then changed because I could not secure foreign-made shells. I am using practically the same load to-day that I used twenty years ago. But this I have done: I have given every powder placed upon the market a good, practical test, and I am ever willing to test any new powder that I believe possesses merit, but in shooting matches my load remains the same. When I sell a Cashmore gun I furnish loading instructions and sell a man a gun that I think he can do well with. For instance, I sold Dr. Williamson a 32-inch Cashmore, Mr. Deiter a 30 inch. Look at the two men, then you will understand my reason for doing so. Dr. Williamson is a large, long-armed man (no joke intended), while Mr. Deiter is slight and a very nervous shooter. I mean by this that one of them is a cool, deliberate shot, while the other shoots with the rapidity of lightning, so you see, friend Anon, that there is "method in my madness." I will say this, that a 32-inch gun will not do for all shooters any more than a 30-inch will. Some of the best shots use 28-inch barrels and others 26-inch; all depends upon the style of the man. With some of the nitro powders now made I presume good results could be had with a gun with 20-inch barrels, but of what use is such a weapon? It is perfectly ridiculous to think all men could do equally well with a 30 inch barrel.

Anon says we hear of Carver shooting a seven pound gun one day and a nine pound the next. This is all true. In my experimenting I use all weights and furnish my friends with the best. I flatter myself that I am an up to date shooter, and at the present time I am using a William Cashmore gun, 20-bore, that weighs eight pounds, and am using four drams of nitro powder and an ounce and a quarter of shot. This gun has 34-inch barrels. Perhaps you will object to this, Mr. Anon. I would not be in the least surprised, you have shown yourself to be so thoroughly ignorant regarding the gun question.

Now, Anon, I will furnish you with a practical illustration of the different results obtained by using a 30 and 32 inch gun. You say the best shooting I ever did was with a 30-inch barrel. Now listen to this: I used a 30-inch barrel for twelve years. The best score I ever made with it was 93. I believed this to be the best gun I could secure, and was perfectly satisfied with it until I went to Australia and found a William Cashmore gun with 32-inch barrels. As I said before, I have always tried to keep up with the times. I saw I was out-gunned, and after giving the guns a thorough test purchased two William Cashmore guns. Please note the result: In two weeks after I got them I made these scores: I killed 98 out of 100, two dead out of bounds, at Botany Bay shooting grounds; 57 straight at the Gun Club, 32 yards rise; drove a few miles to another ground and killed 76 straight, 32 yards, making a total of 133 straight, 32 yards rise. During the next two weeks I killed 347 out of 350. Then I came to this country, shot twenty-five matches, and the lowest score I made was 94. Killed 99 twice in a small boundary, and this fall killed 117 straight and scored 199 out of 200. This with a 32 inch gun. The week before Christmas I used a 30-inch Cashmore, nitro gun, made scores of 86, 94, 90 and 96 out of each 100. The score of 90 was the best shooting ever done on Watson's grounds, so I am told.

What I claim for William Cashmore is this: He is a modern gunmaker, up to date in every respect, and he has come to the front with a new nitro gun that has no equal in the world, and that he can make you a gun any length barrel you want, guarantee it to shoot five drams of nitro powder and make a good pattern.

Another thing you are wrong in, Anon. The up-to-date Cashmore nitro gun has not got an Anson & Deely action. He uses a cross bolt, as so many gunmakers do, not that it is of any special benefit to the gun, but as a protection in case of accident, on his $300 grade, but the new nitro gun is a thing of beauty and strength, and to compare it with any other gun now made would be the merest folly. There is no comparison between it and other guns, and without seeing this magnificent weapon you say the fastening is an eyesore. What will the public think of a man who writes for their benefit and condemns a gun without seeing it? My opinion is this, you are some second class, crazy shot, who lives in Racine, and are so jealous of Dr. Williamson's success with his 32-inch Cashmore that you would tear the shooting idol of Wisconsin from his pedestal and hurl the broken pieces at my head. Dr. Williamson's scores of 91, 92, 93, 95 and 96 are hard ones for your little shooting burg of Racine.

Before ending this subject, dear Anon, any time you think you have as good a gun as the Cashmore, come down to Chicago and shoot one hundred of my shells with me, and I am sure the lesson will do you good. Ignorance on the gun question is always excusable.

Here is another amusing line from Anon: "A man may hold on a straight outgoing bird and the chances are if he does not break its wing he will lose the bird." This is quite true of the guns and loads used by men of Anon's type. For illustration, I will refer to Jack Winston, who came to Chicago with one of the best loads of targets or slow birds ever seen in this city. Remember, reader, a machine made gun and a machine-loaded shell. Everyone knows that Jack Winston is a good, steady shot. He came with the best gun and cartridges that America can produce, shot George Roll at a medium class of birds and killed 92. A few days after, I shot him a race and he killed 91. Anyone will agree with me that this is good shooting, and steady form on slow birds and no wind. The second match he shot with me, the birds were good, strong ones, and 60 per cent drivers. What was the result? Winston only killed 78, the Cashmore gun 94! The third match, a cold, raw day, strong wind, birds corks, Winston scored 77, Cashmore 90. These birds were the best lot and the most even ever seen upon Watson's grounds. The Cashmore gun simply tore the hard drivers all to pieces, while many of Winston's birds left a handful of feathers and disappeared in the distance. The next day at the same class of birds, Winston killed 81. This proved to everyone present that the guns and loads used by Winston and others are no earthly good when the birds are first-class. Winston shot a good gun and a good load, according to Anon's idea, and in three matches at good birds he only killed over 80 once, and then only 81. I am thoroughly convinced of this, if Jack Winston had used the same gun and load that I did, the scores made by him would have been much better.

I hope I have convinced Anon of his mistake in jumping on a friendless boy, and also proven to him that a 30-inch gun will not fit all shooters any more than can 30 inch pants be worn by all men.

Pay the Referee.

I have often wondered if many sportsmen have ever thought how much depends in a big match or tournament on having a good man to fill the position of referee. To be satisfactory to all he must have an honorable reputation in sport; he must be a cool, level-headed man, thoroughly posted on all the different rules; a man who can give a quick, just decision, and do it in such manner that none can take offense. Such men are few and far between, and, in my opinion, very little appreciated, for who ever heard of the man who officiated in that capacity being paid for such services in America, says Shooting and Fishing.

The man who starts a horse race is well paid for so doing. The same can be said of the man who referees a boxing match or prize fight, or the man who umpires a ball game. But the man who acts as referee at a shooting match, and has to stand out in the cold for hours, and sometimes at tournaments for days, is seldom thanked or thought of.

I do not know how many will agree with me, but I would suggest that the American Association set an example at its next handicap by paying its referees. At all club grounds in other countries, the men who act as such are salaried officers, therefore are paid for their services. As for individual matches, the winner could well afford a small per cent of his winnings. It would be money well spent.

[We would inform our contemporary that it is the custom in California, and we think all over the Coast, to pay the referee of live bird shoots and it is certainly a wise plan.]

A Modern Duck Boat.

John Thompson, a Woodland youth who is employed at the gas works, has displayed great ingenuity in the construction of a duck boat, which is a vast improvement on anything ever used on these tule waters. It is a very light concern, of the usual length and breadth of an ordinary vessel of its kind, but it is only seven or eight inches deep. Compressed air compartments enable the little craft to skim along on the top of the water. This, however, is not the principal feature of the model. The propelling power is the thing that attracts the most attention. The motive power is furnished by the individual, and works on the same principle as is used on railroad bicycles, a lever which is worked hauled and forth. This connects with a small screw at the stern, and drives the vessel through the water at a very satisfactory rate of speed, with very little exertion. The steering is manipulated by means of an apparatus which is operated with the feet. As a whole, the boat is safe, speedy, light and trim, and is indeed the result of true genius on the part of its builder.

CARTRIDGE AND SHELL.

Spoonbills are very plentiful at Mt. Eden.

Sea brant are said to be very plentiful in Tomales Bay.

The open season for shooting ducks and quail ends on February 15th.

The Spooney Gun Club of Alvarado were very successful last Sunday.

F. L. Judd and G. G. Billington had their usual success with the ducks last week.

Ducks are more plentiful at the Bridges than they have been at any time this season.

Stockton is getting to be a sporting center, the latest club in that city is a Pistol and Rifle Club.

The Columbia target leads at present in Shooting and Fishing's vote on the most popular target.

The English snipe, the gamiest of all game birds, is still unprotected. This is a disgrace to the sportsmen of California.

F. E. Miller, F. B. Harden, Frank Umphred and a number of others were at the Bridges Sunday but the rain kept most of them in.

During the past year we have had many inquiries for wild rice seed. We are informed that it can be obtained of R. Valentine, Janesville, Wis.

Have you ever seen the Powers Cleaning Rod? It double discounts any other cleaning rod ever put on the market. Ask your dealer to show you one.

The late rain have again played havoc with duck shooting in the bay counties, but if no rain falls during the latter part of this week fair bags should be obtained to-morrow.

J. Bruns, Gus Alderton and J. Karney spent four days last week at their usual haunt in Sonoma Co., and returned on Sunday with very fair bags of canvas-back, spring teal and spoonbills.

Among the recently formed Stockton Pistol and Rifle Club members are such well known sportsmen as C. A. Merrill, George P. Schaefer, D. Winders, H. Lonjers, George B. Sperry and George Ditz.

C. Cate, R. G. Wengel, J. H. Potter and Parke were at Mowry's on Sunday. The two former braved the storm and bagged about 18 birds each, but the majority of the shooters killed most of their birds around the stoves in their cabins.

There was a sparrow tournament at Indianapolis on January 20th. There was a heavy snowstorm, and the sparrows consequently did not fly as well as usual. Voris, Fulford, Elliott, Heikes, Glover and Bartlett all killed over 90 per cent. of 130 birds shot at.

The Reliance Gun Club of Oakland, Cal., held their annual meeting and election of officers at their club house on Tuesday evening last. The various annual reports were read, and all went to show that the club was in a most prosperous condition. The following well-known sportsmen were elected to serve during the ensuing year: Hon. J. O. Cadman, President; Colonel S. I. Kellogg, Vice-President; William H. Seaver, Captain; G. Berry, Secretary; H. A. Tubbs, Treasurer. Board of Directors: J. O. Cadman, William H. Seaver, H. A. Tubbs, E. O. Olsen, F. Schriber.

As the craze for straight stocked guns undoubtedly originated in England the following from the London Rod and Gun will interest our shotgun shooting readers. "Americans usually have their guns built with more bend than the guns of English make, and certainly some very fine shots have come to this country from across the Atlantic. We may be rather overdoing it with our straight stocks, especially for game shooting. The whole of the butt end should be firmly fixed to the shoulder. No part should be above it, or the stock is liable to wobble on its toe and cause unsteadiness of the gun. A gun with an unduly straight stock is not suitable for shooting ground game, although it would be more adapted for stopping rising birds."

A rare and fine specimen of Albino robin [(Turdus migratorius) was shot by J. G. Bliss recently on the outskirts of Alameda. It is a male bird in white plumage, except just a snip of pink seemingly inclined to mantle to the surface of the breast. The bird was first observed by Mr. Bliss's boy, Jack, while out hunting, who lost no time in reporting to his father, when measures were immediately instituted for the capture of the rare avis. This was effected by the use of but three and a half grains of smokeless powder, propelling just a pinch of No. 10 shot through a 32 "auxiliary" barrel. It therefore goes without saying that the plumage was not disturbed in the least, but remained intact and without blemish. The specimen is now in the hands of Mr. Emerson, a scientist, for preservation.

Note the change in the advertisement of the Dupont powder. Their Summer Shooting has become very popular with the duck shooters this winter and their Smokeless, both rifle and shot gun is one of the most popular powders in America. The Eagle Duck and other brands are equally well known.

Hagenbeck, of Hamburg, whose trained animals were such an interesting feature of the World's Fair at Chicago, has issued a catalogue of his menagerie, giving the value of different animals. He quotes a hippopotamus at $4500, an African rhinoceros from $2500 to $3000; female elephants, according to age, $2000 to $3000; male elephants, with tusks 2 feet long, $2000; pair of African lions from the Sahara, only $1500; a Nubian lioness, $600; a trained group of wild animals, consisting of two pairs of Nubian lions and two male Bengal tigers, $7000; a female Bengal tiger, $750; a pair of Somatra tigers, $1500; a pair of jaguars, $750; a female Japanese leopard, with a cub, $300; an African male leopard, $150; a black panther, $400; a pair of full-grown wolves, $50; a gnu, $600; a large male polar bear, $300; a large brown bear, $50; a pair of zebras, $750; an alligator, 10 feet long, $550; a boa constrictor, 23 feet long, $550; a Somali ostrich, $175; a pair of Borneo apes, $100, and a baboon, $25.

The Trout Law.

The Fish and Game law which was passed by the Assembly last week was before the Senate Committee on Forestry, Fish and Game on Tuesday. The close season for salmon, from September 10th to October 16th in all waters of the State and until November 15th in all rivers above tidewater, is acceptable to the committee. But one change will be made and that is in regard to the closed season for trout in high altitudes. Instead of from December 1st to May 1st the closed season for trout in elevated regions will be fixed from March 1st to June 1st. The bill was referred to a subcommittee to be amended as outlined.

Trout and Troutling.

Probably every man has stored in memory's cabinet some picture of the long ago, when as "bare foot boy with cheek of tan" he waited patiently for a hite at the end of his hickory pole; when summer winds brought him delightful perfume and sky, water, sun and trees formed a picture that he sees yet. Or, perhaps, he fondly remembers his pleasure and delight at fishing through the ice for pickerel and pike, says T. B. Hutchinson.

But he who has whipped the flies out over the dancing ripples of a California trout stream, and has felt the electric thrill as he hooks the trout, while the perfume of azalias comes over the water, and the red woods and black oaks mirror themselves in the stream, will have more delightful recollections in the days to come, than he of sluggish stream or frozen pond to the Agassiz Association.

Trout fishing, as a means of recreation has, I believe, more followers than any other kind of out-door sport; easily followed, with moderate success easily attainable, no danger and delightful weather it offers inducements few other sports can, and yet with thousands following the sport each year, very few know one species from another, or can tell a trout from a salmon, and know nothing of the habits of the fish. Of all the families of fish that of the salmonidae, or salmon family, is most interesting; and for beauty, gameness, activity and quality of meat, it stands preeminent.

There are ten genera of this family, but only three or four are usually known as salmon and trout, and I shall only speak of three. Oncorhynchus is the generic name of the Pacific Coast salmon or Quinns; salmo, for the salmon and black spotted or true trout, and salvelinus, the char or red spotted trout.

The names have, with the exception of the Quinns, been taken from the old European names, and a glance at the manner of their derivation may be of interest.

IN NORTHERN EUROPE.

There is common in the salt waters a large fish spending most of its time where the water is cold and clear, ascending the rivers in the spring, leaping the cataracts and finally casting its spawn on the gravelly bed of a small stream. The Latin writers call the fish salmo, the word coming from solio, meaning "to leap," and in the languages which are derived from the Latin this fish has for its name some form of the word salmon.

Very similar to salmon, having black spots over the surface of the body and rather large silvery scales, is a smaller fish which rarely descends to the sea and makes its home in the rivers and lakes of Northern Europe. This fish was known to the Latin writers as fario. This fish is the trout of all English writers, the trout of Isaac Walton and its scientific name is salmo fario.

Half way between the salmon and the trout there is a large trout which lives mostly in the estuaries of the rivers, rarely ascending the rivers very far and seldom venturing far into the sea. This is the trutta of the Latin authors and from this name the word "trout" is derived. The scientific name of this large fish, half salmon, half trout in appearance, altogether trout in fact, is salmo trutta, and to this fish properly belongs the name of Salmon Trout.

There are thus in England, whence our names have come, three species or forms of black spotted silvery salmon; 1st the salmon largest of all and anadromous, that is running up the river to spawn, and living in the sea; 2nd, the trout living in the brooks and the lakes only; 3rd, the Salmon Trout, which stands between the two, with the appearance of trout and habits of salmon.

BESIDES THESE THREE

There is another and a finer fish, found in the coldest and clearest lakes of the Alps and Northern Europe, dark colored and spotted with bright red, the scales so small the average fisherman does not discover their existence.

This fish is known in England as the char and its scientific name is salvelinus alpinus. Our ancestors found running up the rivers of the Atlantic Coast a large fish precisely like the salmon of Europe; in fact, the very same thing, so they naturally and correctly called it salmon. They also found in the fresh waters of New England, New York and the Alleghany region, a red-spotted, fine-scaled, dark-colored beauty. Having found no real trout with black spots and being unfamiliar with the name of char, they gave to this fish the name of trout, or speckled trout, or brook trout, and in spite of the fact that in reality it is not a trout but a char, the name of brook trout is likely to adhere forever to the salvelinus fontinalis. Real trout there are none on our Atlantic coast; salmon trout is likewise wanting; but the name salmon trout is often given to the brook trout or char which has run out into the sea. The settlers on the Pacific Coast brought with them from the east the names to which they had been accustomed, but found none of the fishes to which these names belong.

SALMON THEY FOUND.

But it was larger and vastly more abundant than the salmon of Europe. The salmon of California differ from all the rest of the salmon family in the fact the number of rays in the anal fin is from 14 to 20, while in all the salmon and trout on the other side of the Atlantic, the fin contains no more than eleven rays. In other ways the Pacific coast salmon differs from the salmon of Europe, and is in fact a fish more intensely salmon than the salmon of Europe and it has been placed therefor in another genus, known as the oncorhynchus. They are, however, commonly known and called salmon, and the Chinook name of Quinns is used to distinguish them from the real salmon.

The settlers found in California the true trout, black spotted and silvery scale, closely resembling the trout of Europe, but wholly unlike the char or so-called trout of the Eastern States. These they rightly called trout and several species are now known.

California abounds with trout and all of the native species are true trout. The trout as a rule lives in the streams and lakes, running but not necessarily or always doing so. It is easily tamed, however, when the trout has run out to sea, or is a sea run trout, because the salt water destroys the black spots and markings and covers the fish with a silver sheen.

The large dark spots upon trout, or rather dark lateral bands, are evidence of infancy, and show the fish to be young. The coloring of trout is not a safe guide as to species, except in particular cases, and even the color of the meat is not evidence of any value.

Poor "Cinch Bill" Emmons.

Cinch bill No. 336 was the subject of prayerful consideration last evening by the Assembly Committee on Public Morals, Sig. Bettman chairman. The bill is aimed at the industry of breeding thoroughbred racing horses, and is in the interest of the breeders of standard-bred trotting stock.

Running races have become so popular by reason of the dash and excitement which attend the Derby and other holiday gatherings when contrasted with the gameness of trotting races, which often cause so much disappointment when the favorite breaks, that the trade in trotters, except for the plow and sand cart service, has languished.

Mr. Emmons' bill is ostensibly, with a diagram, designed to prevent gambling on horse racing by allowing horses to race in California during the summer for but thirty days at a time in any one county.

From the first of December until the first of March, the season of the crack mind-runners, when crackerjack trotters from Bakersfield are under serious disadvantage, no horses will be allowed to run in the mud of San Francisco or Alameda or on the alkali but fertile plains of Bakersfield.

Emmons went rhetorical tears over the vice of gambling. He argued, without choking or laughing outright, that the stoppage of racing during the winter season would prevent gambling, and pathetically mentioned as a fact that at the Ingelside and Oakland racetracks twenty bookmaking firms each pay $100 per day to the management for the privilege of allowing sporting people to bet on their favorites.

During the course of his remarks, Mr. Emmons mentioned the names of Daniel M. Burns, Adolph Spreckels, Thomas H. Williams and Ed Corrigan in what Chairman Bettman considered a slurring way, and when Mr. Emmons asked that the committee should report favorably upon the bill, Bettman said that the committee would take no action until the gentlemen representing the San Francisco and Alameda county racetracks had a hearing before the committee.

Bettman was very indignant over the matter, and said to a reporter after the meeting that he thought more of the gentlemen mentioned by Mr. Emmons than he did of the people who favored the bill.

Training The Trotting Horse.

BY CHARLES MARVIN.

This great practical horse book is a handsome, three hundred page octavo, bound in cloth, elegantly printed, superbly illustrated, and explains in every detail the remarkable success of CHARLES MARVIN and the whole plans and methods pursued at Palo Alto as to breaking, training, shoeing, gaiting, driving, keeping, racing and breeding trotters.

Read what J. C. Silby, the owner of St. Bel, says of this book: "In this work Marvin has let out all the mysteries of the craft, and it is so simple and plain that any breeder, owner, trainer or rubber who has any relish for his business can take a colt as a yearling and develop to the highest and fullest extent that colt's capacity as a trotter. The work impressed me so strongly that I have ordered twenty copies, and shall place one in the hands of every rubber on our farm."

With a limited chance in the stud, True Briton has already shown himself to be a great sire. Rey del Bandolero, from a non-producing mare that had already had five foals, holds the Pacific Coast record, 2:57 1/4 at 2 1/2 miles; Her Majesty (dead), won 11 out of 14 starts; Walter J., (also out of a non-producing mare), a horse with a great turn of speed, has finished outside the money but a very few times out of nearly one hundred starts; Virgie A. and Zeta, both winners, being the only other ones to represent this royally-bred stallion on the racing turf this year.

From this showing there is but one inference to be drawn, and that is, that True Briton is a sure getter of winners; mares that have never thrown a winner to any other stallion, bred to True Briton, get winners and class horses at that.

Boodle 5829, Rec. 2:12½

— SIRE OF —

Two prominent horsemen were discussing the relative merits of notable stallions. They agreed that a certain stallion was well bred and a good producer, "but" he had no record. Another had a fast record, was well bred, and a good producer, "but" he was too small. Another had nearly all the necessary qualifications, "but" he had corbs and bad feet. Another possessed many rare qualifications, "but" he was vicious, as well as a "quitter." Finally one asked the other, "What's the matter with Boodle?" They both concluded that no stallion, living or dead, possessed all the qualifications desired in a more marked degree than BOODLE.

QUALIFICATIONS

BREEDING onexcelled. Send for extended tabolated pedigree and history of BOODLE.

COLOR, beautiful seal brown, black points, no white.

SIZE, sixteen hands high, weight 1,150 pounds.

DISPOSITION, gentle as a lamb. A child can handle him.

STYLE. A real handsome horse—"a thing of beauty."

CONDITION. Sound as he was the day he was foaled.

SPEED. Race record 2:12½, in a hard-fought battle, which he won.

GAMENESS. A veritable boll dog. A gamer horse never lived.

PRODUCE. While he has only three in the list, no horse living or dead can make a better showing, considering the number of his progeny that have been trained. He transmits all his perfect qualifications to his progeny. His ancestors are noted for their iron constitutions; many of them, notably Goldsmith Maid, 2:14, were obtaining world's records at a time in life when ordinary horses are thinking of dying of old age.

SEASON, ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS
(Usual Return Privileges)

G. K. HOSTETTER & CO., Owners, San Jose.
C. F. BUNCH, Manager, San Jose Race Track.

ST. NICHOLAS.

TRIAL, 2:27 1-4, AS A THREE-YEAR-OLD.

SIRE BY DAM SIRE BY

The Great SIDNEY, 2:19 3-4, Sire of 66 in the List, ECHO, the Greatest Sire of Broodmares.

ST. NICHOLAS is now eleven years old, just in his prime for the stud; stands 15.3 hands; in color a rich dark bay, two hind ankles white; star in forehead; has good limbs and feet; a pure-gaited trotter, and has an excellent disposition. Is pronounced by every one who has seen him as an unusually stylish, well-formed handsome individual. As a three-year-old he went quarters in 30 seconds; then fell into hands that took more pride in owning such a horse rather than in continuing his development.

His coils are of good size, fine lookers, and show extreme speed, but are all owned in private or nonprofessional hands.

ST. NICHOLAS is now placed at the head of the breeding department of Sulphur Spring Farm, and will be bred to all the first-class mares. All colts on this farm are trained from windlings.

This horse, on account of conformation and breeding, cannot help but produce size, style, action and speed.

Will serve only a limited number of mares at $30 FOR THIS SEASON, with usual return privilege; money due on notice of first service.

PASTURAGE $4 PER MONTH.

No liability assumed for accidents or escapes.

In order to show my confidence in the breeding qualities of ST. NICHOLAS, I make the following proposition to owners of stallions that are in service for the SEASON OF 1897 IN CALIFORNIA. I will be one of not less than five to deposit or guarantee in the sum of $100—entrance money and as much money as the BREEDER-ASSOCIATION chooses to add, all to form a purse—to be trotted or paced for by two-year-olds, in a race, one mile, best two in three, at the FALL MEETING of the P. C. T. H. B. A. in 1900. Only one entry, the get of each stallion allowed. Further details as per agreement of the majority of owners.

Address all communications to

A. G. GURNETT, 308 Pine St., San Francisco, Cal., or, SULPHUR SPRING FARM, Walnut Creek, Contra Costa County, Cal.

BREED FOR

Disposition, Size, Speed, Soundness and Style

WELCOME, 2:10 1-2.

This game and consistent stallion will make the SEASON OF 1897, ending July 1st, at W. E. MEEK'S STABLE, near the Haywards Station, at $50 THE SEASON, With usual return privileges.

WELCOME was sired by Arthur Wilkes, 2:28½, out of Letty (dam of Wayland W., 2:12; Welcome (p) 2:10½, trotting 2:27½; Maud Slugleton, 2:28½), by Wayland Forrest (son of Edwin Forrest 49 and a mare by Sir Charles, thoroughbred); second dam Mary (dam of Apex, 2:26; Sterling, sire of four and one sire of one.) Grace, dam of Creole, 2:15; Eagle, 2:19½), by Flaxtail 8132; third dam by Bright Eyes, son of Boanerges. Arthur Wilkes, 2:28½, sire of Welcome, was sired by the mighty Guy Wilkes, 2:15½, out of Gracie, by Arthurton 365; second dam Old Lady, by David Hill Jr.

WELCOME comes from speed producing lines on both sides and his reputation as the "gamest race horse ever Andy McDowell handled" shows that he is far superior to many that have extreme speed, but are lacking in courage. WELCOME is a bay horse, stands 16 hands, and is one of the best-formed horses in California. He earned a trotting record of 2:27½ when a four-year-old, and was put to pacing last year. He started in Montana without a record and won money in every race he started. He won some of the most stubbornly-contested races seen in 1896.

Good pasturage for mares at reasonable rates. For other particulars, address,

W. E. MEEK, Haywards, Cal.

EL BENTON, 2:23, the Season, $50

Season Commences February 1st, and Closes July 1st, 1897.

Mares should be shipped to Oakwood Park Stock Farm, Danville, per S. P. R. R., via Martinez. Best care given, but no liability assumed for accidents or escapes.

Pasturage, $5 per month; hay and grain, $10 per month. For terms for other stallions and further particulars, address,

VIVA LA

Brown Colt, foaled in 1892, Bred by Jos. Cairn Simpson.

BY WHIPS, SIRE OF AZOTE, 2:04 3-4, COBWEBS, 2:12, AND SEVERAL OTHERS IN THE LIST

FIRST DAM—JOE VIVA, by Joe Hooker.

SECOND DAM—LADY VIVA, by Three Cheers (dam of Electioneer Rex, showed when a two-year-old quarters in 36 seconds.)

THIRD DAM—LADY AMANDA, by imp. Hurrah (the dam of Electioneer Jr., formerly Advance, three-year-old record 2:22½).

FOURTH DAM—LADY LANCASTER, by imp. Monarch. The dam of Malcolm, Regent, Ontario and several other winners. Marion, the dam of Emperor of Norfolk, El Rio Rev, Yo Tambien, and several other high-class race horses, is by Malcolm, and the breeding of Viva La—Electioneer, combined with strains of thoroughbred which have shown adaptability to acquire trotting action, is now greatly fancied by intelligent breeders.

VIVA LA is sixteen hands high, a rich seal brown in color and more than usually handsome, combining muscular power and quality in an eminent degree. He was trained a little in his yearling form and showed a 2:40 gait and was improving rapidly when his training was suspended. He can scarcely fail on the right sort of mares to get fast trotters, and with nearly a certainty of securing good-sized, fine-looking horses which even in these times are in demand.

FOR SALE FROM THE ESTATE OF ISAAC DeTURK.

ROBIN, 2:22 3-4, No. 28,370, Bay stallion, foaled 1889, by LIVE DIRECTOR, 2:17, No. 1989, and NELLY GRANT, by SANTA CLAUS, 2:17, No. 2,000. First dam BESSIE, by NEPHEW, No. 1220; second dam NELLIE NELSON, by JOHN NELSON, No. 187, etc. ROBIN is a stylish, attractive horse, has a kind disposition, is level-headed, fast and game. He trotted a mile in his work last season over a heavy track in 2:16; last quarter in 32 seconds. The 2:22 classes in which he was entered last season failed to fill and he was not started. He is a fine stock horse, and is a sure foal-getter. As yet his get are young, but a few of them are being handled in Santa Rosa and are very promising.

Also, bay mare EVELINE, foaled 1883, by NUTWOOD, No. 600. EVELINE is the dam of MAUI FOWLER, 2:21 1/4, by ANTEEO, No. 7858; TIETAM, 2:19, No. 24,397, by ANTEEO No. 7858; NICK RUSSELL (trial 2:31), by SILAS SKINNER, No. 10,681; OLEY, a good green colt, by SILAS SKINNER No. 10,681, was broken last fall and showed a quarter in 33 seconds when hardly bridled; ROBERT (pacer), by ROBIN, No. 28,370, has paced quarters in 32 seconds, and, barring accidents, will be seen on the circuit next season.

Any person wanting a broodmare can make no mistake in securing this one. Her get are always fast. She has produced fast ones from three different stallions and is now in foal to ROBIN, No. 28,370.

LIMITED TO TWENTY-FIVE MARES.

ALTAMONT is the champion sire of 2:10 performers, being the only horse living or dead with six to his credit. He has taken a leading position among the foremost trotting sires of the country under such conditions that phenomenal ability alone has saved him from oblivion. A very small proportion of his progeny has been trained, and an extremely small number of these by competent men. As a partial illustration of his meagre advantages, it may be stated that he has never produced a colt from a pacing-bred mare, or from one with a fast record. Nor has he ever yet been crossed with a descendent of George Wilkes, Electioneer, Dictator, Sidney or Dexter Prince. Oregon and Washington have produced seven 2:10 performers, and EVERY ONE of these are ALTAMONTs.

ALTAMONT is a horse of iron constitution, and at twenty-two years of age is in the full vigor of his prime, a sure foal-getter, and, except for his blindness—the result of an accident—is without blemish. He has never sired a sorrel, all of his colts having been solid colors—bays, browns or blacks. He is now located in Alameda, at Herbert's Stables, on Sherman street, between Santa Clara and Central avenues. Alameda local S. P. and Narrow Gauge trains from San Francisco, stop within two blocks of stable, and Oakland and Alameda electric cars, half a block away. Residence two doors from stable.

INGLESIDE RACES.

Close of a Meeting Where the Mud Horses
Had a Good, Long Inning—How the Races Were Run.

FIFTIETH DAY—FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 5.

Tha Irish, as a race, are noted for their love of fighting as well as of fun. According to Charles Lever and other novelists, they are either looking for fun or a fight—that is, in their leisure moments. This time people of other nationalities were in a fighting mood, too, over the decision made placing one horse with a decidedly Irish cognomen in front of another hearing a more euphonious yet fully as Celtic a title. In short, Pat Murphy was given a decision over Moylan, and probably the latter had the largest number of friends with coin to gamble. Money always talks around a race track in more ways than one, and when it comes down to a hard fight and a close finish the fellow with $200 down can split his voice yelling for his horse after it's all over and use the other half shouting "Robbers!" "Shame!" "Thieves!" and other beautiful things that sound just glorious to a racing judge. The trouble yesterday occurred over the decision in the fourth race. Two jumps from the wire Moylan had a head the best of Pat Murphy, but it is said Mr. Corrigan's horse held his mouth open to catch a bone thrown at him and the judges saw Pat Murphy's roan nose in front of Moylan's brown one as they glanced along the sighting rods where the money is secured. At the time the atmosphere was fairly clear, but in about half a minute after the annunciator across the track had told its little tale a bluish-green smoke could be seen ascending very swiftly on all sides of the judges' stand, and it had an unmistakable odor of sulphur about it. Epithets were hurled through the air very fast, and some of them collided, as did their throwers. A Pinkerton man, from all reports entirely too officious and not a firm believer in the exercise of free speech in America, got mixed up so badly with an angry crowd that for a time it was even money he would never again line up to fire a shot or stop a badger.

But leaving all levity aside, it was just a close finish, where only the judges could decide which one won, and where, as usual, money blinded those that had bets down on the wrong horse. This will always be the case around a race course. The judges, even were they not honest men, would have no object in giving Pat Murphy the decision over Moylan, and no one can sit down and calmly think it over without arriving at that conclusion.

A six-furlong race for three-year-olds came first. Nuncomar, Fort Augustus, Braxey was the order to a good start. Past the half it was Nuncomar first by a length, M. Chicquot and Basquil heads apart. Defender and Braxey now ran up and were in the lead, head and head, turning for home, two lengths from Basquil. In the straight Lady Hurst, seventh, came like a shot, getting up to Basquil in the last few strides, winning cleverly by half a length from The Tourist, who came from eighth place and got the place, finishing a head before Basquil, who was a head from Atticus, on whom Defender was lapped. Time, 1:20½. Lady Hurst 50, Basquil 8 to 5, M. Chicquot and Fort Augustus 5 (latter backed from 20), others 15 to 100 to 1.

The second race was at a mile and a sixteenth, selling. Benamela led for a little over a length, then Two Cheers went up to him, leading by a length at the quarter. At the half Benamela was being sent along a bit, and was a length to the good, Two Cheers second, three lengths from Morte Fosse and Jack Martin together. At the three-quarters Benamela was ½ lengths before Two Cheers, he two before Morte Fosse. Benamela went on about his business and won easily by one and a half lengths, Morte Fosse, in a drive, beating Two Cheers three parts of a length for place. Marcel was fourth. Benamela was at 9 to 10, Morte Fosse 2½ to 1, Two Cheers 6, Marcel 15, and Jack Martin 100 to 1.

The third race was at six furlongs. They got off to a poor start, Banjo showing first, Red Bird next. Red Bird led by two lengths past the half, Banjo and Elmer F. heads apart two lengths from Fullerton Lass. Turning for home Red Bird and Elmer F. were heads apart, three lengths in front of Minnie Cee. Elmer F. was headed by Whitestone a little over a sixteenth from home, but tired, Elmer F. coming on strong and winning easily by one and one-half lengths, Whitestone second, two lengths in front of Minnie Cee. Fullerton Lass was fourth, two lengths further away. Time, 1:19½. Elmer F. was at 2 to 1 (backed from 2½), Whitestone 7 (10 once), Minnie Cee 2½, Frank Jaubert 8, others 12 to 100 to 1.

The fourth, a six furlong race, brought a good field to the post. To a fair start Moylan showed first, Pat Murphy second and George Miller next. Yemen was away last. George Miller was first by a head past the half, Yemen second, a length before Kowalsky. At the three-quarter pole it was Kowalsky and Miller heads apart, Yemen half a length away, a head before Moylan. The latter came very fast the last part of it, attended closely by Pat Murphy, and Kowalsky. Two jumps from the wire Moylan's head was in front of Murphy's, but Moylan dogged it at the end, and the finish was so close that it took the judges to decide it. They placed Pat Murphy first and Moylan second, amid considerable excitement and cries of disapproval. Kowalsky was third, a length away, with Caliente at his saddle. Time, 1:17½. Pat Murphy was at 8 to 1, Moylan 4½, Kowalsky 18 to 5, Yemen 11 to 5, Caliente 6 and George Miller 8 to 1.

The last was at seven furlongs. They got away to a rather poor start. Edgemont and Masoero ran heads apart past the quarter, two lengths from Camelia. Edgemont was one and a half lengths to the good at the half, Masoero lapped by Estaca. The latter took command three furlongs from home and led by two lengths at the three-quarter pole, Edgemont, Camelia and Buchanan close together. Estaca was not thereafter headed, winning easily by two lengths from Addie Buchanan, who in a drive beat St. Aignon half a length for place. Time, 1:32½. Estaca was at 7 to 10, Addie Buchanan 4½ to 1, St. Aignon 3½, Personne 15, others 20 to 100 to 1.

FIFTY-FIRST DAY—SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 6.

The first race was at six furlongs, selling. To a fair start Pecksniff showed first, Brametta second, Monitor next. Monitor led by a neck at the half, Snowdown second, two lengths to the good by the time the homestretch was reached, and stealing away a block, won by four lengths from Brametta, who had made a very late run and was coming very fast, Franco third, three lengths away and three from Monitor. Time, 1:18½. Snowdown was at 3 (played from 3½), Brametta 2, Franco 20, Monitor 4, Cogent 7, others 10 to 100 to 1.

In the second, six furlongs, the order to a good start was Edgemont, Scimitar, Tryst. Edgemont led by three lengths past the half, Mercutio, Tryst and Nebula heads apart as named. Turning for home it was Edgemont, Tryst, Basquil and Foremost in a bunch. Mercutio took command in the homestretch, with Tryst next, a head before Foremost. The latter came very fast the last eighth and won off by three lengths, ridden out, Scimitar two from Mercutio, he two from Basquil. Time, 1:18. Foremost was at 4½ (5 at one time), Scimitar 3, Mercutio 4, Basquil 5, others 8 to 50 to 1.

A mile race for three-year-olds came next. They were off to an excellent race. Imp. Sain was first by one and one-half lengths at the quarter, Lincoln, Arrezzo and Geyser half lengths apart in the order named. The order was the same at the half, but Geyser was further behind. He was now sent along, and at the head of the stretch Sain was first by a length, Geyser, Arrezzo and Lincoln heads apart. Sain and Geyser, head and head, drove it out, Gayser winning, all out, by half a head, Imp. Sain second, three lengths before Lincoln, who was ten from Arrezzo. Time, 1:45½. Geyser was at 11 to 20, Sain 4½ to 1, Lincoln 10 and Arrezzo 8 to 1.

A mile race, selling, was fourth on the programme. Schnitz cut out the pace, leading by two and one-half lengths at the quarter and one and one-half at the half, Babe Murphy second, lapped by Fullerton Lass. Schnitz's lead was but half a length at the head of the homestretch, Fullerton Lass second a head before Babe. The latter passed Schnitz in the last furlong and won driving by a length, Daylight coming up strong and finishing second, four lengths in front of Addie Buchanan. Collins sulked nearly all the way, and was beaten over a furlong. Time, 1:45½. Babe Murphy was at 2½ to 1, Daylight 8, Addie Buchanan 6, Collins 8 to 5, others 12 to 60 to 1.

The Hohart Stakes, one and a sixteenth miles, came next. The stake was guaranteed worth $1,500, of which $250 to second and $100 to third. After a lot of bad acting had been indulged in by Argantina and St. Lee, they were sent away to a good start. Lucky Dog went to the front without any ceremony and led by two lengths past the stand and by five at the quarter, Salvation second, with Damien at his heels. At the half Lucky Dog's lead was three lengths, Damien second, two from Salvation, who was a length before Schiller. The Dog was done for in the next furlong, Damien passing him. Dunne's colt was two lengths in front at the three-quarter pole, Lucky Dog second, a head before Salvation, who led Schiller two lengths. Tod Sloan was away out on Damien's neck, and keeping his mount going along, the son of Strathmore and Beatrice won handily by two lengths, Salvation second, one and a half from Schiller, St. Lea four lengths further away. Time 1:51½. Damien was at 3 to 1, Salvation 8 (played down from 20), Schiller 3½ (4½ once), the Hildreth pair 3½ to 1, Sweet Faverdala 6, Argantina 8, and Marcel 100 to 1.

In the mile and a half jump Reddington, under a pull, led by from half a length to one and a half lengths for a little over a mile, then J. O. C. shot by him and led by a length into the homestretch. J. O. C. took a slight lead at the last fence, but Reddington came again gamely and won by a neck J. O. C. second, ten lengths before Gold Dust, who beat Gov. Budd a head. Time, 2:55½. J. O. C.'s last two races do not dovetail at all. Reddington was at 3 to 2, J. O. C. 7 to 1, Gold Dust 8, Tuxedo 3½, Fi Fi 7 and Gov. Budd, 15.

The last race was at three and a half furlongs, for two-year-olds. No less than fourteen lined up. They were sent off to a good start after a delay of three or four minutes, caused by St. Philip and Outlay cutting up somewhat. St. Philip, close to the inner rail was first to show, with Morana second and Don Luis third. Kummel led into the homestretch, with Outlay second, a length away. The heavy going next to the rails had anchored St. Philip. Outlay looked a certain winner eighty yards of home, but stopped badly, Sir William coming on in the gamest fashion, and winning by a head on the post, Outlay three lengths before Kummel, at whose heels came Queen Mab. Time, 0:45½. Sir William was at 3 to 1 (4½ once), Outlay 8 to 5, Kummel 20, others 8 to 100 to 1.

OAKLAND RACES.

Another Season of Sport Inaugurated Under Most 'Auspicious Circumstances—The Various Events in Detail.

FORTIETH DAY—MONDAY, FEBRUARY 8.

Another racing season was inaugurated at the new Emeryville track yesterday under most auspicious circumstances, the weather being clear, the programme offered an attractive one. The result was that a crowd of about 3,000 gathered about the course, and the twenty-odd bookmakers had about all the business they cared to transact. The first three races were captured by horses at 4½, 15 and 9 to 1, then favorites took a hand at the game, evening up the score with three easy wins. Salisbury's defeat of David was the sensation of the afternoon. The son of Racine and Imp. Flirt looked better than he has for many weeks past, and his appearance did not belie him an iota, for, urged on by clever, persevering Thorpe, he came again after looking heated and nosed out the odds-on choice, David. Basquil at last won, defeating a fair lot in the first race with odds of 4½ to 1 against him. Palmerston had his running clothes on to-day, and led from "end to end" in the second. He was as good as 15 to 1 in the betting. Estaca, who went back in the wagering on the San Leandro Selling Stake, won all the way, and with ease, Casper showed his heels to Tea Rose and other good ones and Moylan, 1 to 4 favorite, galloped away with the last.

In the first, one mile, they got away to a good start and ran bunched to the first turn, where Basquil and Don Clarence drew away from the field and ran close together past the quarter. Draught came up fast near the half, and he, the Don and Basquil ran like one horse. Don Clarence fell back when three furlongs from home, Draught and Basquil entering the homestretch on practically even terms, Don Clarence one and a half lengths away. Don Clarence ran towards the rail when a little over a sixteenth from home, Draught's rider went to the bat and Basquil won handily by half a length, Draught second, three lengths from Don Clarence, who beat Jack Richelieu as far. Time, 1:50½. Basquil was at 3 to 1 (as good as 5 once), Draught 13 to 5, Don Clarence 3 to 2, others 12 to 100 to 1.

The second was at five and a half furlongs. They were off to a fair start, and Palmerston at once went to the front, leading Sugarfoot and Billy Ayres, together, two lengths. At the three quarters Palmerston was four lengths to the good, Billy Ayres, Isabelle and Two Cheers fairly well bunched. Palmerston went on and won easily by four lengths, Two Cheers, driven out, two from Sugarfoot, he six in front of Isabelle. Palmerston was at 10 to 1, Two Cheers 6, Sugarfoot 7 to 5, Marionette 4½, others 10 to 100 to 1.

A mile and a sixteenth race came next. To a good start Salisbury went to the front and led by one and a half lengths at the quarter, David and Torsina heads apart, a block ahead of the other two, which had collided early in the action. The order was the same passing the half. Salisbury was two lengths to the good at the three-quarter pole, Torsina second, lapped by David, who appeared to be in difficulties. He came again gamely, though, and appeared to have the race won eighty yards of the finish. Thorpa made a last and most excellent effort on Salisbury, though, and the result was that in a most exciting finish Salisbury won by a nose, David, two lengths before Torsina, who beat Jay Wheeler about fifty lengths. Time, 1:53½. Salisbury was at 9 to 1, David 7 to 10, Torsina and Jay Wheeler (coupled) 8 to 5 (played from 2½ to 1), Flash 150 to 1.

The San Leandro Selling Stake, fifteen-sixteenths of a mile, came next. The stake was $700 to the winner, $200 to second, $100 to third. Estaca went right to the front, leading California a length at the quarter, Sly lapped on the latter, Rosebud a length further away. She was taken to the outside by Thorps in the next furlong. At the half it was Estaca first by two lengths, California a head before Sly, who fell back badly soon after this. Estaca led into the homestretch by two lengths, California a length from Rosebud. Estaca simply galloped in a winner by two lengths, Rosebud, driven out, second, three lengths before California. Time, 1:40½. Estaca was at 9 to 5, Rosebud 1½ to 5 (played from 4 to 1), California 2½ and Sly 4 to 1.

The fifth was at five and one-half furlongs. The start was good, and Casper went right to the front, leading Tea Rose and The Sinner a length past the half. Tea Rose went up to Casper three furlongs from home and led by a head at the three-quarter pole, Yemen third, three lengths away. The leaders ran close together until half-way down the homestretch, when Casper drew away, winning easily by two lengths, Tea Rose second, three from old Yemen, who beat The Sinner two lengths. Time, 1:11. Casper was at even money, Tea Rose 2½ to 1, Yemen 15, The Sinner 9, others 10 to 20 to 1.

The last race was at six furlongs. To a good start imp. Ivy went out and set the pace, leading by about a length until about a sixteenth from home, when Moyleen was given his head and galloped in a winner by over two lengths, imp. Ivy second, a scant length before the hard-driven Candor. Time, 1:19½. Moyleen was at 3 to 10, imp. Ivy 5 to 1, (played from 7), Candor 15, Joan 10, others 80 to 200 to 1.

FORTY-FIRST DAY—TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 9.

The first race was at six furlongs, selling. To a good start Agitato went to the front, leading Sooladain two lengths past the half, Monterey a head behind Sooly. Road Runner went up second three furlongs from home, Agitato leading him a small margin at the final turn, Monitor third, three lengths away. Heartsease had fallen back and came again. Road Runner soon disposed of Agitato and came on to a three-length victory, galloping, Sooladain whipped out, second, a length before Monitor, who beat Agitato three parts of a length. Time, 1:18½. Road Runner was at 6 to 1, Sooladain 15 (backed from 50), Monitor 5, Agitato 2 (backed from 5), Heartsease 2 to 1, others 40 to 100 to 1.

The second was at three and a half furlongs, for two-year-olds. To a good start Don Luis dashed into the lead, being two lengths in front of On Goa Nita at the head of the homestretch, Irritator third, at her heels and lapped by Count of Flanders. The latter came very fast the last part of it, and ridden with great vigor by Thorpa, won handily by a length, Don Luis second, two lengths from On Goa Nita. Time, 0:44½. Count of Flanders was at 3 to 1, Don Luis 10, the Ezell pair (On Goa Nita and Siva) 3 to 1, Duke of York 3 to 2, others 15 to 50.

A five and one-half furlong race for three-year-olds came next. They were off to a good start. Chappie went to the front at once, leading by a length at the half, Defender, Woodland Belle and Roltaire, heads apart as named, Chappie led into the homestretch by a length, Roltaire next, a length in front of Woodland Belle and Defender, together. Roltaire had the race in hand a sixteenth from home and won easily by two lengths, Woodland Belle second, one and one-half lengths before Chappie. Time, 1:10½. Roltaire was at 8 to 1, Woodland Belle even money (played from 3 to 2), Chappie 4, Senator Morgan 8, others 20 to 50 to 1.

A mile selling race was fourth on the programme. To a good start Silverado was half a length in front at the quarter, Cabrillo second, lapped by Ransom. At the half it was Silverado first by a length, Cabrillo second, half a length from Ransom, who was half a dozen lengths in front of Morte Fosse, who had made up four or five lengths in that quarter of a mile. Silverado's lead was taken away three furlongs from home, and Cabrillo, Ransom and the old Baldwin cast-off ran lapped into the homestretch. Cabrillo appeared to be winning a sixteenth from home, but Morte Fosse, third, was coming on like a lion on its prey, and lifted and ridden with all the determination that was in the old one of Fooso and Flyer was shot in a winner by a nose, Cabrillo second, a length from Ransom, who beat Little Cripple five lengths. Time, 1:45½. Thorpa received a great ovation upon his entering the circle with Morte Fosse and another one after he had weighed in. Morte Fosse was at 8 to 5, Cabrillo 3 to 2, Ransom 10, Little Cripple 6 (played from 8), others 20 to 100 to 1.

Five three-year-olds came out in the fifth to run five and a half furlongs. They were off to a good start, Scotch Rosa at once assuming command and leading at the half by a length, The Sinner second, as far from Etta H. At the three quarter pole it was Scotch Rosa first by four lengths, The Sinner second, two lengths from Lou Lou R., Etta H. another half length away. The latter made a close turn against the inner rails and a sixteenth from home was leading by about a length, but stopping. Scotch Rosa came again and won on the post by half a length, Etta H. second, lasting long enough to beat The Sinner half a length. Time, 1:09½. Scotch Rosa was at 2 to 1 (played down from 3), Etta H. 3½, The Sinner 4½, Lou Lou R. 3 and Lost Girl 5 to 1.

In the last, six furlongs, Virgie A. got to the front at once, leading past the half by three lengths, Franco, Hazel D., Pecksniff and Rejected heads apart as named. At the three-quarter pole it was Virgie A., Pecksniff, Rejected and Franco heads apart as named. Turning into the homestretch Franco and Fullerton Lass were bumped into and fell, throwing Tom McHogh and Sam Sam Doggett. Rejected went on and won handily by half a length, Zolein, coming fast on the outside, second, a head before Pecksniff, who in turn beat Hazel D. that far. Time, 1:18. Rejected was at 10 to 1, Zolein 10, Pecksniff 10, Fullerton Lass 11 to 5, Hazel D. 5, others 6 to 50. McHogh was hurt a little about the shoulders, but not seriously. Doggett was uninjured.

FORTY-SECOND DAY—WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 10.

In the first, five furlongs, for three-year-olds, they got away well, and Don Clarence showed in front for a moment, with Chenille second. The latter went right to the front, leading Don Clarence two lengths at the half and Mercutio three at the head of the homestretch, where Nebula was third, two lengths further away. Chenille was not headed, and galloped in a winner by two lengths, Nebula in a hard drive beating Mercutio a neck for the place. Don Clarence was fourth, another length off. Time, 1:03. Chenille was at 2½ to 1, Nebula 50 to 1, Mercutio 6 (played down from 8), Don Clarence 11 to 5, others 10 to 60 to 1.

A fifteen sixteenths of a mile dash came next. They were sent away nicely, but Formal ran out soon after the barrier went up. Arrezzo led David two lengths at the quarter and half a length at the half, Formal another length off. David passed Arrezzo in the next furlong and led him a length at the three-quarter pole, Formal two lengths off. David drew away in the homestretch and won handily by three lengths from Formal, who was coming fast at the finish, Arrezzo third, at Formal's heels. Last Chance was last, thirty-five or forty lengths away. Time, 1:36½. David was at even money (6 to 5 for some time), Formal 9 to 5, Arrezzo 4 to 1, Last Chance 100 to 1.

A mile handicap came next. Peril went to the front on the first turn and led Damien a length at the quarter and half, McLight third, two lengths behind Dunne's colt, at the latter point. Damien, McLight and Satsuma ran lapped into the homestretch, Peril beginning to fall out three lengths from home. Satsuma was in front a sixteenth from home, but Damien came on and won handily by a length, Satsuma second, six lengths from McLight, who beat Peril two. Time, 1:41½. Damien was at 7 to 10, Satsuma 13 to 5, McLight 4, Peril 30 (50 to 1 at one time).

The Lissak Selling Stake, $950 to the winner, $200 to second, $100 to third, six furlongs, came next. They were off to a good start, and Casper shot to the front, leading Scarf Pin a length at the half, Good Times lapped on the filly. Casper was two lengths to the good at the three-quarter mark, Good Times second, a head before Scarf Pin, on whom Stentor was lapped. Casper went on and won with a lot up his sleeve by two lengths, Scarf Pin coming up gamely and snatching the place by a nose in the last stride, Good Times third, two lengths from Stentor. Time, 1:15. Casper was at 7 to 10, Scarf Pin 2½ to 1, Good Times 5½ and Stentor 15 to 1.

Perseus and Double Quick ran heads apart past the quarter, two lengths before Rosebud, on whom Benemela was lapped. Double Quick's head showed in front at the half, Perseus second, just lapped by Rosebud. At the three-quarters it was Perseus first by a length, Double Quick second, a head before Torsina, she lapped by Benemela. Double Quick went to bleeding at the final turn, and was pulled up in the homestretch, Perseus going on to a handy two-length victory, Torsina nosing out Benemela for place in the last stride, Doyle fourth, another length away. Time, 1:43½. Perseus was at 14 to 10, Torsina 4 to 1, Benemela 8 to 5, Double Quick 13 to 5, Rosebud 2½ and Doyle 30 to 1.

A mile and a sixteenth jump came last. Arundel and imp. Autonomy ran in close order in front for a little over half a mile. Then Reddington assumed the lead, being a length in front turning for home, Autonomy second, a length before Gold Dust. Reddington led over the last jump by half a length, but Gold Dust came fast on the outside, took to the inner rails, and finished a length in front of Reddington, whose jockey did the pull-up-and-didn't-you-see-him-foul-me act. Autonomy was third, six lengths away, and a head before Arundel. Time, 1:57. A claim of foul made by G. Cochran, rider of Reddington, was not allowed after some minutes' questioning and deliberating by the judges.

FORTY-THIRD DAY—THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 11.

The first race was at seven furlongs, selling. To a fair start Masoro showed first and Whitestone second, but Gutta Percha ran around her field as if they were tied up and led Masoro four lengths at the quarter and bot two at the half, Billy Ayres third. At the three-quarters Gutta Percha was only half a length in front of Masoro, who led Billy Ayres five lengths. Gutta Percha quit badly about half-way down the homestretch, and Masoro won galloping by three lengths, Gutta Percha second, six from Whitestone, he two from Billy Ayres. Time, 1:29. Masoro was at 20 to 1, Gutta Percha 11 to 5, Whitestone 2½ to 1, Threa Forks 4, Loog Lady 6, others 10 to 200 to 1.

The second event was for three-year-olds, six furlongs. Torpedo, Lena, Defender was the order to a good start. Defender and Torpedo ran close together past the half and at the three-quarters, Major Fludd being third, a length away, at the latter place. Torpedo drew ahead a little over a sixteenth from home, and won easily by five lengths from May R., who beat Defender half a length. Time, 1:16½. Jezebel was a good fourth, Torpedo was at 2½ to 1 (4 to 1 once), May R. 5, Defender 30, Installatrix 4 (played from 8), Philip H. 3, others 10 to 100.

Another six-furlong race followed. After there had been a break and a recall and a delay of fully fifteen minutes at the post they were sent along to a snappy start, Two Cheers showing first momentarily, Ricardo second and Morven third. At the half Heartsease was first by a head, Morven second, lapped by Monitor and Joan. Monitor was leading by a length at the three-quarters, Morven second, a head before Heartsease. Marjorie came from the clouds in the homestretch and assumed a slight lead in the last sixteenth, Monitor, Morven and Heartsease having fallen back beaten. Meadow Lark came very strong at the finish and just nosed out Marjorie in the last couple of strides, Two Cheers finishing up third, being a length away and a length in front of Ricardo. Time, 1:15½. Meadow Lark was at 4 to 1, Marjorie 4 (backed from 8), Two Cheers 6, Ricardo 18 to 5, Morven 3½, Seaside 15, others 75 to 100 to 1.

A mile and a quarter race was fourth on the programme. To a good send-off Eventide assumed the lead. At the stand she was three lengths before Charles A., the others running half lengths apart. The order was unchanged at the quarter. Lobengula and Foremost were now sent along, and Lobengula's head just showed in front of Eventide's at the half-mile ground, Foremost a neck further away, a length from The Bachelor, Charles A. last. Coming into the homestretch Lobengula, half a length in front, was being ridden by Martin, and The Bachelor had run up second. All the way down the homestretch "Skeets" kept at the favorite, and Eddie Jones not long afterward got to work hard. Seventy yards of the finish it looked as if The Bachelor could not get up, but he did, inch by inch, and won by a nose in the last jump, Charles A. third, ten lengths away, and a head before Foremost. Time, 2:08½. The Bachelor was at 3 (backed from 18 to 5), Lobengula 7 to 10, Charles A. 10, Foremost 10, and Eventide 100 to 1.

A mile race came fifth on the programme. Babe Murphy led Cappy a head at the quarter and half poles, Daylight a bang-up third at the latter point, having run up from last place. Babe, Cappy and Monita was the order at the three-quarters. They were half lengths apart. McHogh took no chances with the little mare, and, ridden out, Babe won by two lengths, Elmer F. coming fast enough at the end to beat Monita a head for the place, Cappy having dropped out of it. The time was 1:43½. Babe Murphy was at 6 to 5, Elmer F. 8 to 1, Monita 7, Daylight 13 to 5, others 12 to 25 to 1.

The last race was at six furlongs. Walter J. showed first momentarily, but Quicksilver was in front before they had gone a furlong, led a bunch by four lengths at the half, the same into the homestretch, and won handily by one and a half lengths from the fast-coming Bueno, who came from behind, Simmons third, three lengths further away. Time, 1:15½. Bueno ought to have won. Quicksilver was at 12 to 1, 20 to 1 at one time, Bueno 11 to 5, Simmons 8 to 5 and heavily played, Major Cook 4 to 1, others 10 to 30 to 1.

Big Races for Trotters.

NEW YORK, February 11.—As the outcome of an after-dinner talk about trotting horses which took place last month at an up-town club between Marcus Daly of Montana and E. H. Harriman, the wealthy New York financier, who owns Stamboul, 2:07½, two unusual matches were arranged to-day. Each is to be played for pay, and Daly and Harriman have deposited $10,000 with Stakeholder F. P. Olcott, president of the Central Trust Company. One race is for two-year-old trotters, in mile heats, the best two in three, and the other is for three-year-olds, in mile heats, the best three in five, the stakes in each event are $2500 a side. According to the agreement the races will take place at Goshen, Orange county, N. Y., next August, the exact date to be decided not later than June 1st, when the colts are to be named.

A notable feature of the matter is that the matchmakers invite all other owners who choose to comply with the conditions to come in on equal terms, thus throwing down the gauntlet to such crack colts as June, 2:13½, holder of the world's race record for two-year-olds; Mabel Money Penny, 2:20; Preston, 2:21½; Directum Kelly, 2:23½; Mary Beaufort, 2:23; Potenta, 2:27½; Fannie Foley, George Starr's unnamed son of Director and others that proved their worth last season.

Daly is owner of the good filly China Silk, 2:16½, winner of the two-year-old division of the Kentucky Futurity in 1895, and it is expected he will rely on the speedy daughter of Prodgal to pull down the stakes. But the Montana breeder has a large list of other fast colts to pick from for the three-year-old race.

It is understood that Harriman will rely on Khaleidan, son of Stamboul, 2:07½, which won the Produce prize for trotting bred two-year-olds at the last national horse show. The colt is promising, but he has never started for a purse. The race for two-year-olds is likely to bring out a very large field. One of the conditions of the race is that all outsiders must deposit their $2500 with Stakeholder Olcott on or before April 15th, and the colts named shall have been owned on January 4, 1897, by persons making the entries.

Sixty per cent of the stakes in each race will go to the winner, 25 per cent to the third. Both races will be decided during the August trotting meeting at Goshen. The track there is a finely kept half-mile course, which is to be put in the best possible condition for the events.

UNITED STATES HOTEL STABLES, HARTFORD, CONN., March 5, 1893.

W. F. YOUNG, P. D. T.—Please send half a dozen "Absorbine" at once. I used it on the worst Bog Spavin I ever saw, and the leg is now as clean as it ever was. I have used it on Corb and Wind Puffs with perfect success. Am now using it on a Shoe Bolt that my Veterinarian said would have to be cut out. It is more than two thirds gone and I think one more bottle will do the work?—J. P. ALLEN.

Anyone wishing to purchase a first-class Faher Sulky can secure one at a bargain by writing to S. W. Carley, San Jose. See advertisement.

Every horseman should have a supply of Quinn's ointment on hand. It is unexcelled by any preparation made.

SPECIAL DEPARTMENT

EDITED AND CONDUCTED SOLELY BY

JOSEPH CAIRN SIMPSON.

GRAND STALLIONS.—Several chapters, even a big book, would be required to give a full history of the stallions, and their illustrious kindred, which are now the crowning glory of Rancho del Paso. Not that the other departments of the immense breeding establishment are lacking as the mares of blue blood are well worthy of being associated with the sires of such high repute, and though so greatly overshadowed there are enough harness horses of a high class to give celebrity to the place as the nursery of fast pacers and trotters.

But the stallions are the conspicuous feature, predominating over mares and colts on account of being the foreground of the picture, and never before on any one stud farm, any two, three or four of the big places in this country or Europe which can show such a collection.

To attempt individual descriptions in our article, or even in a series of newspaper sketches, of the thirty or more stallions of Rancho del Paso, would be a collection of eulogies which readers might think far too highly colored to be truthful. The "embarrassment of great riches" as a person called the hürden which had to be carried by one who had many, very many millions at his disposal, is scarcely as great as that of an observer who looks over the congregation of stallions at The Bottom after having paid closer attention to the former number at the Arcade.

The latest of the purchases were my objective point in the short time allotted to the visit on my return from Chico, and these, Candlemas, Order and Cavalier, are kept in the Arcade Stables. Duncomb and Artillery are also there, and so is Algona, the sire of Flying Jih.

Candlemas, big powerful horse, full 16 hands, dark bay, old coat nearly brown, beautiful head, long neck, sloping shoulders, very deep chest and grand middle piece, powerful loin, short back, high withers, hip slightly sloping, tail set on just right, full quarters, strong gaskins, plenty of bone and tendon. Wide from point to point of shoulder with good fork, large arms, inside muscles full, stands squarely on all his feet, right set of hind legs, a little coarse in ankles and pasterns, the long hair, mainly due to the Eastern cold weather, the partial cause of the coarseness.

A transcript of the few notes hastily jotted, at the time of my brief visit and in all probability somewhat of a puzzle to those who are not up on "points." While points (details of conformation) are of the highest importance in forming an estimate of the animal under consideration, it will not answer to overlook the symmetry of the whole, a harmonious blending and fitness which is curiously expressed by the term well-balanced.

After critically scanning the minutia, at a position some distance from the horse, Candlemas would be pronounced a remarkably fine high horse, likely to be the progenitor of race-horses of the highest class when such breeding and form are conjoined, and, with that first essential in a sire, adaptability for nearly every service in which horses are used.

Intently seeking for some insight into the cause of his bringing only a little more than half the price of his companion at the auction, though the amount paid in these hard times was about equivalent to the hundred thousand dollars paid for his brother St. Blaise, in the flush days. The solution was not satisfactory until Order took his place in the ring. Not the intention now to give an extended or minute description of these horses and the others at Rancho del Paso, as hereafter they will be presented in tabular form, which will give their various measurements concisely, and so arranged that comparison can be made with the least trouble.

Candlemas, a grand horse, Order a magnificent specimen of the highest type of the blood horse. Not far from the same size without loss of muscular power Order shows the highest quality, though Candlemas is "full of it" with the exception of the coarseness mentioned. Those who are so fond of "big bone" would give the preference to the son of Hermit at that point my preference is medium-sized cannons, even light bone with no lack of size in tendons and ligaments better liked than ever so large bone and a deficiency of the cords which convey the force of the muscles.

Many writers seem to be impressed with the notion that quality means a lack of substance. When these two elements are not combined in place of racing form there is weediness. Could they see Order, or a number of others of the stallions at Rancho del Paso, the "fool notion" would soon be obliterated, provided the observers have the least knowledge of what quality and substance really are.

I have a decided penchant for seeing horses walk, and fancy that if that method of progression is what it should be the faster gaits will be in keeping. Fanny Kemble said: "None but thoroughbreds do it quite well," and surely few outside of that class which show so much grace and elasticity of step. Both of these big horses are perfect, so far as could be told from seeing them walk around the ring, and when in motion the picture was complete. Cavalier, American-bred, though of foreign lineage, through his great sire, Prince Charlie, is a worthy companion of the two he accompanied across the country.

Not much time at "The Bottom," though long enough to take a glance at Gold Finch, Golden Garter, Star Rnby and St. Andrew, all looking well and mares, colts and foals in the same category.

While admiring the imported stallions one could not fail to give due credit to Mr. Mackey for the w's'om shown in the selections.

Better to state that intuitive knowledge had played a great part, as well as the ability to pick from the form and breeding of the animals presented. Gold Finch was chosen before his stock had shown, and now he is at the top of English sires when due consideration is given to the fact that with only two representatives he stands fifth on the list. Star Rnby was bought after losing a race, but Mr. Mackey noticed that he ran out on the turn, and his high form and superb breeding were not lost sight of under the cloud of defeat. Not so surprising, perhaps, that a few good ones should fall to the lot of a purchaser able and willing to pay a good price, but when a score or more are in evidence, all so superior, the person who chose them must be accredited a genius, one who has inborn talent as well as a cultivated knowledge of proper form.

There must be a natural bent, an inherited capacity to determine correctly the conformation which will give prominence on the race course or in the stud, and this has to be perfected by experience to give such capacity as is shown by the sires and dams of Rancho del Paso.

ALL WRONG.—The Sacramento correspondent of the Call charges those who are interested in harness racing with being behind the Emmons bill. It may be that there is one in a thousand of the supporters of the "truly American horse" who would like to see racing hampered, but even then it will be found that that individual interests are very slight. Breeders of harness horses, owners of trotters and pacers which are expected to take part in races, drivers and trainers are, as a whole, in favor of nothing being placed in the way of winter racing.

Could the Emmons bill be enacted into law it would be the worst blow which could be dealt to harness racing. Were it illegal to hold running meetings in the winter, were the P. C. J. C. and the C. J. C. forced to hold their meetings in the summer time, there would be no chance for the harness division, small chance comparatively, for the runners.

Winter racing in California ensures as high a class of sport as there is in any country. It gives Eastern owners an opportunity to participate, and is also a guarantee of excellence, inasmuch as the best of both sections are brought into competition. It is needless to state that in order to secure and retain public support whatever is offered must be meritorious. There must also be conditions which will awaken a greater degree of interest than would follow repetitions of the same scenes.

When horses from the other side of the continent, and of acknowledged excellence as well, meet the "home guard," or rather the veterans of the corps, which have displayed speed on many hard-fought fields, there is an anxiety to witness the contest, a desire to be one of the spectators which must be gratified. Were the races confined to the summer months, Eastern horses, at least those of class enough to prove attractions, would not be here.

The best of the California horses, in all probability, would likewise be on the other side, as well.

GOOD CHEER.—Far better to be anticipating "better luck next time" than indulging in gloomy apprehensions of future trouble. Not, perhaps, that the intent to be cheerful is based on the most solid foundation, and yet expectation will help make a rift in the clouds, and give a silver hue to the lining.

As for the racing part of the horse world, that is the galloping part of the show, there is little to fear since the two jockey clubs came to the agreement recorded in this paper of last Saturday. The only danger that can possibly arise from other parties seeking to take advantage of there being no State law prohibiting foreign books, and that incorporation might be gotten up for the purpose of carrying on that which has proved so disastrous in other sections of the country. Still were the move made there is such a strong opposition on the part of the public, and, of course, the determined antagonism of the P. C. J. C. and the C. J. C., even without a law, it might be difficult to carry the project to a successful termination. Any endeavor to interfere with racing as mapped out by the two clubs must necessarily be futile. This is the country for winter racing, par excellence, and that is conceded by all of the Eastern visitors. In the first place the climate is certainly superior; in the second, population which will warrant support during all the winter months. With the break of continuity, which the agreement between the two clubs ensure, that objectionable feature is, in the main, removed, and while there is practically no break for those whose business is racing, or connected with racing, there is a cessation which does away with the plea that the whole time is occupied.

There is here six months, or, to be exact, six and a half months for racing contiguous to San Francisco.

This will warrant the transfer of Eastern stables. The opening of our season after the close of the Oriental, and the finishing here in time for the big meetings on the other side of the big rivers. This adds to the value of racehorses in all parts of the country, and that means that California will have a full share of the benefits. Without taking the trouble to look over the records, it is quite safe to assert that more thoroughbreds are bred here than in any one State, and while it is somewhat hazardous to make positive assertions, I have little hesitation in claiming that California leads in that line of business. By far the largest stud farm in the world within her borders, and the hundreds of mares within the boundaries of Rancho del Paso, supplemented with those of the other large stock farms, Palo Alto, Santa Anita, Elmwood, and then the smaller places which will swell the aggregate into big proportions. The money brought to California by winter racing will figure so largely, that could it be represented by printed dollars people would be prone to charge exaggeration.

The statement that Eastern horses win the largest proportion of the money "hung up" is not sustained by the record. By far the most successful "string" is California and still more gratifying few excepting those bred and reared on California soil.

To prophesy that the harness-racing contingent is also on the up grade of prosperity, or rather that the lowest level of depression has been reached and that from henceforth trotters and pacers will be an asset in place of a "liability" may be deemed ultra-optimistic, and I have no fear of making the vaticination. Too soon, perhaps, to indulge in rosy speculations of legislative encouragement, and yet there is a well warranted belief that appropriations will be granted, and when that is assured nothing more needed to make the coming season one of the best in the harness racing calendar.

* * *

IN THE LEAD.—The claim made elsewhere that a California Stable leads in the race for the "highest winner cup" is sustained by the figures. The next in rank is the Chicago maguate Mr. P. Dunne, and he has several California-bred horses, stake winners at that, in his collection.

In the race for the foremost place among winners there is little danger of California being placed otherwise than first.

But there are other points than amount of money won which figure prominently when the question is the benefits which follow winter racing here.

A great many visitors are attracted by the racing alone, and it is safe to say that their reports are favorable. A safe estimate of the number of people who come to California to attend the races from the East, is five hundred, and then, too, with those added who are incidentally attracted, twice that number can be counted as wintering here, who otherwise would not have a part of the population, and every succeeding year adds to the number. The claim has been made that the East carries off the lion's share of the spoils but that is far from being sustained by the figures. Could a true account be rendered, and the expenditure of the Eastern folk be accurately stated, the debits would far exceed the credits.

Whatever the amount which our Eastern friends win no one at all magnanimous will grudge at their participation is a great aid to the sport.

JOSEPH CAIRN SIMPSON.

Kind Words for California and Her Racing.

The racing is first class in every respect, and equal to any I have seen in years. A grand place to winter, and I like it very much.—David Vidson.

I was never more surprised. Two beautiful tracks, and as good racing as anyone would care to see.—C. H. Pettigill.

Contrary to the reports East, I am surprised to see good betting and first-class racing here. Twenty-four books on and no trouble for me to place all the money I want to bet.—George E. Smith "Pittsburg Phil."

It is surely the best winter racing ever held in this country. It is certainly very honest and will compare very favorably with any racing in the East.—George A. Wheelock.

No place adapted for winter racing like this. Both tracks elegant; first-class racing, and the management splendid.—Chas. F. Dwyer.

I find that the racing at the two tracks here is up to the highest standard. For a racing point during the off season in the East, it cannot be excelled.—C. C. Canfield.

Racing is as clean and as good as I have seen on any track at any time of the year.—Ed Corrigan.

San Francisco is certainly fortunate in having two such race tracks as Ingleside and Oakland; each complete in every appointment. The racing is clean, and clear of all scandal.—Frank Ireland.

The racing in California this winter is equal to any given at any race track in the country. The class of horses competing is above the average for winter sport, and the money they run for is larger than ever at this season of the year. The tracks in this vicinity are equal to any on the continent, being super to race over, and equipped with all that is needed to make a first class establishment in every respect. Eastern horsemen will soon realize this and make, in the future, California their winter port.—A. H. Daniels.

This is the best racing I have seen in ten years. First-class sport and first-class betting.—Barney Schriber.

Unquestionably the city of San Francisco is the desired spot for racing during the winter months. The racing compares favorably with the sport on the Eastern tracks in the height of the summer season.—Harry Harris.

Both tracks elegant. Better racing than I thought would be had in the winter.—Pat Dunne.

I never saw any better or cleaner racing at any track in the summer. Two grand tracks.—Wm. Beverly.

Since my arrival in San Francisco, I have attended the races every day, and am agreeably surprised at the uniformly good attendance and the splendid racing I have witnessed.—Max Blumenthal.

The racing in San Francisco this season is the healthiest we have seen anywhere in the past year. The better class of people attend, and everything has a holiday air. The form of the horses has been extremely good.—O'Neill & Eckert.

Taking into consideration how far we really are from the racing center I think I can safely say that I have never attended better racing nor with as much satisfaction and pleasure as I have derived from the racing around San Francisco.—John B. Coleman.

The best winter racing I ever saw. A grand country. I like it very much and can't speak too highly of it.—Henry Griffin.

For the above we are indebted to Joe Ullman, who collected them.

Office of Fishers' Livery, 251 Hudson Ave., Albany, N. Y., Nov. 13, 1896. Mr. Randolph Botts, 119 State street, Albany, N. Y. Dear Sir—It affords me much satisfaction in testifying to the efficacy of your Veterinary Capsules, for the relief of Wind Colic in horses. One of my valuable horses was taken with a severe attack of colic, and was much bloated. I immediately administered one of your Capsules, and in a few minutes the horse was considerably relieved. I gave him the second Capsule and the animal was on his feet inside of an hour, entirely cured. You are at liberty to use this testimonial for the benefit of horse owners, as I consider your Capsules very valuable in emergencies. Respectfully, Charles Fisher & Son. They are quick in action. Always ready for use and reliable.

FRANK BRUNELL, editor and proprietor of Daily Racing Form of Chicago, is certainly one of the most energetic and courageous men in the newspaper business. This time last year Brunell owed about $12,000, we are informed, but, nothing daunted, pitched in and manufactured an article that every lover of racing in the country wanted and one that form students must have, with the result that he cleared off all his indebtedness and is now sailing in the clear water with the sun of prosperity smiling sweetly upon him. He is running his paper during the winter months, and in all probability at a considerable loss, as the form charts from several points are sent by a private wire direct to his office. The San Francisco charts are made by Henry Forsland, and the foot-notes he sends Racing Form are simply unbeatable. The chart itself is the one published in the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN every racing day. And Brunell, as a prophet, is glorious. Though about 2,300 miles away, he figures as many winners as anybody in the land—and gives them to the patrons of his paper right along. Last Saturday there were seven races, and he gave five winners and the other two (Brametta and Salvation) ran second. Bravo, Brunell!

TURF AND TRACK.

THE SULKY.

ARION 2:07½ is standing for $100 the season.

AZOTE will be brought to California next week.

GREAT preparations are being made for the coming race meeting at Colusa.

J. DORAN, Oakland, has a full sister to Lady O. that is being jogged preparatory to track work later on.

DICTATUS will have a hook full this season again. F. M. Day booked eight mares to him last week in Monterey county.

JOE CONCELLA is handling Palatina 2:22 and a string of youngsters by Electus for J. Rose on his half mile track near Isleton.

The lot of horses to be sent from Palo Alto this season to the New York sales will eclipse any heretofore sent from this great breeding farm.

EIGHTY American horses recently taken to Franca were sold for $20,000. The highest price was for a six-year-old chestnut mare that brought $520.

F. W. LOEBER is preparing Harvey Mc, 2:14½, and Myrtle Thorne, 2:18½, for J. C. Kirkpatrick, manager of the Palace Hotel. What a team they will make!

The recent heavy storm dattered all our horsemen from exercising their horses, but now with clear weather many a good horse will be taken up and handled.

DON'T imagine that pedigree has been lost sight of; the right kind of blood is as valuable as ever, and must be obtained when one expects to produce speed.

W. H. STIMSON's horses are all wintering in fine shape this winter, and Challenger Chief is said to be as large as a draft horse and in the pink of condition.

TYANNA by Chas. Derby 2:20 out of Maggie McGregor (dam of Algor 2:11½) is developing into a very fast pacer in Thos. Keating's hands at Pleasanton.

FAMOUS old Minnehaha has two sons among the new sires of 1896—Mascot, 2:25½ sire of Domitian (3), 2:27½, and San Gabriel, 2:29½, sire of Viole, 2:24½, pacing.

G. WEMPE may give his Boh Lea gelding, Harry Lee, to some competent trainer this year. He is one of the best roadsters seen at the Golden Gate speed track.

THE ex-queen, Nancy Hanks, was bred to Bingen last spring after foaling her colt by Arion, but Mr. Forbes is doubtful as to her being in foal. She is in the best of health.

THE idea of having a building erected near the speed track is meeting with the endorsement of all horsemen in San Francisco. A place will be arranged for the wheelmen there also.

THE great and only Durfee with McKinney is now at Emeryville, both horse and owner look to be in prima condition. Mr. Durfee is looking around for something good to go to Montana with.

THE Pierca Bros. have a fine horse ranch near West Broadway, Oakland, and fifty or sixty trotting and pacing horses bred in the purple. This ranch has a half mile track and it is being put in order for early work.

O. MARCHAND, the owner of Lady O. and several brothers and sisters of that fast and game race mare, has removed from Oakland to San Pablo, where he is jogging all his horses preparatory to track work in the spring.

WE wish to call the attention of our readers to the splendid lot of young stallions by Pierce Bros. of the Santa Rosa Stock Farm. Write to these gentlemen and learn how little they are asking for them.

DENNIS GANON, the old reliable, is at Emeryville with all his old string and several new youngsters. He is roading three on the dirt roads around Oakland till he can get on to the Alameda or West Oakland tracks later on.

NOTICES have been sent to all who are in arrears to the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN. As no subscriber owes more than three dollars to this paper we hope to receive prompt and substantial replies, in the shape of remittances, at once.

As the result of the Fasig sale twenty-two trotters with records ranging from 2:15½ and 2:30 will go to Europe, and the average price paid for the lot was $556. The foreigners purchased at the same time fifteen head at an average of $256.

PALO ALTO STOCK FARM has hooked to Hambletonian Wilkes the mares Bonnhalt (4), 2:17½, by Azmoor, 2:20½, dam Bonnie, by Gen. Benton; Mano (3), 2:19½, (dam of Monaco), and Electant (3), 2:27, by Piedmont, 2:17½, dam Mamie, by Hambletonian Jr.

OF the twenty-two head of developed trotters, recently purchased for exportation at the New York sales, two were stallions and the other twenty were mares. It is not difficult to figure out what class of animals the foreign market demands at this time.

WHY not offer a valuable piece of plate or cup for a prize for four-in-hands at the next Breeders' meeting, at least three entries to start. Here would be a chance for Messrs. Hohart, Crocker, Pope and Baldwin to test their skill and show which has the best horses.

THE value of stallions of the highest class is going up fast. Only a few days ago $30,000 was offered for Allerton (2:09½), $15,000 was bid for another prominent stock horse, and it is well known that there are several $10,000 buyers looking for the best they can get.

F. W. LOEBER and E. C. Topham made a flying trip from Sacramento last week, where they are giving all their time and attention to the subject of preparing a bill for appropriations to district fairs. They are quite sanguine over the prospects and believe a bill satisfactory to all will be passed.

W. B. FASIG and his partner, Ed S. Hedges, bought at the recent sale in New York a colt by Stamhoul, 2:07½, out of Biscara, by Director, second dam Bicara, dam of Pancoast, by Harold. Mr. Fasig says that the colt can step very fast. Messrs. Pierce Bros. of the Santa Rosa Stock Farm own Bicara and have several very promising colts from her.

THE BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN is desirous of having news items about horses and horsemen from everywhere, and everything sent us by our friends in this line will be highly appreciated. We therefore ask that any happenings on breeding farms or in training barns be sent us. Such reports are of interest to all and helps the business.

JOHN SPAN, the noted reinster, has no confidence in that system of preparation which starts soft horses and depends on racing them into condition. He argues that it frequently happens that the first engagement is the hardest of the season, and a performer who has not gone through the preparation to key him up for a supreme effort is overdone in his first start and of no account the balance of the season.

I. BARKER DALZELL performed an operation in dentistry on one of the broodmares at Palo Alto last Monday which was a revelation to the horsemen there. He removed one of her back teeth by trephining the jaw bone and driving the tooth upward and out of the orifice. The mare is doing well. Dr. Dalzell operates on all the horse's teeth at Palo Alto and the principal stock farms in California.

THERE ought to be a good purse offered for double team races this year, owners to drive. J. C. Kirkpatrick, Harry E. Wise, A. B. Spreckels, W. S. Hohart, P. J. Williams, Ira Pierce, Fred Talbot, Rudolph Spreckels, J. C. Crooks, A. H. Cohen, C. E. Sanders, S. Seymour, F. H. Burke and Prof. E. Heald and several other roadies might be tempted to get their best teams in readiness if they knew a suitable amount was offered.

HARRY E. WISE, of this city, uses as a driving mare one of the best daughters of Jim Mulvanna, out of DiVernon, by Whipple's Hambletonian. She is a large bay mare and one of the swiftest gaited as well as the speediest that goes through Golden Gate Park. She has no record but it would not be a difficult task for her owner to give her a record of 2:15 if he should prepare her. She is gaited like Azote, and ambles when going slowly, exactly as the great son of Whips does.

GEO. P. BULL, of San Jose, has leased the grandly-bred stallion Danton Moultrie for the season of 1897 and will stand him at the Ringwood Farm. Danton Moultrie is by Guy Wilkes 2:15½ out of Carrie C. (sister to Chas. Derby 2:20 etc.) by Steinway 2:25½, second dam Katy G. by Electioneer, etc. This horse was bred by the late D. J. Murphy at the Moorland Stock Farm, Milpitas. He is a splendid individual and should make a sire of very handsome as well as fast horses.

THE Palo Alto stud of California will make its next shipment of horses to the Eastern market in March, when they will consign to Peter C. Kellogg four car loads of giltedge breeding to be disposed of in his New York sale of March 23 to 26, advertisement of which appears this week. The shipment will contain youngsters of such great brood mares as Beautiful Bella, Elaine, Lulu Wilkes, Sontag Mohawk, Manette, Maiden, Lady Ellen, Ahwaga, Odette, and other great producers, and are by such sires as Whips, Azmoor, Advertiser, Electioneer, Dexter Prince, Palo Alto, etc.

THE man who buys a few good mares now and breeds them to a stallion of the right sort and one that is owned by a man who will use every effort to bring his get to the front, will make money in the trotting business, unless after he has got the foals he spoils his chances of success by allowing them to be stunted in growth from poor care and light keep. The supply of good mares that are bred right are very small, and as the writer heard a good horseman remark a few days ago, "when you want to buy one that will do to go to the races with, you will find that you have to pay as much as ever. There are plenty of cheap ones around, but they are dear at any price, and good ones are getting scarcer every day."

"BLACK JACK" PERCIVAL, who was a naval captain before the war, once brought a cargo of Spanish jacks home in a man-of-war. He was in Spanish waters when the jacks were given to the United States by Spain, and was ordered to bring them out in his ship. It made him very angry, but he got the beasts aboard and sailed for New York. When he came through the Narrows, the guns had been rolled back, and out of every port there stuck a jack's head. Thus decked out and without a salute he came to his anchorage. The admiral commanding sent post haste to demand why Captain Percival had not saluted. "I didn't salute," was the doughty captain's answer, "because I couldn't. I had two men twisting every jack's tail, but not a damned one of them would bray."

WM. MURRY, owner of Diablo, 2:09½, received a letter from Willard H. Stimson, Los Angeles, last Monday, and we have taken the liberty of copying the following from it: "You heard about my colt, El Diablo? Well, I changed his shoes, and put him to pacing on the 18th, and in eight days worked him a mile in 2:35, last half in 1:15, last quarter in 35 seconds very easily, as I did not start him up till the last 100 yards. Talk about pacers! He is the only one I have seen for some time. He goes tight and very easy, and with all the determination of his sire. I am so well pleased with him that I have decided to breed Elwood back to Diablo this spring, and wish you to advise me when she foals and breed her again. I don't think anybody can have too many of the kind of El Diablo."

JOHN CROW, the trainer, is now living on Thirty-fourth street, Oakland, where he has a new stable of two stalls. He has his mare Saxony, sister to Hailstorm, and she is giving great promise for the coming season. She went fast and strong in her work last year and has greatly improved since that time. Mr. Crow has Wempe's—Director mare and she is pacing very fast. He also has a sister to Saxony, owned by Mr. Webster, who was elected superintendent of San Francisco schools at the last election. She is a fine-looking mare, in fact, looks as fine as a thoroughbred. Mr. Crow has a five-year-old gelding, a full brother of J. R., that was such a fast and game race horse in the East. This gelding works in a way to encourage his trainer and owner. Crow expects to sample the Montana races.

In a catalogue of sale of trotters and pacers at Chico in 1886 the following appears: Alexandria, bay mare, by a son of Alexander, dam by Black Prince, he by Long Island Hambletonian. She was full sister to Dan Hibbard, 2:27, and Lady Hibbard, dam of Lou Whipple, record 2:25½. Lady Hibbard is the granddam of Ellen Mayhew 2:22, dam of Oro Wilkes 2:11. In Mr. Corbitt's catalogue her record is untraced. The only Alexander we know of in California is the one sired by Geo. M. Patchen Jr. 2:27, out of Lady Crum by a son of Brown's Belfounder, he by imp. Belfounder. He was foaled in 1864 and was the sire of Alex Button 2:25½, Reliance 2:22½ and others. We believe it would not be a difficult matter to straighten out this pedigree, for Oro Wilkes is destined to be the greatest descendant of Guy Wilkes as a sire.

CONTENTMENT is the name claimed for one of the finest-looking black stallions ever bred in Sonoma county. He is owned by J. H. Whita, formerly President of the Sonoma and Marin Agricultural Society, and is at present on his stock farm, Lakeville. Contentment was sired by Contention, out of Kitty Almont, 2:22½, by Tilton Almont, 2:26; second dam Grace by Werner's Hamlet (he by Vermont Black Hawk, out of Lady Kate); third dam by Jim Brown, son of Winneago, he by Glencoe. Contentment was sired by Director, 2:17, out of Miss Helen (dam of Lenna N., 2:13½) by Gen. Benton; second dam the great four-miler, Nettie Georgia by Norfolk; third dam by Ashland, son of imp. Glencoe; fourth dam by Volscian, son of Vandal; fifth dam by Bulwer; sixth dam by Illinois Medoc. Contentment was handled a little by Thos. Roach at the trotting gait, but paces suits him better.

FOR the past month or more a report has been going the rounds of the press to the effect that Tom Raymond, the owner of Klamath, has gone insane. The report is incorrect and does Mr. Raymond an injustice. Besides it is very annoying to him as he is constantly receiving letters from friends all over the country sympathizing with him in his affliction. The report started several months ago in a certain hotel in Los Angeles, when Mr. Raymond was taken suddenly ill with heart trouble, and through a misapprehension as to his trouble the clerk of the hotel had him removed to the city jail and thereupon gave out the information to the city papers that the owner of Klamath was insane. Mr. Raymond is in very poor health—suffering greatly from hypertrophy of the heart, but he is as sane as any man that ever pulled a rein over a record breaker, and at the present time he is at his ranch near Santa Ana, where "Eat 'em up Cookie" is comfortably stabled. Mr. Raymond is in Santa Ana almost every day and his friends feel that he is in possession of his senses far more than the "Chappie" who presides at the counter of a certain Los Angeles hotel.

IT is very satisfactory to be able to note that at their recent annual meeting the Pacific Coast Trotting Horse Breeders' Association adopted a resolution vouchsafing their hearty support to the Horse Show, the Board of Directors being instructed to appoint a committee to render assistance to the Horse Show Association in securing support from breeders and owners of light harness horses in particular. Union is strength, and in such action, spontaneous and broadminded, there is discernible a spirit becoming to horse-owners, and which, where they are met together, is seldom found wanting, though there may be individual likes and dislikes of breeds and styles. A man's fancy is pretty much the result of his education and experience, and the person who devotes himself to the thoroughbred, the hackney, or any other type, has no more reason for regarding another, who bestows his favors on the trotting horse, as not worth thinking about, than the man who plays the piano has to scorn one who prefers the violin for the exercise of his skill. Horsemen should be catholic in their instincts, however, special may be their tastes, and, in show matters especially realize that in the present circumstances of this State any horse show, to be successful, needs the support of every one interested in the important industry affected. In these days the modern horse show has usurped the place of the old-time fair, with improved conditions and attractions, and anything that can be done to accentuate this fact here will secure for the local event a sound basis and a series of fixtures that will exercise the best possible influence in horse matters in this part of the world. It is only right to say that the Horse Show management has made every effort hitherto to obtain the support of trotting-horse breeders and owners, and this recognition by their leading society must be most acceptable.—Benedict in The Wave.

NOW that he is located at Alameda, Cal., the advantages which will come to Altamont will be no greater than those which have attended any and all of the sires of California which have risen to any degree of prominence. But these advantages will be absolutely unprecedented for Altamont. Think what it must mean for the sire of more 2:10 performers than any other stallion living or dead, and who accomplished this without ever having been mated with a daughter, or for that matter with a descendant of Electioneer to come, in the fullness of his powers, to the very section where the get of Electioneer most abound. Having accomplished what he has without the assistance of a drop of the all potent Electioneer blood, Altamont's future in conjunction with the descendants of the Palo Alto premier should be of the most brilliant order. So in like manner his coming environment will mark an equally noteworthy change in another direction. Altamont has never been bred to a daughter or to a descendant, however far removed, of George Wilkes. None of his six 2:10 performers, none of his slower standard performers, in fact not one of his get carry a drop of the Wilkes blood, and yet Altamont is the leading sire of 2:10 speed. With the advantage of the daughters of Guy Wilkes, and other scions of that great family, which abound in California, the Altamont-Wilkes cross may be looked upon as one which will furnish some of the sensational performers of the future. No descendant of Dictator, of Sidney, or of Dexter Prince has ever received an impetus through Altamont, and all three of these families are numerous in the section of California in which Altamont will in the future make his home. Altamont at twenty-two years old is a horse of iron constitution, and is without a blemish, except that he is blind as the result of an accident. He is full of vigor and now that his owner, Jay Beach, has taken him from far-off Vancouver to the heart of the great California horse-breeding district his future should outshine his past.—Horseman.

THE SADDLE.

MODEL is reported as good as new since she was fired and blistered.

THE famous race mare Los Angeles has a bay colt foal by Emperor of Norfolk.

H. H. HUNN will leave for the East with Ferrier and possibly The Sinner in a very short time.

BARNEY SCHREIBER has sold the fair Meddaff gelding, Doyle, to Sam C. Hildreth for a private consideration.

J. E. CUSHING has in training one of his first colts by Boundless, winner of the World's Fair American Derby.

SAM HILDRETH has purchased of Will Wallace the very fair performer Refugee, formerly of the Belmont Stables.

MANAGER UNRUH writes that another colloid of race horses will be shipped to San Francisco from Santa Anita the latter part of next week.

FRIEND, to "Pop" Weaver: "I thought Artemus had the big head?" Weaver—"Wouldn't be surprised. Believe he thinks he's a great jumper."

THE most promising two-year-old at Little Rock is by the expatriated California sire Volente. He is owned by the racing firm of McClure & Jones.

TENNY, the old rival of Salvator, is still at Rancho del Paso, despite assertions to the contrary. He will probably be sent eastward next month.

TOD SLOAN and H. Martin piloted two winners apiece on Saturday. In the Hobart Stakes the winner and runner up were ridden by the brothers Sloan.

VAN BRUNT won another race at New Orleans on Saturday. He is by imp. Cheviot—Active, by Virgil, and was bred by Charles Reed, of Gallatin, Tenn.

THOMAS W. MOORE, owner of Surinam, Laura Winston and other well-known horses, has been declared an insolvent debtor by the Superior Court of Santa Barbara County.

A FOUR-YEAR-OLD mare by Fresno from Aunt Jane was yesterday mated with the old turf hero, Cicero, son of Long-fellow and Belle Knight, therefore a brother to Freeland, Long Knight and Unite.

W. A. PALLETT of Los Angeles is the latest arrival at Oakland. He brought along a couple of two-year-olds, bred as follows: Bay filly by St. Andrew—Aunt Betsey; chestnut filly by Wildeir—Mollie Adams.

GEORGE SNIDER's many friends were glad to see him pilot a winner again. He had the leg up on Lady Hurst, who was as good as 60 to 1 in the betting. The Tourist was 20 to 1 for the place in the same race.

FELIX CARR, who was a great favorite with the racing public when riding out here, is to branch out as a full-fledged owner and trainer to-day. Barney Schreiber is going to set his old jockey up in business.

TIGRESS, the fast little Prince of Norfolk mare, has just foaled a chestnut filly at the Hobart ranch, by the good race horse Joe Ripley, son of Hyder Ali and Loto. Salonica has a chestnut filly by the same horse.

SUPERINTENDENT JOHN MACKEY was a visitor at the track yesterday. He is very much impressed with the youngsters by the New Zealand horse Artillery, son of Musket, and predicts that they will prove race horses.

JOCKEY WILLIAM SIMMS had his first mount in California Saturday on Argentina in the Hobart Stakes. It was rather unfortunate that he should make his debut on such an erratic animal and very bad actor at the post.

COL. D. M. BURNS and Alfred Evans left yesterday for the Candelaria mines in Mexico. The Colonel expects to be absent about six weeks, but Mr. Evans will make the land of the Montezumas his home for five years, it is said.

IMP. SAIN is one of the most improved horses in training in California. The black colt will be mated with Miss Pollard and two or three other mares this season. A horse of more fashionable breeding cannot be found in America.

DUKE OF YORK, the fast two-year-old brother to True Blue, Castanette and Carmel, greased his quarter in Tuesday's race and tore a big hole in it. Just how long it will keep the colt from racing could not be determined Tuesday.

SIX hundred and seventy-one different horses have started at the present winter meeting, says the Chronicle. They are worth about $600,000. The horses in training in California, including two-year-olds, are easily worth $1,000,000.

MARCUS DALY has taken a farm in Virginia and will in future winter most of his race horses there under Matt Byrnes' personal care. The farm is well equipped for the purpose, being the one which Congressman Scott used for so many years when the Rayon d'Ors were in winning form.

CHARLEY SMITH, the former trainer of McLight, Capt. Rees and Mary S., has purchased the three-year-old filly Modestia of Charley Quinn, and will start her this week, in all probability. Mr. Smith is likely to be known as a capitalist ere long, as some mines he's interested in in Colorado are panning out excellently.

FITZ JAMES promises to make a great sire. Two of his get started on Saturday (Snowdown and Sir William), and both won. This speaks pretty well, but he is also the sire of Sweet William and Summertime, two very excellent performers. Fitz James is by imp. Kyrle Daly, from Electra (dam of Hidalgo and Winnifred), by imp. Eclipse.

REY DEL SIERRAS, the high-priced three-year-old brother to Yo Tambien, is likely to stand training, we are informed: He is now at Theodore Winters' farm in Nevada, and spends most of his time standing in a hot spring on the place. He is a beautiful individual—a strapping chestnut colt with a strip in the face and looking every inch a turf king.

OWNERS of good broodmares should remember that there are none better bred, none making a greater reputation as a sire than St. Carlo, the son of St. Blaise and Carina, by Kingfisher. His progeny cannot be excelled anywhere in America. Remember his service fee is only $100.

WILKINS, of Wilkins & Itkins, owners at one time of Nick One and others of note, has sold out his business in New York, and is visiting the Coast for his health. He is much impressed with California. Mr. Wilkins made quite a fortune in the restaurant business when Guttenburg was flourishing.

F. B. DAVIS, of the well-known racing firm of Davis & Hall, attended the races at Oakland Wednesday. The firm owned Wer Eagle and others of note. Mr. Davis is a brother to Senator Davis of West Virginia and Mr. Hall, his partner, is the father of Nick S. Hall. It is Mr. Davis' first visit here and he likes California very much.

JOCKEYS who ride with a long, loose rein are most desirable on a two-year-old. Riders who tie their knots up short, or close to the animal's ears, fairly tear a youngster's mouth to pieces. At that tender age a gelloper can be spoiled for all time to come by hurting his mouth. From a tractable, docile youngster it can in a very short time be transformed into a sulker and never show what is really in it.

"KENTUCKY" JOHN GIVENS took six of the two-year-olds from the Pueblo stable on the backstretch before the first race yesterday, and introduced them to the Australian gate. They broke several times in nice style, particularly the Ormonde—Fairy Rose filly, who looks very speedy. She wore handgrips on her forelegs and went a little stilty, but had a very nice appearance, and is said to have shown up very well.

WILLIE SIMS, undoubtedly one of the best race-riders in this country, has been quite unfortunate thus far here. On Benamela Wednesday he was next to the outside with the brown colt, and was just forced to go on the outside with him all the way. Had the son of Ben Ali secured an inside position or even second or third place at the start, he had speed enough to go to the front, and would probably have stayed there.

THE time is approaching when every horseman will want a perfect timer. A. Hirschman, the well-known jeweler, who has the best stock of watches in San Francisco, has a new timer which he advertises in this journal that is considered by all who have seen it to be the equal of any $350 watch made. Every race-goer should have one. They are not only accurate timers but are first-class time keepers as well and can be relied upon. They are only $85 each.

SILVERADO had all his old-time speed Tuesday, leading a fine field for about six furlongs and not taking a lame step after the race. James Woods has had him but six weeks, and took hold of the aged son of Rutherford after he had been pronounced a hopeless cripple. Naturally Mr. W. feels much pleased. He says the horse's hoofs had been allowed to grow out, and they were in such shape that there was an awful strain on the back tendons. This being remedied, the chances are that Silverado will win some sort of a race ere long.

A PROTEST was lodged yesterday by Murray & Dodge against the payment of the purse to the owner of Lady Hurst, who won the first race, the grounds for the protest being that the filly was not a maiden. The conditions of the race read: "For maiden three-year-olds. Weights 10 lbs. below the scale," etc. Lady Hurst won a match race at Pleasanton, Cal., July 4th, with Here's Luck. We did not learn what was done in the matter, but under the Turf Congress rules Lady Hurst would still be a maiden, as the race was "a match or private sweepstake."

THOMAS BUTLER, of Butte, a racing and newspaper man well-known in Montana, attended the races at Oakland yesterday. He says the outlook is excellent for a good season of sport this year in his city and Anaconda. The stakes, announced elsewhere in this issue, show conclusively that the management is liberal and up to date. Entries to these events close April 1st. The dates claimed are: Anaconda, June 26 to July 24; Butte, July 27 to August 28. Mr. Butler purchased some fair gallopers last summer, and he would not be surprised if he keeps an eye out for one or two more good ones to take home with him.

THE many friends of the clever little jockey, Andy Perkinson, will regret to learn of his death at midnight, last night, at the home of his friend and benefactor, Mr. Samuel F. Nicholls. He was 21 years old. Three years ago he contracted a cold while riding at St. Louis, which developed into pneumonia. At Hawthorn, while riding one of Fred Foster's horses he met with an accident. He was never the same boy afterward. He came to New Orleans in the hope that the warm climate would restore him to health. His father resides at Meridan, Ken., and he has relatives at Trinidad, Colo. The remains will be buried in Metairie Cemetery to-morrow.—New Orleans dispatch, Jan. 26th.

THE Montana circuit is going to be a big affair this year, as the following stakes, just announced, will show: Butte—Silver City Handicap, two-year-olds and upward, one mile and three-eighths, $1500; Butte handicap, all ages, one mile and a sixteenth, $1000; West Side handicap, all ages, one mile and an eighth, $1000; Northwestern handicap, two-year-olds, three-quarters of a mile, $1000; Silver Bow stakes, five and a half furlongs, $1000. Anaconda—Copper City handicap, all ages, one mile and a quarter, $1500; Anaconda handicap, all ages, one mile, $1000; Smeltermen's handicap, three-year-olds and upward, seven-eighths of a mile, $800; Ogden stakes, two-year-olds, five-eighths of a mile, $1000; the Deer Lodge stake, two-year-olds, four and a half furlongs, $1000.

THE down-town poolrooms in this city are packed to the doors since the habits of these places get all the information they desire about scratches and jockeys at 10:30 from the track. The falling off in attendance at the Oakland meeting is attributed to this. It is a wonder the directors of the C. J. C. allow this information to be made public before 1 o'clock. Such a movement would put a stop to this opposition. The bookmakers say betting is light in Oakland. It began to get light here as soon as an evening paper began to furnish information to its leading subscribers detrimental to the best interests of the two large associations.

ROAD RONNER is himself again, as he plainly demonstrated in the first race Tuesday. It was a mere gallop for the Joe Daniels horse, who was as good as 10 to 1 in the betting. Harry Lowden evened up on his horse in great shape, and after the race sold the Rinner to Tom Boyle, who trained the horse with great success for Charles Kerr. Lowden also sold Crawford, Geronimo, and Grandezia, the price being $25 less for the first two than he paid for them. Henry Byrnes got the letter.

ACCORDING to the cable Mr. August Belmont's consignment of thoroughbreds, which were shipped to England, arrived safely. The only one that did not stand the voyage well was the filly Activism, by Rayon d'Or, out of Arnica. It is fortunate to note, however, that the crack of the hot, the chestnut colt Bridesgroom, by Rayon d'Or, out of Bridget, arrived in the pink of condition. He has been very highly tried and Mr. Belmont makes no secret of the fact that he thinks that in him he has a real crack. The horses will be taken to Newmarket and placed in the Rothschild stable where they will be trained. They are well engaged. Mr. Belmont has an idea that the rogue Keenen will do much better in England than here because there the races are not from end to end as they are here.—N. Y. Advertiser.

"OGDEN" in the Suburban, but I don't think he will start," said Marcus Daly recently to a New York reporter. "The colt's more likely to go in the Realization. That's more reasonable. The early handicaps are too early for a three-year-old. I can only recall two who could have won the Brooklyn or Suburban—Salvator and Temmany. But it is Byrnes' business. His entry of Ogden was a mere complimentary one. The colt's a good colt." How good Ogden is can be opined on top of the fact that Mr. Daly won $95,000 on him when the son of Kilwerlin and Oriole won the Futurity. Mr. Daly is not much of a bettor, if you consider the Daly idea of things—always big and broad. Yet his winnings on Ogden were less than those over the Tammany-Lampighter match and hardly as large as those over Montana, when he won the Suburban handicap in 1892.

A. B. SPRECKELS has let the Willman Bros. have the services of Puryear D., during the season of 1897. He was a splendid turf performer, and is bred in royal lines, being by imp. Deceiver (son of the St. Leger winner, Wenlock, and Boot and Saddle, by Trumpeter) from the stake-winner, Ada D., by Equirer; second dam Mariposa (dam of Boulevard, Bliss, Beatrice, Emmet and Marshall Luke, winners), by Jack Malone; third dam Nubia, by imp. Alhion; fourth dam Corset, by Epsilon, etc. The Willman Bros. have Miss Cromwell, Emma Collier (dam of Rey del Banditos), Eesel (the fast mare formerly owned and trained by Matt Storn) and three or four others. These mares are all due to foal to Mr. Storn's good Del Norte, and there are yearlings from them by imp. Trade Wind, sire of Blizzard. Puryear D. should make a sire of more than ordinary worth, being by the winner of the Epsom Grand Prize from a stake-winner in this country and bred in "sire lines."

WE clip from this morning's Chronicle a complete list of Ed Corrigan's two-year-olds in training: Br f, by Riley—Innovation; h f, by Morello—Sardonyx; h f, by Apache—Tyronne; ch f, by El Rio Rey—Blizzard; ch f, by Sir Modred—Imp. Evangeline; ch f, by Midlothian—Half Sister; ch c, by Islington—Little Flush; h c, by Joe Hooker—Salome; ch c, by Joe Hooker—Addie O'Neill; ch c, by El Rio Rey—Mattie Glenn; h c, by Flambeau—Lottie; h c, by Rio Bravo—Virgie; ch c, by Rio Bravo—Johanna; h c, by imp. Order—Fonseita; ch f, by Riley—Helter Skelter; ch f, by Riley—Modesty; h c, by Riley—Idol; h c, by Riley—Annie Wheaton; h c, by Riley—Lime Tree; h c, by Riley—Meggie B.; gr c, by Riley—Fanchette. There are twenty-two in the above list, fourteen of which are California-bred. This goes to demonstrate that the big Eastern stables now campaigning in California will fill up with California youngsters like Ed Corrigan has done.

OR late a story has been going the rounds of the Eastern papers regarding Riley Grannan. It purports to be an interview with Judge John J. Carter, in which he accuses Grannan of fraudulent practice in connection with a Western man. Grannan read the article with a good deal of disgust, and at once wrote Judge J. J. Carter. Yesterday he received the following reply, which he considered a complete vindication: "I never wrote an interview for Mr. Cook, and I was never interviewed by him. I never said that I had any mass of evidence against you or knew of any. No one regrets more than I do that such an article reflecting on you was published. I have known you on the turf for several years and I never knew of you doing anything that was improper. I did say I thought the Western Turf Congress should respect the rulings of the Jockey Club, and that the Jockey Club should respect the rulings of the Turf Congress. If there is anything more I can do in this matter to set you right, do not hesitate to let me hear from you." An effort has been made to account for some of the big winnings made by Grannan on the score of fraud, but the plunger has always demanded an investigation, in which he has come out unscathed, and he stands suspended only on the ground of giving a present of $500 to Fred Taral for winning, a practice indulged in by a majority of the big bettors of the country.

ABOUT eight weeks since Frank Starkey left the Oakland track with Tampa and Jim Bozeman. He departed ostensibly for Stockton for the purpose of freshening up his horses. A sensational story was in circulation at the track yesterday of a big clean-up made by Starkey at the Iron Hill track in Maryland. According to report, Starkey shipped his horses to the outlaw track, and laid away for a killing. As a usual thing, when a horse cannot win on a recognized track, he is sent to one of the outlaw tracks, where the class is very poor and where everything is run on a "go-as-you-please" scale. Starkey had the temerity, according to report, to enter Tampa in a maiden race, notwithstanding that the mare has won a dozen or more races. At all events, Tampa galloped away from the band of "dogs" opposed to her and landed $10,000 for her manager. She was naturally a long price in the betting. The strange part of the story wafted across the continent is that no one should have known anything about Tampa, especially as Jockeys Hinrichs and Narvaez were riding there. Tampa is by Chesapeake, and is generally understood to be owned by ex-Senator Matlock of Pendleton, Or., but Frank Starkey has been campaigning her for a year or more. Starkey is well known all over the State and in Montana. What punishment the officials will mete out to him remains to be seen, but as he got away with a big swag he will not worry over being ruled off.—S. F. Chronicle.

To the Public.

THE old book accounts owing the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN which remained in the possession of F. W. Kelley, administrator of the J. P. Kerr estate, were not purchased by Messrs. Layng & Moore when the paper was bought by them May 9th, 1895, because the price asked was deemed too exorbitant. Mr. Kelly, at the administrators sale last Saturday, disposed of them to a collection agency. In reply to many inquiries from those notified by this agency, the undersigned wishes it understood that he has nothing to do with the collection of these accounts, either directly or indirectly, and desires to inform all subscribers that the largest amount they can possibly owe him for subscription is $3.00, while very few of the advertisers are in arrears.

WM. G. LAYNG,

San Francisco, Feb. 13, 1897.

Editor and Proprietor.

Agricultural Fairs.

Almost everyone in California is taking a deep interest in the question of Agricultural Fairs, and many inquiries have been received at this office as to what is being done in the legislature about the appropriation bill.

Last Wednesday the Senate and Assembly Agricultural Committees met in joint session to consider Senate bill 626, and Assembly bill 727, identical measures providing for the division of the State into agricultural districts and for the appropriation of funds for district agricultural fairs. They will report in both houses on the bills at once. The agreement reached made thirty-eight agricultural districts in the State with a reduction of from $1,000 to $2,000 per district less than by the old apportionment. The aggregate of funds to be allowed for district fairs will amount to $113,500.

Senator Shippee and Assemblyman Price were appointed a sub-committee to confer with the Governor and, if possible, get his assent to the proposed measures.

The Committees appointed in San Francisco have been working night and day, and although they have been having a hard time, they say they will not give up the fight until the bill is passed. They affirm that almost every Senator and Assemblyman appreciates the incalculable value of these fairs and are firm in the belief that no money appropriated does more permanent good than that which is apportioned to district fairs.

There are some legislators who are a little "weak-kneed" on the proposition, and we urge upon all the representative men in the interior of this State to not neglect an opportunity to urge their legislators to "stand firm" and see that this bill is passed. It is the farmers, stockbreeders and dairymen's only salvation. The BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN's representative is doing all that can be done and writes: "The bill is in excellent hands and Governor Budd's signature will be affixed, and when it is, you can draw off your batteries, for he is, and always has been, willing to aid the very people this bill is intended to help." Should he do so we will willingly give him due credit and praise his name forevermore.

State Agricultural Society Report.

In the report of the Board to the Legislature many items of great importance to stock raisers, dairymen and farmers were referred to and in comparison with all preceding annual statements it presents a most encouraging budget of facts.

The healthy state of the wheat market and the prospects for extra good prices for cereals of all kinds; the fact that thousands of acres which were known as wheat lands having been put out in orchards and vineyards, and many of the largest farms being divided into smaller ones, gives an impetus to diversified farming, and by thus restricting the acreage to the raising of cereals, will tend to keep prices of grain higher than they have been for years. The famines in India caused by drouth, the shortness of crops in the Argentine Republic, Australia, New Zealand and Russia, has enabled our largest grain brokers to dispose of the immense supply they had on hand and leaves their warehouses almost empty. It will take several years to accumulate any great surplus, hence farmers will receive enough for their products to pay them well for their labor.

The canned fruit industry has a bright future, also, if we are to judge by the depleted condition of all the large buildings which at the beginning of 1896 were packed to the roofs. Over 1,500,000 cases of canned fruits have been sold at an advance of 5 cents per case over the opening price and the leading fruit growers and canneries are making preparations to handle more fruit this year than ever in the history of this great industry.

Under the caption of "The Horse Market," the following appears:

"During the past three years horse values have kept pace with other agricultural products in their downward tendency, which fact naturally brought about a most noticeable decrease in their production. In periods of financial depression the horse interests is one of the first to feel the hand of economy by way of cessation of enterprises, and their use as a luxury. Then again, the discharge during recent years of thousands from service on street railways, the use of electricity and steam (cable system) have supplanted them, resulting in throwing a promiscuous lot upon the market that were purchased at low prices, and adopted for use in place of the appropriately bred animal, had great effect upon values, as market changes in prices of any product regulates its production.

"These facts have materially affected the breeding of types for which there is, and always have been, a limited demand, viz., heavy drafts of from 1,300 to 1,600 pounds in weight, the top carrying horses of proper size, color, action and quality, and the cavalry horse for army uses. The United States Government have in the past been heavy purchasers of California-bred horses of from 1,000 to 1,200 pounds, of uniform quality. But prices have been so low that the breeders of these classes could not meet the competition heretofore mentioned and as a consequence either reduced or ceased breeding.

"From statistics gathered by this office there is shown to be a 10 per cent reduction in the number of horses in this State as compared with the returns of one year ago. While there is a perceptible increase in values, the averages show as follows:

"Under one year old, $9 per head; under two years and over one year, $15; under three and over two years, $25; and over three years old, $35; as against $7, $10, $14 and $25 respectively of the year 1895.

"We are of the opinion that a more opportune time never existed to commence the systematic breeding of horses, but not on the haphazard idea that anything as long as it is a horse will do, but by proper selection of blood lines making an union that will give uniform merit. The farming community of this State can profit by taking advantage of the present conditions, and prepare for recovery of values that in our belief will come and be national in its character.

"California is better provided to advance the breeding of high-class carriage horses than many other States by reason of her trotting bred stock that we have been years in perfecting. This class of stock crossed on the coach or hackney blood will produce a superior carriage animal, which is considered the best selling horse the farmer can raise, as this class can be applied to more general work than any other type, and their lofty, high-bred appearance greatly assists in their sale. But no rough-coat-d, half-bred mares should be thus bred; well formed mares for this purpose. All other classes of farm mares should be crossed with the best draft horses for the production of the heavy truck and delivery wagon animal, for which there is always a steady demand. The only way to insure recovery of values is to improve the breed of the general utility animal and furnish what the trade requires."

The value of good roads is commented upon and many important suggestions are made for the guidance of those who are endeavoring to have some laws passed in the present Legislature for this cause.

In regard to the State Fair the following appears:

"Through an error of judgement, we extended the State Fairs to three weeks this year, which under the existing conditions of trade was ill advised. Had we extended the exhibition but for two weeks, that two weeks is ample time for the purposes of the annual exhibition.

There was a noticeable increase of interest taken by all concerned and results while not satisfactory to the management as in former years, was to the exhibitors and visitors, so that our desires on that score were most gratifying. Our State appropriation of $20,000 was judiciously expended in the awarding of premiums and a portion of the expenses attendant, all other expenses being met from our gate receipts, entrance money to races, and the deficit, by reason of extra expense, was supplied from bank overdrafts secured by notes.

Every department had its usual quota of exhibitors. The Dairy School inaugurated at this exhibition, proved a great success, and we are asked by the dairymen of this State to make it a permanent fixture of our annual fair. This, and the instruction given in the cooking of dried fruit, were two of the most valuable educational displays."

The report treats of a number of other interests, and reflects great credit upon Secretary Edwin F. Smith.

The Brighton Beach Meeting.

Next Monday February 15, entries to the great race meeting to be given by the Brighton Beach Association will close. The list of events, amounts given, and the conditions appear with an increase of $500 and over in every purse offered. Ten stake races and handicaps are for two-year-olds, the largest distance to be raced is six-furlongs, and no purse is less than $1,500. All the six races for three-year-olds are for $2,000 each, and the races for three-year-olds and upwards, are also on the same liberal plan. The Brighton Cup race two miles and a quarter for a purse of $5,000 is well worthy of the attention of all having horses in training. The Brighton Handicap, purse $2,500, is a mile and a quarter race. The Test, and The Flight Handicaps are for $2,000 each and so is the Wave Crest stake, a selling event, distance six furlongs.

The idea of giving races for gentlemen riders is one that should attract a large number of entries. These races are to be on the flat, and besides the liberal purses offered by the association all the winners will receive valuable trophies. The steeplechase and hurdle races are for $1,200 each; and one in particular, the Pink Coat Handicap steeplechase, should prove one of the prettiest and most interesting events ever seen on a race track. Entries, as stated above, will close February 15. The meeting will commence July 6th and end August 23d, when there will be no racing in California. Owners who contemplate visiting the East should not overlook this meeting. Entry blanks may be obtained at this office; or from Judge J. J. Burke, Oakland track, or our representatives there.

Detroit Jockey Club.

With the same push and energy which characterized the way the last meeting at Detroit was managed, the president and directors of this Club issue their list of events for the meeting to be run this summer at this beautiful city by the lake.

The meeting will commence August 10th, and end September 4th. Seven good stakes are offered and to each of them the Jockey Club adds amounts ranging from $1000 to $1500. The conditions of entry are most liberal, and as a large number of horse owners now on the Pacific Coast intend to take in the Eastern races we unhesitatingly advise them not to overlook this splendid meeting at Detroit. Those owning two-year-olds should make entries for the International Derby, $2500 added, for foals of 1895, and The Campau Stakes for foals of 1895, $1500 added, these entries will close next Saturday also. Read the advertisement carefully.

THERE is a superb racing picture now on exhibition in Kavanagh's show window in the Palace Block. It represents the finish of The Great Eastern Handicap of 1896 at Sheepshead Bay, when the late Col. W. P. Thompson's filly, One-I-Love, beat Margrave and Hazlet. It is a beautiful work of art. Sam Doggett's peculiarly distinctive style of finishing when he has "just a little left" being depicted in a masterly manner, while Griffin works hard, but unavailingly, to bring up Hazlet, whose rush came too late. The talented artist, Mr. Henry Stull, especially excels in depicting life and motion in his work, and this picture is one of his very best examples.

We learn that M. Nathanson, the efficient secretary of the Ideal Park Racing Association, will arrive from Ideal Park in a few days and furnish information to the many who have been making inquiries about this meeting. In our next issue we shall publish all the facts regarding the meeting, and as entries close March 1st we want to see a splendid representation from the ranks of our leading horse-owners in attendance.

AT DETROIT on Friday last the stewards of the national trotting circuit fixed the following dates: Saginaw, July 6th to 9th; Detroit, July 13th to 24th; Cleveland, July 25th to 31st; Columbus, August 2d to 6th; Fort Wayne, August 8th to 14th; Indianapolis, August 16th to 21st; Glens Falls, August 24th to 27th; Reedville, August 31st to September 4th; Fleetwood, N. Y., September 6th to 11th.

THE attention of all horseowners is called to the announcement in our business columns of the spring meeting to be given by the Colusa Jockey Club. Great preparations are being made to make this the best meeting ever given at this track.

THE announcement of the Fleetwood Driving Park appears for the first time in this issue. This organization is determined to give the best meeting for light harness horses in 1897, and from present indications they will succeed.

NOTIFICATIONS to all in arrears for subscription have been sent from this office. We earnestly hope they will not be cast aside but will be the means of reminding our many friends that the sum asked for will be forwarded at once.

FROM all Eastern reports the prices of trotting stock have a decidedly upward tendency and the prospects for the great industry is indeed much brighter.

Look the Future in the Face.

Since there are less really good horses than the demand of trade, both home and foreign, calls for, the question how to increase the supply should be an interesting one. It is well in considering any question to look at the weak points as well as those apparently invulnerable, and in studying how to produce horses for the future it must be taken for granted that by exercising profoundest care the crop of foals will not be perfection nor will all escape the many pitfalls that bring unsoundness during the maturing years. There will be enough black sheep in the flock to supply the demand for car horses and other lines of drodger, hence it is not necessary to endeavor to produce stock for other than the best of service. All breeds are, in the parlance of the stock men, "made breeds," that is, the foundation stock consisted of natives finding their origin in dark ages; products of evolution fashioned by circumstances, controlled by environment; creatures of nature transplanted from native pasture by the forces, all powerful among the elements, that for ages have been working changes and modifications in all the subjects of natural laws. The rich and succulent grasses of Normandy made the draft horse of France possible, while his less fortunate brother founded a tribe of ponies in the mountains of Switzerland. Knowing that the foundation of our present family of horses in America was laid but recently, and knowing also that the foundation itself was a thing of accident, it behooves all who evince an interest in the breeding problem to build carefully that the future may have in store more prizes than blanks. It is true especially with the so-called American trotting horse family. Its founding was purely accidental and its composite parts were indeed most heterogeneous. To avoid retrograding care must be exercised that steps in an adverse direction are not taken. It is easy to retrograde, difficult indeed to advance. A bright young Indian found his way east to the Indian school at Carlisle, Pennsylvania. It was because he was bright that certain gentlemen residing in the west took a fancy to the young semi-savage, and with him educated, they reasoned, he could do much toward enlightening his tribe. Indeed, great things were in store for the boy of the plains; and the good men who sent him eastward considered the civilization of the tribe to which he belonged only a question of time. The return of the boy would work wonders, and they themselves were humanitarian. The boy was all his friends hoped him to be, and his advance was so rapid that general comment was excited. His stay at the institution of learning finished, he returned to his tribe, not an Indian, but a young man of learning. Alas, how soon the acquired yields to the inherited. Twelve months from the day he returned to the reservation his tailor-made suit and neatly-fitting boots were discarded in favor of the red blanket and skin moccasins and life was enjoyed in a tepee and on the chase much the same as by the other young bucks of the tribe. If, then, retrograding becomes such an easy thing for the bright young Indian, how easy for the influences of the past and, in fact, all the influences which are ever surrounding animal life, to work such changes that the good aimed at will be lost. It is the atoms making the whole that must be sound, and in the breeding of horses the details must have the closest attention, not for a period only, but, if success is expected, constant vigilance is exacted. The demand for the good is keen, and it is well known in the business world that when an article is scarce it becomes valuable, and its price rises in due proportion to the decrease in supply. It looks now as though horses that are and always have been in demand will indeed be scarce within the next three to five years. To men of means no other pleasant pastoral pursuit presents such a field for fortune making as the breeding, developing and selling of beautiful horses, sound and mannered, and if they possess speed so much the better. Correspondence with owners and breeders throughout the country clearly proves that the stallions have been idle and the matrons neglected. Speaking in broad sense, there are no foals of 1896, nor are there many two-year-olds, and the sight of a youngster of 1897 will be almost a novelty. The horse crop as a whole will be ample, but there are so many that fail to reach the age of five years without blemish or unsoundness and so many lack natural qualities that are indispensable that it can be looked upon as possible that good horses five years hence will be worth more than at any other period in the history of horse breeding.—Horsemen.

The Eastern Sales.

LEXINGTON (Ky.), February 8.—Woodward & Shanklin's sale of trotters opened auspiciously to day. The attendance was good and there was a demand for speed. The only disappointment was the price obtained for Lottie Lorraine, 2:03½, who was not in condition and sold for $2,000. Sixty-five head were sold. Felician, 2:17½, brought the top price. The sales aggregated $20,780, an average of $319.50. The following were some of the sales:

Felician, 2:17½, br f, 1893, by Allerton—by Baron Wilkes; C. W. Williams, Galesburg, Ill., $2,025.

Vipsana, 2:14½, b f, 1893, by West Wilkes—Hylussie; L. Weil, Vienna, $1,600.

Don Piza, b s, 1893, full brother of Lottie Lorraine; E. S. Mills, Boston, $850.

Evelet, 2:11, gr m, 1893, by Gambetta Wilkes—Eyse; R. C. Estell, Lexington, $2,000.

The second day's sale of trotting stock was marked by good average prices, the top price, $3025, being paid for Emma Offutt, 2:11½. She is regarded as the cheapest animal sold. There is the largest attendance of buyers that has gathered at a sale in four years. Seventy-three head were sold for $25,565, an average of $360.

The following were among the sales: Redalia, 2:26½, b m, 1890, by Red Wilkes—Ethel, $850, L. Wiel, Vienna, Austria.

Ettie Baron, br f, 1894, by Baron Wilkes—Nannie Etticoat, $1700, M. Bowerman.

Emma Offutt, 2:11½, br m, 1891, by Gambetta Wilkes—Della, $3025, John F. Dingee, Brooklyn.

Boodle, the Son of Stranger.

There are few better-bred horses standing for public service to-day than this famous race horse and sire. His blood lines are as follows:

BOODLE SIRE	/Stranger 3030...	Gen. Washington 116	Gen. Knox, 2:31½
		Goldsmith Maid, 2:14	Lady Thorne, 2:15½
		Jay Gould, 2:20½	(Sister to Mambr's Patchen)
		Bride, 2:12½	Adalish 13, 2:42
		Boodle, 2:12½	Hambletonian 10
		Begum, 2:27½	Lady sa. ford
		Trenton, 2:40½	(by American Star)
			Ethan Allen, 2:25½
			By Abdallah 1

We see that by inheritance he has the cream of campaigning blood, and it is almost unnecessary to state that his sire Stranger has 26 in the 2:30 list. Goldsmith Maid was the greatest money-winner in America; Jay Gould sired 27 in the list including Pixley 2:08½ and one of his daughters produced Robert J. 2:01½. In the third generation we find Boodle has the most famous horses in his pedigree that ever graced the turf or stud. To students of breeding they will need no introduction.

Boodle is well known as a game race-horse to everyone who has seen him in his races. His remarkable finishes in every race he started made him famous from one part of California to the other.

He never had any opportunities in the stud worth mentioning and few of his colts were ever trained. The first colt sired by Boodle was Ethel Downs 2:13; his second colt was Thompson 2:15, and these, with Merle M., 2:25½, were the first of his progeny trained. There were three others handled long enough to be gisted, and these Spry Ruth (3) and Bliss (4) will undoubtedly be in the 2:30 list this year. The other trotted a mile in 2:33 and is now used as a buggy horse in San Jose.

Boodle's merits were quickly recognized by prominent breeders after the remarkable showing made by himself and his progeny, and among the mares bred to him in 1896 were the following:

Expressive, 2:12½, Coral, 2:18½ (sister to Anteeo, 2:16), Luta (sister to Advertiser, 2:15½), Hazel H., 2:12½, Bessie S., 2:29½, Carrie Benton, 2:27½, dam of Our Boy, 2:15, Hallie P., 2:27, Maud, 2:20 (dam of Order, 2:11, and Boswell, 2:19), Silver (dam of Maria Jr., 2:13), Nutwood Weeks (dam of Ethel Downs, 2:13), Violin, F. W. Loeber's favorite mare, and a number of others sired by the following horses: Silver Bow, 2:16, Anteeo, 2:19½, Antinous, 2:28½, Electioneer, A. W. Richmond, Bismark, 2:28½, Woodcut, 2:16½, Nephew, Sidney, 2:19½, Nutwood, 2:18½, and Gavito.

Until last spring Boodle was never bred to a mare with a record except one with a mark of 2:29½ (and her colt was never trained), nor a mare that had produced a 2:30 performer. From this time on, however, it will be difficult. He served twenty-eight mares last spring and twenty-six of them are in foal. What can be expected when the crop of 1896 foals are trained?

Where Theory Fails.

The question how to produce foals that will, with reasonable certainty, develop into horses such as the demand asks for to-day is one of importance, but at the same time every breeder thinks he knows the secret, and all do know the general line to follow, and the wise men will profit by putting their knowledge into practical operation. One thing is certain, blood lines alone will not do. Speed is not the only desideratum. If any man proceeds along the line that pedigree and speed are the elements to encourage above all others that man will be long on car and livery horses and short on the kind that buyers for home use and exportation are looking for. We will say nothing about the stallion or kind of stallion to use, but the reasoner who will not use that sire whose hope for patronage is based on the one argument that he can produce trotters capable of going a mile in 2:20, no, nor in 2:30, either. He must be able to produce good-looking, just such horses as will sell, if their speed capacity is only 2:40. Of the matrons chapters can be written. It is a question pregnant with thought. The standard bred mare, if that is all there is to her, must be thrown out. The fact that she is a member of an illustrious family has cost the breeders of this country many thousands of dollars. Yes, she must be discarded, even though she is the dam of one or two or three that have, by hook or crook, good track and favorable conditions, taken records, but are beaten on the road daily by horses that cannot go that fast by ten seconds. They are counterfeits, soft in bone and faint in heart, brittle in feet, crazy in head, too small for work and fit only to put in the stud after taking standard records, and reproduce their like, adding to the worthless band of nondescripts that menace the whole fabric of horse breeding. 'Tis true that many farms having fifty head of brood mares possess only five or possibly ten that are really fit to breed, and the chances are that that small number are not the equal of the majority, measured by the rule of pedigree. The part played by the matron in the world of production is not as clearly defined as some students of breeding might wish. To those who have pinned faith to the blood line theory the question why those equally well bred and given equal opportunities have varied so materially as producers has risen and presented such unanswerable arguments that a cloud of immense density has shrouded and encompassed the whole problem. Indeed, an individual mare varies to such a degree in the quality of her foals by the same sire that the clear reasoner must recognize that something beside blood lines plays a most important part in the secret workings of nature's laboratory. What is that something is the question. Can any one give a lucid answer? Does any one know why nature's mold gives up to-day a golden cast and to-morrow exposes one of baser material? The delving of a Darwin has not told us the reason for this peculiar prank and it sets to naught the teachings of heredity. One thing is quite certain, the good mares should be bred in spring; those tried and found wanting from an individual standpoint should be relegated to the field of common labor, and not be permitted to perform the part of matrons to our future race of superior horses.—Horseman.

HARRY E. WISE, one of our leading young business men intends to place his stock farm near Gilroy in first-class condition. He will erect many suitable buildings and build a race track on the place. Mr. Wise is a leader among our amateur reinsmen and has made a study of the subject of breeding light-harness horses.

Eastern Turf Gossip.

Winter form is not an accurate guide of racing form. It is amusing to hear trainers who have been more or less successful on the turf predict brilliant futures for horses that have been highly tried as yearlings. In every stable, with exception of George E. Smith's, which contains no youngsters, the hopes of the trainers are almost all centered in some promising two-year-olds. The average quality of the all-aged division last year made it possible to secure large fields in handicaps, a majority of which were arranged on the form indicated by the weights carried in selling races. Many racegoers have almost forgotten Hastings and Handspring, and estimate the form of Ben Brush on the showing he made in his Eastern races. Ben Eder is in the same category, and so are several others that showed fair form in the early spring races. Now take Belmar's form, with his record of victories at the close of the season. Belmar is not of the class measured by the form exhibited by the crack three-year-olds in the early spring last year, but in the fall, pitted against the survivors of a severe campaign, in which sickness played a prominent part, Belmar was a veritable Hindoo. It is to the all-aged division that racegoers look for some stirring racing to arouse the enthusiasm of the masses. Two-year-old races, no matter how valuable the prize may be to the winner, have never created one half the interest or enthusiasm aroused by races between well-known horses which have raced in public and given people an opportunity to form an estimate of the calibre of each contestant. No decided effort has been made to preserve the staying qualities of the thoroughbred by curtailing the number of scrambles and dashes at short distances for two-year-olds. In England the best friends of the thoroughbred inveigh against the excessive two-year-old racing, but owing to the fact that a leading American turfman was told by an English breeder that sprint races were desirable because horses could be raced more frequently, and that short dashes for two-year-olds were excellent for betting purposes, the American turfman returned filled with the bonnet of one of the chief shareholders in a gate-money race track not far from London. When it is possible for a three or four-year-old to win in a single season upward of $100,000 in this country, and in the all-aged division to win fully as much, the quality and quantity of some aged horses that can stay a distance will be greatly increased. Nobody desires to wholly suppress two-year-old racing. Far from it; but intelligent thinking turfmen and racegoers do not advocate races in which one man can win $50,000 in a single race, while a dozen others are unable to meet the obligations for their forfeits, with a stable of crippled two-year-olds ruined in the vain attempt to secure the coveted prize.

The spring handicaps in England have not filled as well as in previous years. The classes of horses in England are behind the classes of previous years in quality, and, with the single exception of Persimmon, English turfmen do not look for stars among the performers of last year, unless Galtee More proves a real clincher. Few American horses are entered in the spring handicaps. The long-distance races have been completely ignored by the Americans. Richard Crocker's horses have been entered in several stakes. It is likely that Americans will be raced as a sprinter in the future.

Some shrewd Americans believe that horses can be trained and tried in this country and shipped across the Atlantic in condition to race two weeks after their arrival in England. The experiment is to be made by one of the heaviest plungers on the American turf in June, if the horse he has in view fulfills his expectations. Colonel Thomas P. Ochiltree believes in the theory, and is firmly convinced that after the experiment is made American turfmen will ship horses to England with as much avidity as to Chicago to race for valuable prizes.—N. Y. Tribune.

Drs. PIERCE & ARCHBOLD, the leading veterinarians of Alameda county are in active demand at the Oakland track. They have accomplished some wonderful cures there.

JENNIE MC. 2:12, by McKinney 2:11½, has been sent to the Oakwood Park Stock Farm to be bred to the great Steinway 2:25½. The produce should be very valuable.

Out of 73 mares bred to McKinney 2:11½ last year, 70 of them proved with foal. A most remarkable record.

McKINNEY 2:11½, sired two in the list in 1896. Juliet D. 2:16½ as a three-year old and Sola 2:25½.

COURSING.

Feb. 22—Interstate Coursing Club's Spring Meeting, Ingleside Coursing Park. J. R. Dickson, Secretary, 410 Montgomery street, San Francisco.

Alto Clifton.

We present our readers with an excellent illustration of O. J. Albee's well-known collie dog Alto Clifton A. 42995 by Dan B.—Roslyn Constance a daughter of Champion Christopher. Alto Clifton bids fair to become a champion before the season is over. He won 1st, at San Francisco 1896, 1st, Oakland 1896 and 1st, Sacramento 1897. He has good character and expression good coat and carriage and a fine length of head. He is bright orange in color with white markings.

O. J. Albee has been breeding collies for many years and has steadily improved his stock until now he breeds the very best and sells at reasonable prices. He has in his kennel the blood of such well-known winners as Wellesborne Charlie, Maney Trefoil, Champion Christopher, Champion Strephon and others.

Cliquism.

The American Stock-Keeper of January 30th, contains the following: "As far as we can learn from private correspondence, San Francisco, which should take the lead in kennel affairs on the Coast, is troubled with that insidious disease known as 'Cliquism,' and the over-hearing desire of a few to run things to the exclusion of general representation. There are enough good and true fanciers to start a good club on fancier lines and the sooner this is done the better. It is no use affiliating with a gun club whose members probably are little for dog shows or the 'fancy.' We understand that at the last meeting when the election of officers was to take place and the old officers saw that they were in danger of being outvoted, the Secretary stated he had for gotten his minutes! That good sportsman, Herman Oelrichs, a man whose name would bring support to such a club, was to have been presented for President. A correspondent tells us San Francisco should have a club of 100 good members, and if even only half this number is possible, it would seem as if some steps should certainly be taken to either revive the old Club on new lines or start afresh in time for the coming show season.

[As far as we can learn from the correspondence of the American Stock-Keeper, their correspondent is about as big a liar as ever drew breath: At the annual election of the P. K. C., there was barely a quorum present, if matters were as stated by the Stock-Keeper's correspondent how easy it would have been to have secured a good attendance and elected any one they saw fit. Not a nomination was made for some time after they were called for. Finally the old officers were elected. The meeting was held whether the minutes were there or not. Several of the officers declined to serve but were prevailed upon to do so to save the club from dying then and there.—Ed.]

Another Kennel Club?

The "mischief-maker" is again pulling strings. Knowing that if he attempted openly to organize a kennel club he could not gather a corporal's guard, he induces one of his few friends to do his dirty work for him, call a meeting and organize a rival club, promising them the assistance of the Pacific Advisory Board.

For the first time in years there was a fair prospect of peace in the local kennel world. In the hands of the Olympic Gun Club the affairs of the dog lovers were in the care of gentlemen, prominent business men and enthusiastic dog lovers. But the "mischief-maker" cannot associate with that class of men and knowing that if he did not succeed in checkmating them that he was virtually ruined, he and his associates worked in the dark like snakes in the grass and have attempted to cut the throats of the Olympics by organizing a rival club and applying for recognition in the parent organization.

The parties in question met at the office of Dr. F. W. D'Evelyn on Friday evening of last week and organized the San Francisco Kennel Club with J. DeRuyter president and John Tallant vice-president. The whole affair was kept as quiet as possible and the secretaries name was not given out, from which fact we suspect it is the "mischief-maker," for he's just foxy enough to know that if his name were publicly connected with the scheme it would kill it as dead as Chelsea.

Like all other successful organizations the Olympics has enemies. These, with the disgruntled members of the Pacific and a few of their friends whom they have induced to think as they do, make up the new club. We are very sorry to see such men as De Ruyter in such a movement, but the smooth tongue of the "mischief-maker" has doubtless misled him as it has many others. Time alone will show him that he is only being used as the tool of a scheming mischief loving old woman. One who is seeking his own aggrandizement without the slightest regard for the good of the kennel world.

The men that broke up the Pacific because they could not grind their own axes; the men that have given San Francisco dog men the name of "nasty kickers" all over the United States are not the men to trust with the kennel affairs of this city. The San Francisco Kennel Club will soon be buried deeper than the old California and the mischief-maker's final effort to gain supreme control of the kennel affairs of this city will fall as flat as his efforts to breed English setters on greynond lines.

Every dog lover who is a gentleman will fight this organization tooth and nail. It is only organized to create disturbance, and should be crushed before it has had time to ruin the prospects of the coming show.

The St. Bernard Club.

One of the best attended meetings that the St. Bernard Club of California has held for several months was held at this office last Wednesday evening, President T. H. Brown in the chair.

The resignation of Miss Lulu M. Wolcott was accepted.

It was decided to offer six silver medals, two at San Jose, two at Stockton and two at Los Angeles.

One for best rough or smooth coated St. Bernard dog in open class, and one for best rough or smooth St. Bernard bitch in open class, at each show. Competition open to members only.

The formation of the new Kennel Club was heartily discussed and as heartily condemned. It was unanimously resolved that the St. Bernard Club of California show all of their dogs at the Olympic Gun Club's show and support the show in every possible manner, but should the American Kennel Club grant dates to the newly formed San Francisco Kennel Club the club pledges itself not to show a single dog under its auspices or support the show in any manner.

The secretary was ordered to communicate with the secretary of the American Kennel Club and with the club's delegate, Mr. Baegate, informing them of the action taken by the club.

DOINGS IN DOGDOM.

Again we hear from Stockton that the judge question is not definitely settled yet.

The annual statement of the finances of the A. K. C shows a balance on hand of $3,256.97.

At a meeting of the St. Bernard Club of America held Dec. 19 H. W. Lacy was added to the list of club judges.

The celebrated black and tan terrier Champion Bloomfield Sultan, joined the great majority on January 25th.

John Doak advertises in our business columns a pair of Irish terriers and a pair of beagles. Both of these pair should be sold very speedily. Irish terriers are a novelty here and their wall known gameness and hardness should make them popular with all lovers of terriers. The beagles are the merriest little hounds on earth and would provide great sport for any man fond of "varmint" hunting.

Winfield Scott's R.C. St. Bernard pup Ben Bernardo by California Bernardo—Nellie Bland, 1st at Sacramento, died last week of distemper.

The annual meeting of the American Kennel Club and the quarterly meeting of the executive committee will be held on Wednesday, February 24th at 2 p. m.

The fox terrier bitch Warren Sentence, bred and owned by the Rutherfordsons, won special for best dog in the show at Boston last week. This is the bitch that won special last year for best fox terrier at New York and for which Raper offered $750.

George T. Allender returned from the trials at Bakersfield to find the balance of some 30 dogs in fine condition. He speaks in the highest terms of his Glenbeigh—Jill litter. This combination has produced one Derby winner and several of our best field pointers and should be disposed of very quickly.

The American Kennel Club's Committee on Constitution and Rules recommend an amendment to Rule XI of regulations governing clubs as follows: "any transfer or other correction in the entry of a dog as catalogued and in contravention of Dog Show Rule II will be subject to a fine of $5 for each offense."

H. C. Golcher's well-known pointer bitch Beulah, by Glenbeigh—Jill, whelped about as pretty a litter on the 4th as one often sees. They are beautifully marked, six dogs and one bitch. They are by Keefer's Baldy by Idstone Bang—Vashti. From their breeding and considering the quality of both sire and dam they should prove both field and bench winners.

Entries to the Santa Clara Valley Poultry and Kennel Club's dog show close on March 18th. Would it not be advisable to change this date to the 24th? Dog men always wait until the last minute before entering their dogs; sickness, death or a sale may change the breeder's plans. The A. K. C. rules call for a seven day interval between the closing of entries and the opening of a show and this is a great plenty. The change of date would bring the show not less than 20 more entries.

The secretary of the Burlingame Club announces that the Sao Mateo bounds will meet this afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Spanishtown and Crystal Springs cross roads. Lovers of the sport are invited to attend.

The American Kennel Gazette gives Dr. A. T. Regensberger as a delegate to the Pacific Advisory Board. Franz Frey was elected to this position last August by the St. Bernard Club of California, and the secretary of the Board was duly notified of the same. Mr. Frey is, however, too much of a gentleman to be one of the secretary's clique, consequently he does not deign to notice his existence.

Our attention has been called to an error in the report of the Derby of 1893 in our issue of Jan. 28, 1893. Mr. Kyle who reported the trials for us at that time got slightly mixed. The last heat of the third days running was between Countess Noble and Jim P. (not George P.) and Jim P. won the heat between George P. and Jim P. George P. won 1st. Countess Noble 2d, Jim P. Doc P. and Johanna divided third. As there is some dispute upon this question we hasten to correct the statement.

Coming Events.

Feb. 13—Regular semi-monthly meeting of the San Francisco Fly Casting Club. Office of State Fish Commission, Flood Building, San Francisco.

The Fly Casting Club.

The regular semi-monthly meeting of the San Francisco Fly Casting Club was held last Tuesday evening at the office of the California Fish Commission President W. D. Mansfield in the chair. The other members present were: Secretary A. T. Vogelsang, C. G. Young, A. E. Mocker, E. A. Lovett, H. E. Skinoer, E. T. Allen, Jas. Turner, H. Smyth, W. A. K. Miller, H. C. Golcher, G. H. Kellogg, Chas. Klein, M. Cooper, J. J. Mone, F. H. Reed, H. Batten, F. E. Davenport, Chas. Hoyck and A. Russell Crowell.

After the regular routine business Secretary Vogelsang reported that Dr. Gilbert of Stanford University will positively lecture before the club at the next meeting on February 23d on the fresh water fishes of California. The lecture will be illustrated by species of the different varieties of the trout family from the Sisson hatchery.

F. E. Davenport of the committee on visiting Lake Rodeo to ascertain its advantages as a fishing preserve reported the lake not fit for the purpose. Several other lakes were talked of but nothing definite determined upon.

The contest at Stow Lake this afternoon will commence at 2:30 prompt and that of to-morrow at 9:30 a. m. These contests will continue on the second and fourth Saturdays and following Sundays of each month until October next.

A. Russell Crowell was elected clerk of the contests for 1897.

The captain of the Saturday contest will be W. E. Bacheller. The captain of the Sunday contest will be chosen on the ground to-morrow.

Payable on Removal of Mares.

With a limited chance in the stud, True Briton has already shown himself to be a great sire. Rev del Bandidos, from a non-producing mare that had already had five foals, holds the Pacific Coast record, 3:57 1/4 at 2 1/4 miles; Her Majesty (dead), won 11 out of 14 starts; Walter J., (also out of a non-producer), a horse with a great turn of speed, has finished outside the money but a very few times out of nearly one hundred starts. Virgie A. and Zeta, both winners, being the only other ones to represent this royally-bred stallion on the racing turf this year.

From this showing there is but one inference to be drawn, and that is, that True Briton is a sore getter of winners; mares that have never thrown a winner to any other stallion, bred to True Briton, get winners and class horses at that.

WALDSTEIN's first, second and third dams are all producers. He is one of the best producing sons of Director, and in conformation a grand individual; took first premium at late Fair over such great horses as Knight, 2:22, and Zombro, three-year-old record 2:13 1/4. He holds the five-mile race record of the world, 13:05 1/2, and never sired a colt that was not speedy. WALDSTEIN is sire of Lady Waldstein, 2:15; Humboldt Maid, 2:17; Jack W., 2:19 1/2; Native Son, 2:29 1/2; twelfth, 2:29 1/2 (both three years old). The dams of all these have no records nor did they ever produce any in the 2:30 list. Come and see WALDSTEIN's colts go before hooking your mares elsewhere.

Boodle 5829, Rec. 2:12 1/2

ETHEL DOWNS, 2:13; THOMPSON, 2:15; MERLE M, 2:25.

Two prominent horsemen were discussing the relative merits of notable stallions. They agreed that a certain stallion was well bred and a good producer, "but" he had no record. Another had a fast record, was well bred, and a good producer, "but" he was too small. Another had nearly all the necessary qualifications, "but" he had curbs and had feet. Another possessed many rare qualifications, "but" he was vicious, as well as a "quitter." Finally one asked the other, "What's the matter with Boodle?" They both concluded that no stallion, living or dead, possessed all the qualifications desired in a more marked degree than BOODLE.

QUALIFICATIONS

BREEDING unexcelled. Send for extended tabulated pedigree and history of BOODLE.

COLOR, beautiful seal brown, black points, no white.

SIZE, sixteen hands high, weight 1,150 pounds.

DISPOSITION, gentle as a lamb. A child can handle him.

STYLE. A real handsome horse—"a thing of beauty."

CONDITION. Sound as he was the day he was foaled.

SPEED. Race record 2:12 1/2, in a hard-fought battle, which he won.

GAMENESS. A veritable bull dog. A gamer horse never lived.

PRODUCE. While he has only three in the list, no horse living or dead can make a better showing, considering the number of his progeny that have been trained. He transmits all his perfect qualifications to his progeny. His ancestors are noted for their iron constitutions; many of them, notably Goldsmith Maid, 2:14, were obtaining world's records at a time in life when ordinary horses are thinking of dying of old age.

SEASON, ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS
(Usual Return Privilegee)

G. K. HOSTETTER & CO., Owners, San Jose.
C. F. BUNCH, Manager, San Jose Race Track.

ST. NICHOLAS.

TRIAL, 2:27 1-4, AS A THREE-YEAR-OLD.

SIRE BY

DAM SIRE BY

The Great SIDNEY, 2:19 3-4, Sire of 66 ECHO, the Greatest Sire of Broodmares in the List.

ST. NICHOLAS is now eleven years old, just in his prime for the stud; stands 15.3 hands; in color a rich dark bay, two hind ankles white; star in forehead; has good limbs and feet; a pure gaited trotter, and has an excellent disposition. Is pronounced by every one who has seen him as an unusually stylish, well-formed handsome individual. As a three-year-old he went quarters in 30 seconds; then fell into hands that took more pride in owning such a horse rather than in continuing his development.

His colts are of good size, fine lookers, and show extreme speed, but are all owned in private or unprofessional hands.

ST. NICHOLAS is now placed at the head of the breeding department of Sulphur Spring Farm, and will be bred to all the first-class mares. All colts on this farm are trained from weanlings.

This horse, on account of conformation and breeding, cannot help but produce size, style, action and speed.

Will serve only a limited number of mares at $30 FOR THIS SEASON, with usual return privilege; money due on notice of first service.

PASTURAGE $4 PER MONTH.

No liability assumed for accidents or escapes.

In order to show my confidence in the breeding qualities of ST. NICHOLAS, I make the following proposition to owners of stallions that are in service for the SEASON OF 1897 IN CALIFORNIA. I will be one of not less than five to deposit or guarantee in the sum of $100—entrance money and as much money as the BREEDER'S ASSOCIATION chooses to add, all to form a purse—to be trotted or paced for by two-year-olds, in a race, one mile, best two in three, at the FALL MEETING of the P. C. T. H. B. A. in 1897. Only one entry, the get of each stallion allowed. Further details as per agreement of the majority of owners.

Address all communications to

A. G. GURNETT, 308 Pine St., San Francisco, Cal., or SULPHUR SPRING FARM, Walnut Creek, Contra Costa County, Cal.

Maree sent to ranch from Oakland and returned free of charge.

BREED FOR

Disposition, Size, Speed, Soundness and Style
WELCOME, 2:10 1-2.

This game and consistent stallion will make the SEASON OF 1897, ending July 1st, at
W. E. MEEK'S STABLE, near the Haywards Station, at $50 THE SEASON,
With usual return privileges.

WELCOME was sired by Arthur Wilkes, 2:28 1/2, out of Letty (dam of Wayland W., 2:12; Welcome (p) 2:10 1/2, trotting 2:27 1/2; Mand Singleton, 2:25 1/2), by Wayland Forrest (son of Edwin Forrest 49 and a mare by Sir Charles, thoroughbred); second dam Mary (dam of Apex, 2:26; Sterling, sire of four and one sire of one.) Grace, dam of Creole, 2:15; Eagle, 2:19 1/2, by Flaxtail 8132; third dam by Bright Eyes, son of Boanerges. Arthur Wilkes, 2:23 1/2, sire of Welcome, was sired by the mighty Guy Wilkes, 2:18 1/2, out of Gracie, by Arthuro 365; second dam Old Lady, by David Hill Jr.

WELCOME comes from speed producing lines on both sides and his reputation as the "gamest race horse ever Andy McDowell handled" shows that he is far superior to many that have extreme speed, but are lacking in courage. WELCOME is a bay horse, stands 16 hands, and is one of the best-formed horses in California. He earned a trotting record of 2:27 1/2 when a four-year-old, and was put to pacing last year. He started in Montana without a record and won money in every race he started. He won some of the most stubbornly-contested races seen in 1896.

Good pasturage for mares at reasonable rates. For other particulars, address,

Stanley, by Direct, 2:05 1/2, dam Lily Stanley, 2:17 1/2 (old-time sulky). This is a brother to On Stanley, which all Americans will be praising this year. This is a great colt. He has taken the blue ribbon at the recent Horse Show. Individually he is A No. 1. His dam, Lily Stanley, was one of the gamest trotters ever bred in California, and when placed in the breedlog ranks demonstrated her worth by producing Rokeby, 2:13 1/2, and Salishury. Her weanling filly, Lily, full sister to Stanley and On Stanley, is a beauty. She took first premium at State Fair.

Fram, by Direct, 2:05 1/2, out of the great prize-winning mare, Silver Eye (dam of Ramona, 2:17 1/4), by Abbottford. Fram, as an individual, is unsurpassed for his age by any colt in America.

McKINNEY 2:11 1-4 was foaled June 12, 1887, sired by the great Alcyon (son of George Wilkes, and Alma Mater, the famous out of Belle Brandon (dam of Amy, 2:20 1/4, Gov. He started in twenty-eight races and won twenty-five of them. His reputation as a game and consistent performer is world wide. As a sire the few of his progeny that have been handled for speed have demonstrated that they inherit all his extraordinary good qualities.

He trotted a mile in his work last season over a heavy track in 2:16; last quarter in 32 seconds. The 2:22 classes in which he was entered last season failed to fill and he was not started. ## LIMITED TO TWENTY-FIVE MARES.

ALTAMONT is the champion sire of 2:10 performers, being the only horse living or dead with six to his credit. He has taken a leading position among the foremost trotting sires of the country under such conditions that phenomenal ability alone has saved him from oblivion. A very small proportion of his progeny has been trained, and an extremely small number of these by competent men. As a partial illustration of his meagre advantages, it may be stated that he has never produced a colt from a pacing-bred mare, or from one with a fast record. Nor has he ever yet been crossed with a descendant of George Wilkes, Electioneer, Dictator, Sidney or Dexter Prince. Oregon and Washington have produced seven 2:10 performers, and EVERY ONE of these are ALTAMONTs.

ALTAMONT is a horse of iron constitution, and at twenty-two years of age is in the full vigor of his prime, a sure foal-getter, and, except for his blindness—the result of an accident—is without blemish. He has never sired a sorrel, all of his colts having been solid colors—bays, browns or blacks. He is now located in Alameda, at Herbert's Stables, on Sherman street, between Santa Clara and Central avenues. Alameda local S. P. and Narrow Gauge trains from San Francisco, stop within two blocks of stable, and Oakland and Alameda electric cars, half a block away. Residence two doors from stable.

OAKLAND RACES.

The Mud Horses Have a Long Inning—Description of the Various Interesting Events.

Forty-fourth day—Friday, February 12.

Favorites cut ice but once during the afternoon, sawing wood and having no say the rest of the day. Nehula was very much of a star in the first, and leading all the way, won galloping by three lengths from the favorite, Philip H. Soniro, a 3 to 1 shot, took the second handily, while Latah, a good-looking Idaho-bred colt that no one knew anything about, finished second, a head before the favorite, La Flecha. The straight odds against Latah were as good as 200 to 1. Unity, backed into favoritism, contented himself with second and third place until the homestretch was reached, then galloped away with the big end of the purse. The special at a mile between Good Times and Scarf Pin was one of the prettiest races ever seen in this section. Not a length separated the pair from barrier-raisa to sighting rod, and Good Times was a handy winner by a neck after Scarf Pin had set the pace. Willie Sims' riding of the victorious one was most favorably commented upon. California took the fifth with ease after a 35-minute delay, leading all the way and finishing first by three lengths from Caliente. Miss Maggie M., a 20 to 1 shot, won the last by a head from Woodland Belle, the hot favorite, after Nuncomar had led to the head of the homestretch. By the way, the latter's performance was a remarkable one, for he ran away half a mile before the start.

The first race was at seven furlongs, for three-year-olds. They were off to a fair start, and Nehula went into first place. She led Play Boy half a length at the quarter and one and a half at the half, Braxey third, lapped on the Boy. At the three-quarters it was Nehula first by half a length, Play Boy second, with Philip H. at the heels. Nehula drew away in the last furlong, and won with ease by three lengths, Philip H., ridden out, second, one and a half lengths before Play Boy, who beat Atticus (who had been cut off) a length. Time, 1:30½. Nehula was at 2½ to 1, Philip H. 6 to 5, Play Boy 3 to 1, The Tourist 8 (played from 10), others 15 to 100 to 1.

In the second, six and one-half furlongs, Soniro, Roadrunner, Monterey was the order to a good start. At the quarter Soniro, Latah and Monterey. Zoolen then went to the front and led Latah by two lengths at the half and by half a length into the homestretch, La Flecha a length away, third. Soniro came from fifth place in the stretch and won cleverly by a length, Latah beating La Flecha a head for the place, Zoolen fourth, three lengths further away. Time, 1:23½. Soniro was at 3 to 1 (opened at 8 to 5), Latah 100, La Flecha 8 to 5, Luppula 4 (backed from 10), Roadrunner 7, Zoolen 8, and Monterey 60 to 1.

The third was a mile and a sixteenth race. Two Cheers and Unity ran heads apart past the stand and quarter, then Snowdown ran up second, close up to Two Cheers, passing the half, and stayed there to the three-quarter mark, Unity galloping along easily at their heels. He came to the front in the last furlong and won easily by three lengths, Two Cheers beating Peter the Second half a length for place in a drive, Snowdown fourth, three lengths further off. Time, 1:43½. Unity was at 11 to 10 (played from 2 to 1), Two Cheers 4 to 1, Peter the Second 9 to 5, others 8 to 60 to 1.

The mile special between Good Times and Scarf Pin came next. Scarf Pin got off about three parts of a length in front. At the quarter Scarf Pin was three parts of a length in front, at the half a neck, at the three-quarters a head. Good Times got up on even terms half-way down the stretch. Eighty yards of the finish Good Times had his head in front, and, with Sims riding beautifully, the colt beat the filly a neck rather handily amid great enthusiasm. Time, 1:42½. Good Times was at 13 to 10 at the close, Scarf Pin 3 to 5 (backed from 4 to 5).

The fifth race was at six and one-half furlongs. After a recall, numerous breaks by Toano and an all-around wait of half an hour caused by a lot of bad acting, they were dispatched to a good start. California went right to the fore and led Fly half a length at the quarter and one and one-half at the half, Suisun third. California was three lengths to the good at the three-quarters and Fly was second, two lengths in front of Caliente, who had come from the clouds. California galloped in an easy winner by three lengths, Caliente coming up strong and getting the place, four lengths in front of Suisun, Fly and Lost Girl, heads apart. Time, 1:22½. California was at 14 to 5, Caliente 3½ to 1, Suisun 2, others 10 to 100 to 1.

In the last Nuncomar led to the homestretch, where Miss Maggie M., who had run up second, came to the front and won from the fast coming Woodland Belle by a head, Nuncomar third, two lengths off. Time, 1:02½. Miss Maggie M. closed at 15 to 1, Woodland Belle 9 to 10, Nuncomar 100, Nina Ninety-nine 5, Sugarfoot 6, others 10 to 30 to 1. Nuncomar ran away half a mile before the start, therefore his performance was a remarkable one.

Forty-fifth day—Saturday, February 13.

In the first race they were off to a fair start except Siva. Turning for home it was Irrigator, Lona Marie and Don Luis, close together. Barney Schreiber got up in the last sixteenth, and won cleverly by half a length, Irrigator second, with Fallon Princess at his heels. Hermosa was a good fourth. Time, 0:38. The lone stable pair (Barney Schreiber and Michael) were at 20 to 1, Irrigator 15, Fallon Princess 15 (played from 20), Hermosa and Don Luis 3½, Lona Marie 5, Siva 7, others 15 to 100 to 1.

In the second, one mile, they were off to a good start, and Cappy went right to the front, leading Installer half a length at the quarter, Joan well up, Salvahle last. At the half it was Cappy first by a length, and Salvahle had run up second, Joan still third and Installer last and falling back fast, clearly not liking the going. Cappy was allowed to lead up to the final sixteenth, on sufficiency, then Salvahle was given just a little rein and he won easily by a neck, Cappy second, ten lengths from Joan, Installer ten lengths further away, pulled up. Time, 1:48½. Salvahle was at 4 to 5 (backed from even), Cappy 8 to 1 (15 once), Joan 20 and Installer 8 to 5.

In the third, six and a half furlongs, there was a break and a recall. Tea Rose and Zylpha ran about a quarter before they were stopped. They finally got off to a rather poor start, Simmons, Installatrix, David, Tea Rose being the order. Several of the boys evidently thought it no go. Tea Rose soon got to the front and led David three lengths at the half, Simmons another half-length away. Tea Rose's lead had been cut to a length at the three-quarters, David second, a dozen lengths before Simmons. David had about half a length the best of it eighty yards of the finish, but Tea Rose came again and won on the post by a head, David second, twenty lengths from Simmons. Time, 1:24. Tea Rose was at even money, David 7 to 5 (9 to 5 once), Simmons 6 to 1, others 100 and 200 to 1.

The McLaughlin Selling Stake, one mile, $950 to first, $200 to second, $100 to third, came next. Off to a dead-even start, Salisbury assumed the lead, being one and a half lengths in front of Schiller and Alma, together, at the quarter. Damien, last, was given his head soon after, and led at the half by half a length, Salisbury second, with Schiller close up. Damien was a scant length in front of Schiller turning for home, with Salisbury four lengths off. More than half-way down the homestretch the leaders began to drive, and in a most exciting finish Damien won by a good head, Schiller second, twenty lengths before Salisbury. Time, 1:44. Damien was at 3 to 5, Schiller 2½ to 1, the Burns & Waterhouse pair 6 to 1. A claim of foul by Schiller's rider was not allowed.

The two-mile race was not very exciting. Fred Gardner led for about one and one-fourth miles by about four lengths, Foremost being second, three lengths before Morfe Fonse. The latter was then sent along, as was Foremost. At the mile and a half Foremost, Fred Gardner and Morfe Fonse were running lapped. At the head of the homestretch Morfe Fonse was two lengths in front of Foremost, on whom Gardner ran lapped. It was a mere exercise gallop for Fonse to win, which he did by two lengths, Foremost second, coming strong at the finish, about four lengths from Gardner. Time, 3:49. Unity was scratched at the last moment. Morfe Fonse was at 1 to 4, Foremost 4 to 1, Fred Gardner 10 to 1.

The last event on the card was the Burlingame Hurdle Handicap, total value $1,000, distance one and one-half miles. Artemus led over the first two fences, then Flashlight, who had been running under a strong pull, was sent along, and, jumping beautifully throughout, opened up a gap of ten lengths by the time a mile had been traversed. Montalvo ran up second, being lapped by Arundel. The former closed up quite a lot of ground going around the final turn, but after getting over the last fence seemed to go to pieces, Flashlight winning by four lengths under a pull, Arundel finishing up second, driven out, four lengths in front of Montalvo, who beat J. O. C. twenty. Time, 2:57. Flashlight is the best "green" jumper local race-goers have ever seen. He was at 2 to 1, Arundel 12, Montalvo 2½, J. O. C. 13 to 5, others 25 to 40 to 1.

Forty-sixth day—Monday, February 15.

A mile race was first on the programme. To a fine start Woodchopper led by two lengths at the quarter and half a length at the half, Eventide second, Marjorie third at the latter point, at Eventide's heels. Marjorie led by half a length at the three-quarter mark, Eventide and Pollock heads apart. Marjorie drew away in the last furlong and won in a gallop by five lengths, Pollock second, three lengths from Last Chance, who beat Miss Ruth as far. Eventide died away when she had gone about six furlongs, Woodchopper when he'd gone five. Time, 1:43½. Marjorie was at 6 to 5, Pollock 5 to 1, Last Chance 6, Woodchopper 4, others 12 to 50.

In the second, seven furlongs, they got off to a rather poor start, Marionette left. The starter waved his recall flag in vain, as did his assistant. No hell, sounded for the hoya to turn back, but "Skeats" Martin pulled up on Applause. Latah led by two lengths at the quarter, Suisun second, lapped by Toano, who was a dozen lengths in front of Applause, who was set going and closed up at a great rate. At the half Suisun was a head in front of Latah, who was eight lengths before Applause. The latter passed all but Suisun nearing the homestretch, into which Suisun was first by three lengths. Applause swerved in the stretch and thought she came again gamely, Suisun won by half a length, Latah six lengths behind Applause and eight lengths from Toano. Time, 1:33. A big crowd gathered around the judges' stand, expecting to see the bets declared off, but it was not done. Applause would have won by a block with an even break. Suisun was at 4 to 5, Applause 4 to 1, Latah 30, Toano 3 and Marionette 50.

In the third, mile and a sixteenth, Wheel of Fortune got away fifth, and went right to the front. At the quarter-pole it was Wheel of Fortune first by a length, Draught, Stentor and Peter the Second heads apart. The Wheel led by half a length at the half-mile ground, Stentor second, two lengths from Peter. The order was the same turning for home, Wheel leading by a length. Stentor drew up close to the mare in the final furlong, and Hennessy, hand-riding her, shot the Wheel in first by a scant length, Stentor second, ten lengths from Peter the Second, who beat the poorly-ridden St. Aignon two lengths. Time, 1:53. Wheel of Fortune was at 3 to 2 (once as good as 2 to 1), Stentor 9 to 5, Peter the Second 5 to 1, St. Aignon 8, others 50 to 200 to 1.

A mile and a quarter race came next. Imp. Sain and 'Ostler Joe ran from a head to a neck apart in front past the stand, quarter, half and to the homestretch. 'Ostler Joe passed to the front about half-way down the stretch and won handily by two lengths, The Bachelor getting the place, four lengths in front of Imp. Sain, Morfe Fonse last, pulled up, after running third and coming up the last quarter quite strong. Time, 2:12. 'Ostler Joe was at 8 to 5, The Bachelor 7 to 1, Imp. Sain 2, Morfe Fonse 3 (played down from 4 the last moment).

The fifth race was at a mile. Off to a good start, Walter J. at once got to the front, leading by three lengths at the quarter, Daylight second, a length before Formal. Walter J. was two lengths to the good at the half, Daylight and Formal lapped, with Bueno another length away. Walter J. had enough when he had gone five furlongs, Daylight and Formal running heads apart into the homestretch, a length in front of Bueno, whose head showed in front of Walter J's. Daylight was not caught, winning driving by three parts of a length from Formal who beat Bueno three lengths. Monita was fourth, lapped on the black horse. Time, 1:46½. Daylight was 15 to 1, Formal 4 to 5, Bueno 2 (backed from 13 to 5), others 10 to 40 to 1.

The last race, six and a half furlongs, had but four starters. Moylan and Chartreuse ran in close order past the half, with Summertime about two lengths away. Moylan soon thereafter took a lead of over a length, but Summertime got up close to him on the final turn, and after Moylan and the filly had bumped each other a few times Summertime came on and won rather handily by half a length, Moylan second, six lengths from Chartreuse II. Time, 1:23½. Summertime was at 7 to 10, Moylan 3½ to 1, Chartreuse 4, Dennis 100 to 1.

Forty-seventh day—Tuesday, February 16.

In the first, six furlongs, they got away to a fair start, Miss Ruth, Red Will, Heartsease being the order. O'Fleeta showed first at the half, closely attended by Monitor, Heartsease and Red Will. At the head of the homestretch O'Fleeta was a head in front of Heartsease, on whom Monitor was lapped, Billy Ayres close up. The first three mentioned ran in close order to the final sixteenth, where Heartsease drew away, and going strong, won by three lengths easily, Monitor beating O'Fleeta half a length for place in a drive. Miss Ruth was fourth, three lengths further off. Time, 1:19. Heartsease was at 10 to 1, Monitor 6, O'Fleeta 3, Long Lady 4, Agitato 8, others 12 to 100 to 1.

In the second, five and a half furlongs, they were away quickly to a good start, and Scotch Rose shot to the fore, leading Jack o' Lantern a length at the half, Sweet William three lengths away. Scotch Rose was three lengths to the good at the three-quarters, Sweet William second, a head before Jack o' Lantern, Naranja another length away. Scotch Rose dogged it about half-way down the homestretch, Sweet William running on to a handy length victory, Naranja coming up strong at the end and beating Jack o' Lantern two lengths for the place. Time, 1:11½. Sweet William was at 4 to 1, Naranja 30, Jack o' Lantern 15, Scotch Rose 1 to 2, Rienzi 8, others 20 to 200 to 1.

An owners' handicap, at a mile, came next. To a good start Joan showed first, but David shot to the fore on the first turn, led Ferrier at the quarter by two lengths, at the half by six, at the three-quarters by seven, and won pulling up by ten lengths, Ferrier second, also pulling up, twenty lengths from Joan, who beat Mahogany a dozen. Time, 1:44—a cracking good run over such a muddy track. David was at 3 to 2 (8 to 5 for some time), Ferrier 3 to 5, Joan 60 and Mahogany 200 to 1.

A mile and a furlong race was the fourth on the programme. Persens went right to the fore, leading Benamela a length passing the quarter, half a length at the half and a length into the homestretch and winning easily by three lengths from Benamela, who could have been closer, Foremost, well up most of the way, third, lapped on the favorite, Charles A. eight lengths further away. Time, 1:59½. Persens was at 8 to 5, Benamela 4 to 5 (played from evens), Foremost 15, Charles A. 10 and Jack Martin 60.

A seven-furlong race came next. La France was scratched at the last moment, and all money on her was refunded. Off to a good start, George Miller went into the lead, being a neck in front of Ivy at the quarter and half a length at the half, Torsina one and one-half lengths away. Miller had two lengths the best of it at the three-quarters, Caliente having run up second, a head before Torsina, three lengths off. Caliente drove hard, but could not catch George Miller, who won easily by a length, Caliente second, six lengths from Torsina, who beat Imp Ivy (pinched in the homestretch) half a length. Time, 1:32. Geo. Miller was at 4½ to 1, Caliente 11 to 5, Torsina 3 to 2, Imp Ivy 20, Logan 15, others 30 to 300.

The last race was at six furlongs, selling. Three Forks and Zoolain ran close together past the half. Three Forks was a length in front of Zoolain at the three-quarters and won off by three lengths easily. Ike L., coming fast at the finish, was second, a head before Banjo, Zoolain lapped on the latter. Time, 1:20. Three Forks was at 11 to 5, Ike L. 15 to 1, Banjo 10, Zoolain 4, Contribution 6 (played from 10), Fullerton Lass 8, others 15 to 100 to 1.

Forty-eighth day—Wednesday, February 17.

The first event was at three and a half furlongs, for two-year-olds. Hermosa, on the fly, shot away from the bunch as if they were tied up, led by ten lengths turning for home, Rosa second, lapped by On Gna Nita. Hermosa was not headed, winning easily by three lengths, Roxey Murphy, six into the homestretch, coming strong at the finish and beating Rosa a length for place, Charles La Bel fourth. Time, 0:45. Hermosa was at 11 to 5, Roxey Murphy 15, Rosa 12, Charles La Bel 13 to 5, On Gna Nita 6 to 1, Lona Marie 8, others 50 to 100 to 1.

In the second, six furlongs, for three-year-olds, they got away to a fine start, Nuncomar showing first, The Sinner second and Arrezzo third. At the half The Sinner was leading by two lengths, Elaine, Lost Girl, Nuncomar and Arrezzo heads apart as named. The Sinner's lead was cut to half a length at the three-quarter pole, Lost Girl second, a head before Nine Ninety-nine, he a head before Arrezzo. Arrezzo came to the front in the last sixteenth and won handily by three parts of a length from Lost Girl, who beat Nine Ninety-nine four lengths, Basquil a head further away and a head before Nuncomar, who was in the heavy going against the inner rails all the way. Time, 1:19½. Arrezzo was at 2 to 1, Lost Girl 10, Nine Ninety-Nine 100, The Sinner 11 to 5, Etta H. 5 to 1, others 10 to 100 to 1.

The match at two miles between Schiller and Morte Fosse, $500 added, came next. Schiller led by from half a length to three lengths going the mile, by one length passing the stand. The first mile was in 1:55½. Morte Fosse was a neck in front, on the inside, at the mile and a quarter, the same at the half and three quarters, Schiller under a handle of wraps. He tried to run out as they turned for home, and Slaughter brought his whip into play. There was quite an exciting run down the straight, but Schiller won handily enough by half a length in 3:44½. This made the last mile run in 1:49½. Schiller was at 3 to 10, Morte Fosse 2½ to 1 at the close.

A mile race followed. To an excellent start Two Cheers went to the fore and led by two lengths at the quarter, Coda, Thornhill and Walter J. heads apart. At the half Two Cheers, Walter J., Thornhill and Moylan were hunched. Moylan took the lead three furlongs from home and led Two Cheers a neck at the three quarters, Walter J. third, two lengths off. Moylan was not headed and won handily by a length, Thornhill coming up fast and heating Two Cheers half a length for place, Coda fourth, another length away. Time, 1:47½. Moylan was at 6 to 5, Thornhill 3 to 1, Two Cheers 4½ to 1, Walter J. 6, others 25 to 100 to 1.

In the Shell Mound Handicap, for three-year-olds, seven furlongs, $700 to the owner of the winner, they got away to a fair start. Casper, third away, was first by a head at the quarter, Reselle second, a length from Hannetta. At the half Casper was first, a head from Hannetta, who was a head from Roselle. Hannetta began falling back when about three furlongs from home, and Tea Rosa was sent along. Casper led her by two lengths into the homestretch, Hannetta and Torpedo close up. Casper was not headed, and won easily by two lengths, Torpedo, driving second, five lengths from Roselle, who beat Tea Rosa two. Time, 1:32½. Casper was at 7 to 10, Torpedo 15 to 1, Roselle 200, 200, the Rose pair 8 to 5, Dolore 40 to 1.

The mile and three-furlong jump came last. Reddington went to the front, leading by from a length to ten to the homestretch, Zaragoza running second for about six furlongs, then Hello second. Reddington won easily by two lengths from the driven-out Hello, who beat Zaragoza fifteen lengths. There was a great drive between the tail-enders, Joe Hill beating Dick O'Malley a nose. Time, 2:42. Reddington was at 15 to 20, Hello 7 to 1, Zaragoza 15, Gold Dust 4, others at long prices.

No, no, not to-day!

Columbia has decided to put a crew upon the water this year, and $6,000 has already been subscribed. Yale has not yet reached a conclusion.

George Phillips won the amateur Figure Skating Championship for 1897. In 1886 he was second to Louis Rubenstein. He has skated in contests for the past thirty years.

Fra Diavlo, the yacht owned by the late Herrmann, has been libelled for a debt due the yacht rigger. This is rather singular when one remembers how easily Herrmann used to pick $20 gold pieces from the air. J. O. M.

Fleetwood's Grand Circuit Card.

After more than a month of dickering and delay the executive committee of the Driving Club of New York has closed a contract for the use of Fleetwood Park during 1897, and announced the stake program for the Grand Circuit meeting to be held next September. The committee met Feb. 2, at the Hotel Metropole. The members present were: President James Butler, Capt. C. H. McDonald, James McClanahan, S. B. Clark, W. G. Leland, L. A. Burke and J. H. Regan. On the advice of Mr. Regan, who is the legal counsel of the club, that it would be lawful to trot the stake elsewhere than at Fleetwood, in case the property should be cut up into building lots before the date of the Grand Circuit meeting, the committee decided to renew the lease at a rental of $9,000 for the year. The payment of this sum operates to cancel an indebtedness of $2,500 for rent which accrued in 1896, so that the terms secured this year are more favorable than ever before.

Luke A. Burke, who was elected at the first meeting of the executive committee to fill the dual position of secretary and treasurer, resigned the latter office, and S. B. Clark, who preceded Mr. Burke as treasurer in 1896, was unanimously chosen to fill the vacancy.

When it came to formulating the stake program, President Butler and Messrs. McClanahan, Clark and others were strongly in favor of opening a $5,000 subscription event similar to the Transylvania Stake, which annually furnishes the feature of the Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders' meeting at Lexington. The project met with general favor, and at the close of the meeting President Butler said to the Sun reporter that such a stake, probably to be known as the Manhattan, would very likely be announced by the Driving Club as soon as the officers could determine just what class and conditions would best suit the horse owners. It is the intention of the committee to make the stake a fixed event, in the hope of building up one of the "classics" of the trotting turf, like the Charter Oak, Merchants and Manufacturers' and the Transylvania. The race will probably be for trotters of the 2:15 class, owners making their subscriptions to the stake early in the spring, but with the privilege of naming their horses a short time before the contest takes place.

The regular stake program adopted is similar to that of last year, and the amount hung up for the early closing events is the same, $22,000. Some changes were made in the faster classes, the 2:12 and 2:17 trots taking the place of the 2:15 and 2:19 stakes of 1896, while the 2:09 class for pacers is also an innovation. The growing tendency to do away with two-year-old racing on the trotting turf led to some doubt about the wisdom of renewing the stake for colts of this age, but the class filled so well last season that the committee finally decided to try it again. Entries to all of the events will close on March 14, and the entrance fee in each class is the customary 5 per cent., divided into six payments. The classes and purses follow:

Trotting—2:12, $3,000; 2:17, $3,000; 2:24, $3,000; 2:30, $3,000; 2:40, three-year-olds, $2,000; 2:50, two-year-olds, $2,000; 3:00, $1,000.

Pacing—2:09, $2,000; 2:20, $2,000; 3:00, $1,000.

SPECIAL DEPARTMENT

EDITED AND CONDUCTED SOLELY BY

JOSEPH CAIRN SIMPSON.

HORSE SHOW AND HORSE BREEDERS.—The proposition to select a committee of the members of the P. C. T. H. B. A., to act in conjunction with the officials of the Horse Show meets with universal approbation. The object to be gained is the better appreciation of the work of the Horse Show folk by those who are mainly interested in fast trotters and pacers. It is now recognized that there should be unanimity of action on all sides, and earnest efforts made to second the purpose of the organization.

Nothing gained by disguising the fact that there were antagonisms, and that on both sides there were errors, and in saying which was the most to blame would be of no service in the future. That both parties to the controversy were, in a measure, culpable cannot be gainsayed, as the advocates of different interests gave cause for the charge of overlooking the general welfare of the horsebreeding interests of the State. There is no question that the managers of the Horse Show were only actuated by the desire to further the interests of all classes of exhibitors, and still less chance to sustain the claim that their efforts were fully seconded by the main breeders of light harness horses.

Far from my purpose to go over the grounds which led to the disagreement, or to dwell upon the past further than to make the teachings of the past a guide for the future. There cannot be any reasonable controversy over one point, that being, that with united action by the whole of the horse people of California, or to put it on broader grounds, with a general determination of the people of the Pacific Coast to sustain and assist the efforts of the officials of the San Francisco exhibition it will be eminently successful.

Furthermore I have the fullest confidence that a committee, such as it is the intention on the part of the P. C. T. H. B. A. to select, will engage in the work with zeal and an ardent resolution to leave nothing undone which will advance the interest depending. The great point to secure the co-operation of all the breeders of horses and secure full entry lists in all of the departments. Especially in the classes which did not obtain full support at the last show.

That the light-harness divisions viz., the horses which have been bred here with so much success, fast trotters and pacers, were not represented any where nearly so fully as they should have been, is well-known, and this undoubtedly came from carelessness on the part of their owners. The premium list was not given proper consideration, that part of it at least which came within the classification mentioned and not until the paucity of entries was apparent, was the cause of partial failure explained. I have heard quite a number of owners speak of the condition of affairs, and they were ready to accept the blame of the meagreness of entries from heedlessness in not giving the premium list proper consideration before the entries closed. Quite a number expressing their surprise that there were so many classes they had overlooked and it is very safe to assert that will not occur in the future. There is not a member of the P. C. T. H. B. A., which I have heard express their opinions, who are not eager to do all in their power to forward the interests of the horse show and that for the very good reason, that the benefits are not restricted to any one class, and with few, if any, exceptions all kinds of horses will be the recipients of favors.

It is not a question of hackney or trotter, of French or other breeds of coach horses, simply this that all kinds of horses are bred on "the Coast" and from Shetland ponies to thoroughbreds, from the two-minute trotter or pacer to the high steppers, if their owners will only join heartily with the Horse Show people, the exhibition will display animals of the highest grade of excellence.

Supererogatory to offer a guarantee that its owners and trainers will do their part the exposition of 1897, will be an honor to the State, as that is assured beyond reasonable contention.

"LICENSE"—Heretofore I have expressed the opinion that the action of Nevada in providing for licensing prize-fights was commendable. I came to the conclusion, many years ago, that in this complex stage of the world the best way to handle very many of the affairs of life was to place them under control, and in this way secure proper government.

This has been generally recognized, and states, cities, towns, even rural precincts, have adopted systems of sanctioning peculiar branches of business. Nearly all, as from the highest to the lowest few, indeed, which are left entirely free.

There will, of course, be always pronounced differences of opinion, and when it comes to running counter to the views of those who hold themselves to be the most intelligent, the most moral, the most refined of the human family there will be a "holy horror" of the infringement of their privileges. As to prize-fighting. From the earliest days there has been a thorough appreciation of combatativeness. When David brought skill to bear against brutal strength, conquered the giant Goliath by a knowledge of the force of projectiles, he was not only lauded to the skies, but awarded material benefits as well as championship honors.

Now here are two men who have climbed to the top of the ladder of fistic renown. Noted exemplars of the manly art whose business it is to hit hard and to receive hard knocks with a courage and resolution which are certainly commendable. Thousands of people admire these qualities, and also the science which adds to the power of the arms and sinews, brings the brain as well as the muscles into prominence.

These admirers are willing to pay a high price to gratify their propensity, ready to make long journeys, to accept annoyances, to endure sufferings, and that portion of them who sought to enjoy the sights outside of the protection of law taking chances of bodily harm.

Contrast the orderly gathering, which will be sure to throng the arena at Carson on the 17th prox., and one of the olden time fights, and which is the most worthy of encouragement? I cannot act as referee on that question further than from reading reports and witnessing some of the ring doings of more than thirty years ago, but from that knowledge feel perfectly safe in asserting that the modern must be awarded the preference.

In the former case there was nothing but license, the right to act as far as strength was commensurate to accomplish the task. Something after the principle which, according to Wordsworth, actuated Rob Roy:

"For why? Because the good old rule
Sufficeth them; the simple plan.
That they should take who have the power,
And they should keep who can."

Simple enough for the stronger if not so acceptable to the weaker.

It may be somewhat risky to assume that apart from two strong, active, skilled men, battling under sanction of the law, there will be an orderly gathering, but yet under the old management there was a certainty of anything but good behaviour.

Then "the strongest fend off" now an equal chance the weak protected, the strong kept within proper bounds.

NOT FAR OFF.—Springtime is close by now and as the first of March is conceded to mark the inauguration of the season of flowers and verdure, a couple of weeks more will show plenty of bloom in this hounteously endowed country.

It may appear that when the climate is made so much of that it will be a trite topic and yet a proper appreciation of what the G. A. O. T. U. has done for us should not give offense. The prospects for good races could not be better than they are now, and with a return of appropriations for District Fairs it will be quite safe to prophesy a season of prosperity for trotters and pacers. The agreement made between the P. C. J. C. and C. J. C. has given great satisfaction. Until the action of the legislature in regard to racing is known there will be some uneasiness, but so little danger of antagonistical measures being carried that there need not be any serious apprehensions.

When the question of winter racing in California is fairly understood there will be practically no opposition.

A few higsots, perhaps, who would like to have their gloomy counsels followed, and a small minority who think the world should be a dreary, sombre place, happiness a crime, and any kind of pleasure deadly sins. These ascetics are few in proportion now to what they were in the old, old days and will continue to lose ground as the real living world is better and better appreciated. A grand world it is and growing grander all the while now that the work of the Great Creator is better understood. The "sweet habit of existence" is better relished when once people are aware that it is not the intention of a beneficent ruler to make life a burden, and that enjoyment is more in accordance with a "higher life" than despair and sorrow.

Sackcloth and ashes are not the proper habiliments for the twentieth century. A touch of bright color is not held incompatible with righteousness, and a jovial countenance is not the absolute forerunner of everlasting perdition.

A public benefactor he who made two blades of grass to grow where a single attenuated spear occupied the ground before the truly wise men instituted better cultivation. Still better he who increases the happiness of the human family, and in addition to promoting the material resources of the country brings enjoyment, smiles in place of gloom and sunshine in lieu of clouds.

THE STATE FAIR—A paragraph in the Call of Thursday reads:

"Sacramento, Cal., Feb. 17th—Several days ago a bill passed the assembly conferring power upon the State Agricultural Society to sell Agricultural Park, where races are held in this city during the State Fair. Craig Sharp, secretary to the Oakland Board of Trade, and L. Rothenburg of Oakland, are here in the interest of having the State Fair held in Alameda county, with authority to offer the Agricultural Society the Oakland Trotting Park on easy terms. A bill will be introduced to-morrow for the purpose."

While there is little chance of a bill being carried through the Legislature in favor of such a scheme there is danger in any proposal of the kind at this time, especially when the question of appropriations for that and the District Fair is still in abeyance. There is also a serious element of future trouble embodied in the agitation, and while the contingency is very slight of the State Fair being changed into a perambulating institution should that ever occur the glory of the California fair will be greatly diminished. Under the old plan of State and District Fairs receiving governmental aid, not a State in the Union which has such a grand circuit. The State Fair, the conspicuous central figure, far exceeding others of the same class viz: State institutions for the promotion of all branches of industry.

To secure that high position it had to be a fixed place, that of a star, if changed to holding its exhibitions in different places, that of a comet, the irregular orbit militating against its usefulness. It might be that San Francisco and Alameda counties could equal the advantages now possessed if the State Fair were fixed permanently in Alameda county, but in order to put it on the like stable foundation, it would be necessary to own the land and the buildings required for the complete equipment of such an exhibition as has been held so long in Sacramento. But there is not the shadow of a chance to obtain legislation which would secure permanent location in any place outside of Sacramento, and to make it one of the stopping places on the route, even if as often as once in four years, the advantages gained would not compare with those which will follow the revival of the Golden Gate Association. A fair in Oakland of annual occurrence can be made one of the great exhibitions of the country, and the benefits resulting far greater than from a high quinquennial exposition.

The year in which the State Fair was held might show good results, the off years entirely barren.

The proposed change could have no other effect than to replace good exhibitions with those far inferior. The people of California can ill afford to have their great institution put in jeopardy, and when the question is fairly understood, while there is small danger, even that should be so speedily looked after that grave apprehensions will be relieved.

There is only one ground for all true advocates of the fairs to stand upon.

The State Fair must not be disturbed or anything done to lessen its usefulness. While I think the steps taken to sell the present property and go further out from the center of Sacramento were premature, the bill enabling the sale may be stopped before it becomes a law, or the Board of Directors announce that it will not be carried into effect until after the meeting of the next Legislature. The passage of that in the house gave the opportunity for this disturbing element to commence work.

Let it be fully understood by the committees which were appointed by the P. C. T. H. B. A. and the meeting held here that at least ninety-five per cent of the members of both bodies are decidedly opposed to any onslaught on the State Fair, or anything which would cripple its effectiveness. Then secure appropriations for as many district fairs as can be obtained, and if fortunate in carrying these two points they will be entitled to and receive the heartiest approval of their work.

***

A TURN FOR THE BETTER SOON.—While I may be inclined to indulge in too rosy speculations regarding the future of light harness horses, there are certainly good grounds for brilliant expectations. As stated elsewhere, there is more than a good chance for appropriations for the fairs, and there is a prevailing disposition among the owners of trotters and pacers to train them this season, largely in excess of the past two years.

This is not all. Any one who will look over the stallion ads in the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN, and compare them with those of last year, will be surprised at the augmentation of the list, and these of a character which will demonstrate that breeders are again convinced that the business will be remunerative when the right sort of sires and dams are the foundation. Owners of stallions are more than hopeful, having assurance of "full books."

The merit of the animals offered will fully justify the averment that California, notwithstanding the many great sires which have been sent away, has the right material to build high hopes upon, and in selecting those which are entitled to be placed at the head of the list the task is troublesome. A "round robin" would overcome the difficulty but that would entail a good deal of trouble in printing. Therefore the names will be copied in the order they appear in the paper thus on page 107, Waldstein, James Madison, Diablo; on page 109 Boodle, St. Nicholas, Welcome, Steinway, Chas. Derby, El Benton and Gossiper. On page 110 McKinney and Hambletonian Wilkes, and on page 112 Nutwood Wilkes, Altamont and Robert Basler. Chapters of "high commendations" could be written about these horses, even fervent eulogies without going outside of ample justification, however high the encomiums, and there is enough of history embodied in the advertisements for those contemplating breeding to form a correct estimate.

That the California foals of 1898 will be likely to sustain the high reputation already established, is beyond controversy, as there are plenty of good mares to mate with the horses named, and with the old axiom for a guide—that "like producer like or likeness of near kindred" there is small risk in recording the prophecy that with the opening of the twentieth century there will be several new stars to add to the occidental galaxy, bright and shining as their predecessors.

JOS. CAIRN SIMPSON.

Belle Price.

With four sons in the 2:30 list, and each one of these sons a producer, Belle Price will ever occupy a conspicuous place among the famous matrons of the North Pacific. The impress of her strong individuality upon the light harness horse of the great Northwest will continue to confer its benefits as long as the effort to perpetuate and develop him shall endure. The descendants of Belle Price have always been especially noted for their race-horse qualities of game-ness and endurance, as might have been expected from a double infusion of the blood of Mambrino Chief, backed by the stout thoroughbred blood of Woodpecker. It is worthy of note here that Altamont, the sire of most of her colts, has also a double infusion of the blood of Mambrino Chief backed by the stout thoroughbred. Belle Price was foaled in 1875, and died in 1895. Jay Beach bought her of Gen. W. T. Withers, of Lexington, Ky., and brought her to Oregon when two years old. She has produced eleven foals as follows:

1879—Zitopbone, b s, 2:34, by Altamont.
1880—Blk f, died 1880, by Altamont.
1881—Oneco, b h, 2:29½, by Altamont. Sire of Delco, 2:22½.
1882—Br c, untrained by Graduate.
1883—Barren.
1884—Barren.
1885—Pricemont, b h, 2:26, by Altamont. Sire of Bill Frazier, (4), 2:14; Maplemont, (4), 2:21½.
1886—Multnomah, b h, 2:26½, by Altamont. Sire of DeLin, 2:23½.
1887—Barren.
1888—Malben, 2:27, b h, by Altamont. Sire of Moxie, p, 2:25.
1889—Barren.
1890—Daisy Q, blk f, (3), 2:38½, by Altamont.
1891—Kowasta, b f, by Altamont. Yearling trial, ¼ mile, 0:38½.
1892—Quilna, b f, untrained, by Altamont.
1893—Orondo, b h, untrained, by Altamont.

The records given are all trotting records, with the exception of Bill Frazier, Maplemont and Moxie, those three being pacers which yet lack a good deal of having reached their limit of speed.

Belle Price was a bay mare, 15.3, though she had the somewhat plain head of the Ericsson branch of the Mambrino family. She was a mare of blood-like appearance, and of strong and symmetrical proportions, she was sired by Doble, 2:28, 1106, son of Mambrino Chief; dam by Geo. D. Prentice, son of Mambrino Chief; grandam by Woodpecker, thoroughbred, sire of the four-mile race horse Grey Eagle.

Montars, 2:11 3-4.

Mr. Don J. Leathers, Grand Rapids, who bred Montars, writes as follows: "I have used Quinn's Ointment and can say it is one of the best remedies for splints, curbs and other blemishes that I have ever tried." Why you should use Quinn's Ointment. Because it does the work. Endorsed by leading horsemen everywhere. For sale by druggists and dealers, or sent prepaid. Price, large $1.50; smaller size, 50 cents. Address, W. B. Eddy & Co., Whitehall, N. Y.

W. S. BOSSART & Co., Gentlemen:—We have given your Curine a thorough trial in our stable, and must say that its work surpasses that of any other absorbent we have used. It is worth its weight in gold when used on a valuable horse.

FRANK STARR,
W. H. BOYCE.

TURF AND TRACK.

THE SULKY.

We will have district fairs in California.

MONROE SALISBURY is investigating some mines in Utah.

NORVAL, 2:14½, is offered for sale in Lexington Kentucky.

PAT FARRELL hopes to have Marin Jr., 2:13 in the races this year.

GOSSIPER, 2:14½, has a family of youngsters around him at Sonoma that is very creditable.

J. W. KNOX, of Nutwood fame, is wintering in Caracas, South America, with his runners.

M. S. SEVERANCE has a bay Sidney filly at the Los Angeles track that is very promising.

KITTY CAUTION, 2:25, is at the Los Angeles track. She will get a mark of 2:18 this year.

The mare Felicianas 2:17½ by Allerton had for a grandam Steinette (dam of Bourbon Russell) by Steinway 2:25½.

LORA L., a bay mare by Lawrence, dam Lora, by Piedmont, sold for $610 last week at auction in New York.

BOB KNEES will have to take his medicine; so say the German authorities. Truly, the way of the ringer is hard.

HARRY E. WISE, purchased that fast campaigner and well-bred stallion Vasto, 2:16½, from the James G. Fair estate last week.

The Ohio pacing stallion Strong Boy 2:11½, by Allendorf, will be trained again, in the hope of putting him into the 2:10 list.

The pacing mare Lady H. 2:15, by Sidney, has been purchased by M. R. Cook, Jeanette, Pa., from Frank Bailey, Pittsburg, Pa.

VET TRYON has a splendid string of young trotters at the Arcade, Rancho del Paso, that he is getting ready for the races this season.

C. E. BIGELOW is handling a number of very promising horses at Walnut Grove Stock Farm, and will have them in the races this fall.

PASTURAGE will be abundant in California this year. There never was a better winter for the farmers and stock raisers than this.

DIRECTUM KELLY, 2:23½, the great young son of Direct, 2:05½, owned by James Butler, of New York, will be in Knapsack McCarthy's stable.

THE Alameda track is unfit to work horses on since the heavy rains set in. Five days of good weather will put the surface of this track in first-class condition.

It would not be surprising if C. A. Winship of Los Angeles engages Thos. Keating this year as driver. Success crowned the efforts of this combination last season.

THERE is a two-year-old brother to McZens, 2:13, at the Los Angeles track, being worked by a Mr. Wynn, that is one of the sweetest gaited trotters a man ever looked at.

NOW is the time to order your harnesses, horse boots, clothing, etc., and the best place in this State to get them is at John A. McKerron's, 203 Mason street, San Francisco.

THE sale of Palo Alto trotters that is to take place at Madison Square Garden, March 23d will include the best representatives of the best sires and dams at this great farm.

GEN. B. F. TRACY, ex-Secretary of the Navy and owner of Kentucky Wilkes 2:21½ and Marshland Farm, has been elected president of the New York State Agricultural Society.

H. HOPPE, one of our leading trotting-horse enthusiasts, has just arrived from Austria and Germany where he has been disposing of a number of his surgical instrument patents.

F. P. WICKERSHAM of Fresno is standing Junio 2:22, Homeward 2:13½, Bolinas 1937 and Colonel Cox this season. He will get all the best mares in Fresno County for these fine horses.

L. E. McCORMICK, of Portland, Or., claims to have the largest McKinney colt in the State. At seven months old he stands 13 hands high. If there is one that can raise it we would like to hear from him.

LOUPE, 2:03½, the smoothest, as well as the gamest, pacer ever seen on a California track is at Pleasanton, and never looked better. If nothing happens this gelding we look for him to get a record of 2:04 this year.

FROM all stallion owners who are advertising with us favorable reports are being received of the activity among owners of broodmares. Of one thing these stallion owners may be sure, the class of mares to be bred this year will be far superior to any heretofore booked.

DAN LIEGINGER, the young man who gave the bay gelding Frank L. a record of 2:14½ last year, says the horse has wintered finely and will be taken up next week and jogged on the track at Sacramento. Frank L. is the pacer that wore a silver tube in his neck last season.

JULIET D., 5:16½, by McKinney, 2:11½, is out of a mare by Hock Hocking; second dam by Crichton. She is being handled by Willie Durfee, who, like his father, is conceded to be one of the best drivers in California. He is called the "coming Goldsmith." Juliet D. will get a mark of 2:08 this year.

C. A. WINSHIP of Los Angeles purchased a yearling bay filly by McKinney 2:11½, dam by Raymon 2:27, from Chas. A. Durfee, previous to the latter's departure for the north; consideration $500. This filly is called May Horgan and is the best prospect this capable judge and trotting-horse owner has in his splendid string.

OWNERS of broodmares will notice that the list of well-bred trotting stallions advertised in the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN is larger and better than any that has appeared in three years. Several more stallions are to be placed there soon, viz: Silver Bow 2:16, Seymour Wilkes 2:08½, Vasto 2:16½, Junio 2:22 and Hart Boswell.

MILLARD SANDERS, who has leased Belmont Park for 1897 writes that he thinks the outlook very encouraging. He has five horses of his own, and has already received many offers of fast ones for his stable. His high reputation as a trainer of fast stock and his signal success as a record maker will certainly bring him all the high-class stock he can attend to.

THE pacer Bill Frazier, 2:14, has been sold. The sale was made through August Erickson, and the horse has been turned over to George Misner, who will work him for the races. Bill Frazier is a black stallion, five years old, and was sired by Pricemont, 2:26. Last season was his first season, and he took a four-year-old record of 2:14. He should be a good horse this year.

GEN. B. F. TRACY, the new President of the New York State Agricultural Society, believes that the trotter should be bred and developed to go fast in harness without the use of weights and restraining straps, and he wishes to open a few purses at the State Fair, Syracuse, in August, for horses that go without hobbles and toe weights and that do not wear a heavier shoe forward than eight ounces.

MCKINNEY is at Ranlett's, near the entrance of Oakland race track and is the center of attraction. He is looking well and is as lively as a two-year-old. This horse has left many fine colts and fillies in Los Angeles county. There is a McKinney three-year-old filly out of a mare by Christmas, son of Santa Claus, owned by Wm. Ronke of San Bernardino that is more promising than Zomhro was when he was her age, and had the same handling.

P. J. WILLIAMS has received the corrected official certificate of his handsome stallion Egyptian Prince. He is numbered 14,431 and was sired by El Mahdi (son of Onward and Lady Bunker, dam of Guy Wilkes, 2:15½, etc.), out of Egyptienne, 2:18, by the king of show stallions, Mambrino King; second dam Bay Hambletonian (dam of Egyptienne, 2:18, and Henrietta, 2:17½), by Hambletonian 10; third dam by Goldust, 150; fourth dam by imp. Glencoe. There are few better-bred young stallions on the coast.

THE handsome California-bred stallion McZeus, 2:13, has wintered well at Glenlea Farm, near Richmond, Virginia, and is in vigorous health. The brown son of McKinney will be jogged on the roads by his owner, Mr. W. K. Mathews, preparatory to active work for the season's campaign. The roan mare Miss Bird, by Jay Bird, dam by Young Jim, also owned by Mr. Mathews, will be bred to McZeus in the spring and then he fitted for racing during the early part of the season. She is without a record, but very speedy.

THERE is a three-year-old bay pacer owned by Willard H. Stimson, Los Angeles, called Muskegon, that is just beginning to show he is one to pay for handling, and as for breeding there are few better bred in the United States. Sired by McKinney 2:11½, out of Miss Lollie (dam of Dictatus) by Dictator; second dam Gold Pen by Mambrino Abdullah (son of Mambrino Patchen); third dam by Harold; fourth dam Emily Chester, by Mambrino Patchen 58, etc. This colt is a model of symmetry and Mr. Stimson is proud of him.

"THERE are no pacing races at St. Petersburg and there is no market there for pacers," says an American who has just returned home from the Russian capital. This only goes to show that there is another good thing besides liberty that the poor benighted Russian has never had a taste of. But it doesn't make the pacer any the less a sure enough good thing because the Russians haven't discovered him yet. A few good ones carried over there to beat the Orloff trotters at the winter racing carnival that extends from Christmas to April, will open the Russian's eyes.

THEY told this one about John Turner and the timing machine: Once upon a time a down-east genius induced Mr. Turner to give a recently patented timing apparatus a trial. The machine consisted of a large chronograph with a long rubber tube attachment. The driver placed this watch in his pocket and the other end of the tube in his mouth. By blowing in it at the proper time and place the watch could be started and stopped as desired. This left his hands free to attend to the driving exclusively. Mr. Turner tried it on a little mare he was repeating. After the heat he took it out and inspected it carefully. It registered 2:25. With a polite bow he handed it back to the owner and remarked: "It must be a good thing, but really you couldn't make me a present of it. This filly never beat 2:32 before and I don't want to carry around any machine that will blow her a mile in 2:25. That's faster than I want her to go."

W. W. VAN ZANT tells a most remarkable story of the radical treatment given the stallion Baronmore for a bad case of contracted feet. The horse's feet had contracted until they were only about one-half their natural size. While Van Zant was working him out one day and Galesburg the horse stepped on a quarter and tore off a small section of the wall of the hoof near the heel. As this piece of hoof grew in again that part of the hoof widened out almost an inch. This accident gave Van Zant an idea, and he reasoned that, if the removal of a little piece of wall resulted in widening the foot to such an extent, why not cut away the entire wall from the heel to a point just forward of the half-way point between the heel and toe. Of course, this treatment would be very severe, and might cause lockjaw, but as the stallion was in such a bad way that it was a sure thing that the trouble would not yield to ordinary treatment, he decided to try it. The hoof was first rasped away until the blood began to show; then the rest was cut away with a sharp knife. After the operation the feet were wrapped in swabs saturated with liniment. The horse laid down most of the time for the next sixty days, but the new foot grew out very rapidly, and Baronmore eventually came out of it with as good a set of feet as anybody's horse carries. His old shoes, which were removed just prior to the operation, would scarcely cover the frogs in his new feet, and he went on and raced well, taking a record of 2:14½.

D. E. KNIGHT of Marysville, is very proud of a fine foal that recently made his appearance on his farm last week. It is by the "ironhorse" Waldstein, 2:22, out of Lonestar, by Brigadier, 2:21; second dam by Echo. Mr. Knight is so well satisfied with this youngster he has concluded to send three or four mares to Waldstein next month. Mr. Knight has ten horses in training and among them are some promising ones by Lynmont. He made four entries in the colt stakes at the coming race meeting at Colusa and will take some of his older horses there also. Marysville will hold a spring meeting immediately after Colusa.

MR. A. H. MOORE, of Philadelphia, was in the city last week, and reports the stock at his Cloverdell Farm, Colmar, Pa., in fine shape. Mr. Moore was optimistic when speaking of the future of the harness horse, and is evidently well pleased with the result of the sale of the young Directors, which he held in New York last fall. It will be remembered that George Starr purchased the three-year-old Director-Winifred L. colt for $4500 and that the youngster was certainly very promising. Good as this colt is, Mr. Moore says he has a couple at the farm which he thinks are fully as good, if not better. Both of them are by Director, one being out of Nancy Lee (dam of Nancy Hanks, 2:04), and the other out of Emulation, 2:21, by Onward. He says that Cloverdell will campaign a few horses the coming season, principally in stakes.—EX.

It may be many years before there will be another thoroughbred horse that, like Ormonde, sells for $150,000, or another dam of trotters, like Alma Mater, sells for $16,000, but," writes A. A. Anstin in the Boston Herald, "so long as the earning capacity of the American trotter is one-half what it is at present, the trotting horse will be bred and sold at prices in accordance with individual worth. The last year was not an over-prosperous one for the light-harness horse, yet the sons and daughters of only seven stallions won during the season the neat sum of $136,435. During a public sale of trotting stock in New York a few days ago twelve head consigned by a Michigan farm sold at an average of $469. Another breeder who had ten head in the sale realized an average of $409. The entire sale of over 300 head averaged $243. It would be difficult to get together 300 head of other animals, from white mice to shorthorns, that could be sold for $72,900.

THE most valuable of the European trotting events, the Grand Prize, was won at St. Petersburg, Russia, last month by the Sphinx mare, Valley Queen, who was sold by F. S. Gorton of Chicago to the Russian gentlemen Messrs. Polovstov & Feodosieff. Valley Queen was followed home in the long race by Monette, another mare that went east from the Gretna farm stables and who had before exportation already acquired the reputation of being good over long distances. Third came Norinne—all three being piloted by American drivers. By winning this valuable race Valley Queen has crowned herself with the honor of having won more money than was ever won by a trotter in a single race, and that honor she must divide with her sire, Sphinx, who at present bids fair to land very close to the top of the tree among the sires of racing, winning, money-getting speed. Valley Queen was bred in Grand Rapids, Mich., by Francis Lilley and sold by him to Frank S. Gorton, Chicago, who in turn disposed of her to the Russian gentlemen named. In Russia more, owing to the natural speed of the Orloffs, than in any other of the European countries, is it hard to win money in large sums, and hence her victory over the best horses in Russia must be deemed all the more creditable.—Horseman.

THE five fastest miles that have been trotted are credited to six-year-old performers, says The Horseman. Despite the fact that more of the 2:10 trotters have taken their best records at nine years than at any other age, the complete list of all miles trotted in 2:10 and better, showing the ages of each trotter at the time of the performance, furnishes ample evidence that it is at six years of age that a trotter is at the high tide of possibility. Not alone is this shown by the fact that the five fastest miles on record at the diagonal gait were negotiated at that age, but by the preponderance of six-year-old performances all through the records of the best miles both in races and against time for more than half the distance from the present world's record to the 2:10 line. There have been thirty-eight miles trotted from 2:03½ to 2:07. Twenty of these are credited to trotters six years old as against seven for those four years old, two for those of five years, four for those of seven years and five for those of eight years. More miles have therefore been trotted in races and against time in 2:07 and better by six-year-old than by trotters of all other ages combined. This is evidence sufficient to satisfy the most skeptical; still the additional statement may be made that nine more winning heats in races in 2:10 and better are credited to six-year-year trotters than to those of any other age, and eleven more miles in 2:10 and better against time than to those of any other age.

THE Philadelphia Record furnished the following interesting budget of news: "A successful season is prophesied by the local trainers and horsemen for the light harness horse in the vicinity of Philadelphia. With the passage of the proposed amendment to the Peltz pool bill and the brightening up of business everything is calculated to be to the interest of the horsemen, who for the last two years have been outlawed from racing in the state and, consequently, have been virtually on their uppers. At Belmont many improvements are likely to be made. A new annex joining the club house and grand stand is contemplated, water from the Springfield or Bryn Mawr companies will be introduced into the club house and for stable purposes, a number of the stables will be placed in proper order, and probably the course regraded from the quarter pole along the hack stretch, obviating the hill and making the course fully three seconds faster. Millard F. Sanders, the new track and stable lessee will introduce a change in that department. Under his supervision the blacksmith shop will be run by competent shoers, the track is to be put in the best possible condition for racing or training purposes, the rental of the stables to trainers will likely be increased or really graded in price, according to location. Sanders will occupy the big stable and a row of stalls along the west side of the park. He has now booked over forty head of campaigners and colts, with the prospect of the world's champion pacer in a race, Star Pointer.

THE SADDLE.

THE California horses Midies and The Coon ara racing in Venezuela. Tha former is a full brother to California, a winner at Oakland last week.

EUGENE LEIGH has purchased the four-year-old chestnut horse Formal of Pat Dunne for $750. Dunne refused $1,500 for him less than a month ago.

A THREE-YEAR-OLD colt named Steel Shot, by Berney Schreiber's Foul Shot, won a mile race in New Zealand recently, according to an Auckland exchange.

"COUNSELOR" BILL BRIEN is training B. J. Johnson's two-year-olds at Roby. Brien figured in a sensational way when in charge of the Santa Anita string a couple of seasons since.

E. J. BALDWIN, J. Naglae Burk and W. O'B. Meedonough have made entries for the $10,000 Louisville Futurity. J. Neglee Burk's entry is Roscomonke, by Ormonde—Fairy Rose.

DR. STIMPSON, the exceptionally clever Oakland veterinarian, fired the famous Crescendo Wednesday morning, also his sister, Dolce. Bellicoso, of the same stable, is now galloping again nicely. He had a touch of distemper.

CON J. ENRIGHT, who bought the famous Elmendorf farm, on which Daniel Swigert made such a great reputation as a breeder of thoroughbreds, intends to retire from the breeding ranks, says a telegram of Friday from Lexington.

SECRETARY SAM LEAKE has received a letter from the License Committee of the American Turf Congress (James H. Rees, Joseph A. Murphy and Ed. C. Hopper) asking that Rule 174, making it incumbent on all trainers to pay $10 for a license, be strictly enforced.

THE ex-turf queen of America, Miss Woodford, has a foal at her side at Rencho del Paso by imp. Goldfinch, the beautiful chestnut son of Ormonde and Thistla. Over sixty mares have foaled at the great breeding establishment, reports Superintendent John Mackey.

H. T. GRIFFIN has purchased of Pat Dunne the brown three-year-old colt, Sweet William (winner of the second race Tuesday). Consideration, $500. He's certainly worth that amount easily enough. Sweet William is by Fitz James from Olive (dam of Jim Lee), by Onondaga.

AT the beach Ed Corrigan has a large number of cripples. A few weeks ago there were five horses there that represented an outlay of over $30,000—Despot, Senator Irby, Ducat The Ironmaster and Hendsome. The latter was disposed of for a small sum. The others are all almost helpless cripples.

THE famous Crescendo will be fired by Dr. Stimpson in a few days. Tha surgeon believes that such a treatment will do the son of Flambeau a world of good. Bellicoso, Crescendo's stable companion, is quite sick yet. He caught the fever and does not seem to recuperate very fast. Bellicoso won't be worked in some time.

JOHNNY CURLEY ("Little Jack"), who had acted as messenger boy for the ladies at the race tracks of this city for two or three years past and was much liked by everyone that knew him, died on Monday afternoon of consumption. Mrs. D. M. Burns and A. J. Siemler were very kind to the lad during his last days, we understand.

OUT of the trial of W. McGuigan, Esq., by the Latonia Executive Committee, over the charges preferred by John Carter, came a verdict of "not guilty." McGuigan denied having Mr. Carter within view in his newspaper references, and the charges were "nolle prosequit."

FOXHALL A. DAINIERFIELD, manager of the Castleton stud at Lexington, Ky., and a brother-in-law of James R. Keene, was recently awarded the first prize in the London Sportsmen's competition as to which was the best sire to mate with the English mare Thals. Dainierfield selected the New Zealand-bred stallion Carbine, by Musket, now in England.

TOMMY GRIFFIN has purchased Nine Ninety-Nine of Will Wallace. The sale was effected coming over on the boat. Will tried hard to sell him Refugee for $500, but he would not accept the offer, saying that he had enough horses with Nine Ninety-Nine. Refugee is a cheap horse at $800. As soon as he rounds to he will be worth $1500 of any man's money.

M. F. DWYER's horses, under the care of Hardy Campbell, are in excellent shape. Tom Cromwell has shown a slight return of the trouble in his shoulder that bothered him last spring, but Campbell thinks that it will not prove serious. Ben Brush and Ben Eder have filled out well, and ara as hard as though they had been in training a month. Tha former especially is in fine fettle.

LATAH, the 200 to 1 shot that ran second Friday to Soniro, is a very handsome individual by Vici (son of Virgil and Nutwood Maid), dam Miss Oaks, by Glen Dudley (son of imp. Glenelg); second dam Bonnie Oaks, by Nathan Oaks; third dam Bonnie Maggie, by imp. Bonnie Scotland. As Nathan Oaks was by Bonnie Scotland, ha has a double cross of that much-prized blood. Stewart Bros., of Moscow, Idaho, bred the brown colt.

MR. GUS STRAUS has sold for Mrs. E. L. Israel four three-year-olds as follows: Bay colt by Hanover, dam imp. Lady Abess; full brother to Valiant, by Tha Chevelier, dam Plasir; chestnut colt by Tha Chevalier, dam Frolin; chestnut colt by Tha Chevalier, dam Lalla Roob. Messrs. Brown & Ward of Lexington, who have heretofore been in the trotting horse business, bought the first three, while the last-named was purchased by Eastern parties.—Thoroughbred Record.

THE game Realization Stakes winner, Bright Phœbus, will race again, at least Mr. Hunn makes this prediction. It was surmised that ha bowed a tendon at Inglesida the day he was badly defeated. A careful examination showed that the tendon was not hewed, but just badly wrenched. Tha surgeon, however, thinks that the big bay horse will regain the use of this leg and be able to race. Mr. Hunn will retire him for about six months before he does anything with him.

MASERO is one of the most improved horses now running in this vicinity. While he always had speed, he did not seem to have the ability to carry it very far. He just galloped away with the first race yesterday, and several fair performers wound up behind him. Mesoero was bred by his present owner, G. Pacheco, of Ignacio, Merin County, who purchased his dam, Ursula, of E. F. Fallon, formerly of Hollister. Ursula is by Duke of Montrose from Sozodot (dam of So So and Red Pet), by Longfellow. (Sozodot was one of the first racers ever owned by Milt Young, if memory serves us right.

ST. LOUIS, February 11.—Application for a warrant charging receiving money under false pretenses has been made against Texes Tom Walsh, the hookmaker. Walsh's room was hit hard on the Palmerston race in San Francisco on Monday last. Walsh refused to cash a number of tickets on the horse, claiming that the bettor was playing a "sure thing." Palmerston was on the board at 8 to 1. Tha other rooms ceased all the tickets they had issued, end posted a sign on the board stating that they had reliable information that the winner was "fleshed" from San Francisco, beating the poolrooms' service.

T H. RYAN has shipped his stable to Cumberland Park, Nashville. Ha writes that Tupelo, Nick, Tarterien, Free Advice and Robair are in prime order, and he sees no reason why they should not win their share of races during the season. Nick looks as good as new. He won the Golden Rod Stakes and the Mississippi Valley Stakes over at St. Louis last season, end as he is very stoutly bred and apparently sound, there is every reason why he should add other victories to his list this year. Free Advice shows tha most improvement, and while felling much short of being a cracker-jack, will doubtless prove a very serviceable breadwinner.

TOM BOWLING is dead. He was the best race horse of his day, and pride of Price McGrath's big herd. During his turf career he won the Jerome Stakes, Annual Stakes, Travers Stakes, Flash Stakes, Jersey Derby, Monmouth Cup, Tha Robins Stakes, August Stakes, Mansion House Stakes and Dixie Stakes. At the stud he was not a success. McBowling, Biddy Bowling end Enniskillen being about the best of his get. He was foaled in 1870, and by Lexington from Lucy Fowler, by imp. Albion. He was a beautiful individual, a bay in color, bred by the late Price McGrath, and a half brother to Aaron Pennington, Calvin and Lucy Jackson, all above the ordinary as turf performers.

BEN BENJAMIN, of the Chronicle, is in receipt of a letter from Trauer Frank Starkey, now at Stockton, Cal., saying Tampa had been at the place since December 25th and that there was nothing in the story that she had been used as a "ringer" at Iron Hill, Md. It looks now as if it was May W., the very fast Eagle Plume filly from Northwest Territory, that had been used, and not Tampa. Mr. Metlock undoubtedly made a big clean-up and it is said he had an interest in the filly anyhow. He's a man of affairs in Oregon, being largely interested in a bank at Pendleton, a stock-raiser of note and from a family of turfmen from the South originally, but in Oregon since about 1847.

BARNEY SCHREIBER spent last Sunday at the Meedonough ranch, near Menlo Park, says this morning's Examiner. He spoke yesterday in glowing terms of the grand-looking Ormonde and his produce. The genial German is ever on the lookout for a great race horse. Ha offered the ranch superintendent $1,000 for the privilege of sending a mare to Ormonde, and said he would rather send two mares at $1,000 each. Mr. Schreiber also made an offer of $1,000 for an Ormonde filly, and expressed his willingness to make any kind of a trade for the filly out of Sir Reel's dam. Moonlight, the dam of Ajax, is due to foal next month to the horse of the century. This should be very pleasing news to the owner of the great horse and go far to repay him for his expenditure.

LEW ELMORE, who has charge of the racing stable of "Judge" Arkell, of New York, spent the week in Kentucky, getting together the colts he bought last fall. Mr. Elmore won his spurs as a trainer in the West, and there are few of the profession better known or more popular than he. The yearlings he bought in Kentucky last fall were all shipped to New York Tuesday. They are as follows: Brown colt, by Strathmore, dam Annette; bay colt, by Getaway, dam Blue Maid; bay colt, by Favor, dam mere by imp. Rapture; bay colt, by imp. St. George, dam Bela Loraine; bay colt, by imp. Florist, dam Addie Warren (dam of Addie Buchanan); chestnut colt, by Buchanan, dam Princess of India, by Powhatten; chestnut colt, by Prince Royal, dam Lady Ballard; bay colt, by Strathmore, dam Florence M. (dam of Goose Liver).

EN CORRIGAN is being quoted in the Eastern press as saying that there would be racing in Chicago this year. The fact that he was not a subscriber to the Oakley stakes this year is taken to mean that ha is confident of the Illinois Legislature. "Oakley has nothing to do with Chicago," said Mr. Corrigan when apprised of the contents of the recent articles. "I didn't enter at Oakley because the association and I had some misunderstanding a year ago. I thought I was not fairly treated, and I told the directors I would not race there again as long as there were other tracks. I know nothing about the prospects around Chicago. In point of fact, I have given the matter so little attention that I do not know whether there is a bill before the Legislature. I have been too engaged on the coast this winter to give much time to Chicago."

WILL WALLACE has sickened of his stable and will dispose of it says the Bulletin. Manchester has already been put on the market and sold to Andy Blakeley, who is training him to skip the timbers. Andy is somewhat of an expert in this branch of training. Wallace has Flagon, Roy Carrubers, Cappy, Nina Ninety Nine, Refugee and others. It was reported that Wallace had sold Refugee, which is not the case. Argentina II has been fired and likewise is for sale. "Every horse I have I will let go at a reasonable price," said the young Kentucky owner on the way home last night. "I have a bunch of horses at home, and I can readily dispose of these. I have some fair performers in my stable, but none of them have been themselves. They seemed to have done poorly." Wallace will leave soon for the bluegrass region to look after his two-year-olds.

THE hard luck of mares slipping foals still continues in Kentucky. Among the chief sufferers are James R. and F. P. Keene, who have received news at several of their mares have slipped their foals, while James R. Galway, Frank B. Harper, and C. B. Hawkins have had to suffer the same disappointment. Besides this, Mr. Gelwa has had tha misfortune to lose his gray mare Adela, by Australian, dam by Lightning. Adele was foaled in 1875, and was the dam of the two grays, Adelbert and Belmar.

THE first of the get of Domino was foaled at Castleton Stud on Friday last January 29th. It is a bay filly out of imp. Citronella, by St. Simon, out of Marquesa by Bleir Athol; 3d dam Murcia by Lord of the Isles. Citronella was bred by the Duke of Portland and is a full sister to imp. Bessetlaw, whose racing in this country was the most brilliant of any horse imported after maturity to this country within this generation. Bassetlaw was a horse with a great turn of speed and with Domino's wonderful speed this filly should be as fast as bloodlines can make them.—Thoroughbred Record.

A LOUISVILLE, Ky., dispatch of Feb. 12th was as follows: "While the bad weather of the last two weeks has been sufficient to drive away any thought or speculation on the outcome of the Kentucky Derby, lovers of the thoroughbred have, nevertheless, indulged in a considerable backing of their particular favorites, as indicated by the odds posted the last of the week. In but one instance have the odds been bettered, and that was on Ornament, the favorite, whose price was lengthened from 2 to 3 to 1. Typhoon II, and Dr. Catlett have each been backed down a point, while Schedula has been backed from 200 to 25, Cash Bearer from 200 to 25, Blanton from 200 to 50, Fratus from 200 to 50, Maddalo from 150 to 25, Cernero from 15 to 10, Buckvidera from 20 to 15, Scottish Chieftain from 25 to 15, Bellington from 25 to 15, Dr. Shepard 30 to 25, Domito, from 60 to 50, Meadowthorpe from 15 to 10, and Wahasso from 25 to 15.

IN connection with the heavy play around Cincinnati on Cernero the following interview with his owner in that city is interesting: "How about your Derby candidate?" I asked of Den O'Brien yesterday. "Do you place Cernero as one of the first three?" "Do I place him as one of the first three? Well, I should say I do," ha replied. "Why, he'll be No. 1 when they hang up the numbers after that journey. I tell you he's as good as anybody's three-year-old right now, and when I get through with his prep, he'll be the best one in the country. I wouldn't sweep him horse and horse for any three-year-old in America. Why—" "Not even Ornament and Dr. Catlett?" I interrupted. "Not even that pair. Ha'll beat them just as easily as he will any of the others. You study their performances last year and you will see that easily he was the best horse every condition considered. Yes, sir, he's a sure winner according to the way I figure."

IT is a rare lot of two-year-olds which Ed T. Graves and Julius Bauer have this season. They ara in Mr. Bauer's hands and ara being trotted and cantered on the blue grass at the Sayre farm near this city. They were broken and tried at the track last fall and one of them—the Ben Strome-Bravura colt—was credited with the fastest quarter of the season going down the backstretch a quarter in 0:22½. They have been named as follows: Prince Lee, by Strathmore, dam Bonnie Lee; Friar John, by Vegebond, dam Ace; Rathmore, by Strathmore, dam Zelike; Commerce, by Tenny, dam Puffer; Chicopee, by Onondaga, dam imp. Consuelo; Official, by Onondaga, dam Bessie Hinckley; Shipman by Hanover, dam Bettie M.; Checkers, by imp. Massetto, dam Ann McCoy; Dunster, by imp. Ben Strome, dam Last Ban; Claret Cup, by imp. Ben Strome, dam Mint Julep; Rosario, by imp. Ben Strome, dam Rose Leaf; Golden Rod, by imp. Ben Strome, dam imp. Bravoure; Domestic, by Spendthrift, dam Tha Maid; Sister Corona, by Teuton, dam Sister Ganeva; Silent Lady, by Strathmore, dam Lady Lond. Tallawanda, by imp. Candles; dam My Own; Bella of Fayette, by Bersan, dam Lizzie K.—Thoroughbred Record.

WITH the unavoidable retirement of Prince Lief, Byron McClelland has nothing in his string over the three-year-old mark. At his winter quarters at Lexington the shrewd Kentuckian has sixteen animals all told with which ha purposes starting the season's campaign. These comprise four three-year-olds end a dozen of the mora youthful division. The list is as follows: Three-year-olds—Maceo, h c, by Sir Dixon—Katydid; Our Hope, h c, by Onondaga—Ilna b; The Planet, br c, by Greet Tom—Hayti, and Adowa, ch f, by Deceiver—Lizzie Montrose. Two-year-olds—Sirdar, h c, by Order—Miss Saxon; bay colt by Bermuda—Queen Isabelle; bay colt by Eolus—Gledials; bay colt by King Eric—Mary Parks; chestnut colt by Audrain—Justitie; chestnut colt by De Beauvoir—Lady Longfellow; bay colt by Rossington—Fency; brown filly by Bermuda—Bettie C; hey filly by Bermuda—Can Dance; chestnut filly by Bramble or Deceiver—Almers; chestnut filly by Deceiver—Tortuga. McClelland's present intentions are to race in the West until Saratoga opens, when he will come East, and at the close of the latter meeting make his appearance at Sheepshead Bay. Maceo is considered the smartest of the three-year-old brigade, while great things are expected from Sirdar in the two-year-old stakes.

IN the installment of entries for English races, those for the Lincoln Handicap appeared. A search down the list develops the fact that Chavaller Giniestralli's once-famous mara Signorina is again to enter into active service, and is already in the hands of Frad Martin, the Newmarket trainer. Signorina, who was the first to make St. Simon's name renowned as a sire, has not sported since 1891, when, as a four-year-old, she finished behind Orion, Bel Demonio, and Orvieto in the champion stakes at Newmarket. Just prior to this she had shown her heels to Orma and seven other cracks in the Lancashire Plate. Signorina, it seems, has proved such a complata failure at the stud that in her tenth year she is asked to make her reappearance after a retirement extending over six years. The only American entry in the big Lincoln struggle is Pierra Lorillard's Diakka. Reference to Signorina's reappearance draws attention to the fact that William K. Vanderbilt has Varaville, a nineteen-year-old French-bred mare by Koolin—Mal Jugee, by Ruy Blas, in his training stable at St. Louis de Poissy, near Paris. Varaville was among the batch of thoroughbreds that Mr. Vanderbilt purchased from Camille Blanc last fall. Varaville, as a six-year-old, captured the Grand Steeplechase at Paris, having behind her among others the Grand National winner, Roquefort.—N. Y. Sun

To the Public.

THE old book accounts owing the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN which remained in the possession of F. W. Kelley, administrator of the J. P. Kerr estate, were not purchased by Messrs. Layng & Moore when the paper was bought by them May 9th, 1895, because the price asked was deemed too exorbitant. Mr. Kelley, at the administrator's sale last Saturday, disposed of them to a collection agency. In reply to many inquiries from those notified by this agency, the undersigned wishes it understood that he has nothing to do with the collection of these accounts, either directly or indirectly, and desires to inform all subscribers that the largest amount they can possibly owe him for subscription is $3.00, while very few of the advertisers are in arrears.

Our District Fairs.

THIS has been a week of hard and persistent labor in the legislature on the part of those who are looking after the bill in which all our readers as well as every other person interested in farming and stock raising is concerned, viz.: "The Bill for the Restoration of Appropriations for District Fairs."

The greatest amount of care is being exercised to prevent any opponents of the bill making statements which are at variance with facts, and the committee has been kept busy answering questions about the benefits to be derived from the holding of these fairs. Those inquiring were convinced that there was no more need to go further for information, and, without an exception, they stated they would do all they could to pass this worthy bill, hence, we are all waiting anxiously to see if they keep their promises.

On Thursday evening the Assembly Committee on Agriculture revised the District Fair bill which was referred to it on the previous day and agreed upon the following districts and apportionments. That the bill will become a law is an assured fact, for almost every legislator realizes the benefits of holding fairs in California:

MONTROSE (dam of Muta Wilkes, 2:11, Mary Best, 2:12 1/4, Fred S. Moody, 3, 2:14, and Sir Wilk, 2:29), the star broodmare of William Corbitt's collection, died at Chicago, Friday, on the way across the continent. In loading her at Ogden, Utah, where the horses rested for a day, she slipped and fell between the car and platform, but was finally loaded after being badly bruised. Pneumonia and other complications set in as a result of the mishap, and the great mare died just after reaching Chicago.

The Detroit Jockey Club.

The attention of our readers is called to the advertisement of the Detroit Jockey Club, which appears for the last time in this issue. The meeting held at Detroit last season under the auspices of this organization was a decided success; visiting horsemen and the public were delighted with the treatment accorded them, and when they reluctantly watched the finish of the last race they unhesitatingly sought the directors and asked that a meeting be given them in 1897. The dates claimed for this meeting are August 10th to September 4th, and as entries close for the stake events to be decided there at that meeting to-day, Saturday, February 20th, time for forwarding them is very short. Entries for the two events to be decided in 1898 will also close at the same time. Entry blanks may be obtained at this office or from any of the staff of this paper at the Oakland race track. Following is a list of stakes: Hotel Normandie, six furlongs, added money $1,000; Wayne Sweepstakes, five furlongs, added money $1,000; Hotel Cadillac Stake, one and one-sixteenth miles, $1,000 added; Street Railway Stake, six furlongs, $1,000 added; Voigt Brewing Stake, one and one-sixteenth miles, added money $1,000; Dominion Stake, Steeplechase, full course, $1,000 added, and the Sensation Stake, two and one-half miles, $1,500 added. The events of 1898 are The International Derby, one and one-half miles, $2,500 added, and the Campau Stake, one and three-sixteenths miles $1,500 added. The conditions of these races are liberal, and we earnestly hope a large representation of horses now in California will be present at Detroit to engage in the races there.

Sale of Guy Wilkes.

The low price obtained for this great stallion can only be attributed to the fact that he was not in first-class show condition. The journey across the continent must have been a severe one on him, as well as his family, if we are to judge by the information telegraphed here. Four years ago Mr. Corbitt could have received $100,000 for Guy Wilkes, but he would not listen to such an offer. The possession of such a sire meant a steady income from the sale of his progeny every year, but other breeders were doing their best to push the progeny of their horses to the front, and since the late John A. Goldsmith resigned from the San Mateo Farm, the guiding spirit that never wavered in his opinion of the Guy Wilkes family seemed to have been extinguished; then, despite Mr. Corbitt's best efforts he did not seem to be successful in winning races that he could, at one time, almost consider as good as won when he forwarded the entrance money East. Guy Wilkes is a sure foal getter, and Congressman White is to be congratulated upon securing him. He has had the best of care all his life and should have many years of usefulness before him.

THE Oakland Board of Trade, through two of its members, has occasioned a laugh to ripple throughout the legislature, for, not content with having the State University there and the Deaf Dumb and Blind Asylum, they want the State Fair removed to the "Athens of the Pacific." They propose borrowing the Emeryville race track, building a pavilion and inducing everyone to come there with their stock. San Jose has a better claim than Oakland, for the race track and grounds are larger, but we hope the capitol of the State will always have the State Fair.

Eight years ago, when exhibitors were compelled to take their stock outside the Fair Grounds on account of its crowded condition, Senator Boggs said: "the time is not far distant when this property will become too valuable for this purpose and it will have to be sold. Then a larger piece can be purchased and all these buildings will be removed thereon and ample accommodations will be made for all who bring their stock for exhibition purposes."

WE have received entry blanks for the spring races to be given by the Colusa Jockey Club, the advertisement which appears in our business columns. From the interest being taken in this meeting by all the lovers of racing in the north, success will crown the efforts of this club. Over $2,000 will be given in prizes. The track is a splendid one and the best of accommodations are to be had for all who go there. Box stalls free for all horses entered. There will be trotting, pacing and running races, and as entries for the light harness horse division will close April 15th we want to see a large entry list forwarded to Secretary F. E. Wright before that date.

Important to Horsemen.

The following circular has been issued by the Horse Show Association of the Pacific Coast:

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., February 20, 1897.
Dear Sir:—A series of annual Horse Shows—three in number—having now been held in this city, and the course of events having given rise to some doubts whether such shows are entirely appreciated by breeders and owners in general, the Directors of this Association deem it advisable to proceed with the preliminary work of organizing a Show for the current year, to address those interested in the subject, with the view of obtaining the advice and co-operation of all persons in a position to contribute to the success of the undertaking.

It may be well to premise that the primary object with which the shows have been promoted is not to earn profits, but to benefit a most important industry and develop a source of pleasure, as well as to establish in the State a permanent institution, which is admitted to be essential in all first-rate horse countries, for reasons that need not here be explained.

The first show held was conducted as a private venture, and following thereupon, this Association was incorporated. In the three years which the entire work embraces, the following were the results:

Year.	Horses Exhibited.	Exhibitors.	Cash.	Plate and Trophies.
1894	368	142	$3,175	$3,175
1895	402	111	9,895	3,600
1896	312	100	7,240	3,400

As will be seen by the foregoing figures, the interest of exhibitors has not been maintained throughout the period; while it may be pointed out that if all the classes had filled last year, over $15,000 would have been paid to exhibitors, instead of only $7,240. The attendance of the public has also dwindled, making the receipts at the door a decreasing quantity. As a consequence the capital of the Association has been entrenched upon to the extent of, say $1,000 (one thousand dollars).

The management recognize that the general lack of commercial and agricultural prosperity has naturally militated against the progress of their work; and, although the financial short-fall is not serious in amount, they do not feel called upon to incur the risk of doing a thing without first endeavoring to obtain some definite assurance from the breeders and owners of the Coast that they will make an effort to support the show more liberally and generally than they have done on the last two occasions; and no effort will be made by the Association to give another Horse show unless the breeders and owners care to increase the number of their entries. Whether shows are to be successful or not rests in the main with exhibitors, who control the material interest, therefore their interests are chiefly subserved thereby. Any laps, even if only temporary, in the periodical recurrence of the event would undoubtedly reflect unfavorably on the horse interests of the state, and entail a suspension of the advertising and other beneficial work, which has been steadily carried on since the inception of the first show three years ago.

In order to provide every possible inducement to exhibitors, it might be arranged to minimize the expense for stalls and feed for which they would be liable on their exhibits, although that would of course necessitate some slight reduction in the scale of prizes offered by the Association, unless the number of entries in certain of the classes were considerably more numerous than heretofore. At all events, the Directors are desirous of receiving advice and suggestions from any of those who are interested in seeing the shows continued, and they therefore respectfully submit this letter to your consideration, hoping that you may feel disposed, not only to favor them with your views, if that be convenient, at an early date, but also with an assurance of your intention to support a show at the end of this year by every means in your power.

To those who have hitherto patronized the shows in any way whatever, the managers take this opportunity of conveying the hearty thanks with an assurance that no effort will be spared on their part to make any future shows that may be held as advantageous and attractive to the general public, and exhibitors in particular, as lies in their power.

It has afforded the Directors much gratification to learn of the spontaneous endorsement of this Association by the Pacific Coast Trotting Horse Breeders' Association at the recent meeting of the latter, and of their intention to appoint a committee of their body to render assistance in securing the support of breeders and owners of light harness horses especially. Such action has the more encouraged the Association to take the step adopted in making public the facts and views herein expressed. We are, dear sir, Yours respectfully,
HENRY J. CROCKER, President.

GEORGE ALMER NEWHALL, Secretary.

ALL the poolrooms in San Francisco are running to their fullest extent. The racing associations are suffering therefrom directly, and, in fact, the "sport of kings" in San Francisco is in danger of being prohibited. An evening newspaper called "The Post" issues a noon edition for the especial benefit of these poolrooms. It publishes the entries, weights, jockeys' names, colors they wear and scratches, and in this way aids these "sink holes of iniquity" to flourish. The existence of these down-town poolrooms killed racing in every State in America where at one time it was the principal sport. There is one way to stop them, viz.: The Associations should not furnish any information about jockeys, weights or scratches to anyone outside of the race track until after 1:30 p. m. each day. In this way these pool rooms would soon find it impossible to exist. There were certain ordinances passed by the Board of Supervisors in this city prohibiting these places, but the police soon became tired of trying to get a conviction. The remedy lies entirely with the associations. Will they apply it?

THERE will be no four-mile race at Ingleside next Monday, February 22d, notwithstanding the advertising schemes adopted to make people believe there will be. Secretary Leake says the race was declared off some time ago.

SACRAMENTO, February 18.—The Assembly Committee on "Public Morals" this evening considered Emmon's bill to close racetracks from the 1st day of December to the 1st of March. John Meckey and W. S. Leake argued that the measure would kill off horse breeding in California. Assemblyman Emmons claimed that his bill was in the interest of harness and trotting-horse breeding. The committee will report against the bill. Emmons will make a fight on the floor for the passage. [Emmons is wrong. He is trying to create an enmity which does not and never did exist among the friends of harness horses and thoroughbreds.—En.]

M. C. CASIDY Superintendent of the broodmare department of Rancho del Paso was thrown from a runaway horse and was almost instantly killed on the farm last Saturday. Mr. Casidy was a general favorite with everyone who ever knew him. He was a most valuable employee and his place will be hard to fill.

A LOW PRICE FOR GUY WILKES.

The Great Sirs Sale for $5,000 to Congressman Whites of Cleveland, Ohio.

NEW YORK, February 17.—The announcement that Guy Wilkes would be sold to-day attracted a crowd of prominent horsemen to Madison Square Garden. Bred in the purple, it was expected Guy Wilkes would sell for a long price in spite of his age—twenty years—as horses of his class are usually valuable until they are twenty-five or twenty-eight years old. Competent judges of the horse's value said he would bring from $12,000 to $15,000 under the hammer.

It was a big crowd of horsemen that gathered around the auctioneer's box when the catalogue number "323" was approached. At the sale were J. Malcolm Forbes, owner of Nancy Hanks and Arion; W. B. Dickerman, former president of the New York Stock Exchange and owner of Bellini; W. E. D. Stokes and Peter Duryea, who own a big stock farm in Kentucky; E. D. Harriman, owner of Stamboul, and other horsemen of world-wide reputation. As Chris Lang, superintendent of William Corbitt's farm, where Guy Wilkes was owned, led the noted stallion out on the miniature track, everyone was on tiptoe to get a glimpse of the great sire. He looked feeble and withered, particularly about the hind quarters, over which he seemed to have little control. When Auctioneer Kellogg called for a bid of $10,000 to start him there was a painful silence, none of the millionaires responding to the call. After a long wait the auctioneer said: "Well, start him at your own price."

A man in the crowd shouted "Thousand," and when this was not quickly raised it dawned upon the onlookers that one of the greatest trotting sires of the day was to be belaguered. Andy Welch finally raised the offer to $3,000. F. C. Sayles made one or two bids, but Congressman White, who occupied a prominent seat in the arena, outlasted the other breeders and took the horse at $5,000, after slow and spiritless bidding. Neither John H. Shults nor any of the other wealthy men that everybody supposed was going to take a hand in the sport, made a bid.

The low price for which Guy Wilkes was sold was one of the biggest disappointments ever known among metropolitan horsemen, but it became evident after the hammer had fallen that the feeble physical condition of the horse kept many intending buyers from putting in their bids. Congressman White, of Ohio, who bought the stallion, has an extensive breeding farm near Cleveland. The other horses in the Corbitt collection sold for low prices as a rule. With few exceptions they failed to show up to expectations, but when a really good one was led out the bidding was brisk and a good price resulted. Following is a partial list of the animals sold:

Speedy Horss at Auction.

CHICAGO, Feb. 16.—The Splao-Newgrass sale of developed speed horses opened to-day with a large attendance. A ringing cheer went up when the chestnut stallion pacer, Sandy Boy, record 2:12, trial 2:07½, was walked up to the auctioneer's stand. He started at $1,000, the price rapidly advancing to $3,100. J. R. Huber of Chicago was the buyer. Sandy Boy is by Sphinx, dam Lizette, by Mambrino Gift.

The next on the list was the chestnut mare Kathleen, record 2:15½, trial 2:15½, last half 1:05, last quarter 0:31½, by Shawmut, son of the great Shawmut, sold to John E. Madden of Somerville for $2,000.

Lord Clinton came next and brought $1,500. Sold to Splao & Newgrass, Chicago. Lord Clinton's record is 2:08½, and he descended from the old Ethan Allen—Morgan stock.

Colonel Dickey, by Pilot Medinm, record 2:15½, sold to J. D. Beckett of Chicago, for $1,100.

Moxie was the last high-priced horse, selling to Mr. Ketcham of Toledo, for $1,900; record 2:12½, by Opal, son of O'D Swigert.

The average of the day for the first fifty horses was $454. At the Splao Newgrass sale the bidding was sharp and competitive. The top price was for the black stallion Direction, record, 2:08½, son of the great Director, which was knocked down to William P. James of Terre Haute, Ind., for $3,500. The next highest price was for Lake Erie, record 2:13½, sold to George Ketcham of Toledo for $2,500. Then came one of the big stars down the line last season—Newberger, record 2:15½, by Jay Bird, to F. Oglesby, Kansas City, for $2,050.

May Ross, record 2:16½, by Anteros, to A. D. Cronck, Buffalo, $650.

Russellmont, 2:12½, by Lord Russell, to J. A. Pearsall, Lansing, Mich., $700.

Sibills, 2:13½, by Simmons, to James Murphy, Chicago $1,025.

New Stats Fair Grounds a Necessity.

The bill providing for a legal method of selling Agricultural Park and the purchase by the State of new grounds for the State Agricultural Society has passed both branches of the Legislature by a unanimous vote. The Judiciary Committee of both houses passed upon its legality, and it is now believed that it meets the wishes of the Chief Executive, says the Sacramento Union.

It is a measure that has long been wished for by this community. The present location is a menace to all other property surrounding it. Values are greatly lessened thereby. In earlier days when Twentieth street was outside the residence part of the city, no objection was made, but now that the most valuable locations for homes extend far beyond the Park, citizens have used every endeavor to have the objectionable feature removed.

The State Agricultural Society is hampered for lack of room, the old buildings are fast decaying, and the society does not feel like expending any more of the State's money in repairs, preferring to have a new site on which there can be no doubt of the State's title thereto, and relinquishing all their right to the State.

It is a good thing for the State, as, under the bill the title to the new grounds purchased will be vested absolutely in the State, whereas now the title to most of the property is in the State Agricultural Society and unknown owners.

The bill provides for the curing of title in a legal way. The State guarantees it, and receives for security the entire new grounds. The merits of the bill are manifold. The lack of room on the present grounds prohibited exhibitions of agricultural implements in a practical way. On the fair grounds of the older States are found individual pavilions erected by manufacturers for the exhibition of their good that are occupied each season with an assortment of wares where the visitor may view and purchase. These pavilions are decorative and make an attractive appearance.

Separate barns for dairy tests are needed, also buildings for dairy schools, where the creamery and cheese-making presses may be shown for educational purposes; an abattoir where fat cattle may be dressed, and systems of fattening explained from a scientific standpoint; where farmers' institutes may be held, lectures delivered, and numerous other auxiliaries carried out.

The purchase of new grounds, in fact every detail is to be subject to the State Board of Examiners, so that the State will be amply protected in every way. The measure offers no chance for criticism.

The breeders of livestock are awaiting the action of the Governor with interest, as they desire to increase their exhibits if additional room is provided. It is surprising the amount of stock sold at the State Fair each season. A Nevada County exhibitor informed Secretary Smith recently that his exhibit made at the State Fair last year was the direct cause of his selling $6,000 worth of cattle. He intends making a diversified livestock exhibit this season if new grounds are provided.

If the Governor gives his sanction to the measure immediate steps will be taken to start the new grounds, thereby giving employment to a large number of men during the coming summer.

Death of Tom Raymond

SANTA ANA, Cal., Feb. 17.—Thomas Raymond, owner of the famous trotter Klamath, and one of the best known horsemen of the country, died in Los Angeles this morning from heart disease, with which he has been troubled for some months past. His death is considered by friends here to have been caused principally by grief over the death of his wife, who passed away in Michigan six months ago while they were on the Eastern circuit with Klamath. Previous to his wife's death Mr. Raymond was an unusually vigorous and apparently robust man, but he never seemed to recover from the shock occasioned by her loss, and rapidly became a victim of serious heart trouble, augmented by a complication of other diseases which were never fully diagnosed by physicians. The end had been momentarily expected by those fully cognizant of his condition for some time. He went to Los Angeles on Monday with a niece for medical treatment. A statement that he was insane published quite generally a few weeks ago, worried him greatly, and undoubtedly hastened the end. As a matter of fact he was at no time afflicted with insanity. An attack of heart trouble seized him at the Westminster Hotel, Los Angeles, and his struggles were woefully taken as an indication of loss of reason. The body will be brought to Santa Ana to-morrow and will be interred on Friday beside that of his wife. It is generally understood that Klamath was bequeathed to Gilbert Judd, Raymond's racing partner, who lived here with him for years.

Oakland Wants the State Fair.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., September 17.—Several days ago a bill passed the Assembly conferring power upon the State Agricultural Society to sell Agricultural Park, where races are held in this city during the State Fair. Craig Sharp, Secretary of the Oakland Board of Trade, and L. Rothenburg of Oakland, are here in the interest of having the State Fair held in Alameda County, with authority to offer the Agricultural Society the Oakland Trotting Park on easy terms.

No MORE interesting matter ever finds its way into a turf journal than the stories of the methods employed by successful trainers in balancing peculiar horses. At the season spoken of above, George West entertained us with several other good stories besides the one I have written, and all of them are worth printing. "Several years ago," said he, "I got hold of a pacer called Ned M. that could go along in about 2:40. James A. Murphy had bought him as a speculation, and he had several buyers on the string for him in a very short time. He could wear his shoes out faster than any horse I ever had. One day I sent him to the shop and gave the smith orders to put on a shoe that would last longer than a week. He shod him with twenty-one ounces behind and nineteen in front. This proved to be just what he wanted to make a pacer of him, and when Mr. Murphy came out to see him step I drove him a quarter in 33 seconds. We decided to keep him, so entered him at a few small meetings, and never regretted it, as he raced good and took a record of 2:24½."

HOOF-BEATS.

CAMMA, the dam of Jasper Paulson 2:16½, and Roleo, (3), 2:23, is in foal to Hambletonian Wilkes.

JAY BEACH is driving a full sister to Thompson, 2:15, at Alameda. Like all the Boodle's, she is a good one.

ALF STANFORD, the steeplechase jockey, is a victim of the measles and laid up. In addition, one of his eyes was nearly put out by a flying stone the last time he rode.

TOM BUTLER, the Anaconda newspaper man, tried to get a price put on Pat Dunne's Preston and Burns & Waterhouse's Salisbury 11 Thursday, but was unsuccessful. They are not for sale at present.

GEO. A. YODEN, of Providence, R. I., has sold to Wm. H. Draper, president of the Providence Base Ball Club, the fast pacing mare Alcinta, 2:11½, by Alcantara, dam Ballott, 2:30½, by Electioneer. The price is said to be $1,600.

EDWARD TOPHAM, of Milpitas, one of the most progressive breeders of California is driving a yearling filly by Hambletonian Wilkes, 1st dam Minnie B. 2:25, by Billy Thornhill 2:24½, 2d dam Laura R. 2:21½, by Electioneer, that is attracting much attention.

PHIL DWYER will be in San Francisco in a very few weeks. The distinguished turfman is now in New Orleans, but his visit to will be cut short by the big fight, and he will leave for Nevada via California, Col. Abe Daniels, his betting commissioner, says he expects him here most any day. He wrote him a few days ago that he was coming and would be in San Francisco a few days before the scrap.

THERE is quite a to-do about the racing of 1897 in the Detroit-Windsor corner. The Windsor track will be in new bands—probably from Chicago—hereafter, and Highland Park has been secured by Messrs. Farmer, Price & Co. Among the new men in the Farmer-Price syndicate are George M. Hendrie and Edward Fee. Highland Park is to be changed to a mile course. Both tracks will give spring meetings.—Racing Form.

TYLER BEACH, proprietor of the leading hotel in San Jose, "The St. James," is the owner of a very handsome chestnut colt by Boodle, 2:12½, out of Della B., by Almoor, 20,503; second dam Jennie G., by Tarascon; third dam by Independence; fourth dam Ocean Wave, by Gray Esqle, the famous four-mile race horse and sire. This colt was foaled January 19, 1895, and Mr. Beach claims the name St. James for him. From his breeding and looks he ought to be a good one.

HERMOSA, winner of the first race yesterday, is a grand-looking, well-developed chestnut colt by imp. Sir Modred from Fidelity, from Longfield; second dam Sophie, by Bazar; third dam Sophia Jennison, by Jack Malone, etc. He cost his present owner, J. A. Grey, $390, though the colt was put down to Dr. H. E. Rowell. Mr. Grey, a good cross-country rider born in England and formerly connected with Wm. Easton's auction sale establishment in New York, trains the youngsters who not only has a great turn of speed, but looks as if he has strength enough to carry it a long ways.

OLD Contribution has run his last race. The other day he finished last in a very ordinary field, yet this same horse has made the best sprinters in America stretch their necks, Contribution has raced over nearly every track of prominence in America. He was the first horse to beat 1:05 for five and a half furlongs, running the distance in 1:04½ with 122 pounds up. He has also run the Futurity course in 1:10, and has beaten such fast horses as Dr. Hasbronck and Correction. Contribution first ran in the colors of Dave Gideon but was purchased by D. J. Lynch as a three-year-old. He is a full brother to Arab and a half brother to the useful Nick and the great racehorse Requitall.

Amos Pillsbury, Waterville, Me., writes: I ordered one bottle of "Absorbine" through our druggist here and it gave good satisfaction.

Fred Smith, Leavenworth, Kan., writes: Having used one of your trial bottles of "Absorbine" to my satisfaction, am recommending it to other horsemen in this city.

The San Francisco Fly Casting Club.

The second season of the San Francisco Fly Casting Club's semi-monthly contests opened at Stow Lake last Saturday under very favorable auspices. The attendance was very good, the weather excellent, and the meeting was one of the pleasantest that the club has ever held. W D Mansfield made the longest cast in the long-distance event, but his handicap of 5½ feet put him back to third place. A E Lovett won the event with 82 feet to his credit. W D Mansfield won the distance and accuracy event with 88.23 per cent. An excellent score under the new rule. W E Bacheller and A E Lovett tied for first place in the accuracy and delicacy event with 92.16 per cent. The tie will be cast off in the near future.

The casting in all events showed a marked improvement over last year's work.

The judges were H Smyth and H E Skinner; referee, H F Muller; clerk, A Russell Crowell; captain, W E Bacheller. The scores in full were as follows:

The Sunday casting event would unquestionably have brought out a very large attendance but for the rain. As it was eleven members waited from 9:30 till nearly 12 o'clock for the fog to lift. Anglers are not usually afraid of a little rain, but judging, scoring and casting in a very wet Scotch mist is not pleasure and it was decided to postpone the meeting. The executive committee will set the time in the near future.

The annual meeting and election of officers will take place next Tuesday evening at the office of the Fish Commission in the Flood Building.

The annual report to President Cleveland of John J. Brice, Commissioner of Fish and Fisheries, indicates how important the work of his office has become. Some 93,000,000 shad fry were planted in streams emptying into the Atlantic Ocean and the Gulf of Mexico. The increase in shad eggs collected was 30,000,000 over the record of the previous year, and if a bill now before Congress is enacted into law, auxiliary stations will be established on most of the important rivers of the Atlantic coast and result in an immense increase in the output of this species. The output of lobster fry was 97,000,000 against 72,000,000 in the previous year, and Commissioner Brice says there is little doubt that the output in another year will be increased more than 100 per cent. Although the attempt to keep up the constantly decreasing supply of mackerel along the New England coast was more or less experimental, 24,000,000 eggs were collected. Some 30,000,000 tautog eggs were collected in Buzzard's Bay and 17,000,000 fry were liberated from them. Temporary stations were established on the Salmon and the Little White Salmon rivers, both tributaries of the Columbia, to be used in co-operation with the permanent station at Clackamas, Ore. While the cost of eggs per thousand at the Clackamas station has been $1.81, they were obtained as low as 44 cents per thousand at the Salmon River auxiliary and at the rate of 11 cents a thousand at the Battle Creek auxiliary station. The total take of 37,000,000 salmon eggs amounted to three times as many as were ever collected before in the United States in any one season. It is proposed to extend over the entire country a permanent and economical system of maintaining the commercial fisheries by grouping about the central hatcheries auxiliary egg collecting stations to be operated only during the spawning season. Another effort will be made to introduce Pacific salmon in Eastern waters. To accomplish this, 5,000,000 eggs will be transferred from the California stations to stations in New York, Vermont and Maine, and the fry liberated in the Penobscot, Kennebec, Merrimac, Hudson, Delaware and Susquehanna rivers.—American Field.

Some venturesome salmon have found their way up Mill Valley creek, en route from Richardson bay to Tamalpais, this season. The little daughter of Irvine Graham has the honor of being the heroine of the hour in relation to Mill Valley's improved piscatorial resources. She was the first one to spy out the fish and she became its captor in a novel though crude manner. She simply hauled it in with an ordinary garden rake. The fish was about two feet in length. Since the little girl secured her fish the creek had been carefully watched and a number of salmon have been reported.

John Benn, one of the best fly tyers in America has moved to 402 Montgomery street. Mrs. Calderwood nee Martha Benn assists him as usual. There are no better flies on the market than those tied by John Benn and his daughter. There are doubtless more trout caught on Benn's Royal Coachman than on any other fly ever manufactured.

The meetings of the San Francisco Fly Casting Club promise to be much better attended than last year. Sunday gives prospects of being a sort of amateur day, as many who did not attend last season's contests will cast this year on Sunday mornings. Eleven braved the elements last Sunday and if it had not rained there would have been twenty-five.

The targets used this year by the fly casting club are a great improvement over the old method. It is easier for the judges to judge accuracy, and better for the caster.

The sporting goods houses are receiving their stock of new flies, fly hooks and fishing rods of all grades; and there is no better time to purchase than the present.

H. Battu is blossoming into a professional rod-maker. The new butt that he has made for his 8½ ounce Leonard, converting it into a 5-ounce rod, is a beauty.

The local anglers caught eight steelheads at Point Reyes last Sunday. Small fish are also plentiful.

There is quite a run of steelheads up the San Francisco creek in San Mateo county.

The New Game Laws.

The amended game bill that passed the second reading in the Senate this week provides for a season for marketing game of the same length as that for shooting game. The season for shooting mountain quail and grouse will begin on September 1st in place of August 15; open season on doves July 15 in place of July 1st. The season for shooting ducks is the same as before with the exception that canvas-back and blue-bill are not protected at all.

The first changes are desirable. It is utterly impossible to prevent the sale of game during the season when it is lawful to kill the same. If a man has a right to kill he certainly has a right to put what he kills in cold storage and the market hunters do this and then sell when the season opens. As this cannot be stopped, it is as well to permit marketing throughout the open season. The last clause of the bill we most heartily condemn. It is equivalent to opening the season on all ducks for the entire year. The market hunters will kill all breeds and pick them, cut off their heads and feet and sell them for blue-bills and canvas-back. We would rather see the whole bill killed than to see this section passed.

Some Fine Trophies.

Emperor William did just what any other sportsman would have done when he found that the red deer he killed the other day was a monster of its kind, the like of which may never again be killed in a German preserved forest. He shouted and danced with all the enthusiasm of a lad beside his first deer. Just how big the stag was is a matter of doubt, but the fact that the horns had over twenty points and measured over three feet is enough to make comparisons with other big deer killed by royal hunters. Ten years ago representative sportsmen of Hungary formed a club, and every year since, at the end of the shooting season this club has held an exhibition of big deer horns taken by members. To compare the Emperor's deer with the prize-takers of these exhibitions is not altogether fair, because in Germany the deer have deteriorated far more than in Hungary. The Emperor's stag is said to have horns over three feet long. The least length of any of the Hungarian prize-takers in the past nine years was 40.94 inches around the curve of the horn, while the longest, one killed by Count G. Andrássy in 1894, was 53.50 inches long. The weight of the horns of the Hungarian stags varies from 23.36 pounds down, the heaviest being that of Count Andrássy's, which had only sixteen points. The weight varies greatly, and the number of points is no criterion of the weight and antlers. Those of a twelve-point deer killed in 1888, weighed twenty-one pounds, and a twenty-point set weighed 15.73 pounds. The King of Saxony has a great collection of huge antlers in the castle of Moritzburg, near Dresden. It contains the most ancient horns in Europe, its chief prizes having been weeded out from a renowned collection made by the Great Elector, Maurice of Saxony, about 1575. The Moritzburg collection contains two heads of fifty points, three of thirty-six, two of thirty-four, ten of thirty-two, five of thirty, thirteen of twenty-eight, eighteen of twenty-six, and eighteen of twenty-four points, so it will be seen that the Emperor's deer head would not stand up well in a collection of monster heads. These Moritzburg heads all hang in the great dining-room, and are abnormal in size only. In the adjoining audience hall there are some abnormal heads. One of these is a sixty-six pointer, which, however, does not come up to the standard in the number of times. A fine, according to rule, is a protuberance on which the string of a powder horn will hang. It will be observed that in the list of horns hanging in the dining-room of Moritzburg the points were in even numbers, such as fifty, thirty-four and thirty. In Germany and Austria the points are reckoned from the horn with the greatest number. One antler may have eight points on one horn, and six on the other. Then it would be a sixteen-point deer. The sixty-six-point abnormal horns of the stag just mentioned had thirty-three points on one horn, and only twenty-nine on the other. They were taken from a stag killed by Elector Frederick III. of Brandenburg, who subsequently became the first King of Prussia. Frederick William, the successor of the first king of Prussia, swapped the horns for a company of the tallest grenadiers to be found in Saxony. Frederick William's hobby was tall grenadiers. The Elector of Saxony, Frederick Augustus, had grenadiers, but wanted curious deer horns more. The largest pair of red deer antlers in the world are a pair in the Moritzburg collection. They are 24-pointers, but have a spread of 6 ft. 3 in. The pair weigh 41½ pounds. When the deer was killed, who killed it, or where it was killed is not known. Its history has been traced back to 1556.—London Rod and Gun.

Pneumatic Row Boats.

After two years' experience with pneumatic water craft, and an ample opportunity to learn the wants of sportsmen and other patrons of the pneumatic boat, the inventors of the pneumatic row boats feel sure that in them the wants of the public are fully met, and it is with much pleasure that the Pneumatic Row Boat Co., offers this for your consideration.

The boats are model little crafts, are made in four separate air tight compartments and of the best material and workmanship; are light, strong and durable, not liable to puncture, but if punctured can easily be repaired. When deflated the boats will pack into a small compass with seats and jointed oars, and the outfit makes up into a most convenient package for stowing away or transporting with your sample or travelling outfit.

Unlike other row boats, the pneumatic is entirely safe for all its occupants, even if filled with water; it is practically impossible to capsize in any reasonable way to over-tax its floating capacity.

As a sporting boat the pneumatic has no equal owing to its convenience for transporting, its noiselessness and ease of operation, and absolute safety; it stands alone the sportsmen's delight.

As a dingy or yacht tender the pneumatic is without a peer; it is so light and convenient to handle that it may easily be thrown up on deck, thus avoiding the drag of the boat when sailing, and in case of danger it is a life-preserver for as many as can get hold of it, and is provided with rings and straps for emergency purposes.

As a life boat on hoard vessels it comes as a beacon light to the great hazy world of water traffic, and adds one more assurance of safety in time of danger. A half dozen of these little water giants will float a ship's crew.

As a pleasure boat for outing parties it has no competitor. You can carry two or three of these boats complete in an ordinary travelling trunk, and when inflated and on the water, it is safe for all the ladies and children who can get into it, even without an experienced oarsman. In short, it renders water safe as land.

For use by army and navy, civil engineers, timbermen, stockmen and others in rural districts, the advantages of the pneumatic surpasses in stern realization the most fanciful dream heretofore indulged in. The advent of pneumatic water craft marks another step in the world's progress.

These boats have been fully tested by the most critical judges and proven to be all that is claimed for them.

Curious Rattlesnake Poisoning.

A Lowell, Mass., correspondent sent us a newspaper cutting the other day, remarking, "I see almost every week accounts of persons killing rattlesnakes for the skins and oil, but nothing of this kind. It looks to me as though the snakes must have been through dogwood, ivy, or something of the kind." The report related that Mr. Lou's B. Bailey, of San Mateo, Fla., had shot a rattlesnake and cut its rattles off. Not long afterward his face and hands began to swell, become inflamed and were very painful. The symptoms were in some respects like those of poisoning with ivy. After a time the pain ceased, the swelling went down, and the occurrence was almost forgotten. More recently Mr. Bailey shot a rattlesnake, which, however, he did not touch with his hands, but on the day following his face and wrists were again badly swollen.

We forwarded the report to Dr. De Witt Webb, of St. Augustine, who in turn communicated with Mr. Bailey and wrote: "I send you a letter from Mr. Bailey. He is known as a perfectly reliable man, and so it would seem as if there were some people who were so susceptible to the poison that they might be affected even by a dead snake, although it has generally been held impossible. In the cases referred to by Mr. Bailey it does not appear that there could have been any spitting of the snake, as sometimes happens. I was told last night of a case of a boy who cut off the rattles of a snake and suffered from it. Otherwise I never heard of anything like it."

"I will see Dr. Vedder, who knows more about rattlers than any man in Florida, I guess; who feeds them, so to speak, out of hand, as when those he keeps in captivity refuse to eat he takes them out of their cages, and holding them by the neck, gently stuffs the food down their throats. He has been twice bitten during this pleasing employment, but both times without serious injury, as he ligated the limb and bled out the wound at once."

Mr. Bailey writes: "The first snake killed was in March, 1896. It was about 7 ft. long and had thirteen rattles. I handled it only enough to cut the rattles off, put them in my pocket and started home. At the time I experienced a little nausea. The following day my left eye was entirely closed, and my right hand swollen, and there was a little eruption on both wrists. I was treated by Dr. D. Eaton of Palatka, and recovered in about five days from the effects of this poisoning."

"Again in August I came across another rattler, and having a short-handled axe in my hand, I struck and cut it in two parts. As I struck the snake hissed and rattled. Within fifteen minutes afterward my left eye was swollen, also my cheek. My hands and wrists troubled me exceedingly with itching and stinging sensations, and were swollen as before."

"It is believed by some people that the poison was from the breath of the snake, and as I was perspiring freely at the time it may account for the quicker absorption of the poison than before."

There is a belief among some persons that, in addition to the venom ejected by the rattlesnake through its fangs, these animals have the power to throw off a "dust" which is poisonous and affects people in their neighborhood. It is well known that at times snakes exhale a strong odor, to which some people are much more sensible than others. We know a person who is able to smell a rattlesnake if it is near him, and has often detected the presence of the reptile in this way. The whole subject is an odd one and worth investigation.—Forest and Stream.

CARTRIDGE AND SHELL.

C. Cate and Parks were not among the lucky ones last Sunday.

Robert Taylor killed 17 ducks at Miller's near San Rafael last Sunday.

Al. Hall and wharfinger Root bagged 68 quail near Olema last Sunday.

Donald McCrae finished the season at Mt. Eden and bagged sixty spoonbills and teal.

W. N. Wetmore and F. B. Harden were at the Bridges Sunday and made very fair bags of spoonbills, bluebills and teal.

When purchasing your ammunition for the Olympic Tournament don't overlook the Hazard Blue Ribbon; it is quick, clean and strong.

When ordering your loads for the coming blue rock season insist on U. M. C. wads. The importance of good wadding is often underestimated.

There will be a live-bird shoot, open to all on Washington's Birthday, to be held under the auspices of the Haywards Gun Club, at Haywards.

Dr. Davenport, J. E. Doak and J. Otie Fellows were out shooting what Uncle Dick calls "narrow gauged mules" last week. They bagged 32 (jack-rabbits).

Two large eagles swooped down on a turkey on the ranch of L. B. Davis in Santa Maria valley a few days ago, and before they could be driven away had nearly devoured the gobbler.

Dupont Rifle No. 1 (Smokeless) is gaining in popularity very rapidly among the riflemen. Some of the best scores ever made at Shell Mound have been made with this powder.

An albino squirrel is reported from Red Hill, near Mokelumne, and a Mr. Mitchell of Los Angeles, bagged a perfectly white spoonbill duck last month at Nigger slough.—Pacific Field.

The shooting of the Teal, Ibis, Cordelia and Tulle Belle clubs was very good the last of the season, and some excellent bags of canvas-backs were made by the club members up to the last day of the season.

W. J. Golcher made a fine bag of quail at Point Reyes last Sunday. It is stated that nearly 500 birds were brought to this city by the hunters that shot in that neighborhood on the closing days of the season.

F. H. Judd and G. G. Billington undoubtedly have made the largest bags of canvas-back and mallard of any pair of hunters in this vicinity, this season, but Donald McCrae can doubtless equal the bag of any single man.

Have you noticed how rapidly the Remington hammerless shotgun is becoming popular? Such steady, reliable trap-shots as "Slide," W. Mordock and others would not use them if they were deficient in pattern, penetration or workmanship.

A tale of an eagle attacking a horse comes from St. Joseph, Mo. The horse was hitched in the woods and had its sides and back deeply gashed by the bird's talons before its owner arrived on the scene and dispatched its assailant, which measured eight feet from tip to tip.

There were forty-seven hunters and anglers at Point Reyes on Sunday last and host Rochefort had to put many of them on the bar-room floor over night. Not necessarily under the able, but as the house has sleeping accommodations for but thirty the balance had to take pot-luck.

Another single trigger gun has been brought out in England. It is from the armory of E. J. Bland, but is the invention of Cashmore, of Birmingham. Although there is but one trigger, there are two trigger blades, which act upon the sear of the locks as in double trigger guns.

The Mageutrap could be used in seasons when trap shooting is dull, to distribute biscuits, hot cakes, pies, etc., at a railroad eating house or lunch counter. It would not be a bad idea during a rush. Nets could be rigged around the heads of shooters so that none of the edible targets need be lost.—Am. Field.

Lieutenant Emmons has discovered a new species of bear among the glaciers of Mount Elias, Alaska. Its fur resembles that of the silver fox, being a bluish black flecked with white. The sides of the head are tan and its claws show that it is a tree climber. Its scientific name is to be Ursus Emmonsii, but the hunters of the vicinity call it the blue or glacier bear.

The Olympic Gun Club's opening tournament on Sunday and Monday promises to be very well attended. The new grounds are completed and are very attractive. The programme for both blue-rock shooting and live bird shooting is arranged to please the amateurs. The blue-rock events will be shot on Sunday and the live birds on Monday. Take the Mission St. electric cars to the end of the line.

Irvin of Little Rock, Arkansas writes to the Forest and Stream the following description of chain-shot. I have often seen the question asked how to load buckshot to shoot out of a choke-bored gun. Jerry C. South, a noted deer hunter of this State, gave me his way, and he claims to be able to pot fifteen No. 8 buckshot in a ten-inch circle at 70 to 80 yards. His formula is to use a gut fiddle-string, and cut and string the bullets on (the same as you would if putting a split shot on a fishing line), far enough apart so they will chamber five in a layer, tying the ends of the string together. A deer, up to 90 yards, struck with this load, is a dead deer. He shoots them out of a full-choked 12-gauge.

The American Field's account of the San Antonio shoot that follows, makes one pretty well satisfied to live in California.

The first day was entirely lost because no one could be found who was brave enough to go out and shoot, and the visitors passed the time sitting around stoves, spinning yarns and issuing challenges which never will be shot.

On Tuesday the weather moderated to the extent that it got warm enough to snow, and the program was started in on. Two large fires had been built back of the shooters' score, and these prevented the boys from freezing to death. There was a hot stove in the dance hall adjoining the park restaurant, and as soon as a squad would finish their score they would make a break for the hall and remain there until they were called up for the next event. The consequence was that the shooting suffered such a delay that on no day was the program finished, there always being an uncompleted event carried over until the following day, and in several instances the scores could not be obtained by those in the office until nearly noon.

San Francisco's Disgrace.

The "mischief-maker" denies all knowledge of the proposed new Kennel Club, says he was not asked to attend the meeting etc. What rot! He thinks by making a bluff at indifference, to convince the powers that be, that he is disinterested, and should the matter be brought before the Pacific Advisory Board he will vote and argue from a disinterested stand point. Like the ostrich, he thinks that as long as his head is hidden his great ungainly kickers cannot be seen, but the doggy fraternity of this city know him too well to be fooled by any such silly talk.

His statement that the St. Bernard men have authorized him to state that "the great majority of the St. Bernard men have made no such resolve" is a fabrication manufactured from whole cloth. The great majority, in fact nine-tenths of the St. Bernards in this vicinity, are owned by the St. Bernard Club, and the only St. Bernard men that ever enter his office are E. P. Schell and two former members of the club that were dropped from the rolls for non-payment of dues. The others would not be seen in his company. His statement that but few of them ever attend the meetings of the club shows his ignorance of the club's doings.

There is not a member in this city that does not attend the meetings more or less regularly and the majority of the time there are enough present to make three quorums.

The members of the St. Bernard Club fail to see the cause for more strife. The very formation of the San Francisco Kennel Club is enough to condemn it. If those who organized this club did not wish to stir up strife, what other possible excuse can there be given for the club's existence. For the first time in seven years kennel matters were quiet, and there was every prospect of its remaining so. In the hands of the Olympics, the doggy interests would have boomed as it never did before, but the "mischief-maker" was not a member of the Olympics and knew well that his name would be blackballed if presented, and seeing business slipping through his fingers he works his tools into organizing a new club, to stir up strife, attract attention to his paper, and, possibly, through his "pull" with the Advisory Board, defeat the Olympics and give a show that he could dictate to and run to suit himself.

The St. Bernard Club is composed of gentlemen who see through his rule or ruin policy and will not have anything to do with him, consequently they vote unanimously to fight his protegee, the San Francisco Kennel Club, and they will live up to their resolution.

If the San Francisco Kennel Club wins, the St. Bernard Club's patronage will be given to Sao Jose, Stockton and Los Angeles, and San Francisco will receive neither entries, medals, nor recognition.

If the San Francisco's hold a show this year it will be a signal failure, not because of the St. Bernard Club's action, but because no true sportsman or gentleman will lend his aid to a club organized for no other purpose than to create strife and ill-feeling between the dog owners of this city and vicinity.

The "mischief-maker's" sole argument against the Olympic is laughable. All he can say is "It is a gun club." Pray, what is the Alameda Co. Sportsman's Ass'n? Yet he booms them for all he is worth. Can one ask for better evidence of his true colors? The Alamedas and Olympics are identical—both were originally organized for trap shooting purposes, yet no one ever heard of any objection to the Alamedas holding a show.

The formation of this new club is a disgrace to San Francisco. It is no wonder that this city is looked upon by the Eastern Kennel press as the home of fanatical kickers.

New Kinds of Dogs.

The American Field's report of the Boston show describes the new breeds as follows:

Boerhounds—(Mr. W. B. Emory, judge). This class, as well as boar setters, was assigned to Mr. Mortimer, but he refused to judge them and the above judge was selected.

As the class is a new one the dogs can be best described as an extra large foxhound, the winner in this instance being a dog weighing ninety-one pounds. Most of the entries were puppies whelped in July, yet they were the size of a well-grown hound, indeed, a large one. All seemed true to type, and were black and white. The awards were Gordon first, Stranger second, Ranter third. In the hitches Divola was first, Narcisse second, Gay V. H. C. All the entries were made from the Blue Mount Kennels, and imported by the late Mr. Austin Corbin.

Boer setters—(Mr. W. B. Emory, judge). Another new class with nothing about them of the setter character, but said to be used to locate the wild boar and hay it until the boarhound is up and in action. The two exhibited were small dogs of about thirty pounds, having peculiar white markings, viz., a blaze in the face, spots on the back of the neck, white breast and white on legs nearly up to the elbow on forelegs and to the hock on hindlegs, with white tip to the stern. The markings were nearly exactly the same on the two dogs.

Japanese Plumed Dogs—(Mr. T. F. Rackham, judge). These are a new breed of fawn-colored dogs, weighing about ten pounds or so, with sharp muzzles and a quantity of long hair at the end of the tail, which is carried over the back; hence the name. They were the first I had seen of the breed, and as there were six entries and a uniformity of type there is no reason why they should not be encouraged.

An Oakland Show.

The Alameda County Sportsmen's Association is thinking seriously of holding a show in Oakland. If the Olympics hold a show Oakland might secure Lacy for judge and drew a good entry. If through the scheming of the "mischief-maker" the San Francisco Kennel Club should secure dates, the Oakland show would be the banner show of the year. The San Francisco Club and the clique that run it have not the sympathy of the dog men and they would be only too pleased to show their contempt for the new organization by withholding their entries from the San Francisco show and putting all their energy into making a success of the Oakland show, with entries, specials and gate money. With a judge like Mortimer or Lacy they would clear $1,000.

The San Jose Show.

The premium lists for the Santa Clara Valley Poultry and Kennel Club's bench show to be held on March 31—April 1, 2 and 3, are now out. Entries positively close on March 18, at 9 p. m. One hundred and eighty classes are provided for. Instead of offering small cash prizes and possibly having to assess members to pay them, the club has induced the business men of San Jose and Santa Clara to offer a valuable lot of special prizes.

The show will be held in the Turn Verein Hall. The judging ring will be in the center of the hall in front of the stage. The main hall will be devoted to the exhibit of large dogs and the small ones will be placed in the gymnasium annex.

There will be two prizes for the best decorated kennels, and the ladies of the club will decorate the hall. A large entry is assured. J. Otis Fellows, the well-known and justly popular judge will judge all classes. Address Charles R. Harker, San Jose, for further particulars. Premium lists can be obtained at this office.

The Stockton Show.

The Stockton Kennel Club have straightened out their difficulties and all will be smooth sailing hereafter. The following bench show committee has been elected: J. E. Doak, Chairman; Dr. A. C. Davenport, Secretary; S. B. Huskins, Treasurer; J. H. Lindsley, Superintendent; Henry Lonjers, A. E. Maples, H. C. Gifford, D. Winders, Dan Lorigan, W. M. Gibson and J. Jerome Smith; Veterinarian, J. H. Eddy; Judges, J. Otis Fellows and Chas. H. Mason.

C. H. Mason will judge mastiffs, St. Bernards, Great Danes, Newfoundland, foxhounds, pointers, Irish setters, collies, dachshund, beagles, all terriers and miscellaneous.

J. Otis Fellows will judge; bloodhounds, wolfhounds, deerhounds, greyhounds, English setters, Chesapeake Bay dogs, bull dogs, hasset hounds, schipperkes, spitz, poodles and all spaniels.

There will be indoor field trials on a floor of 7500 square feet. Foxhound, terrier and beagle trials on three or four nights of the show.

Seventy-six specials and medals have already been offered. There will be 275 classes including local classes.

DOINGS IN DOGDOM.

The Boston show brought out 942 entries. 881 dogs were benched.

There will be 180 classes at the San Jose show. The entries will close on March 18th.

The St. Bernard Club of California continues to boom. Several new members will be admitted at the next meeting.

The Stockton Kennel Club has definitely settled the judges question and Mason and Fellows will both judge. This should please all parties and bring a good entry to the show.

There are no better dog medicines on earth than Rackham's. If you have never tried them call for them. E. T. Allen Co.'s gun store. They have just received a supply from England.

Miss Dora Spillar distinguished herself in Essex, England by riding to hounds on a bicycle. She was thrown several times, surmounted six stiles, was in at the death and was presented with the brooch.

Sir Bache Cunard, the well-known master of hounds in England, has consented to judge the fox hounds at the Westminster Kennel Club Dog Show, which will begin Feb. 22 in Madison Square Garden.

Our California fanciers can learn many lessons from our Eastern dogmen. The New England Kennel Club has engaged a special express car that will leave Park Square, Boston, for the New York show, to accommodate exhibitors who wish to go from the Boston to the New York fixtures.

Wm. Strachan's St. Bernard bitch Beauty has whelped a litter of perfectly marked puppies to Ch. Grand Master that promise exceedingly well. Beauty, besides being of good stock, is a very large bitch, and with size and the quality of Grand Master the puppies should develop into good ones.

Among our new advertisements this week will be found that of the Beach Hill Kennel's collies. The puppies advertised are grandly bred and beautifully marked, with broad white collars, golden sable in color and strong and healthy. Gold-dust II, the sire, is by the great winner Gold-dust and is a rattling good show dog himself. He is placed at stud at a reasonable fee and should be well patronized.

The applications of the Olympic Gun Club and San Francisco Kennel Club for membership in the American Kennel Club will come before that club on Wednesday afternoon next. Every delegate that votes for the admission of the San Francisco Kennel Club votes for the ruin of the kennel business in this vicinity. Every delegate that votes for the Olympics votes for years of prosperity.

The Interstate Coursing Club's second annual enclosed meeting will be held at Ingleside Park on Feb. 21st and 22d and 28th if necessary. There will be three stakes. The John Grace Challenge Cup stake for 64 all age hounds, with $200 added by the club. A puppy stake for 32 puppies with $50 added and a stake for 16 saplings with a challenge cup added, presented by Hon. J. D. Phelan. John Grace will judge and Jas. F. Grace will slip.

The Alameda County Sportsman's Association, an association organized for trap shooting and game protection holds two bench shows and nobody thinks of commenting on the fact. The Westminster Kennel Club, is a trap shooting club yet it holds the largest shows in America. The Olympic Gun Club, an organization of dog lovers wants to hold a bench show, but the "mischief-maker" has another axe to grind and suddenly he finds out that it is silly for a gun club to interest itself in dogs. Why this same rule did not hold good years ago is not apparent, but one thing is very apparent, the "mischief-maker" has kicked against a brick wall and has made more enemies in the past two weeks than in the past three years of attempting to edit a sportsman's paper and boom his own dogs.

The premium list of the Kentucky Kennel Club is at hand. The show will be held on March 17-20. Entries close March 6th with Francis J. Hagan, Secretary, Louisville, Ky. The judges will be: James Mortimer, Irish and Gordon setters, Chesapeakes, Newfoundlands, spaniels (all breeds), poodles, heagles, dachshund and Italian greyhounds; John Davidson, St. Bernards, Great Danes, bulldogs, all terriers (except smooth fox terriers), collies, pugs and miscellaneous; Roger D. Williams, bloodhounds, Russian wolfhounds, deerhounds, greyhounds, English and American foxhounds and whippets; J. Wallace Waken, smooth fox terriers; Henry J. Cary-Carr, mastiffs. The cash prizes are $10 to first and $5 to second, with kennel prizes of $10 in nearly all breeds.

The annual dog show at the Agricultural Hall, Islington England, had 3072 entries. The sensational features of the show were the purchase of the collie Ormskirk Emerald for £1500 and the fact that the fox terrier puppy Donna Fortune, bred by Redmond, the famous fox terrier breeder, carried all before it, and was eventually placed over its illustrious dam, hitherto regarded as unbeatable. Francis Redmond refused $1900 for Dame Fortune, the dam of Donna Fortune, recently. The price paid for Emerald is the highest price ever paid for a collie.

The "mischief-maker" publishes as members of the San Francisco Kennel Club, Herman Oelrichs, A. Cheeshorough and Dr. Cluness. Herman Oelrichs's name was used without his authority and he is unquestionably at this writing working for the admission of the Olympic Gun Club. Dr. Cluness says that he is not a member by any means and never will be and Mr. Cheeshorough is looking for the man that put his name on the list. Are the men that attempt to win by fraud the men to have charge of the kennel interests of the New York of the Pacific Coast?

Mr. McCarthy's (Belvidere, Cal.) fox terrier bitch Flossie (Blemlton Shiner—Jess) whelped Feb. 10, 7-5 dogs to J. B. Martin's Golden Flash II (Blemlton Reefer—Blemlton Spinaway).

JAMES H. BUTLER, the well-known horseman and all around sporting man, died last evening of a complication of diseases. He had suffered for six weeks of Bright's disease and pneumonia, but finally succumbed to heart failure. He died at 420 West Park avenue, where he was attended by his wife and a few friends. Only a few years ago he was a wealthy man and counted his dollars little short of $100,000, but his luck turned and there is nothing left of his fortune. At one time he owned a ranch in the Gallatin valley, a block, the Butte block in Butte, and the pacer Major Wonder, the trotters, Manning and Belle McGregor, and the racehorse, Esperance. He has lived in Helena, Bozeman, Butte, San Francisco and Anaconda. He came to this State when a mere boy, made a stake one lucky day in Bozeman, invested in a ranch in the Gallatin valley, was in the boom at Pony, where he kept a hotel, and afterward moved to Butte, where he and his wife built the Butler House, which they kept for many years. When they sold out they went to San Francisco where they had had luck that followed every turn, and they returned to Butte. Mr. Butler was employed by Barney McGinley for a time in that city and then he came to Anaconda, where he has been since last May in the employ of McGinley and Satterlee. He was a favorite among his fellows, a generous giver, and warm in his sympathies. He was about 45 years of age and leaves a widow and several stepchildren, all grown.—Anaconda Standard, Jan. 7. [The deceased was one of the quietest and most unassuming of men. For three years he attended all the races on the California circuit, and was noted for his geniality, uprightness, and willingness to help any who were in trouble. To his bereaved widow and relatives we extend our sympathy.—Ed.]

J. M. NELSON of the Alameda Training Stables sold a very handsome bay team and two single trotters last Monday. Mr. Nelson has orders for twenty head of good bay horses or mares 15 3 to 16 2 hands and weighing 1050 to 1250. They are all for driving purposes. Good prices will be paid for them.

QUINN'S OINTMENT FOR HORSES

Miller & Sibley, of Franklin, Pa., owners of St. Bel, brother of late Bell Boy, write, "We have used Quinn's Ointment with great success and believe it fulfills all claimed for it. We cheerfully recommend it to our friends." For Carbs, Splints, Spavins or Bunches, it has no equal.

Breeding unexcelled. Sired by Director, first dam Nelly W., by Electioneer (full sister to Albert W., 2:20, sire of Little Albert, 2:10; second dam sister, by John Nelson, third dam Lamott mare, dam of Aurora, 2:27, and Hazel, 2:23. WALDSTEIN's first, second and third dams are all producers. He is one of the best producing sons of Director, and in conformation a grand individual; took first premium at State Fair over such great horses as Knight, 2:22, and Zombro, three year-old record 2:13. He holds the five-mile race record of the world, 13:05 1-2, and never sired a colt that was not speedy. WALDSTEIN is sire of Lady Waldstein, 2:15; Humboldt Maid, 2:17; Jack W., 2:19 1/2; Native Son, 2:29 1/2; Swiftwind, 2:29 1/2 (both three years old). The dams of all these have no records nor did they ever produce any in the 2:30 list. Come and see WALDSTEIN's colts go before hooking your mares elsewhere.

SACRAMENTO,

$75

For the Season with Usual Return Privileges.

Payable on Removal of Mares.

With a limited chance in the stud, True Briton has already shown himself to be a great sire. Rey del Bandidos, from a non-producing mare that had already had five foals, holds the Pacific Coast record, 3:57½ at 2½ miles; Her Majesty (dead), won 11 out of 14 starts; Walter J., (also out of a non-producer), a horse with a great turn of speed, has finished outside the money but a very few times out of nearly one hundred starts. Virgie A. and Zeta, both winners, being the only other ones to represent this royally-bred stallion on the racing turf this year.

From this showing there is but one inference to be drawn, and that is, that True Briton is a sure getter of winners; mares that have never thrown a winner to any other stallion, bred to True Briton, get winners and class horses at that.

Boodle 5829, Rec. 2:12½

ETHEL DOWNS, 2:13; THOMPSON, 2:15; MERLE M, 2:25.

Two prominent horsemen were discussing the relative merits of notable stallions. They agreed that a certain stallion was well bred and a good producer, "but" he had no record. Another had a fast record, was well bred, and a good producer, "but" he was too small. Another had nearly all the necessary qualifications, "but" he had curbs and bad feet. Another possessed many rare qualifications, "but" he was vicious, as well as a "quitter." Finally one asked the other, "What's the matter with Boodle?" They both concluded that no stallion, living or dead, possessed all the qualifications desired in a more marked degree than BOODLE.

QUALIFICATIONS

BREEDING unexcelled. Send for extended tabulated pedigree and history of BOODLE.

COLOR, beautiful seal brown, black points, no white.

SIZE, sixteen hands high, weight 1,150 pounds.

DISPOSITION, gentle as a lamb. A child can handle him.

STYLE, A real handsome horse—"a thing of beauty."

CONDITION, Sound as he was the day he was foaled.

SPEED, Race record 2:12½, in a hard-fought battle, which he won.

GAMENESS, A veritable bull dog. A gamer horse never lived.

PRODUCE, While he has only three in the list, no horse living or dead can make a better showing, considering the number of his progeny that have been trained. He transmits all his perfect qualifications to his progeny. His ancestors are noted for their iron constitutions; many of them, notably Goldsmith Maid, 2:14, were obtaining world's records at a time in life when ordinary horses are thinking of dying of old age.

ST. NICHOLAS.

TRIAL, 2:27 1-4, AS A THREE-YEAR-OLD.

SIRE BY

DAM SIRE BY

The Great SIDNEY, 2:19 3-4, Sire of 66 ECHO, the Greatest Sire of Broodmares, in the List,

ST. NICHOLAS is now eleven years old, just in his prime for the stud; stands 15.3 hands; in color a rich dark bay, two hind ankles white; star in forehead; has good limbs and feet; a pure-gaited trotter, and has an excellent disposition. Is pronounced by every one who has seen him as an unusually stylish, well-formed handsome individual. As a three-year-old he won quarters in 30 seconds; then fell into hands that took more pride in owning such a horse rather than in continuing his development.

His colts are of good size, fine lookers, and show extreme speed, but are all owned in private or unprofessional hands.

ST. NICHOLAS is now placed at the head of the breeding department of Sulphur Spring Farm, and will be bred to all the first-class mares. All colts on this farm are trained from weanlings.

This horse, on account of conformation and breeding, cannot help but produce size, style, action and speed.

Will serve only a limited number of mares at $30 FOR THIS SEASON, with usual return privilege; money due on notice of first service.

PASTURAGE $4 PER MONTH.

No liability assumed for accidents or escapes.

In order to show my confidence in the breeding qualities of ST. NICHOLAS, I make the following proposition to owners of stallions that are in service for the SEASON OF 1897 IN CALIFORNIA. I will be one of not less than five to deposit or guarantee in the sum of $100—entrance money and as much money as the BREEDER'S ASSOCIATION chooses to add, all to form a purse—to be trotted or paced for by two-year-olds, in a race, one mile, best two in three, at the FALL MEETING of the P. O. T. H. B. A. in 1900. Only one entry, the get of each stallion allowed. Further details as per agreement of the majority of owners.

Address all communications to

A. G. GURNETT, 308 Pine St., San Francisco, Cal., or SULPHUR SPRING FARM, Walnut Creek, Contra Costa County, Cal.

Mares sent to ranch from Oakland and returned free of charge.

BREED FOR

Disposition, Size, Speed, Soundness and Style

WELCOME, 2:10 1-2.

This game and consistent stallion will make the SEASON OF 1897, ending July 1st, at W. E. MEEK'S STABLE, near the Haywards Station, at $50 THE SEASON, With usual return privileges.

WELCOME was sired by Arthur Wilkes, 2:23½, out of Letty (dam of Wayland W., 2:12; Welcome (p) 2:10½, trotting 2:27½; Mand Singleton, 2:28½), by Wayland Forrest (son of Edwin Forrest 19 and a mare by Sir Charles, thoroughbred); second dam Mary (dam of Apex, 2:26; Sterling, sire of four and one sire of one), Grace, dam of Creole, 2:15; Eagle, 2:19½), by Flaxtail 8132; third dam by Bright Eyes, son of Boanerges. Arthur Wilkes, 2:23½, sire of Welcome, was sired by the mighty Guy Wilkes, 2:15½, out of Gracie, by Arthurton 365; second dam Old Lady, by David Hill Jr.

WELCOME comes from speed producing lines on both sides and his reputation as the "gamest race horse ever Andy McDowell handled" shows that he is far superior to many that have extreme speed, but are lacking in courage. WELCOME is a bay horse, stands 16 hands, and is one of the best-formed horses in California. He earned a trotting record of 2:27½ when a four-year-old, and was put to pacing last year. He started in Montana without a record and won money in every race he started. He won some of the most stubbornly-contested races seen in 1896.

Good pasturage for mares at reasonable rates. For other particulars, address,

W. E. MEEK, Haywards, Cal.

FOR SALE FROM THE ESTATE OF ISAAC DeTURK.

ROBIN, 2:22 3-4, No. 28,370, Bay stallion, foaled 1889, by LIVE OAK HERO, No. 28,369 (son of DIRECTOR, 2:17, No. 1899, and NELLY GRANT, by SANTA CLAUS, 2:17, No. 2,000). First dam BESSIE, by NEPHEW, No. 1220; second dam NELLIE NELSON, by JOHN NELSON, No. 137, etc. ROBIN is a stylish, attractive horse, has a kind disposition, is level-headed, fast and game. He trotted a mile in his work last season over a heavy track in 2:16; last quarter in 32 seconds. The 2:22 classes in which he was entered last season failed to fill and he was not started. He is a fine stock horse, and is a sure foal-getter. As yet his get are young, but a few of them are being handled in Santa Rosa and are very promising.

Also, bay mare EVELINE, foaled 1883, by NUTWOOD, No. 600. EVELINE is the dam of MAUD FOWLER, 2:23½, by ANTEEO, No. 7863; TIETAM, 2:19, No. 24,397, by ANTEEO No. 7863; NICK RUSSELL (trial 2:31), by SILAS SKINNER, No. 10,681; OLEY, a good green colt, by SILAS SKINNER No. 10,631, was broken last fall and showed a quarter in 33 seconds when hardly bridled; ROBERT LET (pacer), by ROBIN, No. 28,370, has paced quarters in 32 seconds, and, barring accidents, will be seen on the circuit next season.

Any person wanting a broodmare can make no mistake in securing this one. Her get are always fast. She has produced fast ones from three different stallions and is now in foal to ROBIN, No. 28,370.

Pat Cooney, trial	2:19
Monte, 3, trial	2:28 3-4

No stallion of his age and record has such a showing for early and extreme speed. Four three-year-olds with records better than 2:15. Out of 73 mares bred to him in 1896, 70 have proven with foal was foaled June 12, 1887, sired by the great Alcyon (son of George Wilkes, and Alma Mater, the famous out of Belle Brandon (dam of Amy, 2:20 1/4, Gov. Sprague, 2:20 1/4, Wilmar, 2:29 1/4), by Hambletonian 10; granddam Jenny, by Young Bacchus (thoroughbred); great granddam Worden mare, by Exton Eclipse (thoroughbred). The second dam of McKinney was Rosa Kenney (dam of Messenger Chief, sire of sixteen in 2:30 list) by Mambrino Messenger, one of the strongest-bred Messenger studs in the Registry. Third dam J. I. Kenney mare, dam of Gen. G. H. Thomas (sire of seven in 2:30) by Mambrino Chief 11. Fourth dam Jessa Bryan mare, by imp. Napoleon (thoroughbred). Fifth dam by Tempest (thoroughbred).

McKINNEY 2:11 1-4 is 15.2 1/2 hands, weight 1140, and is one of the most perfect-made horses in America, having plenty of bone and substance. He started in twenty-eight races and won twenty-five of them. His reputation as a game and consistent performer is world wide. As a sire the few of his progeny that have been handled for speed have demonstrated that they inherit all his extraordinary good qualities.

As in case mare does not prove with foal, I agree to give a return service free next season if the horse is in my possession. In case he is not, I will return one-half the money paid. Mares shipped to 16th Street Station, Oakland, will receive prompt attention.

The best care taken of mares, but no responsibility assumed for accidents or escapes. Pasturage $5 per month. For further particulars apply to

CURINE! CURINE! CURINE!

The Most Powerful and Best Preparation in the World

I WILL GUARANTEE MY CURINE

To be the most powerful paint that medical science can formulate. It will reach deeper-seated troubles and produce better effects for lameness and unhealthy sores than any other preparation in the world, for which local medication is indicated, such as Spavins, Galls, Ringbones, Sprung Knees, Gapped Hocks and Knees, Saddle Galls, Rheumatism, Shoulder Lameness, Wind Puffs, Navicular Disease, Joint Lameness, Fistulae, Shoe Boils, Quittor, Tumors, Muscle Soreness, Splints, Thoroughpins, Sprung Tendons, Enlarged and Suppurated Glands, Soft Bunches, Bony Growths, Etc., Etc.

W. A. W. TURNBULL, V. M. D.,

Formerly resident surgeon in charge of the Veterinary Hospital, University of Pennsylvania.

CURINE is the most powerful paint known, and supercedes all canter or firing. It contains no grease and will not blemish or remove the hair.

Its effects are absorbent, alterative, peoetrative and antiseptic, and is the only preparation capable of reaching the deepest seated troubles. Horse can be worked as usual while using this marvelous paint. It is used with phenomenal success in Europe, and in the leading trotting and racing stables in the United States and Canada. Any person who purchases a bottle, and after using half of it according to explicit directions, and finds it will not do what we claim, can return the bottle and money will be refunded. Reference:—First National or Citizens National Bank, Latrobe, Pa. WE WILL WAGER $100 that one bottle of CURINE if used according to explicit directions will reach deeper seated troubles, produce better effects for the same curatives than any other compound in the world.

LIMITED TO TWENTY-FIVE MARES.

ALTAMONT is the champion sire of 2:10 performers, being the only horse living or dead with six to his credit. He has taken a leading position among the foremost trotting sires of the country under such conditions that phenomenal ability alone has saved him from oblivion. A very small proportion of his progeny has been trained, and an extremely small number of these by competent men. As a partial illustration of his meagre advantages, it may be stated that he has overproduced a colt from a pacing-bred mare, or from one with a fast record. Nor has he ever yet been crossed with a descendant of George Wilkes, Electioneer, Dictator, Sidney or Dexter Prince. Oregon and Washington have produced seven 2:10 performers, and EVERY ONE of these are ALTAMONT'S.

ALTAMONT is a horse of iron constitution, and at twenty-two years of age is in the full vigor of his prime, a sure foal-getter, and, except for his blindness—the result of an accident—is without blemish. He has never sired a sorrel, all of his colts having been solid colors—bays, browns or blacks. He is now located in Alameda, at Herbert's Stables, on Sherman street, between Santa Clara and Central avenues. Alameda local S. P. and Narrow Gauge trains from San Francisco, stop within two blocks of stable, and Oakland and Alameda electric cars, half a block away. Residence two doors from stable.

Close of a Very Successful Meeting—The Four-Mile Race Won by Schiller Over a Very Heavy Track.

FORTY-NINTH DAY—THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 18.

Favorites and long shots divided honors and coin at the new track this afternoon in the deep mud. A crowd of 1,500 was on hand and saw big fields compete in the six events run off. Monitor, long due, won the 6th with G. Wilson up at odds of 10 to 1, and won impressively by three lengths. Sir William simply galloped in the second, allowing On Gua Nita to lead up to the final eighty yards, on sufferance. Mornings closed up a lot of ground in this. Frank Jauhart gave a 6th-class imitation of a horse making a field of gallopers look like a hand of saffron-hued canines, after being one of the latter himself, to all appearances, for a long time past. Babe Murphy won the fourth, mile and a sixteenth, very cleverly from St. Aignon, after Chartreuse had run herself almost to death in front and become anchored in the heavy going close to the inner rails. Pat Murphy took the fifth with great ease from Shield Bearer, Mainstay et al., and Ricardo, off in the lead in the last, was never headed. G. Wilson, J. Shields and Boze-man, not considered stars in the jockey 6rmanent, were up on winners this afternoon, while Freeman, Slaughter and H. Martin rode victorious thoroughbreds also.

The first was at five and one half furlongs. Away to a good start, Bourhon went to the front, and closely attended by Iron Jacket, ran around to the homestretch. Pecksniff third. Bourhon quit as soon as they straightened away, and Iron Jacket was done for a sixteenth from home, Monitor winning off by four lengths. Play Boy second, half a length before Pecksniff, who beat Edgemount a head, Iron Jacket another head away. Time, 1:12. Monitor was at 10 to 1, Play Boy 8, Pecksniff 10, Edgemount 2½ (played from 6), Iron Jacket 5, Lena 6 (15 once), others 10 to 100 to 1.

The second was at three and one-half furlongs, for two-year-olds. They were away to a fair start, the order being On Gua Nita, Irritator, Sir William. On Gua Nita led Irritator two lengths into the homestretch, Sir William lapped on the Brutus colt. Irritator fell out in the straight and Sir William galloping with his head around to the side, was given his head and shot in an easy winner by a length. On Gua Nita second, a length before Mornings, who ran up from seventh place. Fallen Princess was a poor fourth. Time, 0:45½. Sir William was at even money, On Gua Nita 20 to 1, Mornings 20, Barney Schrier 4, Duke of York 7, others 12 to 60.

The third, seven furlongs, brought eight to the post. They were off to a fair start, Woodchopper showing first momentarily, Frank Jauhart, away second, soon dashed to the fore, he, Roadrunner and Mahogany running lapped past the quarter. At the half Frank Jauhart was first by half a length, Roadrunner second, a length before Rienzi. Jauhart was four lengths to the good at the three-quarters, and won by eight lengths, Rienzi second, a length before Three Forks, who beat Road Runner a head. Time, 1:32. Jauhart was at 7 to 1, Rienzi 3 to 2, Three Forks 2½ to 1, Woodchopper 8 (played from 12), Attiers 7 (10 once), others 50 and 60 to 1.

In the fourth, one mile, after getting off to a good start, Ike L. showed a head in front of Chartreuse passing the stand. Then Chartreuse got to the fore, leading Ike L. a neck at the quarter, Daylight two lengths away. Chartreuse was half a length to the good at the half, Ike L., Babe Murphy and Franco heads apart as named. At the final turn it was Chartreuse first by a head, Red Glenn second, with Babe Murphy at his heels. The Babe came along on the outside, and getting up to Chartreuse about a sixteenth from home, won driving by a length, St. Aignon coming fast enough to get the place, half a length before Chartreuse, on whom Red Glenn was lapped. Time, 1:54½. Babe Murphy was at 7 to 5, St. Aignon 15 (played from 20), Chartreuse 13 to 5, Daylight 4½ to 1, Glenn 7, Ike L. 40, others 200 to 1.

The fifth was at five and a half furlongs, and a field of eleven lined up. They got an excellent send-off and Peril at once shot into the lead. At the half it was Peril first by a length, Shield Bearer and Encino heads apart, lapped by Pat Murphy. Shield Bearer showed half a length to the good turning for home, Peril, Encino and Pat Murphy well hunched. Pat Murphy headed Shield Bearer about a sixteenth from home and won with great ease by a length, Shield Bearer second, three lengths from Mainstay, he three from D. J. Tohin. Time, 1:11½. Pat Murphy was at 2 to 1 (2½ for some time), Shield Bearer 6 to 1, Mainstay 6, Soniro 7, others 10 to 50 to 1.

After a couple of breakaways Ricardo got off in front, Heartsease and Doughtful left. Ricardo was not headed and won by four lengths pulling up, Joan second, three lengths from Howard, who beat Boreas about a length. Time, 1:19. Ricardo was at 3 to 1, Joan 12, Howard 2½, La Flecha 2½, Boreas 6, others 12 to 1.

FIFTIETH DAY—FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 19.

The first race was at a mile, selling. They were away to a very good start. Boreas and Ricardo ran heads apart past the quarter, three lengths before Woodchopper. Ricardo's head showed in front at the half, Boreas four lengths from old Woodchopper. Boreas led Ricardo half a length at the final turn, Woodchopper five lengths further away, three lengths from Coda, on whom Charles A. was lapped. The latter ran up very fast in the homestretch and Boreas had to be hustled some at the end to win by a head, Charles A. two lengths from Woodchopper, who was as far in front of Ricardo. Time, 1:48. Boreas was at 10 to 1, Charles A. 13 to 5, Woodchopper 15 to 1, Coda and Cherry-stone 4 (latter backed from 6), Ricardo 8, others 10 to 100 to 1. Boreas was run up $100 by Tom Woodford, and he got the horse.

To a good start Ransom showed in front a shade, but at the quarter Camelia's head was in front, Ransom second, a length before Perseus and Una Colorado, head and head, Perseus went to the front in the next furlong and led by two lengths at the half, Ransom and Camelia head and head, three lengths from Pecksniff. At the last turn it was Perseus first by a length, Ransom second, five lengths from Camelia. Perseus was not headed, and won driving by half a length, Ransom second, eight lengths from Camelia, she twelve in front of Una Colorado. Time, 1:47. Perseus was at 2 to 5, Ransom 3 to 1, Camelia 15, Una Colorado 20, Pecksniff and Jerome 8. 100 to 1.

The third was for three-year-olds, seven furlongs. To a fair start Sweet William and Moreno went out in front, heing heads apart, three lengths in front of imp. Sain to the half. Sweet William led Moreno a head at the final turn, Sain two lengths off and a length in front of Arrezzo. Sain assumed command a little over a sixteenth from home, but was in the heavy going near the rail, and Arrezzo, in the good footing, experienced no trouble in winning by half a length, imp. Sain, driving, second, a neck before Sweet William, he two lengths in front of Moreno. Time, 1:33. Arrezzo was at evens (played from 7 to 5), imp. Sain 8 to 5, Sweet William 5½ to 1, Moreno 150, and Lady Hurst 250 to 1.

In the fourth, five and one-half furlongs, for three-year-olds, Senator Morgan, Hannetta and Basquil were heads apart passing the half. Senator Morgan led into the homestretch by about a neck, Siegfried second, with Basquil at their heels. Basquil assumed the lead in the final sixteenth and won from the fast-coming Roy Carruthers by a head, Siegfried third, a length away and lapped by Roselle. Time, 1:12½. Basquil was at 15 to 1, Roy Carruthers 20, Siegfried 9, Torpedo 2½, Hannetta 13 to 5, Chappie 8, others 12 to 75 to 1.

The fifth was a six furlong selling race. Torsina and Una Quo Amo ran heads apart past the half, two lengths from Summertime. At the final turn Torsina, Una Quo Amo and Summertime were running lapped. Summertime came on in the last sixteenth and was a handy winner by half a length, Torsina second, eight lengths from Una Quo Amo, who beat Eventide four easily. Time, 1:18. Summertime was at 27 to 100, Torsina 3 to 1, Una Quo Amo 100, others 50 to 100.

A mile race was last on the programme. It was Walter J. first and Cabrillo second past the quarter. At the half Walter J. led by half a length, Caliente second, at the half it was Walter J. first by a head. Caliente looked a winner until near the finish, but Jones let the colt's head drop for a moment and he could not quite get up, Walter J. winning by a neck, Caliente second, eight lengths before Monita, on whom Can't Dance was lapped. Time, 1:46. Joe Ullman hoisted Walter J. $600, the owner retaining him, however. Walter J. was at 15 to 1, Caliente 8 to 5, Monita 30 to 1, Formal 3 to 5, others 10 to 15 to 1.

FIFTY-FIRST DAY—SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 20.

The first was at six furlongs, selling. Shield Bearer showed first to a good start, but was immediately passed by Peril and Mainstay, who ran heads apart past the half, four lengths in front of Shield Bearer. Peril was first by two lengths at the three-quarters, Mainstay second, five lengths from Shield Bearer. Peril carried Mainstay out in the homestretch, and Shield Bearer, turning closer and running a game race, got up and won amid considerable excitement by a head, Peril third, two lengths from Hermanita. Time, 1:19½. Shield Bearer closed at 13 to 10 (he was at 3 to 2 once), Mainstay 3 to 2, Peril 20, Hermanita 8, Ike L. 30, others 40 to 300 to 1.

In the second, a mile and a furlong, Long Lady, fifth away, shot to the front, leading by two lengths at the stand, four at the quarter and by three at the half, Frank Jauhart and Babe Murphy close together. Frank Jauhart collared Long Lady nearing the three-quarters and at that point led by half a length, Babe Murphy second, two lengths before St. Aignon, on whom Long Lady was lapped. Frank Jauhart drew away in the homestretch and won easily by four lengths, St. Aignon in a drive heating Babe Murphy half a length for place, Pollock fourth, another half a length away. Time, 2:02½. Frank Jauhart was at 4 to 1 (8 once), St. Aignon 2, Babe Murphy 2, Two Cheers 7, Pollock 15, Long Lady 100, and Skalkaho 200 to 1.

The third was for three year-olds, five and one-half furlongs. To a first-class start Lena showed first, Mercutio second, Mistral third. Mercutio was first past the half by a length, Ezekiel and Lena lapped. The latter then fell back rapidly and Mercutio led by a length at the three-quarters, Ezekiel and Siegfried half lengths apart. Mercutio drew away until he was four lengths to the good in the homestretch, and won easily by two from Siegfried, who beat Ezekiel a length. Viking was fourth, two lengths further away. Time, 1:13½. Mercutio was at 3½ to 1 (4 at the opening), Siegfried 9 to 5 (went back from evens), Ezekiel 15, Altanera 4, others 10 to 100.

The Elmwood Stakes, half a mile, for two-year-olds, came next. The value of the stake was $1,000, of which $200 to the second and $100 to third. To a good start Roxey Murphy took the lead. At the three-quarter pole it was Roxey Murphy first by one and one-half length, Estro second, with The Cheat at his saddle. The Cheat gradually closed up, and running a dead game race, won driving by half a length from Roxey Murphy, who was six lengths before Estro, he two from Al Koran, last away. Time, 0:51½. The Cheat was at 3 to 5 (backed from evens), Roxey Murphy 10, Estro 15, Count of Flanders 3, Alkoran 8, Fallen Princess 40.

Then came the event that had attracted the thousands to the course—the four mile race for the Thornton Stakes, $3,000, of which $2,500 to the winner. The trio of starters went away from the post at little better than a walk—so slow a gait as to elicit shouts of derision. Schiller took a slight lead of Thornhill, and Willie Martin dropped Lohengula back a dozen lengths going the first quarter, which Schiller made in the ridiculous time of 0:36. They simply cantered the first mile; it was run in 2:10, Schiller being from a length to a couple of lengths in front. The pace was noticeably quickened beginning the second mile, Schiller going easily along in front, Thornhill, to escape the flying mud, either having to take to the inside in the heavier going or to the outside and go a much longer route. At the end of two miles Schiller was still a couple of lengths in front, but Thornhill was now sent along, he and Schiller alternating in the lead, Lohengula still about twenty lengths off. When three miles had been traversed Thornhill, in the center of the track, had a lead of a length, and his backers were much encouraged thereat. The race was now on in dead earnest. Schiller and Thornhill were on nearly even terms at 3½ miles and Willie Martin was sending Lohengula along for the first time since the long run was begun. Thornhill was running along gamely in the rather deep going, leading his larger opponent about a neck. That he was laboring hard was quite apparent, though. Between the three-furlong and half-mile poles he was observed to falter, and Schiller shot past him. "Thornhill's done for!" came from the throng. And the white-faced Cheviot horse was, in truth, beaten, though it was not known at that time that he had badly howed a tendon. It was only his great gameness that kept him on his pins to the finish. At the final turn, three and three quarter miles having been traversed, it was Schiller first by half a dozen lengths, Thornhill second by perhaps eight, Lohengula coming very fast. President Williams' recent purchase passed Thornhill in the next furlong and was within two lengths of Schiller when a little over a sixteenth from home, but clearly had not been "poinked up" for such a long journey, and Schiller, given rein, dashed away and won by four lengths, Lobengula twenty five from the broken-down Thornhill. Time, 8:04½. Some very hearty cheers went up for "Jockey Sims" and Owner Barney, and the last-named remarked to the judges something that sounded very much like "You can't beat the Dutch!" as the beautiful floral collar was placed on the handsome son of imp. St. George and Frauline, who was bled in the old-fashioned way to relieve him, blanketed and led away amid not a little enthusiasm. The race, but for Thornhill's mishap, would have been a most exciting one, and had Lobengula not dropped back so far in that slow first quarter there would have been much additional excitement. Following is the pedigree of the winner:

The last race was at one and three-eighths miles. Zaragza made the running for nearly a mile, then Three Forks, who had been running second, sped past him, and leading by half a length, driving, after pinning Arundel against the inner rails and probably preventing him from finishing in front. J. O. C. was third, four lengths away and two from the tired Zaragza. Time, 2:43. Brilliant fell at the first jump and leaped into the inside track. W. Clancy's claim of foul against Three Forks was considered and Hennessy questioned, but the result was not changed. Three Forks was at 8 to 5, Arundel 4 to 1, J. O. C. 8, Hello 2½, others 10 to 50 to 1.

INGLESIDE RACES.

Reopened Under Most Auspicious Circumstances—High-Class Racing—The Events in Detail.

FIFTY-SECOND DAY—MONDAY, FEBRUARY 22.

One of the largest crowds that ever gathered at Ingleside was on hand yesterday, fine weather, and a good card serving as magnets to draw the people with sporting blood toward. Besides, it was Washington's Birthday. Estimates on the assemblage ranged from 8,000 to 11,000. There were two surprises to begin with, then the favorites got home in good shape. The first winning was with imp. Fullerton Lass, as good as 100 to 1 for some, 50 to 1 for a lot. The books were bit pretty hard on this, a trio of plungers alone taking over $13,000 out of the ring on the victory of the English-bred mare, while of course such a price is just pie for the pikers, who made a big hole in the bank account of the field book man. Formal turned another somersault and lit on his feet. The other day in heavy going he finished absolutely last, beaten by a band that will go in the water after a stick every time and hide bones till they're blue in the face. Ferrier, too, ran as if he had become real knowing and didn't like the price, which was 7 to 10. Salvable just galloped in a winner in the third. Napamox, daughter of the dead Maxim and Napa, won the White Seal Stakes for Burns & Waterhouse with ease, and established her claim to the two-year-old filly crown of California. Reddington romped in in the mile and a furlong jump, and it did not take Preston's life to capture the last.

The first run was at a mile. They were away to an excellent send off. Road Runner led past the quarter by two lengths, Flambeauette second, a length before Snowdown, who soon thereafter got to the front, he, Flambeauette and Road Runner running heads apart as named passing the half. Snowdown led at the three quarters by half a length. Favor second, lapped by Fullerton Lass. Snowdown bumped Tar and Tartar and a few others in the last furlong and imp. Fullerton Lass went on and won by half a length driving, Tar and Tartar second, two lengths from Scimitar, who was as far from Snowdown. Time, 1:46½. Fullerton Lass was at 50 to 1, (as good as 100) Tar and Tartar 8, Scimitar 3½, Snowdown 7 to 5, Can't Dance 4, others at long prices.

The second was at a mile also. To a good start Col. Wheeler was in front a length at the quarter, Naranja and Logan heads apart. Logan's head just showed in front of Naranja's at the half. At the three-quarters Formal was leading by half a length, Ferrier second, and the latter was not headed, winning handily by one and a half lengths, Ferrier second, a length in front of Naranja, who best George Palmer a head. Time, 1:44½. Formal was at 7 to 1, Ferrier 7 to 10, Naranja 20 to 1, George Palmer 4, Col. Wheeler 12, Logan 15 and Joan 100 to 1.

A mile and a furlong race was third on the programme. To a good send-off Salvable, Marcel and Lady Hurst ran in close order past the stand. At the quarter it was Salvable first by a length, Lady Hurst second, a head before Marcel. Lady Hurst then ran up close, lapped on the favorite, Marcel another half length away. Salvable and Lady Hurst drew away from the others, the former leading the favorite a head into the homestretch. Csmelia had moved up third, and was coming fast enough to make Salvable get a little move on to win by half a length. Camelia beat Marcel a length for place, and Lady Hurst was lapped on the Luke Blackburn mare. Time, 1:59½. Salvable was at 1 to 7, Camelia 12 to 1, Marcel 10, others 100.

The White Seal Stakes, half a mile, for two-year-old fillies, brought twelve babies to the post. The stake was $1,000 to owner of first, $200 to second, $100 to third. To a fair start for all but Free Lady and Rosa, Rosormonde dashed away in the lead, Napamox showing second and Queen Mah next. Rosormonde was but a head in front at the three-quarter pole, and shortly thereafter Napamox passed to the fore and won handily by a length, Queen Mah in a hard drive heating Rosormonde a head, with Martha fourth, half a length away. Time, 0:50. Napamox and Miss Rowena (coupled) were at 2½ to 1, Queen Mah and On Gna Nita (coupled) 5½ to 1, Rosormonde 8, Free Lady 4, Martha 13 to 5 (played from 8), others 5 to 40 to 1.

In the mile and a furlong hurdle race, Idaho Chief showed slightly in advance of Herman and Reddington passing the stand, then Reddington took up the running, being a length to the good at the quarter, Herman second, five lengths from Mr. Reel. The order was unchanged at the half, though they had bunched up somewhat. Reddington led into the homestretch by two lengths, and Mr. Reel went up second. He was within two lengths of Reddington at the last fence, but the latter jumped beautifully and won in a romp by three lengths, Mr. Reel second, four lengths from Herman, who was six in front of Tuxedo. Time, 2:08½. The Bachelor was pulled up almost at the start. Reddington and The Bachelor (coupled) were at 4 to 5, Mr. Reel 9 to 5, Herman 20 to 1, Tuxedo 8, and Idaho Chief 50 to 1.

The last race was at six furlongs. After quite a long delay they were away to a poor start, Peixotto and McJave being all but left. George Miller led around to the home stretch by about a length, then Preston, third, moved up and won cleverly at the end by a head, George Miller, second, a length before David, Salisbury fourth, three lengths away Time, 1:7. Preston was at 1 to 2 (backed from 4 to 5) George Miller 5 to 1, David 12, others 10 to 400 to 1.

FIFTY-THIRD DAY—TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 23.

In the first race, five and a half furlongs, they got away quickly to a good start. Morven, Hazard, Brametta, Blue Bell and Chappie, ran lengths apart as named passing the half and into the homestretch it was Morven first by a length, Blue Bell second, as far from Hazard, the latter coming up strong. Morven had just a little left, and was lifted in a winner by a nose, Hazard second, three lengths from Brametta. Imp. Trance, fifth, ran a good race with 131 pounds up and first time out. Time, 1:09½. Morven was at 13 to 5, Hazard 20 to 1, Brametta 30, Nuncomar 11 to 5, imp. Ivy 5 to 1, others 12 to 50 to 1.

The second was at seven furlongs, selling. To a good start Midlo went at once into the lead. He was two lengths in front at the quarter and half, Moylan second at the latter point, a length in front of Cabrillo. Midlo pulled further ahead going to the three quarter pole, then Tod Sloan set to work on the favorite, and getting up to Midlo in the last sixteenth, won cleverly by a head, Midlo second, ten lengths from Cabrillo, who beat Harold Lindsay six. Time, 1:29½. Moylan was at 7 to 10 (opened at 4 to 5), Midlo 10 to 1, Cabrillo 3½ (backed from 4½), Olive 12, others 25 to 200 to 1.

The third, five and one-half furlongs, was a great betting race. To a good send-off Fly went to the front at a good clip, leading Simmons (going easily) four lengths passing the half Sweet William three lengths further off and a length before Good Times. At the three quarters Fly's lead had been cut to two and one-half lengths by Simmons, who was head and head with Sweet William. Good Times came fast on the final turn. Simmons took the lead as they got fairly straightened in the stretch, and looked all over a winner a sixteenth from home, but Good Times came very strong, and collaring Simmons in the last thirty yards, won by a good head amid much excitement, Simmons second, three lengths before Sweet William, on whom Fly was lapped. Time, 1:09½. Good Times opened at 5 to 5, went to 9 to 5, closed at 7 to 5, Simmons 5 to 5 (opened at 2 to 1), Sweet William 10, Fly 10, Flashlight 30 to 1.

A mile and a sixteenth selling race was fourth on the programme. To a good start Elmer F., fourth away, dashed to the front, leading Clissie B. a small margin past the stand and quarter-pole and one and a half lengths at the half-mile ground, Foremost third, another length away. Elmer F. led by two lengths at the three quarter pole, Clissie B. next, as far from Foremost, who was a couple before Frank K. The latter closed up in the homestretch, and reserving him for a final effort, Frank K. shot in a winner by a head, Elmer F. second, three lengths from Foremost, who beat Clissie B. four. Time, 1:50½. Frank K. was at 3 to 5 (opened at evans), Elmer F. 20, Foremost 12, San Marco 8, others 12 to 100 to 1.

The fifth race was for three-year-old fillies, six furlongs. Off to a good start, Tea Rose soon assumed a decided lead, being two lengths to the good at the half, Sly second, lapped by Suisun. At the three-quarters it was Tea Rose first by two lengths, Suisun second, half a length before Sly. Tea Rose was beaten half-way down the homestretch, and Sly, who took the lead, "blew-up" in the last sixteenth, Suisun coming on to a handy two-length victory, Nebula second, coming very fast, two lengths before Naranja, who beat Sly a head. The favorite was a bad last. Time, 1:16½. Suisun was at 3 to 1, Nebula 50, Naranja 5, Tea Rose 9 to 10, Sly 8 (12 at one time), Cappy 200.

The sixth and last race was at five and a half furlongs. They were away to a poor start, Salisbury showing first. The Sinner went to the front at once, leading Yemen two lengths at the half and four at the three-quarters, and winning handily by two and a half lengths from the driven-out Yemen, who was four from Stentor, he a head in front of Salisbury. George Miller pulled up very lame. Time, 1:09½. The Sinner was at 5 to 1, Yemen 10, Stentor 2 (hacked from 3), George Miller 11 to 10, Salisbury 20 and Woodchopper 100 to 1.

FIFTY-FOURTH DAY—WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 24.

The first race was at three and a half furlongs, for two-year-olds. They were off to a fair start, but Old Jack and Morana outbroke the others. Old Jack led at the three-quarters by two lengths, Morana second, five lengths before Tom Spencer. Old Jack led to the final sixteenth, where Morana got off on even terms, and going on, won handily by half a length, Old Jack second, eight lengths before Sabaoth. Time, 0:43½. Morana was at 8 to 5 (backed from 3 to 1), Old Jack 15 to 1, Sabaoth 20, Fallen Princess 3½, Borden 8, others 15 to 50.

The second event was at six furlongs, selling. To a good start Ecocino ran up from eighth to first place in short order, leading Sir Richard a head at the half, Una Que Amo another head away. Then old Sir Richard got to the fore, leading a length as the three-quarter pole, Una Que Amo second, lapped by Ecocino. In the homestretch imp. Dicaparity moved up very fast, but fell back again as if "short," Sir Richard winning handily by a length, Brametta, coming very strong, second, two lengths before Camelia, who was an easy third. Ecocino was fourth. It was a great reversal of form, as far as Sir Richard was concerned. Time, 1:16½. Sir Richard was at 15 to 1, Brametta 3, Camelia 9 to 5, Ecocino 3 to 1, others 12 to 100 to 1.

In the third, three and one-half furlongs, for two-year-olds, they were away to a rather straggling start, Rey El Santo left, Aluminum showing first and Free Lady second. Free Lady passed Aluminum when they had run a little over a furlong and led by a head at the three-quarters, Aluminum second, three lengths from Barney Schreiber. Free Lady drew away at the end and won easily by a scant length from the driven-out Aluminum, who was three lengths in front of On Gna Nita, she a head before Moringa, who ran from last place and finished strong. Time, 0:43½. Free Lady was at 9 to 10 (backed from 5 to 5), Aluminum 2½ to 1, On Gna Nita 20, others 12 to 40.

A mile handicap followed. Greyhurst was left at the post and Ostler Joe got to the front when they had gone a furlong and led Ferrier a length at the quarter, Installator half a length further away. At the half it was Ostler Joe first by a length, Ferrier second, a head before Dr. G., Installator at his heels. At the three-quarters Ostler Joe was two lengths before Ferrier, who was half a length in front of Installator, against the inner rails. Joe swerved somewhat when they straightened away and when Thorpe tried to get through with Installator he was interfered with. Ferrier assumed a slight lead a little over a sixteenth from home, and Installator was beaten a head in a drive, Ostler Joe third, four lengths off. Ferrier was at 8 to 5, Installator 14 to 5, Ostler Joe 4½ to 1, Greyhurst 5, Cabrillo 10, and Doctor G. 40.

The fifth event was a mile and a quarter hurdle race. Zaragza led by a small margin for a little over a quarter of a mile, then Reddington took up the running, being a length in front of Three Forks at the quarter and two lengths at the half, Tuxedo third at the latter point. Three Forks passed Reddington nearing the three quarters, and leading by three lengths in the homestretch, won easily by that distance, Reddington second easily, three from Gov. Bodd, who was as far from Tuxedo. Time, 2:20. Three Forks was at 11 to 20, Reddington 2½ to 1 (opened at 9 to 5), Bodd 15, others 40 to 100 to 1.

The sixth was at one and an eighth miles, selling. Formal was sent at once to the fore, Tod Sloan taking a good hold of him. At the quarter and half he was first by about two lengths, Coda second, lapped by Perseus at the latter point. At the three-quarters it was Formal a length away, Perseus second, Coda another length away. Perseus got up to Formal a sixteenth from home and led him a neck for several yards, but Tod Sloan made a grand finish on Formal, who won by a nose, Perseus second, ten lengths before Coda, she a head from Jauhart. Time, 1:55½. Formal was at 7 to 10, Perseus 2 to 1, Coda 300, Jauhart 4½ (7 once), Marcel 50 and Fullerton Lass 150 to 1.

In the last, six furlongs, to a good start, Logan led by a small margin past the half, then Santa Bella, close up, went out of the bunch, with Preston after her. Santa Bella led into the homestretch by two lengths and won easily by that distance, Preston second, as far from old Logan, who beat Doubtful four lengths. Time, 1:15½. Santa Bella was at 7 to 5 (2 to 1 once), Preston 7 to 10, Logan 50 to 1, Potentate 40, others 200 to 1.

FIFTY-FIFTH DAY—THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 25.

One of the biggest surprises that ever came down the pike occurred in this race. Off to a good start, Yankee Doodle went to the front, closely attended by Logan, and this pair ran heads apart past the quarter and half, two lengths in front of imp. Ivy. The last-named came very fast when three furlongs from home, and leading by half a length into the homestretch, lasted long enough to beat the fast-coming Peter the Second a head, Logan third, two lengths off and a head before Yankee Doodle. Time, 1:43½. Imp. Ivy was at 50 to 1 at the close (once as good as 100 to 1), Peter II. 5, Logan 15 to 5 and Yankee Doodle 11 to 20. This was the most startling form somersault ever seen on Ingleside track, in all likelihood. In her last previous race Ivy finished away outside the money in a field of very ordinary selling-platers.

A mile and a sixteenth race brought five very good ones to the post. After a long delay they were trotted up and sent away to a good start. Suisun and Greyhurst went away from their field as if it were roped up, and running as a team, were eight lengths in front of Argentina passing the quarter, Salvable two lengths further away. At the half-pole Greyhurst was a head in front, Suisun six lengths from Salvable, he a length from Argentina. The four and one-half furlongs had been negotiated in 0:54½. Greyhurst's head still showed in front at the three-quarters, Suisun second, one and one-half lengths from Salvable, on whom Argentina was lapped. The six and a half furlongs were run in 1:22½, and the pace-makers were very naturally done for. Salvable came on strong, and after a short drive won handily by a length from Argentina, on whom Lincoln II. was lapped, Greyhurst was fourth, five lengths away. Salvable was at 9 to 5 (2½ to 1 once), Argentina 3½, Lincoln 50, Greyhurst 2½ and Suisun 4½ to 1.

In the third, six furlongs, they got away to a good start and Clissie B. showed the way past the half, leading Dennis a head, Dolore lapped on him. Woodchopper ran up from sixth place to fourth, and at the three quarters was first, three lengths in front of Clissie B., at whose heels was Dennis. Woodchopper held his lead for another furlong, and then began dying away, Clissie B. winning cleverly by a head from Woodchopper, who was a head from Meadow Lark, coming like a shot. He got away eighth in a field of nine. Clissie B. was at 8 to 1, Woodchopper 15, Meadow Lark 3 to 1, Olive 6 to 5, others 5 to 150 to 1.

The fourth was at six furlongs. Yemen, off to a flying start, was never headed, winning handily by a length from Major Cook, who came up from fourth place. Jack o' Lantern, three lengths further away, beat Trappess half a length for the show. Time, 1:15½. Yemen was at 9 to 10, Major Cook 15 to 1, Jack o' Lantern 15, others 3½ to 100 to 1. McLight ran a poor race, quitting in the homestretch. Trappess needed a race.

In the fifth, five furlongs, to a good start Celoso was first by a head at the half-mile ground, Road Warner second, as far from Red Bird, who the led bunch by one and one-half lengths. Road Warner's head showed in front at the three-quarters, Celoso second, two lengths before Miss Ross, she a head before Sallie Cliequot. Celoso came good and true down the homestretch, and admirably handled by Tod Sloan, won handily by a head, Miss Ross second, three lengths before Sallie Cliequot, she six from Cappy. Time, 1:01½. Celoso was at 3 to 2, Miss Ross 20 to 1, Sallie Cliequot even money, others 15 to 200 to 1.

A mile and a quarter race was sixth on the programme. Cherrystone ran in front of Elmer F. and Foremost a small margin for six furlongs. Elmer F. led by two in the homestretch, where Piggott began his looking back act, Foremost coming along on the outside, and well-riden by Tod Sloan, winning cleverly by a length, Can't Dance, strong at the wind-up, second, two lengths before Mortie Fosse, who made up a lot of ground the last three furlongs. Unity was beaten a head for show. Time, 2:10. Foremost was at 5 to 1, Can't Dance 7, Mortie Fosse 2 to 1, Unity 2½, Collins and Elmer F. 15, Cherrystone 50 to 1.

The last race was at five furlongs, and a fine field of nine faced the barrier. True Blue was left. Fly and The Sinner ran close together to the homestretch. Magnet came up very fast on the last turn, and assuming command as soon as they straightened away, the great horse won by three lengths with his head around to his side, Fly second, a length before Dunboy, who beat The Sinner a head. Time, 1:02½. Magnet was at 9 to 10, Fly 12, Dunboy 15, The Sinner 9 to 5, others 15 to 80 to 1.

SPECIAL DEPARTMENT

JOSEPH CAIRN SIMPSON.

DISTRICT FAIRS.—There are good reasons to believe that the appropriation for the District Fairs will be granted.

When the sentiment of such a large majority of the people of California is so strongly in favor of retaining to the old practice, when the arguments in opposition are so weak, that virtually there is only one side to the question, it does seem that the bill should be carried. There also appears to be a well-founded opinion that Governor Budd will not interpose a veto and if he should that there will be the requisite number of affirmative votes to make it a law. "Consistency" has been called a jewel and a person may imagine that when a route has once been followed the same course must always be pursued, but surely the proper word will be the obduracy.

From the report of the debate on Tuesday last there is danger of misconception, and that the action of the Sacramento people in declining an appropriation for a District Fair has been misconstrued. The proper explanation undoubtedly is that the State Fair is held to be sufficient and that is certainly the case, as a district exhibition on the same grounds would be, to say the least, superfluous.

It may be that it was thought that by separating the appropriations there would be a guard against a veto in relation to the State Fair, but that would be dangerous, likely to increase animosities which are not entirely allayed. In case the appropriation for District Fairs is defeated by a veto there is a likelihood of serious opposition to that for the State Fair. The remarks of Mr. Belsaw lead to that belief as he was quite emphatic in his comments, one of his sentences: "At the last session the country members were hoodwinked into voting for the State Fair appropriations when the Sacramento members knew that the Governor was going to veto those for the District Fairs."

Whatever may be the result I sincerely hope that the State Fair will not be made to suffer from action which the people of Sacramento and the managers of the State Fair cannot control.

There was a prevailing impression, however, that the State Fair people were inimical to the District Associations, and though there is little doubt of the belief being erroneous, should there be anything which could be twisted into a semblance of antagonism, on the part of the Sacramento members to the country fairs, the old feeling would be intensified.

The reference to the "Ways and Means Committee, with instructions to report an amendment containing such amounts as may be considered best for the several agricultural districts," I fondly hope will lead to beneficial results. The language quoted implies that the "several agricultural districts" will be looked after, and that there will be few, if any, reductions made in the list as published in the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN last Saturday.

That the minor districts will secure attention, as well as the larger, is my fervent anticipation. There is no question but that every dollar granted is a wise investment on the part of the State, and the good which comes from the encouragement of all kinds of farming pursuits, and other resources of the country, cannot be ignored.

In connection with racing the appropriations are significant. Only, however, so far as in furnishing places where races can be given. As is well known there is a specific purpose to which the money granted has to be applied. Not a dollar for racing and with stringent guards against the money being diverted from the legitimate purpose.

In connection with racing there is another point for consideration.

Were the appropriations granted with a clause in the law that racing should be forbidden, there would be comparative failure. There must be other attractions than show rings and pavilion displays to bring out a full attendance. Nothing like contests between horses to effect that purpose, and this has been shown so often that there are few observers who fail to recognize the truth of the claim.

EXPLANATORY.—An invitation received from George L. Frankenstein, chairman of the committee New York Press Club, to attend a complimentary dinner tendered to Col. S. D. Bruce by the club, was received too late for any other response excepting by telegraph.

The answer was, of course, curtailed to a few words and that was rendered still more ambiguous by the subtraction of one word. The telegram as published was:

"Jubilate! California sends greetings. Right recognized. Viva Press Club."

The omission was la after viva to bring it within the prescribed ten words. Even with that there is necessity for an explanation.

As is well-known the A. J. C. has endeavored to obtain the control of registration and to make that effective has sought to require that all registration which would secure the right to race on courses under the sway of the A. J. C. should be under its control. This was a direct infringement on the rights of the compiler of the American Stud Book, and as I was well aware that it was an unwarranted trespass on the domain of a man who had spent nearly all his life on the work which was endangered, felt that the attempt should be rebuffed in the strongest terms. The invitation from the New York Press Club appeared to be a justification of Col. Bruce and denunciatory of those who sought to steal his property, and hence my intentions were to endorse the action of the Press Club as emphatically as a few words would express.

Therefore "Jubilate," an exclamation of joy and approval; "California sends greetings," that the whole State shared in the sentiment of the sender; "Right recognized," that the action of the New York Press Club was an endorsement of Colonel Bruce's proprietary interest, and "Viva la Press Club," a tribute due the club for its advocacy of the veteran journalist as shown by the "testimonial dinner" in his honor.

The action of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN in relation to the Emmons bill is so well known that explanation is unnecessary. In clear opposition without qualification or "mental reservation." The articles I have written are equally emphatic, and when I learned on Saturday last that I was quoted as favoring the same line I could not understand how there should be such a misconception.

A friend suggested the solution that it was articles written some years ago, when there was an entirely different condition of affairs.

It would take more time than I can give to look over all the articles I have written about the questions connected with racing, but so far as I can recall there is nothing which will conflict with my present views.

Quite well-known that there are features of modern racing which I do not admire, and had I the power to make changes these would be made with great readiness.

But individual opinion should not prevail over a large majority which hold contrary views, and the question—supreme above all others—is how shall the many interests connected with racing be best subserved?

The provisions embodied in the Emmons bill are far from protecting, in fact, would be such a serious blow to all kinds of racing, and the interests connected therewith, especially harness racing, that it would take years to overcome the drawback.

Were winter racing prohibited, that is, such a series of meetings as are now in progress at Ingleside and Emeryville, or limited to thirty days on each course, these grand race courses would have to be closed.

In order to secure the attendance of Eastern horses, the races must be fixed for a season of the year when racing cannot be carried on in the Eastern country. In order to give California horses a chance to participate in the large Eastern meetings that will also necessitate an opportunity for them to race in both sections of the country. The claim that harness racing is interfered with by winter running racing cannot be substantiated.

There are only a few months in the year in California when harness racing can be profitably conducted, and these months are those which the agreement between the P. C. J. C. and C. J. C. leave open for fairs and harness racing. Either of the fine racecourses can be obtained for trotting meetings.

That is a part of the agreement between the clubs, and hence tracks and grounds are within the reach of fairs and trotting clubs. And these of such a class that it is safe to say that there is not a single place in the United States where harness racing will be as well provided for. Every "trotting man" I have conversed with agrees with me on this question, viz., that the passage of the Emmons bill would be a disaster.

It may be that articles I have written, under different conditions, may, apparently, sustain the claim made, may in fact present strong arguments for limiting the time of meetings, etc., but at the present time the only course for those who have the future interests—great interests they are—at heart will be a strenuous opposition to the Emmons bill.

RACES, FOUR MILES.—There is no disguising the fact that the race for the Thornton Stakes was a decided failure, and not at all surprising that people should come to the conclusion that the day of long-distance racing had passed.

But if there is closer inspection, a careful survey of the incidents connected with the race, this view may be changed, and in place of relegating the prime attraction of the turf to the "limbo of the past," there are good reasons for the belief that its popularity will be sustained. In the first place the weather for a month previous to the race was such as to put proper exercise for that distance out of the question. "Condition" is such an absolute requirement to run four miles, at even a slow pace, that it is the prime factor, and however stoutly bred, however great the capacity to rate along at good speed, with plenty of brush left when called upon, if "order" be lacking there will be an inferior performance.

There is no question of the popularity of long-distance races with the "general public." Without expectation of a good race, that is, when it is well known that the field will be small, and with other drawbacks there will be a large attendance. That was proved Saturday last and there is little risk in asserting that the large concourse of people was chiefly attracted by the long race. Better, too, if the time fixed had been nearer the close of the racing season. The chances for better weather would be greatly increased and the antipathy of trainers to engage in long races, in a great measure, overcome.

This, I think will be proved by the four mile race to come off at Ingleside, and with the conditions generally favorable there is small risk, indeed, in prophesying the largest attendance of the season when the four milers are marshalled on the course by the ocean.

THE HORSE SHOW.—That there is a strong feeling among the breeders, owners and trainers of trotting and pacing horses in favor of the Horse Show has been exemplified ever since the passage of the resolution at the Annual Meeting of the P. C. T. H. B. A.

Every member of the association I have conversed with on the topic has endorsed the resolution and signified a willingness to do all in their power to promote the interests of the Horse Show.

There was a full meeting of the Board of Directors of the P. C. T. H. B. A. on Tuesday last, and as an earnest of good-will a general committee was named to aid in securing the co-operation of the breeders throughout the State. The object in embodying so many in the committee was to have agents in all parts of the State who would do all in their power to secure entries to the next exhibition, and anything else that would promote the interests depending. While it is a long time before the results of the work will be known it is none too early to commence. In the first place the officers of the Horse Show Association will be encouraged to give another exhibition when it is known that those who had not taken an active part in former exhibitions realized the importance of the show to all of the horse-breeding interests of the State, and in place of lukewarmness are ready to do all in their power to make every department a decided success, especially that section which heretofore has not come up to expectations, viz.: the American light-harness horse. As will be seen by the appended list there are members of the general committee in nearly every section of California, with the assurance that every one will do effective work.

The intention of the P. C. T. H. B. A. is to add a supplemental committee—a conference committee it can be called—to act with the officers of the S. F. H. S. A. in regard to the department in which the first-named association is the most deeply interested. This will be limited to a few who will act as advisory counsel in matters relating to the light-harness division, and there is no question that such a committee will be acceptable to the Horse Show managers.

The desire on all sides will be to remove obstacles in the way of inducing entries, and that there will be harmonious action is assured.

There is only one main point to consider, that being the Horse Show of 1897; how shall it be made so successful as to insure it being a fixed annual event in San Francisco? General co-operation the answer. With united action on the part of horse breeders and horse owners, a full exhibition all through, the assurance of a sufficient number of entries to warrant "minimizing expenses" of exhibitors, in short, the cordial support of those who are vitally interested in its success, and there need be no apprehensions for the future.

The list of members of the general committee has a peculiar significance. Every one owners of trotters or pacers, quite a proportion breeders, several of them on a large scale. More than safe to assert that hereafter there will be no lack of entries in the light-harness horse department of the show and with a corresponding increase in all the departments:

Nutwood Wilkes 2:16 1-2.

Nutwood Wilkes 2:16½, whose advertisement appears on another page, was bred by Mr. Martin Carter of the Nutwood Stock Farm and foaled in 1888. He obtained a three-year-old record of 2:20½, which he lowered last year to 2:16½ in a hard fought race, being dead lame at the time, thus proving plainly the staunchness of his bloodlines and his own individual bulldog gameness.

Under most judicious care and handling during the past winter he appears at present one of the grandest specimens of our modern progressively bred trotting stallions in California, with a fair chance to obtain a mark of 2:10 or better later in the season.

Kingly grand in his noble appearance, still he seems to be overshadowed by his progeny, six of which are with him undergoing their preparation for the coming campaign. A more promising lot of youngsters it would be hard to find anywhere. Endowed with all the exacting qualifications of race horses, and with all the grace and quality of aristocrats, they stamp their sire as a stallion who has the most valued inheritance of any: That of reproducing himself strongly and unmistakably in all of his sterling and much prized traits. He is surely a horse who by this very showing, not only deserves the liberal patronage of our up-to-date horsemen, but ought to be patronized from an economic point of view, because his colts are here to show for him and themselves that he is capable of reproducing racehorses of the first quality who outstrip all others in their beauty of conformation and disposition.

Remember such horses will always sell. His fee is very low and should bring him a fair number of approved mares.

ALL the horses on the Chico Stock Farm are doing well. Barney Simpson will have several by Arthur Wilkes 2:28 (that he is handling) on the California Circuit.

TRAINER JAMES NOLAN, of California, who succeeded John Kelly at Eastview Farm, left Mr. Butler's service a short time ago and intends to return to California.

F. C. SABLES of Providence, R. I., was the purchaser of Sable Wilkes, 2:18, for $1,900; this gentleman also purchased that splendid mare Ellen Mayhew, 2:22, dam of Oro Wilkes, 2:11.

KOHLAN KING, the son of the great Simmocolon, 2:13½, out of Sybil, 2:27, by Sidney, 2:19½, the only trotting representative of the great Wilkes-Sidney cross on this coast will be advertised in our next issue to stand for the season.

TECURA dropped a fine black colt by Altamont, 2:26 on the 19th inst., at Jay Beach's place, Alameda. This youngster is a brother to Chehalis 2:07½, Del Norte 2:08, Tonchet 2:15, etc. The mare will be bred again to Altamont.

DR. G. W. STIMPSON has a new method of firing and treating horses requiring that operation, which is highly praised by those who have had it tried. One important feature is, the patient does not require to be laid up for months.

MR. J. B. McFERRAN is now sole owner of Foundation Stud, Crescent Hill, Ky., having recently purchased the interest of his former partner, Mr. W. P. Clancy. Foundation Stud Farm will send out a good stable of campaigners, including the great Tommy Britton, 2:15½.

THE well-known American trainer, Horace Brown, will enter Azmon, 2:13½, for the trotting meeting at Nice. Mattie H., 2:11½, will be served by Patchen Wilkes' son Favors, and Trevilian, 2:08½, by Young Jim, will stand for ten approved mares at the Haidof Stock Farm, close to Baden, near Vienna.

WORK on the long wide boulevard from the Golden Gate Park to Ingleside will soon be commenced. When it is completed it will be one of the finest driveways near San Francisco. The work will be done entirely by the hundreds of hardworking men who have been out of employment all winter.

THE distribution of the weight upon the heels and the toe is dependent upon the length and obliquity of the pastern and the relative height of the heel and toe. The longer and more oblique the pattern, the greater the strain upon the tendons and the heels; and vice versa. The proportion in height between the heels and the toe explains itself.

A MAGNIFICENT grain crop is expected this year and prices will probably be good. The Hanford Democrat says that many farmers in Tulare county are already making contracts with owners of teams that will be needed in harvesting the crop, as they fear that there will be a scarcity of men and teams at harvest time and that wages will be advanced at that time. Prosperity is ahead for the farmers.

MR. WALLACE's theory that a stallion should be in the pink of condition for a race to be qualified to beget his first foal was pretty in conception but dead against experience. Many a sire has got his best race horses when shrunken and decrepit with age, as though nature, being about to take him away, was providing to perpetuate his best qualities. The Arab has put his experience into the proverb that "a stallion is never too old nor a mare too young to produce the best foal."

I EARNESTLY hope my subscribers and advertisers will not think I have anything to do with the methods used by F. W. Kelley or the Pacific Law and Collection Company to collect any bills owing the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN. The Jas. P. Kerr estate, under F. W. Kelley's management, notified all delinquents that they were in arrears through attorneys and collectors; then the accounts passed into the hands of this collection agency, which is pursuing exactly the same methods, which, by the way, do not meet with my approval. WM. G. LAYNG.

JOHN R. GENTRY, 2:00½, the champion pacing stallion of the world, gets several Morgan crosses through the dam of his grandsire, Red Wilkes. Joe Patchen, 2:03, the only animal that has yet made a record of 2:04½ to harness over a half-mile track gets a Morgan cross through his dam, a daughter of Joe Young, 2:18, by Star of the West, 2:26½, son of Flying Cloud, by Vermont Black Hawk. Jupe, which holds the two-year-old trotting race record, 2:13½, gets the Morgan strain through his sire, Allie Wilkes, 2:15, son of Red Wilkes, and his second dam was by Frank Wolford, son of Telegraph, by Vermont Black Hawk.

WHEN the meeting closed at Lexington, the announcement was made that Marcus Daly would have only China Silk 2:16½ raced in 1897, but he has since sent to Ben Kenney five other richly-bred youngsters which should trot fast. In addition to China Silk, who was last year's great two-year-old filly, Kenney will train Wilderness, brother to Practical (3) 2:19½, being by Prodigal, out of Fanny Witherpoon 2:16½; Red Tape, two year old sister to China Silk; Redivivia, a two-year-old filly by Prodigal, out of Red Cherry 2:14½; Postmaster, two-year-old brother to Journeyman (2) 2:21½, and Limerick, a two-year-old by Prodigal out of Annie Wilton by Wilton.

A NEW organization for trotting and running has been effected at Denver, Col. It will be called the Overland Racing Association. The capital stock is placed at $10,000. The officers are: President, B. H. DuBois; Vice-President, Frank Smith; Treasurer, John D. Ross, and Secretary, Arnold Manns. The list of directors including the following names: Thomas Johnson, D. J. Sayre, Charles Roberts, Francis Smart, William Maher, John D. Ross, J. G. Morgan, B. H. DuBois, Arnold Manns, Frank Smith and R. R. Wright. The races are to be held at Overland Park, beginning June 5th and continuing to June 12th inclusive. Races under the auspices of the association will also be held at Colorado Springs, beginning May 29th and continuing four days.

ON March 12th Palo Alto will send a rich consignment of trotting stock to New York to be sold March 25-26, in charge of F. W. Covey, Superintendent of the Farm. The yearling sister of Azmon is in the lot, and Adabelle, the two-year-old sister of Adbell, yearling record 2:23, should attract much attention. Adeline, bay colt, three years old, by Advertiser, out of Columbine, will be offered. Elaine, the great producing daughter of Green Mountain Maid, will be represented by a bay filly one year old, by Altivo, brother of Palo Alto 2:08½. Lola Wilkes, dam of Advertiser, will contribute Lydar, a chestnut filly two years old, by Dexter Prince, and Manette, dam of the $125,000 trotter Arion, will have Parion, by Palo Alto. From Mollie Cobb, dam of Cobwebs, will come a bay gelding three years old, by Lottery, and Sontag Mohawk will be represented by Colma, 2:25½, by Electioneer. The blood lines are the richest owned at Palo Alto.

ED A. TIPTON, during the past fortnight, has purchased the following brood mares at private sale, at prices that show that the horse business is steadily growing better: Eoline 2:14½, h. m., foaled 1890, by Anteeo 2:16½, dam Myriad 2:28, by Stranger; second dam Myra, by Gen. Knox. Wiltonamee, h. m., foaled 1889, by Wilton 2:19½, dam Kate (dam of Isabelle 2:17), by Prince Almont; second dam Patchienne (dam of Prince Albert 2:26), by Mambrino Patchen; hied to Bow Bells. American Beauty, h. m., foaled 1891, by Norval 2:14½, dam Santa Claus (dam of Vatican 2:18, and four more better than 2:30), by Magir; second dam Josie Bailey (dam of Mistleton 2:30), by Gen. George H. Thomas; bred to Onward. Attractive Wilton, h. m., foaled 1892, by Wilton 2:19½, dam Trussella, by Dictator; second dam Molly, by Trussell (dam Trouseau 2:28½), by Pilot Jr. Rosebud Russell, ch. m., foaled 1891, by Lord Russell, dam Tube Rose, by Nutwood; second dam Moss Rose, (dam of Nutrose 2:22, etc.), by Mambrino; third dam Primrose. Princetta Miller, h. m., foaled 1893, by Princeton 2:19½, dam Myra, by Mambrino; second dam Dolly Spanker, by George Wilkes. Wilspra, h. m., foaled 1893, by Wilton 2:19½, dam Edna Sprague (dam of Blameless 2:19½), by Governor Sprague; second dam Lucille 2:21, by Exchequer (thoroughbred). Eudoxia Hume (sister to Isa Belle 2:17), h. m., foaled 1894, by Jay Bird, dam Kate (dam of Isa Belle 2:17), by Prince Almont; second dam Patchienne (dam of Prince Albert 2:26), by Mambrino Patchen. Myrilla Hume, h. m., foaled 1894, by Young Jim, dam Trixie Hume, by Bourbon Wilkes; second dam Kate (dam of Isa Belle 2:17), by Prince Belmont. Herlene, h. m., foaled 1895, by Young Jim, dam Verina, by Lord Russell; second dam Vara (dam of Vatican), by Hambletonian 10. Scarlet Ink, h. m., foaled 1895, by Red Wilkes, dam Miss Lane (dam of Miss Wilton, 2:25), by Mambrino Patchen; second dam Miss Carey, by Almont.

L. H. MCINTOSH, of Chico, Cal., one of the foremost horse breeders of Northern California, writes: "In your discovery of the sale of the mare Alexandria at my brother's sale in 1886 you have referred to her relationship to that wonderful trotter Oro Wilkes 2:11. I remember the mare well. She was bred by A. Calden of Princeton, Colusa county, and sold with two other colts at the Reavis sale by John Boggs, Esq., and bought by my brother. Mr. Calden came to me some time after the sale and wanted me to induce my brother to let him have this mare, saying that it was not the intention to have her sold, the idea was to have Mr. Boggs bid her in for him. My brother sold the mare to D. M. Reavis of Chico. I do not know anything of the horse, Black Prince. Perhaps someone in Colusa county or, perhaps, Mr. Boggs can give you information about the horse and the mare." With this to work on we would like to hear from some of our subscribers in that part of California.

THERE is an excellent half-tone of Agitato 2:09½, published in the last issue of The Western Horseman. Agitato divides honors with King of Diamonds as the world's champion three-year-old gelding, both of them having taken their records of 2:09½ during the season of 1896. Agitato has been a remarkable young race horse. He is by Steinway, dam Tone, by Ferguson 8015, and was bred by John F. Boyd, Oakwood Park Stock Farm Danville. As a two-year-old he took a record of 2:18, which, as a three-year-old, in the stable of Winship & Keating, he reduced to 2:09½, on two occasions. He made ten starts during the season, all save two in aged classes, winning eight firsts and two seconds. He is now owned by Mr. Charles A. Winship, who also owns Ottinger, 2:09½; Gazette, 2:11½; Asta, 2:12; Lady Walstein, 2:15; Lady Grace, 2:15½; and others, the firm of Winship & Keating having had out the greatest stable on the Pacific coast in 1896.

EX-SECRETARY ED A. TIPTON, of the Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders' Association, left last Sunday for Anaconda, Montana, where he will have his headquarters in future. Charley Treacy, son of Capt. B. J. Treacy, goes with him as his private secretary. Charley is a clever, capable and accommodating young gentleman and will serve Mr. Tipton well. The Morning Herald, of Lexington, in speaking of Mr. Tipton's departure, says: "Lexington will lose to-day an adopted citizen and his family, than whom no one could make a greater void to both friends and business associates. Mr. Ed A. Tipton and his family leave to-day for Anaconda, Mont., where Mr. Tipton assumes control of Mr. Daly's interests. Mr. Tipton came from Parace here some years ago and brought his bride, nee Frazier, of Woodford county, and they have won the affection and admiration of all with whom they have come in contact since the first day of their residence here. The success of Mr. Tipton as a business man has only been exceeded by his wife's success as a loving gentlewoman." Mr. Tipton will not give up his residence in this city, but will spend his winters in Lexington at his beautiful home in Fayette Park. This will be pleasant news to Mr. and Mrs. Tipton's host of friends.

THE large majority of farmers who own horses seem to be quite anxious to get rid of them, even at low prices. Where the farm is mortgaged and the horses can be spared better than anything else on the farm, this is all right, as it is better to lose the horse than the home; but where it is not, we regard it as very unwise and foolish, says the "Kentucky Stock Farm." In a country like ours, where one extreme follows another, it is not wise to float with the current or follow the herd. From 1880 to 1890 we bred entirely too many horses of all classes, and as a natural consequence we are now suffering a period of low prices. Our next predicament, if all signs do not fail, will be a great scarcity of horses. We base this opinion upon the fact that everybody is selling and that very few are breeding. We do not believe there are more than ten per cent of the horses being bred in the United States to-day that there were six years ago. This cannot possibly help but produce a great shortage, and this shortage in supply can have but one effect—namely, to increase the price. As it takes five years to produce a four-year-old, and as the time cannot be abridged by any possible means, and as the breeding began to fall off quite materially in 1893, four years ago, the shortage is bound to begin to manifest itself inside of the next two years. The produce of mares bred this season will not be four years old, or ready for market, before 1902, and between this and that time we predict that there will be a much greater shortage of horses of all kinds than has been seen in this country for many years.

W. J. WHITE has brought to Ohio and to his breeding establishment, the Two-Minute Stock Farm, the greatest son of George Wilkes, says the American Sportsman. It is Guy Wilkes 2:15½, which was bought for $5,000 at San Mateo's closing-out sale in New York. He is by far the cheapest stallion which has been bought in many years. He is to-day but eighteen years old, and is a well-preserved horse. Those who saw him in the sale ring at Madison Square Garden said that Guy Wilkes never looked so well before. From the first time John Goldsmith with the San Mateo stable, up to this year, the Guy Wilkes family has been one of the most successful on the Grand Circuit. In 1892 his get won $32,500, in 1892 the family won $22,362, while those of his son, Sable Wilkes, were $32,000. In 1894 Guy Wilkes won almost $30,000, while in 1895 their winnings were $19,000. In five years the Guy Wilkes have won $119,000 on the turf, while the get of his son Sable Wilkes have earned $62,000, making almost $200,000 which the get of this family have earned. Guy Wilkes now has fifty-two representatives in the 2:30 list. Among them are such famous race horses as Hulda 2:08½, Seymour Wilkes 2:08½, Lesa Wilkes 2:09, Muta Wilkes 2:11, Mary Best 2:12½, Hazel Wilkes 2:11½, Fred Kohl 2:12½ at three years of age, and Fred S. Moody 2:14. He is also the sire of Sable Wilkes, who at three years of age held the colt record at 2:18, and who is the sire of Freedom, the first yearling to beat 2:30, and twenty-two others in the 2:30 list. From a racing point and as the sire of winners, Guy Wilkes stands unequalled. In 1892 his daughter, Muta Wilkes, won almost $15,000, and Hulda earned close to $5,000. In 1893 Muta and Hulda won $5,000 each. In 1894 Mary Best earned over $20,000. In Guy Wilkes, Mr. White has secured a wonderful sire to place alongside of Russia in the stud. Mr. White has firm faith in the ability of the Russia mares as producers. As is well known Russia is by Nutwood, and out of the great mare Reina Victoria, and as the Nutwood mares when bred to Guy Wilkes and his sons, have produced such as Fred Kohl 2:12½, A. L. Kempland 2:18½, Vida Wilkes 2:18½ and Nutwood Wilkes 2:16½, the cross should be a very successful one.

THE SADDLE.

TOD SLECAN will ride either Belmar or The Winner in the Brooklyn Handicap.

BUMBAR, the excellent jumper, has been sent to San Jose to rest up until next fall. He will be fired shortly.

JOHN COLEMAN has purchased Boreas of Tom Woodford; consideration $530, or $50 more than the latter gave for him.

THORNHILL has run his last race, but Rey del Bandidos will soon be seen at the post, as his leg is rapidly getting better.

It was a great day for Eugene Leigh, with two wins and a second to the credit of his horses—Good Times, Suisun and Midlo respectively.

FRANK (DOC) TUBERVILLE, who rode Ogden to victory in the Futurity, has signed for the coming season with John Huffman, the St. Louis turfman.

THE race horse Abe Morris died Wednesday at the Oakland track. His heart weighed eight pounds. The dead horse was by St. Saviour and was owned by P. Siegenthaler.

THE death of the well-known turfman, Caesar Weatherford, is reported from Memphis. Last season at St. Louis he raced a stable consisting of Agol, Revenue, Bravo and other well-known horses.

LITHOS, Michael F. Dwyer's horse, is already doing good wholesome work in the way of slow moving on the Boulevard. He looks, as the trainers put it, "as fine as silk" in the way of bodily health.

W. B. SINK sold Sister Mary Saturday for $3,000 to Secretary W. S. Leake, of the P. C. J. C., supposedly acting for another gentleman. Sister Mary is not only royally-bred but has a great record of wins to her credit.

DAN HONIG has sold Minnie Cee to Barney Schreiber. She is very well bred (by Irquois—Jaconet, according to the American Stud Book, though run as by Plenipo—Jaconet), and will be added to the broodmares at Woodland.

PEARSON, the Great Tom gelding formerly owned by Barney Schreiber, won a six-furlong race in the very heavy going at New Orleans on the 16th, beating a field of seven. The same day Domingo, a black horse by imp. Darebin—Gondole, was victorious at seven furlongs.

It is a truth that V. L. Kirkman has a white thoroughbred yearling colt by Palestine—Black Girl. This anomaly in the turf world has a chestnut sire and a dam whose color is black, and if he trains on and wins as a two-year-old he will set at naught all manner of unorthodox croakings. This animal is almost snow white, not gray.

NAPAMAX, winner of the White Seal Stakes Monday, is a bay filly by the dead imp. Maxim from Napa (a stake-winner herself), by Enquirer; second dam Bandina, by imp. Bonnie Scotland; third dam Evadne, by Lexington; fourth dam Volga, by imp. Glencoe; fifth dam the dam of Vandal and the immortal Levity, by imp. Tranby.

MOPANA, victorious in the initial event yesterday, was the first of the Morellos to win. She is a bay, like her famous dead sire, from Temescal, by imp. Mariner, second dam Miss Cromwell (dam of Morello, another Morello), by Oliver Cromwell; third dam sister to Mark L., by Monday, etc. She was bred by the late Col. Harry I. Thornton.

ACCORDING to Le Jockey, published in France, W. K. Vanderhilt has registered the following colors: White jacket, white and black loops on sleeve and white cap. Mr. Vanderhilt will begin racing in 1898 with a number of two-year-olds out of the mares purchased from P. Lorillard and shipped from this country more than a year ago.

WE want it distinctly understood that it is not Wm. G. Layne the present proprietor of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN, who is trying, by threatening letters, to collect money for an agency that purports to be F. W. Kelley the bank accounts owing the J. P. Kerr estate. We disclaim any connection with such methods of collection and hope all our friends will understand the situation.

THE Hawthorne Stallion Stakes for foals of 1895 is to be decided in 1897. Secretary Kuhl states that the race will surely be run. If there is no racing in Chicago the stake will be decided on one of the outside tracks. Declarations are due at $15 each on March 1st for all horses who are not intended to participate in the stake money, and must accompany the declaration.

SUNDAY Riley Grannan, Harry Harris and Charley Quinn arrived in the city from Coronado Beach, where they had been sojourning during the Oakland meeting. Awaiting Grannan was a telegram announcing the death of his father at Paris, Ky., the latter part of last week. Mr. Grannan will not journey home, as he would be unable to reach there in time to be present at the funeral. The plunger's paternal parent has been ailing for some months and his death was not unexpected.

CHARLES SCHLUTZ, of Sacramento, has purchased the old English horse, Friar Tuck (son of Hermit and Romping Girl, by Wild Dayrell); consideration, $500. Friar Tuck is a brother to imp. Flirt (dam of Flambeau, Flirtation, Salisbury, etc.), and to imp. Fair Barbarian (dam of Amazon and Zenobia). He sired Sport McAllister, Circe, Zamloch, Quartermaster, Quicksilver and other good winners, and no Friar Tuck ever appeared in public that was not "afflicted with speed." He's worth three times the sum paid, if he only gets two or three colts from good mares.

WILLIE SIMS, the jockey, got himself into trouble Monday night after the first race. The Dwyer jockey accused Thorpe of trying to unseat him in the humping match between Snowdown and Tar and Tartar. The argument began in the weighing-room, and when Clerk of the Scales Kohl called Sims to order he was exceedingly impertinent. His badge was taken up, and probably further action will be taken unless the jockey placates the clerk of the scales with an ample apology. Even in that case he will probably not get off scot free. Success may have swelled Willie's head.

AL KORAN, a rather leggy brown colt that showed quite a lot of speed in the fourth race Saturday, is the first of the get of imp. Duncombe to race in America. The horse had good winners in Ireland last season though.

WE would respectfully suggest that the management get up two or three specials for named horses in the near future with $600 to the first horse, $125 to second and $75 to third in each. They would attract tremendous crowds these beautiful days, and be interesting in the extreme besides. How would a race go at a mile, weights seven pounds below the scale, between Good Times, Scarf Pin, Caspar, Greyhurst, Estaca, Aquinas and Indio? Or a half-mile race between The Cheat, Sir William, Napamax, Hermosa and Outlay? Or a five and one-half furlong run with Quicksilver, Fly, Preston, Tea Rose, Moylan, Casper, Summertime and The Sinner as starters?

If present indications count for anything, Montana will be visited by a host of horsemen from California this summer. A week or so ago Dan Honig announced that he would race there if Magnet and Zamar are in condition, and the chances are favorable. Now comes the news that A. B. Spreckels will send a string to Montana in charge of George Berry and Galen Brown. The latter will take along Lihertine and run him in all the stakes. On those hard tracks it will take a Hindoo to beat him. Mr. Spreckels will probably send Foremost, Pat Murphy, Marcel, Tulare and some 2-year-olds. A horse like Pat Murphy will make a useful animal in Montana, too.

It seems by a statement from the highest turf authorities that the Dorsey case is far from being settled. The temporary injunction case against the License Committee of the Turf Congress was dissolved. Such is the statement of Secretary Hopper of the Turf Congress, and to that effect, it is said, the Crescent City Jockey Club of New Orleans—which is not now a member of the Turf Congress—has been notified. The Dorsey case promises to be a celebrated one. If present plans are followed Mr. Johnson's entries will be refused by all Turf Congress tracks and New Orleans disjoined from what connection it has with the Turf Congress. Jockey Dorsey will not be granted a license for 1897 by the Turf Congress License Committee.—Daily Racing Form.

ROSEY MURPHY, the chestnut colt that came from sixth position in the homestretch and wound up second to another Rancho del Paso bred one, Hermosa, is the first of imp. Kismet's get to race in America. This horse Kismet is by Melton (winner of Derby) from Kisherina, by Kisher (winner of the Derby); second dam Palace, by Macaroni (winner of the Derby); third dam Queen Marion, by King Tom (half-brother to Stockwell and Katanpaul). His fifth dam was a sister to Blink Bonnie, sixth dam old Queen Mary (dam of Blink Bonnie, winner of Derby and Oaks, and of Blinkhoolie, imp. Bonnie Scotland and others), by Gladiator. It looks as if Kismet (who is now but six years old) is more than likely to make a sire. He has a double cross of Sweetmeat, sire of Macaroni. This strain was also in Brutus, imp. Macaroni, Morello, Sir Modred and other horses of note.

ED RYAN, who manages the Whitten Bros.' farm at Wilmington, Illinois, says that the youngsters by Al Farrow showed up so well last year and this winter that they have purchased the horse from L. H. E. Smith and will use him in the stud. Al Farrow was quite a sensational horse in California turf history a few years ago, says the Examiner. He and Geraldine lowered the State record at a mile at San Jose. Afterwards he got into trouble at the old Bay District track and several people were ruled off. Big Smith appeared on the scene and purchased the horse. He took him East with Longshot and was fairly successful, winning a number of races. When Pate started the City of Mexico track, Smith went down, and afterwards took Al Farrow to that country. Prior to then Whitten Bros. had bred some mares to him, which resulted in several winners, the best probably being a two-year-old, now three, called Al. Whitten sent to Mexico last fall and purchased the horse, who is now at the Whitten farm. He is by Conner, son of Norfolk, out of Della Walker, and was bred by Mart Walters, in Lake county, Or.

MR. ROBERT L. STEVENS, of Hoboken, New Jersey, has sent a valuable consignment of broodmares to the stock farm of Mr. P. S. Hunter, of Essex county, Virginia, where it is proposed to raise thoroughbreds for the road and the hunting field. The climate, soil and water of that region combine to render it most advantageous for raising horses of vigorous constitution and fine development, and Messrs. Stevens and Hunter have already a choice collection of broodmares and young horses. Among the lot recently sent by Mr. Stevens is a superb filly by Salvador, out of Millie by Billet. This filly was purchased at the New York sale of Mr. Haggin in 1896, and in form and development does full credit to her distinguished parentage. We are pleased to note this departure. It is in line with what we have been advocating for years, viz: that the breeding of thoroughbreds and trotters for racing purposes solely is not the only purpose of the blood horse. True it is that the race course and trotting tracks are great agents for developing the young horse. The tendency has been, however, to lose sight of the fact that the racing quality should be a means to an end, rather than the chief and only desideratum.—Rider and Driver.

THE following dispatch came from Chicago, Ill., last night: A combination of gamblers which has for weeks been heating the poolrooms and hand books made a winning day of about $30,000. The poolrooms that suffered were: Arthur Webb's place, the places of John Condon and James O'Leary at Roby and Washington Heights, and the small books which have been doing a hand business about town. The winning combination was headed by the Ryans, Tom and Ed, whose operations have for the last year been directed mainly against the Kentucky and Ohio tracks about Cincinnati. Yesterday the combination camped with all its money on Ferrier in the fourth race at San Francisco, and on Ondagne in the third race at New Orleans, and as a result practically swept out all the available coin that remained in the hands of the purveyors of orders after their run of three weeks of "tough luck." Conservative sporting men about town place the estimate upon the amount won by the combination at $30,000, of which the Roby and Washington Heights books lost nearly half, while Arthur Webb is said to have suffered a third of the losses with the remainder divided between the recently opened book at Elmhurst and the hand books about town.

BOREAS is worth about three times the $300 Tom Woodford paid for him for a stock horse, even if he never wins another race, simply because his breeding is exceptionally good and his record of wins is considerably above the average. He was a stake colt at two, a frequent winner at three, was retired for nearly a year, and now, at five, can win in moderate company in the heavy going. Boreas' sire is Eolian (son of Eolus and Calash, by imp. Phaeton), dam Ordance (dam of War Peake), by War Dance, second dam Bonnie Kate, by imp. Knight of St. George; third dam Eagle, by Zenith; fourth dam Eagletta, by Grey Eagle, etc.

THE American Turf Congress law in regard to trainers paying a $10 license will be strictly enforced at Ilogleside, and some tall hustlings now being done by those unfortunate enough not to possess that amount. Even would-be trainers must procure licenses. Marty Bergen, who has been training his own string for over a year, says he was never accused of being a trainer, as he has not had a winner. He thinks that trainers ought to be like jockeys, allowed to train until they send a winner under the wire, but his argument did not hold good. The license fund is said to go to the Disabled Jockey Fund. Most of the trainers would prefer it to go to the unemployed or worn out trainers. There is some reason in it, too, for trainers have all the care and responsibility, and earn only a fraction of what jockeys do.

LAST season the Montana racing circuit continued forty-one days. This year it will be expanded to fifty days at Anaconda and twenty-nine at Butte. The towns are 27 miles apart. Denver and Colorado Springs will hold meetings before those of Montana. Some twenty racing stakes, from $1,000 to $1,500 guaranteed value, will be offered for the Anaconda and Butte meetings. The racing at each will be mixed, the harness horses having their share of the prizes. There is but a superficial idea of the Montana enterprise. Last spring the Anaconda and Butte tracks and their equipments were mere ruins. Some $150,000 was spent under Ed Tipton's management and upon his idea of what they should be. They earned a profit in 1896. A novel plan will be put in operation of the two 1897 Montana meetings. This and that track talks of mutual betting. The Butte and Anaconda management has gone to actually about the mutual system. Both tracks will manage their own betting this year. The machines and tickets have been bought and shipped to Montana already. Only the mutual system will be used. Its result will be of interest to lovers of racing in America.

OLIVIA L., who was sold the other day by Mike Clancy to F. H. Hickok, ran away at the Fair Grounds yesterday, and narrowly escaped doing herself injury. Clancy says he intends to go home to New York in a few days. He is quite a character, this man Clancy, the possessor of a mellifluous brogue and a fund of amusing stories, which he tells well under proper encouragement. The mention of hard luck in a group of race-horse people is sure to precipitate a comparison of experiences. Clancy became involved in one of those symposiums the other day. "Hard luck," he said contemptuously. "Talk about hard luck! Two min went out on the Aist river in a boat. Wan iv'em could swim as far as the naked eye could reach, while dudher wan couldn't swim a shthroke. Well, he the same token, the boat upset, and the wan that could swim went to the bottom of the Aist river, and shayed ther until they come after him wid grapplin' hooks, and the looky devil that couldn't swim was saved. Now how do yez account fer that? "I used to have a shtaod in the Wash'ton market, 'longside o' Hughey McCarren. Hughey got rich while me and the Dootchman on dudher side got poor. Devil a wan o' me knows how it was, but I used to buy more cahages than I could, while Hughey could more'n he bought."

IT TOOK the great rider, Charley Wood, rival of Fred Archer, nine years to get another license from the English Jockey Club. All this time he has been purging himself of his offense, and during all that long period no word of complaint from him has ever reached the public ear. Like a wise man, he bowed to authority, and by thus taking his punishment without a murmur he has attained the coveted license which, if he had rebelled, would probably never have been restored to him. Wood is now a man of 43 years of age, too old, according to American ideas, to be able to do himself justice in the saddle. England has, however, had many jockeys who maintained their prestige till long past this age.—Tom Cannon, George Fordham, Jim Guster, John Osborne who rode when he was past 69; Fred Weather, Cundance, Constable, and, in former generations, the renowned "artists," Frank Buckle and Sam Chifney. And Wood has taken the best of care of himself throughout this period of probation, training continuously, so that to day he can ride at 116 pounds. What money a jockey can earn is well illustrated by the fact that at a moderate computation Charley Wood is $250,000 poorer than he would have been had he been able to ride all these years. He was always in great demand, and it is a low estimate to put his income at $25,000 a year. And already it is stated that Wood has an engagement for the coming season, his likely employer being the owner who races under the name of Mr. Theohalds, with colors of "red jacket, green sash."

THE Tampa winning at Iron Hill Md., is certainly a mysterious one. The Daily Racing Form of Chicago has this to say of the matter: There is a ghost story from California going the rounds. It declares May W., a good three-year-old, to have been used as Tampa at Iron Hill January 22d last. There is some support for the allegation that the Californian Tampa and the mare that won at Iron Hill are one and the same. At Iron Hill Tampa raced as an aged mare by Chesapeake, dam by Monte Cristo. The Californian Tampa was on the cards as a hay mare aged by Chesapeake—Mazorka. The stud book falsifies the latter pedigree. The California statement, however, that Tampa ran as a maiden at Iron Hill will not "do." In her winning race January 22 she beat Lady Frances, Tom Harding and five others, none of whom were maidens. If Tampa was so used the fable about a winning of $40,000 over her from Iron Hill race is "out of line." The times are not such as to yield $40,000 over such a race. At the most from $5,000 to $8,000 was netted. The mare is said to be owned by W. Matlock, an Oregon politician, who was formerly a State Senator. Frank Starker, a Western trainer, had Tampa in charge. He left the Oakland track about January 1. Tampa was ridden by Miller and entered as owned by R. Baker at Iron Hill. She ran after her win on February 1 and was easily beaten. The ridiculous corner of the story is that which makes Tampa, an aged mare—she is seven—the duplicate of May W. It will not wash in any kind of water.

THE old book accounts owing the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN which remained in the possession of F. W. Kelley, administrator of the J. P. Kerr estate, were not purchased by Messrs. Layng & Moore when the paper was bought by them May 9th, 1896, because the price asked was deemed too exorbitant. Mr. Kelley, at the administrators sale last Saturday, disposed of them to a collection agency. In reply to many inquiries from those notified by this agency, the undersigned wishes it understood that he has nothing to do with the collection of these accounts, either directly or indirectly, and desires to inform all subscribers that the largest amount they can possibly owe him for subscription is $3.00, while very few of the advertisers are in arrears. Important Meeting of the P. C. T. H. B. A.

A meeting of the Board of Directors of the Pacific Coast Trotting Horse Breeders' Association was held last Wednesday to canvass the prospect for harness racing for the coming season and to consider a series of stakes for colts to be given at the next race meeting of the association. The opinion prevailed that this season would be a better one than last year and the Association will come forward later on with a liberal programme for all classes of trotters and pacers expecting a large entry list. The restoration of the appropriations to the District Fairs will do much towards increasing the number of race meetings and encouraging owners to train a larger number of horses. The outlook is better all around than it was a year ago and if the Districts will get to work and declare their intention of giving good meetings, we can confidently expect a time once more when the horse-men will make money.

The Association will offer a series of colt stakes with added money for two and three year old trotters and pacers for this year, which are as follows:

COLT STAKES—TROTTING.

No. 1.—Palm Alto Stakes, for two-year-olds, trotters, $50 each, the Association to add $250; $5 to nominate April 1st, 1897; $10 second payment, June 1st 1897; $10 third payment August 1st 1897 and $25 to start, payable before 4 o'clock P. M. the day before the race is to take place.

No. 2.—Oakwood Park Farm Stakes, free for all three-year-olds, trotters, $50 each, the Association to add $300, entrance same as for No. 1.

No. 3.—Palace Hotel Stakes, for three-year-olds, trotters, 3:00 class, $50 each, the Association to add $300, entrance same as for No. 1.

COLT STAKES—PACING.

No. 4.—Western Stakes, for two-year-olds, pacers, $50 each, the Association to add $250, entrance same as for No. 1.

No. 5.—California Stakes, free for all, three-year-olds, $50 each, the Association to add $300, entrance same as for No. 1.

No. 6.—Pacific Stakes, for three-year-olds, pacers, 3:00 class, $50 each, the Association to add $300, entrance same as for No. 1.

Stakes of this kind are what we need to encourage our breeders and keep them in the business. The Board also decided to offer a "Futurity Stakes" for foals of 1897 to trot and pace at two and three years old, the particulars of which will be announced and advertised in this paper later on. The Futurity Stakes will close after the colt stakes of this year. The payments on all of these stakes will be made as easy as possible, so that nominators will not have to pay much money in advance. The Board also appointed a committee from among the members of the Association to act in conjunction with the Horse Show Association in advancing the interests of the harness horse business on this coast, and promoting the exhibit of horses at the Horse Show, as will be seen by an article in Mr. Simpson's department of this issue.

Ideal Racing Park Meeting.

This is the last day for the making of entries to the splendid race meeting to be given by the Ideal Park Racing Association at Ideal Park, Wisconsin, May 2d. Entries will close next Monday, March 1st. There are nineteen splendid stakes for large purses and over all distances. As a large number of horse-owners who have been racing here all winter contemplate taking their horses East this summer, we know of no place that offers greater inducements than this association. The advertisement which appears in this issue should be read by everyone. This is a meeting at which everything is new and complete, and great care will be taken that visiting horsemen shall be treated courteously and their stay made pleasant.

EVERY horseowner on the Pacific who intends to take horses East should not overlook the splendid meeting to be given by the Driving Club of New York, September 6th to 11th. The purses for the 2:12, 2:17, 2:24 and 2:30 classes are for $3,000, entrance only five per cent. For the 3:00 class trot and the 3:00 class pace the purses offered are $1,000 each, while for the two-year-old, and three-year old trotters $2,000 purses are offered, and for the 2:20 and 2:09 class pacing races, the purses offered are also for $2,000. Entrance in all these has been placed at five per cent., with five per cent additional from winners. The purses are divided into four moneys, and besides these events splendid purses for various other classes will be offered. Remember entries will close March 15th. Blanks may be obtained at this office.

ENTRIES for the Ideal Park Racing Association's meeting close on Monday, March 1st.

REPORTS from all parts of California are to the effect that prospects for farmers, stock breeders, orchardists and vineyardists were never better. Thousands of acres of land that have not been cultivated for years are now covered with a mantle of tender blades of growing grain, while the hillsides and valleys have an emerald richness that betokens plenty of feed for stock of all kinds. Orchards in every direction are presenting a beautiful combination of colors, blossoms of every hue are hiding the bare limbs and branches; vines are budding everywhere, and as the owners are resting from their labors they find, in reviewing the markets of the world, that good prices will surely prevail throughout the year.

THE Coney Island Jockey Club is out with another list of special events to be decided at its meeting in June, viz.: The Coney Island Grand National Steeplechase, purse $1,500; the Bay Hurdle race, purse $1,500, and the Stirrup Cup, purse $1,500. Full conditions appear in the advertisement in this issue. Entry blanks may be obtained at this office or from any of our representatives at the Ingleside track. Entries will close March 15th.

IN the Senate last Tuesday, Senate Bill No. 90, offered by Senator Benj. F. Langford for the relief of district agricultural associations, and appropriating $52,000 for the purpose, was read. The author stated that it was a good bill and gave a brief outline of the history of the agricultural associations throughout the State. The bill was passed by a vote of 28 to 5—title approved.

UP to the time of going to press nothing further was done by the Ways and Means Committee with the District Agricultural Bill. While it was being discussed in the Legislature last Tuesday a large number of people interested in the light-harness horse industry in all parts of California were present.

COMMENCING next week we shall review the stallion list as published in the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN.

Interesting to All.

Following is an account of the proceedings in the Assembly on Tuesday relating to the bill for Agricultural Fairs:

The special order for 11 o'clock was Arnerich's 727, the District Agricultural Association Bill, which had been referred to the Committee on Agriculture pending an amendment and which was reported back with a committee amendment so framed as to take in all the other amendments so far offered. The committee amendment made a re-apportionment of districts in accordance with the amendments before them, and also recommended to the Committee on Ways and Means an appropriation for each district; a list of both is appended, though only the districts were read from the desk.

At the evening session of the Ways and Means Committee, San Francisco and Alameda were stricken out.

Further amendments being in order, Clark of Alameda inquired where Sacramento was, and moved to amend by making that county District No. 45. It was explained by Price that Sacramento county, through her representatives, had given notice that Sacramento did not desire an apportionment. Notwithstanding this, Clark, Belshaw of Contra Costa and Melick insisted that Sacramento should be included in the list. Melick going so far as to claim that the request was made only to "get a leverage on the State Fair." Valentine said he couldn't see why Alameda was so anxious to force Sacramento in where it did not want to be. It looked to him like getting a leverage to take the State Fair away. Price hoped the amendment would not be adopted. He saw no reason to force Sacramento to take what was not wanted.

Belshaw made a rather rancorous attack on Sacramento, going back to the last session, when he claimed there was bad faith on the part of the Sacramento representatives. He said they knew the Governor was about to veto the district fair appropriation bill, wanting to make a combine with the counties to get the State Fair, Sacramento ostensibly stood in for the district bill. He claimed that the other counties were "buncoed" and that Sacramento in declining the district appropriation this year was trying to play the same game again. Belshaw said he wanted the whole bill defeated as he was opposed to all kinds of fairs, but he wanted Clark's amendment carried.

Shanahan didn't like the term "buncoed"—he didn't think Sacramento had been guilty of anything of the sort. He couldn't see why Clark, who had just got a big appropriation through for the State University should want the State Fair too; he thought this was making a double fight.

Clark declared he didn't want any fair anywhere. He believed both District and State fairs should be allowed to lapse this year but if other districts were going in he wanted Sacramento there.

Sims of Sacramento, rose and in a gentlemanly fashion remarked that if it was a matter of economy he saw no reason why Sacramento should not be left out according to her own wishes.

Clark's amendment was lost and the committee amendment—as listed above—was carried.

Notwithstanding Melick's ardently expressed desire to strangle the bill at this stage of its existence it was ordered engrossed and to third reading. Toland and McClellan opposed the bill.

Price offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Ways and Means Committee be hereby instructed to consider and report as a part of the General appropriation bill an amendment containing such amounts as may be considered best for the several Agricultural Districts, Adopted.

The writer wishes to express his thanks to the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN for so thoroughly settling the breeding of the dam of Thelma 2:20½. It was a noted question East, but the pedigree furnished by the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN is universally recognized as final, and fully substantiates the pedigree given at the Goldsmith estate sale last February.

A bill has been introduced at Albany authorizing Orange County to expend $200,000 on the public roads.

At Hackensack, N. J., on Wednesday, the Bergen Co. Gun Club contested for the Recreation Cup with seventeen shooters at the traps. It was won by Sinnock, the youngest trap shooter in the State. His score was 95.

J. K. McCulloch of Winnipeg, Maine, is now the undisputed world's amateur champion skater. He won three out of four events at Montreal. His most dangerous rivals were Seyler from Switzerland, and Lordhall from Norway.

After a year or two it would now appear that Corbett and Fitzsimmons really mean business. The latter left the city yesterday for Nevada, and the former has closed his dramatic season. Mr. Daniel Stuart is entitled to the gratitude to the Eastern people for removing these men to the West. If it is to be hoped they will keep on going. It would appear Corbett has the most friends in this city, of course they will "resolve into dew" in case he is beaten.

Jockey Warren has been suspended and no entries will be received belonging to T. D. Sullivan, owner of Little Mac unless ridden by some other than Warren.

Jockey Scherer will ride for Bromley & Co. for $4,000 salary and $10 for each mount, $25 additional for winning.

Two races are to be trotted for $5,000 each, two and three-year-olds. Horses to be named June 1, 1897. Owners of all two and three-year-olds in the United States are invited to come in.

The Grand Circuit for 1897 offers purses aggregating $272,000.

The sale of Mr. Corbitt's stock attracted a large crowd at Madison Square Garden, and the prices realized were very good. The interest centered in the sale of Guy Wilkes. His introduction in his condition was unfortunate. He came on the track in a terrible shape. For some reason he appeared completely broken up. His legs were swollen, he was shrunken and dragged his hind legs as if paralyzed. It seemed an effort for him to turn, and he stood at the auction block in a listless condition. It was a hard matter to obtain the final bid of $5,000. His condition told on Sable Wilkes who brought $1,900. Eastern horsemen anticipated seeing a great horse in Guy Wilkes, their disappointment was very pronounced, and had a damaging effect on the whole sale. A breeder told me on Saturday he would bid him up to $12,000, but on seeing him Tuesday morning, told me he would not bid $1,000 and he made no bid whatever.

Lillian Russell, Della Fox and Jeff De Angelis have formed a combination and will appear in one cast. They will make their first appearances in a new comic opera entitled "The Nuptial Day."

It is stated on excellent authority that over one thousand actors and actresses are "nesting" at present in and around this city.

Oscar Hammerstein has rented the Columbus to his son Harry, and Miner has rented the People's to A. H. Sheldon.

May Standish has sued W. A. Brady for $300 salary. She was engaged to play, was assigned Iza in "The Clemenceau Case," refused to appear in the altogether, hence the suit.

Efforts are being made to convert the Fifth Avenue into a Gaiety Theatre.

"Under the Red Glove," a hurlerque on "Under the Red Robe," made a hit at Weber & Field's music hall Thursday evening. It contained many local hits.

At the Garden Theatre last evening a party of well dressed ladies and gentlemen, who were attracting a great deal of attention, were surprised when Mr. Henry Miller stopped in the middle of his lines, and coming to the foot lights exclaimed, "well ladies and gentlemen I surrender, you can make more noise than I can."

The New England Kennel Club's show at Boston closed on Friday. There were 942 entries, 225 more than last year, and the exhibition was a pronounced success financially as well.

For the coming Westminster Kennel Club's show, there are 1,647 entries. The largest number being 153 St. Bernards, fox terriers 120. The Princess Knot, a winning poodle in England, died on the voyage over. J. O. M.

Trotting Horse Outlook.

The trotting horse sales held in Kentucky last week were so much better than the horsemen anticipated that a great deal of confidence is felt in the future success of the business. There is a much better demand for highly bred young brood mares, and dealers are buying more largely. It is generally believed that the depression in the trotting horse market has reached its lowest point, and that from now on there will be an upward tendency in prices. The three gentlemen from Austria who are in Lexington to buy fast trotters and roadsters say the demand for American horses is rapidly increasing in their country, and they believe it will not be long until America will have an excellent market for trotters in Europe. One of the gentlemen in an interview says that Europeans of wealth are beginning to ride behind fast horses and he thinks it will soon be a reigning fad. And the best of it is, he says, the European horse lovers who have money with which to gratify their taste in this direction are very much like Robert Bonner—they want the fastest horses that money can purchase. Each man wants to ride faster than his neighbor, and this wholesome rivalry, the gentleman thinks, will result in the purchase of many fast American horses.

The horsemen who are attending the sales are taking a great deal of interest in the movement to give trotting horsemen some representation in the government of the trotting tracks. The consensus of opinion is that horsemen have submitted long enough to the dictates of the track managers and the time has arrived for concerted action by the horsemen whereby they can get the representation desired. The sales will continue through this week, when a number of very fast horses with records will be offered.

The cold snap put a stop to raining, but it has done a great deal of good also in stopping the disease which was causing so many mares to lose their foals. This trouble is now believed to be at an end, and breeders are hopeful of having a good crop of colts foaled this spring. Altogether the trotting horse business seems to be in a much better condition than it was this time last year, but, of course, the old boom times will not be looked for again.

The devotion of the lovers of the trotting horse to their favorite pastime of driving a good one on the road amounts to a ruling passion in many cases, and the trouble and expense which some wealthy men of affairs in this city occasionally incur in order to enjoy a spin, is quite remarkable, says the New York Sun. E. H. Hariman, for instance, is one of the busiest men in Wall street, yet when the big snow fall came along last week, he thought of Stamboul, 2:07½, and the good sleighing which was going to waste up in Orange County, and letting the railroads run themselves for a space, traveled fifty miles or so to Arden Farms, for a sleigh ride. The former champion of trotting stallions is a splendid road-horse, who can rush at a two-minute gait on the snow path, and his owner enjoyed great sport for a few hours around Tuxedo. Before returning to this city he telegraphed for a special car, had the champion of the last National horse show brought in town, and has since been driving his $41,000 beauty in Central Park and up Seventh Avenue. H. O. Havemeyer, who keeps Harietta, 2:09½; Lesa Wilkes, 2:09; Miss Lida, 2:10½, and his other crack trotters at Commack, L. I., nearly fifty miles away, frequently telegraphs from pair, and within a few hours has the flyers at his door in town ready for a spin on the road.

The Horse's Feet.

From the birth to the death of a horse, says a fellow of the Royal College of Veterinary surgeons, the hoof requires attention, if it is to be kept in a healthy condition. It is before the hoof is shod that the feet are generally neglected, and the animals suffer accordingly, because they are young and immature, and the bones and other tissues are soft and could easily be distorted to suit the conditions under which they are kept. The feet of foals and growing horses should therefore have attention given to them, since neglect at that period often sows the seeds of continuous trouble. The hoofs should be kept clean by being "picked out" as often as possible, to prevent any dirt or hard substance being buried in the fissures of the feet. They should be examined from time to time (say every six or eight weeks), to detect any defects of shape that might be taking place. If the feet are not growing level and symmetrical, they should be rendered so by rasping away the horn which is not naturally worn down. If that is neglected, the animal will soon have the fetlock joint bending over towards the outside. On no pretense whatever should the front of the wall be interfered with, for the glazed coating of its surface protects the horn beneath; it should therefore be left untouched. It would be as well to disabuse people's minds of a very popular fallacy—viz., that wet, soft ground, and even manure-yards, are the best places to keep young horses—and come would even have the frosts and soles pared to allow the moisture to penetrate more easily. No greater mistake is made than that, for the preservation of the hoof depends to a great extent upon the soil the animal was reared on. The best-footed horses are bred on dry soils, and that is undoubtedly the kind of ground best adapted to the healthy growth of horn. Young horses require plenty of exercise, and unless they are allowed it, the growth of the horn, etc., is sure to be defective. Then the question rises When ought a horse to be first shod? The answer is when the work required of the animal wears the horn away faster than it is formed or grown, or, in other words, so long as the horn of the foot can stand the wear required, it will not need protecting (shoeing). Moreover, if the young horses are not shod so early, they will not be worked so hard, and fewer would be ruined in their youths, as is too often the case at the present time.

W. H. Boyd, the well-known California horse shoer, now residing in Salt Lake City, has applied for a patent on his light tread turf and mud spring. Bitter Root, the game son of Lord Byron, is wearing a set of these springs and they work like a charm. Boyd will have them out for this season's races.

HOOF-BEATS.

WM. CORBITT arrived from the East Thursday.

PALO ALTO will send Expressive, 2:12½, by Electioneer to McKinney, 2:11½, and E. Green has booked Stemwinder, 2:30½ (dam of Directum 2:05½), and another mare bred in the same lines to the great son of Alcayone.

ONE of the crack trotters of Troy, N. Y., is the Sidney horse Moorzouk, 2:20½ that was in Lee Shaners string here a few years ago. Moorzouk is owned by J. H. Osterhout and that gentleman enjoys many pleasant rides behind him.

C. A. WINSHIP writes us that he has engaged the well-known driver, P. W. Hodges, to handle his horses this year. Mr. Hodges is a very careful, painstaking and clever reinsman, and will no doubt drive many of Mr. Winship's horses to the front this year.

"PEACH" HONG has taken up thirteen of his father's horses, and is getting them ready at the Fair Grounds. Barbarossa is the best known performer in the stable. "Peach" has eleven two-year-olds and is confident he will have another Zimar II.—St. Louis Republic.

SECRETARY W. S. LEAKE says emphatically that there is no truth in the statement telegraphed from Sacramento Wednesday night and published in a morning paper, to the effect that he had been approached by one George McCalvey, who, for a money consideration, offered to suppress the Emmons racing bill, limiting racing in each county to thirty days in a year. The article also stated that Mr. Leake and his friends intended to produce affidavits to that effect before the Legislature in an endeavor to crush the bill. The Ingleside Secretary wired Mr. Emmons a complete refutation of the report yesterday.

F., also druggists in general.

I EARNESTLY hope my subscribers and advertisers will not think I have anything to do with the methods used by F. W. Kelley or the Pacific Law and Collection Company to collect any bills owing the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN. The Jas. P. Kerr estate, under F. W. Kelley's management, notified all delinquents that they were in arrears through attorneys and collectors; then the accounts passed into the hands of this collection agency, which is pursuing exactly the same methods, which, by the way, do not meet with my approval. R. N. FITZGERALDS, Hartford, Conn., writes: I have had occasion several times to use Absorbine and it works like a charm in removing soreness and puffs on horses. I cheerfully recommend it.

C. H. MAGOON, Chicago, Ill., writes: I consider the Absorbine rightly named, as it completely absorbs all lumps when applied.

The Olympic Tournament.

We had anticipated a local boom in blue-rocks but if the opening tournament of the season is any criterion both blue-rock and live-bird shooting will have an unprecedented boom this season.

The tournament of the Olympic Gun Club on Sunday and Monday last was one unqualified success.

There were from forty to sixty-three shooters in every event at blue-rocks, and on Sunday there must have been nearly a thousand in attendance, including a great many ladies.

Among the well-known sportsmen from out of town we noticed: O M Judy, of Visalia; J W Shiell, of Traver; C A Merrill, D Widders and Geo Ditz, of Stockton; Lee Durban and J Ross, of Antioch; C Carr, of Monterey; Dr A M Barker and Frank Holmes, of San Jose, and Lougee, of Spokane Falls. The Empire, Reliance and Lincoln Gun Clubs were well represented.

The grounds and equipment could scarcely be improved upon.

The first event was at 15 birds, entrance 75 cents, four moneys, 48 entries. Ross and Justins divided first money, $8.64 each; Merrill, Webb, W Golcher and White second money, $1.62 each; Shiell, Haight, O Feudner, Whitney and Alderton third money, 72 cents each, and "Fox," Fanning, Walker, Nauman, Weinman and Barney fourth money 36 cents each. ### SECOND DAY.

Monday, the second day of the tournament, was devoted to live-bird shooting, and the attendance and entries were nearly as large as at the blue-rock shooting. The entry of sixty shooters in the 12-bird event creates a new record for the Coast, no State shoot or club tournament has ever approached this entry. The "tangle shot" electric trap pulk worked to perfection for both known and unknown traps, and T. R. Barney is to be congratulated on the perfect success of his invention.

Merton C. Allen officiated as scorer, A. Russell Crowell referee, Wm. Murdock trapper.

It is a common thing for a coyote to chase an old doe with her kids just after the little ones have begun to run about. At that time they are very swift for short distances, but have not the strength to stand a long chase. In such a case a mother will often stay behind her young, and will try to fight off the coyote, hutting him with her head and striking him with her forefeet. He pays little attention to her, except to snap at her, and keeps on after the kids. Several times I have seen the mother of antelope lead her little ones into the midst of a hed of cactus, where the wolf could not go without getting his feet full of thorns. If the hed is small the wolf will make ferocious dashes up to its border, trying to frighten the little ones so that they will run out on the other side and he can start after them again, but usually the mother has no trouble in holding them.—George Bird Grinnell in Forest and Stream.

Don't forget the Lincoln Gun Club tournament next Sunday.

Gold Dust won F. R. Webster's cup at the Olympic tournament.

The Encinal Gnn Club will shoot at Birds' Point, Alameda next Sunday.

W. J. Golcher shot like a veteran in the freeze-out for the Webster trophy.

The two guns to divide premier honors in the freeze-out Monday were a Clahrough and a Parker.

"Fox" and Merrill killed all of their birds in the 12-bird match on Monday with the first barrel.

The Olympics should return the compliment to the Lincolns with a good attendance at their tournament to-morrow.

The game bill has passed both houses and will be signed or vetoed by the Governor in a few days. Robins and meadow lark are not protected.

W. A. Seaver was using a Remington with good effect at the Olympic live bird shoot. He was one of the five to divide the money in the handicap freeze out.

Wild pigeons are being shot by the score in the vicinity of Templeton, and half of San Luis is enjoying regular Palaca Hotel Grill Room meals from the birds supplied by our local sportsmen who are at present over that way.—San Luis Breeze.

We hear already of the evils of the lengthened open season on game. Many market hunters who did not shoot this winter on account of the shortness of the season have stated that they would enter the tules next winter and shoot for the market as before.

The "maguatrip" that has been on exhibition this week at Clahrough, Golcher & Co.'s will be used at the Lincoln Gun Club's tournament at the Pacific Tournament Association grounds at Alameda Junction to-morrow. Go and see it work.

As the law could not be enforced we favored a lika season for both the market-hunter and sportsman, but it was plenty long enough before, making it a month longer for the market hunter means the slaughter of thousands of birds that the State can ill spare.

The annual meeting of the Board of Governors of the California Inanimate Target Association will be held at the Olympic Gun Club, 1309 Van Ness Ave on Saturday evening March 20th. Arrangements for the coming tournament will be made at this meeting.

We want it distinctly understood that it is not Wm. G. Layng the present proprietor of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN, who is trying, by threatening letters, to collect money for an agency that purchased from F. W. Kelley the bank accounts owing the J. P. Kerr estate. We disclaim any connection with such methods of collection and hope all our friends will understand the situation.

The San Joaquin Valley Gun Club will open the season with an open-to-all tournament at Visalia on March 7th. There are four scheduled events, two at 10 birds, entrance 50 cents, and two at 20 birds, entrance $1. Purses will be divided according to the Rose system in the ratio of 5, 4, 3, 2, 1. Ties will be divided or shot off, as agreed upon. Birds will be trapped at 2 cents each. The powder companies and local sportsmen have offered a valuable list of merchandise prizes.

Mar. 9—Regular semi-monthly meeting of the San Francisco Fly Casting Club. Office of State Fish Commission, Flood Building, San Francisco.

The Fly Casting Club.

The annual meeting of the San Francisco Fly Casting Club met at the office of the Fish Commission on Tuesday evening last. There were thirty-seven members present, W. D. Mansfield in the chair. The treasurer reported a balance of $242 on hand with the dues for 1897 not paid.

The resignation of Morgan Jellatt was accepted.

Captain, W. E. Bacheller reported the condition of the club property, rods, reels etc., and offered the following resolution which was adopted.

Resolved, that the 5½-ounce rod shall be used only for No. 3 event and the 8½-ounce rod shall be used only for the No. 2 event also, that the 5½-ounce rod shall not be used in practice for any distance over 50 feet or the 8½-ounce rod for over 65 feet.

J. S. Turner was appointed a committee of one to make arrangements with the proprietor of the Peerless Cyclery to keep the rods, reels etc., at that place. The cyclery is at the north gate of the Park near the terminal of the McAllister street line of cable cars.

The annual election of officers resulted as follows: President W D Mansfield, Vice-President J P Babcock, Treasurer W F Bogard, Secretary H Smyth, Executive Committee W E Becheller, H F Muller, Col. G C Edwards, J S Turner and F H Reed.

Dr. Gilbert was present in the early part of the evening, but was taken quite ill and forced to retire to his hotel. He had brought with him specimens of the Loch Leven, rainbow, cut-throat, Eastern brook, Dolly Varden trout and the native trout of the Truckee; hybrids of the Eastern brook and Dolly Varden, and many specimens of "hard-months," young salmon, steelheads, shiners, etc.

Chief Deputy Fish Commissioners, J. P. Babcock, described the different varieties and characteristics of the specimens and gave a very interesting and instructive informal talk.

F. P. Deering read to the club the article on "Trout and Troutling," by F. B. Hutchinson, recently printed in these columns.

It was decided to hold the postponed Sunday contest on Sunday, March 7th.

It was also resolved that in future the club leaders and flies shall be used on club tackle only.

A meeting of the Executive Committee was held immediately after the regular meeting, and W. E. Bacheller was re-appointed Captain of the Saturday contests, and H. F. Muller Captain of the Sunday contests.

Hereafter the contests will be held in their numerical order.

Event No. 1 will be called promptly at 9:30 A. M. on Sunday and 2:30 P. M. on Saturday.

A. B. Alexander has been detailed by the United States Fish Commission to proceed to Olama and investigate the salmon in the Russian River and Paper Mill creek and their tributaries, Olama and Bear Valley creek. The object of the inquiry is to ascertain the movements, habits, rate of growth, food, enemies etc., of the salmon in those streams.

The Ways and Means Committee propose to reduce the appropriation for the restoration of fish and game from $20,000 to $10,000. One half of this to be used for game and one-half for fish. This will seriously cripple the Commission and should be promptly killed.

Fly Casting at Stow Lake this afternoon at 2:30 and to-morrow morning at 9:30.

The Interstate Meeting.

Two thousand people were present at the Interstate Coursing Club's second annual meeting at Ingleside on Sunday and Monday last. It was perfect weather and the trials were of a first-class order, the hares in every instance running strong. There were three stakes on the card. The first was for the John Grace challenge cup, for which forty dogs at $10 each were entered. These dogs unquestionably were the pick of all the greyhound kennels in the country, no less than six or seven of them being owned in the Eastern States. The stake was worth $300 cash, the challenge cup, a beautiful work of art, valued at $150, going to the winner; $150 to the second; $75 to the third, and $37.50 each to the fourth and fifth dogs. As a proof of the widespread interest in the meeting, there were present representatives of coursing clubs from South Dakota, Colorado and Kentucky, as well as from all quarters of the northern half of California.

The second stake was for puppies, dogs between the ages of twelve and eighteen months, at $5 each. The prizes are $60 for first, $30 for second and $15 each for third and fourth dogs.

The third stake was for sapplings, dogs not over twelve months old, at $5 each. The prizes are $35 for first and a beautiful silver cup, valued at $150, presented by the Hon. James D. Phelan, Mayor of the city; second $17.50; third and fourth, $8.75 each. There were fourteen dogs in the second and fourteen in the third stakes, all being the offspring of the greatest and purest bred greyhounds in the United States.

John Grace judged and Jas F Grace slipped and both gave the usual entire satisfaction. One round in each of the stakes was run off on Sunday and all three stakes were finished on Monday. Betting was heavy during both days and three pool-boxes were kept busy. It is no exaggeration to say that from $8,000 to $10,000 must have gone through the hands of the pool sellers. ### Cruft's Show.

At Cruft's show, held in the Agricultural Hall, London, a couple of weeks ago, the entries reached the remarkable total of 3,072, which of course beats all previous records. Fancy a show twice the size of New York's with quality right through it, says Turf, Field and Farm. The appended list of entries in each breed is of interest, especially when compared with the distribution of exhibits on this side. It shows that the most popular classes over there are not the most popular here. The entries in bloodhounds 73, Newfoundland 85, deerhounds 75, retrievers 109, Basset hounds 61, Dachshunde 117, old English sheep dogs 69, Airedale terriers 94, Dandie Dinmont terriers 61, pomeranians 91, pugs 94, toy spaniels 87, and selling class 92, are especially noteworthy, as are also the scanty entries in mastiffs 31, greyhounds 16, and in pointers 36.

Bloodhounds 73, St. Bernards 175, great danes 59, Newfoundland 86, mastiffs 31, horzois 60, deerhounds 75, wolfhounds 10, otterhounds 13, chow chows 14, elkhounds 11, foreign dogs 12, greyhounds 16, pointers 36, setters 89, retrievers 109, spaniels 124, beagles 31, basset hounds 61, dachshunde 117, collies 218, old English sheepdogs 69, poodles 59, dalmatians 37, bulldogs 160, bullterriers 72, airdales 94, foxterriers (smooth) 175, foxterriers (wire) 84, Irish terriers 83, old English terriers 6, Welsh terriers 33, Scottish terriers 52, skye terriers 24, rosenath terriers 24, dandie dinmont terriers 61, bedlington terriers 46, black and tan terriers 23, whippets 30, schipperkes 32, white English 14, pomeranians 91, toy bulldogs 6, pugs 94, toy spaniels 87, Yorkshires 24, Italian greyhounds 10, toy terriers 14, maltese 4, griffons 19, selling classes 92, challenge teams 7; total, 3,072.

The New York Show.

The entries for the Westminster Kennel Club show number 1,675, an increase of 64 over 1896. In hounds and setters there is a small increase. Foxterrier entries have fallen off 30. The entry is as follows: Mastiffs, 10; St. Bernards, 153; Bloodhounds, 13; Great Danes, 51; Newfoundland 4; Russian Wolfhounds, 17; Deerhounds 13; Greyhounds 27; English Foxhounds, 11; American Foxhounds, 18; Chesapeake Bay dogs, 11; Pointers, 92; English Setters, 60; Irish Setters, 58; Gordon Setters, 35; Irish Water Spaniels, 5; Clumber Spaniels, 4; Field Spaniels, 23; Cocker Spaniels, 82; Rough Collies, 111; Smooth Collies, 2; Old English Sheep dogs, 8; Poodles, 92; Bulldogs, 36; French Bulldogs, 19; Bull Terriers, 70; Boston Terriers, 119; Dachshunde, 52; Beagles, 64; Foxterriers (smooth), 80; Foxterriers (wire), 41; Irish

San Francisco's Disgrace.

We announce with many regrets that the San Francisco Kennel Club has been elected to membership in the American Kennel Club and the Olympic Gun Club has been rejected. We state without the slightest hesitation that this has been brought about by the scheming of the mischief-maker and with the connivance of the Secretary of the American Kennel Club, Mr. A. P. Vredenburg.

The club with nearly 200 members and among them many of our wealthiest and most influential citizens has had its face turned toward the wall and a little club of a meagre half dozen malcontents has been given a license by the American Kennel Club to control the kennel interests of this city.

If ever anyone secured a white elephant the San Francisco Kennel Club has. Several of the members realize it already and when those who subscribe to the guarantee fund have to dig down into their pockets for the coin they will find that elephants are costly feeders.

The coming show is destined to be the greatest failure ever chronicled in the annals of dogdom. There are not twenty dog owners connected with the new club and nine tenths of the dog owners of this city and vicinity are bitterly opposed to the club and will not show a dog under its management.

If Oakland concludes to give a show it will exceed the San Francisco show by 200 entries. At a special meeting of the St. Bernard Club of California held last Wednesday evening the club decided to live up to its resolution and will not show under the new club. The owners of sporting dogs in this city are members of the Olympic Gun Club and the old members of P. K. C. and not a man in every fifty will show a dog under the S. F. K. C. and the man that does will be ostracized by all true dog lovers.

The spaniel men, the fox terrier men and the bull terrier men almost to a man state that they will not support such an organization with a solitary entry.

We say fox terrier men advisedly. The Fox Terrier Club will probably stand by their president Dr. D. Evelyn, but it is a notorious fact that there are far more fox terrier men out of the club than there are in it. Six active men would be a fair estimate of the real membership and they do not control thirty entries.

The San Francisco Kennel Club was organized to create strife, it has succeeded admirably and when after a brief flare its light goes out, then the true dog lovers of this city can lift up their heads and say: Now we can breathe again, now we can state that we own and breed dogs without being ashamed of the company we are in.

We knew well that the American Kennel Club would kill the doggy interests of this city if they elected the San Francisco Kennel Club, but we were woefully mistaken, we underestimated the feeling a thousand per cent. The majority said nothing because they could not realize the possibility of a sensible body of men recognizing a club that a blind man could see was only organized for the self aggrandizement of a few men with axes to grind. Now that they find that the A. K. C. is just as corrupt as the men whose interests they are trying to advance they are thoroughly disgusted and will fight the new organization to the death. Where we found one man opposed to the new club on Tuesday on Thursday we find ten.

Rather a dark beginning for a new organization.

The San Jose Show.

The premium list of the Santa Clara Valley Poultry and Kennel Clubs bench show is at hand and to say that it is a very attractive list is putting it mildly. The officers of the club are as follows: Thos F Morrison President; Mrs O J Alhee, vice-President; Chas R Harker, Secretary-Treasurer; Executive committee, E H Freeman, Tyler Beach, L F Brainard, O J Alhee, G R Carmon and F N Reed. Bench show committee O J Alhee, Tyler Beach and Chas R Harker; Superintendent, O J Alhee; Judge of all classes, J Otis Fellows; H C Spencer & Son veterinarians.

The show will be held in the Turn Verein Hall, North Third street, San Jose, on March 31st and April 1st 2nd and 3d. Entries positively close March 18th at 9 p. m.

There are no cash prizes offered in the regular classes but specials are as numerous as fleas on a dogs back. The handler with the largest number of dogs from outside of Santa Clara county will receive $20, and the second largest string $10.

Valuable specials are offered for the largest number of entries, best kennels, best decorated kennels, smallest dog, largest dog, and largest number entered by a lady.

There are 196 regular classes provided for and nearly every class is provided with a special prize or two.

J. Otis Fellows of Hornellsville, N. Y., will judge all classes. Premium lists can be obtained of the secretary Chas. R. Harker, Mercury Building, San Jose or at his office.

Mason Will Not Judge.

The current issue of the Turf, Field and Farm contains several paragraphs that are, to say the least, questionable journalism. What reason the editor could possibly have for roasting "Uncle Dick," the Stockton show and California dog men in general it is hard to imagine. Especially when when their chief reporter was engaged to judge at the Stockton show, but do it they did and the Stockton Kennel Club have taken it for granted that Chas. H. Mason was the writer of the paragraphs in question and have as their telegram of Thursday states: "discharged Mason as judge."

DOINGS IN DOGDOM.

He who laughs best, laughs last.

So the P. K. C. money goes to the orphans.

The San Jose entries close March 18; the Stockton entries on March 31.

The premium lists of the Stockton show were to have been issued yesterday.

After all the announcements Mason will not judge at Stockton and if he was the writer of the abuse in the Turf Field and Farm we can only say it serves him right.

Mrs A W Lee of the Alto Ranch is said to have refused $1,000 for Alto Milo recently.

Send to Dr. A. C. Davenport, 314 E. Main street for premium lists of the Stockton show.

The St. Bernard Club held a special meeting last Wednesday night. They are not talking very much but look at the woodpile.

Lovers of red cockers will be interested in the fact that John E. Doak's Royal Dandy has thrown six red pups in two litters of six and eight each.

The St. James Hotel will be headquarters for the visiting fanciers at San Jose. The St. James is only two blocks from the exhibition hall and is a first-class house in every respect.

Dominick Shannon has sold to M. W. Godfrey of this city a foxterrier dog pup by Warren Sage out of Stiletto that is a very good one likely to win the blue at the forthcoming shows.

We advise the bench show committee of the San Francisco Kennel Club to arm itself with basins and scrapers next May. They will need them to remove the frost from the Pavilion.

The San Jose fanciers have issued one of minimum lists that we have ever had. These small lists encourage the feeders for the large ones and should be encouraged. Enter your dogs at San Jose.

The Stockton fanciers are greatly enthused over the indoor field trials proposed for the coming show. They have been experimenting and find the plan to work nicely. Fox terriers will course on rabbits and hounds will take the trail of Dr. Eddy's bear.

David Winders of Stockton has purchased the young black cocker dog San Joaquin Clifford by Hornell Fascination, he by Champion Fascination—Champion Troublesome out of Arthur's Maney, 2d at Pittsburgh. She by Jock Jr., out of Chloe S. Clifford is said to retrieve from land and water, a point of as much value in the eyes of the writer as form or breeding. Cockers should be workers.

SEYMOUR WILKES stands 16 hands high and weighs 1200 pounds. He is seal brown in color and in conformation is one of the most symmetrical of any in California. His qualities as a level-headed, game and speedy race-horse are known to all horsemen. He is the fastest son of the mighty Guy Wilkes and his maternal side traces to the very best of sires and dams. He has an iron constitution, and all owners of good mares that want horses that will have breeding, size, bone, quality, good disposition and extreme speed should not overlook this horse. His service fee is placed at a very low figure considering his merits. He never was bred but to a few mares and his progeny are models of perfection.

He holds the five-mile race record of the world, 13:05 1-2, and never sired a colt that was not speedy. With a limited chance in the stud, True Briton has already shown himself to be a great sire. Rev del Bandito, from a non-producing mare that had already had five foals, holds the Pacific Coast record, 3:57½ at 2½ miles; Her Majesty (dead), won 11 out of 14 starts; Walter J., (also out of a non-producer), a horse with a great turn of speed, has finished outside the money but a very few times out of nearly one hundred starts; Virgie A. and Zeta, both winners, being the only others to represent this royally-bred stallion on the racing turf this year.

From this showing there is but one inference to be drawn, and that is, that True Briton is a sure getter of winners; mares that have never thrown a winner to any other stallion, bred to True Briton, get winners and class horses at that.

THE HORSE WITHOUT A "BUT."

Boodle 5829, Rec. 2:12½

ETHEL DOWNS, 2:13; THOMPSON, 2:15; MERLE M, 2:25.

Two prominent horsemen were discussing the relative merits of notable stallions. They agreed that a certain stallion was well bred and a good producer, "but" he had no record. Another had a fast record, was well bred, and a good producer, "but" he was too small. Another had nearly all the necessary qualifications, "but" he had curbs and bad feet. Another possessed many rare qualifications, "but" he was vicious, as well as a "quitter." Finally one asked the other, "What's the matter with Boodle?" They both concluded that no stallion, living or dead, possessed all the qualifications desired in a more marked degree than BOODLE.

QUALIFICATIONS

BREEDING. Onexcelled. Send for extended tabulated pedigree and history of BOODLE.

COLOR. Beautiful seal brown, black points, no white.

SIZE. Sixteen hands high, weight 1,150 pounds.

DISPOSITION. Gentle as a lamb. A child can handle him.

STYLE. A real handsome horse—"a thing of beauty."

CONDITION. Sound as he was the day he was foaled.

SPEED. Race record 2:12½, in a hard-fought battle, which he won.

GAMENESS. A veritable bull dog. A game horse never lived.

PRODUCE. While he has only three in the list, no horse living or dead can make a better showing, considering the number of his progeny that have been trained. He transmits all his perfect qualifications to his progeny. His ancestors are noted for their iron constitutions; many of them, notably Goldsmith Maid, 2:14, were obtaining world's records at a time in life when ordinary horses are thinking of dying of old age.

ST. NICHOLAS.

TRIAL, 2:27 1-4, AS A THREE-YEAR-OLD.

SIRE BY

The Great SIDNEY, 2:19 3-4, Sire of 66 in the List, ECHO, the Greatest Sire of Broodmares.

DAM SIRE BY

ST. NICHOLAS is now eleven years old, just in his prime for the stud; stands 15.3 hands; in color a rich dark bay, two hind ankles white; star in forehead; has good limbs and feet; a pure-gaited trotter, and has an excellent disposition. Is pronounced by every one who has seen him as an unusually stylish, well-formed handsome individual. As a three-year-old he went quarters in 30 seconds; then fell into hands that took more pride in owning such a horse rather than in continuing his development.

His colts are of good size, fine lookers, and show extreme speed, but are all owned in private or unprofessional hands.

ST. NICHOLAS is now placed at the head of the breeding department of Sulphur Spring Farm, and will be bred to all the first-class mares. All colts on this farm are trained from weanlings.

This horse, on account of conformation and breeding, cannot help but produce size, style, action and speed.

Will serve only a limited number of mares at $30 FOR THIS SEASON, with usual return privilege; money due on notice of first service.

PASTURAGE $4 PER MONTH.

No liability assumed for accidents or escapes.

In order to show my confidence in the breeding qualities of ST. NICHOLAS, I make the following proposition to owners of stallions that are in service for the SEASON OF 1897 IN CALIFORNIA. I will be one of not less than five to deposit or guarantee in the sum of $100—entrance money and as much money as the BREEDER-ASSOCIATION chooses to add, all to form a purse—to be trotted or paced for by two-year-olds, in a race, one mile, best two in three, at the FALL MEETING of the P. C. T. H. B. A. in 1900. Only one entry, the get of each stallion allowed. Further details as per agreement of the majority of owners.

Address all communications to

Disposition, Size, Speed, Soundness and Style

WELCOME, 2:10 1-2.

his game and consistent stallion will make the SEASON OF 1897, ending July 1st, at W. E. MEEK'S STABLE, near the Haywards Station, at $50 THE SEASON, With usual return privileges.

WELCOME was sired by Arthur Wilkes, 2:28½, out of Letty (dam of Wayland W., 2:12; Welcome (p) 2:10½, trotting 2:27½; Mand Singleton, 2:25½), by Wayland Forrest (son of Edwin Forrest 49 and a mare by Sir Charles, thoroughbred); second dam Mary (dam of Apex, 2:26; Sterling, sire of four and one sire of one.) Grace, dam of Creole, 2:15; Eagle, 2:19½), by Flaxtail 8132; third dam by Bright Eyes, son of Boanerges. Arthur Wilkes, 2:28½, sire of Welcome, was sired by the mighty Guy Wilkes, 2:15½, out of Gracie, by Arthurton 365; second dam Old Lady, by David Hill Jr.

WELCOME comes from speed producing lines on both sides and his reputation as the "gamest race horse ever Andy McDowell handled" shows that he is far superior to many that have extreme speed, but are lacking in courage. WELCOME is a bay horse, stands 16 hands, and is one of the best-formed horses in California. He earned a trotting record of 2:27½ when a four-year-old, and was put to pacing last year. He started in Montana without a record and won money in every race he started. He won some of the most stubbornly-contested races seen in 1896.

Also, bay mare EVELINE, foaled 1883, by NUTWOOD, No. 600. EVELINE is the dam of MAUD FOWLER, 2:21¾, by ANTEEO, No. 7868; TIETAM, 2:19, No. 24,397, by ANTEEO No. 7868; NICK RUSSELL (trial 2:31), by SILAS SKINNER, No. 10,681; OLEY, a good green colt, by SILAS SKINNER No. 10,681, was broken last fall and showed a quarter in 38 seconds when barely bridlewise; ROULET (pacer), by ROBIN, No. 28,370, has paced quarters in 32 seconds, and, barring accidents, will be seen on the circuit next season.

VIVA LA

Brown Colt, foaled in 1892, Bred by Jos. Cairn Simpson.

BY WHIPS, SIRE OF AZOTE, 2:04 3-4, COBWEBS, 2:12, AND SEVERAL OTHERS IN THE LIST

FIRST DAM—JOE VIVA, by Joe Hooker.

SECOND DAM—LADY VIVA, by Three Cheers (dam of Electioneer Rex, showed when a two-year old quarters in 36 seconds.)

THIRD DAM—LADY AMANDA, by imp. Hurrah (the dam of Electioneer Jr., formerly Advance, three-year-old record 2:22½).

FOURTH DAM—LADY LANCASTER, by imp. Monarch. The dam of Malcolm, Regent, Ontario and several other winners. Marion, the dam of Emperor of Norfolk, El Rio Rey, Yo Tambien, and several other high-class race horses, is by Malcolm, and the breeding of Viva La-Electioneer, combined with strains of thoroughbred which have shown adaptability to acquire trotting action, is now greatly fancied by intelligent breeders.

VIVA LA is sixteen hands high, a rich seal brown in color and more than usually handsome, combining muscular power and quality in an eminent degree. He was trained a little in his yearling form and showed a 2:40 gait and was improving rapidly when his training was suspended. He can scarcely fail on the right sort of mares to get fast trotters, and with nearly a certainty of securing good-sized, fine-looking horses which even in these times are in demand.

LIMITED TO TWENTY-FIVE MARES.

ALTAMONT is the champion sire of 2:10 performers, being the only horse living or dead with six to his credit. He has taken a leading position among the foremost trotting sires of the country under such conditions that phenomenal ability alone has saved him from oblivion. A very small proportion of his progeny has been trained, and an extremely small number of these by competent men. As a partial illustration of his meagre advantages, it may be stated that he has never produced a colt from a pacing-bred mare, or from one with a fast record. Nor has he ever yet been crossed with a descendant of George Wilkes, Electioneer, Dictator, Sidney or Dexter Prince. Oregon and Washington have produced seven 2:10 performers, and EVERY ONE of these are ALTAMONTS.

ALTAMONT is a horse of iron constitution, and at twenty-two years of age is in the full vigor of his prime, a sure foal-getter, and, except for his blindness—the result of an accident—is without blemish. He has never sired a sorrel, all of his colts having been solid colors—bays, browns or blacks. He is now located in Alameda, at Herbert's Stables, on Sherman street, between Santa Clara and Central avenues. Alameda local S. P. and Narrow Gauge trains from San Francisco, stop within two blocks of stable, and Oakland and Alameda electric cars, half a block away. Residence two doors from stable.

INGLESIDE RACES.

Rain Mars the Sport of Kings Somewhat—
All the Events Closely Described.

FIFTY-SIXTH DAY—FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 26.

With truly beautiful weather and such an attractive card of seven races, it was not to be wondered at that the attendance ran up close to 3000, which is pretty good for a "week day"—and no stake event on the programme. The sensations of the afternoon were the wins of two flyers from the Boots stable (Anahasis and Nebula) at odds of from 20 to 25 to 1 each. Instigator, from the same stable, ran second in another race.

The first race was for maiden three-year-olds, six furlongs. To a good start Queen Nuhia flew to the fore, leading Altamax two lengths at the half, Popiojay third. Queen Nuhia was three lengths to the good at the three-quarters, Tulare second, a length before Altamax. Queen Nuhia ran out on last turn, tired in the homestretch and Altamax galloped in first by three lengths, Queen Nuhia second, six before Tulare, Attions (who got away last and ran out in the homestretch) a poor fourth. Time, 1:15½. Altamax was at 9 to 5, Queen Nuhia 8 to 1, Tulare 4, others 6 to 100 to 1.

The second was a split of the first. To a good start Anahasis, fourth away, shot to the front, leading Charlemagne a length at the half and three-quarters, Tryst third at the latter point. Anahasis was not headed, and won handsily by one and one-half lengths, Charlemagne second, three from Philip H., who beat M. Clicquot a length. Time, 1:17. Anahasis was at 20 to 1, Charlemagne 3½ (6 to 5, one time), Philip H. (coupled with Nuncomar and Peaceman) 4, Yama 2 (4½ once), M. Clicquot 5, May R. 6, Tryst 40 and El Ladrone 75 to 1.

The third was for three-year-olds, one mile. They were away to a good send-off, and Nebula, given a cut of the whip at the outset, drew away until she was three lengths to the good at the quarter, Col. Wheeler heading a close bunch. At the half Nebula was four lengths in front of Wheeler, Good Times third, a head further away and lapped by Soniro. Howard S. fourth, now made his run, and at the head of the homestretch Nebula's lead was but three lengths, Good Times and Howard S. heads apart. Howard gained all the way down the homestretch, but Nebula, running gamely, lasted out to win by a head, Howard S. second, lapped by the fast-coming Soniro, Good Times fourth, two lengths further off. Time, 1:43½. Nebula was at 20 to 1, Howard S. 8 to 5, Soniro 40 to 1, Good Times even money, Sly 8 and Col. Wheeler 40.

The fourth race was at seven furlongs. To a good start Basquil was first to show. He, George Palmer and Mosier ran heads apart past the quarter. At the half Basquil was leading by a length, Instigator, San Marco and George Palmer heads apart as named. Basquil had increased his lead to two lengths by the time the three-quarters was reached, George Palmer, San Marco and Instigator heads apart as named. Basquil was not headed and won handsily by three lengths, Instigator, driven out, second, half a length before George Palmer. Time, 1:29½. Basquil was at 6 to 1, Instigator 7 to 1, George Palmer 13 to 20, San Marco 9, others 30 to 300 to 1.

A mile and a sixteenth race brought seven to the post. They were away to a good start. Joe Terry and Tuxedo ran heads apart past the quarter, four lengths from Leonville. Terry led Tuxedo by a length at the half and by three at the three-quarters, Tuxedo and Little Cripple lapped. Tuxedo stopped badly in the homestretch and Joe Terry won easily by one and a half lengths, Little Cripple finishing second, two lengths before Brametta, on whom Adolph Spreckels was lapped. Time, 1:51. Joe Terry was at 2½ to 1, Little Cripple 10, Brametta 15, Adolph Spreckels 13 to 10, Marcel 4½, others 100 and 200 to 1.

In the sixth, after Masoero had broken the barrier, they were sent away to a very bad start, Masoero practically left. Marjorie showed in front by a small margin at the quarter, then Applause took command and led by a small margin into the homestretch, Marjorie second, lapped by Mohalaska. The latter appeared to have gone on and won driving by a short head to most persons, the other two noses apart, but the judges placed Mohalaska first, Applause second, Marjorie third. It was a close race between the three, but most folks (including both form-hook callers) thought the judges erred. The time was 1:30. Masoero ran a great race from where he got off. Mohalaska was at 3½ to 1, Applause 9 to 5, Marjorie 25 to 1, Arapahoe 4, others 8 to 60.

The last was at six furlongs. George Miller shot to the front and was never headed, winning easily by two lengths, Morven just lasting long enough to beat the fast-coming Hazard a head, Miss Ross fourth, another half length away. She ran a very good race, getting away seventh. Time, 1:16½. George Miller was at 3 to 5 (opened at evens), Morven 4½ to 1, Hazard 15, others 12 to 300 to 1.

FIFTY-SEVENTH DAY—SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 27.

In the first race, one mile, selling, they got away to a fair start for all but Roadrunner, who was left. Edgemount dashed to the fore, leading a length at the quarter, Tar and Tartar second, lapped by Installatrix. The order was the same at the half, though Edgemount was but a head to the good. Edgemount was half a length in front at the three-quarters, Tar and Tartar next, as far from Japonica. Olive came from fifth place in the homestretch and won easily by half a length, Japonica second, two and one-half lengths from Tar and Tartar, he two from Edgemount. Time, 1:44½. Olive was at 5 to 1, Japonica 3½ (hacked from 6), Tar and Tartar 2, others 8 to 150 to 1.

A six furlong selling race came next. To a bad start, Midlo and Hazel D. left, Yemen got to the front, leading Pat Murphy three lengths at the half and three-quarters, Pat Murphy four lengths in front of Benamela at the latter point. Yemen experienced no trouble in winning by three lengths, Benamela coming strongly at the end and beating Pat Murphy out a head for the place. Frank Jauhart was poor fourth, a head in front of Clissie B. Yemen was at even money (hacked from 8 to 5), Benamela 7 to 1, Pat Murphy 12, Midlo 2, others 30 to 300.

The third event was a mile selling race. To a fine start Tempestuous and Mamie Scott raced out in front, being head and head at the quarter three lengths from McLight. Mamie soon shook Tempestuous and led by three lengths passing the half. Tempestuous next, lapped by McLight. At the three-quarters it was Mamie Scott first by a length, Mercutio and Naranja close together. The latter interfered with Stentor when he tried to come through, Stentor beating McLight out a head for the place, Mercutio fourth, three lengths away. Time, 1:43½. Mamie Scott closed at 60 to 1 (100 to 1 at one time), Stentor 7 to 10 (opened at evens), McLight 10; others 12 to 200 to 1.

The Schreiber Stakes came fourth. The stake was $1,000, of which $300 to second and $100 to third. To a good start, Roxey Murphy led by daylight until nearing the three quarters when The Cheat and Estro came up fast and joined him. Estro drew clear in the homestretch and won with ease by two lengths. The Cheat coming strong at the end and beating Duke of York four lengths for the place. Time, 0:50½. Estro was at 8 to 1, The Cheat 6 to 5 (hacked from 2 to 1), Duke of York 40 to 1, Thorpe 2 (went back from evens), others 7 to 40 to 1.

The fifth race was a mile handicap. Six came to the post. The harrier went up, and Moylan and Argentina were left standing, Tod Sloan pulling up the former and the latter whirling. Flashlight went to the fore, leading Installator and The Dragon, together, by three lengths at the quarter, two at the half, and was three to the good at the three-quarters. Slaughter began the looking-back-see-me-make-snickers-of-them-act, and Flashlight swerved out, allowing Lincoln to come up on the inside and win driving by half a length, with Flashlight coming again, Installator third, eight lengths off and five from The Dragon. Time, 1:41½. The leaving at the post of two such heavily-backed animals caused no end of dissatisfaction, and the need of a recall flag again became painfully apparent. Lincoln was at 8 (played from 15 to 1), Flashlight 15, Installator 9 to 5, others 4 to 6 to 1.

A mile and a half hurdle race next occupied the attention of the assembly. Gory Budd went to the front, and was closely attended by Herman clear into the homestretch. Here Arundel, third, made his move. At the last fence Gory Budd led Arundel by over a length, but Wilkins, riding like a demon, shot him up to the Governor, and taking no chances with Arundel, won by four lengths, Gory Budd second, as far from old Dungarven, who came strong the last quarter. Baby Bill, the false favorite, wound up a bad seventh. Time, 2:50. Arundel was 3 to 1 (4½ once), Gory Budd 10, Dungarven 100, Baby Bill 8 to 5, others 7 to 25 to 1.

The seventh and last race, six furlongs, will long be remembered by those that witnessed it. Tod Sloan got Buckwa off in the lead to a poor start for a four-horse contest. At the half Buckwa was two lengths to the good, Magnet second and going well within himself, two and one-half lengths from Libertine, who was as far in front of David.

Magnet cut off about half a length of Buckwa's lead going to the three quarter mile mark, and on the last turn made a decided gain. Tod turned close with Buckwa, saving every inch of ground, but still Magnet's white face got closer and closer. A sixteenth from home they were hard to separate. A moment later Magnet's nose showed in front, and notwithstanding Tod's desperate effort on Buckwa, Honig's great St. Blaise horse won by half a head, with the pair going stride for stride at the end. Six lengths away came David, a short head before Libertine. It was a great race won by the best horse beyond any doubt, for Buckwa got a decided advantage at the start, was ridden by the crack light-weight of America and Magnet carried 107 lbs. to Buckwa's 104. When the time 1:31½ was rung out there were additional manifestations of joy. Magnet was at 8 to 5, Buckwa 7 to 5, David 10 to 1 and Libertine 6 to 1.

FIFTY-SIXTH DAY—MONDAY, MARCH 2.

The first was at a mile. To a superb start Tar and Tartar was first to show, and at the quarter he led by a head, Flambeauette second, a length before Play Boy, who soon thereafter got to the fore. At the half it was Play Boy, Flambeauette and Tar and Tartar heads apart, three lengths from Charlemagne. Play Boy was at two lengths to the good at the three-quarters, Tar and Tartar next, a length from the fast-coming Charlemagne. The latter got up to Play Boy about thirty yards of the finish and won driving by a neck, Play Boy eight lengths from Tar and Tartar, he half a dozen from Brametta. Time, 1:46½. Charlemagne was at 8 to 1 (12 once), Play Boy 15, Tar and Tartar 8, Brametta and Treachery 3½, others 10 to 50 to 1.

The second was at seven furlongs. Off to a good start, Road Runner, fifth away, got to the front without delay, leading by two lengths at the quarter and one at the half, O'Fleta second, with Camelia at his heels. Road Runner was half a length to the good at the three-quarters and two lengths in the homestretch, where O'Fleta died away. Camelia drew up to Road Runner in the last sixteenth and won handsily by a length, Road Runner second, four lengths from Meadow Lark, who got up in the last stride and beat O'Fleta a nose for the show. Time, 1:32. Camelia was at 4½ to 1, Road Runner 15, Meadow Lark 13 to 5, Two Cheers 13 to 10, others 10 to 200 to 1.

In the third, seven furlongs, Gutta Percha, sixth away, rushed to the front quickly, being three lengths in front of Double Quick at the quarter and nearly that far at the half, Potentate third, three lengths from Major Cook. Gutta Percha's lead was two lengths at the three-quarters, Double Quick second, five lengths from Potentate. Frank K. came very fast on the last turn and ran up second, but Willie Martin did not persevere with him the last sixteenth, Gutta Percha winning driving by half a length from Double Quick, who beat Frank K. five lengths. Babe Murphy was a poor fourth. Time, 1:30½. Gutta Percha was at 7 to 1, Double Quick 6, Frank K. 11 to 5, others 4½ to 20 to 1.

The fourth, six furlongs, was a warm race. They were away to a straggling start, Greyhurst in front. Applause off last. At the half it was Greyhurst and Celoso heads apart, lapped by George Miller, the other two close up. At the three-quarters Greyhurst still led Celoso a head, Applause third, two lengths away, Miller and Midnight close up. The latter now made her run, and getting in front over a sixteenth from home, won handsily by half a length, Applause second, a length from Greyhurst, he four from Celoso, Time, 1:16½. Midnight was at 6 to 5, Applause 6, Greyhurst 13 to 5, Celoso 2½, and George Miller 7½ to 1.

The fifth race was at five furlongs. They were off to a poor start, Alazar and Woodland Bell left, and True Blue got to the front in short order, closely attended by The Sinner. This pair ran close together in front to the finish, True Blue winning by a head driving, The Sinner two lengths before Mercutio, who ran a good race, Basquil, with top weight, 122 lbs., fourth, another length away. Time, 1:03½. True Blue was at 3 to 1, The Sinner 13 to 10, Mercutio 20 to 1, Woodland Belle 4½, others 10 to 150 to 1.

The sixth and last race was at a mile. Jack O' Lantern led for over five furlongs, Simmons running second for about half a mile, Col. Wheeler third. The latter went up first nearing the three-quarters, and won rather easily by a length, Stentor second and driven out, two lengths before imp. Ivy, who ran a good race with the weight up. Time, 1:46½. Col. Wheeler was at 16 to 5, Stentor 9 to 10, Ivy 50 to 1, Simmons 4, others 20 to 30 to 1.

FIFTY-NINTH DAY—TUESDAY, MARCH 2.

The first event was a three and a half furlong race for two-year-olds. After Irritator had broken through the barrier a couple of times they were sent away to a straggling start. Irritator off in front, St. Philip second, Morelito next. Irritator led St. Philip by two lengths into the homestretch, and though the latter assumed command about fifty yards of the finish, Irritator came again and won by a nose. St. Philip second, four lengths in front of Morelito, who beat Eroica one length. Time, 0:44. Irritator was at 4 to 1 (5 for some time), St. Philip 7, Morelito 6, Eroica 4, others 8 to 60 to 1.

In the second, six furlongs, the most astounding send-off ever seen here was made in all likelihood, Yemen, the favorite, and Geo. Palmer, to the consternation of the assemblage, being left standing stark still. Sweet William was away in front, and leading Trappean by five lengths at the half, won galloping by fifteen lengths from Reddington, who went up second three furlongs from home. Perseus, three lengths further away, beat Trappean a head driving. Time, 1:16. Sweet William was at 4 to 1, Reddington 15, Perseus 3, Yemen 9 to 10, others 15 to 200 to 1.

In the third, for two-year-olds, three and a half furlongs, they were off poorly. Miss Rowena in front. She was going like a shot, and leading Kummel by four lengths at the three-quarters, won easily by six. Duckling, coming strong in the homestretch, second, with Moringa at his saddle, latter a head before Al Koran, coming fast at the finish. Time, 0:43. A very fast race in such going. Miss Rowena and Duckling (coupled) were at 4 to 5, Moringa 8, Kummel 5, Al Koran 7, others 10 to 100 to 1.

The fourth was at a mile and an eighth, selling. They were away quickly to a good start, and Encino led past the stand by a length, Tuxedo second, as far from Hermanita. Encino was two and a half lengths to the good at the quarter, Hermanita second with Can't Dance at her heels. Morte Fosse was last of all, away back. At the half it was Encino first by two lengths, Can't Dance second, as far from Hermanita. Encino's lead was cut to a length at the three-quarters, Can't Dance second, two from Hermanita, Morte Fosse fourth and coming fast. Encino had enough half-way down the homestretch, and Can't Dance came on and won easily by five lengths, Morte Fosse a strong-coming second, one length from Foremost. Time, 1:59. Can't Dance was at 3 to 1, Morte Fosse 5 (opened at 2 1/2), Foremost 15, Joe Terry 6 to 5 (opened at 2 1/2 to 1), Hermanita 4 1/2 (played from 8), Encino 50, Tuxedo 200.

The last was at seven furlongs, for three-year-olds. Greyhurst, Nehule, and Scarf Pin were the order to a fair start. Greyhurst, Nehule, and Scarf Pin ran about half lengths apart past the quarter. At the half it was Greyhurst and Scarf Pin head and head, a length from Nehula, Good Times now began his run, and was within striking distance of Scarf Pin and Greyhurst at the head of the homestretch, coming on down the center of the track and winning by one and a half lengths, Greyhurst second, driving, half a length before Scarf Pin. Time, 1:33. Good Times was at 3 to 1, Greyhurst 9 to 5, Scarf Pin 3 to 2, Nehula 10 and Philip H. 250 to 1.

SIXTIETH DAY—WEDNESDAY, MARCH 3.

In the first, six furlongs, Popinjay showed first to a good start, Roy Carruthers second and Towster third. The latter lost no time getting to the front, leading Carruthers a length at the half, Tulare, The Tourist, Popinjay and Queen Nubia closely hunched. Towster was still a length to the good at the three-quarters, Carruthers, Queen Nubia, Tulare and Miss Ban heads apart as named. Queen Nubia got a length lead half-way down the homestretch, Towster falling back, and though Roy Carruthers tried hard, Queen Nubia lasted long enough to win by a neck, Roy Carruthers second, two lengths from Tulare, he five in front of Moreno, last away. Time, 1:14. Queen Nubia was at 3 to 1, Roy Carruthers 5, Tulare 7, Towster 2 1/2 (backed from 4), others 3 to 300 to 1.

In the second, half a mile, Moringa showed first to a good start, except for Little T. G., left, Extensore second and On Gua Nita next. Old Jack ran up from fourth place and was first by a head at the head of the homestretch, On Gua Nita second, a length from Niton, who got away sixth. Old Jack swerved and floundered about in the homestretch, or he might have won, but Niton passed to the front over a sixteenth from home and won handily by a length, Morene second, two lengths from Old Jack, who beat Moringa a length. Time, 0:52. Niton was at 8 to 5, Morana 3 1/2, Old Jack 15, Moringa 4 1/2, On Gua Nita 5, Little T. G., 10, Sem Carlos 20 and Extensore 40 to 1.

In the third, six furlongs, selling, Woodland Belle, off second, went to the fore at once, leading by half a length past the half and by three lengths at the three-quarters, Emma D. second, a head before Mainstay, who was sixth at the start. The latter gained all the way down the homestretch, but Thorpe did not make his very strong move until it was a bit too late, Woodland Belle winning by a neck, driving, Mainstay second, two lengths before Nerenji, who beat Veragua fer. Time, 1:19. Woodland Belle was at 3 to 1, Mainstay 2 1/2, Naranja 3 to 2, others 12 to 100 to 1.

The fourth event was a hurdle race, one and a quarter miles. Tuxedo took the track at the outset, and making every post a winning one after the stand was passed, won easily by three lengths from Hello, who passed Gov. Budd in the last sixteenth, beating him out two lengths. The Governor laid away out of it until about three furlongs from home. Time, 2:25. Tuxedo was at 3 to 2, Hello 5 to 1, Gov. Budd 13 to 5, Herman 6 and Artemus 7 to 1.

In the fifth, one mile, selling, to a poor start Benemela went at once to the fore, leading Babe Murphy one and a half lengths at the quarter. McLight ran up second, one and a half lengths behind Benemela, at the half, Babe Murphy lapped on McLight. Benemela drew away fast, leading by four lengths at the three-quarters, McLight still second, lapped by the Babe. Willie Martin eased Benemela in the final eighth and Babe Murphy drew up very close, but when the favorite was given his head he shot in a handy winner by half a length, Babe Murphy second, four lengths before Hazard, who beat Boreas far. Time, 1:46. Benemela was at 9 to 10, Babe Murphy 3 to 5 (backed from 2 1/2 to 1), Hazard 10 to 1, others 12 to 100 to 1.

The last was at seven furlongs. To a fair start Gutta Percha went right to the front, leading Woodchopper by a length at the quarter, and Double Quick 1 1/2 lengths at the half. The latter was sent along neering the three-quarters end led Gutta Percha by a head at that point, Sallie Cliequot third, a length away. Double Quick was not headed thereafter, winning handily by half a length from the fast-coming Sallie Cliequot, who beat Lovdal two lengths. Time, 1:31. Double Quick was at 7 to 5, Sallie Cliequot 3 1/2 to 1, Lovdal 10, others 6 to 150 to 1.

SIXTY-FIRST DAY—THURSDAY, MARCH 4.

The first was for three-year-olds, one mile. They were away to a fair start, Alme being first and the favorite, Soniro, last. The latter was cut off on the first turn. Flambeauette and Sepoy ran head and head past the quarter, then positions were reversed. Alme was third, two lengths away. Sepoy led by a head at the three-quarters, Flambeauette second, lapped by Inflammator. Sepoy and Flambeauette fell back beaten and Inflammator assumed command. Atticus came very fast, but swerved into Inflammator twice, losing ground. The latter after the second swerve tried to "save" Atticus, but failing to catch him with his teeth, went on and won by half a length, driving, Atticus second, six lengths from Soniro, who was probably the best horse in the race. Time, 1:47. Inflammator was at 2 1/2 to 1 (3 once), Atticus 60, Soniro 8 to 5, Alma 2 to 1, Sepoy 30, Flambeauette 50 to 1.

The second was at six furlongs, selling. Potentate, off third and on the fly, shot by his horses end led by four lengths at the half, Pat Murphy second, a length from Una Que Amo. Potentate was three lengths to the good at the three-quarters, Pat Murphy second, as far from Roy Carruthers and Una Que Amo, head and head. It was a mere gallop for Potentate, who won by two lengths from the driven-out Pat Murphy, he ten lengths in front of Una Que Amo. Time, 1:16. Potentate was at 4 to 1 (played from 5 1/2), Pat Murphy 9 to 20 (played from 3 to 5), Una Que Amo 75 to 1, Tempestuous 8, others 12 to 75 to 1.

The third was at a mile. Damien led by a length past the quarter, Argentina second, lapped by Argentina. David ran up very fast and led Damien a head at the half and three-quarters, Howard S. against the inner rails, third, close up to the latter. He came very fast in the homestretch, assuming the lead half-way down, Damien stopping badly. David came again, and gave Howard S. a hard race, but the youngster won by a head, David four lengths before Argentina, who beat Damien as far. Time, 1:45. Howard S. was at 3 to 1 (4 once), David 10, Argentina 4 1/2, Damien 7 to 10, Palomacia 50 to 1.

The fourth was also a mile race, Encino went to the fore, leading by three parts of a length at the quarter, Sweet William second, two lengths from Merjorie. At the half it was Sweet William first by a length, Encino second, as far from Merjorie. Sweet William held his lead to the three-quarters, where Merjorie was second, lapped by Encino. Merjorie soon thereafter assumed command, and though George Palmer and Joe Terry came very strong, had enough left to win by a neck, George Palmer second, half a length before Joe Terry, he as far in front of Encino. Time, 1:45. Merjorie was at 8 to 5 (played down from 3 to 1), George Palmer 2 1/2 to 1, Joe Terry 3 to 1, Sweet William 5, Encino 30, Joan and Franco 200 to 1.

In the fifth, seven furlongs, to a good start, Midlo sealed to the front, leading McLight one and one-half lengths at the quarter, two at the half and three at the three-quarters, Clissie B. being third at the and half, Three Cheers third at the three-quarters. Midlo quit very badly in the last sixteenth, and McLight, running a game race, came on and won by a head in the last couple of strides, Two Cheers a fast-coming third, a length away, four lengths before Road Runner. Time, 1:31. McLight was at 13 to 5 (played from 3 to 1), Midlo 1 to 2 (7 to 10 once), Two Cheers 50 to 1, others 15 to 100 to 1.

The last was at half a mile, for two-year-olds. After quite a long delay they were sent off to a poor start, end St. Philip led by half a length to the homestretch, Queen Mab second, Sir William third and close up. Morelita assumed command half-way down the homestretch and won driving by a head from Count of Flanders, on whom St. Philip was lapped. Queen Mab got a dead easy ride. Time, 0:51. Morelita was at 25 to 1, the Macdonough pair (St. Philip and Count of Flanders) 7 to 1, Flinsington 8, Queen Meh 12, others 15 to 100 to 1.

VICTORY! THE BATTLE'S WON!

THE POOL ROOMS CLOSED BY ORDER OF JUDGE WALLACE.

The Breeder and Sportsman's Position on the Harmful Results of Their Existence Sustained.

The long fight that has been waged against the existence of those "sink holes of iniquity" (the sure-thing man's pool-rooms) by the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN has at last been won. For many years it has made this fight single-handed, and by the action of Judge Wallace, its position has been upheld and its honest labors sustained.

For the past six weeks these poolrooms have been kept open to the detriment of both associations by the publication of the news in the Evening Post and the Sporting World, which all the habitués of these places relied solely upon, viz., the names of the jockeys and the scratches.

The owner of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN would not publish this information even though he realized that the circulation of his paper was decreased by its omission. But now that the poolrooms have closed, its patrons will have all the information that can be obtained for their benefit. It will publish the names of all the jockeys and scratches, and, as usual, the only correct index and form charts in this city, as well as its reliable form forecasts and tips on each day's races. Many new features will be added that will be interesting to its readers. We feel there is cause for rejoicing and believe that our stand in the interest of legitimate sport ever since the daily was started four years ago is upheld. Following is a brief synopsis of the good work done Saturday:

The poolroom ordinance passed by the late Board of Supervisors was sustained Saturday by Judge Wallace. The question of the validity of the ordinance was introduced in the case by Thomas Glynn, on appeal from the Police Court, where he was convicted of misdemeanor. Judge Wallace sustained the judgment of the Police Court, saying that the ordinance was reasonable and just. It has been contended by P. F. Dunne, counsel for the defendant, that it was unreasonable and incomprehensible. It was unreasonable, he had argued, because it bestowed special privileges upon the bookmakers at the race track. It was incomprehensible because its provisions were complicated to such an extent that it was impossible to ascertain who were exempt from penalty. Judge Wallace said that the argument was ingenious, but that it was in line with suggestions made by him several months ago in a case in which he declared a pool order was insufficient to cover cases of selling on commission. Moreover, he considered that the ordinance was one that was in furtherance of good morals and in accordance with public policy.

The effect of the decision will be to prevent selling on commission or otherwise on horse races except on racetracks. The ordinance was passed December 21st, it is as follows:

Prohibiting all persons from engaging in selling pools or bookmaking, or making bets or wagers on races or other contests between horses wherein money or other articles of value are staked or pledged or receiving or placing money or other property for such purposes by carriers, agents, brokers, or commissionaires, except in certain places. The ordinance prohibits any person outside of a race track from receiving or recording wagers or selling pools on any trial or contest of skill or endurance between horses, or from receiving or contracting to receive any money or representative of money either as agent, carrier or commission broker, or in any representative capacity, for the purpose of recording or registering a wager or creating a pool upon any contest between horses. It also prohibits persons from becoming the custodian of a bet outside of a racetrack or in any way handling a wager. The penalty for violation of the ordinance is a fine not to exceed $500 or imprisonment for not more than six months in jail.

I EARNESTLY hope my subscribers and advertisers will not think I have anything to do with the methods used by F. W. Kelley or the Pacific Law and Collection Company to collect any bills owing the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN. The Jas. P. Kerr estate, under F. W. Kelley's management, notified all delinquents that they were in arrears through attorneys and collectors; then the accounts passed into the hands of this collection agency, which is pursuing exactly the same methods, which, by the way, do not meet with my approval. W. M. G. LAYNG.

SPECIAL DEPARTMENT

JOSEPH CAIRN SIMPSON.

LENT.—The season of somberness, penance, tribulation, and now it is proposed in "Harper" that Merch be curtailed and the subtracted days added to June.

Unquestionably true that June is the great month of the Eastern year.

I was firm in the opinion that an Iowa June was the perfection of climatic enjoyment, superior to an English May lauded so enthusiastically by Addison, Steele and others of the celebrated essayists of the days of Queen Anne. That was, however, before visiting California, and now after twenty-three years' residence have no hesitancy in asserting that February and March are likely to be still superior.

The whole month of February is frequently a succession of brilliant days, sunshine, salubrity of temperature, flowers, verdant fields, and though from sunrise to sunset the days are short, that is the only chance for fault-finding. Not even an opportunity for grumbling, as ten hours of such grand weather should be enough to satisfy the most exacting sybarite.

Winter racing has been so heartily anathematized that people are prone to overlook the advantages which California presents for the sports of the turf in these winter months, especially eastern folks who base their opinions upon the climate of that country. As I have oftentimes stated it is by odds the best season for racing on both sides of the bay affording favorable chances which are not presented during the summer months.

Eastern stables could not attend when there are so many meetings on the other side of the country, and then, too, some of the most prominent of our stables would be debarred from an Eastern trip.

That the racing here is of the very highest class cannot be truthfully denied, no better in any country, doubtless, in fact, if so good anywhere else. Two such grand racecourses could not be supported were the racing confined to the summer months, or the meetings of shorter duration.

Alternating the meetings at Ingleside and Emeryville does away with the drawback of continuous racing, and at the same time enables those who make a business of racing, to pursue it without a break.

The distance between the tracks so short that either method of transit can be followed, walking the horses from the courses to the ferry, the boats giving a chance for the horses to rest on the route, or shipping by train.

By making the journey on Sunday the streets are little obstructed so that it is only a short week without serious impediment.

The world is advancing. Some people who cannot rid themselves of the trammels of the past may be horrified by what they call desecrating Lent, but this feeling will be overcome, and in this "glorious climate" it is sure that the proposition to shorten Merch will not be sanctioned.

INCORRECT.—In the Chronicle of Wednesday appears an article which is likely to mislead. The "headlines" are somewhat sensational set in the big type which is considered the most appropriate.

OF INTEREST TO SPORTING MEN.

PLANS TO AID EMERYVILLE.

Scheme to Give the Jockey Club Complete Control Over the New Town.

Then comes:

Special Dispatch to the Chronicle:

"SACRAMENTO, March 2.—Assemblyman Bettman is lending his efforts in conjunction with Senator Bert to legalize the incorporation of Alameda county's Monte Carlo, Emeryville. To that end each introduced an innocent looking measure, entitled, 'An Act to Validate the Organization and Incorporation of Municipal Corporations.' It is about as innocent a looking bill as any yet proposed but it has a larger purpose."

A short sketch of the incorporation election held Nov. 9, 1896 follows and then copies of the bills which are identical, Bert's Senate bill being substituted for Bettman's Assembly Bill. Devoid of legal verbiage it simply provides for the validation of incorporations which have been passed upon by the supervisors, a sort of interdict against further agitation.

The conclusion of the articles in this worded: "As Emeryville, so called, embraces the race track of the California Jockey Club and little else, legitimizing its existence will forever prevent the city of Oakland from exercising any control over it, notwithstanding the track is, to all intents and purposes, within the limits of Oakland."

Bettman, in this, is serving the racing men as he served them in the case of Emmons' anti-racing bill. Though twice ordered by the Assembly to return the bill from his Committee on Public Morals, he neglected and refused to do so, and not until Emmons gave voice through the press to his demand that the bill be given proper consideration was it returned, and it was then reported back with a recommendation that it do not pass.

A rule was to-day introduced the purpose of which was to prevent the consideration of any bill reported upon unfavorably by any committee. Emmons insisted that the rule be made not to apply to any bill reported on prior to the adoption of the rule."

The city of Oakland never had any control of the "Oakland Trotting Park," as it was formally named, being outside of the city limits, and therefore subject to the supervisors of Alameda county.

Incorporation was all right provided there was a State law also in support. The contract between the P. C. J. C. and the C. J. C. limiting racing on these two tracks, between November 1st and May 15th and prohibiting foreign books as a basis for a law would be ample protection, or rather were there restrictions on the time which could be occupied during each year by any one racecourse or trotting track so that "special legislation" were avoided there would be little to fear for the future of racing in California. Without a State law there is danger. Scarcely possible that the C. J. C. would ignore the contract made with the P. C. J. C. but others might "jump at the chance" of profiting and if that were to occur there is nearly an absolute certainty of extreme measures two years from now.

"History repeating itself." Had the racecourse proprietors of Illinois, some of them at least, been able to construe the handwriting on the wall, these great courses would have still been doing a good business.

But California will grant, unless I am greatly in error, ultra-liberal statutes, awarded concessions which ensure perpetuity to horse-racing for all time to come. There is scarcely a shadow of doubt of the passage of laws which would grant any one racecourse the right to have four or five meetings in each year of twenty-four days each, had it been taken in time, and even now, with prompt action, bills might be carried through.

So far as I have heard opinions expressed, "trotting-folks" would be unanimously in favor of "protecting" the goppers, and more, a bill prepared and presented them would be enthusiastically supported.

The only opposition from the "nanco gude," and when it comes to adversaries of that class the "conservative brigade" would rush to the front.

Emeryville will not be a "Monte Carlo." That is assured by the contract already "signed and sealed." Should others essay to take advantage of the laxity of law there would be such an overpowering public opinion in opposition that the effort would be fruitless, I sincerely hope, though, the safe course is that which would render the attempt futile.

Bettman did good service "in the case of the Emmons' anti-racing bill."

The Trotting Horse Breeders' Association, without a dissenting voice, in a full meeting of its Board of Directors, expressed unqualified opposition to that bill, and telegraphed Mr. Bettman the resolution expressive of its desire. Furthermore it is safe to assert that so few of the people identified with horse-breeding in California favored such a drastic measure that it could scarcely be called a minority. Were an attempt made to pass other bills of like tenor there would be the same opposition.

Even invalidating the incorporation of Emeryville would rouse fierce disapproval. With the assurance that objectionable features will not be favored, the honest promise that the ills which might come will be sternly ignored then there will be unquestionable good from the right to conduct its own affairs. With a widely scattered governing body, members of the Board of Supervisors from all parts of the county, and the dread of possible interference there would be uncertainty, a feeling of danger, if even there was in reality no danger, interfering with the harmony of the business, and conflicting with its work. Now there is a compact board, composed of members identified with the town and its prosperity, subservient to its interests and devoted to its well-doing.

The iteration of a determination to avoid anything of a compromising nature, the avowal of marking out a course and following that which will ensure the perpetuity of racing by the contract with the P. C. J. C. should disarm opposition and when that is clear there will be none.

The C. J. C. has too great a stake at issue to accept the hazard of immediate profit when placed in the balance with ultimate profit.

In fact, with its future, as anyone who has a knowledge of what has occurred in other places must be well aware that the course which has resulted in virtual prohibition in other countries, must end in the same way here.

But with implicit belief that the C. J. C. will stand up to the contract made there is a disturbing element viz. the temptation to secure a big profit by those who are not so scrupulous, and who would willingly, gladly wreck all kinds of racing in California for the sake of the money to be made in the interval before prohibition can overtake them.

Thus a State law would render impossible, and even without that guard such an attempt might not be carried to a successful conclusion.

The Chronicle is greatly in error in the designation "Alameda County's Monte Carlo Emeryville," as there is no semblance between the noted place on the Mediterranean and the city on the eastern shore of San Francisco bay.

NO RECALL.—"Horses shall be started by flag, drum, or starting gate. Once the starter's flag has fallen, the drum been tapped, or the starting gate raised, there shall be no recall."

That is racing rule 102, California Jockey Club, and is similar, almost identical, with all former rules covering the starting. Trotting races as well as running, end in my opinion the only fair plan admissible. When horses, especially favorites, are left at the post there will be vigorous protests from those who suffer, but when the rule, as above, is inexorably enforced, the mishap will have to be accepted as a stroke of bad luck which cannot be avoided. Luck cannot be ignored in horse-racing. A potent element in the calculations of speculators. Long odds are accepted to guard against the frowns or smiles of Dame Fortune, and short odds with the knowledge that one of the opposing forces is accident. "Once the starting flag has fallen, the drum been tapped, or the starting gate been raised, there shall be no recall," is a fair and unmistakable announcement that the bettor must accept whatever good or bad fortune there is to him in the incidents of the start. Plain words, and should one be ignorant of the law that is not a valid excuse for protests after the race has been run, or a rule substituted which will meet his approval.

It would cut off all chances for argument were that plain rule printed on the daily programme and posted in conspicuous places at the track.

But there are good grounds for disapproval when recalls are sanctioned. When the flag is waved when a favorite is left or gets a bad start, and the order not given when a non-favorite is in a similar position there is clearly a breach of good faith.

Were the jockeys kept in proper subjection, punished with severity when at fault, and the starting with the gate without recall, would then fill the purpose it was designed to effect, viz.: good starts with little delay at the post. The attempt to "beat the gate" should be answered by heavy fines, and if these did not secure compliance with the mandate, suspension as well as fines.

Australia has shown the way to handle the gate and the lesson can be used to good advantage.

ADDED MEMBERS.—A long list of names, published in the paper last Saturday, members of one of the committees in connection with the Horse Show. As stated in the accompanying article the object was to secure active agents to assist in inducing people to take more interest in the exhibition, which has certainly been a credit to San Francisco, especially in the line of securing entries from those who are so deeply interested in trotting and pacing horses. There has been such a liberal support so far, that is a desire on the part of those who were named on the committee to aid in the work, that it has resolved to add more names (which are now published), and though it may appear that it is swelled to cumbersome proportions, there are good reasons for the belief that every member will give active support to the scheme.

As has been stated, every person named owns that class of horses, many of them large breeders, and it cannot be otherwise than beneficial from every point of view.

Unfortunately, there was at first a mild kind of antagonism engendered between the supporters of the English horse and those who had a predilection for the American. Entirely out of the question to argue now which had the most to do with intensifying the feeling, or the right and wrong of the subject matter. Hereafter, in the words of a lecture I was familiar with a good many years ago, "there must be no contention, but rather a noble emulation of which can best work and best agree."

At the Eastern Horse Shows the feeling of antagonism between the two breeds has vanished. They come in competition, and the awards are concurred in by the exhibitors without irascibility or displaying disagreement with the judges.

It is assured that every member of the big committee will make entries when animals owned by them are thought worthy of being named, and their influence will have a potent effect in inducing others to take part in the exhibition.

The following are the names added to the list, and before the circular appears containing the whole list of names, and the object in appointing the committee, others will be appended.

Our Woodland Letter.

WOODLAND, CAL., March 26, 1897.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN.—Mrs. Geo. Woodward is standing her stallions Alex, Button and Button Jr. at Woodland.

Mr. A. B. Rodman will have a cracker jack in the pacer David H. by Silver King, dam by Tilton Almont. This colt paced one eighth of a mile in :17, and a quarter in :35½, as a two-year-old. Mr. Rodman will also make a season with his stallion Gold Rose here this year. He bred all of his fine mares to Gold Rose in '96 and all are with foal. He will no doubt have a large season this year.

Wm. Rehmkne, the Woodland breeder has two colts in the hands of the great driver Jimmie Sullivan of Willows. One is a three-year-old by Alex. Button dam by Mambrino, Wilkes, the other a two-year-old by Waldstein dam by Mambrino Wilkes. It is a beauty.

The Old Reliable, Peter Fitzgerald, has a two-year-old by Waldstein that he claims will be the best stallion in this State inside of two years. "Peter never makes a mistake."

Thomas Gibson, the hardware merchant, has a thoroughbred by Mosby that can show better than a 40-gait at the trot and is expected by "Tom" to be the two-minute trotter; he is only a yearling.

George Hennigan predicts that he will have nearly one hundred mares for the draft stallion, Jumbo.

James Crutcher was made a present last year of a colt by Waldstein and out of the dam of Rosy More, which bids to become a great one.

Dick Johanson lost his great colt by Waldstein. It was a very fast one. His dam was by Illustrations.

Mr. Newton, the former owner of Tom Rider, will still argue that Old Tom was the greatest pacer in the country.

Skater, the pacer that Mr. Hessing thinks a good one will rest up this year and be trained for the races in '98. He expects to have a flyer in David H.

It looks as though every person having a mare will breed her this year. They know a thing or two now when they see the horse buyers paying large prices for horses.

Wm. Crane is getting his Waldstein colt Wallace ready for the Futurity here this year. He also has a yearling, full brother to Wallace, that is said to be a cracker jack.

John Martin better known as "Strawberry Martin" has a roan pacer by Alex. Button, he is three years old and will be hard to beat.

Hi, Hoggoboom still claims that there is only one stallion, and that's Waldstein, stay with it Hi, you'll prove it yet.

There is a report that Sam Hoy of Winters has the greatest string in the country. We all wish him success.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN.—At the annual meeting of the Alameda Driving Association held on Monday, March 1st, business was transacted as follows:

ST. NICHOLAS is the center of attraction among the horses near Walnut creek. He will be bred to a number of excellent mares this season. Several of his progeny are in training and will be seen in the race this year.

T. J. FRAZIER of Lexington, Ky., has been made secretary of the Overland Park Racing Association, Denver, Col.

AZOTE, 2:04½, arrived at Pleasanton last Friday. He is looking well, but it is doubtful if he will ever be seen in any races.

MILO KNOX has Dudley 2:14 at Haywards, where he will stand him for a short season and then prepare him for the fall races.

CHAS. DUFFEE says he is getting a number of inquiries from owners of good mares, and has no doubt McKinney's book will be well filled.

EVERY man who owns a Diablo foal claims he has the "fastest on earth." We shall see a number of these "Diablos" out this year.

OF the first six foals of Sallie Benton, 2:17½, the one-time four-year-old champion trotter, the four which lived all took records of better than 2:20.

JAMES DUNCAN of Salinas will breed his favorite driving mare Gracie D., by James Madison 2:17½, to Bruno 2:16. The produce should be valuable.

THE greatest interest is being taken in the light harness horse industry since it has been shown by statistics that good horses are becoming scarcer every year.

CAPT. GEO. N. STONE who bought Maud S. for $350 as an unbroken two-year old, says that her gait at that time was "single-foot, pace, amble—anything but a trot."

JAS. LEONARD arrived at Pleasanton, Thursday evening, from Montana. He went there to make arrangements about the David Bricker horses which he has at Pleasanton.

JAS. MAGUIRE is handling the two-year-old filly by Direct 2:05½ out of Stemwinder 2:30½ (dam of Directum 2:05½) by Venture. This is a trotter, and a mighty good one.

EIGHTY SEVEN trotting-bred horses, with scarcely an exception, drafted from the blue grass State, were shipped to Vienna, Austria, on the steamer Prussia, which sailed last Saturday.

IN Princeton, Colusa county, John Boggs has a number of splendidly-matched teams sired by some of the best horses in the North. Mr. Boggs is one of the best judges of horses in California.

THE freight charges on the San Mateo consignment of fifty-two horses from Burlingame, Cal. to New York amounted to about $5,000—practically $100 per horse, old and young.

A LARGE delegation of horse owners visited J. H. White's farm, at Lakeville to see Seymour Wilkes 2:08½, the fastest son of Guy Wilkes in California, and were delighted with his appearance.

THE demand for heavy horses in all our large cities since the revival of business has had the effect of increasing their value, but very few people in California are breeding this kind of a horse.

EGOTIST, 2:22½, the well-known son of Electioneer and Sprite, by Belmont, now owned at Clover Bottom Farm, Tennessee, is to be trained this season. It is believed that he will trot in 2:15.

WE understood that Capt. Thos. Merry (Hidalgo) was married last week to a very estimable young lady of Los Angeles. "All the world loves a lover," so we tender the happy couple our hearty congratulations.

HAD Senator Leland Stanford lived one week longer McKinney 2:11½, would be one of the premier stallions at Palo Alto. Negotiations for the sale were pending at the time of Senator Stanford's death.

ADONIS 2:11½, by Sidney, has been boss of the road at Providence, R. I., for several seasons, but is now in eclipse, as the Gov. Sprague gelding, Charley P., 2:11½, beat him in a match on the snow the other day.

OVER twenty horses are being handled on the Colusa track, among those who are driving them may be noticed: C. L. Derman, C. E. Taylor, E. Donnelly, F. M. Mitchell, B. Franklin, J. Van Winkle and J. L. Davis.

THE pasture on J. H. White's farm, Lakeville, was never better. All the horses there are rolling fat and the best care is taken of them. We do not know of a stock farm in the vicinity of San Francisco Bay to compare with it.

THOS. SMITH of Vallejo had a very promising two-year-old filly (full sister to Stella 2:15½) by Geo. Washington 2:16½, which died last Tuesday. Mr. Smith writes "she was the most promising trotter I ever handled and I feel her loss keenly."

IF the harvest in California is as heavy as all the far-seeing farmers predict, there will be trouble to gather it, for horses will be so scarce that every kind of a "cayuse" will be pressed into service, and even then many thousands of acres will have to remain untouched.

E. C. PEART, the enterprising merchant of Colusa, is working night and day to make the race meeting that is to take place there in May a success. He says that if Colusa gets an appropriation "we shall give the best meeting to be held north of Sacramento."

CHAS. WELBY has a son of Electricity at his farm near Grayson, which he calls Tennyson. He bred him to a few mares and the progeny are the talk of all the horsemen in that part of the San Joaquin. They are grand looking and seem to be "horn a trottin'."

WE want every owner of horses with records, or that are in training, to send in the names, pedigrees and records if they have any. We want to publish a list to enable the secretaries of the various agricultural associations in California to arrange their programmes.

CORRESPONDENTS wanted for the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN in every agricultural district in California. We want all the information possible about matters referring to horses of all kinds, dogs, hunting, trap shooting and fishing. Now is the time to gather the news.

G. W. MAXWELL, of Woodland, Wash., has lost his fine mare, by Silver Bow, 2:16, dam by Altamont. This was the only colt in Oregon by this horse, and her owner prized her very highly. She left a yearling filly, by Scarlet Letter. A barb wire fence was the cause of her death.

F. H. HOLLOWAY writes from Los Angeles, Cal.: "The good people of Pomona are building a half-mile track and intend to be in the swim with the rest of the world. Mr. A. J. Bush is taking the lead and doing most of the work. I will locate there soon with a good stable of young things."

PRICES received on the last day of the Kellogg sale indicate that the demand for good horses has not diminished of late, neither have prices on that class weakened, in spite of the great number that have lately been thrown on the market in Lexington, Chicago, New York, and other localities.

THE schedule of purse amounts to be offered by the Grand Circuit cities this season is as follows: Saginaw, $18,000; Detroit, $50,000; Cleveland, $45,000; Columbus, $30,000; Fort Wayne, $18,000; Indianapolis, $18,000; Glens Falls, $18,000; Readville, $35,000; New York, $40,000—total $272,000.

WM. MURRAY of Pleasanton has a two-year-old by Diablo 2:09½ out of a gray mare belonging to Dr. Knowles of Los Gatos that is one of the best sired by this horse. He is a pacer and will be seen on the circuit this year. Mr. Murray has a three-year-old by this horse that is a rapid-going side-wheeler.

COL. ALVISO, of Pleasanton, has a Direct filly out of Rosita A., 2:14½, that is a good one. Rosita is heavy with foal to Diablo. The Colonel is said to arise from his bed several times every night to see if the little one has arrived. He has lost many hours of good rest, but thinks that little one will pay it all back on the double.

BELLE ACTON 2:20½, who still holds the champion record for yearling pacers, is sound and well, and it is believed will prove herself one of the best race mares out the coming season. Because she could not go good in the mud at Omaha and St. Joe last fall some one dubbed her a disappointment to her owners. This is a mistake; they believe her capable of 2:10 and better.

DR. E. M. CONROY, Ogden, Utah, has sent his fast pacing mare, Mollie M., to Alameda, to be bred to Altamont. The first, second and third dams of Mollie M. are pacers and producers of pacers and she is very fast herself. She is now in foal to Wahsatch, son of Woodnut. Dr. Conroy is in pursuit of the two-minute pacer, and writes that he would rather breed to Altamont than to any horse living.

J. P. FOSTER, Foster Stock Farm, Bangor, S. D., has purchased the stallion, Connoisseur, by Electioneer, dam Consolation (dam of Utility 2:13, etc.), by Dictator, of E. A. Engler, former President of the Highland Stock Farm Co., Dubuque, Ia., and has leased him to the Sherwood Farm, Sheldon, Ia., where he will be principally used on mares by Lockheart 2:08½, out of mares by Woodford Wilkes.

A. CONNICK of Eureka, Humboldt county, is enthusiastic over the appearance of the youngsters by Wayland W., 2:12, there. He says he never saw a sire that impresses himself so strongly on his progeny as this one. Mr. Connick has, among a number of others, a colt by this horse, out of a mare by Conn's Harry Wilkes; second dam Belle, 2:11, by Melbourne King. It is as handsome as a picture and is very promising.

A CAR of horses will be shipped the coming week from Vancouver, Wash., to J. W. Tilden, Red Oak, Iowa, to be trained and campaigned through the East. The lot will comprise eight head, including Touchet, whose record of 2:15 was made as a three-year-old, and two other colts, by Altamont—Tecora, being full brothers, therefore, to Del Norte 2:08, and Touchet, 2:15. Touchet is now six years old, and it is confidently expected that she will be the seventh Altamont to enter the 2:10 list.

J. B. Buckland will, as usual, again train a public stable at Chillicothe, O., this year. He now has in his hands Senator Rose 2:13, by Sultan; Viola, 2, 2:30 (now 6), by Senator Rose; Virginus, 2, by Judge Rider 2:26, dam 2:26, dam the pacer Machete 2:21½, by Brown Hal; Mary S., 3, by Senator Rose, dam Mamie Clarke, by C. F. Clay; Senator Alert, 3, by Senator Rose, dam Lady Alert, by Alert; J. T. H., 2, by Senator Rose, dam Nora H., by Tasc; J. B., 3, by son of Gambetta Wilkes, dam Flora H.; Adron Boy, 1, by Senator Rose, dam Cloone, by C. F. Clay.

THOS. KEATING is boasting about a three-year-old trotter by Diablo 2:09½ out of a mare by Gen. Benton that he is handling at Pleasanton. He says: "She is better than Ottinger and I like her better than any trotter I ever pulled a line over." This "phenom" belongs to Louis Crellin of the Ruby Hill Vineyard, Pleasanton.

THE members of every agricultural district in California are waiting patiently to see if the legislators will live up to their promises to see that appropriations are made for the holding of district fairs. The bill was returned to the printer on Tuesday last for correction of errors. As the Legislature will adjourn next Saturday, March 13th, there is little time to be lost. Every farmer, stockraiser, orchardist and businessman in California who pays taxes hopes to see this bill become a law, for it is the only one whereby they can see that the money will be returned to them.

THE condition of Guy Wilkes when brought into the sale ring was a decided surprise to almost everyone present. He was badly tucked up in appearance, which was the result of the 3000-mile shipment. As the son of George Wilkes had not been away from home in a long time, the excitement caused him to get off his feed. There is not the least doubt that had he been able to have a couple of months' rest on this side, and so get back to his normal condition, it would have made thousands of dollars difference in his price.—American Horse Breeder.

TO ORDER 2:12½, pacing, at three years, the son of Thistle 2:13½ and Maud 2:20, owned by Wm. D. Rhead, of Hudson, Mich., is wintering finely, and promises to have his name carried to the front by several fast youngsters the coming season, among them Jeremiah, who worked a half last year as a two-year-old in 1:07½, and Handy, equally as fast. Mr. Rhead is now jogging both these, together with a three-year-old, a trotter, that is showing well. Kefuss Bros. have a very fast filly by To Order, called Della Fox, and W. H. Bronson, a colt that showed phenomenal speed as a yearling.

THE following mares have been hooked to Dictatus for this season from Monterey County: Judge Vanderhurst's two fine mares by Junio, Salinas Maid 2:30, and Mamie V.; J. B. Iverson's game pacing mare, Ivola 2:20½ by Antevolo 2:19½; Jos. J. Connor's consistent campaigner Maud H. 2:24, by Carr's Mambrino; Hiram Corey's Alice H. 2:16, by Nutwood 2:18½; and three of J. A. Trescony's mares, one by Capt. Kohl, one by A. W. Richmond and one by Sidney 2:19½. Dictatus is one of the best-bred horses in this State, and as a few of his progeny are in the vicinity of Salinas, they have caused all horse breeders there to become enthusiastic over him.

TWENTY-ONE American 2:15 trotters are now owned in Europe: Trevilian, 2:08½; Bravado, 2:10½; Robbie P., 2:10½; Alvin, 2:11; Mattie H., 2:11½; Quartermarch, 2:11½; Vic H., 2:12½; Azmon, 2:13½; Falkland, 2:13½; Favors, 2:12½; Prince Herschel, 2:13; Maggie Sherman, 2:13½; Helen Leyburn, 2:14; Honeywood, 2:14½; Monette, 2:14½; Corinne, 2:14½; Don Lorell, 2:14½; Ernsie, 2:14½; Henrico, 2:15; Quarterstretch been bought for shipment in the last two weeks: Daily Wilkes, 2:11½; Moxie, 2:12½; Lake Erie, 2:13½; and Vipsania, 3, 2:14½. It is also reported that Fred S. Moody, 3, 2:14, and Fred Kohl, 2:12½, are destined for the old country.

JAMES W. REA, leading politician, real estate agent, and proprietor of the Vendome Stock Farm of San Jose, intends to campaign his great young stallion Iran Alto, 3, 2:19½ this year and in consequence thereof he has booked the following named seven choice mares to the game campaigner Boodle, 2:12½ ("the horse without a bnt") viz: Nettie Nutwood, (dam of Hillsdale, 2:15), by Nutwood; Yrdrell, by Nutwood 2:18½, (dam by John Nelson); Laura R. 2:21½, (dam of Minnie B. 2:26½), by Electioneer; Linda Oak, by Guy Wilkes, 2:15½, (dam by Nutwood) 2:18½; Msdallah, 2:22 by Primus; Bonnie Piedmont, by Piedmont, dam by General Benton; Avondale by Antiochus 2:23½, dam Yrdrell by Nutwood 2:18½.

JOHN BOGGS, of Princeton, Colusa county, says, in speaking of our researches to ascertain the breeding of Oro Wilkes, grandam: "Lady Hibbard was a black mare that I believe was the gamest and best road mare that I ever sat behind. She was brought to California by a man named Montgomery, who stopped at Penn Valley; Alexandria, and Dan Hibbard came also with Montgomery. Jesse Wall, of Oskland, who is employed in the San Francisco Mint, remembers this man and these horses. Judge W. E. Greene got a filly by Wissabickon, out of Alexandria that was a good one. In regard to Black Prince, by Long Island Hambletonian, I remember the horse but do not know what his sire's breeding was. Mr. Calden, who owned Alexandria, died many years ago."

WE have received from J. Owen Moore, Walnut Grove Stock Farm, Washingtonville, N. Y., the following interesting communication in regard to the breeding of Evelyn W., the dam of Thelma, 2:20½: "The pedigree of Evelyn W., the dam of Thelma, 2:20½, taken from the record in California, is as follows: She was bred at Rancho del Paso, Cal., John Mackey, Supt., foaled 1884. At an auction sale Oct. 25, 1887, she was purchased by John A. Goldsmith, who afterward bred her to Sidney and she produced Thelma. She is by Norwood, her dam Young Lola was by George M. Patchen, Jr., he by George M. Patchen. Her second dam was Lola by John Nelson, he by imported Trustee. It affords me very great pleasure to furnish these facts, as they confirm the pedigree heretofore given, which was questioned, and prove her a pretty well-bred animal."

IT is seldom that insanity in a horse is proved, but a case of this peculiar kind occurred in Suisun recently. A short time ago some hunters hired a rig and drove to the marshes. The horse was doubtless driven hard and was allowed to stand in the cold for some hours. Although blanketed the animal caught a severe cold in the head which was indicated by his inflamed eyes and a swelling. The horse seemed to suffer great pain, and the treatment of the veterinary surgeon did not relieve it. Soon the animal commenced performing antics similar to those indulged in by a human being when in a hopeless state of insanity. He was placed in a box stall and in moments of extreme suffering became dangerous to approach. On succeeding days the horse became worse and started to butt his head savagely against the sides of the stall and in the course of continual wild rushes the head of the animal was battered to a jelly, which caused his death.—Suisun Republican.

THE SADDLE.

The first Domino colt, recently foaled at James R. Keene's Kentucky ranch, is dead. It's dam was Citronella.

COL. M. LEWIS CLARK will be the presiding judge at Memphis' spring meeting and Kit Chinn the starter.

SONS and daughters of the expatriated California sire Argyla won the sum of $8,367 on the American turf in 1896.

TRAINER JOE FERGUSON thinks Gratify will not be able to race again. He has been a performer far above the ordinary.

LAZZARONE is taking sea baths regularly at Brighton, and his owner and trainer are confident that he will stand training again this year.

TRAINER JOHN GIVENS says that Crescendo will be taken East with the Burk stable and rested up until right good. He should then earn enough to bring the stable home.

JAMES B. FERGUSON has decided to start the gallopers on the Montana circuit again this year. He had phenomenal success at Butte and Anaconda last season, and was much liked in that section.

TWO CALIFORNIA-BRED ones were successful at Barksdale, Md., on Washington's Birthday—Oskaleta (by Ben Ali—Kitten) and Jews Harp (by imp. Kyrle Daly—Music). Both wins were at five furlongs.

The old campaigner Lazzarone is being put through a course of training at Brighton Beach. He is rounding to in great shape, and his owner expects him to be in good campaigning trim this spring.

THREE of the six winners at Ingleside yesterday first saw the light at Rancho del Paso. We refer to Queen Nubia, Niton and Benamela. Besides, Sallie Clignot (second), Tulare and Gov. Budd (third) were bred there.

TILLIE S., Eddie Sachs' fast Major Ban colt, foaled on February 20th a chestnut filly by imp. Loyalist, son of The Marquis and Loyal Peeress, by The Peer. The mare is now at Palo Alto, and will be bred again to the same horse.

QUEEN NUBIA, winner of the first race Wednesday, is the first of the get of imp. Calvados to win a race in America. She is a brown filly owned by Ed. Corrigan. He paid Lou White $1,000 for her not long. The Queen's dam is Sister Warwick.

STARTER DICK HAVEY will drive the Palo Alto harness racers after the meeting at Ingleside comes to an end. This is no new business with Dick, for he has long been considered among the Coast's best reinsmen, and in years ago piloted many celebrities to victory.

THE last issue of the Thoroughbred Record contains a fine picture of Owas, sire of Pat Dunne's good colt, Outlay, and nearly a full brother to Iroquois, being by Reform (son of imp. Leamington) from Maggie B. B., dam of Iroquois. The last named was by imp. Leamington.

MR. JAS. R. KEENE has sent two three-year-olds to England with Jacob Pincus for English competition. They sailed last Thursday. The pair are: St. Cloud, by Candlemas, out of Belle of Maywood—Tenny's dam, and Voter, by Friar's Balsam—Mavourneen. Both are well engaged.

CELLA and SIPPY will ship East next week, as they are engaged at Little Rock and other Southern racing points. Mr. Sippy has been very unlucky with his horses, which is generally regretted by California owners and trainers. Simmons and Merry Monarch have proved great disappointments.

A LEXINGTON, Ky., dispatch of Monday was as follows: Maceo has gone wrong again. Byron McClelland has been working faithfully with him all winter, and thought he had him entirely cured, but last week when he came in from a trot through the field he was dead lame. Just what his trouble is nobody seems to know.

NITON, winner of the second race Wednesday, is the first of the Islingtons to race in America, we believe, and the first to win, surely. Islington is an own brother to Ingleside, the heaviest winner in the entire history of the turf. Niton's dam was the good race mare, Aunt Jane, dam of the winners Moses B., Wicklow and Lady Jane.

THE veteran turfman, Green B. Morris, is again the owner of Lobengula. President Williams purchased the horse to win the four-mile race at Oakland, and after his disappointing race sold him back again to his original owner at $500 less than cost price. As the horse won second money, Mr. Williams is only about $200 out by the transaction.

WE received the following dispatch Wednesday morning, and it shows what a good, energetic Secretary like Nathanson can accomplish: "Chicago, March 3.—EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN: Ideal Park's nineteen stakes closed with an average of over one hundred entries each. The list includes all leading California stables. M. NATHANSON, Secretary."

JOCKEY ARTHUR HINRICHS is said to have incurred the displeasure of the Barksdale, Md., management, and will not be allowed to ride there. Hinrichs is much above the average jockey from an intellectual point of view. He was originally intended for an engraver, and is to-day one of the prettiest pen-and-ink workers in the country and a bad example of misapplied talent. Mexico, Guatemala and Venezuela are still open to him.

MISTAKE, the dam of Gilead, Hermitage, Glen Ellen, Myatery and Kildare, foaled on March 1st, a chestnut colt by imp. Clieyden. Rebecca, by Hobhard—Electra, had a bay filly by imp. Clieyden on Washington's Birthday. Catalina, by Wheatley, foaled a bay filly by the same horse on the 2d of February. All of the above are at the J. B. Chase place, Sonoma, Cal. Rebecca's filly is declared to be one of the best ever foaled at this well-known breeding establishment.

THERE has been considerable speculation as to who Little T. G. was named for. It could not be Little Tommy Griffin, because Little T. G. is a filly. The conclusion was finally reached that it was intended for Little Tin God.

JOCKEY REIFF leads the jockey winning list at New Orleans, with Scherrer, Morse and Dorsey close up. G. C. Bennett leads the winning owners list. Up to Monday last he had won $6,441. E. S. Gardner & Son, $5,204; H. McCarren Jr., $3,368; F. T. Wood, $2,935; F. Reagan, $2,775 and Caesar Young, $2,545, were the other winners of over $2,500.

EIGHT stake races are to be run off at the next Oakland meeting, as follows: Gunst stake, $1,500, March 9th; The Pledmont handicap, $1,000, March 10th; the Racing stakes, $1,000, two-year-olds, March 13th; the Oakland handicap, $1,000, March 13th; the Golden Gate handicap, $1,000, March 17th; the Fly stakes, $1,000, Rancho del Paso handicap, $1,250, and the Flood stakes on March 20th. The Burns handicap of $10,000 is set for April 10th.

THE showing of the Boots horses yesterday made one think of the time (three or four years ago) when the Bruts horses had pretty nearly everything their own way, especially in the two-year-old events. Nebula, winner of the mile race for three-year-olds yesterday, is perhaps the best filly of her age in California over a distance of ground. She is by imp. Brutus—Constellation. Her dam was very fast, but very flighty. There was no lack of "nervous energy" in Constellation, and she will probably make a high-class brood mare.

M. F. TARPEY has purchased Cicero of Ed Corrigan and sent the big bay horse to his Fresno stock farm, where he will be mated with a number of excellent mares owned by the big politician. Cicero is an own brother to Freeland, Unite, Long Knight, Mary Corbett, Bell Boy, Lavinia Belle and King Arthur II., and a half-brother to Freeman and Free Knight, all turf celebrities, and as he is a splendid individual and has a superb record on the turf, the careers of the colts and fillies by the famous timber-topper will be watched with interest.

CHARLEMAGNE, winner of the first race Monday, was bred by W. O. B. Macdonough and sold at one of his yearling sales for the ridiculous sum of $50, Henry Forsland, the form book man, being the purchaser. He had the youngster trained for a time and then gave him to his old friend, Barney Schreiber, who prizes the son of St. Carlo and Muta highly. Charlemagne's half-sister, Lady Gray, was also a winner. Their dam, Muta (by Wildside), was a big stake-winner, and recently dropped a foal by "the horse of a century," imp. Ormonde.

J. SHAW ROBINSON was called to Sacramento Saturday to see his fine bred stallion, Islington, the animal being sick and not expected to recover. Some of the best veterinary surgeons in the State were called to care for the horse, but little hope was expressed for the animal's recovery. Nothing had been heard from Mr. Robinson up to this morning, and so it is not known how Islington is. The death of this fine animal would be a great loss to California, and other places as well, as he is the finest bred animal in the United States.—Hanford (Cal.) Democrat.

THERE is considerable interest felt in the coming appointment of a starter at Ingleside to take the place of Richard Havey, resigned. The consensus of opinion seems to be that J. B. Ferguson will get the position. Though he has his enemies, from what we can gather from turfmen and race-goers we believe that if the sport-loving public were allowed to vote on the matter Ferguson would have a big majority of all the ballots cast. At any rate, the matter will be decided in the next few days, and no doubt the one that fills this responsible position will be well qualified and acceptable to the lovers of the sport of kings.

JOCKEY MORSE, who has gone to St. Louis, was reinstated to-day on condition that he is not to ride here again. He is under contract to Marcus Daly, and officials here believe will reform if given a chance. The boy was suspended for bad rides on Dawn and Hailstone and for suspected use of electric saddle on Rover. Circumstantial evidence was very strong against him. Wallace and Kettlestring, owners of Sharon, who ran second, protested payment of purse in handicap to J. M. Stewart, in whose name Paladin entered, on ground that horse did not belong to him, but to a party who had been rolled off. The matter is now under investigation.—N. O. Cor. Racing Form, Feb. 22.

AMONG the prominent owners whose horses are training in and about New York are August Belmont, Pittsburgh Phil, the Keenes, Mike Dwyer, Phil Dwyer, the Lakelands, the Thompsons and the Littlefields. The Keene horses are at Sheephead Bay, those of Pittsburgh Phil at Westchester, the Dwyers at Gravesend, the Lakelands at Sheephead Bay, the Thompsons at Brookdale farm, and the Littlefields at Monmouth. The Belmont horses are at Babylon, L. I. Marcus Daly's string, including the Futurity winner, Ogden, is at Scott's farm, near Cape May, Va. Jim Morphy has his three horses on a fine place near Memphis, Tenn. J. C. Cahn is getting Typhoon and Floridas in trim for the coming campaign at Avondale farm, in Sumner county, Tenn. Wyndham Walden is in Maryland with the Morris string. The other owners are scattered over the country, but most of them are in the South.

THE starter at Ingleside, Richard Havey, has resigned, the resignation to take effect after Saturday next, the close of the present meeting. Havey has engaged to train and drive the Palo Alto harness horses this year, and that necessitates his early attendance at the big farm. Although he has been severely criticised at times, Havey's honesty has never been impeached. His successor will probably be appointed before the end of the present week. We would not be surprised to see J. B. Ferguson selected by the club, though there is some talk of Track-Builder Allen being the man.

THE great Tenny arrived from California yesterday at noon in a palace horse car. He was in the charge of Ed Clashy, the trotting horse driver who once owned Jaylawyer. In the car with Tenny were two yearlings belonging to Mr. Larabee. The car left California last Sunday and came over the Southern Pacific. Tenny stood the trip like a veteran traveller, arriving in excellent health. Though his famous sway back is not so noticeable since his growth and spreading in the stud, still his old admirers will have no difficulty in identifying him. He was taken from the car direct to Beaumont Stud, where he will make the season. Imp. Order and Tenny change places; the former, it will be remembered, recently went to Rancho del Paso and the latter now comes to Beaumont. The Record will very soon publish a photograph of Tenny.—Thoroughbred Record, Feb. 20.

A RECENT dispatch from Milwaukee, Wis., was as follows: "It is now thought that the Legislature will pass an anti-pool-selling law and limit race meetings to ten days in the spring and ten days in the fall. At first it was the general opinion that the racing men and the railroads would have strong enough to prevent any hostile legislation, but later reports indicate that the country members are much opposed to the race track gambling as introduced in this State by the running-horse men. The fact that Illinois and Indiana have regulated them has a strong effect among the members of the Legislature, and it has been put to them that what is too bad for these States must be too bad for Wisconsin. There is a strong lobby at work, however, in favor of the racing men and will leave no stone unturned to help the race track gamblers."

THE Ingleside judges, Rees and Wilson, have recommended that Greyhurst's entry be refused until the owner assures them that he has been educated to break from the barrier. The officials have also suggested that Trainer William Murry be notified "that the inconsistent running of the horse in his charge will be no longer tolerated." They state that "his explanations are not in keeping with the rules of racing. A repetition of same after this date will cause a recommendation for the refusal of his entries, and further punishment to him as may hereafter be determined." The running of Yankee Doodle on Thursday and that of Nuncomar and Philip H. yesterday is not calculated to impress the officials favorably. Yankee Doodle looked more like a blue ribbon winner in a fat stock show than a racer, while the trainer's trio in the second race yesterday opened at even money, went back to 4 to 1, and ran as if merely out for a little work.

PITTSBURG PHIL suggests that no gate be used in fields of four and five horses, says the Bulletin. After Argentina and Moylan had been dropped behind the plunger offered this suggestion. "I don't see any use of the machine in a small field," said he. "It seems to me that any starter could get four or five horses off in a couple of breaks with a flag and get them off in better shape. It is in small fields that horses cut up most. They have plenty of territory to dance about and order the present system it is no wonder that one is left now and then. You will notice that a majority of accidents happen in small fields. By using the old flag we would have no more Argentinas standing at the post, and it would take no longer to make the starts. Of course in big fields it is necessary to use the gate in order to line them up. And in large fields there is less danger of a horse being left. They are packed in together and have only one direction to go ahead. If something is not done to prevent so many horses being left at the post, racing is bound to suffer. People will not bet their money when they are suspicious about getting a run." The Eastern plunger is right. Something will have to be done to prevent so many horses being left. But to resort to the old flag does not seem advisable. The proper solution is to adopt the recall flag. The best starter in the world is not infallible. He is just as liable to leave a favorite as an outsider. This has been demonstrated frequently. A recall flag has prevented a lot of money being burnt up at Oakland, and it will do it at Ingleside."

To the Public.

THE old book accounts owing the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN which remained in the possession of F. W. Kelley, administrator of the J. P. Kerr estate, were not purchased by Messrs. Layng & Moore when the paper was bought by them May 9th, 1896, because the price asked was deemed too exorbitant. Mr. Kelley, at the administrators sale last Saturday, disposed of the book as a collection agency. In reply to many inquiries from those notified by this agency, the undersigned wishes it understood that he has nothing to do with the collection of these accounts, either directly or indirectly, and desires to inform all subscribers that the largest amount they can possibly owe him for subscription is $3.00, while very few of the advertisers are in arrears.
WM. G. LAYNG, Editor and Proprietor
San Francisco, Feb. 13, 1897.

THE bill appropriating $170,000 for District Fairs passed the Assembly Wednesday! There is no doubt it will pass the Senate and receive Governor Budd's signature!

THE BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN, true to its principles, has kept up a bitter fight against the down-town pool rooms. The loss of patronage of the habitués of these places was never deplored, for we knew there was a time coming when the aid of the law would be invoked to bar the doors of these resorts and thus blot from the principal streets these places. Judge Wallace decided last week that they were not commission houses, and the employee who was arrested for presiding over one of these "joints" was guilty. A full text of his decision appears in another column of this paper and we feel proud of the good work accomplished by us in calling attention to the authorities to the existence and harmfulness of these places.

THE attention of all who are in need of first-class trotting stock is called to the advertisement of the closing out sale of S. C. Reeves' magnificent collection of well-bred horses which is to take place Monday, March 15th, at Irvington Park, Portland Oregon. Catalogues may be obtained on application to Mr. Reeves or from this office. There are many first-class mares and horses in the consignment that would pay to purchase and train for the circuit.

THE Fresno Jockey Club will hold a splendid meeting commencing April 27th and ending May 1st, inclusive. Owners of running horses should endeavor to have their horses there. After that meeting ends there will be another five days' meeting at Bakersfield. Secretary L. Rockman is working hard to make both meetings successful and deserves the support of everyone interested in thoroughbreds.

WOODWIN'S GUIDES have arrived and may be obtained on application to this office. See advertisement.

To Owners of Good Mares.

The observant horse owners, and, in fact, everyone who has glanced over the columns of the leading turf journals of America, must begin to realize that the dark days for everyone interested in light-harness horses have passed. At all the large sales held in the East during last December, January and February, the number of new purchasers astonished as well as pleased the auctioneers and those for whom they were selling. Our New York correspondent, J. Owen Moore, under date of February 24th, writes: "Fourteen trotters were shipped this week to Austria, together with eighty-seven head from Kentucky. They left port on Saturday on board the Prussia. Thirteen head were shipped to London, and another large shipment will be made Thursday." Every steamship that leaves New York carries from ten to thirty head, and there are hundreds of horses in various parts of New York, Pennsylvania, Kentucky and Illinois awaiting moderate weather before being shipped, while shrewd horse buyers are either employed in the United States to make selections, or are sent from Europe to make purchases.

If we did not have this new market for horses it is about time the American people began to give the subject of breeding horses and the present situation a little more study. Four years ago every stock farm had its stallion and harem of broodmares and foals; every wagon seen going into town on market day owned by the farmers had a couple of broodmares in the team with their foals at foot; and the most valuable farms were divided into fields and paddocks for the youngsters. The prices received for Arion, Anteeo, and a large number of well-bred colts and fillies turned the heads of nearly every thrifty farmer in America and swept away his bank account. They were all anxious to sell a colt for $20,000, and believed there was such a thing as a termination to the trotting-horse business soon. They thought that if they got a better-bred colt they would surely get a better price; they did not think that the supply would ever exceed the demand for such extremely high as well as false-priced horses. When there were no more foolish buyers, and electricity and bicycles began to have their effect, prices dropped, and those who were most eager to rush into the business were the first to get out of it, sacrificing every colt and filly in their possession. Drafts, trotters and general purpose horses were shipped to the large cities where the auction salesyards were crowded with them, and, to use a common expression many a horse "eat his head off," so most of them gradually disappeared from sight. Many were slaughtered for chicken feed, and others were sent to the "boneyard."

Statistics show the average number of horses that died in San Francisco from natural causes is 130 per month; 1560 a year. Hundreds of others that break down are sent to the country and never return; so it is a safe estimate that fully 3,000 horses disappear annually from this city, while fully 1,000 are shipped to the Hawaiian Islands and Central America. The death rate San Francisco is a safe guide to follow in computing what it is in other cities on the Pacific Coast.

Where is the supply to come from? The "cayuses" of Oregon will not be purchased, and the few draft horses from Nevada will be sold for fair prices. The bicycle craze is dying out, and more single roadsters and teams are seen in Golden Gate Park to-day than ever before. Where are the fine roadsters to come from to take their places? We have driving clubs organized in all the large cities in this State, and the same can be said of every State in the Union. Many of our largest stock farms have gone out of existence, because their owners have died or are desirous of retiring from active life. In California, we have seen many prominent stock farms disappear; we have lost from the ranks of breeders such men as G. Valensin, L. J. Rose, Monroe Salisbury, I. de Turk, A. T. Hatch, J. Paulin, W. H. Hobart, D. Reavis, McFadyen & Guerne, J. Cropsy, H. Mendenhall, D. J. Murphy, J. C. Hill, Gilbert Tompkins, E. Newland, A. C. Henry, L. U. Shippee, G. W. Woodard, Col. Harry I. Thornton, Wilfred Page, J. H. Stone, J. McCord, Irvin Ayres, and many others. Besides these, Palo Alto, the San Mateo, and Rancho del Paso farms have almost stopped breeding horses during the past three years.

With these out of the business, and nearly all their well-bred horses scattered throughout the United States, it behooves owners of every well-bred mare to at once book her to some one of the splendid stallions advertised in the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN. Three years from now everyone will wish they had done so. The service fee of each of these horses has been placed within the reach of every owner of a good mare in California, and if our advice is heeded there will be more really first-class mares bred this year than ever before in the history of the light harness horse industry on this coast. Few, if any, poor mares will be bred, while the improvement in blood lines and individuality of both horses and mares is such, that whoever breeds will be sure to have a horse that will bring a long price and pay better than any other class of livestock. It is just as cheap to raise a good one as it is a poor one, and the horseman who has business foresight will not neglect the opportunity to breed now. This subject is one that will bear close investigation and will pay anyone who gives it study, and if the best class of trotting and pacing horses is more in demand to-day than ever, what will it be in 1900?

Old Fleetwood.

There is a magic rhythm, sweet to horsemen's ears, about the name of Fleetwood. Through prosperity and adversity, when every American took pride in recording the marvelous performances made over this course in its palmiest days, or remembered with sorrow how difficult it was to hold a successful meeting there, since (through a legislative enactment) a heavy damper was placed upon the enthusiasm of the horse owners of the old Knickerbocker State, and they saw that it needed brave and loyal friends of the light harness horse to carry on a meeting successfully there.

Nothing daunted, the Driving Club of New York will make 1897 memorable from the fact that it will hold a meeting there during the Grand Circuit, and the dates claimed are from September 6th to 11th, inclusive. A glance at the advertisement in our columns will show that "liberality" is the keystone in the arch they have erected this year. See what they offer: The purses for the 2:12, 2:17, 2:24 and 2:30 classes are for $3,000, entrance only five per cent. For the 3:00 class trot and the 3:00 class pace the purses offered are $1,000 each, while for the two-year-old, and three-year-old trotters $2,000 purses are offered, and for the 2:20 and 2:09 class pacing races, the purses offered are also for $2,000. Entrance in all these has been placed at five per cent, with five per cent additional from winners. The purses are divided into four moneys, and, besides these events, splendid purses for various other classes will be offered. Remember entries will close March 15th. Blanks may be obtained at this office.

Should Become a Law.

One of the most indefatigable and earnest workers in the Assembly is Mr. Arnerich. He it was who introduced the bill appropriating money for district fairs and which was successfully carried in the Assembly Wednesday last. He introduced another which should also become a law, and that is, that blacksmiths, woodworkers and all other persons employed upon any vehicle or implement of husbandry for labor performed or material furnished upon the same shall be enabled to get a lien upon the same, and providing also for liens upon horses and other animals for the cost of shoeing the same. Carpenters and other artisans have a similar law on the statutes which protects them, then why should not these hard-working and poorly-paid mechanics and workmen have equal rights? In every State in the Union these people are protected by law, and we earnestly hope every legislator will vote for Mr. Arnerich's measure, which is numbered 926. Everyone in California who is interested in the various pursuits this bill has been drafted to benefit, should write at once to every legislator they know and beg of them to vote for this measure. There is no reason why it should not become a law, for it is a just one.

Coney Island Jockey Club.

This famous organization is always to the front with anything that will prove attractive not only to the public at large but to those most deeply interested. At the June meeting three important races have been added to the programme. The Coney Island Grand National Steeplechase $1,500, for four-year olds and upward, handicap. The Bay Hurdle Race $1,500 for four-year olds and upward, handicap; two miles over eight hurdles on turf; and the Stirrup Cup for three-year-olds and upward at welter weights, purse $1,500, one mile and a sixteenth on turf. These races should fill easily as we have a large number of thoroughbreds that would make them the most interesting events of the meeting. Entries will close March 15. Entry blanks may be obtained at the office of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN or of any one of our representatives at Ingleside or the Oakland track.

It is gratifying to receive the good news from Mr. Nathanson, Secretary of the Ideal Park Racing Association of Ideal Park, Wisconsin, that the nineteen stakes so well advertised in the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN filled with an average of over one hundred entries in each, and all the leading California stables are well represented. Secretary Nathanson came here a few days before the closing of entries and was well pleased with the splendid support given him by all who read this journal. This statement in regard to the good work accomplished by advertising in this sterling and reliable turf authority is only a repetition of the many we have received from every Association that has advertised with us. The BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN (weekly and daily), has the largest circulation of any turf paper published west of New York city, and a glance through its business columns is the best evidence that its popularity is increasing, while its circulation is steadily gaining every week.

THE attention of all owners of trotting colts is called to the advertisement of the stakes to be given by the P. C. T. H. B. Association which appears in this issue. Further particulars will appear next week.

REMEMBER, Colusa is to hold a spring meeting this year commencing May 4. Fourteen races will be decided during the four days. See advertisement. Entry blanks may be obtained from Secretary F. E. Wright, Colusa, or from this office.

ON Thursday the Assembly voted favorably upon the bill to appropriate $40,000 for the California State Fair. There was considerable opposition to granting this amount, but, upon the question being put to a vote, it was carried.

Trotters at Vallejo.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN:—The Vallejo trotters that are likely to be seen on the circuit this season are: Auditor who is looking strong and healthy under the care of the veteran trainer, Jos. Edge, and is likely to be a winner in the 2:20 class.

Mr. Edge also has a very promising three-year-old by Vasto, that he thinks will have very fast.

Joe Smith, has in his string the game old trotter Geo. Washington 2:16, and his handsome daughter Stella 2:15, both are looking well and Mr. Smith thinks that 2:10 is not too low for either of them this fall. He has also a two-year-old by Washington that will bear watching this year.

Sweet Rosie, the winner of the Occident Stakes is looking finer than silk, and is expected to give a good account of herself in the 2:27 class.

Columbus S. is in good shape and may be seen doing battle for the first money in the 2:20 class if he is not sold or leased soon, as he will be put in training after a short season in the stud.

The next one in the string is a green three-year-old, who has only been broken about three months and can pull a 150 pound road cart, a quarter better than :40. Last, but not least, is the speedy daughter of Mambrino Chief Jr., this mare won the second heat in a race over the Vallejo track in 2:24 with only eight days' track work. She shall be put in condition for the circuit and barring accidents is expected to give a good account of herself.

VALLEJOITE.

Bay Bird is Purchased by J. B. Haggin.

EDITOR BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN:—I have just learned that S. E. Larabee has sold to J. B. Haggin, Sacramento, Cal. the inbred Wilkes stallion Bay Bird. The breeders of Montana had hoped to get this great sire back, but our loss, is California's gain. Allow me to say that all posted horsemen agree that Bay Bird is the greatest sire living of natural and extreme speed. With very limited opportunities he has produced the following animals with race records:

Fellfare, p. (4).....	2:10 3/4
Dr. Puff (3).....	2:16 3/4
Geo. Ayres, p. (4).....	2:17
Hal Corbett (3).....	2:19 1/4

And the following with authenticated trials:

Montana Union.....	2:16
Lucien.....	2:24 3/4
Franklin.....	2:27
Hill use.....	2:30
Miss Parks.....	2:32
Violetta (3).....	2:33

Nearly every one of Bay Bird's colts that have been handled show speed. No stallion can compare with him as a color breeder. He has never sired any color but a bay with little or no markings, save one, and he coal black. Bay Bird is a blood bay, no white; stands 15 1/2 hands, weighs 1275 pounds—sired by Jay Bird, son of George Wilkes, and out of Kate Wilkes, by George Wilkes, etc.

Rancho del Pasoe seems to be striving to get to front with trotters and pacers, as she is now with the thoroughbreds or runners.

SUBSCRIBER.

WE want it distinctly understood that it is not Wm. G. Layne present proprietor of the BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN, who is trying, by threatening letters, to collect money for an agency that purchased from F. W. Kelley the book accounts owing the J. P. Kerr estate. We disclaim any connection with such methods of collection and hope all our friends will understand the situation.

WELCOME 2:10 will be seen on the circuit this year, Sir William Harold by Sidney 2:19 and several others of H. W. Meek's horses will be seen on the circuit this year.

The Hals and Almonds.

Mr. Gland O. Ellis, of Grayville, Ill., wrote to Brother Piggott of that clear-out, unique and altogether excellent little paper, the Emergonian:

The extreme speed sire is Brown Hal, 2:12, not Altamont. Altamont's six 2:10 performers hold average records of 2:05 1/2; while Brown Hal has eight performers with average records of 2:03-22. Brown Hal excels Altamont in any and all points of comparison.

To which Mr. Piggott replies:

We publish the item referred to by Mr. Ellis because it was a brief statement of Altamont's wonderful success, located out on the Columbia river, where few high-bred mares reach him. All must admit his well earned greatness. The Emergonian has never had anything but kind words for Brown Hal. It is our purpose to bring the blood of such 2:10 sires together, in order to give the future greater sires than either.

As Mr. Piggott suggests, we would like to see the cross of this extreme speed. There are many Altamont mares in Tennessee—though none that we know of by Altamont—and the Altamont is a family that crosses pretty well with anything. They never fail to give size, good big bone and good lookers. I think, perhaps, as great an Altamont as any of them is old Altamont Boy, the sire of Gil Curry and others. Crossed on pacing mares he has undoubtedly been a success, and is to-day one of the greatest sires of pacers we know of. Bestick's Altamont, too, has left many mares in Tennessee the dams of notable performers. The dam of Walter S., 2:12 1/2, came from his lot. As old Wash often says: "If I must have a trotting mare, give me an Altamont"—as he calls them—"Trotwood" is Horse Review.

Brown Hal is all right. With "Trotwood" and Mr. Piggott we also would like to see a union of the descendants of these two famous sires. But the statement of Mr. Ellis that "Brown Hal excels Altamont in any and all points of comparison," covers a great deal of territory. Suppose, for instance, we should wish to compare Altamont's list of twenty-five trotters, with records from 2:03 1/2 to 2:30, with that of Brown Hal, who is entirely unrepresented in trotting lists. The hackneyed claim of lack of opportunity is, in the majority of cases, worthless and untrustworthy, but in the case of Altamont, with a lifetime of well-known unfavorable environment, it cannot be cast aside. Many highly-bred stallions, representatives of nearly all of the leading trotting and pacing families, have been taken to Oregon and Washington. Out of this whole number, appropriately situated for comparison with each other, Altamont emerges as the sire of six 2:10 performers and the grand sire of that great campaigner Klamath 2:07 1/2, while the lowest record ever scored by the get of all his competitors, combined, is 2:13.

That Brown Hal has had the advantage of highly-bred trotting and pacing and producing mares, including the dam of Hal Pointer 2:04, the records and the Register amply attest; and that a great proportion of his fastest performers have been handled by the only Geers, is mentioned here not for the purpose of detracting from his merits; for he has proved himself worthy of it all. But, in reviewing this question of supremacy, consideration of the relative conditions which have surrounded these two horses is entirely appropriate and pertinent to the issue. That Altamont, who has never been bred to a pacing-bred mare, nor to one with a fast record, should be able to give Brown Hal so close a race as a pacing sire is simply astonishing, and furnishes evidence of a high order of ability for which it is not easy to name a parallel.

The Stockton Driving Club.

With the advent of fair weather the driving club scheme has begun to thaw out, and will soon be on its feet, or return to the graveyard of dead local issues. The leaders have met with disappointments in several instances in regard to securing rights of way. Property owners whom it was supposed would come forward, and out of local pride try to assist in putting through a boulevard and drive have signally failed to come up to expectations. They have either imposed conditions favorable to their own interests in consideration of the land, or demanded an outright purchase.

The members have become tired of sparring for wind and those who promised to assist the club more in the hopes of seeing a public enterprise go through than in the anticipation of speeding a horse over it, are ready to drop out. As a result of the drawbacks the original scheme is liable to undergo considerable of an evolution if any of the ideas are consummated. A number of fast horse owners are determined to have a speedway, and if nothing else, they will form a private club and operate it as a closed corporation.

In this connection, some desire to see an association patterned after the one in Alameda, which occasionally hangs out a trophy for the winning horses of members and encourages the development of local animals. While not strictly a racing association, the meets of the club are calculated to arouse a lively interest in the closed circle. This is probably what the club will come to. If the proposition is a public enterprise it is worth public support, but if a few have to bear the financial burdens they will see that they have an exclusive enjoyment from their investment. There will be a speedway somewhere near the city this summer, but where and the kind remains to be seen.

A Spuib Worth Reading.

J. B. Swan, V. S. at Pleasant View, W. Va., writes: "I declined to fire the fine horse not wishing to leave an unsightly blemish. Instead I used four applications of Quinn's Ointment removing the curb of one year's standing. You cannot detect which leg it was on. Your remedy has no equal for what it recommended." For curbs, splints, spavins, windpuffs, and all blemishes use Quinn's Ointment. Price $1.50 per package. For sale by druggists and dealers, also by J. A. McKerron and J. O'Kane, San Francisco. W. B. Eddy & Co., sole proprietors, Whitehall, New York.

UNITED STATES HOTEL STABLES, HARTFORD, Conn., March 5, 1893.

W. F. YOUNG, I. D. T.—Please send half a dozen "Absorbine" at once. I used it on the worst hog sprain I ever saw, and the leg is as clean now as it ever was. I have used it on curb and Windpuffs with perfect success. Am now using it on a shoe boil that my veterinarian said would have to be cut out. It is more than two-thirds gone and I think one more bottle will do the work.

J. P. ALLER.

TARENTUM, Pa., Feb. 11, 1896.

H. S. BOSSART & Co., Latrobe, Pa., Gentlemen:—I have used your Curina and think it has no equal for all kinds of bony enlargements, sprains and other ailments. Very truly, H. A. MOORHEAD, owner and trainer.

THE dam of Directly 2:07 1/2 and her daughter a three-year-old sister to Directly were driven double as a team the other day near Haywards. They made a splendid match.

HOOF-BEATS.

PARTIES desiring to breed their mares to a stallion "up to date" blood lines should not overlook Koblan King.

MURDOCK HENRY, of Haywards, has a very promising four-year old pacer, by Director 2:18, that will be seen in the races this fall.

Gov. GREY is going to handle a string of horses for H. W. Meek again this year. Every one will be pleased to hear this genial and thoroughly capable reinsman is to be seen on the circuit again.

ANDY McDOWELL is very proud of Christabel, a mare by Chas. Derby, out of Algerdella. He is handling her at Pleasanton, and believes she is the best one foaled at the Oakwood Park Stock Farm.

THOS. MURPHY ("Gloster"), who is at present handling a string of horses near St. Petersburg, Russia, has two fine looking mares at J. H. White's farm, Lakeville, Sonoma county. They are heavy with foal to McKinley, 2:11 1/2.

JOHN H. SHULTS bought Mytic, the dam of Fred Kohl, for $1,600 at the Kellogg sale. She is also the dam of Mystery, that died on the track last season after trotting to a record of 2:17 1/2 for Ed Bowne, who trained her for Shults.

THE Northern New York Horse-Breeders' Association has arranged prizes for the grand circuit trotting meeting at Glens Falls in August next. The purses aggregate $15,500. Besides these, purses aggregating $5,000 will be put up for several special events, among which are double team races between Star Pointer and Frank Agan on one side and John R. Gentry and Robert J. on the other.

THE filly by Chas. Derby, 2:20, out of Maggie McGregor (dam of Algregon, 2:11, etc.), and the three-year-old colt by Chas. Derby, out of Coquette, by Wilton, 2:19; second dam Julia Clay, by Harry Clay, 2:29, are being handled by Thos. Keating, and he is satisfied they will add more credit to the Oakwood Park Stock Farm horses. Mr. Keating is satisfied Chas. Derby will lead all other sires in California.

L. ROCKMAN, secretary of the Fresno Jockey Club, is in town making arrangements for a racing tournament to be held in Bakersfield, beginning March 4th, and continuing five days. Mr. Tevis has donated the use of the racecourse, and a subscription is now being solicited to meet other expenses. Dr. Fergusson will act as president, and he and H. A. Jastro have been chosen as judges of the races.—Bakersfield, California.

Goodwin's Guides are Ready.

Goodwin's "Annual" Official Turf Guide is now ready. The Goodwin Bros. have just issued their "Annual" for 1896. This marks the fifteenth consecutive year which this firm has placed before the turf world. The present volume is in every sense equal if not superior to any of its predecessors not only as regards the general get up, but as to accuracy and reliability of its contents. The work contains the enormous number of nearly 2,000 pages, in which 183 different meetings are reported, which comprise over 9,000 races from every large or obscure corner of this country and Canada, the majority with names of jockeys, weights, post bettings, etc., and a large number of the races with short description of how the horses ran. There is the new scale of weights adopted by the Jockey Club, and also those of the Western Turf Congress; horses whose names have been changed; horses that are running under the same name; table of fastest time on record at all distances; horses that have died in 1895; table of jockey mounts, dates of meetings for 1897 and dates of important English events; a valuable list of winners of important events during the last fifteen years, with 24 and 31 horses, number of starters, values and sires of winners; an index of outwaded horses (29 pages). The Goodwins, with their customary enterprise, have added some new features.

A condensed table showing the winning sires of 1896, of $5,000 and over; also the official widths of various race-courses at their different starting points. This is a particularly good feature on account of the new rule of the Jockey Club limiting number of starters to the capacity of each track. Besides the above, there is a list of winning stallions to the number of 87, showing the amount won by their progeny in 1st, 2d and 3d positions, showing total to each and a grand total to the whole. Then there is a separate index of about 7,000 horses, 90 per cent. of which with their age, color, sex, sire, dam and owner. The whole work is so systematically arranged that any desired information can be found immediately. It is necessary to the turf world and without it turf affairs in this country would be in confusion. In this description of turf literature the Goodwins have for many years been prominent, and it is only by continuous and unceasing care in the compilation and the outlay of many thousands of dollars annually that they are enabled to maintain their position. We take pleasure in cheerfully recommending this Annual to all and we stamp it with our approval. It is bound in three different styles: In cloth at $4.20, in half-morocco at $6.25 and in English half calf at $3.25. THE BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN is the Pacific Coast agent for these Guides. They can also be obtained from Foster & Orren, Ferry Bldg. foot of Market street, Baldwin News Stand, Palace News Stand, F. W. Barkham's, 215 Kearney street, Cooper's Book Store and Golden West News Stand.

The Fly Casting Club.

The regular semi-monthly Saturday contest of the San Francisco Fly Casting Club was held at Stow Lake last Saturday. Nine members were present and competed in all the contests. W. E. Bacheller won the long distance event with 91 feet msds with an 8½ ounce rod. W. D. Mansfield made 94 feet hot his handicap of 5½ feet put him back to second place. H. E. Skinner won the distance and accuracy event with 80 1-3 per cent. An excellent score considering the wind and conditions. W. E. Bacheller and H. Smyth tied in the delicacy and accuracy contest, but as Mr. Bacheller had left the grounds when Mr. Smyth made his score the tie was not cast off.

The Sunday contest brought out thirteen contestants and the weather was nearly as windy and disagreeable as on Saturday. W. D. Mansfield cast 91 feet, and even with his handicap was 5½ feet ahead of all his competitors. In the distance and accuracy contest Mansfield was again the winner with 91 2-3 per cent. A. E. Lovett won the accuracy and delicacy event with 86 2-3 per cent. The scores in full were as follows:

Live Birds at Ingleside.

A party of four well-known sportsmen met at the Olympic Gun Club's grounds at Ingleside last Tuesday morning and shot at two dozen birds each, only ten birds escaping out of ninety-six. It was a Gold Dust quartette. The scores were as follows:
J. S. Fanning.....111111112101121012111-32

On Wednesday morning Ed Gaines and Ches. Dwyer shot a 20-bird match for $1 a side. The birds were as good flyers as were ever trepped. Gaines shot a gun that he never put to his shoulder before and drew the hardest birds. Dwyer started to very poorly but shot much better toward the end of the match. Many of the birds missed might have been missed by the oldest shooter in the land.

J. S. Fenning officiated as referee and coach. The score was as follows:

Moonlight Shoot ng.

Senator Dickison has introduced the following bill in the Senate:

Every person who in the State of California shall shoot, hunt, pursue, take, kill or destroy any kind of wild duck on any swamp or overflowed lands between the hours of 7 p. m. and 5 a. m. shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

The proof of the discharge of a firearm on swamp and overflowed land where ducks usually congregate, between the hours of 7 p. m. and 5 a. m. shall be prima facie evidence of hunting and shooting ducks.

This bill will receive the support of every sportsman in the State and every market hunter that is alive to his own interests.

CARTRIDGE AND SHELL.

The California Wing Club's shoot will begin promptly at 10 a. m. to-morrow.

The Lincoln Gun Club will shoot at the club grounds at Alameda Point to-morrow.

The Megentrap appears to be the coming trap at the Eastern tournaments this year.

The Spoonbill Gun Club is arranging for a new shooting ground and as soon as it is completed it will open the season with a club shoot.

Sacramento opened the blue-rock season in good shape. 2,500 blue-rocks were trepped at the Capitol City Gun Clubs opening tournament last week.

The Encinal Gun Clubs live bird shoot did not materialize. There were plenty of ducks at Bird's Point but sea gulls were scarce. The game season has closed and so the live bird shoot went by default.

The California Wing Shooting Club will shoot at the Olympic Gun Club grounds to-morrow. The club match will begin promptly at 10 a. m. This is the opening shoot of this club for the season.

S. A. Tucker the popular agent of the Parker Gun Co., is in town on his annual spring visit to the trade. The rapid strides which the Parker Gun Co., has made in popularity during the past year should please Mr. Tucker.

J. A. R. Elliott has shipped the championship cup to Carson for the live-bird shoot of March 15th and 16th. Dan Stuart has ordered 100 doz. birds for the preliminary shooting. J. S. Fanning the popular agent for Gold Dust will attend the shoot en route for the great American Handicap at Elkwood Park, N. Y., on March 23, 24 and 25.

The Personnel of this New Club.

Last spring when J. G. Barker was one of the bench show committee of the Pacific Kennel Club, he was naturally one of the first men to hear that Jas. Mortimer was to be the judge of the bench show. He at once wrote to Jas. Mortimer and described his dog, California Bernardo minutely, enclosed several photographs and in every way possible made the dog so known to Mr. Mortimer that he could not possibly mistake him in the ring. He pretended that he wanted him to buy him a bitch and threw out so many suspicious hints that Mr. Mortimer brought the letter out with him and showed it to the fanciers here, that they might know what kind of a man they were dealing with.

In May last this same J. G. Barker, at that time president of the St. Bernard Club of California, went to O. H. Williams then the treasurer, and drew from the treasury $100 with the expressed purpose of going direct to Shreve & Co., and paying that amount to them for medals purchased by the St. Bernard Club. He forgot to pay it. The Club reminded him twice of the matter by letter and as he did not pay any attention to the letters he was written to by the secretary by order of the Club to pay over the money in twenty-four hours or the matter would be given into the hands of the police. He paid the money to Shreve & Co., on July 20th. He never had the hardihood to attend another meeting of the St. Bernard Club and at the first opportunity was dropped from the roll of the Club. This is the man who assisted the "mischief maker" and Dr. D'Evelyn to form the San Francisco Kennel Club and whose name is now coupled with that of such men as Walter Hobert on the Executive Committee of the Club. Is it any wonder that the dog owners of this city decline to show under such an organization while Berker's name is so prominent.

This is the men that on the recommendation of the "mischief-maker" was appointed delegate of the Seattle Kennel Club, to the Pacific Advisory Board. Is the Seattle Kennel Club proud of its delegate?

Three stakes were run off at Ingleside last Sunday—a Puppy stake for $30, $15, $10, and $10 a Sapling stake for $20, $10, $5 and $5 and an All Aged stake for $20 and $10. The summary of the running is as follows:

Defeated by Fraud.

That the dog owners of San Francisco may know who their enemies are, we print below an extract from a letter received by the St. Bernard Club from its delegate to the A. K. C.—Mr. George Bergate:

"The Pacific Coast Advisory Committee had a report before the meeting urging the claims of the San Francisco Kennel Club and pointing out that the Olympic Gun Club was not, even if there were no opposition, eligible for membership, as it was not a kennel club, but a gun club. The president of the A. K. C. took this view of the matter. There being only one nomination before the meeting the San Francisco Kennel Club was elected to membership."

Did the Southern California Kennel Club instruct its delegate to vote for the S. F. K. C.? Yes!

Did the Seattle Kennel Club instruct Mr. Barker to vote against the best interests of the dog owners of this city and create the bitterest feeling ever engendered between the dog owners of this city?

Did the Fox Terrier Club intend Dr. d'Evelyn to vote for the S. F. K. C.? Undoubtedly, yes!

Did the Portland Kennel Club instruct J. W. Keene to vote for the S. F. K. C.?

Did the Stockton Kennel Club instruct Dr. A. C. Davenport to vote for the S. F. K. C.?

When the San Francisco Kennel Club was formed it was done in secret. Only a select few were invited.

We know that some of the delegates had never heard of the formation of the S. F. K. C. when the last monthly meeting of the Pacific Advisory Board was held. W. L. Prather Jr., the delegate from the A. C. S. A., and Franz Frey knew nothing of it, and, not knowing of any important business, were not present at the February meeting. As the other gentlemen named formed the S. F. K. C., they were very careful that Prather and Frey should not hear of it, as they did not want them to be present.

We do not know that Dr. Davenport or J. W. Keene were present or that they voted for the S. F. K. C., but as they have not taken the trouble to deny it, we must take it for granted that they did.

The secretary of the Advisory Board is the "mischief-maker" the man who claimed he had no knowledge of the formation of the S. F. K. C. At the time that he made this statement in black and white, this "report of the Board" was in New York.

Do the Southern California Kennel Club think that they will gain entrees and support from San Francisco dog owners when they are the means of putting them in the power of such unprincipled men as Barker and his friend the "mischief maker"?

Regarding the action of the American Kennel Club in this matter our readers may place that at the door of the American Kennel Club's valuable (?) secretary. Had he presented the matter as he should have done, no such question could possibly have arisen. He has suppressed the correspondence of the Olympic Gun Club, and we will give our readers ample proof of this in our next issue.

Coursing at Sacramento.

The warm weather and the excellence of the racing card drew the largest crowd of the season to the Sacramento coursing park on Sunday last. The audience was not disappointed in any particular, as the decisions were prompt and just, the hares speedy and the dogs in great fettle.

In the first runs Schultz & Rought's Handspring beat Nethercott Bros' Moonlight, Heenen's Harry S. beat Ferrell-Lass of Glensbee, Gnst's Grady beat Heenan's Lady Lonsdale, Hastings' Lucky Dog beat Corcoran's Pride of Arizona's Leitz' White Flyer beat Devine & Lipman's Patience, Stouts, Lord Lonsdale beat Regan & Barrett's Roy B., Walsh's

Pederewski beat Sheeben Bros' Governor Merkbem, Ryan & Ryan's Peter Maher beat Locksley's Buck, Schultz & Rought's Butcher Boy beat Gnst's Blue Rock, Kennedy's Little School Girl beat Maroney's Tennie, Nethercott Bros' Little Wonder beat Duffy's Combination, Reid's Tem o'Shenter beat Williams & Rainey's Airship.

In the first ties Handspring beat Harry S., Grady beat Lucky Dog, Lord Lonsdale beat White Flyer, Pederewski beat Peter Maher, Butcher Boy beat School Girl, Little Wonder beat Tam o'Shenter.

In the second ties Handspring beat Grady, Pederewski beat Lord Lonsdale, Butcher Boy beat Little Wonder.

In the third ties Handspring beat Pederewski, Butcher Boy a bye.

Final—Butcher Boy beat Handspring, winning first money; Handspring second money, Paderewski third.

The judge was Ed Caneyen, the slipper T. Ferrell.

The St. Louis Show.

The total of 947 entries for the St. Louis show must be highly satisfactory to its managers, and the large increase of 180 over last year's total would come as something of a surprise were it not remembered that this year's premium list contained 32 local classes and last year's did not contain any. When compared with the first show's entry list the most striking gain is found in the collie entry, which is just double that of last year. Irish setters and cockers have increased a score each; toy terriers, toy spaniels and Boston terriers each show an increase of 14; there are 15 more pug entries and 13 more greyhounds; poodles and bulldogs each increase 9, Irish terriers 8 and hull terriers 6. Of course, it cannot be said without knowing the class totals, how much these increases are due to the local classes. There are 13 fewer mastiff entries, and 6 fewer English setters. In other breeds the totals very but slightly, says the American Field.

DOINGS IN DOGDOM.

A St. Bernard Club is talked of for the Western and Central States.

The St. Bernard Club of California will meet at this office next Wednesday night.

The premium list of the Stockton Kennel Clubs show is issued. J. Otis Fellows will judge all classes.

The Cocker Spaniel men will be pleased to note the change in the classification of spaniels at the San Jose show.

F. H. F. Mercer of Ottawa Canada, the well known Clumber spaniel breeder has purchased the well-known St. Bernard bitch Io.

We are very much pleased to note that a large entry is promised for San Jose. Don't forget the date of closing the entries—March 18th.

A collie club will be formed at the San Jose show. We hope it will do as well as the Spaniel Club that was formed at the Oakland bench show.

If the San Francisco Kennel Club have any use for such a list we will furnish them with the names of 200 dogs that will not be shown at their show.

A prominent fancier recommends Cestoria as a remedy for diarrhoea in suckling pups. Dose, from 10 to 20 drops several times a day according to size until the pups are relieved.

Wednesday of this week the lady members of the Santa Clara Valley Poultry and Kennel Club met and arranged their plans for decorating the hall and kennels. They are determined to make the show an attractive one, and they will succeed.

John Heffernan, has been removed from the Secretaryship of the Stockton Kennel Club. He is charged with withholding letters addressed to him as Secretary, etc. We are sorry to hear this, and trust that Mr. Heffernan can explain the misunderstanding.

John W. Mitchell of Los Angeles, Cal., has lost by death from injuries received in a fight with other dogs in his kennel, two very promising foxterrier pups, by Baby Rasper out of Lomita Winifrede, this makes eight foxterriers lost in this way by Mr. Mitchell.

H. H. Hartmen's English mastiff dog Roderick Dhn one of the best sons of Ingleside Crown Prince and a winner at the last show was poisoned by some miscreant on Monday last. It is a pity that some of these dog poisoners cannot be made to swallow some of their own medicine.

The statement in the Call that the San Francisco Kennel Club, the Fox Terrier Club and the St. Bernard Club have combined and offered a special prize for the best decorated ball at this year's shows is false. It will be many a day before these three clubs combine on any subject. They have agreed to disagree.

The monthpiece of the San Francisco Kennel Club is talking big, but in the meantime 50 owners of St. Bernards, nearly 200 members of the Olympic Gun Club, those who were formerly members of the old Pacifics and the owners of sporting dogs who have been pained long enough are quietly saving wood. A dog show without dogs is on the tapis. Gentlemen, don't forget those scrapers.

Henry Bamber, Hollister, has lost by distemper the fox-terrier dog pup Golden Dawn, by Warren Saga—Golden Jewel. Mr. Bamber states that he was the most promising pup he has yet owned, and regrets the loss very much. Mr. Martin has presented Mr. Bamber with a bitch pup from the same sire and dam.

Among our new advertisements this week will be found that of the Oak Grove Kennels of San Jose, O. J. Albee, proprietor. Mr. Albee has been winning premier honors on the show bench for several years. His stock is grandly bred, and as it is all raised on ranches, it is, consequently, strong and healthy. His prices are very reasonable. Write him for particulars.

At the New York show last week Pierpont Morgan bought the Boston terrier His Nibs for $1,000, and offered $1,500 for Monte but his owner, A. L. Gooda refused it. W. R. Hearst paid $1,000, for Consul and J. W. Churchill purchased the smooth-coated St. Bernard Champ. Melrosa King. The price is said to be $2,500.

Chas. R. Harker writes that it is the intention of the collie fanciers to organize a California Collie Club at the San Jose show. The prospects of its being a live specialty club are very promising. San Jose contains several enthusiastic collie fanciers, and those in this city and Oakland should join the club and help the good cause along. What has been done for the St. Bernards by the St. Bernard Club can easily be duplicated by a collie club.

The San Jose Show.

ED. BREEDER AND SPORTSMAN:—Please announce that, since the Premium List of the San Jose show was issued the Specials will also be provided for above-named classes. CHAS. R. HARKER, Sec'y. Santa Clara Valley Poultry and Kennel Club.

The Stockton Show.

The premium lists of the Stockton Kennel Club's bench show is at hand. 281 classes are provided for. The specials consist mainly of gold and silver medals of which there are over 100. The club offers a prize of $20 for the handler showing the largest number of dogs, and $10 for the second largest. We will review the list in full next week.

The Standard-Bred tallion
DUDLEY
RECORD, 2:14.
— Sired by —

ANTEROS 6020, dam LILY LANGTRY, by Nephew; second dam Miss Trahern, by Gen. McClellan; third dam Belle Mahoue (granam of Voucher), by Norfolk; fourth dam Maid of Oaks, by Jack Hawkins. Anteros is a full brother to Anteo, 2:16 1/4, Antevolo, 2:19 3/4, etc., being by Electioneer, out of Columbine, by A. W. Richsire of twenty-one in the list, and is considered one of the strongest-bred sires ever brought to California. Gen. McClellan 144 sired Dan Voorhees, 2:23 3/4, St. Helena, 2:27 1/2, etc., and the dam of Beany Mc, 2:14 1/2, etc. The res: of the pedigree of Dudley rests upon the very stoutest of thoroughbred lines.
DESCRIPTION—DUDLEY is a bay in color, black points, stands over 16 hands, and is one of the most symmetrically-made horses in California. He has the kindest disposition, is level-headed, and as for his speed, it is well known that his record of 2:14 is no mark of him. His progeny in Humboldt County are spoken of as marvelous. One of them, a two-year-old called Tug, got a mark of 2:32 in a race, scored thirteen times. His breeding is unsurpassed, and with his individuality he should make a great name as a sire of handsome, level-headed horses, fit either for track or road—horses that will sell.
DUDLEY will make the Season of 1897 at my place, Haywards, Alameda County.

TERMS—$50 THE SEASON.
Only a limited number of mares taken. Good pasturage at $3 PER MONTH. The best of care taken of mares, but no responsibility assumed for accidents or escapes. For further particulars address

SIRE
Simmocolon
2:27 1-2
WILKES Kohlan King 28,295 SIDNEY

HERE IS ROYAL BREEDING INDEED.
Sired by that great race horse (SIMMOCOLON, 2:13 3-4) that won nine out of 11 races, and second in the other two that he started in through the Grand Circuit of the East, the season previous to entering the stud, and who is now becoming noted as a producer from the great performances of his first colts, being the sire of the phenomenal fast and game colt Dan Q., three-year-old record 2:11 1/2 last season, Meridian, 2:13, and several more in the 20 list. Dam SYBIL, 2:27 1-2 (by Sidney, the greatest sire of his age); second dam MAUD R., (by Whipple's Hambletonian), which alone should produce speed and race horses if there is anything in breeding, but to go farther, it will be found that Kohlan King has six crosses of old Hambletonian 10, that produced George Wilkes, Electioneer and most of our great sires, which is nicely intermingled with the blood of Hambrino Patchen and Hambrino Chief (sire of dam of Director) two great sources of speed, which are second to none, and Simmons, sire of Simmocolon, is for age the greatest producing sire of George Wilkes and noted as a sire that produces great race horses.
KOHLAN KING is a black horse, five years old, 15.3 hands high, and, according to critics, he is not excelled as an individual, and having been allowed to mature without his vitality being sapped by trailing, he should be more sure to produce in keeping with his blood lines. He is, however, very speedy and pure-gaited, and now that he is well matured it is the intention to campaign him the coming summer after the season closes.

SEASON, $50.
FROM MARCH 1st TO JUNE 1st.
WITH USUAL BREEDING PRIVILEGES, TO A LIMITED NUMBER OF APPROVED MARES ONLY.
Care taken, but no responsibility assumed. Pasturage, $5 per month. For further particulars address
G. W. STIMPSON, 222 Twelfth Street, Oakland.

FOR SALE FROM THE ESTATE OF ISAAC DeTURK.

ROBIN, 2:22 3-4, No. 28,370, Bay stallion, foaled 1889, by LIVE OAK HERO, No. 28,369 (son of DIRECTOR, 2:17, No. 1989, and NELLY GRANT, by SANTA CLAUS, 2:17, No. 2,000). First dam BESSIE, by NEPHEW, No. 1220; second dam NELLIE NELSON, by JOHN NELSON, No. 187, etc. ROBIN is a stylish, attractive horse, has a kind disposition, is level-headed, fast and game. He trotted a mile in his work last season over a heavy track in 2:16; last quarter in 32 seconds. The 2:22 classes in which he was entered last season failed to fill and he was not started. He is a fine stock horse, and is a sure foal-getter. As yet his get are young, but a few of them are being handled in Santa Rosa and are very promising.

Also, bay mare EVELINE, foaled 1883, by NOTWOOD, No. 600. EVELINE is the dam of MAUD FOWLER, 2:24 1/4, by ANTEEO, No. 7858; TIETAM, 2:19, No. 24,397, by ANTEEO No. 7863; NICK RUSSELL (trial 2:31), by SILAS SKINNER, No. 10,681; OLEY, a good green colt, by SILAS SKINNER, No. 10,681, was broken last fall and showed a quarter in 38 seconds when hardly bridled; ROB LET (pacer), by ROBIN, No. 28,370, has paced quarters in 32 seconds, and, barring accidents, will be seen on the circuit next season.

Any person wanting a broodmare can make no mistake in securing this one. Her get are always fast. She has produced fast ones from three different stallions and is now in foal to ROBIN, No. 28,370.

LIMITED TO TWENTY-FIVE MARES.

ALTAMONT is the champion sire of 2:10 performers, being the only horse living or dead with six to his credit. He has taken a leading position among the foremost trotting sires of the country under such conditions that phenomenal ability alone has saved him from oblivion. A very small proportion of his progeny has been trained, and so extremely small number of these by competent men. As a partial illustration of his meagre advantages, it may be stated that he has never produced a colt from a pacing-bred mare, or from one with a fast record. Nor has he ever yet been crossed with a descendant of George Wilkes, Electioneer, Dictator, Sidney or Dexter Prince. Oregon and Washington have produced seven 2:10 performers, and EVERY ONE of these are ALTAMONTS.

ALTAMONT is a horse of iron constitution, and at twenty-two years of age is in the full vigor of his prime, a sure foal-getter, and, except for his bloodness—the result of an accident—is without blemish. He has never sired a sorrel, all of his colts having been solid colors—bays, browns or blacks. He is now located in Alameda, at Herbert's Stables, on Sherman street, between Santa Clara and Central avenues. Alameda local S. P. and Narrow Gauge trains from San Francisco, stop within two blocks of stable, and Oakland and Alameda electric cars, half a block away. Residence two doors from stable.

WALDSTEIN, 12,597

Breeding unexcelled. Sired by Director, first dam Nelly W., by Electioneer (full sister to Albert W., 2:20, sire of Little Albert, 2:10); second dam Sister, by John Nelson; third dam Lamott mare, dam of Aurora, 2:27, and Hazel, 2:28. WALDSTEIN's first, second and third dams are all producers. He is one of the best producing sons of Director, and in conformation a grand individual; took first premium at State Fair over such great horses as Knight, 2:22, and Zombro, three year-old record 2:12½. He holds the five-mile race record of the world, 13:05 1-2, and never sired a colt that was not speedy. WALDSTEIN is sire of Lady Waldstein, 2:15; Honobold Maid, 2:17; Jack W., 2:19½; Native Son, 2:29½; Swiftbird, 2:29½ (both three years old). The dams of all these have no record nor did they ever produce any in the 2:30 list. Come and see WALDSTEIN's colts go before booking your mares elsewhere.

TERMS, $50 FOR THE SEASON

(SEASON CLOSES JULY 1st.)

Usual return privileges if I still own the horse. He will be kept at Sacramento race track five days and Woodland two days.

JAMES MADISON, 2:17 3-4

Trial 2:12, driven by W. Mahen.

Sired by ANTEEO, 2:16 1-4, out of LUCY PATCHEN, by Geo. M. Patchen second dam Fanny Branham, by American Boy Jr.; third dam Puss; by Lance. He sired Addieon, 2:18 1-4, Lelia S., 2:20 1-2, Bet Madison, 2:30, Emma Nevada (trial 2:18), Dolly Madieon (trial 2:21 3-4).

JAMES MADISON is sixteen hands high and weighs over 1,300 pounds. He is one of the best proportioned horses of his size living and his progeny have style, size, finish, perfect legs and feet, iron constitutions, splendid dispositions and the purest gait imaginable. They are all speedy. There never was a James Madison foaled that cannot show a 2:30 clip, and they need little or no boots.

To show how well Diablo's colts have shown it is only necessary to say that five were handled for speed in 1896. Following are their trials: Two-year-old, one quarter, 36 seconds; a two-year-old, one-quarter, 31 seconds; a two-year-old, one-half, 1:09; a yearling, one-quarter, 35 seconds; a two-year-old, six weeks' work, one-quarter, 38 seconds, and Et Diablo, trial mile, trotting 2:24. DIABLO will make the season of 1897 at Pleasanton. Serv e fee, $50. Address,

HART BOSWELL

No. 13,699. This splendidly-formed trotting stallion was sired by ONWARD, 2:25 1-4 (son of GEO. WILKES, 2:22, and DOLLY, dam of DIRECTOR, 2:17, THORNDALE, 2:21, etc.), sire of 113 in 2:30 list; dam NANCY LEE (dam of NANCY HANKS, 2:04, and DIRECTOR WILKES, sire of six in 2:30 list), by Dictator; second dam SOPHY (grandam of Mike Wilkes, 2:15½, Ira Wilkes, 2:23½, and the sires Arlian Wilkes and Ira Wilkes) by Edwin Forrest 49; third dam Sophronia, by Brown Pilot; fourth dam by Bertrand; fifth dam by Lance, son of American Eclipse; sixth dam by Gray Dunganon. This is the acme of fashionable breeding. In conformation, disposition, color and pure trotting action, HART BOSWELL is perfect. He has never been worked for speed. His progeny are strong-limbed, level-headed and very promissory, and are cooed by competent judges to be the finest-formed youngsters in California. Terms $50 for the season. Address K. O'GRADY, Laurel Creek Farm, San Mateo. Splendid pasturage, and mares kept in any manner owners may desire.

THE HORSE WITHOUT A "BUT."

Boodle 5829, Rec. 2:12½

ETHEL DOWNS, 2:13; THOMPSON, 2:15; MERLE M, 2:25.

Two prominent horsemen were discussing the relative merits of notable stallions. They agreed that a certain stallion was well bred and a good producer, "but" he had no record. Another had a fast record, was well bred, and a good producer, "but" he was too small. Another had nearly all the necessary qualifications, "but" he had curbs and had feet. Another possessed many rare qualifications, "but" he was vicious, as well as a "quitter." Finally one asked the other, "What's the matter with Boodle?" They both concluded that no stallion, living or dead, possessed all the qualifications desired in a more marked degree than BOODLE.

QUALIFICATIONS

BREEDING nrexcelled. Send for extended tabulated pedigree and history of BOODLE.

COLOR, beautiful seal brown, black points, no white.

SIZE, sixteen hands high, weight 1,150 pounds.

DISPOSITION, gentle as a lamb. A child can handle him.

STYLE. A real handsome horse—"a thing of beauty."

CONDITION. Sound as he was the day he was foaled.

SPEED. Race record 2:12½, in a hard-fought battle, which he won.

GAMENESS. A veritable bull dog. A gamer horse never lived.

PRODUCE. While he has only three in the list, no horse living or dead can make a better showing, considering the number of his progeny that have been trained. He transmits all his perfect qualifications to his progeny. His ancestors are noted for their iron constitutions; many of them, notably Goldsmith Maid, 2:14, were obtaining world's records at a time in life when ordinary horses are thinking of dying of old age.

ST. NICHOLAS.

TRIAL, 2:27 1-4, AS A THREE-YEAR-OLD.

SIRE BY

The Great SIDNEY, 2:19 3-4, Sire of 66 ECHO, the Greatest Sire of Broodmares.

DAM SIRE BY

ST. NICHOLAS is now eleven years old, just in his prime for the stud; stands 15.3 hands; in color a rich dark bay, two hind ankles white; star in forehead; has good limbs and feet; a pure gaited trotter, and has an excellent disposition. Is pronounced by every one who has seen him as an unusually stylish, well-formed handsome individual. As a three-year-old he went quarters in 30 seconds; then fell into bands that took more pride in owning such a horse rather than in continuing his development.

His coils are of good size, fine lookers, and show extreme speed, but are all owned in private or unproven stallions.

ST. NICHOLAS is now placed at the head of the breeding department of Sulphur Spring Farm, and will be bred to all the first-class mares. All colts on this farm are trained from weanlings.

This horse, on account of conformation and breeding, cannot help but produce size, style, action and speed.

Will serve only a limited number of mares at $30 FOR THIS SEASON, with usual return privilege; money due on notice of first service.

PASTURAGE $4 PER MONTH.

No liability assumed for accidents or escapes.

In order to show my confidence in the breeding qualities of ST. NICHOLAS, I make the following proposition to owners of stallions that are in service for the SEASON OF 1897 IN CALIFORNIA. I will be one of not less than five to deposit or guarantee to the sum of $100—on terms money and as much money as the BREEDER-ASSOCIATION chooses to add, all to form a purse—to be trotted or paced for by two-year-olds, in a race, one mile, best two in three, at the FALL MEETING of the P. C. T. H. B. A. in 1901. Only one entry, the get of each stallion allowed. Further details as per agreement of the majority of owners.

Address all communications to

A. G. GURNETT, 308 Pine St., San Francisco, Cal., or

SULPHUR SPRING FARM, Walnut Creek, Contra Costa County, Cal.

Marees sent to ranch from Oakland and returned free of charge.

WELCOME, 2:10 1-2.

This game and consistent stallion will make the SEASON OF 1897, ending July 1st, at W. E. MEEK'S STABLE, near the Haywards Station, at $50 THE SEASON, With usual return privileges.

WELCOME was sired by Arthur Wilkes, 2:28½, out of Letty (dam of Wayland W., 2:12; Welcome (p) 2:10½, trotting 2:27½; Mand Singleton, 2:28½), by Wayland Forrest (son of Edwin Forrest 19 and a mare by Sir Charles, thoroughbred); second dam Mary (dam of Apex, 2:26; Sterling, sire of four and one sire of one), Grace, dam of Creole, 2:15; Eagle, 2:19½, by Flaxtail 8132; third dam by Bright Eyes, son of Boanerges. Arthur Wilkes, 2:28½, sire of Welcome, was sired by the mighty Guy Wilkes, 2:13½, out of Gracie, by Arbuton 365; second dam Old Lady, by David Hill Jr.

WELCOME comes from speed producing lines on both sides and his reputation as the "gamest race horse ever Andy McDowell handled" shows that he is far superior to many that have extreme speed, but are lacking in courage. WELCOME is a bay horse, stands 16 hands, and is one of the best-formed horses in California. He earned a trotting record of 2:27½ when a four-year-old, and was put to pacing last year. He started in Montana without a record and won money in every race he started. He won some of the most stubbornly-contested races seen in 1896.

Good pasturage for mares at reasonable rates. For other particulars, address,

W. E. MEEK, Haywards, Cal.

J. H. WHITE'S STOCK FARM, LAKEVILLE, CAL.

Playmail was by Mike 3403 (the by V-rmont 322, out of The Peniger mare), out of Kale McDonough (dam of Ella Lewis, 2:27, and granddam of Salsain, 2:35¼).

SEYMOUR WILKES stands 16 hands 16½ and weighs 1200 pounds. He is seal brown in color and in conformation is one of the most symmetrical of any in California. His qualities as a level-headed, game and speedy racer are known to all horsemen. He is the fastest son of the mighty Guy Wilkes and to his maternal side traces to the very best of sires and dams. He has an iron constitution, and allows even of good mares that want horses that will have breeding, size, bone, quality, good disposition and extreme speed should not overlook this horse. His service fee is placed at a very low figure considering his merits. He never was bred but to a few mares and his progeny are models of perfection.

VIVA LA

Brown Colt, foaled in 1892, Bred by Jos. Cairn Simpson.
BY WHIPS, SIRE OF AZOTE, 2:04 3-4, COBWEBS, 2:12, AND SEVERAL OTHERS IN THE LIST
FIRST DAM—JOE VIVA, by Joe Hooker.
SECOND DAM—LADY VIVA, by Three Cheers (dam of Electioneer Rex, showed when a two-year-old quarters in 36 seconds.)
THIRD DAM—LADY AMANDA, by imp. Hurrah (the dam of Electioneer Jr., formerly Advance, three-year-old record 2:22 1/4).
FOURTH DAM—LADY LANCASTER, by imp. Monarch. The dam of Malcolm, Regent, Ontario and several other winners. Marion, the dam of Emperor of Norfolk, El Rio Rey, Yo Tambien, and several other high-class race horses, is by Malcolm, and the breeding of Viva La-Electioneer, combined with strains of thoroughbred which have shown adaptability to acquire trotting action, is now greatly fancied by intelligent breeders.

VIVA LA is sixteen hands high, a rich seal brown in color and more than usually handsome, combining muscular power and quality in an eminent degree. He was trained a little in his yearling form and showed a 2:40 gait and was improving rapidly when his training was suspended. He can scarcely fail on the right sort of mares to get fast trotters, and with nearly a certainty of securing good-sized, fine-looking horses which even in these times are in demand.

True Briton

— AT —

SACRAMENTO,

AT THE LOW FEE OF

$75

For the Season with Usual Return Privileges.

Payable on Removal of Mares.

With a limited chance in the stud, True Briton has already shown himself to be a great sire. Rey del Bandido, from a non-producing mare that had already had five foals, holds the Pacific Coast record, 3:57 1/4 at 2 1/2 miles; Her Majesty (dead), won 11 out of 14 starts; Walter J., (also out of a non-producing), a horse with a great turn of speed, has finished outside the money but a very few times out of nearly one hundred starts. Virgie A. and Zeta, both winners, being the only other ones to represent this orally-bred stallion on the racing turf this year.

From this showing there is but one inference to be drawn, and that is, that True Briton is a sure getter of winners; mares that have never thrown a winner to any other stallion, bred to True Briton, get winners and class horses at that.
